All material facts must be disclosed on the application for an order of course, otherwise it will be irregular and may be set aside; e.g., the existence of a special retainer for a term of years unexpired: Richards v. Scarborough Market Co., 17 Beav. 83; or the fact of the solicitor being mortgagee of the client's share in the fund in question: Jenkins v. Bryant, 3 Drew 70. Where, however, a solicitor in applying for an order to change a solicitor, relying on his client's statement that she was unmarried, so represented her, which statement turned out to be untrue, the Court, though setting aside the order, refused to direct the solicitor to pay the costs, emphatically declaring that the Court never had "made a man pay costs for believing the word of a woman": Thomas v. Finlayson, 19 W. R. 255.

Where special circumstances are disclosed in the præcipe for an order of course, the officer may refuse to issue the order, and may require a special application to be made.

Setting aside order.

After an order of course to change the solicitor has been issued, if the latter object to the order, he should not apply on præcipe for an order to re-appoint himself, but should move on petition to set aside the order: Topping v. Searson, 2 H. & M. 205.

Subpœna to appoint a new solicitor when necessary.

Where the solicitor dies and his client neglects to name a new solicitor he may be served with a subpœna to appoint a new solicitor. For form of subpœna: see Daul's Forms, 3rd ed., No. 2129; Braith Pr. 264. If after the service of the subpœna he still neglects to appoint a solicitor, he is liable to attachment, or leave may be given to proceed without further notice to such party: Gibson v. Ingo, 2 Phil. 402; Smith Pr., 7th ed., 126.

Application by one of several plaintiffs.

Where one of several plaintiffs desires to make an application in the action separately from his co-plaintiffs, he must obtain an order of course, giving him leave to appoint a solicitor for that express purpose: Danl Pr., 5th ed., 1724.

Party acting in person desiring to appoint a solicitor.

Where a party sues or defends by a solicitor, and afterwards desires to sue or defend in person, an order giving him leave to do so must be obtained: Danl Pr. 5th ed. 1724. But when a party sues or defends in person and afterwards appoints a solicitor, no order is necessary, ib. 1725, and see Rule 464; but notice should be given to the officer with whom the pleadings are filed, and also to the opposite party.

Proceedings taken by a new solicitor without an order, when one is necessary, or by a suitor in person when he has a solicitor on the record, are irregular and will be set aside: Rathburn v. Hughes, 3 Chy. Ch. 160; Yeatman v. Snow, 42 L. T. N. S. 502.

Order to change when a discharge of solicitor by client.

An order to change solicitor is prima facie a discharge of the former solicitor by the client: Webster v. Le Hunt, 9 W. R. 804. But it is not a discharge o the solicitor by the client, where it is taken out in consequence of the prior refusal of the solicitor to act: and a solicitor will be considered to have discharged himself, on the bankruptcy of himself, or the firm of which he is a partner: Re Moss, L. R. 2 Eq. 345; or by being arrested or detained in custody: Re Williams, 3 D. F. & J. 104; 28 Beav. 465; Scott v. Fleming, 9 Jur. 1085; but not merely by being in embarrassed circumstances: Re Smith, 9 W. R. 396. So also a firm of solicitors will be deemed to have discharged the client, where the firm is dissolved; and no arrangement can be made by the solicitors for the transfer of the client's business to one of their number without his consent amounting to a new retainer: Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 19 Ves. 261; Griffiths v. Griffiths, 2 Hare 587; Slater v. Stoddard, 6 P. R. 299; Alchin v. Buffalo & L. H. Ry. Co., 2 Chy. Ch. 45. Rule 463.

Where any new party is brought into an action by order to continue proceedings, by reason of the death of, or transfer of interest by, any of the parties; such new party is not obliged to employ the solicitor by whom the deceased person, or transferror was represented, but he may, without order, employ a new solicitor, but notice of such new solicitor being so employed must be given to the officer with whom the pleadings are filed, and also to the opposite party: Daul. Pr., 5th ed., 1725; Simmonds v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., L. R. 3 Chy. 797; but the assignee of the plaintiff in a creditor's suit cannot appoint a new solicitor except on special application: Topping v. Searson, 2 H. & M. 265. When order unnecessary.

Although a solicitor may for sufficient cause, by notice to his client, terminate the connection between them, the Court will not make an order for that purpose on the ex parte application of the solicitor: Bricker v. Ansell, 1 Ch. Ch. 367.

Where the solicitor is changed by the client, the original solicitor is still entitled to a lien on any fund recovered in the cause, and is entitled to be paid his costs, next after the costs of the solicitor by whom the suit is concluded: Clark v. Eccles, 3 Chy. Ch. 324. Lien of solicitor.

Where a solicitor is discharged by the dissolution of a firm of which he is a member, he is not at liberty to act for the opposite party: Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 19 Ves. 261; but when he is discharged by his client he cannot be restrained from acting for the opposite party, nor the latter from employing him: Little v. Kingswood & Parkfield Colliery Co., 20 Ch. D. 733; 47 L. T. N. S. 323; 52 L. J. Chy. 66; but the solicitor may be restrained by injunction from divulging the secrets of his former client to the opposite party, either in the same transaction, or any other flowing thereout, or connected therewith: Ib., and see Davies v. Clough, 8 Sim. 262, 267; Grissell v. Peto, 9 Bing. 1; Johnson v. Marriott, 2 Cr. & M. 183. Solicitor restrained from acting for opposite party when.

How far the solicitor's retainer continues after judgment is recovered in the action in which he is retained to sue or defend, seems doubtful: see 79 L. T. Jour. 208. Service of notice of appeal from the judgment made on the respondent's solicitor on the record, was held good: De la Pole v. Dick, 29 Ch. D. 351; 52 L. T. N. S. 457; but a retainer of a solicitor to collect a debt was held not to authorize him, after judgment recovered, to enter upon interpleader proceedings without further instructions: James v. Richnell, 20 Q. B. D. 164; 58 L. T. N. S. 278.

Lien of Solicitor on Books and Papers.—A solicitor has a lien on the books and papers of his client, which have come to him in the course of business in his professional capacity. This lien, however, is a mere right to retain the documents until his costs are paid, and cannot be actively enforced: Bozon v. Bolland, 4 My. & Cr. 354. In the absence of any agreement to the contrary, the lien is general, and attaches for all costs due from the client, and is not confined to the costs incurred in the particular business in which the documents came into the solicitor's hands: Re Faithful, L. R. 6 Eq. 325; Bozon v. Bolland, supra; Richards v. Platel, Cr. & Ph. 82; Worrall v. Johnson, 2 Jac. & W. 214; Ex parte Sterling, 16 Ves. 257; Friswell v. King, 15 Sim. 191; Colmer v. Ede, 19 W. R. 313; Re Messenger, 3 Ch. D. 317. Lien on books and papers.

The solicitor cannot acquire any greater right of detainer, than the client had himself, and the lien is therefore subject to the rights and equities of those claiming by title paramount to that of the client: Francis v. Francis, 5 D. M. & G. 108; Stedman v. Webb, 4 My. & Cr. 346; Clutton v. Pardon, T. & R. 304; Molesworth v. Robbins, 2 J. & Lat. 358; Petty v. Wathen, 1 D. M. G. 16; 7 Hare 351; Blunden v. Desart, 2 Dr. & W. 405; Bell v. Taylor, 8 Sim. 216; Baker v. Henderson, 4 Sim. 27; Warburton v. Edge, 9 Sim. 508; Re Mosely, 15 W. R. 975; Young v. English, 7 Beav. 10; Stennett v. Aruyn, 2 Chy. Ch. 218; Re Union Cement and Brick Co., Ex parte, Pulbrook, L. R. 4 Chy. 627; and where the client would be bound to produce the documents in evidence on the demand of third parties, the solicitor cannot refuse to produce them on the ground of his lien: Hope v. Liddell, 7 D. M. & G. 331; 20 Beav. 438; Fowler v. Fowler, 44 L. T. N. S. 790; 50 L. J. Ch. 686.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 463.

But third parties whose rights are acquired under the client subsequent to the creation of the lien, have no greater rights than the client himself had at the time they acquired title: Gill v. Gamble, 13 Gr. 169; 2 Chy. Ch. 135. The solicitor, however, cannot claim a lien, against such third parties, for costs incurred by him subsequently to their acquiring their rights: Blunden v. Desart, 2 Dr. & W. 405.

A solicitor cannot acquire a lien on the documents of a joint stock company which by statute, or the articles of association, are required to be kept in the office of the company: Re the Anglo-Maltese Co., 52 L. T. N. S. 841; but he may acquire a lien on the books and documents of a company which are not so required to be kept in the office of the company, Ib., but not for business which was ultra vires of the company: Re Howard & Dollman, 1 H. & M. 433. A lien may be maintained notwithstanding that the debt in respect of which it is claimed may be barred by the Statute of Limitations: Re Carter, Carter v. Carter, 53 L. T. N. S. 630.

A solicitor who is employed by a mortgagor and mortgagee to prepare a mortgage, after completion of the mortgage holds the title deeds for the mortgagee, and cannot as against him claim any lien thereon for a debt due by the mortgagor: Ex parte Quinn, 49 L. T. N. S. 811.

Taking security, effect on lien.

The lien is superseded by the solicitor taking security for his costs: Cowell v. Simpson, 16 Ves. 275, but only to the extent of the security: Watson v. Lyon, 7 D. M. & G. 288, and ceases altogether on payment, and the solicitor cannot then retain documents on the ground that a third party claims an interest in them: Re Emma Mine, Ex parte Turner, 24 W. R. 54. The lien may also be lost by the solicitor assigning his bill of costs to a third party: Reesor v. Ella, 7 P. R. 371; and also by parting with possession of the documents; but where on the dissolution of a firm of solicitors, one of the partners took possession of documents on which the firm had a lien, without the permission or consent of his late partners, it was held that the lien of the firm was not thereby lost: Re Carter, Carter v. Carter, 53 L. T. N. S. 630.

Although ordinarily the documents cannot be taken out of the solicitor's hands until the lien is satisfied, the client is nevertheless entitled to inspect them: Lockett v. Cary, 10 Jur. N. S. 144; and where the circumstances are pressing, an order may be made for delivery of documents in a discharged solicitor's hands before payment of his bill, provided money is brought into Court sufficient to satisfy his demand: Re South Essex Eq. Investment and Advance Co., 46 L. T. N. S. 280.

When a firm is changed by the introduction of a new partner, there is no lien on papers delivered to the new firm for costs due the old firm: Re Forshaw, 16 Sim. 121.

Toronto agents, as against their principals, have a general lien for their agency bills on papers placed in their hands by their principals; and the lien is not lost even though the relationship of principal and agent is dissolved by the agent: Re Attorney, 7 P. R. 311; Re A. B. & C., 14 C. L. J. 142; Re Cross, 4 Chy. Ch. 11.

Difference between right of lien of solicitor who is discharged, and one who discharges himself.

There is an important difference in the right of lien, of a solicitor in an action who discharges himself, and one who is discharged by his client.

When the solicitor discharges himself, he is bound to deliver up the papers in the action to the new solicitor, upon the latter undertaking to hold them subject to his lien for what, if anything, shall be found due on taxation of his bill; and to proceed with the cause with due diligence, and to redeliver the papers within ten days after he shall cease to have occasion for them, if the lien be not sooner satisfied: Colegrave v. Manley, T. & R. 400; Heslop v. Metcalf, 3 My. & Cr. 183; Wilson v. Emmett, 19 Beav. 233; Cane v. Martin, 2 Beav. 584; Robins v. Goldingham, L. R. 13 Eq. 440; Ley v. Brown, 1 Chy. Ch. 179; Merrewether v. Mellish, 13 Ves. 161; Mayne v. Hawkey, 3 Sw. 93; Webster v. Le Hunt, 9 W. R. 804: Commerell v. Poynton, 1 Sw. 1. The solicitor cannot in such a case require the client to undertake to proceed to a taxation of his bills: Moir v. Mudie, 1 S. & S. 282. And if he refuse to deliver up the papers to the new solicitor, on his undertaking as above mentioned, he may be ordered to pay the costs of an application to compel him to do so: Robins v. Goldingham, supra. A solicitor who declines to proceed with an action until his costs are paid, in effect discharges himself: Ib., and see Re Lewis, 72 L. T. Jour. 387. And so the dissolution of the firm of solicitors engaged by the client, or the arrest or detention in custody, or bankruptcy of the solicitor, works a discharge of the client by the solicitor: vide supra. But where the client dies, or his interest is transferred by assignment or otherwise, and an order is made to continue the proceedings in the name of some new party who names a new solicitor, in such cases the solicitor is deemed to be discharged by the client: see Re Moss, L. R. 2 Eq. 345. Rule 463.

When the solicitor is discharged by the client he cannot generally be ordered to deliver up the papers, until his lien has been satisfied: Re Faithful, L. R. 6 Eq. 325; Griffiths v. Griffiths, 2 Hare, 587; Bozon v. Bolland, 4 My. & Cr. 354, unless it appear that there is strong ground for believing that there is nothing due the solicitor: Re Bevan & Whitting, 33 Beav. 439. Nor is the solicitor in such a case bound even to produce the papers for the purpose of the cause, until his bill is paid: Lord v. Wormleighton, Jac. 580; Redfearn v. Sowerby, 1 Sw. 84; Robins v. Goldingham, L. R. 13 Eq. 440; but see Simmonds v. G. E. Ry. Co., L. R. 3 Chy. 797; Clifford v. Turrill, 2 D. & S. 1; Webster v. Le Hunt, 9 W. R. 804; Re Leah, 6 Jur. N. S. 387. But where the discharged solicitor neglects to deliver his bill of costs within the proper time, he may be ordered to deliver up the papers subject to his lien thereon: Cooper v. Hewson, 2 Y. & C. C. C. 515; and when the papers are urgently needed he may be ordered to deliver them up on the amount claimed for costs being paid into Court together with a sum to meet the costs of taxation: Re Galland, 31 Ch. D. 296; 53 L. T. N. S. 921. Discharge by client.

And where the action is one for administration in which the rights of third parties are concerned, the solicitor, though discharged by his client, may be compelled to deliver up the papers necessary for the prosecution of the action, on the usual terms: Re Boughton, Boughton v. Boughton, 48 L. T. N. S. 413; Bevaney v. Ffrench, L. R. 8 Chy. 918; 20 L. T. N. S. 706; and see Re Capital Fire Insurance Assn., 24 Ch. D. 408; 49 L. T. N. S. 697; Hutchinson v. Norwood, 54 L. T. N. S. 842. But costs incurred by an administrator in administration proceedings are a charge upon the estate, and upon his death, the administrator de bonis non takes the estate subject to the charge, and cannot compel the delivery up of the papers in the hands of the solicitor until his costs are paid: Re Watson, 50 L. T. N. S. 205.

Lien on Fund.—A solicitor has not only a general lien on his client's papers for all costs due to him, but he has also a particular lien for the costs of proceedings to recover a fund, upon the fund recovered, or ordered to be paid: Lann v. Church, 4 Mad. 391, and if the fund actually reaches the solicitor's hand he is entitled then to retain it until his costs, not only of the action in which the fund is recovered, but all other costs are paid, that is so far as his client's interest in the fund extends: Davidson v. Douglas, 15 Gr. 354; Hall v. Laver, 1 Hare, 571; but his lien only extends to what is due to him in his character of a solicitor: Re Galland, 31 Ch. D. 296; 53 L. T. N. S. 921. Lien on fund.

The solicitor may give notice to the opposite party not to pay the money until his costs are satisfied: Cowell v. Simpson, 16 Ves. 275; and see Sympson v. Prothero, 5 W. R. 814. And this lien is not lost by the discharge of the solicitor by the client, or by the act of God, pending the suit; thus where the plaintiff assigned his interest in the suit, and the assignee named a new solicitor, the first solicitor was held entitled to a lien on the fund ultimately recovered and to payment of his costs thereout, next after those of the solicitor by whom the suit was concluded: Clark v. Eccles, 3 Chy. Ch. 324; and see Kellett v. Kelly, 5 Ir. Eq. R. 34; Bozon v. Bolland, 4 My. & Cr. 354; Cormack v. Beisly, 3 D. & J. 157; Re Wadsworth, Rhodes v. Sugden, 34 Ch. D. 155; 55 L. T. N. S. 596. But after the fund has been paid to the client, with the solicitor's acquiescence, or without notice by the payer of his claim, the solicitor's lien is gone, and he must look to his client alone for payment of his costs: see 86 L. T. Jour. 446.

Where the solicitor declines to act he has no lien upon a fund in Court: Cresswell v. Byron, 14 Ves. 271. Solicitor refusing to act.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 465.

Lien may be actively enforced.

The lien on a fund may be actively enforced: Bozon v. Bolland, 4 My. & Cr. 354. The solicitor may obtain a stop order: Hobson v. Shearwood, 8 Beav. 486; or an order for payment of his costs out of any money in Court payable to his client, or applicable to the payment of the costs: Wardell v. Trenouth, 8 P. R. 142. But a solicitor can have no higher claim against a fund by virtue of his lien than that of his client; and if the client would not be entitled to payment of his costs out of the fund neither will his solicitor; although it may have been recovered by means of proceedings taken by him: Francis v. Francis, 5 D. M. & G. 108; Re Harrald, Wilde v. Walford, 51 L. T. N. S. 441.

Client cannot defeat lien.

The client cannot assign the fund in Court so as to defeat the solicitor's lien, even to a purchaser for value, without express notice: Haymes v. Cooper, 33 L. J., N. S. Chy. 488; Yemen v. Johnston, 11 P. R. 231. Neither can the client release the adverse party from the payment of costs ordered to be paid, so as to defeat his solicitor's lien: Ex parte Bryant, 1 Mad. 49. But the lien may be defeated by a bonâ fide compromise by the parties to the action: The Hope, 8 P. D. 144; 49 L. T. N. S. 158; but a collusive compromise will not have that effect: Beames Costs, 312, 313; Langle v. Fetterly, 5 U. C. R. 628; Griggs v. Meyers, 6, U. C. R. 532; Connors v. Squires, 2 P. R. 149; and see Plant v. Stone, 9 U. C. R. 458; Ex parte Morrison, L. R. 4 Q. B. 153; Ex parte Games, 3 H. & C. 294; Brown v. Conant, 2 P. R. 208; Smith v. Thompson, 5 P. R. 166; Morgan v. Holland, 7 P. R. 74; Barrett v. Barrett, 18 C. L. J. 56; Hall v. Griffith, 5 Ont. 478; Friedrich v. Friedrich, 10 P. R. 308, 546; Ross v. Buxton, 60 L. T. N. S. 630. Where a compromise is effected for the purpose of depriving a plaintiff's solicitor of his costs, he may be authorized to carry on the action for the purpose of realizing them out of the defendant: Dunthorne v. Bunbury, 24 L. R. Ir. 6. But where in a suit for foreclosure the plaintiff and defendant compromised the suit, the plaintiff paying the defendant $200 in consideration of his releasing his equity of redemption, the defendant's solicitor was held to have no lien on the $200: Brownscomb v. Tully, re Fairbairn, 3 Chy. Ch. 71. An agent of a solicitor has a lien on a fund recovered: Re Ryan, 11 P. R. 127, and payment by the client to the agent in order to obtain his papers, is a good payment as against the principal solicitor: Re Cross, 4 Chy. Ch. 11; but the lien of the agent is no greater than that of the principal solicitor, and if the latter have no claim upon the fund as against his client, the agent may be compelled to pay it over upon a summary application on behalf of the client: Re Edwards, 45 L. T. N. S. 578. When the fund was in Court an order was made for payment to the agent of the amount of his lien thereout: Re Ryan, 11 P. R. 127.

Where money is standing to the separate account of the party to a cause, he may apply for payment out by a new solicitor, without an order changing the solicitor: Waddilove v. Taylor, 17 L. J. Chy. 384. But where the new solicitor delivered the cheque to the client before the lien of the former solicitor was satisfied, he was ordered to pay him the amount of his lien: McPhatter v. Blue, 15 C. L. J. 162.

Effect of lien on right of set-off.

Effect of Lien on right of set-off between parties.—No set-off of damages or costs between the parties is to be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular action against which the set-off is sought; but costs of interlocutory proceedings may be set-off: see Rule 1205 note. But this Rule is held to apply only to the set-off of damages and costs in separate actions: see notes to Rule 1205; where that is sought, the set-off is not to be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien: Webb v. McArthur, 4 Chy. Ch. 63; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922; 53 L. T. N. S. 69; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers Assoc., 7 P. R. 255; and see Ross v. McLay, 7 P. R. 97; Wardell v. Trenouth, 8 P. R. 142; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Re Harrald, Wilde v. Walford, 48 L. T. N. S. 352; 51 L. T. N. S. 441; but see Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 75, 160. But a set-off of damages and costs payable in the same action, will ordinarily be allowed without regard to the solicitor's lien: Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 676; 40 L. T. N. S. 512; Cameron v. Campbell, 12 U. C. Q. B. 159; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Brigham v. Smith, 17 Gr. 512.

Where a special lien was given by one of the parties to his solicitor, the right of set-off to the extent of the special lien thus created was held to be defeated:

Ross v. McLay, 7 P. R. 97. As to the right of the taxing officer to set-off costs : see Rule 1204 ; Baker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609. Rules 464, 465.

No Lien on Estate recovered.—In Ontario a solicitor is not entitled to any lien on an estate recovered through his instrumentality : Shaw v. Neale, 6 H. L. C. 581 ; but see Morgan v. Holland, 7 P. R. 74. In England since 23 & 24 Vict. cap. 127, sec. 28 (Imp.), he has a lien on all property recovered by him for his client. No lien on estate recovered.

464. In all cases where a plaintiff has sued out a writ in person, or a defendant has appeared in person, and either party by a solicitor gives notice in writing to the opposite party, or the solicitor or agent of such party, of the solicitor being authorized to act as solicitor for the party on whose behalf the notice is given, all pleadings, notices, orders, and other proceedings, which according to the practice of the Court are to be delivered to, or served upon, the party on whose behalf such notice is given, shall thereafter be delivered to, or served upon such solicitor. Rules T. T. 1856, 139. Where party has acted in person, and notice given by solicitor that he is authorized to act, subsequent proceedings to be served on solicitor.

In the Court of Chancery it was formerly customary where a party, who had been previously acting in person, desired to act by solicitor, to obtain an order of course authorizing him to do so.

Notwithstanding this Rule, notice of motion to attach a defendant must usually be served personally, unless some sufficient reason is shown for dispensing with personal service : Mann v. Perry, 50 L. J. Chy. 251 ; followed by Proudfoot, J., in Smith v. Marrin, Sept. 29th, 1884. But notice of motion to commit for non-production, or not bringing in accounts, in the office of the Master, or Clerk of Records and Writs, Registrar or Deputy or Local Registrars, may be served on the solicitor : see Rules 521, 522.

465. In any action instituted by a mortgagee or other person having a charge on real property, for the foreclosure or sale of property, and to which action any judgment creditor of the mortgagor, or of the person liable to the charge, is a defendant, personal service on such defendant shall not be necessary, and it shall be sufficient to serve his solicitor in the action in which the judgment has been recovered, with the process of the Court, whether the same be an office copy of the judgment or decretal order, or any other order or notice which by order of Court may be directed, and whether the same be issued by the Court or by any officer thereof; but the plaintiff in any such action may elect to serve the judgment creditor personally instead of serving the solicitor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 92. Service of proceedings for foreclosure or sale may be on solicitor in certain cases.

It is a matter of some doubt how far a solicitor's retainer continues after judgment has been recovered : see 79 L. T. Jour. 208 ; De la Pole v. Dick, 29 Ch. D. 351 ; 52 L. T. N. S. 457 ; James v. Richnell, 20 Q. B. D. 164 ; 58 L. T. N. S. 278 ; but whether the retainer continues or not, this Rule makes the service of the solicitor, sufficient service on the client for whom he acted.

Original or need not be shown except in cases of attachment.

466. It shall not be necessary to the regular service of an order, that the original shall be shown, except in cases of arrest or attachment. Rules T. T. 1856, 134.

Unless it is demanded, it is not necessary that the original order to examine a judgment debtor should be shown to him when serving him with a copy of it, in order to found an application for a ca. sa., in the event of his disobeying it: Imperial Bank v. Dickey, 8 P. R. 246.

Service of notice of motion in Chambers may be dispensed with. Or substituted service ordered.

467. Where it appears, upon the hearing of any matter, that by reason of absence, or for any other sufficient cause, the service of notice of the application, or of the appointment, cannot be made, or ought to be dispensed with, such service may be dispensed with, or any substituted service or notice, by advertisement, or otherwise, may be ordered. Chy. O. 199.

Formerly in actions, after service of the writ, and the time for appearance had elapsed and no appearance entered, a notice of motion or appointment might be served on any non-appearing defendant by posting up a copy in the office whence the writ issued, under original Rule 131: Dymond v. Croft, 3 Ch. D. 512; but that Rule has not been embodied in this Consolidation; see Rules 461, 462, which appear only to apply to cases where the defendant has appeared.

But where the notice of motion required to be served is the first proceeding, or personal service is necessary on a party who has appeared but cannot be found, then this Rule would seem to apply and to authorize the allowance of substitutional service, or dispensing with service altogether. For cases in which applications of this kind have been made, see supra pp. 289, 302.

Where it was not shewn that defendant could not be served, the Court refused under this Rule to dispense with service of notice of motion for judgment for default of defence: Dominion Bank v. Doddridge, 12 P. R. 655. The fact that defendant had been personally served with the writ and had not appeared was held not to be "sufficient cause" within this Rule: Ib.

See Re Backhouse v. Bright, 13 P. R. 117.

6. Transmission of Papers.

On receiving notice, Deputy Clerks to transmit record to Toronto, sealed up, etc. Failure to be a contempt.

468. Every Deputy Clerk of the Crown, Deputy or Local Registrar, shall, within 24 hours after notice in writing delivered to him in his office, for that purpose, and payment of the necessary postage enclose, seal up, and transmit by post to the office of the proper Division at Toronto, addressed to the Registrar thereof, any record in his custody mentioned in the notice, together with all exhibits filed at the trial, and in default thereof he may be adjudged guilty of a contempt of Court, and be dealt with in the discretion of the Court accordingly; and if, after such notice, the record is not in Court at the time of making any motion requiring a reference thereto, the party moving may, on filing an affidavit of the service of notice, and that the record, on search, has not been found in the said Registrar's office, be allowed by the Court to make the motion without the production of such record. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 279. Rules 469-472.

469. Where pleadings or other documents, filed with an officer of the Court, are required by any other officer, the officer with whom the pleadings or other documents are filed, is, upon production of a request signed by the officer requiring the pleadings or other documents, that the same are required for some proceeding before him, to transmit the pleadings or other documents upon payment of postage or express charges and return. See Chy. O. 542, 544. Transmission of documents from one officer of the Court to another.

This Rule is general in its terms, and appears to apply to all documents, whether filed with an officer in the action, in which their production is required, or in some other action.

Formerly where the documents in some other cause were required to be produced, an order was considered necessary. When a party in his affidavit on production referred to documents produced by him, and in the custody of a Deputy Registrar in another suit, an order was made ex parte for their production: Gainer v. Doyle, 2 Chy. Ch. 279; but see Hamelyn v. White, 6 P. R. 143. On a motion to produce documents in another cause at the trial, it was necessary to show that the original documents were required, and that the production of office copies would not be sufficient: Chadwick v. Thompson, 2 Chy. Ch. 389; Jarvis v. White, 8 Ves. 313; Attorney-General v. Ray, 6 Beav. 335; Anon, 13 Beav. 420; and ordinarily, an application for the order was required to be on notice: Lamb v. Danby, 9 W. R. 765. But under this Rule it does not appear to be necessary to obtain any order. Production of documents in other causes may be ordered. Proof required that production of originals is necessary.

470. Documents shall be transmitted by post or express, and not otherwise, and with the documents shall be transmitted the necessary postage or express charges for the return of the same, unless they are to be delivered by one officer to another in the same town, when they shall be transmitted by delivering the same to the officer requiring them, or his clerk. See Chy. O. 543, 544. Rules T. T. 1856, 148. Documents, how transmitted.

471. As soon as the purpose for which any such documents are required is completed, the officer to whom they have been sent is to re-transmit them to the office from which they were sent. Chy. O. 545. Documents to be returned.

7. Time.

472. Where by these Rules, or by any judgment or order, time for doing any act or taking any proceeding is limited by months, not expressed to be lunar months, such time shall be computed by calendar months. J. A. Rule 454. Months shall mean calendar months.

Rules 473-476.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 57, r. 1. That of 1883, R. 961, is a little more full.

Where a month's notice of passing a by-law was required, notice given on 28th March for 28th April was held insufficient: Re Laplante v. Peterborough, 4 C. L. T. 339.

Period of less than six days.

473. Where any limited time less than six days from or after any date or event is appointed or allowed for doing any act or taking any proceeding, holidays, as defined by The Interpretation Act, shall not be reckoned in the computation of such limited time. J. A. Rule 455.

The words in brackets do not correspond with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 57, r. 2 (1883, R. 962). Holidays are defined by the Interpretation Act (R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, s-s. 16) as follows:

"Holiday."

"16. The word "holiday" shall include Sundays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, and Christmas Day, Dominion Day, the days appointed for the celebration of the birthday of Her Majesty and of Her Royal Successors, and any day appointed by proclamation of the Governor-General or Lieutenant-Governor as a public holiday or for a General Fast or Thanksgiving."

This Rule applies to the period for entering cases under Rule 665: Parr v. Lough, 3 C. L. T. 312, to short notice of trial under Rule 661: O'Donnell v. O'Donnell, 10 P. R. 264, and to the computation of the 48 hours' notice of the examination of a party required to be given under Rule 491: Lovelace v. Harrington, 10 P. R. 157.

Where the limited period is not less than six days, holidays are counted: Ex parte Viney, 4 Ch. D. 794; Cornish v. Manning, 18 C. L. J. 143, except when the last day is a holiday when, by Rule 476, it is not to be reckoned: Taylor v. Jones, 45 L. J. C. P. 110.

As to how far the Court regards a fraction of a day: see Broderick v. Broach, 12 P. R. 561.

Days, how computed.

474. In all cases in which any particular number of days not expressed to be clear days, is prescribed by the Rules or practice of the Court, the same shall be reckoned exclusively of the first day, and inclusively of the last day. J. A. Rule 456.

Same as English Rule No. 174, of Hilary Term, 1853.

When the expression "clear days" is not used, days are "clear" when expressed to be "at least" a certain number of days: see Rule 475 and Reg. v. Shropshire Justices, 3 A. & E. 173; Fisher Digest, p. 8323; Webster v. Leys, 3 C. L. T. 504; Rumohr v. Marx, in note to Rule 800.

Clear days.

475. In all cases expressed to be clear days, or where the term "at least" is added, both days shall be excluded. App. O. 60.

See Lovelace v. Harrington, in note to Rule 473.

Where last day is Sunday.

476. Where the time for doing any act or taking any proceeding expires on a Sunday, or other day on which the offices are closed, and by reason thereof such act or proceeding cannot be done or taken on that day, such act or proceeding shall, so far as regards the time of doing or taking the same, be held to be duly done or taken on the next day on which the offices are open. J. A. Rule 457. Rules 477-479.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 57, r. 3 (1883, R. 963).

This Rule does not apply to extend the time for registration of a chattel mortgage under the statute, R. S. O. 1887, c. 125: McLean v. Pinkerton, 7 Ont. App. 490; nor to extend the time fixed by a Statute of Limitations, and therefore, in an action on a promissory note, where the limit of time under such a statute expired on Sunday, and the writ was not issued till Monday, the bar of the statute was held to apply: Morris v. Richards, 45 L. T. N. S. 210.

But it is considered by the officers of the various Divisions at Toronto that where the year within which a writ of execution is to be renewed under Rule 894 expires on a Sunday, the writ may be renewed on the following day, as the limit of a year is one imposed by the Rules, and not by a statute.

Where the time for appealing from Chambers expires on a holiday, the motion may be made the next day: Taylor v. Jones, 45 L. J. C. P. 110.

Notice of motion for a dies non is not bad: Re Coulton, Hamling v. Elliott, 34 Ch. D. 22, over-ruling Daubney v. Shuttleworth, 1 Ex. D. 53: see Deykin v. Coleman, 36 L. T. N. S. 195; 25 W. R. 294; and Rules 442 and 479.

477. The day on which an order that the plaintiff do give security for costs is served, and the time thenceforward until and including the day on which the security is given, is not to be reckoned in the computation of time allowed to a defendant to appear or deliver a defence. Chy. O. 409. Computation of period of stay of proceedings.

478. The time for delivering or amending any pleading may be enlarged by consent in writing, without application to the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 458. Enlargement of time by consent.

Identical with the Eng. R. April, 1880, R. 42.

479. Unless the Court or Judge gives special leave to the contrary, there must be at least two clear days between the service of a notice of motion or petition and the day for hearing the motion or petition; and in the computation of such two clear days, Sundays, and days on which the offices are closed are not to be reckoned. Chy. O. 264. J. A. Rule 407. Two clear days' notice.

See Eng. R. 1876, O. 53, r. 4 (1883, R. 700).

For the days on which the offices are closed: see Rule 7.

Motions for judgment are held to be within this Rule: Parsons v. Harris, 6 Chy. D. 694; Pearce v. Spickett, W. N. 1876, 109; Martins v. Birney, 10 P. R. 368, and note to Rule 748.

Where a motion is made by leave of the Court or a Judge the notice should so state, otherwise it is irregular: Hill v. Rimell, 8 Sim. 632. The Court should also be informed of the fact on the return of the motion; but the Court has a discretion to disregard the irregularity: Dawson v. Beeson, 22 Ch. D. 504. Under Rule 442 affidavits were allowed to be read, though not served until after the notice of motion: Re Wyggleston Hospital, 78 L. T. Jour. 282. So, where, without leave, a motion is made returnable on a day on which the Court does not sit: Armstrong v. Cayley, 13 Gr. 558; or in vacation: Maullin v. Rogers, 34 W. R. 592; 55 L. T. N. S. 121; 55 L. J. Q. B. 377; or the notice is

Rule 479. too short, it is irregular: Daubney v. Shuttleworth, 1 Ex. D. 53; Deykin v. Coleman, 25 W. R. 294; but the Court may disregard the irregularity: see Williams v. De Boinville, 17 Q. B. D. 180; Forrest v. Davies, 26 W. R. 534, and Re Coulton, 34 Ch. D. 22.

Objection to a notice as being short was considered waived by appearing on the motion in Re McRae, Forster v. Davies, 25 Ch. D. 19; and by obtaining an enlargement and demanding affidavits in Re Farlinger & Morrisburg, 9 C. L. T. 109.

Where notice of motion has not been given in sufficient time owing to a bona fide mistake, the Court may, in its discretion, allow the party in default to show the reason of the mistake by affidavit, and allow the motion to be made on a later day: Smith v. Smacksmen, Ins. Co., 32 W. R. 184.

Where a defendant has not appeared to the writ the posting up of a notice of motion under the original Rule 131 was formerly good service within this Rule: Dymond v. Croft, 3 Ch. D. 512: Morton v. Miller, ibid. 516; Parsons v. Harris, 6 Ch. D. 694; but that Rule has not been embodied in the Consolidated Rules, and service of a notice of motion for judgment must therefore be effected personally when defendant has not appeared: see Burritt v. Murdock, 9 P. R. 191, and note to Rule 467.

Where the party who has given notice of motion fails to appear, the party served and appearing is entitled to an order for his costs: Berry v. Exchange Trading Co., 1 Q. B. D. 77; Denison v. Devlin, 11 Gr. 84. But if the notice of motion is invalid, the party served not being bound to appear, is not entitled to costs if he does appear: Daubney v. Shuttleworth, 1 Ex. D. 53. In Re Coulton, Hamling v. Elliott, 34 Ch. D. 22, it was held that notice for a day not in the sittings is not bad, perhaps because the parties appeared on the motion; and see Fisken v. Smith, 3 Chy. Ch. 74.

In Williams v. De Bonville, 17 Q. B. D. 180, notice for a day not in the sittings was amended to insert the proper day, the case apparently having been entered by the Clerk in the list of opposed motions for the first day of the sittings. The notice was held bad, but the amendment was allowed, the amount in question being large. In Maullin v. Rogers, supra, the Court thought it best for the parties not to permit an amendment, the amount being small: see 34 W. R. 702.

As to when costs will be given, where the Court decides that it has no jurisdiction: see Brown v. Shaw, 1 Ex. D. 425; Great Northern Co. v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Powley v. Whitehead, 16 U. C. Q. B. 589.

As to the costs of a person who appears, though unnecessarily served and merely to ask costs, and of one who appears quia timet an order would be made against him: see Lucas v. Fraser, 9 P. R. 319.

Under The Judicature Act, where an order is made in default of appearance, the former practice is still in force that it is still necessary to produce an affidavit of service to the Registrar before the rising of the Court; it is not sufficient if it be produced in time to draw up the order: Secar v. Webb, 25 Ch. D. 84; Jones v. Bartholomew, W. N. 1883, 205; Re Rosier, 49 L. T. N. S. 442.

A notice of motion need not state under what Rule the party proposes to move: Re Barker's Estate, 10 Ch. D. 165-6.

A petition presented by a person, not a party to the action should set out his residence and occupation: Hunter v. Mountjoy, 2 Chy. Ch. 90; Glazbrook v. Gillatt, 9 Beav. 492.

The petition need not be filed before the day of hearing, and a petition filed before it had been served, and in the prosecution of which delay had arisen, was ordered to be taken off the files for want of prosecution: Re Western Insurance Co., 6 P. R. 86. But a petition must be filed before any order made thereon can be issued; but where the original is lost, or the petitioner refuses to deliver it to the respondent to file, a copy may be filed instead: Smith v. Harwood, 1 Sm. & G. 137; Sanderson v. Walker, 1 M. & Cr. 359; Re Hobler, 9 Jur. 419; Andrews v. Walton, 1 M. & Cr. 360.

Formal parties, may, with the petition, be tendered $5 for costs, and if they appear unnecessarily they will get no more costs : Rule 1193 ; Re Sutton, 46 L. T. N. S. 740 ; where several respondents appear by the same solicitor, the tender of one sum of $5 is sufficient : Re Mitchell, 17 Ch. D. 515 ; 45 L. T. N. S. 60.

Rules 480-483. Tender of $5 costs to formal respondents.

480. Unless otherwise specially ordered in the particular case, service of pleadings, notices, orders, and other proceedings, shall be effected before the hour of four o'clock in the afternoon ; except on Saturday, when it shall be effected before the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon. Service effected after four o'clock in the afternoon on any week day except Saturday, shall be deemed to have been effected on the following day. Service effected after two o'clock on Saturday shall be deemed to have been effected on the following Monday. J. A. Rule 540.

Time for service of pleadings.

The original Rule 459 was identical with the English Rule and named six o'clock as the last hour for service, instead of four o'clock.

Where service was admitted by a solicitor a few minutes after the hour per incuriam, and was repudiated by him as soon as he discovered the nature of the paper served upon him it was held not to bind : McTavish v. Sympson, 7 P. R. 145 ; Wright v. Way, 8 P. R. 328.

Service of a paper effected within proper hours but by leaving the paper in the office of the solicitor, after he and his clerks had left for the day, is good service only from the time when the paper came to the knowledge of the solicitor : Davies v. Hubbard, 20 C. L. J. 32 ; following McCallum v. Prov. Ins. Co., 6 P. R. 101.

A specially indorsed writ is not a pleading within this Rule, and may be served at any hour of the day : Murray v. Stephenson, 9 Q. B. D. 60 ; see also Veale v. Automatic Boiler, etc., Co., 18 Q. B. D. 631.

See Lloyd v. Ward in note to Rule 393.

481. An attendance on a motion in Chambers, or on an appointment before a Master Registrar, or other officer, for half an hour next immediately following the return thereof, shall be deemed a sufficient attendance. Rules T. T. 1856, 124.

Half an hour's attendance on a summons, or appointment, is sufficient.

482. On every appointment the party on whom the same is served shall attend such appointment without waiting for a second, or in default thereof the officer before whom the appointment is may proceed ex parte on the first appointment. Rules T. T. 1856, 144.

One appointment sufficient.

483. No pleadings shall be amended or delivered in the long vacation, except [by consent or unless] directed by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 460.

Pleading in vacation.

The words in brackets are not in Eng. R. 1875, O. 57, r. 4, (1883, R. 964).

In the former Common Law Courts no pleadings could be delivered during the long vacation : R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 95. Under this Rule it can be done by order, or by consent.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 484, 485.

Long vacation when not computed.

484. The time of the long vacation shall not be reckoned in the computation of the times appointed or allowed by these Rules for filing, amending, or delivering any pleading, or in the times allowed for the following purposes, unless otherwise directed by the Court or a Judge:

1. ~~Setting down demurrers~~;
2. Master's reports becoming absolute;
3. Moving to discharge an order under Rule 622;
4. Moving to add to, vary, or set aside a judgment by any party served therewith. J. A. Rule 461; Chy. O. 408.
5. Doing any act or taking any proceeding in appealing to the Court of Appeal, except in County Court appeals. App. O. 57.

Formerly the Christmas vacation was excluded from the time allowed for setting down demurrers: Chy. Ord. 408; and see Blake v. Building & Loan Assoc., 10 P. R. 153; but under this Rule it is not.

Masters' reports, when confirmed.

Masters' Reports.—In order to confirm a Master's report, it must be filed as directed in Rule 84, fourteen days: see Rule 848. No part of this period must fall in the long vacation. Where it is desired to appeal from a report, the notice of appeal must be served before the report is filed, or within fourteen days from its filing, including the day of filing: Rule 848. The notice of appeal must be a seven days' notice and must be returnable within a calendar month from the date of the report: Rule 849; but if the month elapse before the filing, then fourteen days must still elapse from the filing, before the report can be confirmed. The word "report" includes certificates of Masters. The appeal is to be heard in Court: Rule 850. Formerly the Christmas vacation was excluded in the computation of the time allowed for appealing from a report: Blake v. Building & Loan Association, 10 P. R. 153; but this is no longer the case.

What reports require confirmation.

As a general rule, any report, or certificate, of the Master, which may be the subject of appeal, requires confirmation before it can be acted on, or become absolute.

A certificate of a Master as to the insufficiency of accounts filed before him requires confirmation: Foster v. Morden, 9 P. R. 70; but not a certificate that no accounts at all have been filed. See further as to reports requiring confirmation: Rule 848 note.

Motions to discharge orders to continue proceedings. Time for.

Moving to Discharge Order Under Rule 622.—Where an order of revivor was formerly issued, the practice is now to issue an order to continue the proceedings. The Christmas vacation is not excluded from the time allowed for moving against an order to continue proceedings. Fourteen days from service are allowed for moving against an order to continue proceedings: Rule 624.

Motions to add to, or vary, judgments.

Moving to add to, or vary, or set aside a Judgment.—This Rule applies to motions to add to, or vary, judgments, by parties served therewith, by direction of the Master, whether on being added as parties to an action under Rules 46, 126, or merely for the purpose of binding them by, and enabling them to attend the proceedings in the action under Rule 322. The time allowed for moving against a judgment by any party as served is fourteen days from the day of service: see Rules 48, 127, 322. The Christmas vacation is not excluded from the time allowed for making such motions.

Enlargement or abridg-

485. A Court or a Judge shall have power to enlarge or abridge the time appointed by these Rules, or any Rules relating to time, or fixed by any order enlarging time, for doing any act or taking any proceeding, upon such terms (if any) as the justice of the case may require; and any such enlargement may be ordered although the application for the same is not made until after the expiration of the time appointed or allowed. J. A. Rules 462, 514.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 57, r. 6, (1883, R. 967).

See Crom v. Samuel, 2 C. P. D. 21. In Wilkins v. Belford, 35 L. T. N. S. 622, Bacon, V.C., refused to extend time for delivering a counter-claim. It had not been delivered, through the gross neglect of the defendant's solicitor, and the application was made six months after a decree had been obtained, but immediately after the defendant discovered his solicitor's neglect.

In Norris v. Beasley, 35 L. T. N. S. 845, the Court said, "Parties must not exercise the jurisdiction of the Court and extend time by mutual consent. We do not accept such consent, but regard orders as to time as compulsory." The time was then extended by the Court.

In Hastings v. Hurley, 16 Ch. D. 734, the time for indorsement of the date of service under Rule 256 was extended.

In Dager v. Robertson, 9 P.R. 78, time for appealing from an Official Referee in Chambers under Rule 846, was extended where the time had expired through a misapprehension of the practice.

This Rule does not empower the Court to allow an application as to costs, which by Rule 1170, if made to a Judge, must be made at the trial, to be made at any later period: Baker v. Oakes, 2 Q. B. D. 171.

Where an order was made under Rule 646, dismissing an action for want of prosecution, unless a statement of claim should be delivered within a week, and no statement was delivered in the week so limited, it was held that the action was at an end, and that there was no jurisdiction to make an order subsequently extending the time for delivery of the statement of claim: Whistler v. Hancock, 3 Q. B. D. 83; and see Dunn v. McLean, 6 P. R. 156.

An order was made on the 6th of May dismissing an action for want of prosecution if the statement of claim was not delivered within fourteen days, and on the 19th of May the plaintiff took out a summons returnable the next day, the last of the fourteen days, for further time to deliver the statement of claim. The summons was, on the 20th, adjourned, by the consent of the parties in writing indorsed thereon, till the 21st, and on the 21st a Master made an order giving seven days more for delivery of the statement of claim. The Court rescinded the order on the ground that there was no jurisdiction to make it, the action being at an end on the 20th of May: King v. Davenport, 4 Q. B. D. 402.

On the 25th of March a Master made an order dismissing an action for want of prosecution, unless an affidavit in answer to interrogatories was filed on the 31st. The affidavit was not filed on that day; but on the day following a summons was taken out for further time to answer the interrogatories; it was held that it was still competent to the Court or a Judge to enlarge the time for moving to set aside or vary the order of the 26th of March: Burke v. Rooney, 4 C. P. D. 226.

The Court of Appeal has decided that a Judge has jurisdiction under this Rule to enlarge the time for appealing against an order dismissing the action for want of prosecution, even after the order has taken effect, and the action has therefore become dismissed; and that he has also jurisdiction, when he has so enlarged the time for appealing, to vary or amend the order dismissing the action, and in the exercise of such jurisdiction his discretion is not limited by fixed or arbitrary rules: Carter v. Stubbs, 6 Q. B. D. 116; see also Welpy v. Buhl, 3 Q. B. D. 80, 253, and note to Rule 646.

In the above cases, Whistler v. Hancock is recognized as correctly decided. In that case there was no jurisdiction to make the order asked, because the motion was to take some step in the cause, and was not directed to modifying the order for dismissal. There had been no order or application within the week to set aside or vary the order of dismissal, or to enlarge the time for appealing against the order of dismissal, and, that order existing and having taken effect, the cause was dead.

The last five above-mentioned English cases were considered in Newcombe v. McLuhan, 11 P. R. 461, and were not considered to stand in the way of a motion to vacate a judgment (signed on default of delivery of a statement of claim on a day previously fixed by order for its delivery), and to extend the time for delivering statement of claim.

By a Master's order an action was ordered to be dismissed, unless notice of trial should be given by a certain day. Through mistake of a solicitor's clerk notice of trial was not so delivered. A Judge in his discretion refused to extend the time, and the Court of Appeal refused to interfere: Gilder v. Morrison, 30 W. R. 815.

Where, within four days from a decision of a Master in Chambers, an appeal summons was taken out, and made returnable at a date after the expiration of the four days, but on the first day when any Judge would sit at Chambers, it was held that the time might be enlarged under this Rule: Gibbons v. London Financial Association, 4 C. P. D. 263.

The Rule only applies where a limited time is fixed for something to be done, and not where the Rules direct some act to be done before another: Pilcher v. Hinds, 11 Ch. D. 905.

The Court cannot, under this Rule, extend the time for renewing a writ where in the absence of such renewal the claim would be barred by the Statute of Limitations: Doyle v. Kaufman, 3 Q. B. D. 7, 340; but the time for issuing a concurrent writ may be extended, the original having been kept renewed so that it could be acted upon within the jurisdiction: Smallpage v. Yonge, 55 L. T. N. S. 44, distinguishing Doyle v. Kaufman. See also note to Rule 238.

See also notes to sec. 71 of the Act, supra p. 81.

Time for vacations in the High Court of Justice, and Court of Appeal.

486. The Vacations to be observed by the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal, shall be as follows:

The Long Vacation to consist of the months of July and August.

The Christmas Vacation to consist of the period from the 24th day of December to the 6th day of the following January, both days inclusive. J. A. Rule 582.

Unless under any Rule (such as 7, 483, 484), proceedings are prohibited during vacation they may lawfully be taken, e.g., taxation: see Cousineau v. City of London F. Ins. Co., 13 P. R. 36.

8. Examination for Discovery.

Discovery. General rules.

In general discovery is obtained by interlocutory proceedings as ancillary to the main object of an action, but an action for discovery may, in a proper case, still be brought: Orr v. Diaper, 4 Ch. D. 92; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644. For the grounds of objection to such an action: see Maddock's Chy. Pr., 3rd ed., 268. An action for discovery in aid of proceedings in a foreign Court cannot be maintained: Dreyfus v. The Peruvian Guano Co., 41 Ch. D. 151.

The Judicature Act has made no alteration in the right of the parties to discovery by examination: see Atty.-Gen. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519; also Hannings v. Williamson, 10 Q. B. D. 459, where it was held that in an action for penalties the plaintiff could not administer interrogatories as he had not the right before the Act: also Jones v. Jones, 22 Q. B. D. 425; Martin v. Treacher, 34 W. R. 315; 54 L. T. N. S. 7; Whiteley v. Barley, 56 L. J. Q. B. 312; but the amount payable under the Copyright Act, 1842, for each representation of a musical publication copyright, was held not to be an action for penalties, and therefore discovery was allowable: Adams v. Batley, 18 Q. B. D. 625. Rule 487.

The general rules as to privilege in evidence apply in examinations for discovery, and in the production and inspection of documents.

The plaintiff is entitled to examine in order to ascertain what title the defendant is setting up against him. This does not come within the ground of privilege: Cayley v. Sandycraft, 33 W. R. 577.

A party has the right to examine for discovery, not only for the purpose of obtaining information from the opposite party as to material facts which are not within his own knowledge, and are within the knowledge of the opposite party, but also for the purpose of obtaining from the opposite party, admissions which will make it unnecessary for him to enter into evidence of the facts admitted: Atty.-Gen. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519; Hellier v. Ellis, W. N. 1884, 9; see Colter v. McPherson, 12 P. R. 630; Humphries v. Taylor Drug Co., 39 Ch. D. 693.

An executor pleading plene administravit was held bound to disclose particulars of the real and personal estate: St. George v. St. George, 19 L. R. Ir. 225.

There is no distinction as regards the right to discovery between actions of ejectment and other actions: Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Cas. 217; Daniel v. Ford, W. N. 1883, 27, 52.

The old practice in Chancery was for the bill to contain interrogatories, to which the defendant was bound to give full answers upon oath; and, on the other hand, the defendant could only avail himself of the plaintiff's oath by filing a cross-bill containing like interrogatories. This practice was changed in this Province by the General Orders of the 3rd of June, 1853, which substituted an oral examination of each party at the instance of his opponent. The Orders for this purpose were afterwards embodied in the Consolidated Chy. Orders 138-148. By The Administration of Justice Act, a similar practice was provided for the Courts of Common Law: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, sec. 156, et seq., as amended by 41 Vict. c. 8, ss. 8, 9. In some particulars the Chy. Orders differed from the statute; and the original J. A. Rules left the old practice under both on this subject in force. Former practice.

The Con. Rules formulate a practice in part adopted from the Chy. Orders and in part from the Common Law Procedure Act, so that the difficulties which formerly were created by the double provision on the subject (as to which see Maclennan's, Jud. Act, 2nd ed., 353), no longer exist.

487. Any party to an action or issue whether plaintiff or defendant, or in the case of a body corporate, any one who is or has been one of the officers of such body corporate, may without any special order for the purpose be orally examined before the trial touching the matters in question in the action by any party adverse in point of interest; and may be compelled to attend and testify in the same manner, upon the same terms, and subject to the same rules of examination, as any witness except as hereinafter provided. See Chy. O. 138; R. S. O. c. 50, s. 156. Examination of parties for discovery.

Parties adverse in point of interest.—Under the English Ord, 31, r. 1, providing for the examination of the "opposite party or parties," it has been held that a party added by the defendant in a counter-claim, is not an opposite Who may be examined.

4874a | But no such examination shall take place during the long vacation unless upon the order of a Judge Rule 1333 party as regards the plaintiff: Molloy v. Kilby, 15 Ch. D. 162; but see Bradley v. Clark, 9 P. R. 410; 19 C. L. J. 193. But a third party, who has been notified by the defendant under Rules 328, 329, and has appeared and obtained leave to defend, is entitled to examine the plaintiff in the same manner as an original defendant: McAllister v. Bishop of Rochester, 5 C. P. D. 194: Eden v. Weardale Iron Co. 34 Ch. D. 223; and the plaintiff is entitled to examine him; Bradley v. Clark, 9 P. R. 410; 19 C. L. J. 193.

If the issues between co-defendants are material to the case of the plaintiff, or to the character of the relief he seeks, he may examine a defendant upon them, though there is no issue between that defendant and himself: Alexander v. Diamond, 9 P. R. 274. A defendant whose interest is identical with that of the plaintiff is a party adverse in point of interest to his co-defendant, and may be examined by such co-defendant; and where the plaintiff's solicitor is present at such examination the depositions may be read against the plaintiff: Moore v. Boyd, 8 P. R. 413. A disclaiming defendant charged with complicity in a fraud was held to be properly questioned as to the fraud: McFarland v. McFarland, 9 P. R. 73.

Officers of corporations.

Officers of Corporations.—The examination of an officer or past officer, or member of a corporation in England is obtained under a Rule (Ord. 31, r. 5) not adopted here, and sometimes by making him a defendant: see Manchester Val de Travers Paving Co. v. Slagg, W. N. 1882, 127; Berkeley v. Discount Co., 13 Ch. D. 99.

Under the practice in Ontario, under the above Rule, a member of a Co., not being an officer or ex-officer, cannot be examined unless a party and it is improper to make an officer of a Co. a party merely for the purpose of discovery: Rule 307.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 156, in regard to the right to examine officers was the same as the present Rule, and under these provisions, the sub-editor or assistant editor of a newspaper has been held to be an officer examinable for discovery in action of libel: Maitland v. Globe Printing Co., 9 P. R. 370; so also the chief engineer of a Ry. Co.: Oakley v. Toronto G. & B. Ry., 6 P. R. 253; a station master of a Railway Co. in an action for not delivering goods shipped: Ramsay v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 48; the locomotive superintendent, and locomotive foreman of a Ry. Co. in an action for damage caused by sparks from a locomotive: Moxley v. Canada Atlantic Ry. Co., 15 S. C. R. 145; and in an action for price of goods which a defendant refused to accept as being worthless on their arrival: Milner v. Clark and G. T. Ry. Co., 3 C. L. T. 215; but not an engine driver or paymaster: McLean v. G. W. Ry. Co., 7 P. R. 358; or a tie inspector: Dalziel v. G. T. Ry. Co., 6 P. R. 307; or surveyors usually employed by a municipality, but not formally appointed officers thereof: Meek v. Yarmouth, 9 C. L. T. 373.

An order was made to examine the agent of a bank, where the contract in question was alleged to have been made by him on the bank's behalf: Consolidated Bank v. Neilon, 7 P. R. 251; an architect of defendants in an action for price of work and materials in erecting a building, where defendants themselves could give no information: Smith v. Clarke, 12 P. R. 217; a local agent of an Insurance Co. who procured the application for the insurance in question in the action: Hartnell v. Canada Mutual Aid Co., 12 P. R. 401.

It would seem that several officers of a corporation may be examined where different matters are peculiarly within the knowledge of different officers: see Compagnie Financière, etc. v. Peruvian Guano Co., 28 Sol. Jour. 410.

In Goring v. London Mutual Fire Ins. Co., 10 P. R. 642, it was held that a local agent who received applications for premiums, and issued interim receipts, and his successor who had charge of the agency when the fire occurred were properly examinable for discovery as officers; and in an action upon a life policy the local agent of an insurance company who procured the application for insurance was held to be examinable for discovery: Hartnell v. Canada Mutual Aid Assocn., 12 P. R. 401; and in an action against a corporation for negligence, the servant of the defendants who was guilty of the alleged negligence was also held to be examinable: Odell v. City of Ottawa, 12 P. R. 446; so also the conductor on a train on which an accident occurred which was the subject of the action: Leitch v. Grand Trunk R. W. Co., 12 P. R. 541, 671; and an officer of a company called as a witness as the first trial of an action may, pending a second trial, be examined under this Rule: see Leitch v. Grand Trunk R. W. Co., 12 P. R. 671. Rule 487.

Quære, whether a person may be an officer examinable for discovery, but not one whose evidence taken upon such examination will bind the company: Goring v. London Mutual, etc., supra; Hartnett v Canada Mutual Aid Assocn., 12 P. R. 401.

As to the time for making the examination: see post Rule 489.

How attendance procured.—Where a party resided in Quebec, a subpœna requiring his attendance for examination in Ontario was ordered to issue under C. S. C., c. 79, s. 4; Moffat v. Prentice, 6 P. R. 33; Bank of British North America v. Eddy, 19 C. L. J. 192; and see Morell v. Morrison, 6 P. R. 210. But such an order will not be granted ex parte: Moffatt v. Prentice, supra; and see Dewalt v. Hughitt, 7 P. R. 323. Under the subpœna he may be compelled to attend at such place as in the opinion of the Court is most convenient, and not necessarily the nearest to his place of abode: Smith v. Babcock, 9 P. R. 97; Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 9 P. R. 396. The party desiring the examination is also entitled to a commission: Stratford v. G. W. Ry. Co., 6 P. R. 91. How attendance procured.

Where the party is out of the jurisdiction elsewhere than in Quebec, a Special Examiner may, by order, be appointed, to take the examination: see Rule 524; or a commission may be issued: Banque Franco-Egyptienne v. Lutscher, W. N. 1879, 183; 41 L. T. N. S. 468; 28 W. R. 133; see also Nadin v. Bassett, 25 Ch. D. 21; but there is no authority to proceed without an order, and by subpœna only: see Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 9 P. R. p. 399.

See also Rule 524.

The party to be examined must be served with a subpœna, and paid proper witness fees: McMurray v. G. T. Ry., 3 Chy. Ch. 130; Vardon v. Vardon, 7 P. R. 436. A subpœna dated prior to the time when the party issuing it was entitled to examine the party served therewith, is irregular: McMurray v. G. T. Ry., supra. The solicitor of the party to be examined should also be served with a copy of the examiner's appointment: Fowler v. Boulton, 12 Gr. 437.

The solicitor of the party to be examined is entitled to forty-eight hours' notice of the examination: Rule 491, but the party himself, where he has a solicitor, is only entitled to reasonable notice according to circumstances: Wilson v. Cowen, 19 C. L. J. 140; 3 C. L. T. 216; Bolkow v. Foster, 7 P. R. 388; see Re N. Wheal Exmouth Mining Co., 31 Beav. 628; and Lynskey v. Can. Pacific Ry. Co., 4 C. L. T. 93; but where a party who has no solicitor is required to attend, he should have forty-eight hours' notice: Watson v. Ham, 1 Chy. Ch. 293.

Where the party to be examined is a resident out of the jurisdiction but temporarily present within the jurisdiction, and about to return to his home, $1 is an insufficient witness fee on which to detain him five days in order to attend the examination: Bolkow v. Foster, 7 P. R. 388; but it may be sufficient if the party served make no objection to its sufficiency: see Smith v. Greey, 10 P. R. 345; Comstock v. Harris, 12 P. R. 17; Parker v. Meriden, 7 C. L. T. 112.

A party taking out an order to examine and failing to appear on an appointment thereunder, loses the benefit of the order and must obtain a new one: Ferguson v. Eliott, 7 P. R. 7. When an examination is adjourned sine die re-service of an appointment and payment of conduct money is necessary in order to compel attendance: Whitehead v. Harte, (Mr. Dalton, 22 June, 1882,) Globe. The party is compellable to re-attend although he has signed the depositions and does not consent to the adjournment: Re Metropolitan Brush Co., 51 L. T. N. S. 816; 54 L. J. Chy. 253.

The Examination.—The Examiner's office is not a public Court, and he has no discretion to admit the public, if objected to by any of the parties: Re Western of Canada O. L. & W. Co., 6 Ch. D. 109; see also Re Cambrian Co., Examiner's office not a public Court.

Rule 488. 51 L. J. Chy. 221; Re Grey's Brewery Co., 25 Ch. D. 400. The examining counsel has no right to have a clerk to assist him if the opposite party objects: Hands v. U. C. Furniture Co., 12 P. R. 292.

Exclusion of parties. Where several parties attend for examination, the Examiner may exclude those in the same interest, while the others are under examination: Culverwell v. Birney, 10 P. R. 575; Sirewright v. Sirewright, 8 P. R. 81; Sadlier v. Smith, 14 C. L. J. 30; but one of them should remain for the purpose of instructing counsel, subject to his being first examined: Sirewright v. Sirewright, 8 P. R. 81; and the Examiner has a discretion as to the order of their examination, where several are in attendance for examination: Stuart v. Balkis, 32 W. R. 676; 53 L. J. Chy. 791; and his discretion extends even to the exclusion of the examinant's solicitor if his presence interferes, in the Examiner's opinion, with the execution of his duty as Examiner: Hands v. U. C. Furniture Co., 12 P. R. 292. The refusal to comply with the Examiner's ruling is a contempt of Court: Sadlier v. Smith, 14 C. L. J. 30. A foundation must be laid in the pleadings for questions asked on the examination: Dickson v. Corrie, 2 Chy. Ch. 242; Nicholl v. Elliott, 3 Gr. 536; Proctor v. Grant, 9 Gr. 31.

The party examined may be required to produce books and papers: Rol [illegible]93, 497, but books in constant use need not be produced until it is decided [illegible]re necessary; when the Examiner may adjourn the examination until [illegible] produced: Comstock v. Harris, 12 P. R. 17.

If documents are produced the examining party is entitled to have them marked as exhibits: Hands v. U. C. Furniture Co., 12 P. R. 292.

The party may be examined under this Rule, and may be subsequently cross-examined on his affidavit on production, as of course. Usually it is advisable to postpone the examination until after the affidavit on production has been filed. The issuing of a subpœna duces tecum as a substitute for an order for production is not to be encouraged: per Boyd, C., Lavery v. Wolfe, 10 P. R. 488; 20 C. L. J. 410. If the examination is unnecessary, or vexatious, the party taking it may have to pay, or at all events be disallowed the costs of it: Dobson v. Dobson, 7 P. R. 256.

Where the examination is taken before a Local Registrar, or other officer paid by salary, the fees are payable in stamps: Denmark v. McConaghy, 8 P. R. 136; Jud. Act, s. 125, (11); but Deputy Clerks are entitled to fees in money for their own use, for such examinations: Ib. s. 125, (6).

Place of examination. Place of Examination.—The Examination must usually be had before a Master, Local Registrar, or Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or Special Examiner, in the county where the party to be examined resides: Rule 49, but for special reasons, to be shown on an application in Chambers, he may be ordered to attend elsewhere: Rule 492; Gallagher v. Gairdner, 2 Chy. Ch. 480; McDermid v. McDermid, Ib., 371; Campbell v. Tucker, 7 P. R. 135; Kahn v. Redford, 3 Chy. Ch. 55; and note as to this case Cooper's Digest, 1873, p. 111.

Party benefitted. 488. A person for whose immediate benefit an action is prosecuted or defended is to be regarded as a party for the purpose of examination. J. A. Rule 224.

Same as Eng. Ord. 139; it is not among the English Rules.

A person to be examined, etc., must be directly interested: Menzies v. Toronto & Ottawa, Globe, 1st Oct., 1881. An order was made, where it appeared, on affidavit, that the plaintiff was agent for his wife as to part of the subject matter of the suit: Bowman v. Sutherland, Globe, 10th Sept., 1881.

In Johnson v. McIntosh, 3 C. L. T. 313, J. L., was trustee for the E. estate for twenty years when the plaintiff was appointed in his place. The action involved the consideration of matters during the trusteeship of J. L., and as to which the plaintiff was ignorant, and the E. estate was indebted to J. L., so that if the plaintiffs succeeded J. L. would be benefitted. An order was made under this Rule for examination of J. L.

See also Bradley v. Clarke, in note to Rule 509.

488(a) Where any action is brought by an assignee of any chose in action, the assignor of such chose in action may be examined for discovery—Rule 1338.

Rule 489.

An order under this Rule for the examination of the plaintiff's daughter, in an action of seduction was refused, but under special circumstances was granted under Rule 566: Turner v. Kyle, 18 C. L. J. 402; 2 C. L. T. 598. See notes to that Rule.

The examination of a debtor, who had effected insurance and assigned the policy for the benefit of his creditors, was ordered in actions by one creditor and the trustee for the benefit of other creditors: MacDonald v. Norwich Union; Clarkson v. F. Ins. Assn., 10 P. R. 462.

See Minkler v. M. McMillan, 10 P. R. 506, where proof of the interest of the party sought to be examined was unsatisfactory, but the order was made with the qualification that it was only to be used for the purpose of discovery.

Time when examination may be held.

489. The examination on the part of a plaintiff may take place at any time after the statement of defence of the party to be examined has been delivered or after the time for delivering the same has expired; and the examination on the part of a defendant may take place at any time after such defendant has delivered his statement of defence; and the examination of a party to an issue, at any time after the issue has been filed. See Chy. O. 140.

Party may be examined as a witness.

A party may be examined as a witness in support of a motion, although the time for examining him under this Rule may not have arrived: McClennaghan v. Buchanan, 7 Gr. 92.

Time for examination by plaintiff.

Under this Rule it will be noted that the right of the plaintiff to examine only arises after the statement of defence, or after the time for delivering the same has expired: see Davis v. Wickson, 9 P. R. 219. He is not obliged to wait until all of several defendants have filed their statements of defence. Formerly, if instead of answering the defendant demurred, the right of examination did not arise until after the demurrer had been disallowed, or if allowed with leave to amend, then not until after amendment and the time for answering the amended bill had expired: see Chance v. Henderson, 1 Chy. Ch. 30; and it would seem, under this Rule, that if the defendant demurs to the whole statement of claim, instead of filing a statement of defence, the right of examination is similarly postponed.

Time for examination by defendant.

The right of a defendant to examine the plaintiff under this Rule only arises after he has filed his statement of defence: a defendant who suffers the time for delivering a defence to elapse without delivering one, has no right to examine the plaintiff for discovery: Ashley v. Brenton, 13 P. R. 98.

Co-defendants need not be notified of examination of plaintiff.

A defendant is entitled to examine the plaintiff as soon as his own statement of defence is filed, he is not obliged to wait until those of his co-defendants, if any, are filed: Fowler v. Boulton, 12 Gr. 437. He need not notify his co-defendants of the examination: Ib.

The examination may be had, though the cause has been entered for trial: Clarke v. Hawke, 1 Chy. Ch. 346.

The examination under this Rule may be had as of course within the time prescribed by it, but under Rule 566 both the plaintiff and defendant may, upon a special application, for good cause shown, obtain leave to examine not only the opposite party before the period mentioned in this Rule, has arrived: Fiskin v. Chambertain, 9 P. R. 283; 18 C. L. J. 403; but also a witness, for the purpose of discovery: Turner v. Kyle, 18 C. L. J. 402; Hendrie v. Neelon, 2 C. L. T. 499; Smith v. Clarke, 12 P. R. 217; McMaster v. Mason, 12 P. R. 278; Megaw v. McDiarmid, 10 L. R. Ir. 376; but see Carnegie v. Federal Bank, 10 P. R. 69; Hovey v. Gilbert, 12 P. R. 114; and see Central News Co. v. Eastern Telegraph Co., 76 L. T. Jour. 242, where it was held that the attendance of a witness or the production of a document could only be ordered for the purpose of a particular motion, and not merely for discovery; and see Rosenheim v.

Silliman, 11 P. R. 7. An order obtained by plaintiff ex parte for the examination of the defendant before the time mentioned in this Rule had elapsed was set aside: Hovey v. Gilbert, 12 P. R. 114.

The defendant in an action to recover land is liable to be examined by the plaintiff for discovery: Ryell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Cas. 217; 48 L. T. N. S. 585; reversing S. C. 20 Ch. D. 484; 46 L. T. N. S. 752; and the fact that a defendant pleads that he is a "purchaser for value without notice" affords no ground for resisting discovery: Ind v. Emmerson, 56 L. T. N. S. 778. An examination for discovery may be had in an action for breach of promise of marriage: McLaughlin v. Carroll, 4 C. L. T. 498; and see R. S. O. 1887, c. 61, s. 6; and in an interpleader issue: Canada Perm. B. S. v. Forest, 6 P. R. 254; and see White v. Watts, 31 L. J. C. P. 381, and Rule 507 note.

Subpœna and appointment.

490. Whenever a party is entitled to examine another party he may procure an appointment therefor from the Local Registrar, Local Master, Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or a special examiner, in the County where the party to be examined resides, and the party to be examined, upon being served with a copy of the appointment and a subpœna, and upon payment of the proper fees, shall attend thereon and submit to examination. See J. A. Rule 598.

The fact that a witness could only speak Welsh, was held not to be a reason for having the examination before some person other than the Court Examiner, as he can have an interpreter: Marquess of Bute v. James, 33 Ch. D. 157.

For special reasons the examination may be specially ordered to be taken before some other person, and elsewhere than provided by this Rule: Rule 492; Gallagher v. Gairdner, 2 Chy. Ch. 480; McDermid v. McDermid, Ib., 372; Campbell v. Tucker, 7 P. R. 135; Kuhn v. Radford, 3 Chy. Ch. 55; Coop. Dig. 1873, p. 111.

Where a motion is made to compel attendance of a party who has not attended, or has attended and refused to be sworn, it must be proved that he was duly served with a copy of appointment and subpœna and was paid proper fees: McLean v. Bruce, 12 P. R. 602. Semble that the Examiner's certificate on these points would not be sufficient: Ib.

Service of appointment.

491. The party examining shall serve a copy of the appointment upon the solicitor of the party to be examined, if he has a solicitor in the cause, at least forty-eight hours before the examination. See J. A. Rule 598.

Sundays and other holidays are excluded in the computation of the 48 hours: see Rules 473, and 475, and Lovelace v. Harrington, 10 P. R. 157. Service on Saturday at 9:30 p.m. for Tuesday at 2 p.m. is insufficient: Senn v. Hewitt, 8 P. R. 70.

Order to examine.

492. Upon application to the Court or a Judge, an order may be made for the examination of any party liable to be examined as aforesaid before any other person or in any other county than those before mentioned, and upon service of a copy of the appointment of the person before whom the examination is to take place and a copy of the order upon the party to be examined, and upon payment of the proper fees he is to attend and submit to examination. A copy of the appointment shall be served upon the solicitor of the party at least forty-eight hours before the examination. Rules 493-496.

See note to Rule 487.

493. The party or person to be examined shall, if so required by notice, produce on the examination all books, papers and documents which he would be bound to produce at the trial under a subpœna duces tecum. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 161 part. Production of papers.

The proper mode of compelling production on an examination for discovery, where the witness neglects or refuses to produce, is for the Examiner to direct what documents are to be produced and to adjourn the examination. Process by subpœna duces tecum to get production of particular documents is not to be encouraged by treating non-production as contempt: Lavery v. Wolfe, 10 P. R. 488.

See Russell v. Macdonald, 12 P. R. 458.

494. Any party or officer so examined, may be further examined on his own behalf, or on behalf of the body corporate of which he is or has been an officer, in relation to any matter respecting which he has been examined in chief; and when one of several plaintiffs or defendants has been examined, any other plaintiff or defendant united in interest may be examined on his own behalf or on behalf of those united with him in interest, to the same extent as the party examined. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 156, (1). Chy. O. 141, 142. Parties and others may be examined on their own behalf.

495. Such explanatory examination shall be proceeded with immediately after the examination in chief, and not at any future period, except by leave of the Court or a Judge; and for the purposes of this and the preceding Rule, when the officer of a body corporate has been so examined as aforesaid on behalf of the body corporate, the body corporate shall be deemed to be fully represented by such officer. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 156 (2). When explanatory examination to take place.

496. Any party or person examined orally under the preceding Rules shall be subject to cross-examination and re-examination; and the examination, cross-examination and re-examination shall be conducted as nearly as may be in the mode in use on a trial. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 161. Mode of conducting examination.

A party admitting the possession of documents may be ordered to produce them.

497. A party to the action who admits, upon his examination, that he has in his custody or power any deed, paper, writing, or document relating to the matters in question in the cause, is to produce the same for the inspection of the party examining him upon the order of the Court or a Judge, or of the Deputy Clerk, Local Registrar, Special Examiner, or Local Master, before whom he is examined, and for that purpose a reasonable time is to be allowed. But no party shall be obliged to produce any deed, paper, writing, or document, which is privileged or protected from production. Chy. O. 147.

Where Master may order production.

The power of the Master, or Special Examiner, to order production of documents under Rule 497, is confined to cases where parties to the action admit the possession of such documents. Where the admission is made by an officer of a corporation, it would seem that the Master, and Examiner, have no power to make the order, and that an application in Chambers is necessary; see Rule 507. Production may be obtained under an order of course, as provided by Rule 508. The provisions of Rule 497 are intended to meet the case of a party who, having filed an affidavit in answer to an order to produce, on his subsequent cross-examination admits that he has other material documents which he has not produced. The examination may be adjourned for the purpose of enabling the party to comply with the Master's, or Examiner's order for production: Comstock v. Harris, 12 P. R. 17.

A party to the action examined under Rule 566 may also be ordered by the Examiner to produce documents by virtue of this Rule: Orpen v. Kerr, 11 P. R. 128.

Master's and Examiner's order for production appealable.

498. Either party may appeal from the order of the Deputy Clerk, Local Registrar, Master, or Examiner; and thereupon the Deputy Clerk, Local Registrar, Master, or Examiner, is to certify under his hand the question raised and the order made thereon. Chy. O. 148.

Appeal from order directing production.

An appeal from a Master is to be brought by notice of motion to be given within four days after the decision complained of, or such further time as may be allowed by a Judge: Rule 846; Dayer v. Robertson, 9 P. R. 78; but see McNeill v. McGregor, 3 C. L. T. 309. The appeal must be to a Judge in Chambers, and must be brought on to be heard, within nine days after the decision, or such further time as may be allowed by a Judge: Rule 846. In the Chancery Division such appeals are at present heard on Mondays, and in the other Divisions on Tuesdays and Fridays, except in vacation; Rule 211, the operation of which was suspended, has not yet been brought into force.

There is no Rule specially regulating appeals from Special Examiners, but it is presumed they should be brought and prosecuted in the same manner as appeals from Masters, under Rule 846.

As to documents privileged from production, see notes to Rule 513.

Penalty on witness refusing to attend or answer, etc.

499. Any party or person refusing or neglecting to attend at the time and place appointed for his examination, or refusing to be sworn or to answer any lawful question put to him by the examiner or by any party entitled so to do, or his counsel, solicitor or agent, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of Court and proceedings may be forthwith had by attachment. If a defendant, he shall be liable to have his defence, if any, struck out, and to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended; and the party examining may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order to that effect, and an order may be made accordingly. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 162; J. A. Rule 236; Chy. O. 144; 41 V. c. 8, s. 9. Rule 499.

This Rule is confined to three classes of cases (1) refusal or neglect to attend for examination, (2) refusal to be sworn, (3) refusal to answer lawful questions. This Rule renders a wilfully disobedient defendant liable to have his defence struck out: Haigh v. Haigh, 31 Ch. D. 478. And by Rule 648 a plaintiff refusing or neglecting to attend for examination, or to comply with any order for production or inspection of documents is liable to have his action dismissed: Republic of Liberia v. Imperial Bank, L. R. 9 Chy. 569; S. C., as Republic of Liberia v. Roye, 1 App. Cas. 139; Dunn v. McLean, 6 P.R. 156; Daneillier v. Myers, W. N. 1883, 58. Rule 648, however, does not cover the case of the plaintiff's refusal to be sworn, or his refusal to answer lawful questions.

By Rule 520 a party failing to comply with an order for production, or inspection of documents, is liable to attachment, and, if a defendant, to have his defence struck out.

Upon failure of a plaintiff to attend for examination, the action may be stayed for a definite time and not indefinitely, to enable him to attend: Comstock v. Harris, 12 P. R. 17.

A party who has been ordered to attend for further examination, after a refusal to answer questions, is in contempt if he does not so attend, but that is not a bar to his appealing from the order: McGregor v. McDonald, 11 P. R. 518.

The defaulting party is entitled to notice of a motion to commit: Rule 879, or to strike out defence; and it would seem that a notice to commit should be personally served: Mann v. Perry, 44 L. T. N. S. 248; 50 L. J. Chy. 251; Weir v. Matheson, 1 Chy. Ch. 244; see, however, Rule 521. Two days' notice would seem to be sufficient in all cases: Rule 479. Proceedings in default of production.

The party must have been regularly subpœnaed: McMurray v. G. T. Ry. Co., 3 Chy. Ch. 130, and paid his witness fees: Bolkow v. Foster, 7 P. R. 388, or no order can be made against him; McLean v. Bruce, 12 P. R. 602.

A motion to strike out defence is not the proper course, where default has been made by an officer of a Co. in attending for examination. The remedy is to commit the defaulting officer: Badgerow v. G. T. Ry. Co., 13 P. R. 132.

A motion may be made under the above Rule to commit either a plaintiff or defendant for (1) refusing or neglecting to attend, (2) refusing to be sworn, (3) refusing to answer any lawful question.

For any of the above causes a defendant is liable to have his defence struck out. Either of the above motions may be made without a preliminary motion to compel him to attend at his own expense. But in the case of a plaintiff he would appear to be liable to have his action dismissed only for refusal or neglect to attend: see Rule 648. In the case therefore of a plaintiff attending, but refusing to be sworn, or to answer any lawful questions, the proper course would seem to be to move for an order to compel him to attend again at his own expense and submit to examination, or in default that his action be dismissed. When such an order has been obtained and disobeyed, the motion to dismiss the action may be made ex parte: Dunn v. McLean, 6 P. R. 156.

It has been held that proceedings to attach must be taken before the Court and not before a Judge in Chambers: Merchants Bank v. Pierson, 8 P. R. 123; but this decision does not seem in practice to have been adhered to. The motion is made to a Judge in Chambers in a case of non-compliance with a præcipe order, or order in Chambers; and an application to the Court is only necessary in case of breach of an order of the Court: see Klein v. Union Ins. Co., 3 C. L. T. 601, and note to Rule 542.

The Master in Chambers cannot entertain applications to commit for non-production: Rule 30: Keefe v. Ward, 9 P. R. 220; 18 C. L. J. 166; 2 C. L. T. 260; neither can a Local Judge: see Rule 41; or Local Master: Rule 138.

Restoring action dismissed for non-production.

Where an action has been dismissed it will not be restored unless perhaps when the claim would otherwise be barred by the dismissal, e.g., by the Statute of Limitations: Dunn v. McLean, 6 P. R. 156; and see Hodgson v. Paxton, 2 Chy. Ch. 398; Bank of Montreal v. Wilson, 2 Chy. Ch. 117; Davy v. Davy, 2 Chy. Ch. 26; nor where the defence has been struck out, and judgment signed, will the judgment be set aside: Haigh v. Haigh, 31 Ch. D. 478.

As to motions to commit for unsatisfactory answers: see Smith v. Greey, 4 C. L. T. 589. An objection to answer incriminating questions should be taken by the witness, but the privilege may be claimed on a motion to commit, though not claimed before the examiner: Hall v. Gowanlock, 12 P. R. 604. The penal provisions of 13 Eliz., c. 5, do not afford any ground for refusing to answer questions put regarding a fraudulent transaction: Dunsford v. Carlisle, 10 P. R. 449.

On a motion to commit for non-production of books, etc., pursuant to a subpœna duces tecum on an examination for discovery, it was held that the proper course was to get the examiner to direct what should be produced, and adjourn the examination for procuring the documents: Lavery v. Wolfe 10 P. R. 488; Comstock v. Harris, 12 P. R. 17.

Where the defendant did not appear nor deliver any statement of defence after being served with a statement of claim, and a summons for him to attend to be examined touching the matters in question (delivering up to plaintiff of books and documents in his possession) was likewise disregarded; it was held, that, notwithstanding that he was a party to the action, he must be considered as being summoned as a witness, and must be dealt with accordingly, and that his disobedience was not disobedience of an order of Court. An order was therefore made under Eng. Rule of 1883, No. 495, (not adopted in Ontario) for his attendance for examination at his own expense, for disobedience of which an attachment might issue: Powell v. Nivett, 55 L. T. N. S. 728.

This Rule does not apply to cases of disobedience of a notice to produce for inspection under Rule 574: see Merchants' Bank v. Pierson, 8 P. R. 123; an order under Rule 517 must first be obtained.

An order for production need not now be indorsed with the warning to the party, sometimes employed under the former Chancery Practice: Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 360; Wallace v. Graham, 11 L. R. Ir. 369.

It is otherwise in England under the Rules of 1883, O., 41, r. 5, even in case of an order for production which may be served on the solicitor: see Hampden v. Wallis, 26 Ch. D. 746.

For the proceedings on a motion to attach, see further notes to Rules 878, 879.

It is not imperative on the Court to act under this Rule: Kennedy v. Lyell, W. N. 1882, 137. It was said in one case that the Rule is a penal one, and only to be acted on in last resort: Lush, J., in Twycross v. Grant, W. N. 1875, 201, 229; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 115; see Fisher v. Hughes, 25 W. R. 528; Pike v. Keene, 24 W. R. 322; 35 L. T. N. S. 341.

Where the plaintiffs were husband and wife, and the wife complied with an order for production, but the husband absconded without complying, Hall, V.C., refused to dismiss the action under this Rule: Hartley v. Owen, W. N. 1876, 193; 34 L. T. N. S. 752.

For other cases in which the power has been exercised: see Eyre v. Hughes, 25 W. R. 528; and Rep. of Liberia v. Roye, 1 App. Cas. 139. In the last case it was held that where any step ought to be taken in a cause, which in the judgment of the Court was necessary to facilitate the decision of the cause, and default had been made, the former Court of Chancery had power, if the party in default was the plaintiff, to dismiss the bill: see also Fraser v. Burrows, 2 Q. B. D. 624. Rules 500, 501.

Compliance was held excused by illness: Lord Cardwell v. Tomlinson, 33 W. R. 814; 52 L. T. N. S. 746.

Demurrer to questions.

500. If the party or person under examination demurs or objects to any question or questions put to him, the question or questions so put, and the demurrer or objection of the witness thereto, shall be taken down by the examiner and transmitted by him to the office of the Court where the pleadings are filed to be there filed; and the validity of such demurrer or objection shall be decided by the Court or a Judge; and the costs of and occasioned by such demurrer or objection shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s 163.

A party may object to answer questions, tending to criminate the party under examination or the husband or wife of such party: Fisher v. Owen, 8 Ch. D. 645; Allhusen v. Labouchere, 3 Q. B. D. 654; Mitchell v. Little, 10 P. R. 265. The objection must be made on oath: Webb v. East, 5 Ex. D. 23; Power v. Ellis, 6 S. C. R., but if not taken before the Examiner the privilege, it seems, may still be claimed on a motion to commit: Hall v. Gowanlock, 12 P. R. 204; it is sufficient if the person swear that the answer to the question 'might' tend to criminate him: Lamb v. Munster, 10 Q. B. D. 110. That another person may be exposed to an action, is not a ground for refusing to answer: Tetley v. Easton, 25 L. J. C. P. 293.

Where interrogatories under the English practice were administered to the guardian ad litem of a lunatic defendant, it was held that he need not answer them, as he was not a party and not called upon to make admissions against defendant's interest: Ingram v. Little, W. N. 1883, 124.

There is no distinction as regards the right to discovery between actions of ejectment and other actions; and a plaintiff is therefore entitled to discovery as to all matters relevant to his own and not exclusively to the defendant's case: Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Cas. 217; Daniel v. Ford, W. N. 1883, 27, 52. This is not a new right, however; the right to discovery is unaffected by The Judicature Act, Ib., and Hunning v. Williamson, 10 Q. B. D. 459, 462.

Depositions how to be taken down.

501. Subject to the two next following Rules the depositions taken upon any such oral examination as aforesaid shall be taken down in writing by the examiner, not ordinarily by question and answer, but in the form of a narrative, expressed in the first person; and when completed shall be read over to the party examined, and shall be signed by him in the presence of the parties, or of such of them as may think fit to attend.

Signing depositions.

(a) In case the party or person examined refuses or is unable to sign the depositions, then the examiner shall sign the same; and the examiner may upon every examination state any special matter to the Court if he thinks fit.

Taking down questions.

(b) It shall be in the discretion of the examiner to put down any particular question or answer, if there appears to be any special reason for so doing, and any question or questions objected to shall at the request of either party be noticed or referred to by the examiner in or upon the depositions; and he shall state his opinion thereon to the counsel, solicitors, agents or parties, and if requested by either party, he shall on the face of the depositions refer to such statement. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 164.

Shorthand.

502. In case of an examination before the trial, or otherwise than at the trial of an action, if the examining party desires to have such examination taken in shorthand, he shall be entitled to have it so taken at the place of examination, except where the Court or a Judge sees fit to order otherwise. J. A. Rule 219.

Question and answer.

503. Where an examination in a cause or proceeding in any Court is taken by the examiner, or any other duly authorized person, in shorthand, the examination may be taken down by question and answer; and in such case it shall not be necessary for the depositions to be read over to, or signed by, the person examined, unless the Judge so directs where the examination is taken before a Judge, or in other cases unless any of the parties so desires.

Certified copy to have effect of original depositions.

(a) A copy of the depositions so taken, certified by the person taking the same as correct, shall for all purposes have the same effect as the original depositions in ordinary cases. 41 V. c. 8, s. 8.

Depositions to be returned to Court.

504. Wherever, by virtue of these Rules, an examination of any party or witness has been taken before a Judge of the High Court or of any County Court, or before any officer or other person authorized or appointed to take the same, the depositions taken down by the examiner shall, at the request of any party interested and upon payment of his fees, be returned to and kept in the office of the Court in which the proceedings are carried on; and office copies of such depositions may be given out, and the examinations and depositions certified under the hand of the Judge or other officer or person taking the same, or a copy thereof certified under the hand of the proper officer, shall, without proof of the signature, be received and read in evidence, saving all just exceptions. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 165.

Office copies.

Where a defendant, before delivery of defence, obtained an order for examination of an officer of the plaintiff for discovery, it was held that the depositions taken under the order might be read by the defendant as evidence at the trial: Union Bank v. Starrs, 13 P. R. 108. Rules 505-507.

505. Every Judge, officer or other person taking examinations under these Rules, may, and if need be shall, make a special report to the Court in which such proceedings are pending, touching such examination and the conduct or absence of any witness or other person thereon or relating thereto; and the Court shall institute such proceedings and make such order upon such report as justice may require, and as may be instituted and made in any case of contempt of the Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 166. Examiners may make a special report to the Court.

506. Any person may, at the trial of an action or issue, use in evidence any part of the examination of the opposite parties; provided always, that in such case the Judge may look at the whole of the examination, and if he is of opinion that any other part is so connected with the part to be so used that the last mentioned part ought not to be used without such other part, he may direct such other part to be put in evidence. J. A. Rule 239. Part of examination to be evidence.

This Rule is the same in substance as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 23 (1883, R. 366), and is an adaptation of that Rule (which provides for an examination on interrogatories) to the case of an examination viva voce. In the Court of Chancery of this Province, and in the Common Law Courts of both England and Ontario, a party could use no part of the examination of his opponent without using the whole. The consequence was that one of the great uses of an examination of a party, viz., the saving of expense by proving by admission the facts not really in dispute, was prevented; as such admissions in the examination often stood side by side with other statements which the examining party could not safely make part of his case.

See Lyell v. Kennedy, 50 L. T. N. S. 34, in which under the corresponding English Rule it was said that when an admission is read everything ought to be read which is fairly connected with that admission.

Where the plaintiff, without objection, put in the defendant's depositions and referred to certain parts, and the Judge in charging the jury referred to other parts, it was held that he could properly do so, as the whole depositions were used in evidence; Dougall v. Stapleton, 12 Ont. 206.

It may be observed that this Rule speaks "of the examination of the opposite parties;" an officer of a company who is not himself a party, does not strictly come within the terms of the Rule. See notes to Rules 504 and 487.

9. Production and Inspection of Documents.

507. It shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge at any time pending any action or proceeding, to order the production by any party thereto, upon oath, of such of the documents in his possession or power relating to any matter in question in such action or proceeding, as the Discovery before and after close of pleadings.

Rule 508. Court or Judge thinks right; and the Court may deal with such documents, when produced, in such manner as appears just. J. A. Rule 221.

The same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 11 (1883, R. 356). It enables the Court or Judge to order production at any time during the pendency of the action or proceeding. The next Rule, 508, enables either party, after the defence is delivered, or, when the application is on behalf of a plaintiff, after the time for delivering the defence has expired, to obtain an order of course for this purpose upon præcipe.

In England, where there is no such Rule restricting the time for the order to produce, and the order is on special application, the current of decision is in favour of not allowing a plaintiff discovery before statement of claim, nor in general before defence, nor a defendant before defence delivered: see Cashin v. Craddock, 2 Ch. D. 140; Hancock v. Guerin, 4 Ex. D. 3; Webster v. Whewall, 15 Ch. D. 120; Mellor v. Thompson, 49 L. T. N. S. 222; but the Court has a discretion to direct earlier discovery with any due restrictions: Edelston v. Russell, 57 L. T. N. S. 927.

Evidence will not be entered into on a motion under this Rule, but the Court will form its conclusions upon the pleadings and any proceedings already taken: Downing v. Falmouth, 37 Ch. D. 234.

Under the present Rule production by defendant was ordered, before defence, where the plaintiff had been awarded an injunction restraining the sale of chattels and had been put on terms to go down to trial, at such a time that it was probable that the case would be tried before production could be obtained in the ordinary way: Coots v. Coots, 3 C. L. T. 314. So, under a similar Irish Rule, where it was required by defendants to ascertain what damage the plaintiff had sustained, with a view to payment of money into Court: McGaw v. McDiarmid, 10 L. R. Ir. 376. See also Jourdain v. Palmer, L. R. 1 Ex. 102; Re Sutcliffe, 50 L. J. Chy. 574; 29 W. R. 732; 17 C. L. J. 367; Whyte v. Ahrens, 26 Ch. D. 717.

Interpleader. In interpleader proceedings and the like, where there were no pleadings, the provisions of original Rule 222 (now 508) did not in terms apply, and production of documents was sometimes obtained under original Rule 221 (LOW 507): see Philipps v. Philipps, 27 W. R. 939: 40 L. T. N. S. 815; and White v. Walls, 31 L. J. C. P. 381; but in Dominion S. & I. Co. v. Kilroy, 12 P. R. 19, it was held that after the delivery of an interpleader issue, an order for production might issue on præcipe, and such order should be issued, and the record passed, in the principal office at Toronto, as no locality is pointed out by the usual proceedings in interpleader. Rule 508 now in terms applies to the parties to an issue.

Order for production of documents. 508. Any party may, after the defence is delivered, or a plaintiff may, after the time for delivering the defence has expired, (a) [and any party to an issue] may, after the issue has been filed, obtain an order of course upon præcipe directing the adverse party within 10 days after the service thereof, to make discovery on oath of the documents which are or have been in his possession or power, relating to any matters in question in the action; and to produce and deposit the same with the proper officer for the usual purposes, and such party shall make discovery and produce and deposit the documents accordingly, without further notice. J. A. Rule 222 and 513. See Dale v. Hall, 9 P. R. 106.

(a) These words mean that as each defendant puts in his defence or the time for doing so expires, that defendant becomes liable to give and entitled to obtain production. Rule 508.

The words in brackets are new.

See notes to Rules 507 and 511.

In an interpleader proceeding the order will be issued from the proper principal office in Toronto: see Dominion S. & I. Co. v. Kilroy, 13 P. R. 19.

Rule 508 varies from the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 12 (1883, R. 354), and from the practice under the Common Law Procedure Act, but agrees substantially with the practice in Chancery under Chy. O. 134. The English Rule is not limited as this Rule is, with respect to the time of obtaining the order; and the English decisions thereon, such as Union Bank of London v. Manby, 13 Ch. D. 239, etc., will therefore not apply here. Nor does the English Rule permit the order to be obtained on præcipe, but requires an application, though not necessarily on affidavit, which, however, the Judge may require, if he sees fit: Johnson v. Smith, 36 L. T. N. S. 741. "Adverse party" to produce.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 1 (1883, R. 343), not adopted by the Ontario Act, provides for the examination of the "opposite party or parties" by interrogatories; and it has been held, that a person whom defendant, by his counterclaim, had made a defendant, was not "an opposite party" as between him and the plaintiff, so as to entitle him to examine the plaintiff under that Rule: Molloy v. Kilby, 15 Ch. D. 162; and there is no jurisdiction under the English Rules to make an order for discovery, except as between opposite parties: Brown v. Watkins, 16 Q. B. D. 125; see Shaw v. Smith, 18 Q. B. D. 193; third parties may become in the position of defendants and thus be under the Rule: Eden v. Weardale, 35 Ch. D. 287. The Ontario Rule 508 entitles any party to production from "the adverse party:" and Rule 487 enables a party to examine for discovery "any party adverse in point of interest," and it is probable that production may be obtained under this Rule from any party who might so be examined: see notes to Rule 487, supra; and Hamilton v. Nott, L. R. 16 Eq. 112; Kennedy v. Wakefield, 39 L. J. Chy. 827; 22 L. T. N. S. 645; 18 W. R. 884; and Brigham v. Bronson, 3 C. L. T. 311, where a defendant obtained production from a co-defendant adverse in interest.

On a special application, production may be obtained under Rule 507 from "any party" and at any stage, e.g. before defence: Mellor v. Thompson 49 L. T. N. S. 222.

In a petition of right the Crown is entitled to discovery of documents from the suppliant: Tomline v. The Queen, 4 Ex. D. 252.

Under an order obtained by one defendant, other defendants cannot compel production: Seymour v. Longworth, 3 Chy. Ch. 112.

Rule 509 provides that a third party, who has been served by the defendant, under Rule 329, and has appeared, shall for all purposes of and incident to the production of documents, and examination, be, as between him and such defendant, in the same situation as a defendant. A third party so served and appearing, is not on that ground entitled to an order for production as against the plaintiff under this Rule. But if directions are obtained under Rule 332, allowing him to defend as against the plaintiff, he is then in the same situation, with respect to the plaintiff, as any other defendant, and may obtain from, and be compelled to give discovery to the plaintiff: McAllister v. The Bishop of Rochester, 5 C. P. D. 194; Eden v. Weardale, 34 Ch. D. 223. Third parties.

Under an order for production by the plaintiff, the plaintiff on the record is the person to make the affidavit, and an affidavit from some beneficial plaintiff is not a compliance with the order: Wilson v. Ruffalovich, 7 Q. B. D. 553. By whom affidavit to be made.

Where a plaintiff of unsound mind sues by a next friend, the defendant is entitled to an affidavit of documents made by the next friend, or by some one acquainted with the facts: Travis v. Bell, 8 P. R. 550. In England, Higginson v. Hall, 10 Ch. D. 235, to the same effect was disapproved of in Dyke v. Stephens, 30 Ch. D. 189. A motion by the defendant was granted, that the next friend of an infant plaintiff might be ordered to make an affidavit in reference Infant, and lunatic, plaintiffs.

to documents in his possession in Crowe v. Bank of Ireland, 5 Ir. R., Eq. 578; but see Ingram v. Little, 11 Q. B. D. 251; and Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 48 L. T. N. S. 425; W. N. 1883, 60; 52 L. J. Chy. 399; and Dyke v. Stephens, 30 Ch. D. 189, decided under the English Rules 1875, O. 31, r. 12 (1883 R. 354), not adopted here, but which provides that any 'party' may apply to a Judge for an order directing any other 'party' to the action to make discovery on oath of the documents which are, or have been, in his possession, etc., relating to any matter in question in the action.

Where it is sought to remove a next friend of an infant, he cannot be compelled to give discovery under this Rule for this purpose: Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 31 W. R. 414. (For the conclusion of that matter see 50 L. T. N. S. 703.)

The next friend of a married woman is not bound to make the affidavit: Brown v. Capron, 6 P. R. 203; Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 1682.

In an action by a husband and wife, the wife suing in respect of her separate property and without a next friend, they must make affidavits as to what documents they, and each of them, have, an affidavit as to what they have jointly not being sufficient: Fendall v. O'Connell, 29 Ch. D. 899.

In other cases, where a plaintiff cannot make an affidavit, some proper person must do so for the plaintiff, and proceedings will be stayed meanwhile: Republic of Liberia v. Roye, 1 App. Cas. 139; see Prioleau v. U. S. America, L. R. 2 Eq. 659; U. S. America v. Wagner, L. R. 2 Chy. 582; Princess of Wales v. Earl of Liverpool, 1 Sw. 114; see also notes to Rules 507, 511. But it has been held that proceedings could not be stayed by a defendant in an action on a marine policy until the plaintiff had obtained an affidavit of documents from his assignor, who was not a party to the suit, nor under the plaintiff's control, within the jurisdiction: Fraser v. Burrows, 2 Q. B. D. 624.

Official liquidator. As to production of documents by an official liquidator: see Re Mutual Society, 22 Ch. D. 714.

Affidavit. See Rule 513 as to the form of the affidavit to be made in pursuance of the order to produce.

As to what documents a party is bound to produce, see notes to Rule 513.

Affidavit where no documents produced. An affidavit must be made, though the party has no documents to produce. It should not be made before the order to produce is issued: Kennedy v. Royal Ins. Co., 3 Chy. Ch. 489; see Dobson v. Dobson, 7 P. R. 258; and it should not in such case refer to schedules containing no documents: see Rogers v. Crookshank, 4 C. L. J. 45.

Production before Referees, or Masters. Where a claim has been ordered to be tried before a Referee, under the Act, the Court or Judge has still jurisdiction over discovery: Re Leigh, Rowcliffe v. Leigh, 4 Ch. D. 661; Dauvillier v. Myers, 17 Ch. D. 346, Quære whether the Referee has any such power. See notes to Rule 552, and Cochrane v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 606.

Probably orders on præcipe to produce under this Rule, as under Chy. G. O. 134, are for the purposes of a trial only, and will not be enforced for the purposes of a reference. In the latter case the Master to whom the reference is directed may be applied to for a direction for production: Hilderbroom v. McDonald, 8 P. R. 389.

Where an action and all matters in difference had been referred by consent, and the plaintiff afterwards applied for production, it was held under Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, R. 12, that the Court had no jurisdiction to make the order, there being no longer before it any matter "in question in the action" within the meaning of the Rule: Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353.

In an action on a marine policy, an order that the plaintiffs and all other persons interested, produce the ship's papers in accordance with the practice in that behalf before The Judicature Act was held not superseded by it, and therefore proper: China Trans-Pacific S. S. Co. v. Commercial Union, 8 Q. B. D. 142.

The right to discovery of documents is not enlarged by The Judicature Act, and where a bill of discovery would not formerly lie, discovery of documents cannot now be had, e.g., in an action to recover statutory penalties: Hun- ings v. Williamson, 10 Q. B. D. 459; Martin v. Treacher, 34 W. R. 315; Whiteley v. Barley, 56 L. J. Q. B. 312; see also Adams v. Batley, 18 Q. B. D. 425; Jones v. Jones, 22 Q. B. D. 425.

Deposit of documents.

Documents produced, may be ordered to be deposited, ordinarily in the office in which the proceedings are being taken, (and the form of order issued directs them to be deposited with the affidavit on production), but not in the case of books in daily use: Macdonnell v. McKay, 2 Chy. Ch. 141; though inspection of these must be allowed at reasonable times: Hamelyn v. Whyte, 6 P. R. 143. In practice it is not the custom to deposit the documents, unless specially required by the opposite party, and upon an undertaking being given to allow inspection when required of books in constant use, the deposit of them may be dispensed with: Re Ross, 5 Ont. App. 82. Where necessary any convenient place for inspection may be named by special order: see Hamelyn v. White, supra; Gabbett v. Cavendish, 3 Sw. 267 (n), in the case of books in daily use; Prestney v. Colchester, 24 Ch. D. 376, old records and books; Wagner v. Mason, 6 P. R. 188, documents in which other persons were interested.

As to restoring to parties documents left for inspection in the office of a Master, see Darling v. Darling, 10 P. R. 1.

Position of a third party served by a defendant.

509. A third party who has been served by a defendant under Rule 329, and has entered an appearance, shall, for all purposes of and incident to the production of documents, and examination, be as between him and such defendant in the same situation as a defendant, and the defendant serving him shall, for the same purposes, be in the same situation as a plaintiff; the time for taking out an order for production or for examining shall be after the party so served has delivered a defence, or where the application is on behalf of the defendant so serving such third party, the time shall be after the time for delivering the defence has expired. J. A. Rule 223.

The object of this Rule is to place a third party who has been served by a defendant, in the same situation as a defendant, for the purpose of Rule 508. There is no corresponding Rule in England. As to the position of the plaintiff in regard to third parties: see McAllister v. Bishop of Rochester, 5 C. P. D. 194; Eden v. Weardale, 34 Ch. D. 223, and note to Rule 508; see also Bradley v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 410, where though there was no direct issue between the plaintiff and a third party, yet as the latter had all the rights of a defendant, and virtually took his place, the plaintiff was allowed to examine him under Rule 510.

Person benefitted, a party for certain purposes.

510. A person for whose immediate benefit an action is prosecuted or defended is to be regarded as a party for the purpose of production of documents. J. A. Rule 224.

See notes to Rule 488 and Bradley v. Clarke, supra.

Affidavit on production by a corporation.

511. Where the party required to produce documents is a corporation aggregate, the affidavit shall be made by one of the officers of the corporation, and his affidavit shall have the same effect (as nearly as may be) as the affidavit of a party, unless where the Court or a Judge sees reason for holding otherwise. J. A. Rules 225, 226.

Rules 512, 513.

This Rule is not among the English Rules, but is in conformity with what was the practice in Chancery: see Dan. Prac. 5th ed., p. 1677, and cases there cited.

A form of the affidavit by the officer is given in the Appendix, No. 49. This affidavit must be made by the proper officer of the Co., in compliance with an order in the usual form. That specially applicable to a Co. under the former Chancery practice (see Lindsay Petroleum, etc. v. Pardee, 6 P. R. 140), is not necessary: Harrison v. G. T. Ry. Co., 2 C. L. T. 104; see also Cooke v. Oceanic Steamship Co., W. N. 1875, 220.

Where a bill was filed by a Republican government, the defendant, having put in a sufficient answer, was held entitled to the usual affidavit of documents, to be made by one or more of the Ministers or officers of the Government: Republic of Liberia v. Imperial Bank, L. R. 16 Eq., 179.

As to what persons have been held to be officers within similar words in R. S. O. c. 50, s. 156 (now Rule 487), see notes to Rule 487.

It was held unreasonable to require a defendant Co. to answer interrogatories through a former director who was interested in the plaintiff's Co., the Court intimating at the same time, that such person might be made a defendant, and discovery thus obtained: Manchester Val de Travers Paving Co. v. Slagg, W. N. 1882, 127.

Cross-examination of deponent.

512. The deponent in every affidavit on production shall be subject to cross-examination. New.

This, though not allowed in England (see Manby v. Bewicke, 8 DeG. M. & G., 470; Hall v. Truman, 29 Ch. D. 313; Nicholls v. Wheeler, 17 Q. B. D. 101), was formerly the Chy. practice in Ont.: see Dobson v. Dobson, 7 P. R. 256; but in Frith v. Ryan, 10 P. R. 235; it was held that this Chy. practice was not continued under the Jud. Act. The present Rule was therefore passed. It is nevertheless desirable to postpone examination for discovery till after production, as the costs of two examinations will not be allowed without good reason: see Lavery v. Wolfe, 10 P. R. 488.

Affidavit on production, form of.

513. The affidavit to be made by a party against whom an order for production has been made, shall specify which, if any, of the documents therein mentioned he objects to produce, and said affidavit may be in the Form No. 48, in the Appendix with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 228.

Corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 13, (1883, r. 355).

See notes to Rule 50.

The form given in the Schedule should be followed. "The statutory form is the right form and is intended to be the common form. The affidavit of documents is intended now to be exhaustive, and the form given in the Act is so": per Lindley, J., W. N. 1876, 39.

For form of affidavit where two plaintiffs have different interests, see Fendall v. O'Connell, 52 L. T. N. S. 553, in note to Rule 508.

What must be produced.

Discovery and Production of Documents Generally.—Courts of Equity have always compelled the production of documents. The Common Law Courts did so to a very limited extent, but the practice was extended by statute: R. S. O., c. 50, ss. 169, 170; 41 Vict. c. 8, s. 9. And now, under The Judicature Act, the right is regulated by the rules previously existing in the Court of Chancery: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644, 658; and the Common Law rules are entirely at an end: Cotton, L.J., in Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D. 337; explained in Bidder v. Bridges, 29 Ch. D. 29, in which it was decided that the defendant has no larger right to discovery than the plaintiff.

Production is a matter of right (subject to any right of privilege or protection) and is not a matter in the discretion of the Court: Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423; Atherley v. Harvey, 36 L. T. N. S. 551. Rule 513.

A plea of purchase for value without notice was formerly available in Chancery, in a suit for discovery in aid of proceedings at law but, was not available against either discovery or relief, in cases in which the Court of Chancery had concurrent jurisdiction. Sec. 52 (6) of the Act therefore does not protect defendants who set up such a defence from giving discovery, as the High Court does not now exercise the former auxiliary jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, but has complete jurisdiction over the whole action: Emmerson v. Ind, 12 App. Cas. 300.

Every material document (see Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. at p. 411) must be produced, unless it is shown to be privileged; though, where the materiality depends upon the determination of a question in dispute, and the discovery sought is calculated to cause considerable trouble, or to prove oppressive and vexatious to the party from whom it is sought, the Court may act upon Rule 519, and postpone the discovery until the question has been determined: Wood v. Anglo-Italian Bank, 34 L. T. N. S. 255. See also notes to Rule 519. All material documents unless some ground of privilege made out.

It is the duty of a party, who, after filing an affidavit, discovers a document of which his opponent has a right to have inspection, but which is not disclosed in the Schedule to inform his opponent of the discovery, either by a supplementary affidavit (the proper course), or at least by notice: Mitchell v. Darley Main Colliery Co., 1 Cab. & Ell. 215.

The general law applicable to discovery governs in patent cases. The defendant must disclose the particular lines of attack on the plaintiff's patent which are contemplated, but need not so individualize persons alleged to be prior users as to enable the plaintiff to know the defendant's witnesses: Smith v. Greey, 10 P. R. 482.

Every thing which will throw light upon the case: Hutchinson v. Glover, 1 Q. B. D. 138; or which may help the case: Dinn v. Brandon, 79 L. T. Jour. 196; Cameron v. Cameron, 10 P. R. 522; Compagnie Financiere, etc. v. Peruvian Guano Co., 11 Q. B. D. at p. 63, is prima facie subject to production and inspection.

Letters written, though not mailed, must be produced; the mere fact that they were not forwarded is no ground of exemption: Cameron v. Cameron, 10 P. R. 522.

Discovery of documents clearly immaterial to the question at the trial will not be compelled before trial: see note p. 503. Materiality

The Court, however, does not in general distinguish nicely between the materiality of the discovery to the matter to be tried at the hearing, and by way of consequental relief; still if the discovery is such as might be used to the prejudice of the party, irrespectively of the suit, the Court will look narrowly to the question, whether there is reasonable prospect of it being of material service at the hearing: Carver v. PintoLeite, L. R. 7 Chy. 90; Heugh v. Garrett, 44 L. J. Chy. 305; 32 L. T. N. S. 45; Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, L. R. 19 Eq. 33.

A defendant is entitled to inspect documents evidencing the contract sued on, though he does not admit their genuineness: Benjamin v. Saulez, 6 Ir. R. C. L. 16; and documents bearing upon the amount of damage though there is no question of liability to be tried but assessment of damages only: Pape v. Lister, L. R. 6 Q. B. 242.

Discovery was ordered before decree as to matters which would be referred to a Master in McDonald v. McArthur, 7 C. L. T. 28, following Elmer v. Creasy, L. R. 9 Chy. 69.

After judgment for the plaintiff in an action for the infringement of a patent, he is entitled to inspection of defendant's books, and to an account, although an appeal may be pending from the judgment: Saxby v. Easterbrook, L. R. 7 Ex. 207. Inspection.

Rule 513. Discovery of the documents must be given, though the party may not be bound to produce them for inspection: Rumbold v. Forteath, 3 K. & J. 44; Lazarus v. Mozley, 5 Jur. N. S. 1119; Manby v. Bewicke, 8 D. M. & G. 476; Kain v. Farrar, W. N. 1887, 266; New British Investment Co. v. Peed, 3 C. P. D. 196; and see Owen v. Wynn, 9 Ch. D. 29 Re Pickering, 25 Ch. D. 247.

Information to be sought by party producing. The party making an affidavit on production must, if necessary, seek the necessary information from his present or former agents: Earl of Glengall v. Frazer, 2 Hare 99; McIntosh v. G. W. Railway, 4 DeG. & S. 544; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644; see Rushotham v. Shropshire, etc., 24 Ch. D. 110; Southwark v. Quick, 2 Q. B. D. 321; Bolcklow v. Fisher, 10 Q. B. D. 161; see also Foakes v. Webb, 28 Ch. D. 287. In an action on a policy of marine insurance, the defendants obtained an order that the action should be stayed until the plaintiffs satisfied the Court that they had done all in their power to obtain production of the ship's papers: West of England Bank v. Canton Co., 2 Ex. D. 472; but when the person in whose control the documents were, was not within the jurisdiction and it was difficult if not impossible to obtain the discovery, the Court refused to stay proceedings: Fraser v. Burrows, 2 Q. B. D. 624.

See London, Tilbury & Southend Ry. Co. v. Kirk, 51 L. T. N. S. 599, where knowledge which might have been obtained by inquiry was contained in reports which had been held privileged.

Difficulty in obtaining production. Mere difficulty or inconvenience in giving discovery, is no reason for not giving it. Thus a railway company was required to give discovery of the contents of books in the possession of themselves or their agents extending over a series of years, to shew the receipt of goods specifically delivered to them for carriage: Hall v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 35 L. T. N. S. 848. See also Mertens v. Haigh, 11 W. R. 792.

Documents not in party's possession. If documents not in the possession of a party are required to be produced or information respecting them given, the party is entitled to be indemnified against the cost of obtaining the documents, or the information: Hamelyn v. Whyte, 6 P. R. 143; Bethell v. Casson, 12 W. R. 200.

Copies. A party who has a right to have documents produced for his inspection has also a right to take copies of them: Pratt v. Pratt, 30 W. R. 837; 51 L. J. Chy. 838; 47 L. T. N. S. 249; W. N. 1882, 117.

Privileged documents. The general rules as to privilege in evidence, are applicable in regard to protection from discovery: Wadeer v. E. Indian Co., 2 Jur. N. S. 407; Clegg v. Edmonson, 22 Beav. 125.

See Greenough v. Gaskell, 1 M. & K. 100.

Privilege and Protection from Production:

The following are some of the principal classes of cases in which documents need not be produced:

On ground of public policy. 1. State documents and the like, the production of which is not in the public interest, and is against public policy, are privileged: Kain v. Farrer, W. N. 1877, 266; 37 L. T. N. S. 469; *H. M. S. Belleropho*n, 31 L. T. N. S. 756; 23 W. R. 248; 44 L. J. Adm. 5; Hennessey v. Wright, 21 Q. B. D. 509. But it must be stated in the affidavit how these are privileged: Kain v. Farrer, supra; and in such case it is for the head of the department from which such documents are brought, not for the Judge, to determine whether the production will be injurious to the public service: Bradley v. McIntosh, 5 Ont. 227; Hennessy v. Wright, 21 Q. B. D. 509.

Involving party in criminal charge. 2. Documents the production of which would tend to involve the party in a criminal charge, or to subject him to a penalty or forfeiture: Webb v. East, 5 Ex. D. 23; Fisher v. Owen, 8 Ch. D. 645; Allhusen v. Labouchere, 3 Q. B. D. 654; Hill v. Campbell, L. R. 10 C. P. 222; Boyle v. Wiseman, 10 Ex. 647; see Waters v. Earl of Shaftesbury, 14 W. R. 259; but the objection must be made upon oath; Webb v. East, supra, Bromley v. Graham, 11 P. R. 451; Power v. Ellis, 6 S. C. R. 1; and the penalty and forfeiture clauses of the 13 Eliz. c. 5, and 27 Eliz. c. 4, cannot be used to prevent production by parties to deeds which it is sought to impeach under those statutes: Bunn v. Bunn, 4 DeG., J. & S. 316; see Society of Apothecaries v. Nottingham, W. N. 1875, 259.

Generally when fraud is charged, no privilege can be claimed for documents relating to the alleged fraud: Ferner v. Williams, 11 Jur. N. S. 902; Philips v. Holmer, 25 W. R. 578; Charlton v. Coombes, 4 Giff. 372; Mornington v. Mornington, 2 J. & H. 697. Rule 513.

3. Documents relating exclusively to the party's own title or case, or to the evidence by which it is to be established: Owen v. Wynn, 9 Ch. D. 29; Daw v. Eley, 2 H. & M. 725; Ingilby v. Shafto, 33 Beav. 31; Commissioner of Sewers v. Glasse, L. R. 15 Eq. 302; Stovel v. Coles, 4 Chy. Ch. 9; Green v. Amen, 2 Chy. Ch. 138. In such case his opponent is not entitled to his deeds, etc., in order to "pick holes" in them: Owen v. Wynn, 9 Ch. D. 29; but it must appear that they do not relate also to the title of the opposite party: Clegg v. Edmonson, 22 Beav. 125; Lind v. Isle of Wight Ferry Company, 8 W. R. 540; Bishop of Winchester v. Bowker, 29 Beav. 479; Felkin v. Lord Herbert, 9 W. R. 756; Bolton v. Corporation of Liverpool, 1 Myl. & K. 88; Jenkyn v. Bushby, 14 W. R. 531; Southwark & Vauxhall Water Company v. Quick, 3 Q. B. D. 315. Relating to party's own case.

Letters between co-defendants were held not capable of being put in evidence, and therefore, as not supporting the defendant's case, are not privileged: Hey v. De la Hey, W. N. 1886, 101.

Interrogatories seeking discovery in support of a substantive case set up by the defendant were required to be answered by the plaintiff: Bidder v. Bridges, 29 Ch. D. 29; but a party is not entitled to discovery of the manner in which, and the evidence by which, his opponent intends to establish exclusively his case: Ib.

Production cannot be refused merely on the ground that if the plaintiff's claim is unfounded, he has no interest in the documents: Gresley v. Mousley, 2 K. & J. 288.

Production was ordered when, from the circumstances of the case as stated, the Court thought that the cases of the plaintiff and defendant were so interwoven that nothing could relate to the one without relating to the other: Hamilton v. Street, 1 Gr. 327.

For what was held a sufficient description of the documents, and entitling them to protection on this ground: see Bywicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400; Roberts v. Oppenheim, 26 Ch. D. 724; and Sichel & Chance on Discovery, 269.

4. Documents having no bearing on the question to be tried. These need not be produced before trial: Merchants Bank v. Tisdale, 6 P. R. 51; Bryce v. McIntyre, 7 P. R. 134; Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 477; such as papers relating to details of trust account until the right to account has been established: Fennessy v. Clark, 37 Ch. D. 184: McGregor v. McDonald, 11 P. R. 386; Hurst v. Barber, 12 P. R. 467, or relating to sales in an action for infringement of trade-mark until the right to damages established: Waters v. Earl of Shaftesbury, 1 W. R. 259, and see Rule 519. The Court does not distinguish too nicely, however, between documents relating to the question at the hearing and consequential relief. See note p. 501, especially in cases where further inquiries consequent on the establishment of the plaintiff's right may not be directed at the trial, but judgment at the trial may be given as to the matters depending upon the right: Re Morgan, Owen v. Morgan, 39 Ch. D. 316. Irrelevant to the question at the trial.

The plaintiff sued the defendant who had acted as his stock-broker for account and damages, making general allegations of fraud and then interrogated with a view to establish the fraud. The defendant refused to answer on the ground that the plaintiff was not entitled to the information till after decree. It was held that the plaintiff was entitled to the discovery to establish his alleged cases of fraud at the trial: Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374.

A party's case for the purposes of discovery consists of everything which it is reasonable to suppose will directly, or indirectly, enable him either to advance his own case, or damage, or repel, his adversary's: Compagnie Financiere du Pacifique v. Peruvian Guano Co., 11 Q. B. D. 55; English v. Tottie, 1 Q. B. D. 141; Hutchinson v. Glover, 1 Q. B. D. 138; Western of Can. Oil Co. v. Walker, 6 P. R. 191; Lawlor v. Murchison, 3 Gr. 553; and the test of materiality is to assume the party's pleading to be true: Gresley v. Mousley, 2

K. & J. 288; White v. Ahrens, 32 W. R. 311, affirmed in appeal, 26 Ch. D. 717, where it was held that the party was entitled to discovery before giving particulars of fraud under Eng. R. 1883, 202; (see also Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374; Miller v. Harper. 38 Ch. D. 110; Harbord v. Monk, 6 Ch. D. 616); but a document relating exclusively to the case of the party making discovery is not material: see Wigram on Discovery, 15, 261; Bray on Discovery; Minet v. Morgan, L. R. 8 Chy. 361; Atty.-Gen. v. Emerson, 10 Q. B. D. 191; 52 L. J. Q. B. 67: and per Brett, L.J., 74; Peile on Discovery, 42.

Irrelevant documents, if disclosed, need not be produced for inspection: Wilson v. Thornbury, L. R. 12 Eq. 517; Central News (Limited) v. Eastern Tel. Co., 28 Sol. Jour., 390; 33 L. J. Q. B. 236.

In Star Kidney Pad Co. v. Greenwood, 3 Ont. 280, an action on a promissory note given for kidney pads, one defence was that the pads were useless and possessed no healing properties. Discovery of the recipe or ingredients was refused, the plaintiff resisting the discovery, on the grounds that no representation was made as to the ingredients, which constituted a trade secret, and the disclosure of the same would damage the plaintiff's business. See also Badische Anilin, etc. v. Levinstein, 24 Ch. D. 156; Howe v. McKernan, 30 Beav. 574.

Muniments of party's title.

5. (Properly speaking only a branch of the third head). A party's muniments of title, which he swears do not contain anything impeaching his case, or supporting, or material to, the case of the defendant: Minet v. Morgan, L. R. 8 Chy. 361: Morris v. Edwards, 23 Q. B. D. 287; Horton v. Bott, 26 L. J. Ex. 267; New British Invest. Co. v. Peed, 3 C. P. D. 196; but not documents which tend to support the title of the opposite party: Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Cas. 217, 223, 224; see Small v. Eccles, 3 P. R. 189; Egremont Burial Board v. Egremont Iron Ore Co., 14 Ch. D. 158; Webster v. Whewall, 15 Ch. D. 120. It was held in the last case, that it was sufficient to swear to the best of the deponent's knowledge, information and belief. The contrary has been held in Manby v. Bewicke, 8 D. M. & G. 476. It is insufficient to swear generally that the documents are privileged. The affidavit must state the facts upon which the objection is grounded: Gardner v. Irvin, 4 Ex. D. 49; see also Webb v. East, 5 Ex. D. 23.

An affidavit to protect maps is more readily accepted than in the case of deeds: March v. Bailey, 78 L. T. Jour. 263: see also article on production of documents of title in 78 L. T. Jour. 278.

In an action for the recovery of land, and delivery of deeds relating thereto in the defendant's possession, the defence of purchaser for valuable consideration without notice enables the defendant to resist discovery of such deeds and documents: Emmerson v. Ind, 134 W. R. 636; but only if he sets that defence up simply (in which case the discovery would not be material to the issue to be tried), not if he also disputes, or does not admit the plaintiff's title: Ib.; 33 Ch. D. 323; 12 App. Cas. 300.

For a form of statement of objection on this ground, in the affidavit on production, see Sichel & Chance on Discovery, 209.

The defendants, before putting in their statement of defence, moved for the production by the plaintiffs of the conveyance under which they held their land, in order to ascertain whether it contained a reservation of minerals, the defendants alleging that, if it did not, they would submit to a decree at once. It was held that, the land having been conveyed to the plaintiffs in fee simple, they were prima facie entitled to the land down to the centre of the earth, and unless the defendants could show that the plaintiffs were not so entitled, they could not be compelled to produce their title deeds: Egremont Burial Co. v. Egremont Iron Ore Co., 14 Ch. D. 158; see Webster v. Whewall, 15 Ch. D. 120.

Title deeds of defendant in possession.

6. Title deeds of land of which a party defendant is in possession, in an action to recover possession of the land by an adverse title: Philipps v. Philipps, 4 Q. B. D. 127; 27 W. R. 939; but the defendant must make an affidavit disclosing what they are: Rumbold v. Farteath, (No. 1) 3 K. & J. 44; New British Co. v. Peed, 3 C. P. D. 196; Wrentmore v. Hagley, 46 L. T. N. S. 741; see Owen v. Wynn, 9 Ch. D. 29; Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Cas. 217; Daniel v. Ford,

W. N. 1883, 52. This rule depends on the circumstance that where claims to the same land in fee simple are made by two different persons, they must be based on inconsistent titles; it cannot therefore be applied to a case where the title of the plaintiff and defendant are not absolutely adverse, but may to some extent be proved by the same evidence: Ponsonby v. Hartley, W. N. 1883, 13: 74 L. T. Jour. 208; affirmed on appeal though on a different ground W. N. 1883, 44. In that case the right to possession was not disputed, but the right to minerals was claimed, and the plaintiff relied on a reservation of them, and the plaintiff was allowed to inspect the title deeds, to see if they supported his case. Rule 513.

For a form of statement of objection on this ground, see Sichel & Chance, on Discovery, 210.

7. Mortgage deeds are privileged until the mortgagee is paid what is due; Chichester v. Donegall, L. R. 5 Chy. 497; Patch v. Ward, L. R. 1 Eq. 426; Jones v. Jones, Kay, App. vi.; Bridgewater v. De Winton, 12 W. R. 40; Howard v. Robinson, 4 Drew. at p. 526; Weeks v. Stourton, 13 W. R. 489; Freeman v. Butler, 33 Beav. 289; Smith v. Barnes, L. R. 1 Eq. 65; Anon, 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 61; W. N. 1876, 23; Fisher on Mortgages, 4th ed., 302; unless the right to redeem is denied: Patch v. Ward, and Jones v. Jones, sup.: Bell v. Chamberlen, 3 Chy. Ch. 429; and where the proceedings are being taken by the mortgagee upon the mortgage deed, inspection of it may be ordered, as of any other document sued on: Emmens v. Middlemiss, 8 P. R. 320. Mortgagees' deeds.

8. Documents held by a party in a different character from that in which he is sued: Pindar v. Smith, 6 Madd. 38; Wagner v. Mason, 6 P. R. 187. Documents held in a different character.

Where a defendant claimed that he held documents only as solicitor for a co-defendant also a party, but who had not been called on for particulars, it was held that he should not have been called on to produce these documents without the co-defendant being called on to show cause: McGregor v. McDonald, 11 P. R. 386.

9. Documents in which a third person not a party to the action is interested are not for that reason alone protected from production: Kettlewell v. Barstow, L. R. 7 Chy. 686; Hutchinson v. Glover, 1 Q. B. D. 138; but when such documents are in the joint legal (not corporeal: see Reid v. Langlois, 1 Mac. & G. 627; and B. A. Ins. Co. v. Wilkinson, 6 P. R. 268), possession of the third person and the party from whom production is sought, the latter cannot be required to produce them: see cases supra; Murray v. Walter, Cr. & Ph. 114; Kearsley v. Philips, 10 Q. B. D. 36, 465, where all the cases are reviewed, unless there is no interest which can be affected by their production other than the interest of the parties to the action: London & Yorkshire Bank v. Cooper, 15 Q. B. D. 7 and 473. Production will not be required from a party having the sole legal possession, if a third person who is not a party and who has the beneficial interest objects, unless the suit is of such a nature that the Court can say that the party having the legal custody sufficiently represents in the suit the other person interested: Fraser v. Home Ins. Co., 6 P. R. 45; but where production will not be ordered, the party must give all the information in his power respecting the documents in his affidavit, and also on any examination: Fraser v. Home Ins. Co. supra; Nicholl v. Elliott, 3 Gr. 545; Clinch v. Financial Corporation, L. R. 2 Eq., 271; Vyse v. Foster, L. R. 13 Eq. 602; Hadley v. McDougal, L. R. 7 Chy. 312. Documents in which a third person is interested.

Possession by a party's agent, is of course the possession of the party: Murray v. Walter, Cr. & Ph. 114.

As to documents in the joint custody of husband and wife, see Pendall v. O'Connell, 29 Ch. D. 899.

A solicitor cannot set up a lien acquired in the cause against the right of other parties to production; and the fact that a lien which may be set up exists, is not a sufficient reason for not ordering production, as the party may be able to free the documents from the lien: Vale v. Oppert, L. R. 10 Chy. 340; Pratt v. Pratt, W. N. 1882, 117; but see Bainbridge v. Blair, 1 Jur. 256.

Production was not ordered in an action of trespass against a defendant, who was committee of a lunatic, of documents relating to the lunatic's estate, the documents not being in the custody of the party, but in the custody of the Court having jurisdiction in lunacy: Vivian v. Little, 11 Q. B. D. 370.

Communications between solicitor and client.

10. Documents which are privileged, as being communications passing between the party and his confidential professional adviser, or agents.

Of this kind are all communications between a party and his solicitor or other legal adviser, whether made ante, or post litem motam. It is enough if they are communications of a confidential character: Smith v. Daniell, L. R. 18 Eq. 649; Original Hartlepool Collieries Co. v. Moon, 30 L. T. N. S. 585; not an open communication: Foakes v. Webb, 28 Ch. D. 287; Rawstone v. Preston, 30 Ch. D. 116; made by or to the legal adviser in a professional character: Minet v. Morgan, L. R. 8 Chy. 367; Corporation of Hastings v. Ivall, Ib., 1017; Macfarlane v. Rolt, L. R. 14 Eq. 580; Hamelyn v. Whyte, 6 P. R. 143; Mostyn v. West Mostyn, 34 L. T. N. S. 531; Wilson v. Northampton, L. R. 14 Eq. 477; Eadie v. Addison, 47 L. T. N. S. 543; Mayor, etc. of Bristol v. Cox, 26 Ch. D. 678; Proctor v. Smiles, 55 L. J. Q. B. 527; Lowden v. Blakey, 23 Q. B. D. 332; see Lyell v. Kennedy, 9 App. Cas. 81; including communications with a former solicitor: Thomas v. Sec. of State for India, 18 W. R. 312; Marriott v. Anchor, etc., 3 Giff, 304; Wilson v. Brunskill, 2 Chy. Ch. 147; and the predecessors in title of the party: Minet v. Morgan, and Mostyn v. W. Mostyn, supra.

Communications by a clerk of the defendant company to the company, containing references to advice given by the company's solicitor, whom the clerk had consulted, are privileged, being held to be the same as if written by the solicitors: Boughton v. Citizens Insurance Co., 11 P. R. 110.

Extent of this ground of privilege.

The privilege extends to a person who, unknown to the client, had ceased to practice as a solicitor when the communications were made: Calley v. Richards, 19 Beav. 401; see also L. R. 18 Eq. 654; and to communications with reference to actual or impending litigation coming from any third person employed by the solicitor, or at his instance, such as his town agent: Catt v. Tourle, 23 L. T. N. S. 485; 19 W. R. 56, or clerk, accountant or other skilled person: see Lawrence v. Campbell, 4 Dr. 485; Steel v. Stewart, 1 Ph. 471; Churton v. Frewen, 2 Dr. & S. 390; Hooper v. Gumm, 10 W. R. 644; or in any other way procured by the solicitor, or by the client or his agent, at the instance of the solicitor: Bustros v. Whyte, 1 Q. B. D. 423; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644; Taylor v. Batten, 4 Q. B. D. 85; and to documents prepared with a bonâ fide intention of being laid before a solicitor in a contemplated action: Southwark v. Quick, 3 Q. B. D. 315; Wheeler v. Le Marchant, 17 Ch. D. 675; Kennedy v. Lyell, 23 Ch. D. 387; afterwards affirmed on appeal to the House of Lords: see 9 App. Cas. 81; Lowden v. Blakey, 23 Q. B. D. 332; letters from a third person in answer to inquiries by a party's solicitor with a view to anticipated litigation: McCorquodale v. Bell, 1 C. P. D. 471; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644; anonymous letters to solicitors about the case: Young v. Holloway, 12 P. D. 167; documents material to the party's case procured by his solicitors of their own motion for the purposes of the action: The Palermo 9 P. D. 6; Guelph C. Co. v. Whitehead, 9 P. R. 509; documents relating only to the conduct of the suit: Ingilby v. Shafto, 33 Beav. 31; Gandee v. Stansfield, 4 DeG. & J. 1; Turner v. Burkenshaw, 11 W. R. 851; papers relating to a former action and privileged therein: Bullock v. Corry, 3 Q. B. D. 356; Bacon v. Bacon, W. N. 1876, 96; Nordon v. Defries, 8 Q. B. D. 508; Branford v. Branford, 4 P. D. 72; Pearce v. Foster, 15 Q. B. D. 114; Canadian Pacific Ry. v. Conmee, 11 P. R. 297; but not otherwise: Hutchinson v. Glover, 1 Q. B. D. 138; Re Worswick, 38 Ch. D. 370; a doctor's report of an examination at the instance of a party's solicitor: Friend v. London, Chatham and Dover Ry. Co., 2 Ex. D. 437; and reports of surveyors as to the condition of a cargo, made solely for the case of one of the parties or for the opinion of his legal adviser: The Theodore Korner, 3 P. D. 162; see Cossy v. London, Brighton, etc. Ry. Co., L. R. 5 C. P. 146.

Although copies of documents, which are publici juris, are themselves unprivileged, a collection of entries in public records and registers and of photographs of tombstones and houses will be protected from production, when it has been made or directed by the solicitors of a party for his defence, and is the result of the professional knowledge, skill and research of those solicitors: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1; 53 L. J. Chy. 537.

Transcript of shorthand notes of proceedings in open Court are not privileged : Re Worswick, Robson v. Worswick, 38 Ch. D. 370. Rule 513.

The giving of an extract or copy of an opinion of counsel procured by the solicitor for his client on the subject matter of a suit to the solicitor on the other side does not prevent this opinion from being privileged : Carey v. Cuthbert, 6 L. R. Ir. Eq. 599.

Communications not in professional character.

Protection cannot be claimed on this ground for communications made to a solicitor, but not in his character of solicitor : Greenough v. Gaskell, 1 M. & K. 98 ; Rudd v. Frank, 9 C. L. T. 387 ; Thomas v. Rawlings, 27 Beav. 140 ; as where he was not simply advising as solicitor, but negotiating actively much of the transaction impeached in the action : Pawson v. Merchants Bank, 11 P. R. 21 ; or was plaintiff's patent agent, as well as his solicitor : Moseley v. Victoria Rubber Co., 55 L. T. N. S. 482 ; nor for letters to a party's solicitor, not induced by inquiries : McCorquodale v. Bell, supra ; nor for statements made voluntarily or at the party's request for his own information, by his unprofessional agents : Bustros v. White ; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, supra ; though made in confidence, and so marked : Hopkinson v. Lord Burghley, L. R. 2 Chy. 447 ; see Wiman v. Bradstreet, 2 Chy. Ch. 77.

In such cases an undertaking may be required not to use the documents for any collateral purpose : Hopkinson v. Lord Burghley, supra ; Richardson v. Hastings, 7 Beav. 354. Protection also cannot be claimed for information derived from collateral sources and not directly from the client : Marsh v. Keith, 1 Dr. & Sm. 342 ; Ford v. Tennant, 32 Beav. 162 ; Desborough v. Rawlins, 3 M. & Cr. 515 ; Re Land Credit Society, 15 W. R. 703 ; nor for mere collateral facts, such as the client's residence, unless communicated confidentially ; e.g., as his client's hiding place : see Heath v. Crealock, L. R. 15 Eq. 257 ; Re Arnott, Ex parte, Chief Official Receiver, 37 W. R. 223 ; 60 L. T. N. S. 109 ; or address : see Bursill v. Tanner, 55 L. J. Q. B. 53 ; (see also the distinction between confidential communications, and those of facts patent to the senses : Kennedy v. Lyell, 48 L. T. N. S. 455 ; 23 Ch. D. 387 ;) nor for documents passing between the party's solicitor and third persons to enable the solicitor to advise his client, unless they were for the purpose of obtaining information, evidence or legal advice with reference to litigation existing or contemplated between the parties to the action : Wheeler v. Le Marchant, 17 Ch. D. 675 ; Pavitt v. Metropolitan Tramways Co., W. N. 1883, 100 ; Original Hartlepool Collieries Co. v. Moon, 30 L. T. N. S. 193, 585 ; Betts v. G. T. Ry. 12 P. R. 86, 634 ; Commee v. C. P. Ry. Co. 9 C. L. T. 36 ; see Westinghouse v. Midland, etc., 48 L. T. N. S. 98, 462, as to what constitutes lis mota ; nor for professional opinions given partly for the benefit of the party requiring production : Reynolds v. Godlee, 4 K. & J. 88 ; Talbot v. Marshfield, 13 W. R. 885 ; Wynne v. Humberstone, 27 Beav. 421 ; nor where fraud is charged : see Mornington v. Mornington, 2 J. & H. 697 ; Charlton v. Coombes, 4 Giff. 372, 382 ; Reynell v. Sprye, 10 Beav. 51 ; 11 Beav. 618 ; Reg. v. Cox, 14 Q. B. D. 153.

Between solicitor and a third person.

Professional communications are excepted from protection in partnership actions and actions between beneficiaries and trustees, where such communications had been obtained for the sake of and paid for out of the partnership or trust estate : Gourand v. Edison Gower Bell Tel. Co., 59 L. T. N. S. 813 ; 57 L. J. Chy. 498.

No privilege can be claimed by a trustee as against his cestui que trust for letters passing between the trustee and the solicitor, relating to the trust before action brought : Re Mason, Mason v. Cattley, 22 Ch. D. 609 ; Talbot v. Marshfield, supra ; Re Postlethwaite, Postlethwaite v. Rickman, 35 Ch. D. 722.

Communications with unprofessional agent.

11. Communications with an unprofessional agent in anticipation of litigation, and with a view to the prosecution of, or defence to, a claim to the matter in dispute were held to be privileged in Ross v. Gibbs, L. R. 8 Eq. 522 ; Commee v. C. P. Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 297 ; Slade v. Tucker, 14 Ch. D. 824 ; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. at p. 658 ; but the documents there were for the purpose of being laid before a legal adviser and would come within Southwark, etc. v. Quick, 3 Q. B. D. 315 ; see also Macdonald v. Norwich Union Fire Ins. Co., 10 P. R. 501. The later cases seem to show that such communications are not privileged even when made during, and for the express purpose of litigation. See Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423 ; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, supra; Martin v. Butchard, 36 L. T. N. S. 732; see also Reid v. Langlois, 1 Mac. & G. 638; Hamilton v. Nott, L. R. 16 Eq. 112. Communications with a solicitor in his character of patent agent as to the preparation of specifications for the patent are not privileged: Moseley v. Victoria Rubber Co., 55 L. T. 483.

For forms of statement of objection in the affidavit or production on the ground of privileged communications, see Sichel & Chance on Discovery, 208. As to the effect of charges of fraud on privilege, see Re Postlethwaite, Postlethwaite v. Rickman, 35 Ch. D. 722; Reg. v. Cox, 14 Q. B. D. 153.

Instances of communications not privileged.

The following are further instances of communications not privileged:—Copies of letters between defendants and third persons procured for the purpose of defence by the solicitors of the defendants from such third persons, the defendants not having kept copies of the correspondence: Chadwick v. Bowman, 16 Q. B. D. 561.

A transcript of shorthand notes of evidence in an action instituted by a party, with a view to ulterior proceedings not then contemplated, and for the purpose of submitting the same to counsel in such ulterior proceedings if taken: Rawstone v. Preston, 30 Ch. D. 116.

Opinions of engineers as to the validity of a patent obtained with a view to being forearmed in case litigation should arise: Toronto Gravel Road Co. v. Taylor, 6 P. R. 227; reports made to an insurance company by their medical officer, and by friends of the assured to whom the company was referred as to his health and habits: Mahony v. National Widow's Life Ass. Fund, L. R. 6 C. P. 252; reports of persons employed to survey a tug, for the purpose of an action for damages for improperly constructing the tug: Martin v. Butchard, 36 L. T. N. S. 732; but query if this is not contrary to Southwark, etc. v. Quick, 3 Q. B. D. 315, see supra; correspondence between a vendor and a vendee relative to the subject matter of the action by a sub-vendee but which could not be said to be confidential communications with a view to litigation: English v. Tottie, 1 Q. B. D. 141; letters from a party's unprofessional agent to defendant, relative to the subject matter of an action, not sent in order to be laid before the party's solicitor: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644; an agreement of compromise between the defendant and a third person relative to the subject matter of an action: Hutchinson v. Glover, 1 Q. B. D. 138; Richards v. Morgan, 4 B. & S. 641; or papers obtained from experts, by arbitrators for their guidance: Ponsford v. Swaine, 1 J. & H. 433.

Correspondence between co-defendants after suit, is not as a general rule privileged: Hamilton v. Nott, L. R. 16 Eq. 112; see also Sankey v. Alexander, 8 L. R. Ir. 241; Hey v. De la Hey, W. N. 1886, 101.

Where a diary that would not have been protected from production has been lost, extracts made from it since the commencement, and for the purposes of the litigation are not protected: Land Corporation of Canada v. Puleston, W. N. 1884, 1; see The Palermo, 9 P. D. 6.

Form of affidavit claiming protection from production.

Form of Affidavit.—The affidavit must give such description of the documents which the party objects to produce as will sufficiently identify them: Taylor v. Batten, 4 Q. B. D. 85; Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400; Taylor v. Oliver, 45 L. J. Chy. 774; Mayor of Bristol v. Cox, 26 Ch. D. 678. A list may be given setting them out in the same way as the documents which the party does not object to produce: see Hamelyn v. Whyte, 6 P. R. 143; Fraser v. Home Ins. Co., 6 P. R. 45. The following have been held sufficient descriptions: "A correspondence between the plaintiff and his predecessors in title on the one hand, and their respective solicitors from time to time on the other": Minet v. Morgan, L. R. 8 Chy. 361. "Certain documents, letters and correspondence which have passed between my legal advisers and myself, and certain instructions to, and opinion of counsel, which are numbered 50-76 inclusive and are tied up in a bundle marked with the letter A and initialed by me": Taylor v. Batten, supra. "Bundles of letters" is not a sufficient description of correspondence: Hamilton v. Nott, L. R. 16 Eq. 112; but letters may be so described with sufficient description to identify them: Walker v. Poole, 51 L. J. Chy. 840. Too prolix and voluminous an affidavit was ordered to be taken off the files: Ib., W. N. 1882, 136; or the party filing it may be ordered to pay the costs of it: Hill v. Hart Davis, 26 Ch. D. 470. Rule 513.

It is not sufficient to mention bundles containing a large number of documents, among which the deponent thinks one or two may be material; an affidavit so framed may be ordered to be taken off the files: Bolton v. Natal Land & Col. Co., 83 L. T. Jour. 203; W. N. 1887, 143.

Reference generally to letters, etc., as filed in Court on certain specified applications, was held sufficient without scheduling the particulars: Lyon v. McKay, 10 P. R. 557.

The affidavit must also [see clause 3] assign a reason for objecting to produce the documents and verify the facts upon which the claim to protection is based: Bromley v. Graham, 11 P. R. 451; Gardner v. Irvin, 4 Ex. D. 49; Webb v. East, 5 Ex. D. 108; Roberts v. Oppenheim, 26 Ch. D. 724. It has been held sufficient to swear to the best of the defendant's knowledge and belief: Minet v. Morgan, supra, but see Manby v. Bewicke, 8 DeG. M. & G. 476. It is insufficient to swear generally that the documents are privileged: Gardner v. Irvin, 4 Ex. D. 49.

Where an affidavit of documents had been filed, setting out the number and the dates, but not the parties to title deeds, it was held that as the deeds were privileged, the Court would not order the names of the parties to the deeds to be set out: Taylor v. Oliver, 45 L. J. Chy. 774; 34 L. T. N. S. 902.

Examples of statements of objection to produce, on ground of privilege.

The following statements have been held to sufficiently disclose some ground of privilege: "The said documents relate solely to the case of the defendants, and not to the case of the plaintiff, nor do they tend to support it, and they do not to the best of our knowledge, information and belief, contain anything impeaching the case of the said defendants, wherefore, we object to produce the same and say they are privileged from production": Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400: see a discussion of that case, 16 L. J. 263; see also Roberts v. Oppenheim, 26 Ch. D. 724; and Bulman v. Dixon, 49 L. T. N. S. 736. "I object to produce the documents set forth in the second part of the first Schedule, on the ground that being communications between solicitor and client they are privileged": Hamelyn v. Whyte, 6 P. R. 143; see also Macfarlane v. Rolt, L. R. 14 Eq. 580. For a description held not sufficient to protect on the ground of joint interest, see Fraser v. Home Ins. Co., 6 P. R. 45.

Portions of books produced, containing entries not relevant to the matters in question may be allowed to be sealed up: Re Pickering, 25 Ch. D. 247; Heugh v. Garrett, W. N. 1874, 229; 1875, 26; Jones v. Andrews, 57 L. T. N. S. 843; 58 L. T. N. S. 601.

Affidavit in proper form conclusive.

Where the documents are properly identified and described and the ground of protection sufficiently stated, if it is a valid ground the affidavit is prima facie conclusive as to the relevancy of documents and privilege claimed: Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400; Welsh Steam etc., Co. v. Gaskell, 36 L. T. N. S. 352; Bulman v. Young, 31 W. R. 766; 49 L. T. N. S. 736; and cannot be contradicted by counter affidavits: Jones v. Monte Video Gas Co., 5 Q. B. D. 556; Lyon v. McKay, 10 P. R. 557; see also Hall v. Truman Hanbury Co., 29 Ch. D. 307; Nicholl v. Wheeler, 17 Q. B. D. 101; McGregor v. McDonald, 12 P. R. 81; Morris v. Edwards, 23 Q. B. D. 287; but the Master or Judge may see from the nature of the case, that the party has misconceived the effect of the documents, and may therefore disregard, or refuse to act upon his affidavit: Attorney-General v. Emerson, 10 Q. B. D. 19; Ponsonby v. Hartley, W. N. 1883, 13, 44; Lyell v. Kennedy, 31 W. R. 618; Fraser v. Home Ins. Co., 6 P. R. 45; Re Pickering, 25 Ch. D. 247; Moxley v. Canada Atlantic Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 39; (but see Leslie v. Cave, 35 W. R. 515; 56 L. T. N. S. 332, where it was held that one document being shown not to be privileged as claimed, by relating only to the party's own case, another document is not on that ground to be ordered to be inspected); or if from the affidavit itself: Jones v. Monte Video Gas Co., supra; Wagstaffe v. Anderson, 39 L. T. N. S. 332; (where the words "never have had" were omitted), or from the documents referred to, or an admission in the pleading of the party: Hastings v. Ivall, L. R. 8 Chy. 1017; Imp. Land Co. of Marseilles v. Masterman, 22 W. R. 66; 29 L. T. N. S. 559; Jones v. Monte Video Gas Co., supra; or other documents affording reasonable suspicion that the affidavit is not sufficient: see Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1; (such as evidence given at a former trial of the case: Moxley v. Canada Atlantic Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 39), or in his examination in the cause or on the affidavit: see Dobson v. Dobson, 7 P. R. 256, and Rule 512; or the admission of his solicitor: Campbell v. McArthur, 7 P. R. 46: or of any officer of a defendant or company: Pawson v. Merchants' Bank, 11 P. R. 18. the Master or Judge is of opinion that the affidavit is insufficient a further affidavit may be ordered. See also Ross v. Dublin United Tramways Co., 8 L. R. Ir. 213; Compagnie Financiere v. Peruvian Guano Co., 11 Q. B. D. 55; Central News (Limited) v. Eastern Telegraph Co., 28 Sol. Jour. 390; Robinson v. Budgett, W. N. 1884, 94; 28 Sol. Jour. 411.

Cross-examination upon the affidavit was not allowed in Chancery or under the Jud. Act in England, but it is allowed in Ontario under Rule 512. See note to that Rule.

It seems, in England, to be a not uncommon practice, on applications respecting discovery to shew the documents upon which a question of privilege arises to the Judge; and where by consent the document are so shewn to the Judge, and his decision thereupon taken, no appeal lies from his order: Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 427; see also Macdonald v. Norwich Union, 10 P. R. 505; but whether this course is right, quære: see Re Holloway, 12 P. D. 167, 169.

A second application for a better affidavit on production is improper where no objection is made on the first application to the non-production of the documents in question, the second motion not being made upon any material which did not exist at the time of the first motion: Boughton v. Citizen Insurance Co., 11 P. R. 110.

Notice to produce documents referred to in pleading or affidavits.

514. Every party to an action or other proceeding shall be entitled, at any time before or at the hearing thereof, to give notice in writing to any other party, in whose pleadings or affidavits reference is made to any document, to produce such document for the inspection of the party giving the notice, or of his solicitor, and to permit him to take copies thereof; and any party not complying with such notice shall not afterwards be at liberty to put any such document in evidence on his behalf in the action or proceeding, unless he satisfies the Court that the document relates only to his own title, he being a defendant to the action, or that he had some other sufficient cause for not complying with the notice. J. A. Rule 229.

See notes to Rules 508 and 513.

In Webster v. Whewall, 15 Ch. D. 121, remarks were made by Denman, J., to the effect that "sufficient cause" for not complying with a notice by defendant under this Rule would be that the defence had not yet been delivered. This dictum was not approved in Quilter v. Heatly, 23 Ch. D. 42, where it was held that a defendant was, prima facie, entitled to at once inspect a document referred to in the pleadings, and the burden of shewing cause is on the party from whom inspection is demanded; also that the Rule applies not only between the plaintiff and a defendant, but also between co-defendants. There Lindley, L.J., said, "There is a material distinction between ordinary discovery, and discovery of documents referred to in the pleadings or affidavits." And Jessel, M.R., said, "The defendant may say 'Your case depends partly on a set of documents which you have set out incorrectly, I wish to see them. It may be that I have made admissions which will put me out of Court. I wish to see the documents to know whether I have made such admissions, and it is important for me to see them before I put in my defence.' It is reason enough why the defendant should be allowed to see them that the plaintiff has made them part of his statement of claim." Rules 515, 516.

The documents need not be particularly identified or referred to; but if more compendiously described by general words, they fall within this Rule, and inspection may be ordered: Smith v. Harris, 48 L. T. N. S. 869. A letter referred to in particulars of plaintiff's claim is a document within the Rule: Cass v. Fitzgerald, W. N. 1884, 18.

The reference in pleading, etc., to a document in respect of which privilege might otherwise be claimed does not render it liable to inspection under this Rule, but if production is refused it cannot be used in evidence: Roberts v. Oppenheim, 26 Ch. D. 724; see also Mayor of Bristol v. Cox, 26 Ch. D. 678; Leslie v. Cave, 30 Sol. Jour. 76, and Green v. Amey, 2 Chy. Ch. 138.

Inspection of a foreign judgment was refused, in an action on a judgment brought under the old procedure: Matthias v. Delcacho, 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 123. Inspection of a mortgage deed was refused to a defendant, who wished to find from it the amount in order to redeem, the plaintiff undertaking to give in a week a statement of principal, interest and amount of costs, and of the particulars of all other subsequent incumbrances: Anon, 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 61; W. N. 1876, 23. See Emmens v. Middlemiss, 8 P. R. 320. In Lake v. Pooley, W. N. 1876, 54, an action for breach of covenant in a lease, the defendant had made an assignment of one undivided moiety of leasehold property, consisting of land, brewery and fixtures; the plaintiff having applied for an order for inspection of documents, and the defendant having objected that the documents related solely to his own title, Archibald, J., made the order, because it was a case of an undivided moiety, the interest in which could only be realized by the usufruct of the whole property.

As to inspection of a company's books by a shareholder, see Re Credit Co., 11 Ch. D. 256.

515. Notice to any party to produce any documents referred to in his pleading or affidavits may be in the Form No. 23 in the Appendix, or to the same effect. J. A. Rule 231. Form of notice to produce.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 15, (1883, R. 358), is in form imperative, stating that the notice "shall be" in the form referred to. See also Re Credit Co., 11 Ch. D. 256.

The form of the usual notice to produce documents at the trial is No. 24 in the App.

As to the effect of not giving a proper notice to produce at the trial: see Sugg v. Bray, 51 L. T. N. S. 194; 54 L. J. Chy. 132; where parol evidence was not allowed to be given of a document in respect of which a proper notice to produce had not been given.

516. The party to whom such notice is given shall, within 2 days from the receipt of the notice, if all the documents therein referred to have been set forth by him in such affidavit as is mentioned in Rule 513, or if any of the documents referred to in the notice have not been set forth by him in any such affidavit, then within 4 days from the receipt of the notice, deliver to the party giving the same a notice stating a time within 3 days from the delivery thereof at which the documents, or such of them as he does not object to produce, may be inspected at the office Notice to inspect.

of his solicitor, and stating which (if any) of the documents he objects to produce and on what ground. Such notice may be in the Form No. 25, in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 232.

Substantially the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 16, (1883, R. 359).

The same rules that govern the production of documents are applicable where inspection is sought: see Clegg v. Edmonson, 22 Beav. 125, and notes to Rule 508; and there is no right to inspection of documents as to which there is no right to discovery: Central News (Limited) v. Eastern Tel. Co., 28 Sol. Jour. 390; see 53 L. J. Q. B. 236.

Inspection may be ordered at any convenient place: see Prestney v. Colchester, 48 L. T. N. S. 353; W. N. 1883, 114, and note supra, p. 499.

Order for inspection on default.

517. If the party served with notice under Rule 516 omits to give such notice of a time for inspection, or objects to give inspection, the party desiring it may apply to a Judge for an order for inspection. J. A. Rule 233.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 17. That of 1883, R. 360, is different.

Application for order.

518. Every application for an order for inspection of documents shall be made to a Judge. (a) And, except in the case of documents referred to in the pleadings or affidavits of the party against whom the application is made, or disclosed in his affidavit of documents, such application shall be founded upon an affidavit shewing of what documents inspection is sought, that the party applying is entitled to inspect them, and that they are in the possession or power of the other party, J. A. Rule 234.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 18. See Rules of 1883, R. 360.

(a) The Master in Chambers will probably have jurisdiction, as the expression is not "a Judge of the High Court." See notes to Rules 2 and 30.

In an action for breach of promise, judgment went by default, and the question of damages was referred to the Master. The plaintiff claimed a right to inspect and take copies of his letters to the defendant, as being material to the question of damages. It was held that the matter was one for the discretionary jurisdiction of the Court or a Judge, and inspection was refused on the ground that it would increase the costs. The Court of Appeal declined to review the decision: Ladds v. Walthew, 32 W. R. 1000.

When inspection objected to.

519. If the party from whom discovery of any kind or inspection is sought objects to the same, or any part thereof, the Court or a Judge, if satisfied that the right to the discovery or inspection sought depends on the determination of any issue or question in dispute in the action, or that for any other reason it is desirable that any issue or question in dispute in the action should be determined before deciding upon the right to the discovery or inspection, may order that such issue or question be determined first, and reserve the question as to the discovery or inspection. J. A. Rule 235. Rule 520.

The right to the discovery or inspection of documents may depend, for example, on a disputed allegation of partnership: Lyon v. Tweedell, 13 Ch. D. 375; or on whether an alteration in a will upon which the rights of the parties depended was validly made: Hurst v. Barber, 12 P. R. 467; and, in such case, the Court or a Judge may order that question to be determined first, reserving the question as to discovery or inspection.

In an action for an account of profits made by the defendants as the plaintiff's agents, the defendants denying the agency, the Court declined, until after that question should be tried, to order production of the invoices of goods sold by third persons to the defendants, and re-sold by the defendants to the plaintiffs; the defendants having sworn that those invoices had nothing to do with the point at issue, and that the disclosure would be injurious to the defendants if the plaintiffs failed: Verminck v. Edwards, 29 W. R. 189.

It was held under this Rule, that where a question on examination is substantially answered, a further answer ought not to be required when discovery would be oppressive: McGregor v. McDonald, 11 P. R. 386.

In Re Leigh, Rowcliffe v. Leigh, 6 Ch. D. 256, where an executrix disputed a horse dealer's account, and the dispute was whether or not certain horses were sold on commission, the Court refused to order the horse dealer to disclose the prices, as being immaterial until it had been decided that the horses were sold on commission. The question of liability must be one which is severable from the question of damages. See Elkin v. Clarke, 21 W. R. 447.

In a suit by an alleged next of kin to an intestate, against the solicitor to the Treasury, to whom administration had been granted, it was held that the defendant was not bound to make an affidavit of documents relating to the estate, until a prima facie case had been made by the plaintiff that he was next of kin: Lane v. Gray, L. R. 16 Eq. 552.

A person who had acted as the foreman of a manufacturer's business, filed a bill against the manufacturer, alleging that the plaintiff was to have a weekly salary, and one-sixth of the profits of the business, and praying an account, and payment of one-sixth of the profits of the business to him accordingly. The defendant by his answer admitted a right to a weekly salary, and to one-twelfth of the profits of the business, coupled, however, with an agreement on the part of the plaintiff, that the latter should take the statements of the defendant as to the profits to be true, and should not demand or question the business transactions, or be entitled to examine or investigate the business books: it was held that he was not compellable to produce them before the hearing, their production not being relevant to the issue whether or not the plaintiff was entitled to a decree for an account: Turney v. Bayley, 4 DeG. J. & S. 332.

See also Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 447; Wood v. Italian Bank, 34 L. T. 255; and other cases in notes to Rule 513, p. 503; also Johns v. James, 13 Ch. D. 370; English v. Tottie, 1 Q. B. D. 141.

520. If any party fails to comply with any order for production or inspection of documents, he shall be liable to attachment. If a defendant, he shall be liable to have his defence, if any, struck out, and to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended; and the party who obtained the order for production or inspection may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order to that effect, and an Consequences of disobeying an order for discovery.

order may be made accordingly. J. A. Rule 236; Chy. O. 144; 41 V. c. 8, s. 9.

Compare Eng. Rules of 1883, O. 31, r. 21, which is to the same effect, except that the latter also refers to answering interrogatories.

Where a plaintiff fails to comply with an order for production of documents, he is liable to have his action dismissed: Rule 648; a plaintiff is also liable to have his action dismissed for neglecting or refusing to attend for examination: Ib. A defendant is also liable to have his defence struck out for, (1) neglecting or refusing to attend to be examined, (2) or refusing to be sworn, (3) or refusing to answer lawful questions: see Rule 499, and notes.

This provision does not seem to apply in case of disobedience of a notice to produce given under Rule 493: see Merchants' Bank v. Pierson, 8 P. R. 123.

Service of notice on solicitor when sufficient.

521. Where the application for such last mentioned order is made by reason of default in production of books and papers in the Master's office, or pursuant to an order to produce, or in carrying in accounts, service of the notice of motion upon the solicitor of the party required to obey the same, is to be sufficient service. Chy. O. 296.

Motion to commit; service of notice of motion.

The application referred to in this Rule is one for an order absolute to commit for non-production of documents in the Master's office, or pursuant to an order to produce, or for not bringing in accounts. Service of a notice of motion to commit is generally required to be personal: Mann v. Perry, 50 L. J. Chy. 251, and see Gilbert's Chy. Pr. 198-9, but this Rule makes an exception to the general rule, in the cases mentioned: Re Harnden, Harnden v. Harnden, 11 P. R. 35; 21 C. L. J. 238.

Formerly the notice of motion to commit for breach of an order, of course was required to be a four clear days' notice: Gray v. Hatch, 2 Chy. Ch. 12, but two clear days' notice seems now sufficient: Rule 479; but see Exchange Bank v. Newell, 19 C. L. J. 253.

A motion to commit must be made before a Judge in Chambers: Keefe v. Ward, 18 C. L. J. 166.

Default; how established.

On motions to commit for non-production, or not bringing accounts into the Master's office, the Master is to determine whether the party has been sufficiently notified. The Master's certificate of default is the only evidence of default which is necessary, or can be used: Paxton v. Dryden, 6 P. R. 83; Wilson v. Wilson, 7 P. R. 57; but on motions to commit for non-production in the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs, or a Registrar, Local Registrar, Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or Deputy Registrar, it is necessary to prove the due service of the order, and also to produce the certificate of the officer that it has not been complied with: Ib.

The certificate of default should bear the latest possible date: Somerville v. Joyce, 1 Chy. Ch. 202. Such a certificate may be read, though no notice of reading it be given: Malloch v. Plunkett, 1 Chy. Ch. 381.

Where the order has been complied with, after notice of motion served, the motion will be refused, but the applicant will be entitled to his costs: Ib.; Berrie v. Moore, 1 Chy. Ch. 107.

Discharge from custody, on subsequent obedience.

And even after committal for not bringing in accounts, the party is entitled to be discharged on production of the Master's certificate that the accounts have been brought in, and the sufficiency of the accounts will not be inquired into on the application for discharge, nor will the payment of costs be made a condition precedent of the discharge: Clark v. Clark, 3 Chy. Ch. 67.

Sufficiency of compliance; how determined.

Where the party has complied with the order, but it is contended his compliance is insufficient, the question of sufficiency must be determined in cases pending in the Master's office, by the Master upon a warrant to bring in a better affidavit, or accounts, as the case may be: Merkley v. Casselman, 1 Chy. Ch. 292; and see Wilson v. Wilson, 7 P. R. 57.

But where there is an alleged insufficient compliance with an order in the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs, Registrar, Local Registrar, Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or Deputy Registrar, the question of sufficiency must be determined on motion in Chambers to compel the party to bring in a better affidavit, or in default that he be committed: Ross v. Robertson, 2 Chy. Ch. 66.

Service of order on solicitor when sufficient.

522. Service of an order for discovery or inspection made against any party on his solicitor shall be sufficient service to found an application for an attachment for disobedience to the order. But the party against whom the application for an attachment is made may shew in answer to the application that he has had no notice or knowledge of the order. J. A. Rule 237.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 21, (1883, R. 364, which also includes an order for interrogatories). Chy. G. O. 136, was to the same effect.

This Rule was held to apply where after judgment in an action for specific performance, an order was obtained requiring defendant within four days to produce the abstract and all deeds and writings, etc., for the inspection of the plaintiff, and this order was served on the defendant's solicitor: Joy v. Hadley, 22 Ch. D. 571.

Attachment of solicitor.

523. A solicitor upon whom an order against any party for discovery or inspection is served under the last Rule, who neglects without reasonable excuse to give notice thereof to his client shall be liable to an attachment. J. A. Rule 238.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 22, (1883, R. 365).

Rules as to examination, discovery and inspection to apply to parties residing out of Ontario.

524. The preceding Rules as to preliminary examination of parties, and discovery and inspection of documents, shall, so far as practicable, apply to parties residing out of Ontario, and in such cases the Court or Judge may order the examination of the parties to be taken at such place and in such manner as may seem just and convenient, and service of the order for examination, discovery or inspection, and of all other papers necessary to obtain the benefit of the provisions of the said Rules shall be sufficient if made on the solicitor of the party in the action, in the same manner as other papers in the action are served on the solicitor therein; unless the Court or Judge makes other order to the contrary; and if there is no such solicitor, or he cannot for any reason be served, the Court or Judge may order the service in any other manner to be mentioned in the order in that behalf. 41 V. c. 8, s. 9.

10 Motions and other Applications.

(i) Generally.

Application to Court or Judge to be by motion.

525. Where any application is authorized to be made to the Court or a Judge in an action or proceeding, such application shall be made by motion. J. A. Rule 404.

By the Eng. R. 1875, O. 53, r. 1, (1883, R. 696) it is only to a Divisional Court, or to a Judge sitting in Court, that the application is by motion. When made to a Judge in Chambers, a rule or order to shew cause continues in England to be the course.

A notice of motion for attachment stating that the Court would be moved at the Royal Courts of Justice was held sufficient: Petty v. Daniel, 34 Ch. D. 172.

No rule or order nisi.

526. No summons, rule or order to shew cause shall be granted in any action [or matter]; but when any person other than the applicant is entitled to be heard thereon, he shall be served with a notice of the motion. See J. A. Rules 405, 412.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 53, r. 2, had not the words "or matter," and instead of the last clause, like original Rule 405, concluded as follows: "except in the cases in which an application for such rule or order is expressly authorized by these Rules." The Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 697, is different. For want of the omitted words "or matter," there was a difference in England between rules or orders made in actions and those made in "matters."

Thus in motions to set aside an award the old practice was held to prevail: Re Philips & Gill, 1 Q. B. D. 78; Robinson v. Robinson, 24 W. R. 65; 35 L. T. N. S. 337; Re Ogilvie's Arbitration, W. N. 1879, 151. But motions against Sheriffs to compel the payment over of moneys levied under an execution: Delmar v. Freemantle, 3 Ex. D. 237; (but see Fowler v. Ashford, 45 L. T. N. S. 46); motions to refer back a report to a referee: Graves v. Taylor, 27 W. R. 412; Dyke v. Cannell, W. N. 1883, 105; and motions to strike a solicitor off the Rolls: Re Solicitor, W. N. 1880, 36; Re Copp, 32 W. R. 25, were held not expressly authorized by the Rules (prior to 1883, R. 697) to be by rule to shew cause, and therefore should be by notice of motion.

These distinctions probably do not exist in this Province under the wider terms of the above Rule.

As to motions to set aside awards, see Rule 534.

This Rule forbids the granting of a rule to shew cause where an application is made in the County Court against the judgment of a County Court Judge who tries without a jury: Williams v. Crow, 10 Ont. App. 301.

In Re Leader Lane Arbitration, 13 P. R. 163, it was held that a motion on which, before the Rules, the applicant was not entitled to be heard may under this Rule be made ex parte.

In Hewison v. Pembroke, 6 Ont. 170, Rose, J., held that in motions to quash by-laws the authority to make the motion was not derived from the Rules but from s. 322 of the Municipal Act, or s. 334 of 46 Vict. c. 18, and by that section the procedure was to be by rule, more especially since 46 V. c. 18, s. 334, was passed after The Judicature Act and Rules. Since that decision the Revised Statutes have re-enacted the provisions of above sec. 334 (R. S. O. 1887, c. 184, s. 332), and the Con. Rules passed subsequently to the Statutes have repeated the above Rule 526. It has therefore been held in Re Peck & Ameliasburg, 12 P. R. 664, that on motions to quash by-laws the practice is now derived from the Rules, and such motions are therefore no longer to be by rule nisi, but by notice of motion under Rule 526. In view, however, of the terms of the Mun. Act, (R. S. O., c. 184), s. 332, the notice of motion to quash must be served four clear days before the day on which the motion is to be made. A notice not sufficient under the last decision, was held to have been waived by demanding affidavits, and obtaining an enlargement of the motion: Re Farting & Morrisburg, 9 C. L. T. 109. Rules 527, 528.

Affidavits to be read in support of a notice of motion must be filed before the notice is served: Rule 615. Affidavits in answer to a motion must be filed before they can be read but not necessarily filed the day before, as was formerly the practice in Chancery.

Where a party obtained an enlargement on terms to file affidavits, but did not comply with the terms, he was not allowed to read the affidavits: Campbell v. Martin, 11 P. R. 509.

Notice of motion. When orders ex parte can be made.

527. The Court or Judge, if satisfied that the delay caused by proceeding by notice of motion would or might entail irreparable or serious mischief, may make any order ex parte, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise, and subject to such undertaking, if any, as the Court or Judge may think just: and any party affected by such order may move to set aside [or vary] the same. J. A. Rule 406.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 53, r. 3 (1883, R. 698), has not the words, "or vary."

As to what motions are ex parte, see Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 1441, 1909, and Rule 533.

No order of any moment should be made ex parte except in a case of emergency: Thomas v. Storey, 11 P. R. 417. An ex parte order is always taken at the peril of the party, and is liable to be moved against, if improperly made, or if material facts are suppressed on the hearing of it: Sturgeon v. Hooker, 1 DeG. & S. 484; Re Gedye, 15 Beav. 254; Cartwright v. Hinds, 3 Ont. 384; Eynes v. Fisher, 4 Ont. 60.

Ex parte orders should be served as soon as possible: Church v. Marsh, 2 Ha. 652; Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 1436. An order made on a motion on which a party affected appeared, does not necessarily require to be served on such party: Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124.

A motion for leave to effect substituted service of a notice of motion is ex parte: Hamilton v. Davies, W. N. 1880, 82.

Motions for leave to appeal from a report: Hamilton v. Tweed, 9 P. R. 448; to stay execution: G. T. Ry. Co. v. Ont. & Quebec Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 420; to dismiss an abandoned appeal: Ormerod v. Beausdale, 54 L. T. N. S. 343; or under Rule 566: Hooey v. Gilbert, 12 P. R. 114, should not be made ex parte.

An ex parte order for the examination of a witness dangerously ill was upheld as being in accordance with the former Chancery practice: Baker v. Jackson, 10 P. R. 624.

As to moving against ex parte orders: see Rule 536 and notes.

Where the party moving does not appear, the motion is called an abandoned motion, and the opposite party is entitled to ask for the costs of it: Barry v. Exchange Trading Co., 1 Q. B. D. 77; costs of affidavits prepared but not filed at the date of abandonment were allowed, in Harrison v. Leutner, 16 Ch. D. 559.

As to proof of service where the opposite party does not appear, see Smear v. Webb, 25 Ch. D. 84, and note to Rule 616.

When guardian to be notified.

528. Where infants are concerned, no order dispensing with payment of money into Court is to be made without notice to the guardian ad litem of the infants. J. A. Rule 505.

All proper parties not served.

529. If on the hearing of a motion or other application, the Court or Judge is of opinion that any person to whom notice has not been given ought to have had notice, the Court or Judge may either dismiss the motion or application, or adjourn the hearing thereof in order that notice may be given, upon such terms, if any, as the Court or Judge may think fit to impose. J. A. Rule 408.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 53 r. 5 (1883, R. 701).

Interim alimony.

530. No application for interim alimony shall be made until the time for delivering the defence has expired. Chy. O. 489.

Interim Alimony.—For form of indorsement on writ of claim for interim alimony: see Form 9 (k). If the indorsement is omitted, an application for interim alimony may be made, but in such case it will only run from the date of the order; and no costs of the motion will be allowed: Peterson v. Peterson, 6 P. R. 150.

The application may be made at any time after a statement of defence has been filed: Gorman v. Gorman, before Proudfoot, V.C., 20th September, 1875; or after the time for delivering it has expired: Peck v. Peck, 9 P. R. 299; unless the defendant has given notice under Rule 738.

The allowance of alimony pendente lite depends on the marital relationship between the parties existing de facto, and the Court exercises a discretion in granting or withholding alimony pendente lite which is regulated by the circumstances of each case: Walker v. Walker, 10 P. R. 633.

Interim alimony when allowed.

Interim alimony is allowed, when necessary, for the maintenance of the plaintiff: Soules v. Soules, 3 Gr. 113; Thompson v. Thompson, L. R. 1 P. & D. 553; but not as of course, and if the plaintiff is shown not to be in need of support, it may be refused: Bradley v. Bradley, 3 Chy. Ch. 329; Smith v. Smith, 6 P. R. 51; Knapp v. Knapp, 12 P. R. 105. Interim alimony is payable from the date of the service of the writ, if there has been no delay in making the application: Howe v. Howe, 3 Chy. Ch. 494; Thompson v. Thompson, 9 P. R. 526; 19 C. L. J. 252, and the claim for interim alimony is indorsed on the writ: Peterson v. Peterson, 6 P. R. 150. Where the plaintiff was living in the defendant's house and brought the action for alimony on the ground of alleged desertion, without alleging cruelty, and the husband by his defence and affidavit offered to resume co-habitation, interim alimony was refused: Snider v. Snider, 11 P. R. 140; but where it was proved that the plaintiff though living in the defendant's homestead was in need, it was allowed: Lolande v. Lolande, 11 P. R. 143.

From what date allowed.

Evidence required on motion for interim alimony.

On a motion for interim alimony, it is sufficient if a de facto marriage be proved: Taylor v. Taylor, 1 Chy. Ch. 234; its validity cannot be inquired into: Bradley v. Bradley, supra; Nolan v. Nolan, 1 Chy. Ch. 368; Carr v. Carr, 2 Chy. Ch. 71; Walker v. Walker, 10 P. R. 363; nor can any question affecting the merits of the action; thus, alleged adultery by plaintiff cannot be raised on such an application: Campbell v. Campbell, 6 P. R. 128; nor the question whether the plaintiff is justified in leaving the defendant: Wilson v. Wilson, Ib., 129; Keith v. Keith, 7 P. R. 41.

Plaintiff must undertake to proceed to trial at next sittings.

The plaintiff is usually required to undertake to proceed to a trial of the action at the next sittings; but where the defendant neglected to pay the alimony, and the plaintiff was left without means of taking the case to trial, the undertaking was extended: Bowslaugh v. Bowslaugh, 6 P. R. 200; and where the cause had been entered for trial, it was ordered to stand over, until a sum sufficient to pay plaintiff's witnesses was paid by defendant: Haffey v. Haffey, 7 P. R. 137.

It would seem that the plaintiff's solicitor has no lien for his costs on moneys paid to him for interim alimony: Cross v. Cross, 43 L. T. N. S. 533; and see Re Robinson, 77 L. T. Jour. 23; Leete v. Leete, 40 L. T. N. S. 788.

Where interim alimony had not been applied for, the Court refused to order the permanent alimony to run from a date prior to the decree: Soules v. Soules, 3 Gr. 113. But where the husband had agreed to a separation, and to pay the plaintiff an allowance, the Court awarded permanent alimony at the rate agreed to be paid by defendant, and directed payment from the date of the writ, though no application had been made for interim alimony: Mallory v. Mallory, before Boyd, C., at Cobourg, 2nd April, 1883; and permanent alimony has been granted from the service of the writ, where no application for interim alimony was made, and judgment was obtained on motion in default of defence (the notice of motion for judgment, stating that it would be so asked): Hagarty v. Hagarty, before Boyd, C., 11th Feb., 1885.

Where interim alimony not applied for, permanent alimony ordered only from date of service of writ. Exception to rule.

The payment of interim alimony has been stayed until the plaintiff produced on oath books and papers which she had taken from her husband, and which deprived him of the means of paying it: Old v. Old, 9 P. R. 552.

Where, after an order for interim alimony, the wife returned to her husband's house, and resided there for some time, but was afterwards compelled to leave, by reason of cruelty; a motion to set aside the order for interim alimony on the ground of condonation was refused: Maxwell v. Maxwell, 1 Chy. Ch. 27.

Motion to set aside order.

An order cannot be made in Chambers, even on consent, for payment of permanent alimony, as that is equivalent to a judgment in the action: see Craig v. Craig, 1 Chy. Ch. 41.

Amount to be Allowed.—There is no fixed rule as to the amount to be allowed for interim alimony. In England, the rule is usually to allow about one-fifth of the annual income of the husband, but it is in the discretion of the Court, and may vary according to the circumstances of the case. But in this Province a percentage on the income is not always the measure for the allowance, and the value of the defendant's labour may also be taken into account: McCulloch v. McCulloch, 10 Gr. 320. The allowance is usually less than would be allowed as permanent alimony, the wife being bound pendente lite to live in retirement and seclusion: Coote Eccl. Pr. 338; Rees v. Rees, 3 Phill. 389; Hawkes v. Hawkes, 1 Hagg. 526; Otway v. Otway, 2 Phill. 108. As to the effect of The Married Women's Property Act, on the right to alimony, see Wilson v. Wilson, 2 Hagg. 204; Milne v. Milne, 2 L. R. P. & M. 202; 23 L. T. N. S. 877.

Amount to be allowed for interim alimony.

Where the defendant had agreed to pay the plaintiff an allowance for her separate maintenance, and subsequently a suit was brought for alimony, and for specific performance of the agreement, and the plaintiff obtained an order for interim alimony, and subsequently a decree for specific performance, it was held that the plaintiff was bound to credit the sums received as interim alimony on account of the sums payable under the agreement: Maxwell v. Maxwell, 7 P. R. 63.

Where a plaintiff in an alimony suit improperly registered a lis pendens the certificate was vacated, and the costs of the motion were ordered to be deducted from the interim alimony: Crandell v. Crandell, 20 C. L. J. 329. See White v. White, 6 P. R. 208, and notes to Rule 243, p. 280.

Costs.—In addition to interim alimony, the plaintiff is also entitled to an order for payment de die in diem of the cash disbursements, properly made by her solicitor: Rule 1185.

Costs de die in diem.

These disbursements do not include fees to agents for solicitor's services, but fees to counsel, even where the solicitor or his partner, is the counsel, may be included: Bradley v. Bradley, 10 P. R. 571; 21 C. L. J. 141; Ingram v. Ingram, 10 P. R. 569; Maguru v. Maguru, 10 P. R. 570; but see observations of Osler, J.A., in this case, and Lolande v. Lolande, 11 P. R. 143, where Proudfoot, J., refused to follow Maguru v. Maguru, supra. But where an order for interim alimony was granted (the defendant not appearing on the motion), for the amount indorsed on the bill, and the defendant subsequently moved to reduce the amount as excessive; a reference was granted, on payment of full costs of the application: Hooper v. Hooper, 3 Chy. Ch. 114.

Rules 531-534.

Where before trial an alimony suit is compromised by the parties, the plaintiff returning to co-habitation with the defendant, the solicitor of the plaintiff is not entitled to his costs from the defendant as between solicitor and client, but only to cash disbursements: Ringrove v. Ringrove, 10 P. R. 299, 596, overruling Leonard v. Leonard, 9 P. R. 450; Moore v. Moore, 10 P. R. 284; and see Thompson v. Thompson, 57 L. T. N. S. 374; but see Rule 1170; Ferris v. Ferris, 7 Ont. 496; Re Friedburg, 10 P. D. 112.

Registration of order.

Registration of Order.—An order for payment of interim alimony and disbursements may be registered; see R. S. O. 1887 c. 44, s. 30, supra p. 23. Miller v. Miller, 8 C. L. T. 120.

Adjournment.

531. The hearing of any motion or application may from time to time be adjourned upon such terms, if any, as the Court or Judge shall think fit. J. A. Rule 409.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 53, r. 6 (1883, R. 702).

Service before appearance.

532. The plaintiff shall, without any special leave, be at liberty to serve any notice of motion or other notice, or any petition upon any defendant, who, having been duly served with a writ of summons to appear in the action, has not appeared within the time limited for that purpose. J. A. Rule 410.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 53, r. 7 (1883 R. 703).

Service with writ or before time for appearance.

533. The plaintiff may [also, without any special leave] serve a notice of motion for an injunction, and may, by leave of the Court or a Judge to be obtained ex parte, serve any [other] notice of motion, upon any defendant along with the writ of summons, or at any time after issue of the writ of summons, and before the time limited for the appearance of such defendant. J. A. Rule 411.

The words in brackets which were not in the Eng. R. 1875, O. 53, r. 8, are in that of 1883, R. 704; the Rules are otherwise the same. The above Rule thus makes a distinction between notices of motion for an injunction and other notices of motion, authorizing the former to be served before appearance, without leave, but requiring leave for such service in the case of other notices of motion. The English Rule requires previous leave, in all cases in which notice is served before the time limited for appearance, but the corresponding Irish Rule was held in French v. Colles, 17 L. R. Ir. 238, not to apply to injunctions.

Where an affidavit was sworn before the issue of the writ, an injunction was granted ex parte on the undertaking of counsel to have the affidavit re-sworn and filed: Green v. Prior, W. N. 1886, 50.

Irregularity to be stated in notice.

534. A notice of motion to set aside any proceeding for irregularity must specify clearly the irregularity complained of and the several objections intended to be insisted on. Chy. O. 277. Rules T. T. 1856, 107.

This Rule is to the same effect as Eng. R. of 1883, 1039, and is in accordance with the former Chy. Practice; see Poole v. Poole, 2 Chy. Ch. 379; Donelly Jones, 4 Chy. Ch. 48; O'Reilly v. Moore, 1 C. L. T. 565.

It may be sufficient if the notice refers to grounds of irregularity appearing in the affidavits. Where an irregularity complained of, was not thus specified, the motion was dismissed, though the irregularity was proved: Dominion S. & I. Co. v. Kilroy, 12 P. R. 19; see also Blain v. Blain, 9 P. R. 269; and Petty v. Daniel, 34 Ch. D. 172. Rules 535-537.

A party moving against an irregularity must himself be regular, and is not entitled to any indulgence: Scott v. Burnham, 3 Chy. Ch. 399; Waterous v. Farran, 6 P. R. 31; Poole v. Poole, 2 Chy. Ch. 379; Donelly v. Jones, 4 Chy. Ch. 48; he must move promptly: Miller v. Miller, 9 U. C. L. J. 132; and before taking a fresh step in the action: Manning v. Birely, 2 C. L. J. 331; Larkin v. Armstrong, 1 Chy. Ch. 31; Mulkern v. Doerks, 51 L. T. N. S. 429; Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 395; or making any demand respecting the alleged irregular proceedings which would put the opposite party to expense: Carpenter v. Hamilton, 2 Chy. Ch. 282; Bennett v. O'Meara, 2 Chy. Ch. 167; Re Farlinger and Morrisburg, 9 C. L. T. 109; or he may be held to have waived the irregularity. Party moving must be regular, and move promptly.

Proceedings that are merely irregular are valid until set aside, but a nullity has no effect whatever: Fuller v. McLean, 8 P. R. 549.

535. Every notice of motion by way of appeal or to set aside an award shall specify the grounds intended to be insisted on. See Rules T. T. 1856, 141. Motion against award.

536. Any party affected by an ex parte order, except the party issuing the same, may move to rescind or vary the same before the Judge or officer who made the order, or any Judge or officer having jurisdiction, within four days from the time of its coming to his notice, or within such further time as the Court or Judge may allow, and whether it has been acted upon by the party issuing the order or not. New. Ex parte orders may be moved against.

This Rule was passed to meet the objections and difficulties raised in Ryan v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 535; McNabb v. Oppenheimer, 11 P. R. 214, and Taylor v. Sisters of Charity, ib. 496; see Hughes v. Field, 9 P. R. 127.

See also Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249.

In Reid v. Trimmer, 9 C. L. T. 391, it was held that where an order made after an enlargement was refused, and the opposing party had no material in answer to the motion, the order was not an ex parte one and a motion against it should be by way of appeal.

An ex parte order in general should be served: see Dan. Pr., 5th ed. 1436; an order made on a motion, on which a party affected by the order was represented, does not require to be served on such party: Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124.

537. All motions, ~~demurrers~~, special cases, appeals and other matters to be heard in Court at the weekly sittings, except ex parte applications, shall be set down for argument in the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs, who shall post up in a convenient place a list of the cases so set down, not later than the day before the day for which the same are so set down, and shall furnish a copy of such list Setting down motions.

to the Registrar or other officer who is to attend the sittings of the Court. See J. A. Rule 600.

The operation of this Rule, so far as it directs the setting down to be with the Clerk of R. & W., is probably postponed with Rules 210-212. The former mode of setting down is in practice still followed.

Mode of setting down motions.

538. All motions and applications to the Court required to be set down for argument, and all appeals, ~~demurrers~~ and special cases shall be set down by delivering to the proper officer a præcipe specifying the matter to be set down and the day for argument thereof, and requiring him to set the same down. ~~When a married woman, infant, or person of unsound mind is a party to the action, a copy of the order giving leave to enter a special case for argument shall also be produced.~~ J. A. Rule 202, 252.

Original Rule 202 was the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 28, r. 13.

Original Rule 252 was the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 34, r. 5 (1883, R. 393.

As to demurrer-books, and notice to the opposite party, see Rule 540.

A special case must be argued before a single Judge, unless all parties agree to its being heard before a Divisional Court: see ss. 61, and 62, of the Act and Rule 219.

Setting down demurrer.

539. Where a demurrer either to the whole or part of a pleading is delivered, either party may enter the demurrer for argument immediately, and the party so entering such demurrer shall, on the same day, give notice thereof to the other party. J. A. Rule 195, first part.

For form of entry of demurrer for argument, see Appendix Form No. 99; and of notice of entry, No. 28. As to service of an order for leave to amend, see Rule 390.

Where there are cross-demurrers, and the burden of proof is on defendant, so that if he fails his cross-demurrer becomes immaterial, he will be entitled to begin: Clark v. Bradlaugh, 7 Q. B. D. 38.

Setting down demurrers and special cases.

Copy of demurrer book or case to be left for Judge.

540. ~~Demurrers and~~ special cases shall be set down to be heard, and notice thereof given to the opposite party, 6 clear days before the day on which ~~they are~~ to be heard; and a copy of ~~the~~ demurrer book, ~~or of~~ the special case, shall be left at the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs, for the use of the Judge before whom the ~~demurrer, or~~ special case, is to be heard, 2 days before the day appointed for the hearing. Rules H. C. J., v., vi.

See notes to Rule 386.

The demurrer-book in cases in the Q. B. and C. P. Divisions will be left with the officer who sits in the Court each week, until such time as Rules 210-212 are brought into force: see note to Rule 537.

541. All other motions and applications to the Court, except ex parte applications, are to be set down at latest on the day before the day of argument, unless the Court otherwise orders. New.

Rules 541, 542. Time for setting down.

The matters which may be disposed of in Chambers are too numerous to specify in detail. Some of them are enumerated in the notes to Rule 542. Those applications which may be entertained by the Master in Chambers, and Local Judges and Masters, are specified in Rules 30, 41, and 138.

A Judge has jurisdiction to make an order which can be made in Chambers, when sitting in his private room: Hartmont v. Foster, 8 Q. B. D. 82.

542. The following business shall be disposed of in Chambers, together with such other matters as the Court from time to time thinks may be more conveniently disposed of there than in Court, viz.:—

Business to be transacted in Chambers.

1. For the sale of the estates of infants, under the Revised Statutes of Ontario.

2. As to the guardianship, maintenance and advancement of infants;

3. For the administration of estates upon motion, without action;

4. Relating to the conduct of actions or matters;

5. As to matters connected with the management of property;

6. For the payment into Court of moneys, by parties desiring on their own behalf to pay the same. Chy. O. 197.

Additional cases to which jurisdiction in Chambers extends:

The jurisdiction in Chambers extends to other matters, in addition to the business enumerated in Rule 542, e.g.:—

Applications to set aside, fraudulent conveyances by judgment debtors.

1. Summary applications to set aside fraudulent conveyances by execution debtors: Rule 1007; or for sale of equitable interests of execution debtors in lands: Rule 1008. Applications of this kind could formerly only be made to a Judge: Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; but now the Master in Chambers, Local Judges, and Local Masters, appear to have jurisdiction. Formerly in such cases the application was made for an order nisi: Wark v. Moulton, 7 P. R. 144, but now the proper mode of procedure is to serve a notice of motion: Rules 526, 479. Substituted service on an absconding execution debtor may be allowed: Dobson v. Marshall, 9 P. R. 1. The debtor may be ordered to pay the costs of an application for sale: Watts v. Hobson, 7 P. R. 334.

Motions for judgment in mortgage cases

2. Motions for judgment in ordinary mortgage actions, for sale or foreclosure, or for redemption, where infants are concerned: see Rule 717. The Master in Chambers, Official Referees when sitting for him, and Local Judges, and in the cases mentioned in Rule 138 the Local Masters, have jurisdiction to entertain such applications.

Partition.

3. Motions for judgment by adult parties, in actions for partition, under Rules 989, 990: motions of this kind cannot be entertained by the Master in Chambers: Re Arnott, Chatterton v. Chatterton, 8 P. R. 39; but are in certain cases within the jurisdiction of the Local Masters, but not of the County Court Judges, unless they be also Local Masters. See Rule 41, which in effect limits the jurisdiction of the County Court Judges, who are not Masters, to that exercised by the Master in Chambers.

Administration.

4. Motions for judgment on summary applications for administration, may also be made in certain cases, to Local Masters, under Rule 972; motions of this kind may also be made to the Master in Chambers: Rule 965; and County Court Judges who are not Local Masters, but if opposed, their jurisdiction is excluded under Rule 30; but opposed applications for administration are not excluded from the jurisdiction of the Local Masters; see Rule 972. As to procedure on motions for administration: see Rules 965, et seq. and notes.

For judgment under Rule 739.

5. Motions for leave to enter judgment after appearance to a specially indorsed writ, under Rule 739.

To convey free from dower.

6. Applications to enable the owner of land, to convey free from the dower of his wife, under R. S. O. c. 133, ss. 9, 10 and 11; Re Eagles, 7 P. R. 241; Re Campbell, 25 Gr. 187, 480; but it seems probable that applications of this kind can only be entertained by a Judge.

To appoint, or dispense with appointment of, representative of estate.

7. Applications to appoint, or to dispense with the appointment of, a person to represent the estate of a deceased person under Rule 310. The Master in Chambers, Official Referee sitting for him, and County Court Judges; and Local Masters when acting under Rule 138, have jurisdiction to entertain such applications: Collver v. Swayzie, 8 P. R. 42.

Habeas corpus.

8. Applications for writs of habeas corpus may be made to a Judge in Chambers; R. S. O. c. 70; Re Paton, 4 Gr. 147. As to whether a Judge can in Chambers rescind his own order for a writ of habeas corpus, or quash the writ itself on the ground that it issued improvidently, see Re Ross, 3 P. R. 301. The Master in Chambers, Local Judges, and Local Masters, cannot entertain applications of this kind: Rules 30, 41, 138.

For declaration of lunacy.

9. Applications to declare a person a lunatic under R. S. O. c. 54, s. 8; Re Paton, 1 Chy. Ch. 192; Re Flemming, 13 C. L. J. N. S. 197; Re Kelly, 6 P. R. 220, or for a commission de lunatico: Re Stuart, 4 Gr. 44. The supposed lunatic is entitled to notice of the application: Re Miller, 1 Chy. Ch. 215, unless the Court on proper evidence of its being dangerous, or useless, to serve him, dispenses with service: Re Newman, 2 Chy. Ch. 390; Re Mein, Ib., 429. Applications of this kind can only be made before a Judge: see Rule 30, (3); but where an order has been made declaring the lunacy, the Master in Chambers has jurisdiction to entertain applications respecting the property of the lunatic, under R. S. O. c. 54, s. 11, et seq.

Applications in Chambers, to whom to be made:

When Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction, matters may be brought before a Judge.

Applications proper to be made in Chambers, but which are excluded from the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, Official Referee, Local Masters, and County Court Judges, may be made before a Judge of the High Court in Chambers. In the Queen's Bench, and Common Pleas Divisions, a Judge sits in Chambers on Tuesday and Friday, and in the Chancery Division on Monday, in each week, except in vacation, when special arrangements are made.

Applications which can be made in Chambers should be made there, and not in Court: Moffatt v. Ruddle, 4 Gr. 44; Anon Ib., 61; or the costs may be refused: Murney v. Courtney, 16 Gr. 52; or allowed only as of a motion in Chambers: King v. Connor, 10 Gr. 364.

The Master in Chambers, County Court Judges, or Local Masters, may refer matters proper for the decision of a Judge of the High Court to a Judge of the High Court: see Rules 32 and 42.

Matters not to be unnecessarily brought before a Judge.

Matters coming before any officer of the Court having jurisdiction in Chambers, should not be referred to a Judge because the parties desire it, but only when the officer can certify that it is a proper case to be heard before a Judge; and matters improperly referred to a Judge will not be entertained: Hughes v. Rees, 9 P. R. 86.

Sale of Infants' Estates.—As to the mode of proceeding for sale of infants' estate, see R. S. O. c. 137, ss. 3, 4, and Rule 994 et seq. and notes. Rule 543. Sale of infants' estates.

Guardianship, and Maintenance, etc., of Infants.—As to mode of proceeding for appointment of guardians, see Rules 996, 997; opposed applications respecting the guardianship of the person, or property, of infants, are excluded from the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, see Rule 30 (9), and also from that of the Local Judges: Rule 41; and Local Masters: Rule 138. The authority of the High Court is not excluded by R. S. O. c. 137, ss. 10-12: Re Stannard, 1 Chy. Ch. 15. Guardianship of infants.

Applications respecting the custody of infants under R. S. O. c. 137, s. 1, may be made to a Judge in Chambers: see Re Davis, 3 Chy. Ch. 277; Re Keith, 7 P. R. 138; Re Eves, 15 Gr. 580; Re Murdoch, 9 P. R. 132; Re Smith, 8 P. R. 23; Re Scott, Ib. 58; Re Ferguson, Ib. 556; but not to the Master in Chambers: see Rule 30, (6); nor to the Local Judges: Rule 41; nor to the Local Masters: Rule 138.

Injunctions, and Receivers.—Applications for injunctions and receivers, are usually made in Court, but where a receiver has been appointed and dies, the application for the appointment of another in his place may be made in Chambers: Grote v. Bing, 9 Hare App. 1; but the appointment was made in the first instance in Chambers, by consent in Blackborough v. Ravenhill, 16 Jur. 1085, and in a proceeding originating in Chambers, 22 Sol. Jour. 914. Injunctions, and receivers.

Appeals from the Master in Chambers, Local Masters, County Court Judges, or Official Referees, where exercising the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers: Rule 846; and also appeals from the taxation of costs: Rule 851, may now be brought before a Judge in Chambers. Appeals.

Motions to Commit.—Motions to commit for contempt, by reason of disobedience of an order in Chambers, or a præcipe order, may be made in Chambers, but where the disobedience is of a court order the motion should be made in Court: Verral v. Hardy, 9 C. L. T. 310, following Klein v. Union Fire Ins. Co., 3 C. L. T. 601.

543. An order shall be in the Form No. 120 in the Appendix hereto, with such variations as circumstances require. It shall be (a) marked with the name of the Judge or officer by whom it is made. J. A. Rule 413. Form of order.

(a) The Eng. R. 39 of April 1880, has here the additional words "sealed and." The two Rules are otherwise the same.

Orders in Chambers should be dated on the day on which they are finally made, and should not be ante-dated, nor contain recitals of affidavits sworn after the date of the order: Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768; nor upon an application by a defendant against the plaintiff, should the order be drawn up stating that a co-defendant appeared who, in fact did appear, but who had not been served with the notice or summons: Evelyn v. Evelyn, 28 W. R. 531.

Where an order is expressed to last until a particular day "or until further order," the words "further order" mean an order made on an earlier day than the day specified: Bolton v. London School Board, 7 Ch. D. 766.

Where an order is made by consent without mistake, such consent cannot be withdrawn, even before the order is passed and entered: Harvey v. Croydon, 26 Ch. D. 247, over-ruling Rogers v. Horn, 26 W. R. 432: see also Holt v. Jesse, 3 Ch. D. 177: Elsas v. Williams, infra; Re West Devon Coal Mines, 38 Ch. D. 51; 58 L. T. N. S. 61. But the Court has jurisdiction to discharge an order made on an interlocutory application by consent where it is proved to have been made under a mistake, though that mistake was on one side only: Mullins v. Howell, 11 Ch. D. 763; and even a judgment pronounced by consent has been given on the faith of an instrument being genuine, which afterwards turned out to be a forgery: Priestman v. Thomas, 9 P. D. 210; 51 L. T. N. S. 843; but a consent order will not be set aside because one of the parties finds it to be less beneficial than he expected: Cousineau v. London Fire Insurance Co. 12 P. R. 512; Powell v. Smith, L. R. 14 Eq. 85; Midland and G. W. Ry. Co. v. Johnson, 6 H. L. C. at p. 811.

A consent to a perpetual injunction was not allowed to be withdrawn merely because the defendant afterwards discovered that he had a defence: Elsas v. Williams, 52 L. T. N. S. 39; 54 L. J. Chy. 336.

Where the Judge at the trial ruled adversely to the defendant, but in compliance with the request of his counsel modified his ruling; it was held that the judgment was not by consent, and defendant was not precluded from moving against it: Sweeney v. Sweeney, 16 Ont. 92.

A defendant gave an undertaking at the hearing to make certain payments to the plaintiff; the order was drawn up two or three weeks later, and the undertaking was embodied in it; the undertaking was given under a misapprehension of fact; but application to discharge the defendant from the undertaking was refused, on the ground that the facts were ascertainable by the defendant, and that the application was under these circumstances too late: Attorney-General v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388.

Clerk to sign orders in Judge's Chambers.

544. All orders made by a Judge of the High Court in Chambers in Toronto shall be signed by the Clerk in Chambers, whose duty it shall be to see that such orders are in due form before signing the same. J. A. Rule 582.

Appeals.

545. Every appeal to be heard in Chambers shall be set down for argument with the Clerk ~~of Records and Writs~~ at latest on the day before the day of argument, and a list of cases to be heard on any day shall be prepared and exposed as soon as the time expires for setting down cases for that day. New.

This Rule is considered to apply at present in the Chy. Div., where the practice has been in accordance with it, but its general operation is postponed with Rules 210-212.

Certain orders to be entered in full.

546. All orders for administration, or partition, made in Chambers shall be drawn up as judgments and entered in like manner as other judgments are required to be entered. All orders declaring persons lunatics, or for the sale of infants' estates, or for payment of money into, or out of, Court, or for continuing proceedings upon the death or transmission of interest of any party to an action, and all final orders of sale or foreclosure, and all vesting orders, shall be entered in full in a book to be provided for the purpose, before the same shall be issued or acted on. J. A. Rule 583.

Where account taken in Chambers

547. Where an account is taken in Chambers, special directions may be given with respect to the mode in which the account is to be taken and vouched; and the proceedings shall be as nearly as may be the same as upon a reference to a Master under Rules 63 to 66 and 46 to 48. See Chy. O. 200. Rules 848-850.

Accounts are now rarely taken in Chambers, except in infancy matters; a reference to the Master being usually directed.

548. The Court may adjourn for consideration in Chambers any matter which, in the opinion of the Court, may be disposed of more conveniently in Chambers; and any matter pending in Chambers may be adjourned to open Court; and such matter may be so adjourned at the request of either party, subject to such order as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks right to impose. Chy. O. 203. Matters may be adjourned from Court to Chambers, or vice versa.

549. A Judge sitting in Chambers may exercise the same power and jurisdiction, in respect of the business brought before him, as is exercised by the Court; all orders made by a Judge in Chambers are to have the force and effect of orders of the Court; and all or any of the powers, authorities, and jurisdictions, given to the Master by any Act or Acts now in force, or by any Rule of the Court, may be exercised by a Judge in Chambers. Chy. O. 210. Judge in Chambers may exercise powers of Court, and also powers of the Master.

For the general powers conferred on Masters by these Rules, see Rules 46-88.

As regards the conducting of sales, settling conveyances and investigating titles, see Rules 89-115.

As regards the appointment of receivers and committees of lunatics, and passing their accounts, see Rules 116-123; and as regards actions for foreclosure, sale and redemption, see Rules 124-137.

11. Inquiries and Accounts.

550. The Court will not refer to arbitration. New. Arbitration.

Prior to this Rule there were three modes of referring matters not adjudicated upon at the trial: (1) to a Master, under the former Chy. Pr.; (2) to an arbitrator or referee, under secs. 189, 195 and 197 of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877 c. 50), re-enacted in the R. S. O. 1887, c. 53, ss. 1, 7 and 9; (3) to an Official Referee under the Jud. Act. (see secs. 101 and 102 supra pp. 95-101.

The object of this Rule, in conjunction with Rules 35, 36, 848-850, was to simplify and make more uniform the practice. Accordingly this Rule abolishes (see 51 V., c. 4, s. 4, Ont.) the modes of referring questions otherwise than to a Master or Official Referee; Rule 35 makes uniform the practice on references to a Master or Referee of such matters as may be referred to a Master, or a Referee, under sec. 101 of the Act; Rule 36 provides the practice on references to a Referee under sec. 102 of the Act; and Rules 848-50 provide a uniform mode of appeal from the Masters and Referees.

The R. S. O. 1887, c. 53 respecting arbitrations can have now little, if any, operation except in regard to voluntary references out of Court.

Rules 551, 552. Reference at any stage.

551. The Court or a Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings in a cause or matter, direct any necessary inquiries or accounts to be made or taken, notwithstanding that it may appear that there is some special or further relief sought for, or some special issue to be tried, as to which it may be proper that the cause or matter should proceed in the ordinary manner. J. A. Rule 244.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 33 (1883, R. 381).

A reference under this Rule may be to a Master, or other proper officer, or to an Official Referee, under sec. 101 of the Act. See notes to that section.

An inquiry was directed in West London Dairy Soc. v. Abbott, 29 W. R. 584; 44 L. T. N. S. 376, as to a question of fact, leaving questions of law for subsequent determination; and in Turquand v. Wilson, 1 Ch. D. 85, for taking of accounts of a partnership which defendant had admitted, by answer filed before the Judicature Act.

An order may sometimes be made under the combined authority of this Rule and Rule 757. See notes to that Rule and Turquand v. Wilson, supra; see also Re Barker's Estate, 10 Ch. D. 165-6; Rolfe v. Maclaren, 3 Ch. D. 106; Rumsey v. Reade, 1 Ch. D. 643.

An order under this Rule is not proper, where the issue in the action becomes thus liable to be tried on the reference: Garnham v. Skipper, 29 Ch. D. 566; see also Macdonald v. Piper, 10 P. R. 586.

By a judgment to set aside a contract and cancel a conveyance, an account was ordered to be taken, of moneys expended by the plaintiffs and received by them in respect of the purchased property, and a lien was given them for purchase money and any balance on the taking of the accounts. The defendants were in liquidation, and had no assets except the property. Taking of accounts was stayed as a useless expense, because the amounts due to the plaintiffs must in any case exceed the value of the property, with liberty to the defendants to proceed with the accounts at any time on giving security to abide by the Judge's order as to costs: Exchange, etc. v. Ass. of Land Financiers, 34 Ch. D. 195.

Provisions of reference to official or other referee.

552. Where a reference is made to any Official or other Referee under the Judicature Act, the Referee shall have all the powers as to certifying and amending of a Judge of the High Court of Justice, and shall make his report of and concerning the matters ordered to be tried pursuant to the statute;

(a) The Referee may, if he thinks fit, examine the parties to the action, and their respective witnesses, upon oath or affirmation, and the parties shall produce before the referee all books, deeds, papers and writings in their or either of their custody or power relating to the matters ordered to be tried;

(b) Neither the plaintiff nor the defendant shall bring or prosecute any action against the Referee, or against each other, of or concerning the matters ordered to be tried, and if either party by affected delay or otherwise wilfully prevents the Referee from making his report, he or they shall pay such costs to the other as the High Court, or any Judge thereof, may think reasonable and just; Rules 553, 554,

(c) In the event of the Referee declining to act, or dying before he has made his report, the parties may, or if they cannot agree, one of the Judges of the High Court may, upon application by either party, appoint a new Referee. J. A. Rule 245.

This Rule is taken from Form H. 32 in the Schedule appended to Eng. R. Sup. C., April, 1880. That was the form of an order for trial under the section corresponding to section 102 of the Act. The expression "the matters ordered to be tried" in the first clause, and clause (a), also indicates that this Rule only applies to references under section 102 "for trial" and not to references under section 101 "for inquiry and report."

Form 139 in the Appendix gives the form of an order under section 101, of the Act, and it is similar to the English form.

Form 140 is the form of order under section 102 of the Act. The English form contains the directions, etc., contained in this Rule. The present Rule and Rule 553 render unnecessary and improper the specification of these directions in orders in Ontario.

Clause (c) enables a Judge of the High Court to appoint a new Referee. The Master in Chambers has therefore no jurisdiction in the matter. See Rules 21 and 30.

Where an action has been referred under section 102, quære whether the Referee under this Rule has power to issue an order or direction for production like a Master; or whether an order on præcipe may still be obtained: see Hilderbroom v. McDonald, 8 P. R. 389. The Court may make an order: see Re Leigh, Rowcliffe v. Leigh, 4 Ch. D. 661; Dauvillier v. Myers, 17 Ch. D. 346; Cochrane v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 606. If the order of reference is made at a Sittings where the case has been brought down for trial, production will ordinarily have been previously obtained under Rule 508.

553. An order under the next preceding Rule shall be read as if it contained the provisions set forth in the said Rule, and shall not set forth the said provisions, but may contain any variation therefrom, and any other directions which the Court or Judge sees fit to make. J. A. Rule 247. Orders to be read as containing above provisions.

12. Special Cases.

554. The parties may after the writ of summons has been issued in any action, or in any pending matter not commenced by writ, concur in stating the questions of law arising in the action or matter in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court; Parties may concur in stating special case.

Compare Eng. R. 1875, O. 34, r. 1; that of 1883, R. 389, was, like this Rule, made to apply not merely in an action.

(a) The parties to a special case may, if they think fit, enter into an agreement in writing, that on the judgment

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 554. of the Court being given in the affirmative or negative of the question or questions of law raised by the special case, a sum of money, fixed by the parties, or to be ascertained by the Court or in such manner as the Court may direct, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other of them, either with or without costs of the action or matter; and the judgment of the Court may be entered for the sum so agreed or ascertained, with or without costs, as the case may be, and execution may issue upon such judgment forthwith, unless otherwise agreed, or unless stayed on appeal;

Compare Eng. R. 9 of April, 1880.

(c) Upon the argument of such case the Court and the parties shall be at liberty to refer to the whole contents of the documents referred to, and the Court shall be at liberty to draw from the facts and documents stated in any such special case any inference, whether of fact or law, which might have been drawn therefrom if proved at a trial. J. A. Rule 248.

Compare Eng. R. 1875, O. 34, r. 1 (1883, R. 389).

The several parts of this Rule correspond with the English Rules referred to, except in omitting a provision as to stamp duty.

The power of stating a special case in the Common Law Courts of Ontario depended upon R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 185, 186; c. 51, s. 24, and the previous statutory enactments to the same effect. The like power in Chancery was given by R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 85. That section was taken from 28 Vict. c. 17, s. 1 (Canada), which had the effect of introducing the Imperial Act, 13 & 14 Vict. c. 35, on the subject.

As to stating special cases where infants or persons not sui juris are interested, see supra, p. 26, and Rule 557.

The Rules authorize the stating of a special case before statement of claim: Metropolitan Board of Works v. New River Co., 1 Q. B. D. 727; 2 Q. B. D. 67.

Where pleadings are delivered and are admitted to state the facts, the case may come on as a motion for judgment under Rules 748 and 755: see Till v. Till, 15 Ont. 133.

The provision in the last part of the Rule, enabling the Court to refer to documents, was new as respects the Common Law Courts. Those Courts were confined within the four corners of the case, so that it was often necessary to set out documents, a part only of which was likely to prove material. The power to draw inferences of fact also did not exist in Common Law Courts as of right; though it was commonly specially reserved to the Court in well drawn cases. In cases stated in the Court of Chancery, the Court had both these powers under ss. 8, and 14, of 13 & 14 Vict. c. 35 (Imp.); 28 Vict. c. 17, s. 1; R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 85.

A special case must be upon a real state of facts, not a hypothetical one: Republic of Bolivia v. Bolivian Navigation Co., 24 W. R. 361; Bright v. Tyndall, 4 Ch. D. 189; Pryse v. Pryse, L. R. 15 Eq. 86; Smith v. Gibson, 25 L. T. N. S. 559; 20 W. R. 88; Savage v. Tyers, 20 W. R. 817; Bardwell v. Sheffield Water Works Co., L. R. 14 Eq. 517; and where not an original case (e.g. Bright v. Tyndall, supra) but stated in an action, only such questions of law can properly be raised as must necessarily arise in the action: Republic of Bolivia v.

National Bolivian Navigation Co., 24 W. R. 361. The Court should not be asked, upon a case stated without pleadings, to answer questions which could not be raised upon proper pleadings: Taylor v. Campbell, Postmaster-General, 33 U. C. Q. B. 264. Rule 554.

The Court is not bound to answer every question the parties may think fit to put: Viscount Barrington v. Liddell, 2 DeG. M. & G. 480, 506; Seton 34. It will not in general declare future rights: Savage v. Tuers, 20 W. R. 817; Lady Langdale v. Briggs, 8 DeG. M. & G. 426, 427, 428; Earl of Tyrone v. Waterford, 6 Jur. N. S. 567; Greenwood v. Sutherland, 10 Ha. App. 12; Garlick v. Larron, Ib. 15; but has occasionally done so: Bogg v. Midland, L. R. 4 Eq. 310; Byam v. Byam, 19 Beav. 58; nor will the Court make any order where the facts stated do not enable it to determine the rights of the parties: Bulkeley v. Hope, 8 DeG. M. & G. 36.

A very special order having by consent been made for the purpose of obtaining the judgment of the Court under Eng. R. 1875, O. 40, r. 8 (corresponding with Rule 754) the Master of the Rolls discharged the order, as the effect of it would be to make the Judge an arbitrator between the parties, who would thus, contrary to their intention, be deprived of the right of appeal: Republic of Bolivia v. National Bolivian Navigation Co., W. N. 1876, 77; 24 W. R. 361.

Except by consent a special case, after having been finally agreed to, cannot be reopened: Hamilton v. Staley, 28 Sol. Jour. 478. Affidavits cannot be received to alter or modify a special case stated by consent. The only relief open to the party complaining that a case has been misstated, is to apply to amend or vacate it, and quære whether it could be amended after judgment: Cousineau v. City of London F. Ins. Co. 15 Ont. 329.

A special case was amended by leave, at the hearing, by adding a party in existence before the case was filed, but accidentally omitted; and the case as amended was ordered to be set down against the added defendant: Barnaby v. Tassell, L. R. 11 Eq. 363. Where new parties come into existence after a special case is set down they should be made parties to the proceeding: Palmer v. Flower, 18 W. R. 887; Atty v. Etough, L R. 13 Eq. 462; Savage v. Snell, L. R. 11 Eq. 264 See Peter v. Peter, W. N. 1884, 45, 60; 32 W. R. 409, and 515, in note to Rule 622.

Amendment after judgment on a special case was refused: Re Taylor, Tomlin v. Underhay, 22 Ch. D. 495. But where a special case is stated in an action and a decision given upon it, under a mistake of fact, the Court is not bound by the decision, unless it has been adopted by subsequent orders, but may disregard it and direct the action to go on to trial: Ib.

The following are examples of special cases under The Judicature Act:—Lysaght v. Edwards, 2 Ch. D. 499, a question arising in an action for specific performance: Gen. Finance Co. v. Liberator, B. S. 10 Ch. D. 15, a question of title in an action for recovery of land; Wilson v. Dundas, W. N. 1875, 232, a question as to the liability of a garnishee; and Marshall v. Aiglewood, W. N. 1881, 3, a question as to the construction of the power of appointment in a will: Ashbury v. Watson, 51 L. T. N. S. 766, a question under the Companies Act: Rosher v. Rosher, 51 L. T. N. S. 785, a question as to the validity of a condition annexed to a devise in fee.

Upon the argument of a special case stated in replevin, the plaintiff has the right to begin: Vigar v. Dudman, 24 L. T. N. S. 734.

Where the answers to the special case dispose of the action, the proper course is, to take the decision as a judgment making declarations to the same effect; and the answers ought to be followed by the words: "and the Court doth declare accordingly." In such a case the Registrar was directed to draw up the judgment as answering the special case, on motion for judgment: Harrison v. Cornwall Minerals Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 66.

An appeal lies from the judgment on a special case: Re Taylor's estate, 22 Ch. D. 495; see Allum v. Dickinson, 9 Q. B. D. 632.

Rules 555, 556. Preliminary question of law.

555. If it appears to the Court or a Judge, either from the statement of claim or defence or reply, or otherwise, that there is in any action [or matter] a question of law which it would be convenient to have decided before any evidence is given or any question or issue of fact is tried, or before any reference is made to a referee or an arbitrator, the Court or Judge may make an order accordingly, and may direct such question of law to be raised, (a) either by special case or in such other manner as the Court or Judge may deem expedient; and all such further proceedings as the decision of such question of law may render unnecessary may thereupon be stayed. J. A. Rule 249.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875 O. 34, r. 2, had here the words "for the opinion of the Court"; and, like original Ont. Rule 249, had not the words in brackets. The Eng. R. 1883, R. 390, is, like the present, Rule extended so as to apply not merely to ctions. The Rules are otherwise the same.

Rule 554 enables the parties to state a case by consent; the present Rule enables a Judge to require a question of law to be stated by special case or otherwise, without reference to consent, and to direct that question to be decided before the issues of fact are decided: Metropolitan Board v. New River Co., 1 Q. B. D. 727; affirmed 2 Q. B. D. 67.

See Rule 655, which enables a Judge to direct the trial of one or more questions of fact before others.

By analogy to that Rule the Court will, at the trial of an action involving questions both of law and of fact, decide the question of law first, if it shall appear that the decision of such question may render it unnecessary to try the question of fact: Pooley v. Driver, 5 Ch. D. 460.

Where defendants contended that, assuming questions of fact to be found against them, they were as a matter of law liable for a small sum, which they would pay into Court rather than go to the expense of evidence, an order was made under this Rule for determination of the questions of law first: Tattersall v. National Steamship Co., W. N. 1884, 32.

This Rule is not limited to cases in which the point of law appears by the pleadings. The Court may look at the circumstances, whether brought to its knowledge by pleadings, affidavit, or otherwise: Metropolitan Board v. New River Co., 1 Q. B. D. 727; affirmed, 2 Q. B. D. 67. Hence, an order may be made after writ, and before statement of claim: Ib. The Court of Appeal will not interfere with the discretion of the Court below in such a matter, except in a very strong case: Ib.

After appearance the plaintiffs, on an affidavit (uncontradicted by the defendants), that the sole question between the parties was, whether the defendants were bound to supply water by meter for road use, obtained an order under the above Rule, and it was held that the order was rightly made. The writ of summons was indorsed, "the plaintiffs claim damages from the defendants for refusing to supply them with water by meter, under sec. 41 of the New River Act, 1852": Ib.

The Court directed a special case to be set down for hearing on the application of the executrix, the first tenant for life and the trustees being defendants, the persons interested in remainder, who were absent in New Zealand, being omitted as parties: Bagley v. Miles, 21 L. T. N. S. 784.

See also cases referred to under Rule 655.

Preparing case.

556. Every special case shall be signed by the several parties or their solicitors, and shall be filed by the plaintiff. Copies for the use of the Judges shall be delivered by the plaintiff. J. A. Rule 250. Rules 557-560.

The Eng. R. 1875 O. 34, r. 3, (1883, R. 391), requires the case to be printed, and printed copies to be delivered to the Judges. This Rule is in other respects the same.

Signature of counsel is not now necessary: Hare v. Hare, W. N. 1876, 44.

557. No special case in an action to which a married woman, not being a party thereto in respect of her separate property, or of any separate right of action by or against her, or an infant, or person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, is a party shall be set down for argument without leave of the Court or a Judge, the application for which must be supported by sufficient evidence that the statements contained in such special case, so far as the same affect the interest of such married woman, infant, or person of unsound mind, are true. J. A. Rule 251. Persons under disability.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 34, r. 4, (1883, R. 392).

The statement of counsel that the statements were true was considered sufficient evidence in Elwes v. Elwes, 20 W. R. 480.

See also sec. 32 of the Act and notes thereto.

558. The 4 next preceding Rules shall apply to every special case stated in an action [or matter] or in any proceeding incidental to an action. J. A. Rule 253. Application of rules.

The words in brackets are new, being taken from the Eng. R. of 1883 R. 395, otherwise this Rule is the same in effect as the Eng. R. 10 of April 1880 (1883, R. 395).

13. Evidence Generally.

559. All writs of subpœna may be tested, or may bear date upon the day when the same are issued. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 15. Subpœnas.

560. No subpœna for the production of an original record, or of an original memorial from any registry office, shall be issued, unless the order of the Court or a Judge is produced to the officer issuing the same, and filed with him, and unless the writ is made conformable to the description of the document in such order. Rules T. T. 1856, 31. Subpœna to produce original record not to issue without order.

The application for the order may be made to the Master in Chambers. The application should be supported by an affidavit showing the necessity for producing the original, and that the production of a certified copy will not be sufficient.

The Rule applies to records of the Court, and memorials in the offices of Registrars of Deeds; an assignment of a squatter's right filed in the Crown

Rules 561, 562.

Lands Department was held not to be a record within the meaning of the Rule: McGuirr v. Sneath, 2 U. C. L. J. 184.

Original papers filed in Court should not be sent away to be used in evidence at nisi prius, unless it is shown that the production of the originals is essential; and the party applying to have them transmitted has some right in them; or the interests of public justice require their transmission: Gaynor v. Scott, 24 U. C. Q. B. 180.

In an action for malicious arrest the production of an examined copy of the affidavit on which the arrest was made, and shown to have been used in the cause, is sufficient prima facie proof of such affidavit and that it was made by the defendant: Spafford v. Buchanan, 3 O. S. 391; Wilson v. Thorpe, 18 U. C. Q. B. 443. But in an action for malicious prosecution, the production of the original indictment indorsed "no bill" is not sufficient proof of its termination, a record must be drawn up and an examined copy produced: McCann v. Preneveau, 10 Ont. 573; and see Gunn v. Cox, 3 S. C. R. 296; Henry v. Little, 11 U. C. Q. B. 296; Aston v. Wright, 13 P. R. 14. A conviction returned to the Sessions and filed by the Clerk of the Peace becomes a record and may be proved by a certified copy: Graham v. McArthur, 25 U C. Q. B. 478.

Any public document filed in a public office of the government may be proved by a certified copy: McLean v. McDowell, 1 U. C. Q. B. 13; R. S. O. c. 61, ss. 23, 25; but see Langtry v. Dumoulin, 7 Ont. 499. As to proof of orders of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, see R. S. O. c. 61, s. 21, and orders of the Governal General in Council, Ib. s. 22; registered instruments may be proved by certified copies: R. S. O. c. 61, ss. 42-45. Certified copies of registered memorials are sufficient evidence of such memorials: Lynch v. O'Hara, 6 C. P. 259; but a memorial is not always sufficient proof of the deed to which it relates: Gough v. McBride, 10 C. P. 166; Ansley v. Breo, 14 C. P. 371; for the cases in which the memorial proves the deed, see R. S. O. c. 112, s. 1, (2); 3, (2); Re Higgins, 17 Gr. 303.

As to proof of wills, see R. S. O. c. 61, ss. 38-41; where the probate is admissible as evidence under this statute, it is evidence of the testator's death, as well as of the will: Davis v. Van Norman, 30 U. C. Q. B. 437.

A Crown patent must be proved by the production of the original, or an exemplification thereof: Reid v. Banks, 10 C. P. 202; McCollum v. Davis, 8 U. C. Q. B. 150; a certified copy is not sufficient: Prince v. McLean, 17 U. C. Q. B. 463. Under The Quieting Titles Act, certified copies of patents are, however, received.

Any number of names may be included in one subpœna.

561. Any number of names may be included in one subpœna, and no more than one subpœna shall be allowed on taxation of costs, unless a sufficient reason be established to the satisfaction of the taxing officer for issuing more than one. Rules T. T. 1856, 163.

Although several names are included in one subpœna, it is not necessary that the copies served should contain the names of any other witness than the one on which the copy is served.

Calling opposite party.

562. Wherever any party in any civil action desires to call the opposite party as a witness at the hearing or trial he shall either subpœna such party or give him or his solicitor at least eight days notice of the intention to examine him as a witness in the cause, and if such party does not attend on such notice or subpœna, such non-attendance shall be taken as an admission pro confesso against him in any such action, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or Judge in which or before whom such examination is pending, and a general finding or judgment may be had against the party thereon, or the plaintiff may be non-suited, or the proceedings in the action may be postponed by the Court or Judge, on such terms as the Court or Judge sees fit to impose. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 18. Rules 563-564.

"At least eight days" means eight clear days: see Rule 475. Sundays will also probably be excluded. The last day for giving notice of trial (see Rule 661) will therefore usually be the last day for giving the notice mentioned in this Rule, but if two Sundays would occur before the date of the sittings the notice may have to be given before notice of trial. It is to be observed that this Rule does not say that the notice is to be given eight clear days before the commencement of the sittings. It perhaps therefore may be sufficient if eight clear days elapse before the case comes on.

563. Upon proof to the satisfaction of the Judge presiding at the sittings of any Court of the service of a subpœna upon any witness who fails to attend or to remain in accordance with the requirements of the subpœna, and that a sufficient sum for his fees as a witness had been duly paid or tendered to him, and that the presence of such witness is material to the ends of justice, the said Judge may, by his warrant, directed to any sheriff or other officer of the Court, or to any constable, cause such witness to be apprehended and forthwith brought before him or any other Judge who may thereafter preside at such sittings, to give evidence, and in order to secure his presence as a witness, such witness may be taken on such warrant before the presiding Judge and detained in the custody of the person to whom the warrant is directed, or otherwise, as the presiding Judge may order, until his presence, as such witness, shall be required, or, in the discretion of the said Judge, he may be released on a recognizance (with or without sureties) conditioned for his appearance to give evidence. Bench warrants.

(a) The warrant may be similar to the Form No. 202 in the Appendix, and may be executed in any part of Ontario. 44 V. c. 5, ss. 83, 84.

(ii) Evidence at Trials and References.

564. In the absence of any agreement between the parties, and subject to these Rules, the witnesses at the trial of an action or at an assessment of damages shall be examined viva voce and in open Court, but the Court or a Judge may at any time for sufficient reason order that any Evidence on trial to be viva voce.

Rule 564. particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any witness may be read at the hearing or trial, on such conditions as the Court or Judge may think reasonable, or that any witness whose attendance in Court ought for some sufficient cause to be dispensed with, be examined before an examiner; provided that where it appears to the Court or Judge that the other party bona fide desires the production of a witness for cross-examination, and that such witness can be produced, an order shall not be made authorizing the evidence of the witness to be given by affidavit. J. A. Rule 282.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 37, r. 1 (1883, R. 483), provides for the examining by interrogatories, or otherwise, of a witness whose attendance is dispensed with. The Rules are otherwise the same. The use of affidavits at a trial was permissible in the Common Law Courts; but in Chancery, exhibits might formerly be proved at the hearing in that way. See also Rule 567.

In an administration action, the Court may under this Rule, or Rule 567, if it thinks fit, receive fresh affidavit evidence on further consideration: May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347; see, however, Downey v. Roaf, 6 P. R. 89, as to the usual material which may be used on further directions.

For the procedure where evidence is to be by affidavit see Rule 301. The Court has only power to order the evidence for the trial of the action to be taken by affidavit. It has no power on a motion for judgment by default of pleading to receive evidence by affidavit to prove the allegations of the statement of claim against infants or non compotes mentis, except where Rule 756, is applicable: see Ellis v. Robbins, 50 L. T. N. S. 512; 17 C. L. J. 342; and Re Fitzwater, 52 L. J. Chy. 83.

The Judge should, in every case of fairly contested or disputed facts coming on to be tried, take the evidence orally unless some good reason to the contrary is shown: Atty.-Gen. v. Metropolitan District Ry. Co., 5 Ex. D. 218; see also Nagle-Gillman v. Christopher, 4 Ch. D. 173; Blackburn v. Brooks, 7 Ch. D. 68; Warner v. Mosses, 16 Ch. D. 101.

In the absence of agreement, evidence must be taken viva voce at the trial, and affidavits used on a motion cannot be used at the hearing: Perkins v. Slater, 45 L. J. Chy. 224; but where an interlocutory motion had been ordered to stand over till the hearing and a deponent had died in the meantime, the Court allowed the affidavit to be read at a trial with evidence viva voce, although the deponent had not been cross-examined: Elias v. Griffith, 46 L. J. Chy. 806.

Where none of the parties cited had appeared in an action to prove a will in solemn form, Hannen, P., refused to allow the execution and attestation of the will to be proved by affidavit: Cook v. Tomlinson, 24 W. R. 851. In Gowall v. Mason, 12 P. D. 142, an action for revocation of probate, an affidavit made by the witness eight years previously to obtain probate was allowed to be read as evidence in support of the will.

In Drewitt v. Drewitt, 58 L. T. N. S. 684, an affidavit used on a motion in the cause made by a witness who was unable to attend at the trial was allowed to be put in as evidence. This was not allowed in Blackburn Union v. Brooks, 7 Ch. D. 68, where cross-examination of the witness was desired.

The consent to take evidence by affidavit must be a formal written consent, and not one to be gathered from a correspondence between the parties: New Westminster Brewery Co. v. Hannah, 1 Ch. D. 278; and may be given by a guardian ad litem: Knatchbull v. Fowle, 1 Ch. D. 604. The Court has no power to order the whole evidence to be so taken without consent: Gardiner v.

Hardy, W. N. 1876, 153; Pattison v. Wooler, 1 Ch. D. 464; but the Court has a discretion to punish a party with costs where consent is unreasonably refused: see Patterson v. Wooler, 2 Ch. D. 586. Rules 565-566.

The guardian of an infant may decline the responsibility of consenting or refusing to consent to the use of affidavits, and leave the Court to determine whether they should be filed and read or not; or he may, if he chooses, give the necessary consent without the order or leave of the Court: Fryer v. Wiseman, 24 W. R. 205; 33 L. T. N. S. 779.

Affidavits sworn in one action may be read as evidence in another, against such of the defendants as are parties to both: Brown v. White, 24 W. R. 456.

The fact that an affidavit has been read on an interlocutory motion gives no right to read it at the trial: Perkins v. Slater, 45 L. J. Chy. 224; 1 Ch. D. 83; Blackburn v. Brooks, 7 Ch. D. 68; see Drewitt v. Drewitt, supra.

As to supplementing by viva voce evidence the evidence given by affidavit, see Glossop v. Heston Loc. Board, 47 L. J. Chy. 536; 26 W. R. 433; W. N. 1878, 72.

In the Baltic Co. v. Simpson, 24 W. R. 390, it was held that the Court ought not, under 15 & 16 Vict. c. 80, s. 42, or s. 57 of the Jud. Act (Ont. Act, s. 102), to make an order before trial, appointing a scientific person to report on a question of fact.

The Judge, at any period in a case, may allow further evidence to be called by either party for his own satisfaction, though it be doubtful whether it would be admissible, on the request of the party desiring it, as of right: Budd v. Davison, 29 W. R. 192.

In England, parties as well as witnesses may be excluded from Court during the examination of other witnesses: Outram v. Outram, W. N. 1877, 75, but a witness will not be excluded during the reading of affidavit evidence: Penniman v. Hill, 24 W. R. 245. See also W. N. 1876, 297. In Ontario the exclusion of parties is in the discretion of the Judge: see Rule 674.

As to proof of registered instruments, see Barber v. McKay, 17 Ont. 562; as to evidence of experts, see Rule 207.

565. All witnesses in any matter pending before a Master, Local Master or Referee, shall give their testimony viva voce, and be subject to examination before the Master, unless it is otherwise ordered by the Master, or by the Court or a Judge, on special grounds, or with the consent of the parties in the suit or controversy to which the testimony relates. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 100. Or before a Master.

566. The Court or a Judge may, in any cause or matter where it appears necessary for the purposes of justice, make any order for the examination upon oath before an officer of the Court, or any other person or persons, and at any place, of any witness or person, and may order any deposition so taken to be filed in the Court, and may empower any party to the cause or matter to give such deposition in evidence therein, on such terms, if any, as the Court or Judge may direct. J. A. Rule 285. Depositions.

This Rule has received a very liberal construction. It applies only where there is pending litigation between contesting parties: Re Hewitt, 15 Q. B. D. 159, 163; and may be applied at any stage of a cause, and though no motion Construction of Rule.

is pending: Fisken v. Chamberlain, 9 P. R. 283; wherever a case of justice is made out: see Warner v. Mosses, 16 Ch. D. 100. Under it, examination has been ordered of a party as a witness: Nadin v. Bassett, 25 Ch. D. 21, or for discovery, e.g., of a defendant: Fisken v. Chamberlain, supra; or of a plaintiff: Boulton v. Blake, 11 P. R. 196; Tate v. Globe, 11 P. R. 253; for discovery before pleading; but this right of extraordinary discovery must be jealously guarded and only conceded when clearly proved to be necessary in furtherance of justice: Boulton v. Blake, supra. See Wallis v. Newton, 7 C. L. T. 138, where discovery was allowed the defendant being ignorant of facts within the plaintiff's knowledge. In McNally v. McDonald, 9 C. L. T. 54, leave to examine defendant and his bookkeeper was refused because the plaintiff did not shew that he had a good cause of action, or point out the particular information he was in need of in order to frame his statement of claim: see also Martin v. Nairn, before Galt, C.J., 12 Nov., 1889.

Persons not parties to the action may, in a proper case, be examined for discovery under this Rule; e.g., in McMaster v. Mason, 12 P. R. 278, the father of defendant from whom both plaintiff and defendant claimed to have purchased the land in question in the action, as he might have been made a party to the action; and in Brown v. Pears, 12 P. R. 396, an action for specific performance, two sisters of the vendor from whom a conveyance had been obtained at a price which seemed to cast suspicion upon the validity of the conveyance.

The Rule also applies to the examination of a witness on a pending motion who has not made an affidavit: Monaghan v. Dobbin, 18 C. L. J. 180; 2 C. L. T. 260; a witness, when it is desired to obtain information, in order to serve a defendant with the writ: Seager v. Barber, 27 Aug., 1881, Mr. Dalton. Examinations for the last two purposes also can be had under Rule 578, corresponding to the former Chy. O. 266: see McMillan v. Wansborough, 10 P. R. 377, and notes to Rule 578.

An order under this Rule should generally not be made ex parte: Hooey v. Gilbert, 12 P. R. 114.

Examination for discovery.

A plaintiff advancing a claim, e.g., a charge of fraud, and alleging that he has no knowledge of the fact, is not in a similar position in regard to discovery before pleading to a defendant resisting such a claim: Ib.

This Rule does not authorize the making of an order for examination before trial of a person not a party, where no greater necessity exists than the convenience of the applicant in presenting his case for trial: Carnegie v. Federal Bank, 10 P. R. 69.

In an action on a bill accepted by the defendant's clerk, the defendant denied the authority to accept. It was held that the clerk could not be examined for discovery under this Rule, nor the Toronto manager of the defendant's business: Rosenheim v. Silliman, 11 P. R. 7.

In Turner v. Kyle, 18 C. L. J. 402; 2 C. L. T. 598, an action for seduction, the defendant denied all knowledge of the plaintiff's daughter on any occasion, and the plaintiff on being examined did not know anything about the alleged seduction; the defendant having exhausted all regular and ordinary means of obtaining discovery with effect, was held entitled to examine the plaintiff's daughter under this Rule that he might know the case to be met at the trial.

In Lamb v. Dodds, (Mr. Dalton, 8th May, 1883), the action was to establish an alleged will, suspected by the defendant to have been a forgery of the plaintiff's husband, who was not a party; the plaintiff having been examined had no knowledge of it, but the circumstances under which it had come into her hands were suspicious, and an order was made, under this Rule, on defendant's application for examination of the plaintiff's husband for discovery.

Where the defendants asserted, as a counter-claim, a claim against the plaintiff which they had bought from the assignee of F. & L., stock brokers (not parties to this suit) for the balance of an account for carrying stock for the plaintiff, and the plaintiff made affidavit that he believed F. & L. had dealt improperly with the stock they were carrying for him, but that he had no means of discovering this except by examining them, an order was granted to examine them for discovery only, under this Rule: Carnegie v. Cox, 11 P. R. 311.

Where the plaintiff was assignee of A. S. M., an insolvent trader, and was sued by A. S. M.'s father claiming to rank on the estate, an order was made for the examination of A. S. M., the plaintiff having no knowledge of the claim: Murray v. Warner, 11 P. R. 440. Rule 586.

In Gordon v. Phillips, 11 P. R. 540, an order for examination was made to enable the plaintiff to ascertain particulars of slander, in order to frame his statement of claim.

In applying under this Rule to examine witnesses before trial, it is not sufficient to shew that the examination will materially benefit the applicant. It must be shewn that he has unsuccessfully used the regular and ordinary means for discovery, or some other special reason must be given why the witness should be examined, out of the regular course, and not at the trial for the first time: Hendrie v. Neelon, 19 C. L. J. 18; 2 C. L. T. 599. For purposes of the trial.

Where an order is made, only material documents need be produced, such as would be produced at a later stage in the action. The examiner has the same powers as a special examiner under Rule 497, as to directing production of documents: Orpen v. Kerr, 11 P. R. 128.

Under this Rule, or Rule 588, orders may be made for examination of a witness de bene esse, for use at the trial, or on a reference in the Master's office; Re Dunsford, 9 P. R. 172; see also Rule 588.

Examination of a witness de bene esse is allowed where there is danger of losing testimony from death, or absence, at the time of the trial. An order will therefore be made where a necessary witness is going abroad, or is from illness, age, or other infirmity, likely to be unable to attend the trial: Warner v. Mosses, 16 Ch. D. 100; and generally speaking wherever justice requires it, though as a rule only where the evidence is to be used for some definite judicial proceeding pending: Whitehead v. Buffalo & L. H. Ry., U. C. L. J. 232, where an order was made in contemplation of a reference to a Master not yet directed. Examination de bene esse.

If the ground is that the witness is over 70 years, or dangerously ill, or going immediately abroad, the application may be made ex parte: Dan. Pr., 5th ed., 817; Oliver v. Dickey, 2 Chy. Ch. 87; Crippen v. Ogilvey, ib. 304; Bidder v. Bridges, 26 Ch. D. 1; Baker v. Jackson, 10 P. R. 624; but the Court in its discretion refused to apply this rule to the extraordinary case of thirty witnesses over 70 years in Bidder v. Bridges, supra.

In other cases notice should be served: see Anderson v. Anderson, 1 Chy. Ch. 291; Spears v. Waddell, 7 P. R. 260.

If the only ground is that the witness is the only witness as to some fact this should be clearly shewn: Hope v. Hope, 3 Beav. 317; Jameson v. Jones, 3 Chy. Ch. 98; but the order may provide that the examination is not to be used at the trial unless the attendance of the witness cannot be procured: Elliott v. C. P. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 593.

That the witness is going abroad is a sufficient ground. He need not be going permanently, or be the only witness: Spears v. Waddell, 7 P. R. 260.

As to what must be shewn at the trial before the deposition when taken can be used as evidence, see Dan. Pr., 5th ed., 819.

The form of order de bene esse in Seton, 4th ed., 1635, is not correct. It should not state absolutely that the depositions may be used at the trial: Burton v. Staffordshire Ry. Co., 35 W. R. 536; 56 L. T. N. S. 601; Solicitor of the Treasury v. White, 55 L. J. Pro. 79; W. N. 1886, 144.

In consequence of the provision of original Rule 289, requiring consent to enable the evidence under a commission to be taken viva voce, and of original Rule 299, staying the trial until the return of a commission, the examination of witnesses out of the jurisdiction orally, or without a stay, used sometimes to be ordered under this Rule. Though those reasons no longer exist, this Rule may still be invoked if necessary to obtain the evidence of a witness for use at the trial, without the issue of a commission, whether the witness be without, or within the jurisdiction, wherever it may be necessary and just: see notes to Rules 586 et seq. Examination of a witness abroad.

Examination abroad under this Rule will be ordered upon the same principles and under the same circumstances as a commission would be ordered: as to which see Rule 558 and notes.

There is a difference between a party seeking to have his own examination abroad and a mere witness. In both cases it is a matter of judicial discretion, but the discretion will be exercised in a stricter manner in the case of a party: Coch v. Allcock, 2 Q. B. D. 178, 181.

An order for examination of a plaintiff otherwise than before the Court and jury was considered not proper, where the issue was forgery of the plaintiff's name or a personation of the plaintiff: Thomas v. Storey, 11 P. R. 417.

It is not necessary to apply under this Rule for an order to examine witnesses on a reference after judgment; the former practice of subpœnaing without leave is not abolished: Raymond v. Tapson, 22 Ch. D. 430.

Affidavits by consent, or by leave of the Court.

567. At the trial of an action, or of any further directions therein, affidavits of particular witnesses, or affidavits as to particular facts and circumstances, may be used by consent, or by leave of the Court; and such consent may be given on behalf of persons under disability, with the approbation of the Court. Chy. O. 176.

As to matters which may, and may not, be proved by affidavit under this Rule: see Dan. Pr., 5th ed., 777, 1236; Dercy v. Thornton, 9 Ha. 233; Foder v. Reynal, 15 Jur. 1019; Delevante v. Child, 6 Jur. N. S. 118; Bush v. Watkins, 14 Beav. 33; Hoghton v. Hoghton, 15 Beav. 278; Bear v. Smith, 5 D. & S. 92; Fallows v. Dillon, 2 W. R. 507; Bateman v. Margerison, 2 W. R. 607; Howard v. Chaffers, 11 W. R. 585; Evans v. Lewis, 2 L. T. N. S. 559; Fleming v. Ernst, Kay App. lii.; Macdonald v. Antelme, W. N. 1884, 72.

Affidavits as to defendant's conduct after judgment may be read by the original plaintiff on the question of costs; but not affidavits as to defendant's conduct before judgment; but it would seem that persons added as defendants in the Master's office, or who are served with the judgment under Rule 322, may read affidavits as to the defendant's conduct before, or after judgment, on the question of costs: Re Revill, Leigh v. Rumney, 55 L. T. N. S. 542.

See also Rule 564 and notes.

When to be filed by plaintiff.

568. In case the parties in any action consent to the evidence being taken by affidavit as between the plaintiff and the defendant, the plaintiff within 14 days after such consent has been given, or within such time as the parties may agree upon, or a Judge in Chambers may allow, shall file his affidavits and deliver to the defendant or his solicitor a list thereof. J. A. Rule 301.

Same in effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 38, r. 1, (1883, R. 545).

As to when evidence may be by affidavit, see Rule 564 and notes.

Where the parties to an action agree under this Rule to take the evidence by affidavit, and either party subsequently finds himself unable to procure affidavit evidence, either by reason of the reluctance of some of his witnesses to make affidavits or other good cause, his proper course is to move to be relieved from the agreement, and the Court will, in a proper case, make an order that the reluctant witnesses be examined viva voce at the trial, or, at the option of the other party, discharge the agreement, and direct all the evidence to be taken viva voce at the trial: Warner v. Mosses, 16 Ch. D. 100.

Where the agreement does not specify that the evidence shall be taken by affidavit "alone" it is competent to a witness who has made an affidavit, to supplement his evidence by evidence viva voce: Glossop v. Heston, etc., Local Board, W. N. 1878, 72; 26 W. R. 433; 47 L. J. Chy. 536. Rules 569-571.

Where the parties have agreed to have evidence by affidavit, the action must be tried by a Judge without a jury: Brooke v. Wigg, 8 Ch. D. 510.

The Court has authority to order witnesses to be examined orally at the trial, and exclude affidavits filed by agreement, if of the opinion that that course is necessary: Lovell v. Wallis, 49 L. T. N. S. 593, 53 L. J. Chy. 494.

When to be filed by defendant.

569. The defendant within 14 days after delivery of such list, or within such time as the parties may agree upon, or a Judge in Chambers may allow, shall file his affidavits and deliver to the plaintiff or his solicitor a list thereof. J. A. Rule 302.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 38, r. 2, (1883, R. 546).

Where the plaintiff files no affidavit the time for filing defendant's affidavits, in the absence of agreement or special order, will not begin to run till the plaintiff has given express notice that he does not intend to file affidavits: Eames v. Brady, 5 L. R. Ir. 580.

Filing affidavits in reply.

570. Within 7 days after the expiration of the said 14 days, or such other time as aforesaid, the plaintiff shall file his affidavits in reply, which affidavits shall be confined to matter strictly in reply, and shall deliver to the defendant or his solicitor a list thereof. J. A. Rule 303.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 38, r. 3, (1883, R. 547).

Affidavits filed by a plaintiff in reply will not, upon an interlocutory motion, be ordered to be taken off the files upon an allegation by the defendant that they are not confined to matters strictly in reply, though at the hearing, if it should turn out to be so, the Court will not regard them, or may give leave to the defendant to answer them: Gilbert v. Comedy Opera Company, 29 W. R. 169; 43 L. T. N. S. 665.

It has been held in England, that affidavits in reply may bring forward additional evidence in support of the original case, and are not restricted by this Rule, to the points raised by the defendant's evidence: Peacock v. Harper, 7 Ch. D. 648; see also Adair v. Young, W. N. 1879, 8; Roe v. Davies, 2 Ch. D. 731.

Cross-examination on affidavit.

571. Where the evidence is taken by affidavit, any party desiring to cross-examine a deponent who has made an affidavit filed on behalf of the opposite party, may serve upon the party by whom such affidavit has been filed, a notice in writing, requiring the production of the deponent for cross-examination before the Court at the trial, such notice to be served at any time before the expiration of 14 days next after the end of the time allowed for filing affidavits in reply, or within such time as in any case the Court or a Judge may specially appoint; and unless such deponent is produced accordingly, his affidavit shall not be used as evidence unless by the special leave of the Court. The party producing such deponent for cross-examination shall not be entitled to demand the expenses thereof in the first instance from the party requiring such production. J. A. Rule 304.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 38, r. 4, (1883 R. 548).

When in an inquiry in an action it is proposed to read an affidavit, the Court has jurisdiction, upon proper application being made, to require the deponent to be produced for cross-examination, if satisfied that this is requisite, but such an application is not properly made under this Rule merely by a notice for the production of the deponent for examination without specifying any time or place: De Mora v. Concha, 32 Ch. D. 133; 11 App. Cas. 541.

A plaintiff, served with a subpœna requiring her attendance for cross-examination on her affidavit, omitted to attend on the ground that her expenses had not been given her. On motion she was ordered to attend at her own expense: Mansel v. Clauricarde, Mansel v. Norton, 53 L. T. N. S. 496; 54 L. J. Chy. 982.

Query whether this Rule applies not only to cross-examination of deponents before the Court at the trial, but also, after the trial, in proceedings on a reference, or before a special examiner: Buckhouse v. Alcock, 28 Ch. D. 669. See also Summers v. Kingcote, 29 Sol. Jour. 334; and Re Baker, 29 Ch. D. 711, not following Re Knight, Knight v. Gardiner, 25 Ch. D. 297. See Concha v. Concha, 11 App. Cas. 541, 558, 559.

The fact that a witness has disobeyed an order to attend and be cross-examined, is not ground for taking his affidavit off the files; because by this Rule it can only be used by special leave: Meyrick v. James, 46 L. J. Chy. 579; W. N. 1877, 120; see notes to Rule 568. See also Phosphate Sewage Co. v. Hartmont, W. N. 1875, 235.

This is not the only penalty for non-attendance. Attendance may be compelled as in other cases if a subpœna is served: Re Baker, 29 Ch. D. 711; see Rule 572.

The opposite party may cross-examine witnesses who have made affidavits though they are not read: Re Ottaway, W. N. 1882, 9; 30 W. R. 282; Re Quartz Hill, etc., Co., 21 Ch. D. 642; but see Massam v. Thorley's Food Co., W. N. 1879, 181.

Compelling attendance of witness.

572. The party to whom such notice as is mentioned in the last preceding Rule is given, shall be entitled to compel the attendance of the deponent for cross-examination in the same way as he might compel the attendance of a witness to be examined. J. A. Rule 305.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 38, r. 5 (1883, R. 549).

Libel or slander, particulars.

573. In actions for libel or slander, in which the defendant does not by his defence assert the truth of the statement complained of, the defendant shall not be entitled on the trial to give evidence in chief, with a view to mitigation of damages, as to the circumstances under which the libel or slander was published, or as to the character of the plaintiff, without the leave of the Judge, unless seven days at least before the trial he furnishes particulars to the plaintiff of the matters as to which he intends to give evidence. New.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 461.

Where the defence does assert the truth of the statement complained of, it has been held that evidence as to the plaintiff's character with a view to mitigation of damages, is not admissible unless the facts relied on are pleaded: Scott v. Sampson, 8 Q. B. D. 491. Rules 574-577.

Copies of depositions certified by person taking the same admissible in evidence.

574. Where an examination of any party or parties, witness or witnesses, has been taken before a Judge of the High Court, or of any County Court, or before any other officer or person appointed to take the same, copies of such examinations and depositions certified under the hand of the Judge, officer or other person taking the same shall, without proof of the signature, be received and read in evidence, saving all just exceptions. 42 V. c. 15, s. 3.

Evidence of service of notice to produce.

575. An affidavit of the Solicitor in the cause or his clerk, of the service of any notice to produce, and of the time when it was served, with a copy of such notice to produce, shall be sufficient evidence of the service of the notice, and of the time when it was served. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 173.

(iii) Evidence on Motions.

Evidence on motion, or petition.

576. Upon any motion or petition, evidence may be given by affidavit.

Cross-examination on affidavits.

577. Every person who makes an affidavit to be used (a) in any action or proceeding shall be liable to cross-examination thereon, and may be required to attend in the same manner, and subject to the same rules, as a party to be examined in the cause. New. See Chy. O. 268.

(a) Instead of "in any action or proceeding" Chy. O. 268 had the words "or which shall be used on any motion, petition or other proceeding before the Court."

The affidavit of justification of a surety in an appeal bond filed, was held to be an affidavit used in a proceeding within Chy. O. 268: Hughes v. Hughes, 17 C. L. J. 110; 1 C. L. T. 189

See Russell v. Macdonald, 12 P. R. 458, in note to Rule 493.

When the proceeding for which the affidavit has been filed has been disposed of, the right of cross-examination is gone: Catholic Printing Co. v. Wiman, 11 W. R. 399; Felan v. McGill, 3 Chy. Ch. 56; Clendinning v. Varcoe, 7 P. R. 61.

Deponents making affidavits in reply, are liable to cross-examination: Re Foster, 6 P. R. 95; 9 C. L. J. 313.

A party cannot withdraw an affidavit which he has given notice of reading so as to avoid a cross-examination of the deponent: Clarke v. Law, 2 K. & J. 28; Pike v. Dickinson, 21 W. R. 862; W. N. 1873, 178; Re Quartz Mining Co., 47 L. T. N. S. 644; 21 Ch. D. 642. The party cross-examined cannot insist on the passage in his affidavit being read, or shown, to him, before he answers: Gwynne v. Watney, 31 L. T. O. S. 231.

As to expense of producing witness for cross-examination: see Knight v. Gardiner, 49 L. T. N. S. 94; W. N. 1883, 152; 19 C. L. J. 273, in notes to Rule 571.

See also note to Rules 490, and 578.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 578-579.

Attendance of witnesses for examinations on motions, how procured.

578. A party to any action or proceeding may, by a writ of subpœna ad testificandum, or duces tecum, require the attendance of a witness to be examined before the Court, or before any officer having jurisdiction in the County where the witness resides for the purpose of using his evidence upon any motion, petition or other proceeding before the Court, or any Judge or judicial officer in Chambers.

(a) The attendance of such witness is to be secured in the same manner, and subject to the same rules, as upon the examination of a party in the cause. J. A. Rule 598.

Motion must be pending.

A motion must be pending to enable a party to proceed under this Rule: Traders' Bank v. Kean, 13 P. R. 60. Depositions taken when no motion or other proceeding is pending, are irregular, and can not be read: Storel v. Coles, 3 Chy. Ch. 362.

Subpœna, date of.

A subpœna for the examination of a witness, dated prior to the time at which the party issuing the same was entitled to examine the witness, was held to be irregular: McMurray v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 3 Chy. Ch. 130.

Notice of examination.

The party required to be examined is entitled to reasonable, but not necessarily to 48 hours', notice: Re North Wheal Exmouth Mining Co., 31 Beav. 628; 8 Jur. N. S. 1168; Rule 490; unless he has no solicitor, in which case he is entitled to 48 hours' notice: Rule 491; Watson v. Ham, 1 Chy. Ch. 293.

The examination of a party is upon an appointment of the examiner, a copy of which, as well as a copy of the subpœna must be served: see Rule 490. The same procedure should be taken under this Rule: clause (a).

Witness fees to be paid.

A witness, whether a party, or stranger to the cause, who is required to attend for examination, is entitled to be paid ordinary witness fees, and may refuse to attend, or, if attending, may refuse to be sworn, until paid: Brocas v. Lloyd, 23 Beav. 129; Wiltshire v. Marshall, W. N. 1866, 80; Davey v. Durrant, 24 Beav. 493, and see Robins v. Carson, 2 Chy. Ch. 343; Bolkow v. Foster, 7 P. R.. 388; Smith v. Greey, 11 P. R. 345.

Examination of party out of jurisdiction.

Where the witness, or party, required to be examined in support of a motion is out of the jurisdiction, an order for a commission may be obtained as soon as the notice of motion is served: Farrell v. Cruikshank, 1 Chy. Ch. 12; or if a resident in Quebec a subpœna may be ordered to issue under C. S. C. c. 79, s. 4; Moffatt v. Prentice, 6 P. R. 33; McKerchie v. Montgomery, 1 Chy. Ch. 225.

Default of witness, how punished.

Default of Witness.—The certificate of default should show that the witness had been duly subpœnaed, a statement in the certificate, that evidence of the service had been produced, is insufficient; Waddle v. McGinty, 2 Chy. Ch. 442; and see Sutherland v. Rogers, Ib., 191.

A witness failing to attend is liable to be committed for default. A witness who attends, but refuses to answer proper questions, may, on motion, be ordered to attend again and submit to answer the questions at his own expense, or in default be committed.

A motion to commit must be made before a Judge: Keefe v. Ward, 18 C. L. J. 166; 2 C. L. T. 260.

A witness attending for examination, is not bound to wait more than half an hour, unless notified that his examination is to be proceeded with: Perks v. Stottart, 1 N. R. 563.

Court or Judge may, on hearing any motion or sum-

579. Upon the hearing of any motion before the High Court or a Judge the Court or Judge at discretion, and upon such terms as it or he thinks reasonable, may from time to time order to be produced such documents as it or he thinks fit, and may order such witnesses as it or he thinks necessary, to appear and be examined viva voce before such Court or Judge, or before a Judge of any County Court, or before any other person, and upon reading the report of the Judge of the County Court, or other person, as the case may be, or if no such reference is made, then upon examining such documents or hearing such witnesses by the Court or Judge, the Court or Judge may make such order as seems just; and in cases within the jurisdiction of a County Court, the Court or a Judge therein having jurisdiction in the case, may order the production of documents or the attendance of witnesses before such Court or Judge, or before the Clerk of such County Court, and upon hearing such evidence or reading the report of the Clerk, may make such order as seems just, in like manner as if the proceedings were had in the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 175.

mons, order the production of documents or viva voce examinations.

And may make rule or order thereon.

580. The Court or Judge may, by the order, command the attendance of the witnesses named therein for the purpose of being examined, or may command the production of any writings or other documents, to be mentioned in the rule or order, and in the case of a Judge, he may, if necessary or convenient so to do, direct the attendance of the witness to be at his own place of abode or elsewhere. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 176.

Power by order to compel attendance of witnesses or production of documents in such cases.

It would seem that the production can only be ordered for the purposes of a pending motion and that the Court has no power under this Rule to order a person, not a party to the action, to produce documents in his possession merely for the purpose of enabling a party to the action to inspect the same before trial: see Straker v. Reynolds, 22 Q. B. D. 262; 60 L. T. N. S. 107; Central News Co. v. Eastern News Telegraph Co., 53 L. J. Q. B. 236.

581. If in addition to the service of the order an appointment of the time and place of attendance in obedience thereto, signed by the person or persons appointed to take the examination, or by one or more of such persons, is also served together with or after the service of the order, the wilful disobedience of the order shall be a contempt of Court, and proceedings may be forthwith had by attachment. But—1. Every person whose attendance is so required, shall be entitled to the like payment for attendance and expenses as if he had been subpœnaed to attend upon a trial; 2. No person shall be compelled to produce under any such rule or order, any writing or other document which he would not be compellable to produce at the trial of the cause; 3. The Court or Judge, or person appointed to take the examination, may adjourn the same from time to time as occasion may require. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 117.

Disobedience to be a contempt of Court.

Witnesses to be paid expenses.

How prisoners may be brought to give evidence.

582. The sheriff, gaoler, or other officer having the custody of any prisoner, shall take the prisoner for any examination authorized by these Rules, when so directed by an order of the Court or Judge; which order may be issued by the Court or Judge under such circumstances as appear to warrant the production of the prisoner. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 178.

Certified copies of proceedings may be obtained from the office where filed.

583. Wherever any party wishes to produce to the Court or a Judge, the writ or any pleading, or other proceeding filed in any office of the Court, he may demand and receive from the officer in whose office the writ, pleading or other proceeding is, a copy of the same certified by the officer to be a true copy of the original, and the copy so certified shall be admissible in evidence in all causes and matters and between all persons and parties, to the same extent as the originals would be admissible. New.

Default in payment, how to be proved.

584. Where default is made in the payment of money appointed to be paid into a Bank, the certificate of the Cashier, Manager, or Agent of the Bank, where the same is made payable, or of the like Bank officer, shall be sufficient evidence of default. Where the affidavit of the party entitled to receive the same is by the present practice required, the same shall still be necessary. Chy. O. 257.

Certificate of non-payment, how to be signed.

The certificate should be signed by the cashier, manager, or agent, or like officer. The certificate of an accountant in the bank is not sufficient: Campbell v. Garrett, 1 Chy. Ch. 255. A certificate of default should state that the money was not paid before, as well as on, or since, the day appointed: Farrell v. Stokes, 1 Chy. Ch. 201. The certificate does not prove itself, but must be verified by an affidavit.

The affidavit of the plaintiff of non-payment is usually required on the motion for a final order for sale, or foreclosure, in addition to the certificate of the bank: see Rule 353, note.

Power given to High Court to receive further evidence in all appeals, etc.

585. In all appeals, either to the Court of Appeal or the High Court or a Judge, and on all motions to set aside or vary verdicts or judgments or hearings in the nature of appeals, the Court or Judge appealed to shall have all the powers and duties as to amendment and otherwise of the Court, Judge or officer appealed from, together with full discretionary power to receive further evidence upon questions of fact; such evidence to be either by oral examination before the Court or Judge appealed to, or by affidavit, or by depositions taken before a special examiner or Commissioner. Rule 586.

Semble, that this Rule does not apply to newly discovered evidence after the trial: Bank of B. N. A. v. Western Assurance Co., 11 P. R. 434.

(2) Such further evidence may be given without special leave upon interlocutory applications, or in any case as to matters which have occurred after the date of the decision from which the appeal is brought.

(3) Upon appeals from a judgment upon the merits at the trial or hearing of any action or matter, such further evidence (save as aforesaid) shall be admitted on special grounds only, and not without the special leave of the Court. 41 V. c. 8, s. 7. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 22.

See also notes to Rule 846, and Re Rouse, 59 L. T. N. S. 887.

For remarks as to the caution to be observed in giving leave to adduce further evidence in the Appellate Courts: see Merchants Bank v. Lucas, 12 P. R. 526, and Arnison v. Smith, 41 Ch. D. 98; and the remarks of Cotton, L.J., against allowing fresh evidence to meet defects in the case seen after trial: Re Leonard & Ellis Trade Mark, 26 Ch. D. 289. Where further evidence is allowed to be adduced, the opposite party has the right to cross-examine thereon: Spencer v. Ancoats V. B. Co. 84 L. T. Jour. 440.

(iv) Commissions to examine Witnesses.

586. In case a party to any civil action is resident out of Ontario, and in case the opposite party requires a commission to examine such non-resident party and states by affidavit the facts intended to be proved before such commission, and in case the Court or Judge is satisfied that such commission is applied for in good faith and not for purposes of delay the Court in which the action has been brought, or any Judge thereof may, at the instance of the opposite party, issue a commission for the examination of such non-resident party in the same manner as a commission may be issued for the examination of witnesses. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 19. Non-resident party.

This Rule provides only for the case of the examination of an opposite party: see notes to Rule 588.

Rules 587, 588.
Refusal to attend.

587. If such party refuses to attend before the Commissioners, such refusal, being proved by affidavit or otherwise to the satisfaction of a Judge of the Court in which the action or the trial is pending, shall authorize a verdict or judgment to pass against the party, or he shall be nonsuited. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 20.

See also Rule 562.

Aged or infirm persons within Ontario.

588. In case the plaintiff or defendant in any action in the High Court or in any County Court, is desirous of having at the trial thereof the testimony of any aged or infirm person resident within Ontario, or of any person who is about to withdraw therefrom, or who is residing without the limits thereof, the Court in which the action is pending, or a Judge thereof, may, upon the motion of such plaintiff or defendant, and upon hearing the parties order the issue of a commission or commissions under the seal of the Court in which the action is pending, to a Commissioner or Commissioners, to take the examination of such person or persons respectively. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 21.

This Rule provides for the issue of a commission for the examination of a witness, de bene esse. The examination is more usually had by order under Rule 566. See notes to that Rule.

Foreign commission.

There is no hard and fast rule as to granting or refusing a foreign commission. It is a matter of judicial discretion: Mills v. Mills, 12 P. R. 473; Coch v. Allcock, 21 Q. B. D. 1, 178; see also Re Imperial Land Co. of Marseilles, W. N. 1877, 236; 37 L. T. N. S. 588; an order was refused where it would cause delay, and the applicant had been dilatory in trying to obtain it: Steuart v. Gladstone, 7 Ch. D. 394; Temperance Colonization Socy. v. Evans, 7 C. L. T. 46. So, where the Court was not satisfied on the materials adduced, that the evidence was material: Langen v. Tate, 24 Ch. D. 522; Smith v. Greey, 10 P. R. 531; and where there was another action pending in the foreign country for the same cause: Mair v. Anderson, 11 U. C. Q. B. 160.

In Grant v. Banque Franco-Egyptienne, referred to in 27 W. R. p. 226, Brett, L.J., said: "I apprehend that the granting of a commission is a matter of discretion, and that the grounds upon which a commission is granted or refused is always a matter of comparison, namely, whether it is more convenient that the commission should go, than that witnesses should be examined before the tribunal here, and the exercise of that discretion depends upon the circumstances of each particular case." See the remarks of the same Judge in Coch v. Allcock, 21 Q. B. D. 181.

Where the person to be examined abroad is the party himself who asks for the commission, the Court will be more circumspect as to making an order than in the case of an ordinary witness: Mills v. Mills, 12 P. R. 473; Light v. Anticosti, 58 L. T. N. S. 25.

Terms as to reading the depositions at the trial were imposed where the plaintiff applied to examine himself by commission: Nadin v. Bassett, 25 Ch. D. 21; and as to security for costs in Sheppard v. Dalbiac, 80 L. T. Jour. 26.

In Re Boyse, Crofton v. Crofton, 20 Ch. D. 760, it was held that upon an application for a commission to take evidence abroad, the Court ought to be satisfied that the application is made bonâ fide. Where the Court thought the witness should be subjected to a strict cross-examination on part of a claim in which he was interested, and the French practice was to have the examination take place through the Judge only, a commission was refused: see also Berdan v. Greenwood, 46 L. T. N. S. 524; 20 Ch. D. 764 (note), where the case turned on the fact that the person to be examined was the plaintiff himself, and the Court was not satisfied he could not attend so as to be cross-examined vivâ voce, but, on the contrary, was keeping out of the way: see Langen v. Tate, 24 Ch. D. 522; Spiller v. Paris Skating Rink Co., W. N. 1878, 228; 27 W. R. 225; Grant v. Banque Franco-Egyptienne, supra; and Thomas v. Storey, and Lawson v. Vacuum Brake Co., 27 Ch. D. 137, as explained in Coch v. Allcock, 21 Q. B. D. 1, 178. Rule 588.

In the absence of special circumstances making it desirable that the plaintiff should face the Court or jury in person, there is no reason why his evidence should not be taken by commission where he is residing abroad: Armour v. Walker, 25 Ch. D. 673; Banque Franco-Egyptienne v. Lutscher, 28 W. R. 133; 41 L. T. N. S. 468; W. N. 1879, 183; Coch v. Allcock, 21 Q. B. D. 1, 178; see Price v. Bailey, 6 P. R. 256. A commission may issue to examine a witness notwithstanding that his character for veracity is impeached. The proper course in such a case is to call witnesses at the trial for that purpose: Nordheimer v. McKillop, 10 P. R. 246.

A commission to examine as a witness a person who has absconded from the Province, will not be refused on the ground that he is alleged not to be a credible witness, and that his cross-examination in open Court is desired: Nordheimer v. McKillop, 10 P. R. 246.

The fact that the witness was a co-defendant with the party applying was considered no obstacle to the granting of a commission: Wilson v. McDonald, 13 P. R. 6.

In The M. Moxham, 1 P. D. 115, a commission to take evidence in Spain as to the law of Spain, was refused, as it was not shown that competent Spanish advocates could not attend the trial without difficulty, and in the opinion of the Judge it would, under the circumstances, be more satisfactory to have the witnesses examined in Court. See also Russell v. G. W. R. Co., 3 U. C. L. J. 116, and Atty.-Gen. v. Gooderham, 10 P. R. 259, where the object was merely to obtain scientific, or expert testimony. Expert evidence.

A motion for a commission is usually to be made after issue joined: Smith v. Greey, 10 P. R. 531; but it is not essential that the action be technically at issue. The motion may be made whenever it can be shown that some issue is raised on the pleadings which must be tried in the action: Smith v. Greey, 11 P. R. 38. When motion to be made.

The form of order is given in the App. No. 138, and the form of a commission No. 118. Order.

Books and documents produced in an action may be sent out of the jurisdiction for the purpose of examining witnesses on a foreign commission; but documents produced in another action which is sub judice will not be sent away: Clarke v. Union, (Chabot's Case), 10 P. R. 413.

Where the application is to examine a witness who is travelling, it should be shewn that he will remain at the place to which the commission is directed, a sufficient time to allow of its due execution: Singer v. Williams Manufacturing Co., 8 P. R. 483.

A commission issues only pursuant to the order. Where, therefore, an order provided for examination of one witness M. vivâ voce, and others upon interrogatories, it was held that the commission could not issue to examine M. only, without amending the order: Smith v. Babcock, 8 P. R. 175.

An objection to a witness affirming instead of taking an oath, on a commission, ought to be taken at the time of his appearing before the commissioner: Rickards v. Hough, 30 W. R. 676; 51 L. J. Q. B. 361.

See Darling v. Darling, 8 P. R. 391. for irregularities which were held not to invalidate the proceedings under a commission.

Where a witness previously examined by commission stated that he had further evidence to give, to explain or correct his former evidence, a re-examination was allowed under a new commission. The witness in such a case should be considered the witness of the party applying to re-examine him : Rogers v. Manning, 8 P. R. 2.

Return.

Where the time for the return of a commission was extended to a certain day and on that day the witnesses were examined, it was held, that, having been executed within the time, the necessary delay occasioned by its transmission did not render it irregular : Darling v. Darling, 9 P. R. 560.

Opening.

Commissions after their return should only be opened on notice to all parties interested.

The Court in permitting a foreign commission to be opened before the trial, will not impose restrictions as to the use to be made of the knowledge of the evidence which would be acquired by the solicitors by such opening : Smith v. Greey, 11 P. R. 238.

Notice of commission.

589. Due notice of every such commission shall be given to the adverse party, to the end that he may cause the witnesses to be cross-examined. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 22.

Commissions on Master's certificate.

590. Foreign commissions for the examination of witnesses without the jurisdiction of the Court, in proceedings before a Master, may, on the certificate of the Master, be issued upon præcipe. Chy. O. 221.

The Master may direct witnesses to be examined before any other Master, or Examiner, of the Court, without the consent of the parties : Re Casey, Biddell v. Casey, 1 Chy. Ch. 198.

Foreign commission not issued of course.

The Master cannot grant a certificate for a commission ex parte : McLennan v. Helps, 3 Chy. Ch. 193 ; except where the reference is ex parte. A commission to take evidence is not granted as of course : Price v. Bailey, 6 P. R. 256; Berdan v. Greenwood, 46 L. T. N. S. 524, note a ; Vivian v. Mitchell, 13 C. L. J. 198 ; Re Boyse, Crofton v. Crofton, 46 L. T. N. S. 522; and other cases cited in note to Rule 588, supra, and see as to proceedings under a commission, Rules 591 et seq.

Where an application is made to the Master for a commission to cross-examine a plaintiff resident abroad, on an affidavit filed by him in support of his account, the Master cannot properly refuse it, so long as the plaintiff relies on the affidavit in support of his claim : Townend v. Hunter, 3 C. L. T. 310.

The Master's certificate for a commission should, mutatis mutandis, follow, as nearly as may be, the form of order as given in the Appendix. See Form No. 138.

Notice of motion.

591. Upon an application for a commission to take evidence the applicant is in the notice of motion to state the name of the commissioner to whom he desires the commission to be issued ; and where the opposite party desires to name another commissioner, he is, on the return of the motion, to give notice to the applicant of the name of any other commissioner. J. A. Rule 286.

Commission to whom directed.

592. Upon the hearing of the motion the Court or Judge (or officer before whom the motion is made) may order the issue of the commission directed to the persons so named or to such other person or persons as may seem proper. J. A. Rule 287.

Rules 593-596.

593. The order or certificate for the issue of a commission is to state the name of the commissioner to whom it is to be directed, and whether the examination of witnesses thereunder is to be taken upon oral questions or upon written interrogatories, and also whether or not notice of the execution thereof is to be given to the opposite party; and in case notice is to be so given, then the name and the address of the person on whom such notice is to be served are to be stated in the order. J. A. Rule 288. Particulars to be stated in order.

Commissions may provide for the examination of unnamed persons at a particular place: Nadin v. Basset, 25 Ch. D. 21; Armour v. Walker, 25 Ch. D. 676.

594. The examination of witnesses under a commission is to be taken either orally or upon written interrogatories, or partly in one way and partly in the other, as the Court or a Judge may direct. All oral questions shall be reduced into writing and with the answers thereto returned with the commission. See J. A. Rule 289. Mode of examination.

There was formerly no jurisdiction to order the examination to be wholly oral unless all parties consented, as original Rule 289 so provided. That Rule has, however, been amended by the present Rule under which and Rule 604, the Judge or officer making the order will be able to provide whatever may be proper in this respect. See Watson v. McDonald, 8 P. R. 354, under the old practice, and Taylor on Evidence, 451.

Costs.—As to the costs of commission, see Dominion, etc. v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177, in note to Rule 1214.

595. Where the examination is to take place upon written interrogatories, the interrogatories in chief are to be delivered to the opposite party (unless otherwise ordered) at least 8 days before the issue of the commission; and the cross-interrogatories are to be delivered to the opposite party (unless otherwise ordered) within 4 days after the receipt of the interrogatories in chief; and in default of cross-interrogatories being so delivered, the opposite party may send the commission without cross-interrogatories. J. A. Rule 290. Examination on written interrogatories.

The rules of evidence as to leading questions at a trial cannot be strictly applied to interrogatories administered under a foreign commission in the Master's office: Lockwood v. Bew, 10 P. R. 655.

It is not proper to apply to strike out interrogatories for impertinence, the proper course is for the witness to demur to the impertinent questions: Williams v. Corby, 8 P. R. 83; see Lockwood v. Bew, 10 P. R. 655, and Swabey v. Dovey, 55 L. J. Chy. 631.

596. An examination may be executed ex parte, unless the opposite party shall, upon the hearing of the application for the order or Master's certificate for the issue of the Examination ex parte.

commission, require notice of the execution of the commission, and give the name and place of abode of some person resident within two miles of the place where the commission is to be executed, upon whom notice may be served. J. A. Rule 291.

By the word "examination," "commission" is probably intended.

Notice of execution of commission.

597. Where notice of the execution of the commission is required to be served, 48 hours' notice shall be sufficient; such notice is to be in writing, stating the time and place of the intended examination, and is to be addressed to the person named for that purpose in the order or certificate for the issue of the commission; and service upon him, or upon a grown up person, at the address stated in the order or Master's certificate, shall be sufficient. If the name or address stated in such order or certificate shall prove to be illusory or fictitious, or if the party so notified fails to attend, pursuant to the notice, the commission may be executed ex parte. J. A. Rule 292.

Copies as evidence.

598. In the event of any witness on his examination, cross-examination or re-examination, producing any book, document, letter, paper or writing, and refusing for good cause to be stated in his deposition, to part with the original thereof, then a copy thereof, or extract therefrom, certified by the commissioners or commissioner present to be a true and correct copy or extract, shall be annexed to the witness' deposition. J. A. Rule 293.

Oath of witness.

599. Every witness to be examined under the commission shall be examined on oath, affirmation, or otherwise in accordance with his religion, by or before the said commissioners or commissioner. J. A. Rule 294.

See Rule 588 note.

Examination through an interpreter.

600. If any one or more of the witnesses do not understand the English language (the interrogatories, cross-interrogatories, and viva voce questions, as the case may be, being previously translated into the language with which, he or they is or are conversant), then the examination shall be taken in English through the medium of an interpreter or interpreters, to be nominated by the commissioners or commissioner, and to be previously sworn according to his or their several religions by or before the said commissioners or commissioner truly to interpret the questions to be put to the witness or witnesses, and his and their answers thereto. J. A. Rule 295. Rules 601, 604.

601. The depositions to be taken under and by virtue of the said commission shall be subscribed by the witness or witnesses, and by the commissioners or commissioner who shall have taken such depositions. J. A. Rule 296. Depositions to be signed.

602. The interrogatories, cross-interrogatories, and depositions together with any documents referred to therein, or certified copies thereof or extracts therefrom, shall be sent to the Judge or officer on or before such day as may be ordered in that behalf, enclosed in a cover under the seal or seals of the said commissioners or commissioner, and office copies thereof may be given in evidence, on the trial of the action, by and on behalf of the said parties respectively, saving all just exceptions, without any other proof of the absence, from this country, of the witness or witnesses therein named, than an affidavit of the solicitor or agent of the party as to his belief of such absence. J. A. Rule 297. Return of commission and use thereof as evidence.

603. Where, upon the application for a commission to take evidence, the opposite party desires to join in the commission and examine witnesses on his own behalf thereunder, or names a commissioner, each party is to pay the cost of the commission consequent upon the examination of his witnesses and the appointment of his commissioner, without prejudice to the question by whom such costs are ultimately to be borne; and if for any reason the commissioner named by either party refuses to act in the execution of the commission upon receiving 48 hours' notice in writing from the other of them so to do, the commission may be executed by the commissioner giving such notice alone. J. A. Rule 298. Parties joining in commission.

604. Every order for a commission shall be read as if it contained the above particulars, and shall not set forth the same, but may contain any variations therefrom, and any other directions, which the Court or Judge shall see fit to make. J. A. Rule 300. Order for commission to be read as including above particulars.

See note to Rule 594.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 605.

(v.) Affidavits.

Form of affidavits.

605. Every affidavit shall be drawn up in the first person, stating the name of the deponent at the commencement in full, and his description and true place of abode, and shall be signed by him. J. A. Rules 464, 465; Chy. O. 258.

Style of cause in affidavits.

See Eng. Rs. of 1880 12 and 13 (1883, Rs. 527, 528).

An affidavit should be entitled in the cause or matter in which it is to be used. The shortened style of "A. B. and others, plaintiffs, and C. D. and others, defendants," may be used: Rule 451; Dickey v. Heron, 2 Chy. Ch. 490; but not "Brown v. Jones." An affidavit styled in the H. C. J., but not in the proper Division is amendable: Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16; an affidavit by a person who was a stockbroker was held not to state his description and true place of abode, by describing him as a "stock exchange stockbroker": Re Levy, Levin v Levin, 60 L. T. N. S. 317; 37 W. R. 296.

Erroneously entitled, may be resworn.

Affidavits erroneously entitled have been allowed to be taken off the files, and resworn without a fresh stamp: Pearson v. Wilcox, 10 Ha. app. xxxv.; Hawes v. Bamford, 9 Sim. 653.

Affidavits by parties to the cause.

In affidavits made by parties to the cause it was sufficient in Equity to describe the deponent as the above-mentioned plaintiff, or defendant, without specifying any residence, or other addition: Crockett v. Bishton, 2 Madd. 446; Rogers v. Crookshank, 4 C. L. J. 45. And the same rule prevailed at Common Law: Poole v. Pembrey, 1 Dowl. P. C. 693; Brooks v. Farlar, 5 Dowl. P. C. 361; Lyman v. Brethron, 2 C, L. Ch. 108; Ewing v. Lockhart, 3 U. C. Q. B. 248. But affidavits in which the plaintiff in a divorce proceeding gave no address or an illusory one, were rejected by the Court, and the case disposed of on the defendant's affidavits: Hyde v. Hyde, 59 L. T. N. S. 523. An affidavit as to the fitness of a proposed trustee which the deponent was described as a "gentleman," was held insufficient: Re Orde, 24 Ch. D. 271; Re Horwood, 55 L. T. N. S. 373.

Affidavits received, though irregularly drawn.

The Court has sometimes received affidavits sworn abroad, although drawn in the third person: Re Husband, 12 L. T. N. S. 303; and see Dryden v. Frost, 8 Sim. 380. And an affidavit without the signature of the deponent was received: Re Howard, L. R. 9 C. P. 347; but see contra, Anderson v. Stather, 9 Jur. 1085.

Where the initial only of the deponent's second Christian name was given the affidavit was held to be regular: De Forrest v. Bunnell, 15 U. C. Q. B. 370.

An affidavit omitting the words "make oath" will be rejected: Allen v. Taylor, 10 Ex. 52; Phillips v. Prentice, 2 Ha. 542; Re Newton, 2 D. F. & J. 3.

Affidavits may be sworn in Ontario before commissioners appointed under R. S. O. c. 62, or before a notary public of Ontario: see R. S. O. c. 153, s. 3.

Affidavits sworn abroad.

Affidavits sworn out of Ontario may be sworn before any of the persons enumerated in R. S. O. c. 61, s. 34. Affidavits sworn before any other person than those mentioned in that statute cannot be read: McEwan v. Boulton, 3 Chy. Ch. 63.

Affidavits before whom to be sworn.

Affidavits sworn before the solicitor, or partner, or managing clerk, or agent, of the solicitor, of the party on whose behalf the affidavit is filed, cannot be read: Dunn v. McLean, 1 C. L. J. 212; 6 P. R. 95; Duke of Northumberland v. Todd, 7 Ch. D. 777; and see Rule 613. But this rule does not apply to the partner of a counsel engaged in the cause, but not otherwise connected therewith: Wilde v. Crow, 10 C. P. 406; nor to affidavits to hold to bail: Rule 613.

Commissioner should not take voluntary affidavits.

A commissioner ought not to take affidavits not made in any cause, nor authorized by statute to be taken by him. Such oaths are voluntary: Jackson v. Kassel, 26 U. C. Q. B. 341; McElroy v. Hall, 25 U. C. Q. B. 303; and see R. S. C. c. 141.

The officer taking the affidavit should add after his signature the name of his office. The words "A Commissioner, etc.," or "A Commissioner," or "A Comr.," have been held sufficient: Henderson v. Harper, 2 U. C. Q. B. 97; Brown v. Parr, 2 U. C. Q. B. 98; Murphy v. Boulton, 3 U. C. Q. B. 177; Pawson v. Hall, 1 P. R. 294; Brett v. Smith, ib., 309. But the signature alone has been held sufficient: Babcock v. Bedford, 8 C. P. 527. "Sworn before, etc.," omitting "me," was held sufficient: Martin v. McCharles, 25 U. C. Q. B. 279; and see De Forrest v. Bunnell, 15 U. C. Q. B. 370. Rules 606-608. Officer should add his name of office.

The addition of a deponent is only descriptive and not an allegation of fact: Hood v. Cronkrite, 4 P. R. 279. The usual form of oath "you swear that the contents of this affidavit are true," however, would seem to pledge the deponent to the truth of the addition, as well as of the matters formally deposed to.

In drawing affidavits, the following observations of Wilson, J., in Fisher v. Green, 2 C. L. J. N. S. 16, may be useful to the student: "I regret to find, in several instances lately, that superlative words are used in stating facts in affidavits. There can be no stronger expression of the very truth than that it is stated on oath. If less certainty is intended, the statement should be qualified. The terms to which I object are, 'I most positively swear,' etc. I can only show my disapproval of such language, by refusing to allow costs to be taxed for affidavits drawn in this style, when costs are in my discretion. In one of the affidavits before me I observe the expression, that the statement made by another person in another affidavit was 'false.' I suppose the affidavit was drawn by a young man of little experience, for the one had detailed a transaction in one light, and the other had stated the same transaction in another light, but the term 'false,' as applied by one to the other, could in no way verify the statement of him who used the offensive expression," and see Davidson v. Grange, 5 P. R. 258. Fisher v. Green. Superlative, needlessly offensive expressions not to be used in affidavits.

A solicitor introducing impertinent and irrelevant matter into his affidavit may be ordered to pay the costs of the application in which it is used: Anon, 4 P. R. 242; and see Corby v. Robbin, 5 U. C. L. J. 225.

Where affidavits were badly written, scarcely legible and difficult to decipher, the Court refused all costs connected with their preparation, although costs of the suit were given: Burnham v. Garvey, 27 Gr. 80.

606. In every affidavit made by two or more deponents the names of the several persons making the affidavit shall be inserted in the jurat, except that if the affidavit of all the deponents is taken at one time by the same officer, it shall be sufficient to state that it was sworn by both (or all) of the "above-named" deponents. J. A. Rule 466. Affidavits made by two or more deponents.

Identical with the Eng. R. 14th of April, 1880, (1883, R. 529).

607. The jurat may be in the form or to the effect following: Jurat.

Sworn before me at , in the County of ,
on the day of A.D. . Chy. O. 258.

Where there are several deponents, their names are to be stated in the jurat e.g., 'sworn by the said A. B. and C. D. before me at, etc.': Rule 506.

608. There shall be appended to or indorsed upon every affidavit a note shewing on whose behalf it is filed. J. A. Rule 467. Indorsement.

Taken from the Eng. R. 15th of April, 1880.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 609, 610.
Affidavits how framed.

609. Affidavits shall be confined to such facts as the witness is able of his own knowledge to prove, except on interlocutory motions, on which statements as to his belief, with the grounds thereof, may be admitted. See J. A. Rule 284; Chy. O. 259.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 37, r. 3, (1883, R. 523).

Under Chy. Ord. 259, each statement in an affidavit to be used as evidence on any proceeding before the Court was required to show the deponent's means of knowledge. This provision, however, is not embodied in these Rules.

Under this Rule the grounds of statements made on "belief" are required to be stated, but not the means of knowledge for positive allegations: see Bidder v. Bridges, 26 Ch. D. 1.

A statement by plaintiff's agent that he had the management of all plaintiff's business in this country was held sufficient to show his means of knowing of the plaintiff's ownership of certain property deposed to: McEwen v. Boulton, 2 Chy. Ch. 399.

Where the deponent swore that to disclose his means of knowledge would defeat the ends of justice, the requirements of Chy. O. 259 were dispensed with: Merchants Express Co. v. Morton, 15 Gr. 274; 2 Chy. Ch., 319.

An affidavit in which the deponent stated that he was credibly informed and believed certain facts, without stating the name of his informant, or the ground of his belief, was held not to comply with this Rule, and was insufficient proof of the facts deposed to: Gilbert v. Stiles, 13 P. R. 121.

Evidence on information and belief, though generally admissible on interlocutory applications, is not admissible on a proceeding which, though interlocutory in form, finally decides the rights of parties; and the party against whom it is adduced, is not bound to contradict it; but if in the Court below he deals with the evidence as admissible, he may be precluded from objecting to it before the Court of Appeal: Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259.

Notwithstanding this Rule, an affidavit by a practitioner verifying a petition was held to be sufficient, (under a Rule under the Companies' Act, which required only an affidavit on belief as to the acts and deeds of other persons) though some of the allegations in the affidavits were only as to the belief of the petitioner, and although there are other affidavits in support of the petition which show the sources of the petitioner's belief: Re New Callao, 47 L. T. N. S. 175.

Costs of setting out the contents of written documents were disallowed in Hirst v. Procter, W. N. 1882, 12.

Scandalous affidavits.

Affidavits may be ordered to be taken off the files, if scandalous or irrelevant: Sadleir v. Smith, 7 P. R. 409; 15 C. L. J. 52; Osmaston v. Association of Land Financiers, W. N. 1878 101; Kernick v. Kernick, 12 W. R. 335; Goddard v. Parr, 3 W. R. 633; or the scandalous matter may be expunged: Warner v. Mosses, W. N. 1881, 69; Re Fitch, 2 Chy. Ch. 288; and see Rule 421 and note.

Costs of scandalous affidavits will be disallowed: Vanstaden v. Vanstaden, 10 P. R. 428.

Affidavits by officers for corporation.

610. Any affidavit in an action or proceeding to which a municipal or other corporation is a party may be made by any officer, servant, or agent of the corporation having knowledge of the facts required to be deposed to, and he shall state therein that he has such knowledge. J. A. Rule 595.

Rules 611-614.

611. No affidavit having in the jurat or body thereof, any interlineation, alteration, or erasure shall without leave of the Court or a Judge be read or made use of in any matter pending in Court unless the interlineation or alteration (other than by erasure) is authenticated by the initials of the officer taking the affidavit; nor in the case of an erasure, unless the words or figures appearing at the time of taking the affidavit to be written on the erasure are rewritten, and signed or initialed in the margin of the affidavit by the officer taking it. J. A. Rule 468.

Alterations in affidavits.

Taken from the Eng. R. 16th of April, 1880, (1883, R. 532) which contains also special provision for the case of an affidavit being taken at the "Central office."

A line drawn through words though leaving them legible is an erasure: Williams v. Clough, 1 A. & E. 376.

Where an interlineation was uninitialed by the Commissioner, it was held that under this Rule the affidavit could not be read, but leave was given to refile it properly sworn: Boyd v. McNutt, 9 P. R. 493.

No alteration can properly be made in affidavit after it has been sworn: see W. N. 1882, Part 2, 81.

612. Where an affidavit is sworn by any person who appears to the officer taking the affidavit to be illiterate, the officer shall certify in the jurat that the affidavit was read in his presence to the deponent, that the deponent seemed perfectly to understand it, and that the deponent made his or her signature in the presence of the officer. No such affidavit shall be used in evidence in the absence of this certificate, unless the Court or a Judge is otherwise satisfied that the affidavit was read over to and apparently perfectly understood by the deponent. J. A. Rule 469.

Affidavits by illiterate persons.

Identical with the Eng. R. April 1880, R. 17, (1883 R. 533).

Where an affidavit of an illiterate person did not appear to have been read over in the presence of the Commissioner, it was taken off the files: Blenkharn v. Longstaffe, 52 L. T. N. S. 681; 54 L. J. Chy. 516.

613. No affidavit shall be read or made use of for any purpose, if sworn before the solicitor of the party in the cause on whose behalf the affidavit is made, or before the clerk, or partner, of such solicitor; but this Rule shall not extend to affidavits to hold to bail. Rules T. T. 1856, 114.

No affidavit to be sworn before solicitor of party.

See Eng. Rules 1883, R. 536, 537.

See notes to Rule 605.

614. All affidavits and other papers required to be filed in any action or matter on motions and other matters shall, before being used, be stamped with a proper filing stamp, and at or before the time of using them shall be filed in the proper office of the Division of the High Court to which the action or matter is assigned. See J. A. Rule 470; Chy. O. 260.

See Eng. R. April 1880, R. 18, (1883 R. 535).

On motions before the Master in Chambers, the affidavits in support of, or opposition to, the motion, are required to be filed with the Clerk in Chambers.

In actions in the Chancery Division the papers filed in Chambers, are transmitted to the Clerk of Records and Writs, on the conclusion of the motion: Rule 615; in actions in the other Divisions the papers are retained by the Clerk in Chambers.

On motions before a Judge of the County Court, or Local Master, the affidavits in support of, or opposition to, such motions, will have to be filed, in the former case, with the Local Registrar, or Deputy Clerk of the Crown, as the case may be, and in the latter case, with the Master himself.

Chy. Ord. 30 required the Registrar to transmit all affidavits and papers filed with him to the Clerk of Records and Writs. This provision has not been expressly continued in these Rules, but the practice is still maintained.

Affidavits, where filed.

615. Affidavits to be used on a motion in Chambers shall be filed with the Clerk in Chambers, who shall, in cases in the Chancery Division, transmit them to the Records and Writs office when the motion is disposed of. See Chy. O. 30.

Affidavits in chief, when to be filed.

616. All the affidavits upon which a notice of motion, or petition is founded, must be filed before the service of the notice of motion or petition, Chy. O. 261.

Chy. Ord. 261 provided that affidavits in answer must be filed not later than the day before that appointed for the hearing of the motion, or petition, This provision, however, is not embodied in these Rules, and no time whatever is prescribed for filing affidavits in answer, or reply.

Affidavits in support to be mentioned in notice of motion.

The affidavits and papers intended to be used in support of a motion, must be mentioned in the notice of motion: Farish v. Martyn, 1 Gr. 300, and when the motion is intended to be supported by affidavits filed previous to the date of the notice of motion, the date of the filing of such affidavits should be stated in the notice, or they cannot be used: Fraser v. Fraser, 13 Gr. 183; McMartin v. Dartnell, 2 Chy. Ch. 322; Mackenzie v. Carter, 12 P. R. 544; documents referred to in the affidavits filed in support of a motion may be read without special reference to them in the notice: Johnson v. Ashbridge, 2 Chy. Ch. 251. If a party gives notice of reading an affidavit in support of a motion, but declines to do so, the opposite party may, nevertheless, read it: Clark v. Law, 2 K. & J. 28; Cauty v. Houlditch, 14 Sim. 75, and may cross-examine the deponent though the party filing it offers to withdraw it: Pike v. Robinson, W. N. 1873, 178.

Affidavits of service must be filed at latest before the rising of the Court on the day on which the application is made: Miltown v. Stuart, 8 Sim. 34; but see contra, Secar v. Webb, 25 Ch. D. 84; 49 L. T. N. S. 94, where it was held that they were filed in time, if filed at any time before the order was drawn up; but see Re Rosier, Jones v. Bartholomew, 49 L. T. N. S. 442.

Rules 617-619.

617. Either party may call upon the other party to admit any document, saving all just exceptions. J. A. Rule 241. Notice to admit documents.

Identical with the first clause of Eng. R. 1875, O. 32, r. 2, (1883, R. 372).

This Rule extends to all documents which a party proposes to adduce in evidence and not merely those in his custody or control: Rutter v. Chapman, 8 M. & W. 388.

Among the "just exceptions" are the admissibilty of the documents as evidence: Phillips v. Harris, Car. & M. 492, and their legal effect: Hills v. London Gas Light Co., 1 F. & F. 346; but not an objection to their reception on the ground of interlineation: Freeman v. Steggall, 14 Q. B. 202.

Admissions between defendants cannot be used as evidence against the plaintiff: Dodds v. Tuke, 25 Ch. D. 617.

618. A notice to admit documents may be in the Form No. 26, in the Appendix. J. A. Rule 242. Form of notice.

A notice to admit must be given a reasonable time before trial: Tynn v. Billingsley, 3 Dowl. 810; Cary v. Cumberland, 1 P. R. 140, and holds good upon a subsequent trial: Day, C. L. P. Act, 3rd ed. 103; Wilson v. Baird, 19 C. P. 98.

A notice to admit may be given, even where the document is not in the possession or under the control of the party: Rutter v. Chapman, 8 M. & W. 388; Conger v. McKechnie, 1 C. L. Cham. 220; including a foreign judgment: Smith v. Bird, 3 Dowl. 641; and documents, the validity of which is directly in issue: Spencer v. Barough, 9 M. & W. 425.

For notices which may be given to enable secondary evidence to be given of wills, registered instruments, telegraphic messages, letters, etc., see R. S. O. c. 61, ss. 38, 43, 45, 46.

Sec. 44 of that Act does not enable a party to use as evidence a certified copy of a registered probate without the notice provided for by sec. 38: Barber v. McKay, 17 Ont. 562.

619. The production of any written admissions purporting to be admissions in the action, and to be made in pursuance of any notice to admit documents or otherwise, and to be signed by the solicitor of the party by whom, or on whose behalf, they purport to be made, shall be sufficient prima facie evidence of such admissions. J. A. Rule 243. Proof of admissions.

Not similar to the Eng. R. 1875, O. 32, r. 4, which was the same as The C. L. P. Act, R. S. O. c. 50, sec. 173. The Eng. R. of 1883, extends to admissions of facts, and requires an affidavit of the solicitor or his clerk as to the signature of the admissions. The Chancery Practice in Ontario was to dispense with an affidavit, and the present Rule adopts that practice.

The mere fact that documents are admitted in admissions signed by the solicitor, will not make them evidence unless put in at the trial: Watson v. Rodwell, 11 Ch. D. 150; and the admission of a copy does not entitle the plaintiff to put in the copy without first accounting for the original: Sharpe v. Lambe, 11 A. & E. 805. The admission when made is conclusive: Langley v. E. of Oxford, 1 M. & W. 508.

Rule 620.

14. Transmission of Interest pendente lite.

Action not to abate by reason of marriage, etc., or death between verdict and judgment.

620. An action shall not become abated by reason of the marriage, death or bankruptcy of any of the parties, if the cause of action survives or continues, and shall not become defective by the assignment, creation, or devolution of any estate or title pendente lite. And whether the cause of action survives or not, there shall be no abatement by reason of the death of either party between the verdict or finding of the issues of fact and the judgment, but judgment may in such case be entered notwithstanding the death. J. A. Rules 383, 601.

The first clause is identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 50, r. 1. That of 1883, R. 178, is the same as this Rule except that it is made to apply to "a cause or matter" instead of "an action" only.

The former Eng. R. of 1875 was held to apply to a petition: Re Atkins, 1 Ch. D. 82; but not to a charging order: Finney v. Hinde, 4 Q. B. D. 102.

Abatement and Revivor under former practice.

Both in the Common Law Courts and in the Court of Chancery, the old and inconvenient methods of making good a suit which had become defective by reason of death or otherwise were long since superseded by simple, inexpensive methods of procedure. But the procedure was different in the several Courts.

In the Common Law Courts of this Province the practice was governed by R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 228, et seq. Under these enactments the procedure varied a little according to the nature of the defect which had occurred, and the stage at which it occurred. In the case of death, the plaintiff was empowered to enter a suggestion of the death, and proceed with the action in the name of or against the proper parties; and the truth of that suggestion might have been traversed and tried. If the plaintiff omitted to enter the necessary suggestion, the defendant might by summons require him to do so, and in default might do so himself.

In Chancery the matter was governed in this Province by the Chy. Orders numbered from 337 to 351.

The method of revivor, according to the Chancery procedure, has in substance been adopted by these Rules.

Under the old practice there were cases in which, though the cause of action does not survive, proceedings having reached a certain stage might go on without an alteration in the style of cause, e.g., in the case of defendant's death between the verdict and judgment: see Day, C. L. P. Act, 4th ed., 156. The above Rule following in the last clause the Eng. R. of 1883 now provides for such cases.

Under present Rules.

There is nothing in the Rules on this subject to alter the existing law as to what causes of action do and what do not survive; thus where the cause of action or the interest of the party is terminated by death, etc., the action is at an end: Twycross v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 40; Kirk v. Todd, 21 Ch. D. 484; Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768; 27 W. R. 228; Bowker v. Evans, 15 Q. B. D. 565; 53 L. T. N. S. 801. See notes to Rule 622. Nor is there anything to preserve to any person a right of action which by the ordinary rules of law has passed from him. Thus, on the bankruptcy of a plaintiff, where the right of action is one which passes to the trustee, the action cannot be carried on by the bankrupt, but only by the trustee: Jackson v. North-Eastern Ry. Co., 5 Ch. D. 844; Warder v. Saunders, 10 Q. B. D. 114; see also Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 169. If, in such a case, there are two trustees, and one refuses to go on, the other may do so, and make his co-trustee a defendant: Jackson v. North-Eastern Ry., supra.

If the trustee elects not to proceed, it is not open to the plaintff to do so, and if he does the action may be stayed on motion or dismissed: Warder v. Saunders, 10 Q. B. D. 114. Rule 620.

If the trustee elects to proceed he becomes liable for all costs including those already incurred: Borneman v. Wilson, 28 Ch. D. 53; Watson v. Holliday, 20 Ch. D. 780.

Where, pending an action, the plaintiff assigned in bankruptcy but subsequently obtained a discharge, and a re-assignment from the trustee, it was held that the cause of action continued, and the action had not abated by the bankruptcy: Barker v. Johnson, 60 L. T. N. S. 64.

In United Telephone Co. v. Bassano, 31 Ch. D. 630, judgment was given against the defendants, who appealed, but before the appeal was heard became bankrupt. It was held that having an interest in being relieved from the injunction awarded by the judgment, they might appeal, on giving security for costs.

A married woman and her husband were co-plaintiffs; after the action had been entered for trial, the husband became bankrupt and obtained a discharge in liquidation. No one appeared at the trial, and it was held properly dismissed with costs as the husband was still liable for costs and they were not provable in the liquidation: Vint v. Hudspith, 52 L. T. N. S. 741; 29 Ch. D. 322.

If the death or change of interest takes place before the writ is served the action cannot be revived or continued: Watson v. Ham, 1 Chy. Ch. 295; see Foster v. Ward, 9 L. R. Ir. 447. Death, etc., before writ.

A writ was issued but not served within six years from the accrual of the cause of action. The defendant died within a year from the issue of the writ. A new writ against his representatives was issued after the year from the issue of the old writ, but within a year from the death of the defendant. It was held that this was a reasonable time under the 4th sec. of 21 Jac. 1, c. 16, (Statute of Limitations), and that The Judicature Act does not alter the right to bring fresh actions: Swindell v. Bulkeley, 35 W. R. 189; 18 Q. B. D. 250.

The present Rule applies to enable the action to be proceeded with in case of marriage, death, or bankruptcy, without further order or notice, only where the cause of action survives or continues in some person who is before the Court: Eldridge v. Burgess, 7 Ch. D. 411; see Allchin v. Buffalo, etc., 2 Chy. Ch. 45. Thus where five defendants were jointly and severally liable, two of whom became bankrupt, Fry, J., offered to allow the trial to stand, that the other three might serve notice on the trustees of the bankrupts if they wished to do so; as they declined, the suit was held not to be defective and the trial was ordered to proceed: Lloyd v. Dimmack, 7 Ch. D. 398; see also Walker v. Blackmore, W. N. 1876, 112. When action may proceed without order.

Where partners have recovered a judgment, and one of them dies, the action survives, so that the surviving partner may issue execution: Davies v. Andrews, 28 Sol. Jour. 411; W. N. 1884, 94.

In an action for damages for misrepresentations against several defendants, one defendant died after issue joined. It was held that the action could be proceeded with against the survivors: Beatty v. Neelon, 9 Ont. 385.

Where, however, a sole plaintiff or defendant dies or becomes bankrupt, the action abates or becomes defective: Eldridge v. Burgess, 7 Ch. D. 411; Jackson v. N. E. Ry. Co., 5 Ch. D. 844; Barter v. Debeux, 7 Q. B. D. 413; Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 169; Chorlton v. Dickie, 13 Ch. D. 160; Warder v. Saunders, 10 Q. B. D. 114, and requires to be continued under the subsequent Rules by the proper parties: Walker v. Blackmore, supra. When order necessary.

On the bankruptcy of plaintiff, the defendant, wishing to have the action dismissed for want of prosecution, was required to give notice to the trustee: Wright v. Swindon Ry. Co., 4 Ch. D. 164; see also Re Atkins, 1 Ch. D. 82; Cameron v. Eager, 6 P. R. 117.

In an action by the indorser of a bill of exchange against the drawer who had become bankrupt, and suffered judgment by default, the trustee applied for leave to defend, complaining that judgment had been snapped. Quain, J., said, "It is only a question of terms. I will order the judgment to be set aside on payment of costs, and that the trustee be at liberty to defend in the name of the debtor: Goddard v. Poole, W. N. 1875, 230; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 126.

Assignment pendente lite.

621. In case of an assignment, creation or devolution of any estate or title pendente lite, the action may be continued by or against the person to or upon whom such estate or title has come or devolved. J. A. Rule 384.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 50, r. 3 (1883, R. 180).

Incumbrancers, or purchasers, becoming such after writ sued out, and a lis pendens registered, will be bound by the judgment and need not be made parties whether the plaintiff have notice of them or not: Dan. Pr., 5th ed., 242; Robson v. Argue, 25 Gr. 407; see Wallbridge v. Martin, 2 Chy. Ch. 275. But in cases where there has been a change in ownership of the legal estate and a conveyance is required, it may be necessary to add parties: Dan. Pr. 243; and supra p. 152; additional parties may be, in such cases, added by the plaintiff by the common præcipe order: Matthews v. Mears, 21 Gr. 99; see also Lowe v. Watson, 1 Sm. & Giff. 123; but not parties who acquired their interest before action: McKenzie v. McDonnell, 15 Gr. 442.

Whether an agreement respecting the assignment of the subject of an action made with persons not parties, pendente lite, renders the action defective depends upon the nature of the agreement, and whether according to its legal effect the Court can give the relief claimed without the addition of the other persons: Scott v. Benedict, 9 C. L. T. 181.

Rule 324 has been also applied to add parties for example, in Kino v. Rudkin, 6 Ch. D. 160, to add a person at his own request to whom an assignment pendente lite had been made by defendant; and in Scar v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121, on defendant's motion to add a person to whom the plaintiff had assigned his interest. In such a case as the last, the action may be stayed till security is given, or the suit continued in the name of the assignee: Swan v. Adams, 7 P. R. 147; see also Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768.

The Rule applies only to devolutions or assignments pendente lite, not after final judgment: Atty.-Gen. v. Birmingham Corp., 15 Ch. D. 423; but in a foreclosure action, where a party had assigned his interest after decree, the assignee was made a party after order for foreclosure absolute: Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 166; but in Abell v. Parr, 9 P. R. 564, it was held that persons to whom defendants had assigned pendente lite, could not be added after judgment and declared bound by it, where they claimed to be entitled independently of the assignment.

An order adding a trustee in bankruptcy under this Rule as a defendant for discovery only, was set aside as improper: Symonds v. City Bank, 79 L. T. Jour. 175.

Where a trustee in bankruptcy suing as such is removed, and a new trustee appointed, the latter must obtain an order to continue the action: Pooley's Trustee v. Whetham, 28 Ch. D. 38.

Order to add parties on change of interest how obtained.

622. Where by reason of marriage, death or bankruptcy, or any other event occurring after the commencement of an action and causing a change or transmission of interest or liability, or by reason of any person interested coming into existence after the commencement of the action, it becomes necessary or desirable that any person not already a party to the action should be made a party thereto, or that any person already a party thereto should be made a party thereto in another capacity, an order that the proceeding in the action shall be carried on between the continuing parties to the action and such new party, may be obtained on præcipe, (a) upon an allegation of such change, or transmission of interest cr liability, or of such person interested having come into existence. J. A. Rule 385. Rule 622.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875, O. 50, r. 4 (1883, R. 181), has the words "ex parte," instead of the words "on præcipe"; it is otherwise the same.

This Rule applies where the cause of action survives or continues to some person not already a party. Where the cause of action does not survive, the action cannot be continued under this Rule: see Lowe v. Watson, 1 Sm. & Giff. 123; Dendy v. Dendy, 5 W. R. 221; Greenhough v. Rumney, 5 W. R. 465; Williams v. Williams, 9 W. R. 296.

All actions survive which do not fall within the maxim, "actio personalis moritur cum persona," as modified by statute: see Twycross v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 40.

Subject to statutory exceptions, actions for injuries merely personal do not survive: see Twycross v. Grant, supra; Bowker v. Evans, 15 Q. B. D. 565; (an action of tort referred to arbitration, and notwithstanding the mention of the personal representatives in the submission): Udy v. Stewart, 10 Ont. 591 (an action for seduction); Finlay v. Cherney, 20 Q. B. D. 494 (an action for breach of promise of marriage); Hatchard v. Mège, 18 Q. B. D. 771 (an action for defamation, whether of the private character of a person or in relation to his trade).

But an action for a false and malicious statement, causing damage to the plaintiff's personal estate, survives: Hatchard v. Mège, supra; and generally in actions for torts, where the injury has been to the estate of the deceased, the action survives to his personal representatives; Twycross v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 40, and where a defendant in an action of tort dies, and his estate has benefitted by the tort, the action survives against his personal representatives: Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768; Phillips v. Homfray, 24 Ch. D. 439; Hamilton Provident v. Cornell, 4 Ont. 623.

For this reason, an action to restrain the infringement of a trade mark survives: Oakey v. Dutton, 35 Ch. D. 700. Trade-mark.

In an action for damages for breach of covenants for title, the plaintiff died before the trial. His personal representative was held entitled to the damages accrued in his lifetime, and therefore, the action survived to his administratrix, although the future claim survived to the heir: Platt v. G. T. Ry., 11 Ont. 246. Covenant for title.

An action for breach of promise of marriage where no special damage is alleged does not survive. The special damage which would cause the right of action to survive must be damage to the property and not to the person of the promisee, and must be within the contemplation of both parties at the date of the promise, and the action can be brought against the executors for such special damage only and not for general damages: Finlay v. Cherney, 20 Q. B. D. 494. Breach of promise of marriage.

But where the defendant in an action of tort died before trial and at a date later than six months after the commencement of the action, and had not got any benefit by the act complained of, but had only injured the plaintiff, it was held that the action did not survive, and could not be continued against his personal representatives: Kirk v. Todd, 21 Ch. D. 484; see also Phillips v. Homfray, 24 Ch. D. 439; Chapman v. Day, 31 W. R. 767; 48 L. T. N. S. 907; 49 L. T. N. S. 436; see also Leslie v. Calvin, 9 Ont. 207.

Practice.—An order to add parties under this Rule is an order on præcipe: Oshawa Cabinet Co. v. Note, 18 C. L. J. 69; application in Court is not neces- Practice.

After an order under this Rule, the practice is as formerly, that in the subsequent proceedings the title of the revived action shall be added to the original style: Miller v. Huddlestone, W. N. 1881, 171; Seear v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121.

A party served with notice of the judgment and having liberty to attend the proceedings after judgment, may obtain an order under this Rule: Burstall v. Fearon, 24 Ch. D. 126; but not a person who has not obtained such liberty as he is not a party: Delaney v. Delaney, 27 Sol. Jour. 418.

In the case of transmission of interest of a party served with notice of judgment an order under this Rule is not proper; the successor should be served with notice of the judgment: Re Wicks, W. N. 1888, 9.

An executor continuing an action becomes, as formerly, when he obtained an order of revivor under the old practice, liable for costs: Boynton v. Boynton, 9 Ch. D. 250; 4 App. Cas. 733.

Where two of several plaintiffs having separate causes of action died before trial but, in ignorance of their death, the trial proceeded and the action was dismissed, an application by the executors of the deceased plaintiffs to continue the action was refused: Arnison v. Smith, 40 Ch. D. 567.

An order of revivor is in force from its service, and notice of trial served within 14 days after such service, for a day after the expiration of the 14 days was held good: New York Piano Co. v. Stevenson, 10 P. R. 270.

Where on the death of the sole defendant after notice of trial, persons in whom his interest vested were added as defendants. It was held that new notice of trial to them was necessary: Johnston v. English, 55 L. T. N. S. 55; 35 W. R. 29; W. N. 1886, 131.

Examples. On the death of an accounting party the Court may on an ex parte motion order the action to continue between continuing parties and the executor of deceased, notwithstanding that the executor is resident out of the jurisdiction: Jameson v. Marshall, 46 L. T. N. S. 480; but see Morrice v. Smart, 73 L. T. Jour. 398.

Where the plaintiff died within fourteen days from trial, the Court made an order, on the application of the executors, continuing proceedings, the executors undertaking to apply forthwith for probate, and to produce the same at the trial of the action if obtained: Hughes v. West, 13 L. R. Ir. 224.

Two sons were under their father's will appointed trustees on attaining twenty-one, and an administration action was commenced on the elder attaining that age, in which the infant son was a plaintiff and the other a defendant as trustee. Upon the infant attaining twenty-one and becoming a trustee and thus changing his interest and liability, an order was made ex parte making the infant son a co-defendant: Re Goold, Goold v. Goold, 51 L. T. N. S. 417; W. N. 1884, 185.

In an action on a promissory note, where the defendant became bankrupt, it was held that the trustee should not be added, as the judgment would not be for recovery, but would only amount to a declaration of a right to prove, which ought to be made in the bankruptcy proceedings: Barter v. Deheux, 7 Q. B. D. 413.

Where a petitioner had died after an order directing inquiries, it was ordered that the petition be carried on by the executors: Re Atkin's Estate, 1 Ch. D. 82. See note to s. 2 of the Act.

If an action becomes defective by the birth, since its commencement, of an infant who is a necessary party thereto, and proceedings since its birth have been taken in the action, the common order under this Rule will not render such proceeding binding on the infant. A special form of order to meet this case will be found in Seton, 4th ed., 1527, Form 3, and Peter v. Peter, 26 Ch. D. 181.

Where a party becomes a lunatic pending action, as to continuance of the action by his committee, see Re Green, 41 L. T. N. S. 30; 48 L. J. Chy. 681.

In Wallis v. Smith, 46 L. T. N. S. 473; 51 L. J. Chy. 577, a judgment creditor who had obtained an order attaching a judgment debt, was held entitled to be added under this Rule as co-plaintiff with his debtor in the action in which the debtor had obtained the judgment, and to have notice of all proceedings taken in that suit to recover the debt. This decision proceeded to a great extent upon the terms of Eng. Ord. 50, R. 2, (1883, R. 179), which applied to the case of the devolution of estate by operation of law, and which not been adopted in the Ontario Act. Rule 623.

This Rule is not inapplicable to the case where there is a transmission of interest by reason of a subsequent incumbrancer having redeemed the plaintiff in a foreclosure suit. In such case, a new account may probably be taken without order under Rule 132. The costs of an order under this Rule were allowed in Mitchell v. Barrett, 3 C. L. T. 265.

Where a sole plaintiff in an administration action died, an order to continue the action was granted to a person who had been served with notice of the judgment and had obtained liberty to attend the proceedings, he being held to be in the same position as a party to the action: Burstall v. Fearon, 24 Ch. D. 126. The personal representative of the plaintiff might obtain an order to continue the proceedings: Dyer v. Painter, W. N. 1881, 105.

Where an appeal to the Court of Appeal becomes defective by death, transmission of interest, or other cause, proceedings to continue the appeal by or against the proper parties should be taken under this Rule, and in the Court of first instance. The appeal is a step in the cause or matter: Rule 863, and the present Rule being applicable the express provision to the same effect made by R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 40, has been omitted as unnecessary in the Revision of the Statutes and Rules: see also Ranson v. Patton, 17 Ch. D. 767; Re Knight, Knight v. Gardner, 84 L. T. Jour. 205. Appeal.

The Court has a discretion to allow a suit to be revived where it has abated more than twenty years: Curtis v. Sheffield, 20 Ch. D. 398; and see 21 Ch. D. 1; see also Russell v. Dowding, 27 Ch. D. 237.

Where the suit abates by the death of a party, no express provision was by the original Rules made corresponding to the old practice by which a motion may be made by the defendant or his representatives to compel the representatives of the plaintiff, or the plaintiff, to obtain an order to continue within a limited time, or in default that the action be dismissed against them: Motion v. King, 29 W. R. 73. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 241 and 242 (now Rule 629) contained such provision; see also Cameron v. Eager, 6 P. R. 117; Chowick v. Dimes, 3 Beav. 290.

In Wingrove v. Thompson, 11 Ch. D. 419, the Court acting under 15 & 16 V. c. 56, s. 44 (see Rule 310), appointed a person to represent the estate of a deceased plaintiff, who died insolvent and intestate, so that the defendant might have somebody against whom to move to have the action dismissed for want of prosecution.

See Oshawa Cabinet Co. v. Note, in note to Rule 376.

A counter-claim may be revived, in the same way as an original action, by the representatives of the deceased counter-claiming defendant: Andrew v. Aitken, 21 Ch. D. 175; see also Lumsden v. Winter, 8 Q. B. D. 650. Counter-claim petition, etc.

As to the case of consolidated actions, see Re Wortley, 4 Ch. D. 180.

The Rules on this subject apply to petitions as well as actions: Re Atkins, 1 Ch. D. 82; Re Dynevor, W. N. 1878, 199.

Where, after judgment, it is merely desired to issue execution, and rights or liabilities have become changed by death or otherwise, the person seeking to issue execution may proceed under Rule 886.

Where it becomes necessary to enforce a judgment against persons who have subsequently acquired a title an action must be brought for the purpose: Atty.-Gen. v. Cor. of Birmingham, 15 Ch. D. 423.

623. An order so obtained shall, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs, be served upon the continuing Service of order.

party or parties to the action or their solicitors, and also upon each such new party (unless the person making the application be himself the only new party), and the order shall from the time of such service, subject nevertheless to the next five following Rules, be binding on the person served therewith. J. A. Rule 386.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875, O. 50, r. 5 (1883, R. 182) names two instead of five following Rules, these two being the Rules corresponding with 624 and 625 infra: the other three here following Rules are not taken from the English Rules.

The English Rule has the following additional words at the end of the Rule: "and every person served therewith who is not already a party to the cause or matter shall be bound to enter an appearance thereto within the same time and in the same manner as if he had been served with a writ of summons." The Ont. Rules do not require an appearance to be entered by the person served.

Application to discharge order.

624. Where any person who is under no disability, or under no disability other than coverture, or being under any disability other than coverture, has a guardian ad litem in the action, shall be served with such order, such person may apply to the Court or a Judge to discharge or vary such order at any time within 14 days from the service thereof. J. A. Rule 387.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 50, r. 6 (1883 R. 183), except that the time there limited is 12 days, as was also the case in orig. Rule 387.

This Rule is very similar in its terms to Chy. G. O. 339, under which it was held to be not sufficient to give notice of the motion to discharge within the time allowed, but the motion had to be made returnable within that time: Harris v. Myers, 16 Gr. 117; Jackson v. Gardiner, 2 Chy. Ch. 385; 15 Gr. 425; McIlroy v. Hawke, 3 Chy. Ch. 66; see Fox v. Wallis, 2 C. P. D. 45. The time may be extended: see Smith v. Dunn, 2 Chy. Ch. 230 and Rule 485. The motion was formerly made to the Court and set down for the proper day, but quære whether it may under the present Rule be made in Chambers.

A notice of trial served before the 14 days had expired for a sitting commencing after the 14 days was held good, no motion against the order having been made: New York Piano Co. v. Stevenson, 10 P. R. 270.

Indorsement on order.

625. Upon every copy of such order served, there shall be indorsed a memorandum in the form or to the effect set forth in Form 20 in the Appendix. J. A. Rule 388.

No form is given in the English Rules.

Application to discharge order by persons under disability.

626. Where any person being under any disability other than coverture, and not having had a guardian ad litem appointed in the action, is served with any such order, such person may apply to the Court or a Judge to discharge or vary the order, at any time within 14 days from the appointment of a guardian ad litem for such party, and until such period of 14 days shall have expired the order shall have no force or effect as against such last mentioned person. J. A. Rule 389. Rules 627-631.

627. Where the order is served out of Ontario, the party served is to have the same time to apply to discharge the order, as a defendant has to appear to a writ of summons so served; but an application may be made for shortening the time. J. A. Rule 390. Application to discharge order when served out of Ontario.

Not taken from any English Rule. As to the time for appearance to a writ of summons served out of the jurisdiction, see Rule 276.

628. Where the Court or a Judge authorizes publication instead of service, the Court or Judge is at the same time to appoint such time for applying to discharge the order as seems proper. J. A. Rule 391. Application in case of order allowing service by publication.

Not taken from any English Rule.

629. Where an action would but for these Rules have abated by reason of the death of either party, and in which the proceedings may be continued under these Rules, the defendant or person against whom the action may be so continued, may apply on notice to compel the plaintiff, or person entitled to proceed with the action, to proceed according to the provisions of these Rules within such time as the Court or a Judge may order or in default for an order dismissing the action or for payment of the costs thereof or for such order as may be just. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 241, 242. Right of defendant in action which may be so continued.

630. Wherever any judgment or order has been made for payment of costs and the action or matter would, but for these Rules, become abated, any person interested under the judgment or order may under these Rules continue the proceedings and thereupon prosecute and enforce the judgment or order. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 102. Costs.

631. In case an action on a bill or a note is brought against more than one defendant, who must otherwise have been sued separately, and it happens that any defendant dies pending the action, an action may nevertheless be brought against the executors or administrators of such deceased defendant. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 138. When executors of deceased defendants may be sued.

15. Payment into Court in Satisfaction.

When defendant may pay in.

632. A defendant may, either before or at the time of delivering his defence, or afterwards by leave of the Court or a Judge, pay into Court a sum of money in satisfaction of the cause or a part of the cause of action, or one or more of the causes of action for which the plaintiff sues, and the money when so paid in shall remain in Court subject to further order, unless the plaintiff elects to take it out. But the payment of money into Court shall not be deemed an admission of the cause of action in respect of which it is so paid. New.

This Rule makes a considerable change in the practice, and is in many respects different from the English practice under Rules of 1883, Rr. 255-265.

(1) It is not confined to any particular kind of action. It therefore will at any rate apply in any "action to recover a debt or damages," which was the language of the original Rule 215 (as also of the present Eng. Rule 255), which extended the right theretofore existing at Law: see Maclennan Jud. Act, 2nd ed., 349. The former Rule was held not to apply in an action where an account was claimed: Nichols v. Evens, 22 Ch. D. 611.

(2) It enables the defendant to deny the plaintiff's causes of action, and at the same time pay into Court: see Berdan v. Greenwood, 3 Ex. D. 251; Hawkesley v. Bradshaw, 5 Q. B. D. 22, 302; even in actions for libel or slander: Hawkesley v. Bradshaw, supra, which are expressly excepted by the Eng. Rule. Quære, however, in some cases, such as actions to try a right, or to establish a character which is assailed or where fraud is charged: Berdan v. Greenwood, supra.

The principle is, that the Court ought not "to preclude defendants in actions from saying and doing that which, as practical men, before the action they might reasonably say and do, viz., say that they entirely deny a person's right to sue them, yet pay, or offer to pay, a sum of money as the price of peace, and for the prevention of further litigation": Berdan v. Greenwood, 3 Ex. D. 259. In Spurr v. Hall, 2 Q. B. D. 615, an action for nuisance, the defendant was not allowed to plead payment into Court together with a denial of the right of action; but the subsequent cases make the propriety of that decision at least doubtful. See also Potter v. Home and Colonial Insurance Co. cited 2 Q. B. D. 622.

(3) The payment into Court is not to be an admission of liability. Under the Eng. Rule payment in satisfaction is an admission of liability of the cause of action in respect of which the money is paid into Court; but with his defence a defendant may (except in action for libel or slander; Fleming v. Dollar, 23 Q. B. D. 388) pay in money and deny liability: Wheeler v. United Telephone Co., 13 Q. B. D. 597.

(4) Payment may be made in satisfaction of part of a cause of action, or of any one or more of several causes of action as well as of the whole action.

(5) The plaintiff may not take the money out, unless he accepts it in satisfaction of the cause of action in respect to which it was paid in: Rule 635.

The result will be that notwithstanding any defence denying liability, the acceptance will satisfy the cause of action, and the action, except as to costs, will come to an end, if the payment in is in satisfaction of the whole cause of action: see Re Earl of Stamford, 33 W. R. 909, where plaintiff, after taking the money proceeded with the action, and was required to stop proceedings or pay the money in again; see also Kane v. Mitchell, 13 P. R. 118.

Formerly the payment in enabled the plaintiff to take the money out, not accepting it in full, and proceed with the action; and he might keep the money in the end though his action failed: see Macleman Jud. Act, 2nd ed., 350. The money will, under the present Rule, remain in Court as the defendant's money, if not accepted by the plaintiff in satisfaction, to be dealt with by the Court in the judgment or by other order in the action: see Maple v. Earl of Shrewsbury, 35 W. R. 819. It will not be paid out on motion by the plaintiff, he not accepting it in full: Kane v. Mitchell, supra. Rules 633-636.

Where the money is not accepted in full, and the plaintiff does not succeed in obtaining more, it would seem that the defendant has established a defence to the whole action, entitling him to the general costs of it: see Wheeler v. United Telephone Co., 13 Q. B. D. 597, and Kane v. Mitchell, supra.

633. Payment into Court shall be signified in the defence and the claim or cause of action in satisfaction of which the payment is made shall be specified therein. New. To be signified in defence.

Taken from Eng. Rules of 1883, R. 256.

Where there are several causes of action or different heads of claim money should not be paid in generally, without specifying the amounts applicable to the different causes of action or heads of the claim, where it can be done; otherwise particulars may be ordered. Thus, where plaintiff claimed (1) mesne profits and (2) damages for dilapidation and non-repair of premises leased; the defendant paying in generally was ordered to give particulars apportioning the money paid in to the different heads of claim: Rowe v. Kelly, 59 L. T. N. S. 139; W. N. 1888, 141. The Eng. Rule 203, respecting particulars (not adopted here) was referred to, but does not seem to provide for more than by the practice which has grown up in Ont., without special Rule, may be ordered.

In Paraire v. Loibl, 49 L. J. C. P. 481, 43 L. T. N. S. 427, (discussed in Rowe v. Kelly) where plaintiff claimed for distinct services as defendant's architect, viz.: in preparing plans, acting as arbitrator, and making surveys, it was held that payment into Court generally was sufficient in point of pleading, but the question whether particulars should be ordered was not passed upon, see Bank of London v. Guarantee Co., 12 P. R. 499.

634. If a defendant pays money into Court before delivering his defence, he shall serve upon the plaintiff a notice specifying both the fact that he has paid in the money, and also the claim or cause of action in respect of which the payment has been made. The notice may be in the Form No. 21 in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. New. Or in notice.

635. If the plaintiff takes the money out of Court he shall take it in satisfaction of the very cause of action for which it was paid in, and shall upon applying therefor file and serve a memorandum acknowledging the cause for which he takes it out, which may be according to the Form No. 22 in the Appendix, and shall be equivalent to a satisfaction piece. New. How plaintiff may take money out.

See notes to Rule 632.

636. The plaintiff shall make his election to take the money out of Court within four days after the day on which Election.

Rules 637-639.

he receives notice of payment in if the payment is made before defence, and if the money is paid in with the defence, he shall elect, either before replying or before the expiration of the time for replying, whichever first happens. New.

Taxing costs.

637. When the plaintiff takes out money in satisfaction of the entire cause of action he may tax his costs of the action and sign judgment therefor, unless the defendant pays them within forty-eight hours after taxation. New.

It has been held that though only sixpence is paid into Court the plaintiff, if he takes it in satisfaction, is entitled to his costs: McSheffery v. Lanagan, 20 L. R. Ir. 528.

See Suckling v. Gabb in note to Rule 641.

If the plaintiff does not accept the money in satisfaction, he may become liable to pay the whole costs: see Bank of London v. Guarantee Co., 12 P. R. 499.

The costs may be taxed under this Rule without any judgment or order unless it becomes necessary to enforce payment, in which case the plaintiff may sign judgment after the expiration of 48 hours from the granting of the certificate of taxation.

If the plaintiff does not elect within the time given by Rule 636, probably his right to do so, and to tax costs, is gone: see Spincer v. Watts, 23 Q. B. D. 350. It was, however, held under original Rule 218, which gave the plaintiff 4 days after receipt of notice of payment within which to accept the money in satisfaction, that he might still apply under Rule 1170 for costs: Greave v. Fleming, 4 Q. B. D., 226; see also Broadhurst v. Willey, W. N. 1876, 21; but query, whether that will be so under the present Rules, by which the plaintiff has no right to the money by the mere payment of it into Court, but only in the event of his making an election under Rule 636.

This Rule only applies where the plaintiff takes out money in satisfaction of the entire cause of action which probably means in satisfaction of all the plaintiff's causes of action so as to end the action. Under the former Common Law practice where payment in was pleaded as to part only, the plaintiff could not proceed at once to tax costs as to that cause of action: Cauty v. Gyll, 5 Sc., N. R. 818.

Where the plaintiff's solicitor, by mistake, accepted money paid in and signed judgment for costs, the judgment, on application of the plaintiff, was set aside, upon payment of costs and the plaintiff was allowed to proceed with his action: Emery v. Webster, 9 Ex. 242.

Consolidated actions.

638. Where money is paid into Court in two or more actions which are consolidated, the money paid in and the costs in all the actions shall be dealt with in the same manner as in the action tried. New.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 262.

When plaintiff may pay in.

639. A plaintiff may, in answer to a counter-claim, pay money into Court in satisfaction thereof, subject to the like conditions as to costs and otherwise as upon payment into Court by a defendant. New.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 263.

640. With a defence setting up a tender before action, the sum of money alleged to have been tendered must be brought into Court. New. Rules 640, 641. Tender.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 257.

This is similar to the former Common Law practice: see Chapman v. Hicks, 2 C. & M. 633, where it was held that if the sum tendered was not paid in the plaintiff might sign judgment for the sum to which the tender was pleaded. When paid in, however, the money will now be subject to the same rules as in other cases where money is paid in.

In an action for wrongful dismissal where the defendant tendered one month's salary, pleading that the plaintiff was only entitled to that, or in the alternative to three month's. The money was paid into Court and the plaintiff was found entitled to one month's salary. It was held that the action being for unliquidated damages these Rules did not apply and defendant was entitled to a return of part of the money: Davys v. Richardson, 20 Q. B. D. 722; but could not recover it from the plaintiff's solicitor, who had bonâ fide taken out the money and paid it over to the plaintiff: S. C. in appeal, 21 Q. B. D. 202.

16. Discontinuance.

641. The plaintiff may, at any time before receipt of any defendant's statement of defence, or after the receipt thereof before taking any other proceeding in the action (save any interlocutory application) by notice in writing, [filed and served] wholly discontinue his action or withdraw any part or parts of his alleged cause of complaint; and a defendant shall be entitled to the costs of the action, if wholly discontinued against him, or to the costs occasioned by the withdrawal of the matter withdrawn if not wholly discontinued. Discontinuance.

(a) Such costs may be taxed [upon production of the notice so served without any order, and if not paid within four days from taxation the defendant may, without any order, sign judgment therefor].

The language of this clause is now to make the procedure clear, which was not quite plain under the original Rule: see Bolton v. Bolton, 3 Ch. D. 276, under the original Eng. R.

(b) Such discontinuance or withdrawal, as the case may be, shall not be a defence to any subsequent action.

(c) Save as in these Rules otherwise provided, it shall not be competent for the plaintiff to (x) discontinue the action without leave of the Court or a Judge, but the Court or a a Judge may, before, or at, or after the hearing or trial, upon such terms as to costs, and as to any other action against all or any of the defendants, and otherwise, as may seem fit, order the action to be discontinued, or any part of Former practice.

Under the former Chancery practice, the plaintiff might dismiss his bill against the defendant at any time before decree, on præcipe. The dismissal was with costs; but where no answer had been filed, no costs had been incurred, unless perhaps instructions to answer: see Bisset v. Strachan, 8 P. R. 211. On special application dismissal might be without costs; but after decree the bill could only be dismissed by consent: where, however, the decree was for the benefit of other persons besides the actual parties to the suit, (e.g., creditors) it could not be dismissed even by consent of the parties: Arnbery v. Thornton, 6 P. R. 190.

In the Common Law Courts, the plaintiff might discontinue his action at any time before judgment upon payment of costs: 2 Arch. 12th ed. 1483; Harrison's C. L. P. Act, 634. By Reg. Gen. T. T. 1856, No. 24, the consent of the defendant was rendered unnecessary, whether before or after plea, but the discontinuing rule was required to contain an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff to pay the costs, and a consent that, if they were not paid within four days after taxation the defendant should be at liberty to sign judgment of non pros. Before that Rule consent was necessary in order to discontinue after plea. The rule was a side bar rule before verdict or argument of demurrer; in other cases a motion was necessary. The discontinuance was an abandonment of a pending action, but it left the plaintiff at liberty to commence another action for the same cause. Discontinuance was not effectual until payment of costs: Edgington v. Proudman, 1 Dowl. P. C. 152; and if the costs were not paid, the defendant's only remedy was to sign judgment of non pros.

Scope of present Rule.

The present Rule besides allowing the plaintiff as formerly to discontinue the whole action, authorizes the withdrawal of a part of his cause of complaint: formerly, the discontinuance could only be of the whole action: Benton v. Polkinghorne, 16 M. & W. 8.

The power to withdraw part is, however, only where the part is severable from the rest of the claim: Bank of London v. Guarantee Co., 12 P. R. 499.

It has been held under the Irish Jud. Act, that in an action against several defendants a notice wholly discontinuing the action as against some defendants is irregular: and that the proper course in such case is to apply for leave to withdraw the cause of complaint as against such defendants, which will be granted where the causes of action against such defendants are alternative, and distinct from the causes of action against the remaining defendants: Carlisle v. Belfast Board, etc., 10 L. R. Ir. 36.

And in Ont. it has been held that a plaintiff cannot serve notice of discontinuance against one of several defendants; and that his proper course is to obtain an order for leave to discontinue against such defendant: Fox v. Hamilton Prov. & L. Soc., 9 C. L. T. 197.

The words "before taking any other proceeding in the action" mean "before taking any proceeding with any intention of continuing the action," and do not include a step such as taking money out of Court or bringing in money in satisfaction of a counter-claim: Spincer v. Watts, 23 Q. B. D. 350.

The plaintiff cannot serve notice under this Rule on an infant until a guardian is appointed, and so escape the costs of the action: Ruth v. Taylor, 79 L. T. Jour. 211.

On a motion to set aside a discontinuance as irregular, leave was granted to discontinue on proper terms on a cross-motion of the plaintiff: Spiller v. Coghlan, 20 L. R. Ir. 32.

The present Rule does not permit the plaintiff to discontinue his action after it has been entered for trial: Matthews v. Antrobus, 49 L. J. Chy. 80. Leave must in such case be obtained under clause (c) or Rule 670. Rule 641.

The discontinuance is only of right, either before defence put in; or, if defence is put in, before taking any step other than an interlocutory application.

If the statement of defence sets up matters arising after the issue of the writ, the truth of which the plaintiff cannot deny, and which afford a good answer in law, the plaintiff's proper course will be, not to discontinue, but to enter a confession of the defence under Rule 440.

The form of discontinuance will be found in the Appendix Form, No. 29. Form of notice.

Under the English Rule (which does not contain the words as to the notice being filed and served), it was held that a written notice by the plaintiff's solicitor as follows: "We are instructed to proceed no further in the action," was a sufficient notice: The Pommerania, 4 P. D. 195.

A discontinuance filed by a plaintiff has been held not to have the effect of discontinuing any counter-claim set up in the action: McGowan v. Middleton, 11 Q. B. D. 464, over-ruling Vavasseur v. Krupp, 15 Ch. D. 474; but an appeal by the plaintiff will be thereby discontinued: Compbeare v. Lewis, 13 Ch. D. 469. Where, however, a plaintiff who had given an undertaking as to damages discontinued his action, it was held that the Court would nevertheless direct a reference as to damages: Newcomen v. Coulson, 7 Ch. D. 764. Effect of discontinuance.

The defendant has an absolute right to all costs of the action, and they are not in the discretion of the Judge under Rule 1170; see The St. Olaf, 2 P. D. 113; The J. H. Henkes, 12 P. D. 106. The costs will include costs made costs in the cause on an application on which the plaintiff succeeded: The St. Olaf, supra. Costs.

Leave to discontinue is only granted on payment of the costs: The J. H. Henkes, 12 P. D. 106.

The defendant is entitled to costs though the plaintiff discontinues before appearance: Moore v. S. Counties, etc., Bank, W. N. 1889, 156.

Costs of work in preparing, briefing, or otherwise relating to affidavits, etc., properly and not prematurely done, down to the time of discontinuance, are taxable: Harrison v. Leutner, 16 Ch. D. 559.

An order of a Master which stayed an action on payment of costs, was varied by substituting the word "discontinued" for "stayed," to prevent the possibility of the action being again proceeded with: Anon, W. N. 1876, 40; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 38.

Where on a motion under the Eng. Rule corresponding to Rule 739 the defendant was ordered to pay money into Court as to part of the claim, and was given leave to defend as to the remainder, and the plaintiff afterwards discontinued, the costs were held to be not governed by this Rule, but were in the discretion of the Court under Rule 1170, and plaintiff was given costs up to the time of payment into Court: Suckling v. Gabb, 36 W. R. 175.

In a test action, the plaintiff asked for a postponement of the trial, or that an order for discontinuance might be made; the Court held that it could not regard the rights of the plaintiffs in the other actions, but must act as if the plaintiff had not appeared at the trial; and dismissed the action: Robinson v. Chadwick, 7 Ch. D. 878. Discontinuance by leave.

Where a case had been referred to arbitration, and the arbitrator found in favor of defendant as to all but a small part, the leave to discontinue was refused: Stahlschmidt v. Walford, 4 Q. B. D. 217; see also Matthews v. Antrobus, 49 L. J. Chy. 80.

On a motion for leave to discontinue, the Court has no jurisdiction to give the plaintiff any costs where the defence, if indisputed, or if it were established, would disentitle the plaintiff to maintain the action: Lambton v. Parkinson, 35 W. R. 545; see also Dicks v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 76.

Rules 642, 643. Withdrawal of defence.

642. A defendant may, with the leave of the Court or a Judge, but not otherwise, withdraw his defence or counterclaim, or both, or any part of either or both, upon such terms as may be imposed. J. A. Rule 170*c*.

Same in effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 23, r. 1 (1883, R. 290).

One of the defendants, in an action for the recovery of land, was allowed to withdraw his defence after the action had been in the paper for trial, but had been postponed till another action relating to the same property should be ready for trial, upon the terms of giving to the plaintiffs all the relief to which they could be entitled at the trial, and paying the costs occasioned by the defence, and the costs of a summons for leave to withdraw: Real & Personal Advance Co. v. McCarthy, 11 Ch. D. 188. The costs only which were occasioned exclusively by the defence were allowed: Ib.

A defence put in fraudulently and without authority was allowed to be withdrawn: Williams v. Preston, 20 Ch. D. 672.

As to withdrawal of defence of infants, see Fitzwater v. Waterhouse, 52 L. J. Chy. 83; Gardner v. Tapling, 33 W. R. 473.

17. Compounding Penal Actions.

Leave to compound penal actions.

643. Leave to compound a penal action shall not be given in cases where part of the penalty goes to the Crown, unless notice has been given to the proper officer, but in other cases it may. Rules T. T. 1856, 95.

By 18 Eliz., c. 5, s. 3, no penal action, by a common informer, can be compromised without the leave of the Court. This statute is in force in this Province: Bleeker v. Meyers, 6 U. C. Q. B. 134.

Leave when granted.

Where the Crown is concerned, the consent of the Attorney-General must be procured: Howard v. Sowerby, 1 Taunt. 103. Leave is not necessary in actions by the party aggrieved: Kirkham v. Wheeley, 1 Salk 30. It is entirely in the discretion of the Court to grant it, or not: Maughan v. Walker, 5 T. R. 98; Sheldon v. Mumford, 5 Taunt. 268. Where the sum offered is so small as to indicate collusion, leave will be refused: Wood v. Cassin, 2 W. Bl. 1157. Leave will not be granted until after the statement of defence: Rex v. Collier, 2 Dowl. 481; and see Rex v. Crisp, 1 B. & Al. 282.

Leave was given to compromise a penal action brought under 32 Hen. 8, c. 8, for buying pretended titles, on paying the Crown's share into Court: May q. t. v. Dettrick, 5 O. S. 77.

A promise founded on the compromise of a penal action without the leave of the Court is void: Hart v. Meyers, 7 U. C. Q. B. 416; and see Bell v. Riddell, 10 Ont. App. 544.

Where action by informer will lie.

An action for a penalty imposed by a statute cannot be brought by a common informer unless the statute imposing the penalty so provides either expressly, or by implication: Bradlaugh v. Clarke, 8 App. Cas. 637; 48 L. T. N. S. 681; 52 L. J. Q. B. 505.

Where the statute does not authorize an action by a common informer, the penalty can only be recovered in a proceeding at the suit of the Crown: Ib.; but see Shrigley v. Taylor, 4 Ont. 396.

An action to recover a penalty cannot be brought by an infant by his next friend, it must be brought by the informer in person or by his solicitor: Garrett v. Roberts, 10 Ont. App. 650.

The Court refused to set aside a judgment of non pros regularly signed in a penal action: McClenigan v. McLeod, 8 U. C. L. J. 233; 3 P. R. 13.

A plaintiff may be non-suited in a qui tam action: Ramsay v. Jones, 21 U. C. Q. B. 370.

The Court or a Judge, and the Lieutenant Governor in Council have now power to remit penalties imposed by any Act of the Province of Ontario, either wholly, or in part: see R. S. O. 1887, c. 90, ss. 1, 3. They have, however, no power to remit costs incurred up to the time of the remission: Ib., s. 4. Rules 644-646.

644. The order for compounding any qui tam action shall express therein that the defendant thereby undertakes to pay the sum for which the Court has given him leave to compound such action. Rules T. T. 1856, 96. Order for compounding.

The payment of such sum might formerly be enforced by attachment: Regina v. Clifton, 5 T. R. 257; but see now R. S. O. c. 67, ss. 6, 8.

645. Where leave is given to compound a penal action, the Queen's proportion of the composition shall be paid into the Accountant's Office, for the use of Her Majesty. Rules T. T. 1856, 97. Queen's proportion of composition.

See Brown v. Bailey, 4 Burr. 1929. Presumably the money should be paid into the Accountant's office in the same manner as other moneys are paid into Court: see Rules 163 et seq. By the order authorizing the action to be compounded, or by some subsequent order, provision should be made for payment out of the money to the Provincial Treasurer, or other public officer entitled to to receive the same.

18. Dismissal of Actions.

646. If the plaintiff, being bound to deliver a statement of claim, does not deliver the same within the time allowed for that purpose, the defendant may, at the expiration of such time, apply to the Court or a Judge to dismiss the action with costs, for want of prosecution; and on the hearing of such application the Court or Judge may, if no statement of claim has been delivered, order the action to be dismissed accordingly, or may make such other order, on such terms as to the Court or Judge seems just. J. A. Rule 203. Dismissal of action on plaintiff's default.

Rule 369 regulates the time within which the defendant is bound to deliver his statement of claim, viz., three months after appearance. The time by the English Rule is six weeks.

The practice in this Province has been to make such application in Chambers. In England, it appears to be a matter for the option of parties whether they will move in Chambers or in Court; and, if the motion is made in Court, it is a question to be decided by the Court in each particular case, whether the motion was under the circumstances proper to be made in Court: Evelyn v. Evelyn, 13 Ch. D. 138. But moving in Court instead of Chambers is disapproved of: Chesterfield v. Black, 13 Ch. D. 138, note; Freason v. Loe, 26 W. R. 138. The application may be supported by an affidavit that a statement of claim has not been dispensed with and has not been delivered, and a certificate of the Clerk or Registrar in whose office the action is, that an appearance has been entered by the applicant, with the date of entry.

Where the plaintiff made default in delivering his claim, and had become bankrupt, it was held that notice of motion to dismiss under this Rule must be

Rule 646. served upon the trustee in bankruptcy: Wright v. Swindon Ry. Co., 4 Ch. D. 164. In Higginbottom v. Aynsley, 3 Ch. D. 288, on a motion to dismiss under this Rule, Hall, V.C., gave a week's time to take further proceedings, observing that each case was to depend upon its own merits. The plaintiff was ordered to pay the costs of the motion. Probably the plaintiff will in general be given a short further time upon payment of costs.

Some only of the defendants cannot have the action dismissed, if, for sufficient reasons, proceedings against other defendants have been delayed, and the applicant ought probably to apply to the plaintiff's solicitor for information as to the state of the cause against the defendants: Foley v. Lee, 12 P. R. 371; see Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D. 759.

A defendant can only have the action dismissed as against himself: Ward v. Ward, 11 Beav. 159.

It has been said that, if a plaintiff desires to avoid the cost of the hearing of the motion, he should tender to the defendant the costs of the notice, and give the usual undertaking to go on: Evelyn v. Evelyn, 13 Ch. D. 138; Freason v. Loe, 26 W. R. 138: but this is not the practice in Ontario, even where the motion to dismiss is merely for a default under this Rule: see note to Rule 647. The filing of a statement of claim is no answer to a motion to dismiss: Napanee Tamworth, etc. Ry. Co. v. McDonell, 10 P. R. 525. The filing would be irregular without leave: see Rule 369 (c).

Where before statement of claim an action was stayed until the plaintiff should give security for costs, and the time for delivery of a statement of claim expired without security having been given, it was held that the stay did not prevent the action from being dismissed under this Rule: La Grange v. McAndrew, 4 Q. B. D. 210.

Where an order had been made dismissing an action, unless a statement of claim should be delivered within a week, and this was not done, it was held that the action was at an end, the order having neither been complied with nor appealed against, and an order could not afterwards be made extending the time for delivering the statement: Whistler v. Hancock, 3 Q. B. D. 83; see also King v. Davenport, 4 Q. B. D. 402. But if an order to dismiss is made, further time may be given for appealing against that order: Burke v. Rooney, 4 C. P. D. 226; Carter v. Stubbs, 6 Q. B. D. 116; or if the time has not expired so that the action is not gone, there is jurisdiction to vary or rescind the order for dismissal on proper grounds: Welply v. Buhl, 3 Q. B. D. 80, 253; Carter v. Stubbs, supra. In Newcombe v. McLuhan, 11 P. R. 461, the above cases were considered, and it was held that after the action stood dismissed for failure to file a statement of claim by the time named, and judgment was signed dismissing the action, an order could be made under Rule 485 to vacate the judgment, and further extend the time for delivering the statement of claim. See also notes to Rule 485.

Where an order is made dismissing an action unless a statement of claim be delivered within a time named, it has hitherto been the practice in Ontario to obtain a further order ex parte dismissing the action, showing that the previous order has not been complied with: see Burns v. Chisholm, 2 Chy. Ch. 88.

It would seem that an order dismissing an action does not take effect until it is drawn up and served, and that the action under the English practice is not dead until that is done: Metcalf v. British Tea Association, 46 L. T. N. S. 31.

The dismissal of an action for want of prosecution is not a bar to a subsequent action in respect of the same matter: Re Orrell Colliery & Firebrick Co., 12 Ch. D. 681; Byrne v Frere, 2 Moll. 180: Roberts v. Lucas, 11 P. R. 3; though made on consent, unless it proceed upon a compromise of the cause of action: Magnus v. National Bank of Scotland, 36 W. R. 603; 58 L. T. N. S. 617; but the second action is liable to be stayed until the costs of the first are paid: see note to Rule 1245.

See Sutton v. Huggins, W. N. 1875, 235.

The plaintiff sued the indorser of a bill of exchange. The debt was afterwards paid by the acceptor, and the indorser applied to dismiss the action for want of prosecution. Lindley, J., said, "I shall certainly not let the action go on simply to determine who is to pay the costs. All further proceedings in the action to be stayed, the defendant to pay the costs of the writ": Anon, W. N. 1876, 37; see also Elliott v. Gardner, 8 P. R. 409; Wallace v. Ford, 1 Chy. Ch. 282. Rule 647.

Though no motion to dismiss is made, the plaintiff cannot regularly proceed without leave: see note to Rule 369; but the former practice requiring a Term's notice to be given, where a year has elapsed without a proceeding having been taken, is not continued under The Judicature Act: Beaver v. Boardman, 9 P. R. 239. For a similar restriction upon moving for judgment: see Rule 752.

In England a formal judgment for defendant's costs is signed upon the order for dismissal: Chitty Forms 189; but in this Province the costs may be recovered under the Judge's order. See Rule 866.

647. If the pleadings are closed six weeks before the commencement of any sittings of the High Court for which the plaintiff might give notice of trial, and he does not give notice of trial therefor, the action may be dismissed for want of prosecution. J. A. Rule 255. When plaintiff does not give notice of trial.

Not the same as R. Sup. C. June, 1876, R. 13, (1883, R. 36). This is somewhat analogous to the mode of proceeding under section 246 of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50), but simpler, and corresponds substantially with the former Chancery practice.

The six weeks is not a time limited for "doing any act" within Rule 485. It therefore cannot be abridged under that Rule, and the lapse of this period is an absolute condition precedent to the right of the defendant to give notice of trial: Saunders v. Pawley, 14 Q. B. D. 234.

There is a continuing duty on the plaintiff's part to give notice of trial until the case is tried; hence, although he has given a notice, but the trial for some reason is postponed, the defendant may move to dismiss under this Rule if the plaintiff makes default in giving notice of trial for any subsequent Assizes: Chapman v. Smith, 32 C. P. 555; Hibernian Bank v. Hughes, 10 L. R. Ir. 15.

Where the case had gone to trial twice but the verdicts had been set aside it was held, under the corresponding Irish Rule, which is same as the English Rule, that the defendant could not move to dismiss, and could not give notice of trial himself, but must resort to the old procedure of trial by proviso: Foott v. Benn, 16 L. R. Ir. 247. This case will not be applicable in Ont. in view of Rules 3, 654 and 647. See also Crick v. Hewlett, in note to Rule 661.

Where a case was made a remanet, formerly no notice of trial need be given. A case was held to be a remanet where, by verbal order at the trial, it was "postponed till the Autumn assizes": Donovan v. Boultbee, 10 P. R. 52. Notice is in such case now necessary under Rule 671*a*. Remanet.

On a motion to dismiss, some excuse must be given for the default, the sufficiency of which will depend upon the circumstances of each case. Chy. Gen. Order 276 was held to be applicable to such motions: Bucke v. Murray, 9 P. R. 495; and though that Order is not expressly continued in the Rules the practice originated under it and acted upon under the original Rules will probably be held to apply. That Gen. Order was as follows: Motions to dismiss.

"276. Where a defendant is entitled to give notice to dismiss, it is not to be sufficient answer to the motion for the plaintiff, after being served with the notice to take out and serve an order for amending the bill or to file a replication, or undertake to speed the cause; but it shall be necessary for the plaintiff to shew that he has prosecuted the suit with diligence, or that under all the circumstances the bill should not be dismissed." Chy. Order 276.

Though an undertaking to speed the cause is therefore not a sufficient answer to a motion to dismiss for want of prosecution, (though it is otherwise in England: Evelyn v Evelyn, 13 Ch. D. 138; Freason v. Loe, 26 W. R. 138) it is still discretionary with the Judge to say whether, under all the circumstances, the action should be dismissed: Bucke v. Murray, supra. See also Napanee, Tamworth, etc., Ry. v. McDonell, 10 P. R. 525; Carter v. Barker, 11 P. R. 1.

The former decisions under the Chancery practice will therefore probably serve as authorities as to what is a sufficient excuse: see cases in Robinson & Joseph's Digest, pp. 2922, et seq.; Finnegan v. Keenan, 7 P. R. 385; and as to what amounts to waiver of objection to the delay: Cotton v. Rodgers, 7 P. R. 423; see also Miles v. Roe, 20 C. L. J. 113; 10 P. R. 218.

Where an action was ordered to be dismissed unless notice of trial was given by a given time, and by mistake of the solicitor's clerk notice was not given, a Judge refused to extend the time and the Divisional Court refused to interfere: Gilder v. Morrison, 30 W. R. 815.

Where the action was brought on a ground for which no action lay, the plaintiff being in default under this Rule, indulgence was refused and the action dismissed: Clarke v. Creighton, 13 P. R. 113.

Where one of several defendants in an action has delivered his defence, and the time for the plaintiff to deliver his reply to such defence has expired, but the plaintiff has, without the knowledge of that defendant, agreed in writing with the other defendants to extend the time for delivering their defences, that defendant cannot move to dismiss the action as against him for want of prosecution, the pleadings not yet being "closed;" and it was said, that a defendant's proper course is to write to the plaintiff's solicitor, and inquire how the action stands as regards the other defendants: Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D. 759.

A motion to dismiss, or that the plaintiff give security for costs, was made in Willmott v. Freehold, etc., 29 Sol. Jour. 385; 33 W. R. 554; 52 L. T. N. S. 743.

Refusal to be examined.

648. If a plaintiff refuses or neglects to attend at the time and place appointed for his examination, or fails to comply with any order for discovery or production or inspection of documents, the defendant, in addition to his other remedies, may move to dismiss the action. J. A. Rule 236; Chy. O. 145.

The other remedies referred to in this Rule are the exclusion of the documents which the plaintiff may have refused to produce, as evidence at the trial, and the committal of the plaintiff for contempt: see Rules 499, 520, and notes.

19. Transfer and Consolidation of Actions.

Transferring actions.

649. Actions may be transferred from one Division of the High Court to another Division by order of the Presidents of such Divisions. J. A. Rule 392.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 51, r. 2 (1883, R. 649), gives this authority to the Lord Chancellor, with the consent of the Presidents of the Divisions from and to which the transfer is made. In England the order is made by the Chancellor on written consent of all parties, or on notice: Humphreys v. Edwards, 45 L. J. Chy. 112; W. N. 1875, 208; 1 Ch. D. 41. It applies to transfer of petitions, though actions alone are mentioned in the Rule: Re Boyd's Trusts, 1 Ch. D. 12; see also Cannot v. Morgan, 1 Ch. D. 1; Warne v. Dell, W. N. 1875, 259; Johnson v. Moffatt, Ib., 21; Anon, Ib., 22; Hillman v. Mayhew, 1 Ex. D. 132; Holloway v. York, 2 Ex. D. 333; Gen. Steam Nav. Co. v. London & Edinburgh Shipping Co., W. N. 1876, 56; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 67; Clements v. Norris, W. N. 1878, 4; Storey v. Waddle, 4 Q. B. D. 289.

In Ontario the powers of transfer formerly possessed by the Courts under The Ont. Jud. Act, 1881, s. 26, are not preserved in the Revised Act or Rules. Transfers will now be made under this Rule, or Rules 650, and 651. In practice transfers are not frequent, except for the purpose of equalizing business, or by reason of the existence of some cause of disqualification, in the Judges of the Division in which the action is. The machinery for disposing of all sorts of actions is now becoming, and is supposed to be, the same in all the Divisions, so that transfers to the Chancery Division for the taking of accounts are not made as they are in England: see Ladd v. Puleston, 31 W. R. 802; 48 L. T. N. S. 949; Leslie v. Clifford, 50 L. T. N. S. 590; London Land Co., Limited, v. Harris, 13 Q. B. D. 540; 51 L. T. N. S. 296; 33 W. R. 14. Rules 650, 651.

The former powers of transfer might be exercised by the Master in Chambers, but now by the Presidents of Divisions alone: see Hilliard v. Thurston, 18 C. L. J. 180; 2 C. L. T. 261, and 285, and Rule 650.

Where cross-actions with different venues are consolidated, the place of trial will be ordered as the balance of convenience requires: Gonee v. Leitch, 11 P. R. 255.

As to consolidation of actions in different Divisions, see Rule 652 and notes.

650. The Presidents of the Queen's Bench, Chancery and Common Pleas Divisions shall, from time to time as occasion may require, meet together and examine the list of motions and other matters set down for argument in each Divisional Court of the High Court, and direct the transfer of such and so many of the said motions, and other matters from one Divisional Court to another as shall, as nearly as possible in their judgment, equalize the amount of business to be done by the said Courts. J. A. Rule 393. Presidents of Divisions to make transfers necessary to equalize business.

This Rule does not require the consent of parties or previous notice to them.

(a) Where an order of transfer is made under the foregoing Rules, the proper officer of the Division to which the cause or matter was assigned, shall annex together all the pleadings and papers filed with him, and transmit the same, together with the order of transference or a copy thereof, to such other office of the High Court as the order directs. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 22; 44 V. c. 5, s. 26. Transmission of papers, etc., on order to transfer to law.

651. Where an order has been made for the administration of the assets of any testator or intestate, a Judge of any Division shall have power, without any further consent, to order the transfer to such Division of any action pending in any other Division by or against the executors or administrators of the testator or intestate whose assets are being so administered. J. A. Rule 394. Transfer after administration order.

The Eng. R. June, 1876, r. 18 (1883, R. 653), applies also to the winding up of any company under the Companies Act, 1862, and 1869, and confines to a Judge of the Chancery Division the power of making the transfer. The order was made ex parte in Field v. Field, W. N. 1877, 98, and Masbach v. Anderson, 26 W. R. 100; see also Re Artistic Colour Co., 14 Ch. D. 502; Re Madras Irrigation Co., 16 Ch. D. 702; Re Stubbs, 8 Ch. D. 154.

A transfer after an administration decree was ordered in West v. Bowman, W. N. 1879, 13, 84; and refused in Chapman v. Mason, W. N. 1879, 93; 40 L. T. N. S. 678, where the executor was sought to be made personally liable: but see Re Timins, or Timms, W. N. 1878, 141; 26 W. R. 692, where the action was transferred, but not stayed.

An order of transfer should only be made after the administration order has been made, and not by the administration order: Re Poole, Poole v. Poole, 55 L. T. N. S. 56; W. N. 1886, 150.

Consolidation of actions.

652. Actions in any Division or Divisions may be consolidated by order of the Court or a Judge in the manner prior to "The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881," in use in the Superior Courts of Common Law. J. A. Rule 395.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 51, r. 4 (1883, R. 656).

Several actions against same defendant.

The expression, consolidation of actions, is used in two senses. First, if plaintiff brings two actions against the same defendant, for matters which might properly be combined in one action, and the double proceeding is held to be vexatious, a Court of Law, in the exercise of its ordinary power to prevent any abuse of its own process, might consolidate the actions; that is to say, stay proceedings absolutely in one action, and require the plaintiff to include the whole of his claims in the other; and this has been done with costs against the plaintiff: see Cecil v. Briggs, 2 T. R. 639; Anon, 1 Chitty's Rep. 709 [n.]; Beardsall v. Cheetham, E. B. & E. 243; 2 Chitty's Archbold, p. 1085, 13th ed. et seq., Dan. Pr., 6th ed., 1888; Dan. Forms, 3rd ed., 816; 1 Seton, 322.

Several actions by same plaintiff against different defendants.

But the term consolidation is more frequently used in a different sense. Where actions are brought by the same plaintiff against different defendants, but the questions in dispute in all are substantially the same, the Court, if the defendants apply, will stay proceedings in all the actions except one, until that one action has been determined, upon the terms that the various defendants agree to be bound by the event of the action which proceeds. This practice has been applied to the case of actions against the several underwriters upon policies of insurance: Hollingsworth v. Broderick, 4 A. & E. 646; to the case of guarantees of separate parts of a debt by separate instruments: Sharp v. Lethbridge, 4 M. & G. 37; joint and several obligors of a bond conditioned for the good behaviour of another person: Anderson v. Towgood, 1 Q. B. 245; principal and sureties on a replevin bond: Bartlett v. Bartlett, 4 Scott, N. R. 779; the several members liable upon a mutual insurance policy: Lewis v. Barkes, 4 C. B. N. S. 330; and several actions inrespect of publishing the same libel in different newspapers: Colledge v. Pike, 56 L. T. N. S. 124; in which last case the plaintiff was given liberty, if dissatisfied with the verdict, to select another action for trial. So, where a number of actions against different defendants may be reduced to classes, those of each class raising the same questions, the Court may allow one action of each class to proceed, and stay the rest: Syers v. Pickersgill, 27 L. J. Ex. 5.

Cross actions.

A third kind of consolidation is where there are cross actions between the same parties, arising out of the same matter, and the Court stays one directing the plaintiff [illegible]t to bring forward his case by way of defence, set-off or counterclaim in the other action. In such case the party on whom the onus of proof lies is given the conduct of the proceedings, by being directed to proceed with his action: Thomson v. S. E. Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 320; see also The Never Despair, 9 P. D. 34.

There is no fixed rule that the action last begun is to be stayed: Thomson v. S. E. Ry. Co., 30 W. R. 537; 46 L. T. N. S. 513; Miller v. Confederation Life, etc., 11 P. R. 241.

Where an action is commenced that covers the same ground as one already existing, together with some further relief, it will be stayed as to the first part: Morton v. Quick, 26 W. R. 441.

Where the plaintiffs in a prior pending action, claimed $200,000, balance due upon a construction contract, and in another action begun some time afterwards claimed £3000 for goods sold and delivered, and the cause of action arose before the commencement of the first action, it was held that the two claims should have been made in one action, and it was a proper exercise of discretion to refuse judgment and leave the question till the determination of the first action in which a large set-off was claimed, since in the result of both actions nothing might be due to the plaintiffs: Commee v. C. P. R., No. 2, 11 P. R. 393. Rule 652.

The Master in Ordinary, has no jurisdiction to consolidate actions in which judgments are entered, and under which separate references are pending in his office: Boswell v. Grant, 11 P. R. 376.

Where the plaintiff brought an action for an account in one Division and the defendant brought an action for a balance due on such accounts in another, the latter action was stayed on the defendant's application: Bethell v. United Stock Ex., W. N. 1886, 10.

In Smith v. Whichcord, 24 W. R. 900; separate actions between different parties relating to the same subject were consolidated.

Where plaintiffs brought an action for the same cause of action as was set up by them, in a counter-claim in an action in another Division, it was held that though the case was not strictly within this Rule because the plaintiffs had not brought two actions, yet there is inherent jurisdiction in the Court to prevent undue use of its process and the plaintiffs' action was stayed till their counter-claim should be disposed of: Taylor v. Bradford, 9 P. R. 350.

An action for breach of an agreement and fraud in the Ex. D. and a cross action for specific performance in the Ch. D. were ordered to be consolidated in the latter action: Holmes v. Hervey, 25 W. R. 80.

An application to consolidate two actions by the same plaintiff, one for malicious prosecution and the other for salary as a manager, was dismissed by Quain, J., with costs: 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 127; 60 L. T. Jour. 86.

The application is usually made in Chambers: see Smith v. Whichcord, 24 W. R. 900, Chitty Arch. 13th ed. 1087.

The order, when made on the application of the defendant, does not require the plaintiff's consent: Hollingsworth v. Brodrick, 4 A. & E. 646. It binds the defendants in the actions which are stayed to abide the event of the one which proceeds; but it has been held not to bind the plaintiff to do so; and that, if the result of the first action is against him, he may proceed with another: ...gle v. Anderson, 1 A. & E. 635; Doyle v. Douglas, 4 B. & Ad. 544. But see Amos v. Chadwick, 9 Ch. D. 459; and Bennett v Lord Bury, 5 C. P. D. 339. A consolidation order may be obtained at any time after each action has become a lis pendens, i.e. when the writ has been served: The Helenslea, 30 W. R. 616; see Hollingsworth v. Brodrick, supra; Ray v. Sherwood, 1 Curt. 173, 193; 1 Moo. P. C. 353.

Where two actions commenced on the same day were consolidated, and a difference of opinion arose between the plaintiffs as to the conduct of the action, the plaintiffs who took the first steps towards severance were made defendants, and the conduct of the cause was given to the other plaintiffs, though their claim was the smaller in amount: Holden v. Silkstone & Dodsworth Coal & Iron Co., 30 W. R. 98. Conduct of consolidated action.

The Court may re-open the consolidation order, and allow a second action to be defended, notwithstanding that the plaintiff has succeeded in the first action. But it will require a very strong case to induce it to do so. Probably a case must be shown at least as strong as would be required to procure a new trial: see Foster v. Alvez, 3 Bing. N. C. 896; Cohen v. Bulkley, 5 Taunt. 165. Re-opening consolidation.

Although consolidation, properly so called, is obtained at the instance of defendants, yet where several defendants are sued by the same plaintiffs, a somewhat analogous proceeding has been adopted in the converse case, where plaintiffs had brought their several actions against the same defendant, to recover similar relief in reference to the same transactions. Malins, V.C., at the instance of the plaintiffs, enlarged the time for taking any further steps in all the actions but one, until that one should be tried: Amos v. Chadwick, 4 Ch. D. 869; and his judgment was affirmed on appeal: 9 Ch. D. 459: see also Test action.

Rule 653. Hodson v. Richardson, 3 Burr 1478. A like course was taken in Bennett v. Lord Bury, 5 C. P. D. 320, where thirty-eight actions had been brought, and, on the plaintiff's application, the proceedings of thirty-seven were stayed until the trial of the thirty-eighth as a test action, though it was said that the incidents would or might vary in each case, and there would be differences of proof in each, but the gist of the charge was the same in all.

This course of staying all but one of several actions, will only be allowed where the questions in dispute are substantially the same. Where questions, raised by defendants, of fraud and misrepresentation would necessarily be different and depend on different evidence a stay was refused: Niagara Grape Co. v. Nelles, 13 P. R. 179; and see S. C. in Appeal, 25 C. L. J. 606.

The judgment in the test action will not bind the parties in the other actions, unless the action has been tried out on its merits, upon evidence: Amos v. Chadwick, 9 Ch. D. 459. Where, therefore, the plaintiffs in the test action, when it came on for trial declined to proceed, and judgment was then given for defendants it was held that, notwithstanding the Rule corresponding to Ont. Rule 797, the Judge had jurisdiction to substitute another of the actions as a test action: Ib. In the absence of agreement, the plaintiff in an action thus constituted a test action has no right to be indemnified against costs by the other plaintiffs: Ib.

Where a test action came on for trial, the plaintiff was not prepared to proceed and applied for a postponement, to which, under the circumstances so far as his own interest was concerned, he was not entitled; it was held that the Court could not regard the rights of the plaintiffs in the other actions, and must dismiss the action with costs: Robinson v. Chadwick, 7 Ch. D. 878. See note to Rules 641, and 672.

20. Trial.

With respect to the trial of actions, there are important differences between the provisions of the English Judicature Acts and Rules, and the provisions of the Ontario Act and Rules. The latter preserve very nearly the modes of trial in use in this Province, under The Administration of Justice Acts, and otherwise. By the English Rules the trial of an action may be in any one of the following modes, viz., before a Judge or Judges sitting alone; or before a Judge sitting with assessors; or before a Judge and jury; or before an official or special referee with assessors; or before such referee without assessors; and the party giving notice of trial may (subject to certain conditions and provisions), choose any one of these modes of trial. If he chooses any mode other than a jury, the party served with the notice may require the trial to be by jury; but a Judge has power to order the trial without a jury, of any question or issue which might before the Act have been, without consent tried without a jury; in other words, of any case which, before the Act, would properly have been brought only in the Court of Chancery. The Judge has also power, where neither party requires a trial by a jury, to order the trial in any other mode than that of which notice has been given.

In this Province, sections 76-80 of the Act regulate the mode of trial. See the notes to those sections, pp. 84-86.

Both the English Rules, and the Rules in the Ontario Act, provide for a trial before referees in certain cases, at the instance of the Court or a Judge, and provide also for the Court or a Judge ordering the different questions of fact arising in an action to be tried by different modes; or one or more questions of fact to be tried before the others: see secs. 101, 102 of the Act, and Rule 655.

(i) General Rules.

Venue abolished.

653. There shall be no local venue for the trial of any action [except an action of ejectment,] but the plaintiff shall in his statement of claim name the county town in which he proposes that the action should be tried, and the the action shall, unless a Judge otherwise orders, be tried in the place so named. Any order of a Judge, as to the place of trial, may be discharged or varied by a Divisional Court of the High Court. J. A. Rule 254. Rule 653.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 1. The Eng. R. 1883, R. 425, instead of the words in brackets, has "except where otherwise provided by statute," and also provides for the case of the indorsement on the writ becoming the only statement of claim, in which case the place of trial is named by a notice served six days after appearance. This case is not provided for by the Ont. Rules. Where no place is named, the Eng. R. provides that the trial shall be in Middlesex.

The effect of this Rule has been said to be to abolish all local venues as well those made so by statute, as at the Common Law, except actions of ejectment: Legacy v. Pitcher, 10 Ont. 620.

Local venues.

There are, however, certain kinds of actions which, under particular statutes, are directed to be tried in a particular place, and it was held that the original Rule 254 did not apply to such actions, e.g., actions for infringement of patents under R. S. C. c. 61, s. 30: Goldsmith v. Walton, 9 P. R. 222; Aitcheson v. Mann, Ib., 253, 473. Other instances are, actions under The Customs Act (R. S. C. c. 32) s. 47; actions for anything done in the administration of the criminal law: see R. S. C. c. 185, s. 1; c. 151, s. 24; actions against justices of the peace for not returning convictions: R. S. O. 1887, c. 76, s. 4.

In actions for recovery of land the trial must primâ facie take place in the county where the land lies, but the writ may issue from the proper office in any county: Canada Permanent L. & S. Co. v. Foley, 9 P. R. 273; so also an action for assignment of dower: McCulloch v. McCulloch, 4 C. L. T. 252.

The place of trial in actions of ejectment may be changed; see Rule 653 (a).

An action by a mortgagee for foreclosure payment and possession is not an action of ejectment within this Rule, and the venue therefore need not be in the county where the lands lie: Seymour v. De Marsh, 11 P. R. 472.

Changing place of trial.

In Chancery no actions were local, all were transitory. At Common Law some actions were local, and some transitory. In a local action the venue had to be laid in the county in which the cause of action arose, though the trial might be ordered to take place elsewhere. In a transitory action the plaintiff might lay his venue where he pleased, subject to the power of the Court or a Judge to order it to be changed. The practice as to changing the venue was, that either party might apply for an order for that purpose. The plaintiff, if the application was his, had to show reasonable ground for the change, and if the application was the defendant's, the defendant had to show distinctly a preponderance of convenience in favor of trying where he proposed, instead of where the venue was laid: Church v. Barnett, L. R. 6 C. P. 116.

On ground of balance of convenience.

The present Rule, like the similar one in England, applies in all Divisions: Redmayne v. Vaughan, 24 W. R. 983; Clarke v. Cookson, 2 Ch. D. 746. The question for decision on any application to change the place of trial is, where can the action most conveniently be tried? : Greey v. Siddall, 12 P. R. 557; Taylor v. Grant, 9 C. L. T. 140; and the matter is left in the discretion of the Judge, to be exercised according to the balance of convenience, and it is for the defendant to show a preponderance of convenience to oust the plaintiff's right to fix the place of trial: Plum v. Normanton Iron, etc., Co., W. N. 1876, 105; Wood v. Kay, W. N. 1879, 206; Schroder v. Myers, 34 W. R. 261; approved and followed in Ross v. C. P. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 220; and Nicholson v. Linton, ib., 223. This was in effect the practice in Chancery formerly: Noad v. Noad, 6 P. R. 48. There is not unanimity amongst the Judges in this Province as to the weight to be given to the place where cause of action arose, in determining the place which is most convenient. This had formerly little weight in Chancery: Noad v. Noad, supra; but was an important element at Common Law: Harper v. Smith, 6 P. R. 9; Gilmour v. Strickland, 6 P. R. 254; Phippen v. McLeod, 7 P. R. 377. The reported cases, and the opinions of the majority of the Judges, seem to be in favour of adopting the former Chancery practice, and Rule 653. of determining the convenience by a consideration of the expense and the witnesses' facilities of travelling: see Davis v. Murray, 9 P. R. 222; Robertson v. Dagueau, 3 C. L. T. 266; Walton v. Wideman, 10 P. R. 228; Slater v. Purvis, 10 P. R. 604; Ross v. C. P. Ry. Co., Nicholson v. Linton, supra; Taylor v. Grant, 9 C. L. T. 140; but that the plaintiff's right to select the place of trial is not lightly to be interferred with, where it has not been vexatiously chosen by him. It is impossible, as a general rule, to enter into the investigation whether one class of witnesses will be more injured than another by absence from home: Noad v. Noad, and Davis v. Murray, supra; except in the case of a public officer: Fisken v. Smith, 2 Chy. Ch. 49; Fogg v. Fogg, 12 P. R. 249. The preponderance of convenience to be shewn by the defendant must be considerable. A change will not be made on account of a trifling difference in expense: see Stewart v. Johnstone, 4 U. C. L. J. 21; Mooney v. Mooney, 6 P. R. 267; and Walton v. Wideman, and other cases supra, especially if the plaintiff undertakes to pay the difference in expense: see Brigham v. McKenzie, 10 P. R. 406. But difference of expense is of more importance in an alimony action as the defendant has to bear in any event all the disbursements: Fogg v. Fogg, 12 P. R. 249.

The fact that the parties and their solicitors and witnesses reside at one place is a case of exceeding preponderance, though the additional expense of trial in a neighbouring county would not be large: Servos v. Servos, 11 P. R. 135. The fact that a change will delay the trial considerably is a circumstance to be considered: Ib. A direction to the parties to disclose the names and evidence of the witnesses in order to consider whether the witnesses are material is not proper: Arpin v. Guinane, 12 P. R. 364.

Where the plaintiffs resided at Montreal and the defendants' officers at Picton, and the plaintiffs had some witnesses resident at Toronto, the place of trial was changed from Ottawa to Toronto: Cooper v. Central Ontario Ry. Co., 4 Ont. 280.

Delay in applying may, apart from all other considerations, be sufficient to justify the dismissal of a motion to change the venue; as where the action is just about to be tried, and application might sooner have been made: Philips v. Beall, 26 Ch. D. 621; 32 W. R. 665. The discretion of the Judge as to changing the place of trial is an appealable discretion: Ib.

An application is not necessarily premature because issue is joined, if the issues can be determined from the pleadings: Powell v. Cobb, 29 Ch. D. 488-9.

The plaintiff, having named a place of trial, cannot change his mind and name a new one by amendment of the statement of claim under Rule 424: Bull v. North British, etc., Co., 10 P. R. 622. He must apply on motion, and on the ground of preponderance of convenience: Powell v. Cobb, 52 L. T. N. S. 183. As to whether the omission to name a place of trial in the statement of claim can be supplied by amendment, see note to Rule 424, p. 451.

Semble, this Rule does not give a Judge a right to interfere with the procedure in the action, (e.g., to change the venue of his own motion) except at the instance of a party: Bull v. North British, etc., Co., 11 P. R. 83. Such motions should not be made at the Assizes; it is too late then to consider the balance of convenience as the parties have to be prepared for trial: Sarnia Agricultural Implement Co. v. Perdue, 11 P. R. 224.

The plaintiff cannot have the place selected by him changed, if the defendant objects, except upon shewing some cogent reason. If the place chosen by him is manifestly an improper one, he may be ordered to pay the costs of the motion to change: Martin v. Ross, 6 P. R. 264. The plaintiff may probably, however, as formerly, obtain a change to hasten the trial where he is in danger of losing his debt, particularly if by some unforeseen circumstance he has been prevented from going to trial at the place originally named by him: see Lucus v. Taylor, 4 P. R. 99; McDonell v. Prov. Ins. Co., 5 U. C. L. J. 186; or where the Judge appointed to take the Assizes refused to try the case, being interested in the defendant's Co.; and Mercer v. Vogt, 3 P. R. 94.

On ground that fair

On other extraordinary grounds the place of trial may be changed. For instance, the existence of circumstances which may render it impossible to have a fair trial, such as political excitement: Roche v. Patrick, 5 P. R. 210; the interests of the locality being involved: Municipal Council of Ontario v. Cumberland, 3 U. C. L. J. 11; or its prejudices or sympathies enlisted on one side so as to render a fair trial impossible: McDonagh v. Prov. Ins. Co., 2 C. L. J. 104; Blackburn v. Cameron, 5 P. R. 341; see also Davis v. Murray, 9 P. R. 229; Shafto v. Bolckow, 35 W. R. 686; 57 L. T. N. S. 17. Quære whether the pendency of other similar suits, and the fact that a large number of persons are interested in the county in the matters involved, and that in the opinion of number of residents a fair trial can not be had, will be sufficient: see Abell v. Leadley, Abell v. Kirk, 2 C. L. T. 555, 557; see also Moor v. Boyd, 3 P. R. 374. See also where the Sheriff is a party: Brannen v. Jarvis, 8 P. R. 322; or the County Judge, Anon, 4 P. R. 310. Rule 654. trial cannot be had.

The place of trial was changed in a collision suit in the Maritime Court, on the sole ground that the local Judge would be in a better position to try the case from his practical or easily obtainable knowledge of the locality in which the collision occurred: The Wharton Belle, 2 C. L. T. 360.

A reference to a Master is prima facie to the Master at the place where the proceedings were instituted: Macara v. Gwynne, 3 Gr. 310; McNab v. McInnis, 4 Chy. Ch. 53; but the place is subject to be changed, upon motion, applying the same principles as in the case of the place of trial: see Jackson v. Harriman, 9 C. L. J. 29; McNab v. McInnis, supra. The policy of The Judicature Act in decentralizing business introduces a further element, and as far as possible, local matters are to be sent to the local Masters; a reference was therefore changed and sent to the Master of the county in which a partnership business in question was carried on: Aitken v. Wilson, 9 P. R. 75. Changing place of reference.

A reference was also changed where it became necessary to add as a party the Master before whom the matter was pending: Weldon v. Templeton, 1 Chy. Ch. 360; and where the Master's illness unfitted him from attending to business: Re Kirkpatrick, 18 C. L. J. 121; 2 C. L. T. 204. See also notes to Rule 42, p. 149.

In administration matters, however, the reference should primâ facie be to the place where the person whose estate is to be administered resided; Rule 972 is in such matters applicable, not Macara v. Gwynne, 3 Gr. 310: Thompson v. Fairbairn, 10 P. R. 533. See also notes to Rule 42, p. 149.

(a) On the application of either party, and on grounds shown by affidavit, the Court or a Judge may order that the trial of an action of ejectment shall take place at any other place than that named in the statement of claim. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 23. Court may alter place of trial in ejectment actions.

See notes supra, and C. P. Ry. Co. v. Manoir, 11 P. R. 247.

654. After the close of the pleadings either party (a) may give notice of trial for the next sitting of the Court which shall be not less than ten days (b) thereafter for the place so named or ordered. J. A. Rule 255. Notice of trial.

(a) The Eng. R. June, 1876, 13, and 1875, O. 36, r. 4, and 5 (a) (1883, R. 435, and 436), permit the plaintiff to give notice of trial with his reply though it does not close the pleadings: Asquith v. Molineaux, 49 L. J. Q. B. 800; but he may not enter the case till the pleadings are closed: Metropolitan Inner Circle Ry. v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., 5 Ex. D. 126; and they do not permit the defendant to give notice of trial, until the plaintiff has failed to do so for six weeks after the close of the pleadings, or such extended time as the Court or Judge may allow. The Ontario Rule supra, is in accordance with the former Chancery practice, Chy. G. O. No. 161.

Any one of the parties plaintiffs, or defendants, may give notice of trial: Tinning v. G. T. Ry., 11 P. R. 438, and if one of several defendants does so he should serve his co-defendants as well as the plaintiff: McLean v. Thompson, 9 P. R. 553.

Either party has the right to give notice of trial for the next sittings, whether an Assize, or a Chancery sittings; and where defendant has given notice for the earlier of such two sittings, the plaintiff cannot take away that right by giving notice for the later sittings: Shaw v. Crawford, 9 C. L. T. 412; 25 C. L. J. 507.

(b) This is the period allowed under Rule 661 for the notice of trial. The words "not less than" do not require a notice of trial to be ten clear days; this Rule is to be read with Rule 661: see Harper v. Marx, in note to that Rule.

As to when the pleadings are closed, see Hare v. Cawthrope, 11 P. R. 353, and the notes to Rule 322. Notice of trial given before the pleadings are closed within the meaning of Rule 392, will be irregular: Schneider v. Proctor, 9 P. R. 11. An action of ejectment begun under the old practice was held to be at issue on appearance being put in, though after the coming into force of The Judicature Act: Laidlaw v. Ashbaugh, 9 P. R. 6.

Where notice of trial did not state the place where the trial was to take place, a motion to set aside the notice was refused in the absence of an affidavit stating that the party moving was thereby misled: O'Brien v. Wells, 20 C. L. J. 369; see also notes to Rule 660.

Where an overdue defence was filed on the last day for giving notice of trial, and a joinder of issue, and jury notice were filed on the same day, but after the filing of the defence, the service of notice of trial with the joinder of issue and jury notice on the same day, but after the filing of the defence, was held to be regular: Broderick v. Broatch, 12 P. R. 561.

Trial of different questions in different modes.

655. Subject to the provisions of the Judicature Act and of the preceding Rules, the Court or a Judge may in any action at any time or from time to time order that different questions of fact arising therein be tried by different modes, or that one or more questions of fact be tried before the others, and may appoint the place or places for such trial or trials, and in all cases may order that one or more issues of fact be tried before any other or others. J. A. Rule 256.

Same substantially as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 6, (1883, R. 432).

The present Rule enables the Court to direct one or more issues of fact, which may decide the case, to be tried before the others.

An order for the trial of a point of law first was made in Corporation of Preston v. Fullwood, 80 L. T. Jour. 41. See also Irwin v. Sperry, 11 P. R. 229; Smith v. Hargrove, 16 Q. B. D. 183; Temperance Colonization Society v. Evans, 12 P. R. 48, 380; Elmore v. Pirrie, 57 L. T. N. S. 333; London C. & D. v. S. E. Ry., 53 L. T. N. S. 109.

Rule 555 enables the Court to direct a preliminary point of law, to be decided which may prevent the necessity for trial of issues of fact.

Rule 389 contains provision of a similar kind for enabling a point of law raised by demurrer to be decided at the same time as issues of fact, or at a different time.

In The Emma Silver Mining Co. v. Grant, 11 Ch. D. 918, Jessel, M.R., said (p. 930), that a "case to be brought within this Rule ought to be one of simple issues. I do not think it is convenient to travel through a long record, and to get a number of complicated issues, and except them, so to say, from the pleadings." He explained in what cases the Rule had heretofore been acted upon. All had been cases in which the application was by the defendant. He said at page 926 :— Rule 555.

"The first case that came before me was a case in which a lady alleged that she was the legitimate child of somebody, and that as such she was entitled to take some very long and expensive and intricate accounts against some trustees. The trustees showed by affidavit that the lady was born before the marriage of her parents, and that there were very strong grounds indeed for supposing that she was not a legitimate child at all. I thought it a proper case, inasmuch as the expense of taking the accounts would have been enormous, and the whole suit would have ended in nothing but costs if the plaintiff did not establish her legitimacy, for the issue of legitimacy or illegitimacy to be tried first under this Rule. I so directed, and, as I am informed, the result was that the lady did not succeed in establishing her legitimacy, and there was an end of the action, which was exactly what I anticipated.

"In a case of this kind, my opinion is, that the Judge must have some evidence which will make it at least probable that the issue will put an end to the action. The plaintiff is not to be harassed at the instance of the defendant by a series of trials, each trial taking issue on every link of the plaintiff's case. That is not the meaning of the Rule, as I understand it, but it may properly be applied in such a case as that I have stated, where the Judge has serious reason to believe that the trial of the issue will put an end to the action.

"I have had a case in which the plaintiff alleged a very long title to, and claimed an estate. He alleged himself to be the heir-at-law of a person who was entitled to this estate. He wanted a great deal of discovery, and the possession of a large property. The defendant said that the plaintiff was a pauper, that it was a mere experimental action, and that there was not a shadow of ground for his claim. In that case I felt no hesitation in directing an issue whether the man was heir-at law. It turned out that he was not, and I believe, the case was abandoned and was never tried at all.

"There was a third case I remember before me at Chambers (I only give these instances as illustrations) in which a man brought an action on behalf of himself and all other tenants of a manor to restrain the inclosure of a common. The defendant said, 'This will be a very expensive action to try; it will involve the customs of the manor as to rights of common,' and that, as usual, they had put up a man, who although not technically, was really a pauper, to sue on behalf of himself and all others, the only result of which action could be that the defendants, if successful, would have to pay the costs out of their own pockets. They alleged, and proved by affidavit, that the person who was plaintiff, and who said he was tenant of the manor, was not so, and that his name, or the name of his ancestors, had never appeared on the court rolls of the manor. The only answer that I could get from the plaintiff was, that he believed that he was a tenant, but he could not show how. I thought before the defendants were put to the enormous expense of a trial of all the issues, it was right to put the plaintiff to the proof that he was a tenant at the time when the action was brought. . . .

"The defendant has of course a right to shape his own case and to say to the plaintiff: 'You must prove every part of your case; if I can put my finger on one part of your case and show that there is no foundation for it whatever, it is quite wrong to subject me to the whole expense of a protracted investigation, and especially when you, the plaintiff, cannot pay the costs of it.'"

In the subsequent case of Piercy v. Young, 15 Ch. D. 474, the learned Judge stated that the Rule was intended to be applied in exceptional cases only; that the object of the Judicature Act was to try all disputes together, and that it was considered a beneficial object. "Separate trials of separate issues are nearly as expensive as separate actions, and ought certainly not to be encouraged, and they should only be granted on special grounds." It was there held that a defendant in a partnership who had set up by counter-claim, an agreement by the plaintiff for sale of his interest in the partnership to the defendant at a stated price, was not entitled to have this issue tried before the plaintiff's issues in the action.

In the Tasmanian Railway Company v. Clarke, W. N. 1879, 106; 27 W. R. 677, the Court of Common Pleas refused leave to try the liability of a surety, before that of the principal; and the Court of Appeal declined to interfere with their discretion.

Where a reference would be ordered by the Judge as to a question of account, it is proper that the question of liability should be tried separately from the question to be so referred: Liverpool, Brazil, etc. Navigation v. London & St. Katherine, etc., Co., W. N. 1875, 203; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 121.

In Milissich v. Lloyds, W. N. 1875, 200, an action for libel, an application by the defendant to have the question of libel tried before the question of damages was refused by Lush, J., who said: "I do not think that I could in this case separate the question of damages from the question of fact without injury to the plaintiff." In Dent v. Sovereign Life Assurance Co., W. N. 1879, 33, the validity of a life policy being the matter in dispute, an application by the plaintiff that the issue, whether the deceased was a man of temperate or intemperate habits should be tried first, was refused by V.-C. Bacon, who said that "this particular issue could not be so severed from the rest of the case as to admit of its being heard separately by a jury."

The Rule applies not merely to questions of fact, but to mixed questions of law and fact: Tasmanian Ry. Co. v. Clark, supra.

See also Tattersall v. National Steamship Co., in note to Rule 555, and Pooley v. Driver, 5 Ch. D. 458.

Trial by jury.

656. Every trial of any question or issue of fact by a jury shall be held before a single Judge, unless such trial is specially ordered to be held before two or more Judges. J. A. Rule 257.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 7, (1883, R. 433); see sec. 61 of the Act.

As to the cases in which a jury may be had: see notes to s. 78 et seq. of the Act.

Trials at bar on the part of suitors.

657. The plaintiff and the defendant respectively, in any action in the High Court, may, in the Divisional Court sittings of the High Court next after issue joined, apply to the Court for a trial at bar, and the Court may, in its discretion, upon hearing the parties, grant or refuse the same. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 33.

On the part of the Crown.

658. In all cases in which the Crown may be actually or immediately interested, a trial at bar may be had as of right upon, and shall be regulated and governed by, the same principles as in similar cases in England. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 34.

See Dixon v. Farrer, 18 Q. B. D. 43.

When trial to be had.

659. In case any trial at bar is directed, the Judges attached to the Division of the High Court in which the action has been brought, may appoint such day or days for the trial thereof as they may think fit. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 35.

Rules 660, 661.

660. Notice of trial shall state whether it is for the trial of the action or of issues therein; and the place and day for which it is to be entered for trial, and shall be given before entering the action for trial. It may be in the Form No. 27 in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rules 258, 260.

Form of notice of trial.

By the Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 8; Rule 12, of Dec. 1875, (1883, R. 437, and 439), the notice of trial is to state the place and day in actions in the Q. B., C. P., and Exch. D. (now Q. B. D.) only. The Rules otherwise correspond: see Redmayne v. Vaughan, 24 W. R. 983.

Notice of trial of an action in the Chancery Division for the winter assizes at Hamilton, was held good where no Chancery spring sittings at Hamilton had been fixed: Rymal v. McEachern, 3 C. L. T. 106, approved in McLean v. Thompson, 9 P. R. 553.

Notice of trial was amended nunc pro tunc where given for trial at Belleville naming the day fixed for the Assizes at Picton, the Belleville Assizes being over and the party served not having been misled: Walker v. Terry, 7 P. R. 340; so where "September" was inserted instead of "October," as the mistake could not mislead: Bank of Montreal v. Cameron, 7 P. R. 188; see also O'Brien v. Wells, 20 C. L. J. 369.

Where after notice of trial given by plaintiff, the defendant obtained an order postponing the trial on payment of costs, this was held to be a conditional order not staying the plaintiff's proceedings and one which the defendant was at liberty to abandon without being liable to pay other than the costs of the application: Allen v. Mathers, 9 P. R. 477.

Ten days notice.

661. Ten days' notice of trial shall be given, unless the party to whom it is given has consented to take short notice of trial; and shall be sufficient in all cases, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge. Short notice of trial shall be five days' notice. J. A. Rule 259.

Short notice five days.

This Rule is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 9, (1883, R. 438), except that short notice of trial is there declared to be four days, instead of five.

The ten days are computed in the usual way, exclusively of the first day and inclusively of the last, under Rule 474; the words "not less than ten days" in Rule 654 have not the effect of making the ten days mentioned in this Rule clear days; Harper v. Marx, 3 C. L. T. 309.

A defendant is entitled to the full ten days' notice and there is no power to compel him to take less, unless he has consented to take short notice, or unless short notice can be imposed as a term of granting an indulgence to the defendant: Hamilton Prov. & L. Soc. v. McKim, 13 P. R. 125; Whitney v. Stark, Ib. 129.

Where notice of trial is served on the Toronto agent of a solicitor, he is not entitled to two days' additional time, as formerly under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 58: Lumsden v. Davies, 17 C. L. J. 363; 1 C. L. T. 615.

Where by arrangement papers were served by mail, notice of trial posted in time, but received one day short of the ten, was set aside: McDonough v. Alison, 9 P. R. 4.

On motion to set aside a notice of trial served a few minutes late, service having been admitted, but immediately afterwards repudiated, it was held that unless service of a good notice was negatived, the service should not be set aside: Wright v. Way, 8 P. R. 238.

This Rule applied in actions of replevin even under the original Rule: Wallace v. Cowan, 9 P. R. 144.

Rules 662-665.

Eng. R. 1875, Order 36, Rule 13, (1883, R. 443), provides that no notice of trial shall be countermanded except by consent or leave of the Court or a Judge. This Rule has not been adopted in the Ontario Rules. By the former Common Law practice countermand was permitted, but not by the Chancery practice. Since The Judicature Act, notice of trial cannot be countermanded, by either party: Friendly v. Carter, 9 P. R. 41.

In the case of a remanet no notice of trial was formerly necessary: Donovan v. Boultbee, 10 P. R. 52; but must now be given under Rule 671*a*. A case postponed by order at the trial on defendants' application is a remanet: Ib.

Notice of trial at bar.

662. Notice of a trial at bar shall be given to the Registrar of the Court before giving notice of trial to the party. Rules T. T. 1856, 37.

Entry for trial.

663. After notice of trial is given, either party may enter the action for trial. If both parties enter the action for trial, it shall be tried in the order of the plaintiff's entry. J. A. Rule 261.

This Rule corresponds in effect with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 15, so far as the latter relates to cases which are not to be tried in London, or Middlesex.

The effect of this Rule, and Rule 665, is to supersede the former Common Law practice, by which the defendant could obtain a side-bar rule for costs of the day where the plaintiff gave notice of trial but did not enter the case. The defendant can enter the action, or if the plaintiff fails to do so, the defendant may apply to the Judge under Rule 665. No officer has now power to issue a rule for costs, and the Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction to entertain an application for them: Hopkins v. Smith, 9 P. R. 285; see Tonsley v. Hepper, 57 L. T. N. S. 481, under the English practice.

Where, after the plaintiff has given notice of trial, neither party enters the case, quære, whether the defendant may move to dismiss the action for want of prosecution: Crick v. Hewlett, 27 Ch. D. 354. This case, in which the right to move to dismiss was affirmed was decided upon the terms of Rules 436 and 440, of the Eng. Rules of 1883. Rule 436, is not the same as Ont. Rule 647, though providing in respect of the same subject. Eng. R. 440 has not been adopted here, and provides expressly that the notice of trial ceases to have any force, where the plaintiff fails to enter the case.

Record.

664. On the day before the day for holding the Court at which the action is to be tried, the party entering the action for trial shall deliver to the proper officer one copy of the whole of the pleadings in the action for the use of the Judge at the trial, such copy to be certified as a true copy by the officer having charge of the pleadings filed, [and to be called the Record]. J. A. Rule 262.

Comp. Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 17, (1883, R. 454), and Dec. 1875, R. 14.

The English Order provides for two copies of the pleadings being delivered to the officer; it does not require them to be certified, nor does it provide that they are to be called the Record: see notice W. N., 1877, Pt. 2, p. 219.

Time of entry for trial.

665. Actions shall be entered for trial not later than the third day next before the first day of the sittings; but the Judge may permit any action to be entered after the time above limited, if upon facts disclosed on affidavit, or on the consent of both parties, he sees fit to do so. J. A. Rule 264. Rules 666-669.

By R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 248, the record of nisi prius was to be entered at any time during the five days next before the commission day; and on the said commission day at any time before noon, unless the Judge should on affidavit permit it to be entered afterwards. In Chancery (Order 163) cases were set down, and notices served at least fourteen days before the sittings.

The present Rule follows neither practice; it forbids the entry on the day the Assizes, or Sittings begin; and requires it to be made not later than the third day next before such first day, unless with the Judge's permission. It may be made on any earlier day, after notice of trial is given: Rule 660.

Sunday is under Rule 473, to be excluded in computing "the third day": Parr v. Lough, 3 C. L. T. 312.

See Hopkins v. Smith, 9 P. R. 285, in note to Rule 663.

666. Any action which is not to be tried by a jury, may be entered for trial at any Sittings appointed for the place named for the trial of such action. See J. A. Rule 590. Non-jury actions.

The practice was different before this Rule: see Grant v. Middleton, 10 P. R. 585.

667. If both parties enter the action for trial at the same Sittings it shall be tried in the order of the plaintiff's entry. See J. A. Rule 591.

See also Rule 663.

The original Rule also provided that if both parties gave notice of trial, one for the Assizes and the other for the Chancery sittings, the plaintiff's notice should govern unless otherwise ordered. This provision being repealed it is presumed that the first notice served should determine the sittings for the trial.

668. All actions to be tried by a jury, shall be entered for trial at the Assizes holden at the place named for trial of such action without an order transferring such action to any other Division. J. A. Rule 592. Jury actions.

669. The party entering an action for trial shall indorse on the copy of the pleadings delivered as aforesaid, whether the matter for trial is an assessment of damages, or an undefended issue, or a defended issue; and the officer with whom the action is so entered shall make two lists and enter each action in one of the said lists, in the order in which the actions are entered with him; and in the first list he shall enter all the assessments and undefended issues, and in the second list all defended issues, and the Judge at the trial may call on the actions in the first list at such time and times as he finds most convenient for disposing of the business. J. A. Rule 267. Separate lists of defended and undefended issues.

Substantially the same as the enactment in R. S. O. 1877, c. 50 s. 249. There is no corresponding English Rule.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 670, 671.

Withdrawal of record by consent.

670. Where an action has been entered for trial, it may be withdrawn by either the plaintiff or the defendant, upon producing to the proper officer a consent in writing, signed by the parties, [but not otherwise except by order]. J. A. Rule 171.

Same as Eng. R. Dec. 1875, R. 9, which was framed to obviate the necessity of applying to the sitting Judge for leave under Rules 641 and 642.

The words in brackets were not in the original Rule 171, and are in substance what was provided in original Rule 170, viz., that the record cannot be withdrawn without leave: see Rule 641.

At Common Law, a plaintiff who had entered a cause for trial might withdraw the record at any time before the jury were sworn, this was often a hardship, where the defendant was ready with his witnesses and counsel. Under the present clause, leave is necessary for the withdrawal of a record, and in Learnmouth v. Croll. 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 100, Huddleston, B., refused an application to postpone the trial fixed for a few days thereafter, though counsel for the plaintiff was not sufficiently instructed in the case; and he referred the plaintiff to the Judge who was to sit on the day appointed for trial, for leave to withdraw the record. Leave was given where the consent of the opposite party was produced, without any affidavit: Anon, 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 99.

Any order made at the trial for withdrawal or postponement, and requiring to be issued, should be signed by the officer who acts as Registrar at the trial, no matter what Division the action is assigned to: Waghorn v. Hawkins, 12 P. R. 145.

Orders at the trial for amendment of pleadings do not require to be issued: Rule 446, and orders respecting postponements, not containing any special terms may not require to be issued.

In consequence of this Rule it has been decided that where a case has been made a remanet at the Assizes, it remains there for trial, and a party cannot, without consent or leave, interrupt the course of the trial and give notice of trial for the Chy. sittings: Ward v. Jackson, 12 P. R. 225. Con. Rule 671 was intended to obviate this difficulty and was as follows:—

Actions not tried.

"671. Actions not tried or disposed of after being once entered for trial may be set down, and notice thereof given for any subsequent Court without the payment of any further fee." See C. L. Rules 4th Dec. 1875, 2, 3.

This Rule has been abrogated and a new one substituted. See note to next Rule.

For effect of withdrawal of a juror, see Thomas v. Exeter Flying Post, 18 Q. B. D. 822.

Remanet.

671a. Ordered, that Rule 671 be and the same is hereby rescinded and the following substituted therefor, viz.:

Actions not tried or disposed of after being once entered for trial shall remain for trial subject to the provisions of Rule 670, but shall not be heard at any subsequent Sittings unless and until a fresh notice of trial be given for such Sittings by one of the parties. 15th Dec., 1888.

This Rule was published in the Ontario Gazette of 26 Jan., 1889, pursuant to Rule 6.

The original Rule 671 is given in the note to Rule 670.

The effect of the new Rule seems to be, that actions not reached at the Assizes may not be entered for trial at the Chy. sittings (and vice versa) without, consent or leave: see Ward v. Jackson, 12 P. R. 225 in note to Rule 670, and that, if withdrawn, a further fee for entering at another sittings must be paid. Rules 672, 673.

See Bunbury v. Manufacturers Ins. Co., 13 P. R. 52, decided under the repealed Rule 671.

It has been held that where a Judge has no time to try a case owing to his having to go to another circuit town, though he may make the case a remanet, he should not direct it to be tried at another place: Fairbairn v. Household, 53 L. T. N. S. 513. This case seems to have turned on the circumstance that the Judge had not power to change the venue, which power he would have in Ont.: see secs. 39 and 40 of the Act, p. 32.

672. If, when an action is called on for trial, the plaintiff appears, and the defendant does not appear, then the plaintiff may prove his claim, so far as the burden of proof lies upon him. J. A. Rule 268. Non-appearance of defendant.

Before the Jud. Act, 1881, in actions of ejectment, if the defendant did not appear at the trial, the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict without any proof: R. S. O. c. 51, s. 32. Now, ejectment suits are on the same footing in that respect as other suits: see Guillet v. Clark, referred to and discussed in 72 L. T. Jour. 398.

In the cases dealt with by this Rule, it has been held in England that the plaintiff need not prove service of the notice of trial: Chorlton v. Dickie, 13 Ch. D. 160. See, however, The Avenir, 9 P. D. 84. This is in accordance with the former practice at Law. There had been a previous decision by Fry, J., the other way: Cockshott v. London General Cab Co., 26 W. R. 31; W. N. 1877, 214. See note to next Rule. But, in the absence of any decision to the contrary, it would seem proper that, where judgment has been pronounced in the absence of a defendant, the officer with whom the judgment is entered should require due proof of service of notice of trial, or of motion for judgment, to be filed with him before entering the judgment, unless the proof has been given at the trial: see Glasgow v. Glasgow, 9 Ont., 511 (n).

If the defendant has a counter-claim and does not appear at the trial the plaintiff is entitled to have judgment on his claim on proving it and to have the counter-claim dismissed with costs: Lumley v. Brookes, 41 Ch. D. 323.

673. If, when an action is called on for trial, the defendant appears, and the plaintiff does not appear, the defendant, if he has no counter-claim, shall be entitled to judgment dismissing the action, but if he has a counter-claim he may prove such claim so far as the burden of proof lies upon him. J. A. Rule 269. Non-appearance of plaintiff.

In such case the defendant is entitled to judgment dismissing the action with costs: Farrell v. Wale, 36 L. T. N. S. 95, and cases infra. It has been held in England that the defendant need not prove the service of notice of trial on him: James v. Crow, 7 Ch. D. 410; and Re Palmer, Skipper v. Skipper, 32 W. R. 83; 49 L. T. N. S. 553; following Ex parte Lows, 7 Ch. D. 160; not following Cockle v. Joyce, 7 Ch. D. 56; and see note to Rule 672. But where notice of trial had been given by the plaintiff, and he filed a liquidation petition, under which a trustee had been appointed, and no one appeared at the trial for the plaintiff or trustee, proof of service of notice on the trustee was held to be necessary: Eldridge v. Burgess, 7 Ch. D. 411.

The practice in England, where the plaintiff does not appear, is not to swear the jury, and any costs which the defendant may incur, by having the jury sworn in such case, the defendant may not be entitled to get taxed: Lane v. Eve, W. N. 1876, 86.

Where a test action came on for trial, the plaintiff was not prepared to proceed and applied for a postponement, to which, under the circumstances, so far as his own interest was concerned, he was not entitled; it was held that the Court could not regard the rights of the plaintiffs in the other actions, and must dismiss the action with costs: Robinson v. Chadwick, 7 Ch. D. 878. See note to Rule 641.

Witnesses may be put out of Court.

674. The Judge at the trial shall at the request of either party cause the witnesses to be removed from the Court during the trial, and also the parties to the suit tendering themselves as witnesses, if the Judge deems necessary; or he may instead require the party intending to give evidence for himself to be examined before his other witnesses; and any such witness who returns to the Court without leave, shall be liable to be punished in such manner as to the said Judge may seem proper; and the Judge may in his discretion exclude the testimony of any witness who returns to the Court without leave of the Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 260.

See Sievewright v. Sievewright, 8 P. R. 81, and note supra p. 486.

A plaintiff calling defendant as a witness is not entitled as of right to re-examine in the nature of cross-examination. The Judge has a discretion to refuse to allow such cross-examination: Price v. Manning, 37 W. R. 785; W. N. 1889, 161.

A hearing in camera may be allowed in a proper case: Mellor v. Thompson, 31 Ch. D. 55, and 25 C. L. J. 597; 82 L. T. Jour. 297; 88 L. T. Jour. 40; and per Lord Fitzgerald, Macdougall v. Sleight, 14 App. Cas. 260-7.

How addresses of counsel to jury regulated.

Usually the course of proceeding at a trial is as follows: The counsel having the right to begin opens the case by an address to the Court and jury, in which he states the facts of the case and the nature of the issue to be tried, and the evidence by which he proposes to prove his case. He then produces the evidence. If at the conclusion of his case, the opposite party desires to produce evidence, he is entitled to address the Court and jury stating the nature of his case and the evidence he proposes to produce in support of it: this right, however, is not generally exercised; but without any preliminary address, he adduces his evidence. Evidence in reply may be then adduced by the party beginning, and at the conclusion of the evidence, the counsel who did not begin addresses the Court and jury on the whole case, and the counsel who begins then replies. If, however, the party who does not begin adduces no evidence, then the counsel who began addresses the Court and jury on the whole case at the conclusion of the evidence and the opposite party replies. In trials before a jury therefore there are usually but three addresses, viz.: the opening speech before any evidence is adduced, and the two addresses at the conclusion of the evidence. Where defendants are represented by different counsel, each defendant is entitled to be heard by his own counsel. Rule 676.

Where a trial takes place before a Judge without a jury, the opening speech is frequently dispensed with, the reading of the pleadings being considered a sufficient statement of the case.

The right to begin is not altered by this Rule. The party upon whom the burthen of proof lies is the party entitled to begin: Harr. C. L. P. Act, 2nd ed., 291. Generally the burthen of proof lies on the party who asserts the affirmative on the record, i.e., the affirmative in substance and not merely in form. If there is a presumption of law in favour of the pleading of either party the onus probandi is cast upon his adversary, though he may thereby be called on to prove a negative. Where there are conflicting presumptions, the onus probandi lies on the party having in his favour the weaker presumption of the two. But where the case of a party rests on the proof of some particular fact, of the truth or falsehood of which he must from its very nature be peculiarly cognizant, the onus of proving the fact lies on him, even though there be a presumption of law in favor of his pleading; and where the plaintiff sues for damages and it is necessary for the plaintiff to show the amount of damages sustained, he is entitled to begin even though the affirmative of the issue be on the defendant, but if the affirmative of the issue is on the defendant, and plaintiff's counsel will not undertake to offer proof of substantial damage, the defendant is entitled to begin: Ib. 292, 293; Best on Right to Begin, 3, 5, 12, 21, 23.

An incorrect ruling as to the right to begin is no ground for a new trial unless the ruling "did clear and manifest wrong": Harr. C. L. P. Act, 2nd ed., 293.

The right to begin is important, as it also involves, as we have seen, in some measure the right to reply. The right of reply as far as the Attorney General is concerned when appearing for the Crown, or any counsel appearing for the Crown having written authority from the Atty.-General for that purpose, is unaffected by this Rule, as he has always the right to reply no matter who may have begun: see Rule 364.

676. Where, through accident or mistake or other cause, a party omits or fails to prove some fact material to his case, the Judge may proceed with the trial, subject to such fact being afterwards proved at such time, and subject to such terms and conditions as to costs and otherwise, as the Judge shall direct; and, if the case is being tried by a jury, the Judge may direct the jury to find a verdict as if such fact had been proved, and the verdict shall take effect on such fact being afterwards proved as directed; and if not so proved, judgment is to be entered for the opposite party unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs. This Rule shall not apply to an action for libel. J. A. Rule 271. Evidence omitted by accident or mistake, how supplied.

The abstaining by a party from proof under an idea that his adversary had no real intention of putting him to such proof, and being thereby taken by surprise, is no ground for a new trial: Andrews v Stuart, 1 C. L. T. 724. See also Heath v. Pugh, Q. B. D. 355.

In applications to open up proceedings, by way of review, on the ground of newly discovered evidence, the party applying must shew (1) that the evidence is such that if it had been brought forward at the proper time, it might probably have changed the result; (2) that at the time he might have so used it, neither he nor his agent had knowledge of it; (3) that it could not, with reasonable diligence, have been discovered in time to have been so used; and (4) the applicant must have used reasonable diligence after the discovery of the new evidence: Dumble v. Cobourg and Peterboro' Ry. Co., 29 Gr. 121; Colonial Trusts v. Cameron, 21 Gr. 70; see also Caradice v. Currie, 19 Gr. 108; Waters v. Shade, 2 Gr. 218; Murray v. Canada Central Railway Co., 7 Ont. The Court, on argument of a motion by the plaintiff for a new trial, allowed the plaintiff to give in evidence the proclamation bringing into force the Ontario Factory Act: Dean v. Ontario Cotton Mills Co., 14 Ont. 119.

An application to put in further evidence, and for a new trial on fresh evidence or for leave to bring a new action upon a part of the original claim founded on such evidence, is properly made to the Judge who heard the original cause: Bank of British North America v. Western Assurance Co., 11 P. R. 434; Synod v. De Blaquiere, 10 P. R. 11.

Where a party is taken by surprise by a point made against him at the hearing, the Judge may, if he thinks right, at any stage of the trial allow him to produce rebutting evidence; and if such permission is refused, the Court of Appeal will, in a proper case, permit the fresh evidence to be taken on the appeal: Bigsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D. 24, and Rule 585.

In a suit for an injunction to restrain a nuisance caused by a chemical manufacturer, the plaintiff's counsel applied at the close of his speech for liberty to adduce evidence to explain (as the plaintiff's witnesses had had no opportunity of doing) certain evidence of the defendant's witnesses as to various vapours arising from a material (asphalt) stated to be used in the manufacture of varnish made by the plaintiff, and to show that the word asphalt had a double meaning; it was held that the evidence should be admitted: Ib.

A Judge, may at any period in a case, allow further evidence to be called, for his own satisfaction, by either party, even though it is doubtful whether the party is entitled to put in such evidence as of right: Budd v. Davison, 29 W. R. 192.

Trial of equitable issues.

677. Where in any action equitable issues are raised by the pleadings, they shall be heard and tried, and the assessment or inquiry of damages, if any, incidental thereto, shall be assessed and inquired of by the Court or a Judge, without the intervention of a jury; but it shall be competent for the Court or Judge, upon the application of either party, supported by sufficient reasons, to order such issues to be tried or damages assessed by a jury. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 257.

Where equitable issues are raised, a jury is not of right, but of grace, under this Rule: Adamson v. Adamson, 12 P. R. 469.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 257, was formerly held to apply to an action of ejectment where equitable issues are raised: Bryan v. Mitchell, 8 P. R. 302. Under the Jud. Act and Rules the rule will of course be the same in ejectment as in other actions.

It is within the power of the Judge to direct equitable issues to be tried by a jury: Rae v. McDonald, 13 Ont. 364; see also Wright v. Sun Mutual, 29 C. P. 236.

Legal and equitable issues.

678. Where in any action or other proceeding at law both legal and equitable issues are raised, such issues shall be tried at the same time, unless the Court or a Judge, or the Judge presiding at the trial, otherwise directs. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 258. Rules 679-682.

679. In an action brought to recover the amount of any bill, draft, order or promissory note, and the damages and interest, the expenses of noting and protesting, and all other charges and postage incurred thereon, it shall not be necessary to specially claim such damages, interest, expenses, and charges, but the same shall be allowed to the plaintiff at any trial, assessment of damages or reference, as if the same had been specially claimed. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 144. Costs of protest recoverable.

680. Damages in respect of any continuing cause of action shall be assessed down to the time of the assessment. New. Assessment of damages.

See Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542.

681. The Judge if he thinks it expedient for the interest of justice, may postpone or adjourn the trial for such time, and upon such terms, if any, as he shall think fit. J. A. Rule 272. Adjournment of trial.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 21, (1883, R. 458). Where the hearing of an action was adjourned to allow the plaintiffs to add parties, the plaintiffs were ordered to pay all the costs incurred by the action having been in the paper for hearing; and not merely a fixed sum for costs of the day: Ludall v. Martinson, 5 Ch. D. 780.

Motions to postpone the trial may, of course, be made before the trial, and should be so made, where practicable, in Chambers, before expense in preparing for trial is incurred.

For terms imposed where defendant obtained an order for postponement on payment of costs, and then notified plaintiff's solicitor that defendant would not pay the costs and trial must go on, upon which plaintiff applied to postpone, see Allen v. Mathers, 19 C. L. J. 79.

The Master in Chambers on a motion to postpone the trial has under this Rule power to impose terms, e.g., giving of security for the amount sued for: Bank of Hamilton v. Stark, 9 C. L. T. 410; 25 C. L. J. 508.

The costs of postponing trial on account of absence of a material witness will be costs in the cause, where diligent efforts have been made to secure attendance: Brown v. Porter, 11 P. R. 250; but where the application is not made promptly, the applicant may be ordered to pay the costs of the application and adjournment: McDonald v. McMillan, 22 Gr. 362.

See Fairburn v. Household, etc., 53 L. T. N. S. 513, in note to Rule 671*a*.

682. Upon the trial of an action, the Judge may, at or after the trial, direct that judgment be signed and entered for any or either party, or adjourn the case for further consideration. J. A. Rule 273. Judge may direct entry of judgment; or reserve judgment

Rule 682. The English Rule Dec. 1876, R. 3, (1883, R. 463) has the following additional words: "Or leave any party to move for judgment. No judgment shall be entered after a trial without the order of a Court or Judge."

See notes to sec. 61 of the Act and Rule 749.

Where at the trial it appears, at the close of a plaintiff's case, that there is no evidence against one of the defendants, it is within the discretion of the Judge whether he will then direct a verdict in such defendant's favour, or wait till the whole evidence in the cause closes: Parnell v. Great Western Railway Company, 34 L. T. N. S. 126; see 1 Q. B. D. 636.

In such a case, the action being for negligence, one of the defendants called witnesses, the effect of whose evidence was to throw the blame on his co-defendant, and they were cross-examined by the latter's counsel, a verdict being found against this defendant and in favour of the other; it was held that these circumstances did not entitle the unsuccessful defendant to object to the verdict: Ib.

Where there are several distinct issues to be tried, the Judge may, without the consent of the parties, accept the verdict of the jury upon those issues on which they agree, and discharge them upon the others, leaving the parties if they think fit to take down the undecided issues to a new trial; and the Court will give judgment on the decided issues, and has power to send down the undecided issues to a new trial: Marsh v. Isaacs, 45 L. J. C. P. 505.

This Rule repealed in effect R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 34, under which, judgment in ejectment, unless the Judge at the trial otherwise directed, could not be entered before the 5th day of the Term following. Under the present Rules judgment in actions to recover land, as in all others, (see Rule 767) may be entered at once unless the Judge otherwise directs: see Rudd v. Frank, 17 Ont. 758.

An application to stay the entry of judgment, or the issue of execution, is best made at the trial when all the facts are known to the Judge. If not made till later it may be necessary to show on affidavit circumstances making a stay just: see Tuck v. Southern Counties, etc., Bank, 61 L. T. N. S. 159.

After a judgment by consent has been passed and entered, it cannot afterwards be varied on the ground of mistake, except for reasons sufficient to set aside an agreement: Attorney-General v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388. As to appeals in such cases, see s. 65 of the Act and notes.

When the Judge does not direct judgment to be entered, this Rule would seem to enable him, as formerly under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 262, to indorse on the record or copy of pleadings his judgment, upon which judgment may be entered as though the indorsement had been made at the trial; or he may, after the facts have been found by the jury or by the Judge at or after the trial, indorse the finding, and leave the parties to move for judgment before him. In such case the Judge, after a finding by the jury for the plaintiff, cannot on motion for judgment, direct a judgment for defendant to be entered on the ground that there was no evidence to go to the jury: Perkins v. Dangerfield, 51 L. T. N. S. 535. The power seems to have been assumed in Davies v. Felix, 4 Ex. D. 33, though the Judge on consideration could not say that there was no evidence to go to the jury. See also s. 61 of the Act and Daun v. Simmins, 48 L. T. N. S. 343, and Hamilton v. Johnson, 5 Q. B. D. 263.

When the jury disagree and are discharged, a motion for judgment and nonsuit may be made: Rule 799; and see Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, Patterson, J.A., Nov. 1883. In that case the action was upon promissory notes: the defence relied on was the insolvency of the defendant, and his discharge under a deed of composition and discharge duly confirmed. In reply the plaintiffs attacked the discharge on the grounds of fraud, and fraudulent preference. Objections were taken to the validity of the discharge upon facts which were undisputed, and as to certain other matters of fact which were disputed, evidence was gone into, to show that the discharge had been obtained by fraudulent preference of a creditor, and by giving to that creditor a valuable security. At the trial the defendant objected that there was no evidence to go to the jury. Without deciding whether there was, or was not evidence, the question was left to the jury by the Judge, and this and all other questions were reserved for discussion on motion for judgment. The jury disagreed and therefore left the question unanswered. Nevertheless both parties moved for judgment, the plaintiffs contending that on the undisputed facts, objections fatal to the discharge were established: the defendant contending that the discharge was good as against such objections, and that there was no evidence proper to go to the jury on the issue of fraud, or fraudulent preference. Both motions were refused though apparently considered proper in point of form, the Judge being of the opinion that the issue as to the validity of the discharge could not properly have been withdrawn from the jury, and that the undisputed facts were not, without the matters left to the jury for consideration, sufficient to decide the question as to the validity of the discharge. Rules 683-686.

As to the effect of the withdrawal of a juror, see Thomas v. Exeter, etc. Co., 18 Q. B. D. 822.

683. Exhibits put in at the trial are to be marked thus: "In the High Court of Justice—Div. [short title]. This exhibit (the property of ,) is produced by the plaintiff (or defendant C., as the case may be,) this day of 18 A. B.," (Registrar, Deputy Clerk, Deputy or Local Registrar.) Chy. O. 177. Exhibits at trial, how to be marked.

684. Where a party or witness is examined at the trial or a document is put in as evidence and marked by the Registrar, Deputy Clerk, Deputy or Local Registrar, the deposition of the party, or witness so examined, or the document so put in, is not to be withdrawn as evidence without the leave of the Court. Chy. O. 178. Evidence oral or documentary cannot be withdrawn without leave.

See Vanatto v. Mitchell, 13 Gr. 665.

685. Where judgment is reserved, the exhibits used at the trial shall be deposited with the Registrar, Deputy Clerk, Deputy or Local Registrar, for the use of the Court, and shall not be delivered out without order or consent of parties. See Chy. O. 179. Where judgment reserved; exhibits to be left with Registrar, etc.

686. Where, upon the trial of an action, it appears that the same cannot conveniently proceed by reason of the solicitor for any party having neglected to attend personally or by some person in his behalf, or having omitted to deliver any paper necessary for the use of the Court, and which according to its practice ought to have been delivered, such solicitor shall personally pay to the parties such costs as the Court thinks fit to award. Chy. O. 182. When action cannot proceed in consequence of absence of solicitor, he may be ordered to pay costs.

A solicitor who neglected to appear for a defendant for whom he had undertaken to appear, was ordered to pay all costs occasioned by his neglect: Cook v. Broomhead, 16 Ves. 133; and see Courtney v. Stock, 2 Dr. & War. 251. The Common Law Courts exercised a similar jurisdiction: Townley v. Jones, 29 L. J. C. P. 299.

Where no papers were delivered, and the plaintiff did not appear, the action was dismissed, with costs: Farrell v. Wade, 36 L. T. N. S. 95; Eldridge v. Plaintiff not appearing, action

ERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 687-689. may be dismissed.

Burgess, 7 Ch. D. 411. But where the defendant has a counter-claim he is bound to prove it so far as the onus is on him, even though the plaintiff does not appear: Rule 673. If the defendant does not appear the plaintiff must prove his claim so far as the onus is on him; Rule 672.

Proof of counter claim.

Where the action is dismissed in consequence of the plaintiff not being ready to proceed, owing to the illness of his solicitor, it may be restored on payment of the costs of the day and of the application to restore: Birch v. Williams, W. N. 1876, 168; 34 W. R. 700.

Restoring action.

As to restoring causes struck out on account of the absence of counsel, see Harvey v. Renon, 12 Jur. 445; and as to costs so occasioned, Godson v. Hall, 7 Cl. & Fin. 549.

By whom entries of findings to be made.

687. The Registrar, Clerk of Assize, or other officer present at the trial shall enter all such findings of fact as the Judge may at the trial direct to be entered, and the directions, if any, of the Judge as to judgment, and the certificates, if any, granted by the Judge, such entry to be made in a book to be kept for the purpose, and also to be indorsed on the Record. J. A. Rule 274.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 23, (1883, R. 465).

The practice under the English Rule is substantially the same as that which this Rule provides, except that the certificate is not required to be indorsed on the copy of the pleadings.

Certificate of Judge or officer.

688. The said indorsement, or the certificate of the said officer or the certificate of the Judge, shall be a sufficient authority to the proper officer for signing judgments to sign judgment accordingly. The certificate may be in the Form No. 213 in the Appendix. J. A. Rule 275.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 24, (1883, R. 466), is the same in substance.

Formerly, in the Courts of Common Law, when a cause was entered for trial, a copy of the record showing the issue to be tried, called the nisi prius record, was deposited with the officer. After the trial the nisi prius record was indorsed with the postea showing the result of the trial, and delivered to the successful party as soon as he was entitled to sign judgment. The possession of the postea proved his right to judgment and was the warrant to the proper officer to enter the judgment. A certified copy of the pleadings for the use of the Judge, is now the record under Rule 664; and the certificate provided by the present Rules 687, and 688, takes the place of the postea.

In Chancery, there was no nisi prius record, and no copy of the pleadings was provided for the use of the Judge. He referred to the originals at the trial or hearing; and in case of reserving judgment Counsel's briefs were left with him.

When and how Deputy Clerks shall deliver record or exhibits to solicitor or parties.

689. The Registrar, Clerk of Assize or other officer present at the trial shall, after judgment has been given, or, in jury cases, after the time for the moving for a new trial has expired, deliver to the solicitor of the party entitled thereto any Record in their custody, upon getting a receipt for the same. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 280.

(ii) Trial of High Court cases in County Court and Vice Versâ.

Notice of trial, etc., in such cases.

690. In any of the cases in sections 96 and 97 of The Judicature Act the notice of trial or assessment of damages shall state that the cause will be tried, or the damages assessed at the Sittings of the High Court or County Court, according to the fact. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 33.

Trials may be postponed.

691. Nothing herein contained shall prevent a Judge of the Court in which the action is brought, or, after the action is entered for trial or assessment, the Judge before whom the trial or assessment is intended to be had, from entertaining applications to postpone the trial or assessment. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 34.

In a County Court case directed to be tried at the High Court, a motion to set aside notice of trial must be made in the County Court: Clark v. Clifford, 7 P. R. 329.

Immediate judgment.

692. Where judgment is not reserved, and subject in that case to Rules made, and subject in all cases to Rules to be made, judgment in any of the said cases may be entered immediately, unless the Judge who tried the cause certifies on the record, under his hand, that the case is one which, in his opinion, should stand to abide the result of a motion that may be made therein in the Divisional Court, or unless a Judge of the High Court otherwise orders. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 35.

Motions against verdict in High Court cases tried in County Courts.

693. Any motion to be made, in respect to the trial, judgment, verdict or assessment of damages in a High Court case tried or assessed at the Sittings of any County Court shall be made in the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 36.

Motion against verdict, etc., in County Court cases tried at High Court Sittings.

694. Any motion to be made in respect to the trial, judgment, verdict or assessment of damages in any County Court case had, tried or assessed at any Sittings of the High Court, shall be made, heard and determined at the sitting of such Divisional Court of the High Court, as the party moving or applying elects, and according to the practice of the High Court; and any order made in such cause by such Court shall be final, and shall not be subject to appeal to the Court of Appeal. Rules 695-698.

Powers of Judge as to County Court causes tried before him.

695. In any action in a County Court entered for trial at any Sittings of the High Court, the Judge presiding at the Sittings shall have the same powers as to amendment of the pleadings and proceedings, putting off the trial, reference, making the cause a remanet, and otherwise dealing with the cause and proceedings therein, as if the action had been commenced in the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 38.

The Judge of a County Court may allow amendments in High Court cases coming on before him for trial: Ring v. Glassford, 11 C. P. 490.

When such Judge marks record as a remanet, etc., it may be tried at subsequent sitting or Assizes.

696. Whenever the said Judge indorses on the certified copy of pleading in any such action the word "Remanet," and adds any words to the effect following: "And the within cause may be entered and tried at any County Court, or sittings of the High Court," such cause may without payment of any further fee for entering the case be entered at any subsequent Sittings of the County Court, or Sittings of the High Court, for which notice of trial may be given, and the case may be tried and disposed of in the same way as any other case entered at such Sittings. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 39.

Certified copy of notes of cases.

697. On the application of any party, the County Court Clerk shall, at the cost of the party, forward to the Registrar at Toronto, of such Division of the High Court as the party designates, a certified copy of the Judge's notes of the trial, or assessment, together with the Record and the exhibits, to enable the High Court properly to dispose of any application made, or to be made, in or respecting such cases. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 42.

(iii) Vexatious Defences in Actions to Recover Land.

Vexatious defence without merits.

698. It being desirable, in actions to recover land brought against persons who are merely intruders, not to prevent plaintiffs from recovering land of which they have just claim on account of some want of technical form in their title, or some imperfection not affecting the merits of the case, and of which mere strangers to the title, having no claim or colour of legal claim to the possession, should not be permitted to take advantage; the plaintiff or his solicitor, in any action to recover land, may serve a notice upon the defendant or his solicitor in words or to the effect following: "Take notice that I claim the premises for which this action is brought as the bonâ fide purchaser thereof, from A. B., (or as the case may be), and that you will be required to show upon the trial of this cause what legal right you have to the possession of the premises." R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 26. Rules 699-701.

See Doe d. Lyons v. Crawford, 6 O. S. 344; Armstrong v. Little, 20 U. C. Q. B. 425; Davis v. Van Norman, 30 U. C. Q. B. 437; Thompson v. Hall, 31 U. C. Q. B. 367; Booth v. Girdwood, 32 U. C. Q. B. 23; Thompson v. Bennett, 22 C. P. 393.

699. If, upon the trial of such action, the evidence of title given by the plaintiff satisfies the Court (and the Jury, if the case is tried by a jury) that he is entitled in justice to be regarded as the proprietor of the land or is entitled to the immediate possession thereof for any term of years, but that he cannot show a perfect legal title by reason of some want of legal form in some instrument produced, or by reason of the defective registration of some will or instrument produced, or from any cause not within the power of the plaintiff to remedy by using due diligence, the Judge, or the jury, under the direction of the Court, may find a verdict for the plaintiff, unless the defendant or his counsel, upon being required by the other party so to do, gives such evidence of title as shows that he is the person legally entitled, or that he bona fide claims to be the person legally entitled to the land, by reason of the defect in the title of the plaintiff, or that he holds, or bona fide claims to hold, under the person so entitled. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 27. Formal defects in plaintiff's title.

700. Where a verdict or judgment is rendered or given under the authority of the foregoing provision, it shall be indorsed as rendered or given under Rules 698 and 699, and it shall be stated in the judgment to have been so given, and in any action thereafter brought for the mesne profits, such judgment shall not be evidence to entitle the plaintiff to recover. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 28. Verdict to be indorsed as rendered under Rules.

(iv) Inspection of Property.

701. It shall be lawful for any Judge, by whom any cause or matter may be heard or tried with or without a jury, or before whom any cause or matter may be brought by way of appeal, to inspect any property or thing concerning which any question may arise therein. Eng. R. 1883, 660. Judge may inspect.

Rules 702, 703.

Inspection of real or personal property by jury, parties or witnesses.

702. Either party in an action may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order for the inspection by the jury or by himself or by his witnesses, of any real or personal property, the inspection of which may be material to the proper determination of the question in dispute, and the Court or a Judge may make such order upon such terms as to costs and otherwise, as the Court or Judge may think fit. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 168.

Liberty was given under the similar Irish Rule to inspect a ship lying in harbour on which it was alleged that certain timber, part of the subject matter of the action, had been placed by defendant for removal: Morris v. Howell, 22 L. R. Ir. 77.

Party requiring view, to deposit with Sheriff sum to pay expenses.

703. Upon any application for a view by a jury, there shall be an affidavit stating the place at which the view is to be made, and the distance thereof from the Sheriff's office. Unless the Court or Judge otherwise orders, the party obtaining the order for the view shall deposit with the Sheriff the sum of $25 in case of a common jury, and $34 in case of a special jury, if such distance does not exceed 5 miles; and $31 in case of a common jury, and $43 in case of a special jury, if the distance be above 5 miles; and if such sum shall be more than sufficient to pay the expenses of the view, the surplus shall forthwith be returned to the party who obtained the view, or his solicitor, and if such sum shall not be sufficient to pay such expenses, the deficiency shall forthwith be paid by such party or his solicitor to the Sheriff. CHAPTER VII.

JUDGMENTS—MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT, Etc.

1. Default of Appearance, 704-718.
   (i) Generally, 704-712.
   (ii) Dower, 713.
   (iii) Recovery of Land, 714-716.
   (iv) Mortgage Actions, 717-718.
2. Default of Pleading, 719-729.
3. Confession of Action, 730-738.
   (i) Generally, 730-737.
   (ii) Interim alimony, 738.
4. Leave to Sign Judgment, 739-744.
5. Application for Account, 745-747.
6. Motion for Judgment, 748-758.
7. Settlement of Judgments and Orders, 759-763.
8. Entry of Judgment, 764-775.
9. Form of Judgments, 776-779.
10. Variation of Judgment, 780-786.
11. Satisfaction, 787, 788.
12. Motions against Judgments, 789-802.

1. Default of Appearance.

Proceedings in default of appearance.

704. Where any defendant fails to appear to a writ of summons and the plaintiff is desirous of proceeding upon default of appearance he shall, before taking such proceeding upon default, file an affidavit of service, or of notice in lieu of service, [or the undertaking of the defendant's solicitor accepting service and agreeing to enter an appearance, with an affidavit verifying the undertaking file,] as the case may be. J. A. Rule 71.

This Rule corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 13, r. 2 (1883 R. 102), except that the clause in brackets is not in the latter. Rule 225 provides for a solicitor's undertaking to accept service. Rule 745 prescribes the procedure in case of default of appearance to a writ indorsed under Rule, 247 with a claim for an account.

The substitution of notice in lieu of service of the writ is authorized in cases where the Court sees fit to allow that mode of service, in any case where the plaintiff is unable to effect prompt personal service: Rule 253.

Where a notice was served in lieu of a writ, an affidavit stating that defendant had been served with "a notice in writing, a true copy of which is hereto annexed," was held sufficient: Bustros v. Bustros, 14 Ch. D. 849. In cases, however, in which Rule 256 applies, the affidavit of service should state the day on which the indorsement of the time of service was made.

The writ should be annexed to the affidavit of service in accordance with the former practice: The Eppos, 32 W. R. 154; 49 L. T. N. S. 604.

...ERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 705. As this Rule requires an affidavit it has been held that the Court will not accept a certificate, though British Consuls, in the country to which the defendant belonged, had instructions not to administer oaths to subjects of that country: Ford v. Miescke, 16 Q. B. D. 57.

Where writ specially indorsed.

705. In case of non-appearance by the defendant where the writ of summons is specially indorsed under Rule 245, the plaintiff may sign final judgment for any sum not exceeding the sum indorsed on the writ, together with interest at the rate specified, if any, to the date of the judgment, and a sum for costs, and the plaintiff may [forthwith] issue execution upon such judgment; but it shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge to set aside or vary such judgment upon such terms as may seem just. J.A. Rule 72.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 13, r. 3 (1883, R. 103).

The original Rule had a provision that execution should not issue until 8 days from the last day for appearance. That was taken from R. S. O. c. 50, s. 54 (with which, in that respect, the English C. L. P. Act of 1852, s. 27, corresponds). Execution may now in all cases be issued forthwith, unless otherwise ordered. See Rule 863.

Cornish v. Manning, 18 C. L. J. 143; 2 C. L. T. 105, and Macdonald v. Crombie, 2 Ont. 243, decided under the former practice, are no longer applicable.

In an action on a promissory note, the plaintiff may sign judgment by default of appearance to a specially indorsed writ, without production of the note: Oliver v. Fryer, 7 P. R. 325.

Where an action is commenced in a local office, a judgment by default should be entered in the local office: Chamberlain v Armstrong, 18 C. L. J. 99.

Where the copy of writ served was not an accurate copy, the teste being 1880 instead of 1882, this was held to be an imperfection only and not a fatal error, and a motion to set aside a judgment signed was refused: Wesson v. Stalker, 47 L. T. N. S. 444.

Judgment can only be signed for the amount due at the time the writ was issued, not for claims which had not then matured: Park v. Patton, 2 C. L. T. 264.

In an action for foreclosure and on the covenant for payment, judgment was signed on a claim on the covenant under this Rule: Bisset v. Jones, 32 Ch D. 635. But the practice in Ontario is not to sign a separate judgment on the covenant, but to sign one judgment, which awards relief on the covenant, and also provides for redemption or sale, or foreclosure.

Forms of the judgment will be found in the App. Nos. 160 and 161.

Setting aside judgment.

Under R. S. O. c. 50, s. 64, it was provided that an application to set aside a judgment must be based upon affidavits "accounting for the non-appearance and disclosing a defence upon the merits." By the present Rule the matter is left at large to the discretion of the Court or Judge; but, no doubt, in practice it will be required to have the non-appearance explained and a defence shown. The terms commonly imposed have been the payment by the defendant of the costs of the application, pleading without delay, and sometimes bringing money into Court: see Harrison C. L. P. Act, (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 64,); Arch. Pr. 13th ed., 790, and 800; and Smith v. Dobbin, 3 Ex. D. 340. In Hillyard v. Swan, 12 P. R. 226, the judgment and execution were directed to stand as security.

Substituted service, when regularly effected, is for all purposes equivalent to personal service, and even though it has in reality never come to the knowledge of the defendant he will not be let in to defend as of right: Watt v. Barnett, 3 Q. B. D. 183, 363. Lapse of time is no bar to an application to set aside a judgment obtained by default, where no irreparable mischief will be done to the plaintiff, and the injury caused by the delay may be compensated for by payment of costs: Atwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 722. See also Davis v. Ballenden, W. N. 1882, 92; 46 L. T. N. S. 797, and notes to Rules 795, and 796. Rules 706, 707.

The application will not be granted to give the defendant the advantage of a technical defence: Forbes v. Middleton, 2 Str. 1242.

The following have been considered meritorious defences: The Statute of Limitations; Maddocks v. Holmes, 1 B. & P. 228; McIntyre v. The Canada Co., 18 Gr. 367; Seaton v. Fenwick, 7 P. R. 146; Usury: Trust & Loan Co. of Canada v. Boulton, 18 Gr. 234; Infancy: Delafield v. Tanner, 5 Taunt. 856; Cavallier v. Michael, 17 L T. N. S. 290; that the claim is not one that can be specially indorsed: Rogers v. Hunt, 10 Ex. 474; Want of jurisdiction: Hamelyn v. White, 6 P. R. 120. As to want of stamps: see Caughill v. Clark, 9 P. R. 471.

706. Where there are several defendants to a writ specially indorsed for a debt or liquidated demand in money under Rule 245, and one or more of the defendants appear to the writ and others of them do not appear, the plaintiff may enter final judgment against such as have not appeared, and may issue execution upon such judgment, without prejudice to his right to proceed with his action against such as have appeared. J. A. Rule 73.

This Rule is to the same effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 13 r. 4 (1883 R. 104). Before the Jud. Act, in such a case, the plaintiff might sign judgment against the defendants who did not appear, and might issue execution against them; but, if he did so, he abandoned his right to proceed against the other defendants. Or he might, before levying execution against the defaulters, declare, and proceed with the action, against the other defendants. But in this case the judgment already signed became a mere interlocutory one; the plaintiff could never put it in force, unless and until he succeeded in obtaining judgment in the action against the other defendants. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 69.

Where writ not specially indorsed.

707. Where the defendant fails to appear to the writ of summons and the writ is not specially indorsed, but the plaintiff's claim is for a debt or liquidated demand only, no statement of claim need afterwards be delivered, but the plaintiff may file an affidavit of service of the summons, or of notice in lieu of service as the case may be, and [file and serve] a statement of the particulars of his claim in respect of the causes of action stated in the indorsement upon the writ, and may, after the expiration of eight days, enter final judgment for the amount shewn thereby, and costs to be taxed, provided that the amount shall not be more than the sum indorsed upon the writ, besides costs. J. A. Rule 74.

This is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O, 13, r 5, except that the words in brackets are not in English Rule.

Under the old practice, the plaintiff filed and served a declaration, and if no plea were pleaded he could, if the amount claimed were indorsed on the writ, sign final judgment for default of a plea for the amount so shewn and costs. The filing or serving of a declaration is now dispensed with, and the filing and serving of a statement of the particulars of the claim is substituted.

...RSITY LAW LIBRARY

A claim for a specified sum for work, labour and attendance as a medical man has been held to be a liquidated demand and capable of being made the subject of a special indorsement, or, though the writ be not specially indorsed, to entitle the plaintiff to obtain final judgment under the Rule in the Irish Judicature Act corresponding Rule to the present : Kilgariff v. McGrane, 8 L. R. Ir. 354.

The case of some defendants only making default is not specially provided for as it is in the case of a specially indorsed writ. Probably a statement of claim must then be delivered to the solicitor of those defendants who have appeared.

Forms of judgment will be found in the App. Nos. 160, 161.

It is provided by Rule 1175 that the plaintiff is not to be entitled to the costs of the statement of particulars of his claim, unless the taxing officer is satisfied that there was good reason for not specially indorsing the writ, so as to render unnecessary the filing and serving such statements.

Where claim for detention of goods and pecuniary damages or either of them.

708. Where the defendant fails to appear to the writ of summons and the plaintiff's claim is not for a debt or liquidated demand only, but for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or either of them, no statement of claim need be delivered, but interlocutory judgment may be entered, and the value of the goods and the damages, or the damages only, as the case may be, in respect of the causes of action disclosed by the indorsement on the writ of summons shall be assessed [at a sitting of the High Court for trials, or at the County Court of the County in which the action is brought]. J. A. Rule 75.

This corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 13, r. 6, (1883, R. 105), except that the latter provides for a writ of inquiry to assess the damages, or such other mode as the Court or Judge may direct, instead of the clause above in brackets. The latter provision is adopted by Rule 710 below. The practice in actions at law formerly was, that the plaintiff, in the case provided for by this Rule, filed and served a declaration, indorsed with a notice to plead in eight days, and then, if no plea were pleaded, signed interlocutory judgment for want of a plea. Then damages were assessed. Under the present Rule, interlocutory judgment may be entered immediately upon default of appearance; and the indorsement on the writ will govern the inquiry as to damages without any pleading.

The old learning on the subject of "conversion" need not be imported into the system introduced by the Judicature Act, which provides for redress in case the plaintiff's goods are wrongfully detained, or in case he is wrongfully deprived of them : Stimson v. Block, 11 Ont. 103.

Where the writ besides damages claimed an injunction, an interlocutory judgment was held not properly signed under this Rule : McCallum v. McCallum, 11 P. R. 16.

A form of interlocutory judgment will be found in the Appendix Form No. 166, and of judgment in default of appearance after assessment of damages, No. 168.

It would seem that, under this Rule, where the action is brought for the specific recovery of chattels, the plaintiff may, upon default of appearance, have judgment for the delivery of the chattels; and may then enforce that judgment under Rule 873 : Ivory v. Cruickshank, W. N. 1875, 249 ; per Quain, J., at Chambers.

The former mode of assessment of damages was prescribed by R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 152, which was as follows:— Rules 709-711.

"152. No writ of inquiry shall issue to a sheriff in cases of judgment by default, but, except in cases where the judgment is final as aforesaid, the damages, when to be assessed by a judge or jury, shall be ascertained at the same time, and in like manner as if the parties had pleaded to issue, and the entries shall be made in the roll accordingly."

Probably under R. S. O. 1887, c. 53, sec. 9, there may be a reference to compute. The Court will not, however, refer to arbitration: Rule 550.

Where a final instead of an interlocutory judgment was signed, and was therefore set aside, it was held under the former practice, that the plaintiff was not forthwith entitled to take out and file the order, and sign an interlocutory judgment. The final judgment was held to be not set aside without an entry on the roll, and the defendant without laches could not be deprived of the carriage of the order: Cavanagh v. Hastings Mutual, 7 P. R. 111.

An inquiry was directed before a Master on affidavit evidence in Macdonald v. Antelme, W. N. 1884, 72.

709. Where there are several defendants, of whom one or more appear to the writ, and another, or others of them fail to appear, the plaintiff may sign interlocutory judgment against the defendant or defendants so failing to appear, and the value of the goods and the damages, or either of them, as the case may be, may be assessed, as against the defendant or defendants suffering judgment by default, at the same time as the trial of the action or issue therein against the other defendant or defendants, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise direct. New. Several defendants in action for damages.

Taken from Eng. R. 1883, 106.

710. The Court or a Judge may order that instead of a trial or assessment the value and amount of damages, or either of them, shall be ascertained in any way which the Court or a Judge may direct. New. Assessment of damages.

Taken from Eng. R. 1883, 106.

711. When the writ is indorsed with a claim for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or either of them, and is further specially indorsed for a liquidated demand under Rule 245 and any defendant fails to appear to the writ, the plaintiff may enter final judgment for the debt or liquidated demand, interest and costs against the defendant or defendants failing to appear, and interlocutory judgment for the value of the goods and the damages, or the damages only, as the case may be, and proceed as mentioned in such of the preceding Rules as may be applicable. New. Damages and liquidated demand.

Provisions of the Imperial Act 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 11, to remain in force.

712. Notwithstanding anything in the Rules contained, the provisions of the Act of the Parliament of Great Britain passed in the Session held in the eighth and ninth year of the reign of King William the Third, entitled An Act for the better preventing frivolous and vexatious suits, as to the assignment or suggestion of breaches, or as to judgment, shall continue in force in Ontario. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 151.

The 8th section of 8 & 9 W. 3, c. 11, provides that in actions in any Court of Record on a bond or on any penal sum for non-performance of any covenant or agreement in any indenture, deed or writing, the plaintiff may assign as many breaches as he thinks fit, and damages may be assessed upon any of such breaches that may be proved to have been broken, and judgment may be entered and execution issued; that execution may be stayed upon payment of the amounts; that the judgment shall stand as security to the plaintiff and his personal representatives for further breaches; that the plaintiff, upon the happening of further breaches may have a scire facias on the judgment against the defendant, his heirs, executors, etc., and may summon him or them to shew cause why execution should not be awarded on the judgment, upon which there shall be the like proceedings as in an action of debt on the bond or obligation for assessing damages upon the trial of issues joined upon such breaches; and so toties quoties.

Instead of a scire facias query whether a petition under Rule 782 would not now be a proper mode of proceeding.

This statute was held to be confined to actions of debt, as in covenant and assumpsit there was no penalty that could stand as continuing security for future breaches: 1 Williams Saunders 58 b, c, d: Lowe v. Peers, 4 Burr. 2225. A bond conditioned for payment of a sum certain is not within the statute: Murray v. Lord Stair, 2 B. & C. 90, nor is a bail bond: Moody v. Pheasant, 2 B. & P. 446. A replevin bond was not formerly: Bletcher v. Burn, 24 U. C. Q. B. 259, but now is (Rule 1103*a*) within the statute.

(ii) Dower.

Action for dower. Judgment of seisin. Execution. Costs.

713. In case of non-appearance by the defendant in an action for dower, the plaintiff may enter judgment of seisin forthwith, and sue out a writ of assignment of dower, but she shall not be entitled to tax or recover the costs of suit or of entering such judgment against the defendant, unless the Court or a Judge so orders. R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, s. 15.

On motion for judgment on the pleadings where detention and demand were denied, and defendants alleged that they always had been and were ready to assign dower, judgment of seisin was granted, but no damages (or apparently costs): Malone v. Malone, 17 Ont. 101.

(a) In case the plaintiff claims arrears of dower or damages for detention of her dower, neither the entry of a judgment of seisin nor the taking of proceedings for the assignment of her dower thereunder, shall prevent her from proceeding with the action for the recovery of such arrears or damages. New.

See notes to Rule 290.

(iii) Recovery of Land.

Rules 714-716.

Action for land.

714. In case no appearance is entered in an action for the recovery of land, other than an action for dower, within the time limited for appearance, or if an appearance is entered but the defence is limited to part only, the plaintiff shall be at liberty to enter a judgment that the person whose title is asserted in the writ shall recover possession of the land, or of the part thereof to which the defence does not apply. J. A. Rule 76.

This corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 13, r. 7, (1883, R. 108), and is in substance the same as the former practice. A form of judgment which may be adapted to meet such cases will be found in the Appx. No. 162.

This judgment does not carry costs without an affidavit being filed to the effect mentioned in Rule 716, or an order obtained under Rule 716.

Assessment of damages in action for land.

715. Where the plaintiff has indorsed a claim for mesne profits, arrears of rent, (a) or damages for breach of contract, (b) upon a writ for the recovery of land, he may enter judgment as in the last preceding Rule mentioned, for the land; and may proceed as in the other preceding Rules as to such other claim so indorsed. J. A. Rule 77.

This is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 13, r. 8; that of 1883, R. 109 has at (a) the words "double value," and at (b) "or wrong or injury to the premises claimed." The former practice confined this right to the suit of a landlord against a tenant.

The claims mentioned in the Rule are claims which without leave may be joined with a claim for the recovery of land: see Rule 341.

A form of judgment which may be adapted to meet such cases will be found in the Appendix, Form No. 165.

Costs where adverse possession.

716. In case no appearance is entered in an action for recovery of land, [other than an action of dower,] and in case the plaintiff files the writ, and an affidavit showing that the writ has been properly served, and an affidavit that the party so served was at the time of the issue of the writ in actual adverse possession of the land, or instead of such affidavits obtains and files an order of the Court or a Judge allowing him to sign judgment as well for his costs as for recovery of possession of the land, the plaintiff may at once sign judgment that the person whose title is asserted in the writ shall recover and have possession of the land, and also his costs (to be taxed in the ordinary way), and the plaintiff may forthwith issue execution thereupon; and the judgment may be in the words or to the effect of Form No. 162 in the Appendix, with the words following or words to the same effect added thereto, namely: "and do also

RSITY LAW LIBRARY

The express exception of actions for dower was not contained in the section referred to, but was contained in effect in R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, s. 15, (now Rule 713).

(iv) Mortgage Actions.

Judgment for foreclosure, or sale, where infants are defendants may be made in Chambers.

717. In an ordinary action for redemption, foreclosure or sale where the defendants, or some of the defendants are infants and no defence is set up the action is not to be set down to be heard in Court by way of motion for judgment; but after the statements of defence are filed, or after the time for filing the same has expired, the plaintiff is to file affidavits of the due execution of the mortgage, and of such other facts and circumstances as entitle him to a judgment and is to apply for the judgment in Chambers, upon notice to the guardian ad litem of the infants and the other defendants' solicitor, if any. Chy. O. 434, 645, 646.

This Rule enables judgment to be pronounced in Chambers, as against infants and adult defendants who are sui juris, but where any of the adult defendants is a lunatic or person of unsound mind not so found, it is necessary that the motion for judgment should be made in Court: Warnock v. Price, 12 P. R. 264.

When anything beyond the ordinary relief is required, as for example an injunction, it would seem the motion for judgment should be made in Court: see King v. Freeman, 1 Chy. Ch. 350; Kirkpatrick v. Howell, 22 Gr. 94. Rules 348-50, under which defendants in an action for foreclosure may obtain a sale will not, even where infants are concerned, be extended to an action by a mortgagee for possession merely: Western Canada L. & S. S. v. Dunn, 19 C. L. J. 211.

Day to show cause, when to be reserved.

In judgments for foreclosure against infants, a day to show cause must still be inserted: Mellor v. Porter, 25 Ch. D. 158; Gray v. Bell, 46 L. T. N. S. 52; London & C. L. & A. Co. v. Everitt, 8 P. R. 489; Mair v. Kerr, 2 Gr. 223; and the final order must also reserve a day to show cause. The formal words usually inserted in Ontario are "and this judgment [or order] is to be binding upon [name of infants] unless being served with a copy thereof on obtaining the age of twenty-one years, they do, within six months after such service, shew unto this Court good cause to the contrary": see Seton 711. Since The Devolution of Estates' Act, (R. S. O. c. 108), the estate of a mortgagor descends to his personal representative, and his infant next of kin are not necessary parties: see Malone v. Malone, 17 Ont. 101.

When unnecessary.

No day to shew cause is reserved in judgments for sale; nor in judgments against infant trustees of real estate: Foster v. Parker, 8 Ch. D. 223, and see Wolverhampton v. George, 24 Ch. D. 707. Thus, in a redemption suit against an infant for redemption of land conveyed to the infant's ancestor by deed absolute in form, it was held that no day to shew cause should be reserved in the decree directing a re-conveyance: Lake v. McIntosh, 7 Gr. 532. As to defences open to an infant shewing cause: see Seton 712, 1114, and 1115.

Where a decree for foreclosure was made against the ancestor, who died before a final order was obtained, it was unnecessary to reserve a day to shew cause in favour of infant heirs of the mortgagor, as to whom the proceedings were revived: Sutherland v. Dickson, 2 Chy. Ch. 25; Younge v. Cocker, 76 L. T. Jour. 247; and infant parties under such circumstances could not set up a defence which their ancestor had not set up, unless he had been prevented, by fraud, or mistake, from pleading it: Burke v. Pyne, 2 Chy. Ch. 193; but now under such circumstances the estate of the mortgagor descends to his personal representative; R. S. O. c. 108, s. 4. Rule 718.

Formerly where infants were defendants in an action for foreclosure before judgment, the Court would direct a reference to the Master, as of course, to inquire whether a sale, or foreclosure, would be the more beneficial for the infants, and direct a sale, or foreclosure, accordingly, or it would determine the question, on the motion for judgment, if affidavits were produced or the Official Guardian consented to dispense with the reference on that point: Dudley v. Berczy, 13 Gr. 141; but see Graham v. Davis, 2 Chy. Ch. 24; and if a sale was directed on the application of infant defendants, no deposit was required from the infants: Bank of Upper Canada v. Scott, 6 Gr. 451; Lawrason v. Fitzgerald, 9 Gr. 371; but see Western Canada Loan Co., v. Dunne, 9 P. R. 587. Whether a personal representative of a deceased mortgagor would be entitled to this relief, where infants are beneficially interested in the equity of redemption, has not been thus far determined. Inquiry whether sale or foreclosure more beneficial for infant, directed as of course.

Where the judgment directs an inquiry whether a sale, or foreclosure, would be more beneficial for infant defendants, if the Master omits to report on that point, no final order can be granted: Edwards v. Burling, 2 Chy. Ch. 48.

718. Where the defendant does not appear, or by his statement of defence admits the execution of the mortgage and other facts, if any, entitling the plaintiff to a judgment, or where the defendant disclaims any interest in the mortgaged premises, or where no statement of defence ~~or demurrer~~ is delivered, the plaintiff is, on præcipe to the Registrar, or Deputy or Local Registrar, or Deputy Clerk of the Crown in whose office the appearance of the defendant was required to be entered, to be entitled to judgment including, where prayed for, the relief for which a claim may be indorsed upon the writ under Rule 248. Judgment, when to be granted on præcipe.

(a) The reference in such cases, when required by the practice, shall be to the Master in Ordinary or a Local Master.

(b) Such a judgment may be granted, notwithstanding that the defendant has been served by publication, or otherwise, or is a corporation: provided always that where the writ has not been personally served, the claim of the plaintiff shall be duly verified by affidavit.

(c) This Rule shall apply to actions for redemption as well as to actions for foreclosure or sale. Chy. O. 435, 646, 648. J. A. Rules 78, 79, 502, 520.

A motion for judgment was held to be necessary, where costs of proceeding under power of sale and moneys expended for repairs were claimed: Hannaford v. Neeley, 9 C. L. T. 48; or immediate foreclosure: Gibson v. McCrimmon, 9 C. L. T. 40.

It will be seen that this Rule covers four classes of cases.

(a) Where defendant does not appear:

(b) Where the defendant by his defence admits the mortgage and other facts entitling the plaintiff to judgment:

(c) Where the defendant disclaims any interest in the mortgaged premises:

...RSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 718.

(d) Where no defence is filed.

It is not necessary that all the defendants should be in the same position, in order to entitle the plaintiff to judgment under this Rule, it is sufficient if they all come within one or other of the four classes of cases above mentioned.

In the Chancery Division in Toronto, appearances are required to be entered with the Clerk of Records and Writs; judgments under that Rule are, however, entered by the Registrar.

Where the writ is issued from a local office the judgment should be entered in that local office: Chamberlain v. Armstrong, 9 P. R. 212.

Where any of the defendants are infants, or lunatics, or persons of unsound mind not so found, judgment cannot be obtained under this Rule, but in the case of infants it may be obtained on motion in Chambers: see Rule 717, and in the case of lunatics, etc., a motion in Court is necessary: Warnock v. Prieur, 12 P. R. 264.

Where a dispute note is filed, judgment must be obtained on motion: see Rule 299; the provisions of the former Rule 78 under which the judgment might, in such cases, be obtained on præcipe: Trust & Loan Co. v. McCarthy, 19 C. L. J. 188; 3 C. L. T. 266; Peel v. White, 11 P. R. 177; have not been embodied in the Consolidated Rules.

For forms of judgment, see Appendix Forms Nos. 182, 183, 184. These forms require modification according to the nature of relief claimed in the writ.

Where the writ has not been sufficiently indorsed with a statement of the relief claimed, according to the form prescribed by Rule 248, it would seem that the officer may properly refuse to enter judgment on præcipe: Pherill v. Forbes, 8 P. R. 408.

Where a plaintiff claims a personal order for payment against the defendant under a covenant, and a reference as to incumbrancers is necessary, the account of the amount payable by the defendant under the covenant should not be taken by the officer entering the judgment, but should be left to be ascertained by the Master to whom the reference is directed, and the defendant be ordered to pay the amount so found due, forthwith after the making of the Master's report: North of Scotland v. Beard, 9 P. R. 546; see App. Form No. 182; the practice in England is to direct payment one month after the date of the Chief Clerk's certificate: Lees v. Fisher, W. N. 1880, 12; Farrer v. Lacey, 32 W. R. 384; 25 Ch. D. 636.

Præcipe judgment, form of.

Under Chy. Ord. 435, on which this Rule is mainly founded, it was held that the Registrar was bound to issue on præcipe the decree which the Court would itself make upon a hearing of the cause pro confesso: Kirkpatrick v. Howell, 22 Gr. 94; Buell v. Towns, Ib., 95; but extraordinary relief cannot be granted by judgment on præcipe, e.g., an immediate sale, or foreclosure, without appointing a day for redemption, cannot be granted, even though the relief be claimed by the writ or statement of claim: Patey v. Flint, 48 L. J. Chy. 696. To obtain such relief, a motion for judgment in Court under Rule 748 is necessary. On such a motion, however, special grounds for immediate foreclosure or other special relief must be shewn though the defendant has not appeared, otherwise only the usual judgment will be given: Meredith v. McCabe, 19th January, 1881, Boyd, C.; see also North of Scotland, etc., v. Beard, 9 P. R. 546.

Extraordinary relief not granted.

But where no appearance has been entered the plaintiff cannot, unless he serves the statement of claim on the defendant, enlarge by it the scope of the claim. On motion for judgment according to the terms of relief claimed in the statement of claim, in default of appearance, the usual foreclosure judgment only was given when that was the only relief claimed by the writ, notwithstanding that by the statement of claim additional relief was obtained. Law v. Philby, 56 L. T. N. S. 522; 35 W. R. 450. See also Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160.

Interlocutory injunction cannot be continued by.

Where the plaintiff had obtained an interlocutory injunction, it was held that the Registrar could not issue on præcipe a decree continuing it: King v. Freeman, 1 Chy. Ch. 350, the Registrar's power to issue decrees being confined to simple cases, where the ordinary decrees for foreclosure, or sale, with order for payment and delivery of possession, was all that was required. Thus, where the defendant answered admitting the mortgage, but denying an alleged agree- Rule 719.

ment to pay an increased rate of interest, and setting up a tender, and claiming costs, it was held a decree could not be granted on præcipe. Nor could a decree issued on præcipe in such a case be amended in Chambers, by inserting a direction to the Master to inquire as to the alleged tender: Ross v. Vader, 3 Chy. Ch. 236.

The plaintiff must determine for himself whether he takes a judgment with a reference to the Master as to incumbrancers. If he takes a reference, unnecessarily, he will not be entitled to the costs of it: Hamilton v. Howard, 4 Gr. 581; Purdy v. Parks, 9 P. R. 424.

But where a plaintiff had taken judgment without a reference, and after the mortgagor was foreclosed, discovered there was an incumbrancer, on an interlocutory application the judgment was amended by directing the usual reference as to incumbrancers: Willgress v. Crawford, 12 P. R. 658.

A decree pronounced pro confesso, or on præcipe, might be varied, or set aside, on motion in Chambers, without rehearing the cause: see Kline v. Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Nelles v. Vandyke, 17 Gr. 14; and the same rule applies to judgments on præcipe under this Rule: Trust & Loan Co. v. McCarthy, 19 C. L. J. 188; 3 C. L. T. 266.

2. Default of Pleading.

719. If the plaintiff's claim be only for a debt or liquidated demand, and the defendant does not, within the time allowed for that purpose, deliver a defence or demurrer, the plaintiff may, at the expiration of such time, enter final judgment for the amount claimed, with costs. J. A. Rule 204. Judgment on defendant's default in claim for debt.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875 O. 29, r. 2 (1883 R. 295), and in accordance with the C. L. P. Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 159.

A defendant must "deliver his defence, counter-claim or demurrer within eight days from the delivery of the statement of claim, or from the time limited for appearance, whichever shall be last, unless such time is extended by the Court or a Judge": Rule 371.

As to the effect of delivering a defence after the time for doing so has elapsed: see notes to Rule 371.

It is held in England that if in an action on a replevin bond, the plaintiff, instead of claiming damages, claims the amount for which the bond was given, and becomes entitled to judgment by default, his proper course is to enter final judgment under this Rule, and not interlocutory judgment under Rule 721: Dix v. Groom, 5 Ex. D. 91. But this will probably not be so in this Province, as he is not entitled in such case to claim the whole amount of the bond, it being provided by Rule 1111 that "In case the plaintiff becomes entitled to sign judgment by default, he shall be at liberty to sign final judgment for the sum of five dollars, and costs according to the proper scale, but shall not be entitled to recover a larger sum, except upon an assessment before a Judge or jury, or upon filing the written consent of the defendant or his solicitor, and an affidavit verifying the signature to such consent."

Shortly after the Jud. Act 1881 came into force, it was laid down by the Judges of the Chancery Division that where a writ is specially indorsed and there is also a claim for an equitable demand, or a demand in respect of which a motion for judgment is necessary, the plaintiff cannot obtain judgment by default on the claim specially indorsed, but must set the case down on motion for judgment as to all the claims. This would not now appear to be the practice in all cases: see Bissett v. Jones, 32 Ch. D. 635; Hay v. Johnston, 12 P. R. 596; but see Standard Bank v. Wills, 10 P. R. 159.

RSITY L.W LIBRARY

Rule 720. Where a demurrer to a claim is overruled, and no leave to plead is given, final judgment may be signed under this Rule if the time for delivery of defence has expired.

The same course will be pursued where a demurrer to a defence is allowed, and leave to amend refused.

Where a defence has been struck out, for instance for disobedience to an order for discovery, judgment may be signed under these Rules: see Fisher v. Hughes, 25 W. R. 528.

If the defendant does not appear the plaintiff cannot enlarge in the statement of claim his claim indorsed on the writ: Law v. Philby, 35 W. R. 450; 56 L. T. N. S. 522; Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160; see Stone v. Smith, 35 Ch. D. 188.

Where the plaintiff claimed interest at seven per cent., showing no ground for more than six, it was held the duty of the officer signing judgment to allow only six per cent: Bank of Hamilton v. Harvey, 11 P. R. 145.

In Hooper v. Giles, W. N. 1876, 10, Lindley, J., in Chambers, held that a defendant is not bound to deliver any defence where he has given notice that he does not require a statement of claim, and no statement of claim has been delivered: see Wilson's Jud. Act, 2nd ed., p. 208; Baxter's Jud. Act, 4th ed., p. 227. Some support to this view is given by Willmott v. Young, 44 L. T. N. S. 331, a foreclosure action, in which the defendant had appeared and dispensed with a statement of claim, and on motion for judgment the defendant objected that the case should go to trial as there had been no default in delivery of defence or demurrer. Jessel, M.R., in placing the case in the witness list said "I see no Rule applicable to the case as it stands. If I could make the defendant pay the costs of the day I should do so." Attention does not seem to have been called in that case to Harrison v. Surrey Masonic Hall Company, cited in Chitty's Forms 116, and Grimshaw, etc., v. McDowell, 66 L. T. Jour. 277, which over-ruled Hooper v. Giles, supra, and decided that judgment may be signed within 8 days from the time of appearance. See note to Rule 372.

Where several defendants.

720. Where in any such action as in the last preceding Rule mentioned there are several defendants, if one of them makes default as mentioned in the last preceding Rule, the plaintiff may enter final judgment against the defendant so making default and issue execution upon such judgment without prejudice to his right to proceed with his action against the other defendants. J. A. Rule 205.

This Rule is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 3, (1883, R. 296).

See Jenkins v. Davies, 1 Ch. D. 695.

In Rikel v. Livingstone, 4 C. L. T. 135, an action on a promissory note against K. & L., two joint makers, final judgment was signed under this Rule against L., and costs of the action up to judgment, taxed. The plaintiff afterwards at the trial recovered judgment against K., and in taxing costs against K. the Taxing Officer held that by taxing the general costs against L., the plaintiff had waived the right to recover those costs from K. To remedy this an order was made in Chambers ex parte setting aside the judgment as to costs against L., upon shewing that he was worthless and no steps had been taken to enforce the judgment against him.

In Wilkinson v. Garrett, 7 C. L. T. 22, judgment was obtained against defendants at different stages; against defendant R. by default of appearance, and afterwards against G. who had defended. The whole costs were ordered to be taxed against G. including the costs of judgment against R.; costs up to and including judgment against R. to be also taxed against him, and if recovered from either, to be credited on the judgment against both.

Interlocutory judgment on default in claim for damages.

721. If the plaintiff's claim be for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or either of them, and the defendant makes default as mentioned in Rule 719, the plaintiff may enter an interlocutory judgment against the defendant, and the value of the goods, and the damages, or the damages only, as the case may be, shall be assessed as hitherto. But the Court or a Judge may order that the value and amount of damages, or either of them, shall be ascertained in any other way in which any question arising in an action may be tried. J. A. Rule 206.

This Rule is substantially the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 4, (1883, R. 297), except that the latter provides in the first part of the Rule for a writ of inquiry issuing to assess the value of the goods, instead of providing "that the same shall be assessed as hitherto."

As to the mode of assessing damages, see Rule 708.

In Ivory v. Cruikshank, W. N. 1875, 249, the action was for rent, and for the return of certain chattels; the defendant had failed to appear; it was held that the plaintiff was entitled, under this Rule, to have judgment for the rent, and for the return of the goods.

See Dic v. Groom, in note to Rule 719.

Where several defendants.

722. Where in any such action as in Rule 721 mentioned there are several defendants, if one of them makes default as mentioned in Rule 719, the plaintiff may enter an interlocutory judgment against the defendant so making default, and proceed with his action against the others. And in such case, damages against the defendant making default shall be assessed at the same time with the trial of the action or issues therein against the other defendants, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs. J. A. Rule 207.

This Rule is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 5, (1883, R. 298), and is in accordance with the former practice in the Common Law Courts.

Where debt and damages claimed.

723. If the plaintiff's claim be for a debt or liquidated demand, and also for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or pecuniary damages only, and the defendant makes default as mentioned in Rule 719, the plaintiff may enter final judgment for the debt or liquidated demand, and also enter interlocutory judgment for the value of the goods and the damages, or the damages only, as the case may be, and proceed as mentioned in Rule 217. J. A. Rule 208.

See notes to Rule 719.

If there are several defendants, and some only make default, the plaintiff should proceed against them under Rule 728.

Rules 724-727.

Default by defendant in action for land.

724. In an action for the recovery of land, if the defendant makes default as mentioned in Rule 719, the plaintiff may enter a judgment that the person whose title is asserted in the writ of summons shall recover possession of the land, with his costs. J. A. Rule 209.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 7 (1883, R. 300).

Where claim for land and damages.

725. Where the plaintiff has indorsed a claim for mesne profits, arrears of rent, or double value in respect of the premises claimed, or any part of them, or damages for breach of contract, or wrong or injury to the premises claimed, upon a writ for the recovery of land, if the defendant makes default as mentioned in Rule 719, or if there be more than one defendant, and some or one of the defendants make such default, the plaintiff may enter judgment against the defaulting defendant or defendants, and proceed as mentioned in Rules 721 and 722. J. A. Rule 210.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 8 (1883, R. 301).

The judgment where it is for a liquidated sum for arrears of rent, may, it would seem, be final in the first instance and not interlocutory as under Rules 721, and 722.

Where some only of the defendants make default, it is not quite clear whether the plaintiff can enter judgment against them for recovery of the land, but it would seem that at any rate he may proceed as to that part of the claim under Rule 728; see Gosset v. Campbell, W. N. 1877, 134.

Judgment in mortgage actions.

726. Where the action is in respect of a mortgage, and the plaintiff claims foreclosure, or sale, or redemption, and an appearance has been entered, but default has been made in delivering a defence or demurrer, the plaintiff shall be entitled to a judgment or order on præcipe, as provided in Rule 718. J. A. Rule 520.

In a foreclosure action, where the mortgagee applies for judgment in default of appearance, not only for foreclosure, but also for a personal order for payment, the statement of claim ought, however shortly, to contain an express statement of the covenant upon which the order is claimed: Law v. Philby, 56 L. T. N. S. 230; 35 W. R. 401.

Other actions.

727. In all other actions than those in the ~~six~~ preceding Rules mentioned, if the defendant makes default in delivering a defence ~~or demurrer~~, the plaintiff may set down the action on motion for judgment, and such judgment shall be given as upon the statement of claim the Court shall consider the plaintiff to be entitled to. J. A. Rule 211.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, R. 10 (1883, R. 304). The motion for judgment is provided for by Rule 748.

As to where a defence is put in after the time allowed, see notes to Rule 371.

By his statement of claim the plaintiff asked for specific performance and ancillary relief, but not for any declaration of lien. Upon motion for judgment as in default of appearance, is was held that the plaintiff could not have a declaration of lien: Tacon v. National Standard Land Co., 56 L. T. N. S. 165.

Where plaintiff's claim was dismissed by interlocutory order, defendant was held to be entitled to properly proceed under this Rule for judgment on his counter-claim: Higgins v. Scott, 21 Q. B. D. 10.

In an action for specific performance if the defendant does not appear, the plaintiff is only entitled to judgment as prayed for, not for rescission: Stone v. Smith 56 L. J. Chy. 871; 35 Ch. D. 188; see also Tacon v. National Standard Land Co., 56 L. T. N. S. 165; 56 L. J. Chy. 529.

Where, by the statement of claim, in an action for specific performance, the plaintiff craved leave to refer to the agreement, and the property did not appear except by reference to the agreement, it was held that the allegations were insufficient, as nothing beyond the statement of claim could be looked at: Smith v. Buchan, 36 W. R. 631; 58 L. T. N. S. 710.

If a statement of claim against a married woman on a contract does not allege the possession of separate estate, no judgment can be given: Tetley v. Griffith, 36 W. R. 96; 57 L. T. N. S. 673; see notes to Rule 314.

Notice of motion was held by the Master of Rolls not to be necessary in Gillott v. Ker, cited, 6 Ch. D. 695, and by V.-C. Malins in Williams v. Cardwell, W. N. 1877, 140. The contrary was afterwards held by Hall, V.-C., in Parsons v. Harris, 6 Ch. D. 694, which has been followed in this Province in Burritt v. Murdock, 9 P. R. 191. See note to Rule 748.

Two clear days' notice seems all that is necessary: see Parsons v. Harris, 6 Ch. D. 694; Daubney v. Shuttleworth, 1 Ex. D. 53, and note to Rules 748 and 479.

Where a defence is struck out for non-compliance with Rules as to examination, or with an order to produce under Rules 499, 520, the defendant is in default under this Rule: Fisher v. Hughes, 25 W. R. 528.

Proof by affidavit of the allegations contained in the statement of claim is unnecessary: Williams v. Brisco, 29 W. R. 713; 17 C. L. J. 478; Ripley v. Sawyer, 31 Ch. D. 494; Jones v. Harris, 55 L. T. N. S. 884; see Wilmott v. Young, 44 L. T. N. S. 331; Montague v. The Land Corporation of England, 56 L. T. N. S. 730; Holmes v. Shaw, 79 L. T. Jour. 170; 52 L. T. N. S. 797; 29 Sol Jour. 573, is to the contrary, an affidavit being there required to prove a claim in an action for specific performance; but this decision was doubted in De Jongh v. Newman, 56 L. T. N. S. 180; 35 W. R. 403; see also Bayley v. Searle, 35 W. R. 404; 56 L. T. N. S. 306; and Gray v. Roberts, 32 Sol Jour. 322.

The words "upon the statement of claim" seem to indicate that no affidavit is necessary, and it has not been the practice in Ont. to require one. Notwithstanding those words in the corresponding Irish Rule, it has been held in Ireland that the plaintiff, where his title depends on documents, must produce and prove them: Crisford v. Dodd, 15 L. R. Ir. 83.

Where several defendants, and one makes default.

728. Where, in any such action as mentioned in the last preceding Rule, there are several defendants, then, if one of the defendants makes such default as aforesaid, the plaintiff may either set down the action at once on motion for judgment against the defendant so making default, or may set it down against him at the time when it is entered for trial or set down on motion for judgment against the other defendants. J. A. Rule 212.

This is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 11 (1883, R. 305).

In a case where several persons joined as plaintiffs to restrain the infringement of rights of pasture to which they were severally entitled, and the defendant counter-claimed against the plaintiffs and seven third parties, to restrain the erection of fences on the land in question, judgment by default of appearance against the seven third parties was refused before trial, because, assuming them to have been properly made parties, the cause of action against them was not severable from that against the plaintiffs: Verney v. Thomas, 36 W. R. 398; 58 L. T. N. S. 20.

Under the former Chancery Practice, where a bill was filed against a patentee and his vendee impeaching the patent, and the vendee allowed the bill to be taken pro confesso, the plaintiff failing to establish his case against the patentee who defended, the bill was dismissed as against both defendants, though without costs as to the vendee: McDermott v. McDermott, 3 Chy. Ch. 38.

In case of issues between parties other than plaintiff and defendant.

729. In any case in which issues arise (a) other than between plaintiff and defendant, if any party to any such issue makes default in delivering any pleading, the opposite party may apply to the Court or a Judge for such judgment, if any, as upon the pleadings he may appear to be entitled to. And the Court may order judgment to be entered accordingly, or may make such other order as may be necessary to do complete justice between the parties. J. A. Rule 213.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 13 (1883, R. 307), has here the words "in any action." The Rules are otherwise the same.

The Rules apply to enable the plaintiff in a counter-claim to obtain judgment against any defendant thereto who makes default: Street v. Crump, 25 Ch. D. 68.

3. Confession of Action or Judgment.

(i) Generally.

Defendants may confess action to recover land as to the whole or part of the property.

730. A sole defendant or all the defendants in an action for the recovery of land, may confess the action as to the whole or a part of the property by giving to the plaintiff a notice entitled in the Court and cause, signed by the defendant or defendants, and the signature attested by his or their solicitor and thereupon the plaintiff may forthwith sign judgment and issue execution, for the recovery of possession and costs, in the words or to the effect of Form No. 164 in the Appendix. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 52. Rules 731-734.

731. In case one of several defendants who defends separately for a portion of the property for which the other defendant or defendants do not defend, desires to confess the plaintiff's title to such portion, he may give a like notice to the plaintiff, and thereupon the plaintiff may forthwith sign judgment and issue execution for the recovery of possession of such portion of the property, and for the costs occasioned by the defence relating to the same and the action may proceed as to the residue. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 53. And so may one of several defendants defending for a part for which others do not defend.

732. In case one of several defendants who defends separately in respect of property for which other defendants also defend, desires to confess the plaintiff's title, he may give a like notice thereof, and thereupon the plaintiff may sign judgment against such defendant for the costs occasioned by his defence, and may proceed in the action against the other defendants to judgment and execution. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 54. And if others defend as to the same part.

733. Final judgment upon a cognovit actionem or warrant of attorney to confess judgment given or executed before the suing out of any process, may be entered in any Division of the High Court, and in like manner and under like circumstances, final judgment may be entered on a cognovit actionem or warrant of attorney to confess judgment for an amount not exceeding $400, in any County Court, unless some particular office or some particular County Court for that purpose is expressly stated in the cognovit or warrant. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 296. As to judgment on cognovits.

734. Leave to enter up judgment upon any cognovit or warrant of attorney above 1, and under 10 years old, is to be obtained by order of a Judge, made ex parte, and if 10 years old or more, by motion upon notice. T. T. Rules 1856, 27. Leave to enter judgment on cognovit, when to be obtained.

See note to Rule 736; and see Rules 479, 525-529.

A motion under this Rule would seem to be proper to be made in Chambers: Handley v. Roberts, 17 Jur. 440. Leave to enter judgment was granted where the witness to the cognovit had left the Province: King v. Robins, Tay. 299; Cleal v. Latham, 1 U. C. Q. B. 412; and also in a case where the cognovit was seven years old, upon affidavit of the plaintiff, that the whole amount was still due, and that having received a letter from the defendant he believed him to be still alive, though the affidavit failed to state that the defendant either wrote or signed the letter: Oliphant v. McGinn, 4 U. C. Q. B. 170; but it was refused when the cognovit was fifteen years old, and it appeared that the plaintiff had once accepted property from the defendant, and discharged the action, though the property proved unproductive: Grant v. McIntosh, 4 O. S. 184.

Confessions and cognovits to be registered

735. No confession of judgment or cognovit actionem shall be valid or effectual to support any judgment or writ of execution, unless within 1 month after the same has been given, the same, or a sworn copy thereof, is filed of record in the proper office of the Court in the County in which the person giving such confession of judgment or cognovit actionem resides: and a book shall be kept in every such office, to be called the Cognovit Book, in which shall be entered the names of the plaintiff and defendant in every such confession or cognovit, the amount of the true debt or arrangement secured thereby, the time when judgment may be entered and execution issued thereon, and the day when such confession or cognovit, or copy thereof, is filed in the said office; and such book shall be open to inspection by any person during office hours, on the payment of a fee of 20 cents. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 297.

When judgment has been signed on the cognovit before the time limited by this Rule for filing it has elapsed, it need not be filed, or entered in the cognovit book, as required by this Rule: Commercial Bank v. Fletcher, 8 C. P. 181; Armour v. Carruthers, 2 P. R. 217; McLean v. Stuart, 2 P. R. 367.

Immaterial discrepancies between the copy filed and the original, do not invalidate the cognovit: Irwin v. Ham, 9 U. C. L. J. 80; and see Sharp v. McHenry, 38 Ch. D. 427.

Cognovit to be executed in presence of solicitor.

736. No warrant of attorney to confess judgment in any action, or cognovit actionem, given by any person, shall be of any force, unless there shall be present some solicitor on behalf of such person expressly named by him, and attending at his request, to inform him of the nature and effect of such warrant or cognovit, before the same is executed, which solicitor shall subscribe his name as a witness to the due execution thereof, and thereby declare himself to be solicitor for the person executing the same, and state that he subscribes as such solicitor, and in the affidavit of execution, the attendance of such solicitor, and the fact of his being a subscribing witness, shall be plainly stated, which affidavit and the warrant of attorney, or cognovit, shall be filed at the time of entering judgment thereon. Rules T. T. 1856, 26.

A partner cannot give a cognovit so as to bind his firm without special authority: Holme v. Allan, Tay. 148; Huff v. Cameron, 1 P. R. 255; Joyce v.

Murray, M. T. 6 Vict.; but when there is evidence of assent on the part of the other partners, the cognovit will bind the firm: Brown v. Cinqmars, 2 P. R. 205. Rule 736.

One of several executors cannot, without express authority, give a cognovit binding his co-executor; and a judgment entered on such a confession will be set aside as to all: Commercial Bank v. Woodruff, 21 U. C. Q. B. 602.

A relicta verificatione is not within this Rule, and does not require to be verified by affidavit: Eakins v. Fraser, 6 P. R. 297. A cognovit may be executed by the attorney of the party giving it: Richmond v. Proctor, 3 U. C. L. J. 202.

Who may attest cognovit.

An uncertificated attorney may attest: Holgate v. Slight, 2 L. M. & P. 662, but not an attorney's clerk: Barnes v. Ward, Barnes 42; Paul v. Cleaver, 2 Taunt. 360, nor a person not actually an attorney, though believed to be one: Wallace v. Brockley, 5 Dowl. 695, but where the defendant wrongfully misrepresented a person to be an attorney, the Court refused to set aside the judgment: Cox v. Cannon, 6 Dowl. P. C. 625; Jeyes v. Booth, 1 B. & P. 97; the plaintiffs attorney cannot properly act for the defendant: Mason v. Kiddle, 5 M. & W. 513; Rice v. Linsted, 7 Dowl. P. C. 153; Durrant v. Blurton, 9 Dowl. P. C. 1015; even though the latter consent: Hutson v. Hutson, 7 T. R. 7; Pryor v. Swaine, 2 D. & L. 37; Joel v. Dicker, 5 D. & L. 1; Mason v. Riddle, 8 Dowl. P. C. 207; Cooper v. Grant, 21 L. J. C. P. 197; Hirst v. Hannah, 17 Q. B. 383. The attorney must, in general, attend at the request of the defendant: Gripper v. Bristow, 6 M. & W. 807; Rice v. Linsted, 7 Dowl. P. C. 153, but the adoption by the defendant of an attorney present, not being the plaintiff's attorney, no matter how procured, is sufficient: Taylor v. Nicholls, 6 M. & W. 91; Walton v. Chandler, 2 D. & L. 802; Oliver v. Woodroffe, 4 M. & W. 650; Case v. Benson, 3 U. C. L. J. 132; Levinson v. Syer, 2 L. M. & P. 557; and see Meriden v. Lee, 2 Ont. 451.

Cognovit need not be read, if explained.

It is not necessary that the cognovit should be read over to the defendant, it is sufficient if its nature and effect be explained to him: Oliver v. Woodroffe, 4 M. & W. 650, but the neglect of an attorney chosen by the defendant to explain the instrument, will not vitiate it: Haigh v. Frost, 7 Dowl. P. C. 743; Case v. Benson, 3 U. C. L. J. 132, unless there be fraud or collusion; Taylor v. Nicholls, 6 M. & W. 91; and see Gorrie v. Beard, 5 U. C. Q. B. 626.

Attestation clause, form of.

It is advisable to state in the attestation clause that the requirements of the Rule have been complied with, but the attestation has been held sufficient, though omitting to state that the attorney was appointed by the defendant: Oliver v. Woodroffe, 7 Dowl. P. C. 168, or was named by him, or attended at his request: Gay v. Hall, 5 Dowl. & L. 422, and did not declare him to subscribe as defendant's attorney: Knight v. Hasty, 12 L. J. Q. B. 293; Holt v. Kershaw, 5 D. & L. 419; Phillips v. Gibbs, 16 M. & W. 208; but see Everard v. Poppleton, 5 Q. B. 181; Hibbert v. Barton, 2 Dowl. N. S. 434. The following form of attestation has been held sufficient: "Signed by the above named A. B. in my presence, and I declare myself to be attorney for the said A. B., and I subscribe my name as such his attorney": see Gay v. Hall, 18 L. J. Q. B 12; Ledyard v. Thompson, 11 M. & W. 40. The provision respecting attestation is for the benefit of the defendant, a third party cannot object to a judgment on the ground that the cognovit on which it is entered was not formally executed: Chipp v. Harris, 5 M. & W. 430; Cocks v. Edwards, 2 Dowl. N. S. 55; nor to the want of an affidavit of execution: Potter v. Pickle, 2 P. R. 391.

Cognovit may be given though no process issued.

A cognovit may be given in an action though no process has issued: Walton v. Hayward, 2 O. S. 468; Rule 733. The practice of taking cognovits is not now very often resorted to since R. S. O. c. 124, s. 1, which avoids judgments recovered on cognovits given by insolvents, for the purpose of giving a preference, or to defeat or delay creditors: see Meriden v. Lee, 2 Ont. 451; Martin v. McAlpine, 8 Ont. App. 675. The same result, however, is arrived at, by a defendant appearing and delivering a defence and then consenting to an immediate judgment: Turner v. Lucas, 1 Ont. 623, affirmed in appeal, 10th September, 1884.

Leave to enter judgment may be obtained

The application for leave to enter judgment must be made in Chambers: Handley v. Roberts, 17 Jur. 440. The motion can now be made to the Master in Chambers. It is irregular to enter judgment without leave, when leave is necessary : Jones v. Jones, 1 D. & R. 558. When the cognovit is ten years' old, notice to defendant of the motion cannot be dispensed with : Nicholas v. Merit, 9 Dowl. P. C. 101 ; Fletcher v. Everard, 13 L. J. Q. B. 44 ; but see Croft v. Lord Egmont, 8 Dowl. P. C. 95 ; Wortham v. Tuck, 9 Dowl. P. C. 335.

Defeasance to which any cognovit is subject to be written on same paper.

737. Every person who prepares any cognovit or warrant of attorney to confess judgment, which is to be subject to any defeasance, shall cause such defeasance to be written on the same paper or parchment on which the cognovit or warrant is written, or cause a memorandum in writing to be made on such cognovit or warrant containing the substance or effect of such defeasance. Rules T. T. 1856, 28.

Omission of solicitor to comply with Rule 737, effect of.

The omission of a solicitor to comply with Rule 737, does not invalidate the instrument, but subjects the solicitor to punishment, on application to the Court : see Shaw v. Evans, 14 East. 576 ; Partridge v. Fraser, 7 Taunt. 307 ; Sansom v. Goode, 2 B. & Al. 568 ; Barber v. Barber, 3 Taunt. 465 ; Burdekin v. Potter, 1 Dowl. N. S. 134.

(ii) Interim Alimony.

Defendant may notify plaintiff that he submits to pay interim alimony claimed.

738. In an alimony action, the defendant may, at any time before the statement of defence is due, give notice in writing that he submits to pay the interim alimony, and costs, as demanded by the plaintiff in the indorsement on the writ ; and in that case no order is to be taken out until there has been a default in payment ; and in case of default, affidavits being filed verifying the indorsement and notice and the default, the order is to be issued on præcipe. Chy. O. 490. See J. A. App. (A.) 8.

Where the order is authorized to be issued on præcipe, the officer with whom the pleadings in the action are filed may issue it : see Rule 25.

No application for payment of interim alimony, or interim costs, in an alimony action can be made until after the time for delivering a defence has expired : Rules 530, 1185, and see notes to Rule 530.

4. Leave to Sign Judgment.

Leave to sign final judgment.

739. Where the defendant appears to a writ of summons specially indorsed, under Rule 245, [(a) and the plaintiff is not entitled to a judgment or order, under the preceding Rules] he may, [(b) on an affidavit made by himself, or by any other person who can swear positively to the debt or cause of action,] verifying the cause of action, and stating that in his belief there is no defence to the action, serve the defendant with a notice of motion to shew cause before the Court or a Judge why the plaintiff should not be at liberty to sign, final judgment for the amount so indorsed, together with interest, if any, or for the recovery of the land with or without rent or mesne profits, as the case may be, and costs. (c) A copy of the affidavit shall accompany the notice of motion. The Court or a Judge may thereupon, unless the defendant, by affidavit or otherwise, (d) satisfies the Court or a Judge that he has a good defence to the action on the merits, or discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend the action, make an order empowering the plaintiff to sign judgment accordingly. J. A. Rule 80. Rule 739.

Comp. Eng. R. 1875, O. 14, r. 1 (1883, R. 115).

(a) These words in brackets are not in the English Rule. (b) Instead of the words in brackets here the English Rule has the words "apply to a Judge for liberty to enter." (c) The English Rule 116 provides for this, and that the application be by summons. The Rules are otherwise to the same effect.

The words in brackets (b) have been introduced in consequence of the decision in Bank of Montreal v. Cameron 2 Q. B. D. 536, where it was held that since, under the original Rule, the affidavit was required to be made by plaintiff himself, the Rule could not apply where a corporation was plaintiff.

(d) By reason of the words "or otherwise," it was held that the reasoning in Bank of Montreal v. Cameron, supra, did not apply, and that therefore a plaintiff may apply for judgment under this Rule where the defendant is a corporation: Shelford v. Louth & E. C. Ry Co., 4 Ex. D. 317.

Leave to sign final judgment was granted against a corporation having its head office in England, incorporated there and in process of liquidation there, but doing business and having assets and liabilities in Ontario: Plummer v. Lake Superior Native Copper Co., 5 C. L. T. 95; 21 C. L. J. 80.

A power analogous to that conferred by this Rule was formerly exercised in the Common Law Courts in Ontario, after The Administration of Justice Act, in cases where pleas were put in for time; and that practice may in such cases still be applied. In such a case, if by an examination of a defendant his pleas were shewn to be untrue, an order might be obtained in Chambers striking out the pleas, so that the plaintiff could sign judgment in default of plea; see McMaster v. Beattie, 6 P. R. 162; Davis v. Code, 7 P. R. 2; Johnson v. Johnson, Ib., 288; Imperial Bank v. Summerfelt, Ib., 320. The Courts would not however strike out a plea upon the plaintiff's affidavit, but required a clear admission by the defendant that there was no real defence: see Arch. Pr. 12th ed. 292; Turner v. Neill, 6 P. R. 295; Post v. Leys, 7 P. R. 357; The Queen Ins. Co. v. Boyd, Ib., 379. In an ejectment suit brought by mortgagees, though the defendant admitted that he appeared and defended for time, it was nevertheless held that the appearance and defence could not be struck out, as the defendant was entitled to possession until the plaintiff should prove his case: see Metropolitan B. & S. Soc. v. Rodden, 6 P. R. 294. Leave to sign judgment.

Under the present Rule the onus is thrown upon the defendant of shewing that he has a defence, where it is sworn on the part of the plaintiff that there is none.

In England it has been said that the power given by this Rule is intended to be exercised where it is shewn from an acknowledgement by the defendant of the debt, or from other circumstances, that the defence is only for time: Lloyd's Banking Co. v. Ogle, 1 Ex. D. 262; Thompson v. Marshall, 28 W. R. 220. When Rule applies.

Where the nature of the claim involves the taking of accounts between the parties the Rule is not applicable: Wallingford v. Mutual Society, 5 App. Cas. 685. So where something beyond the recovery of money is sought; Fell v. Williams, 3 C. L. T. 358; Standard Bank v. Wells, 10 P. R. 159; De Rojas v.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Michael, 79 L. T. Jour. 99, where besides claiming money the plaintiff asked restoration of a steamship and injunction to restrain the defendant from parting with it.

But in a proper case there may be two judgments in an action, and where one claim is in respect of a money demand, leave may be given under this Rule to sign judgment for the amount and allowing the action to proceed upon other claims: Hay v. Johnston, 12 P. R. 596, (where the claim was on a bill of exchange, and to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent) not following in that respect Standard Bank v. Wills, 10 P. R. 159.

Though an order under this Rule is for an admitted amount or one seen clearly to be due, and the Rule does not contemplate an order for a sum to be ascertained by a reference or inquiry; still in the case of an action on a solicitor's bill, where it is clear that something will be due to the plaintiff, the usual order for taxation may be made, combined with an order under this Rule for payment of the amount which, as the result of the taxation, shall be payable: Smith v. Edwardes, 22 Q. B. D. 10. For the proper form of order in such case: see Ib., p. 16.

Where writ specially indorsed under Rule 245.

An application under this Rule can only be made where the writ has been specially indorsed under Rule 245, i.e., where the claim is in respect of a debt or liquidated demand, etc., and in certain simple claims for the recovery of land: see Rule 245. Where, therefore, the claim was upon a covenant in a chattel mortgage given as a continuous security for future advances, and the writ was indorsed for the amount mentioned in the mortgage, and not for the various advances, and the Master in Chambers had directed judgment to be signed for a sum less that $2,500 which upon affidavits and the depositions of defendant appeared to him to be due, it was held on appeal that the plaintiff's claim was not a debt, or liquidated demand. Mr. Justice Cameron in giving judgment said, "I think the power to authorize a plaintiff to sign judgment against the defendant, where the defendant makes an affidavit of merits, and disputes the claim, should be most carefully and sparingly exercised, and never unless it can be shewn that the plaintiff may be seriously prejudiced by the delay that may occur in awaiting the ordinary modes of trial, and that it should not be exercised in any case in which, under the old practice, final judgment could not have been properly signed for want of appearance": Barber v. Russell, 9 P. R. 433, 442.

An action upon a foreign judgment is within the Rule: Grant v. Easton, 13 Q. B. D. 302.

In Hood v. Martin, 9 P. R. 313, where a writ was indorsed to recover the price of land bargained and sold but not conveyed, it was held that the plaintiff's claim was for damages, and not the subject of a special indorsement, so that the case was not within the Rule.

In actions where the writ is indorsed, not under Rule 245, but under Rule 248, for foreclosure and immediate payment of the amount due under a covenant in a mortgage, this Rule has been held not to apply: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Bricker, 1 C. L. T. 729; Hill v. Sidebottom, 47 L. T. N. S. 224; Imbert Terry v. Carver, 34 Ch. D. 506; Clarke v. Berger, 36 W. R. 809.

The plaintiff was held not entitled to judgment under this Rule where the writ was indorsed as follows: "The plaintiff's claim is for the price of goods supplied. The following are the particulars:—$621.06 for money payable by the defendant to the plaintiff for goods bargained and sold and delivered by the plaintiff to the defendant, and interest thereon from 25th July, 1882": Lucas v. Ross, 9 P. R. 251; so also where the claim indorsed was "the plaintiff's claim is for $213.90 balance due for sawing wood by the plaintiff for the defendant": Villeneuve v. Wait, 12 P. R. 505.

For other instances of insufficient special indorsements, see notes to Rule 245, p. 282.

Where a writ is indorsed for liquidated and unliquidated demands, the writ may be amended by striking out the unliquidated claims, and judgment may be signed for the remainder: Robinson v. Ralston, 8 L. R. Ir. 26.

A formal error in the indorsement of the writ, such as the misplacing of a date, is no answer to an application under this Rule: Anon, W. N. 1876, 53; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 20. Neither is a mistake in the teste in the copy of writ served: Wasson v. Stalker, 47 L. T. N. S. 444; where the year was given in the copy as "eighty" instead of "eighty-two": see also Re Johnson, 25 Ch. D. 112. Rule 739.

It was at first considered doubtful whether the Rule refers to anything but a monetary demand, and whether, therefore, in an action in which it was sought to charge a wife's separate estate on a guarantee, an order under the present Rule could be made by any amendment of the writ: Butterworth v. Tee and wife, W. N. 1876, 9; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 50; see also Scott v. Wye, 11 P. R. 93. The Rule was held not to be applicable, in the case of an action against a widow in respect of bills of exchange given by her during coverture: Ortner v. Fitzgibbon, 43 L. T. N. S. 60; 50 L. J. Chy. 17; in England, even after the Married Women's Act of 1882: Moore v. Mulligan, W. N. 1884, 34, though the contrary was held in Ireland: Brown v. Morgan, 12 L. R. Ir. 122; Johnstone v. Browne, 18 L. R. Ir. 429; and also in England: Gunston v. Maynard, 75 L. T. Jour. 102; Perks v. Mylrea, W. N. 1884, 64. In cases of money demand only.

In Ontario, since 45 V. c. 19, it has been held that the Rule may be applied, and judgment entered in a plain case against a married woman, with execution against her separate estate not subject to restraint or anticipation: Kinnear v. Blue, 10 P. R. 465; Quebec Bank v. Radford, 10 P. R. 619; Cameron v. Rutherford, 10 P. R. 620; and the later English cases seem to have established the same right in England: see Bursill v. Tanner, 13 Q. B. D. 691; and other cases referred to in the notes to Rule 314. Married women.

The plaintiff must, however, shew that the married woman was capable of contracting by shewing the possession of separate estate at the date of the contract: see notes to Rule 314, p. 338, and Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Woodcock, 13 P. R. 242.

Before the Eng. M. W. Act of 1882, (Ont. Act of 1884), in an action against a married woman for the price of goods supplied during coverture, orders were made directing an inquiry as to the existence of any separate estate chargeable with the sum claimed, and declaring the same to be charged therewith: Darrant v. Ricketts, 8 Q. B. D. 177; 18 C. L. J. 160, and see Pike v. Fitzgibbon, 17 Ch. D. 454.

For the form of order now, see notes to Rule 314, pp. 338-9, and Quebec Bank v. Radford, 10 P. R. 619.

Judgment may be obtained against an Indian, as, since the repeal of C. S. C. c. 9, an Indian may sue and be sued, though by the Indian Act of 1880, s. 77 (d), the judgment will not bind any property of the Indian except that described in sec. 75: Bryce, etc., Salt, 11 P. R. 112. Indians.

As to the cases of actions to recover land to which the present Rule has now been made applicable: see notes to Rule 245, supra p. 284. Actions to recover land.

Where the plaintiff is liable to give security for costs and an order for that purpose has been obtained but the plaintiff has a case for setting it aside, it was held under the original Rules that he might move uno flatu and upon the same materials to vacate the order for security and to sign judgment: Anglo-American Casings Co. v. Rowlin, 10 P. R. 394. This course cannot be taken now; but it is open to a plaintiff, under Rule 1251, to pay $50 into Court as a partial compliance with the order for security, and proceed with the motion for judgment: Payne v. Newberry, 13 P. R. 354. Security for costs.

The Master in Chambers and the Local Judges under Rules 30, 41, and 138, have jurisdiction to entertain applications under the present Rule.

No time is limited within which an application may be made, and it has therefore been held to be regular after statement of claim delivered: Hope v. Neill, 12th Sep., 1881, (Mr. Dalton); and see Hanmer v. Flight, 36 L. T. N. S. 279. It is held in Ireland under a similar Rule that, after issue joined on a statement of defence, a plaintiff cannot resort to this summary procedure, as he has adopted the defendant's mode of procedure: Hackett v. Lalor, 12 L. R. Ir. 45; also that where the plaintiff after appearance takes any deliberate step Time for moving.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rule 739. to have the action tried by a jury by serving a statement of claim, he cannot move under this Rule: Stewartstown Loan Co. v. Daly, 12 L. R. Ir. 418.

In Ontario the rule is that motions after the statement of claim is delivered, are not to be encouraged, though in cases of necessity, allowable: Woodruff v. McLennan, 11 P. R. 22; but see McLardy v. Slateum, 24 Q. B. D. 504.

If the time for delivering defence is running pending the motion, the Judge or Master will by his order give further time if necessary: Hobson v. Monk, W. N. 1884, 8.

Affidavit. In Begg v. Cooper, 40 L. T. N. S. 29; 27 W. R. 224, it was held that the making of the plaintiff's affidavit was not a condition precedent to the issue of a summons, and therefore where the plaintiff made a defective affidavit, then obtained his summons, and afterwards made a fresh and good affidavit it was held that the issue of the summons was good.

Under the practice in Ireland where a motion was refused, because no affidavit was filed at the time of service of the summons, the Court refused to entertain a renewal of the motion: Trench v. Mulcahy, 8 L. R. Ir. 146; but in England the dismissal of the motion has been held no bar to a fresh application on fresh materials: Wagstaff v. Jacobowitz, W. N. 1884, 17; and see Payne v. Newberry, 26 C. L. J. 155.

Form of affidavit of plaintiff. The plaintiff's affidavit should not only verify the cause of action, but also pledge the deponent's belief that there is no answer to the plaintiff's demand: Kiely v. Massey, 6 L. R. Ir. 445. An affidavit of plaintiff which stated that he was "advised and believed defendant had no defence on the merits to the action" was held sufficient: Manning v. Moriarty, 12 L. R. Ir. 372.

An affidavit by the plaintiff's solicitor not stating his means of knowledge is not sufficient: Edwards v. Davis, W. N. 1888, 59.

The following is the form of affidavit required, in money cases, taken from Chitty's Forms, 11th ed. 100: see Runnacles v. Mesquita, 1 Q. B. D. 416.

In the High Court of Justice.
Division.

Between A. B., Plaintiff, and
C. D., Defendant.

I, A. B., of , the above-named plaintiff, make oath and say as follows:

1. This action was commenced on the day of , 18 , by a writ of summons specially indorsed with my claim herein, in pursuance of the Rules of the Supreme Court, Rule 245.

2. My said claim so indorsed is for [here state the claim as in the indorsement].

3. The defendant appeared in this action on the day of , 18 .

4. The defendant at the commencement of this action was, and still is, justly and truly indebted to me in $, in respect of the matters in the said indorsement mentioned.

5. That [here state, as concisely as is consistent with clearness, the facts upon which the plaintiff's claim is founded. Mere matters of evidence need not necessarily be stated, but a good cause of action must be disclosed, and the plaintiff's claim in respect of it verified, and in some cases it may be advisable to state the evidence by which it is supported. The form of the affidavit must necessarily vary according to the facts of each particular case. The statement of facts may be confined to one paragraph or divided into several, as may be found most convenient. Each paragraph should contain, as far as possible, a separate allegation of fact. The affidavit should be made as strong as possible, and any facts tending to show an admission of the claim by the defendant should be distinctly stated].

6. In my belief there is no defence to this action, and the appearance has been entered for purposes of delay only.

Sworn [etc., as usual].

This affidavit is filed [etc., as usual].

"The defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of £24 16*s.* 0*d.* as per particulars specially indorsed on the writ of summons," was held to be a sufficient verification of the special indorsement to entitle the plaintiff to judgment: Murphy v. Nolan, 18 L. R. Ir. 468. Rule 739.

On such a motion the only question to be determined is whether the Judge is satisfied that there is a good defence on the merits: per Jessel, M.R., Ex. p. Marshall, 5 Ch. D. 877. What defendant must show.

The Judge or Master does not pretend to try the action: Andrews v. Stewart, 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 50; W. N. 1876, 7; though to a certain extent the question of liability must be entertained in scrutinizing the defence to ascertain if it is fair and reasonable: Phillips v. Harris, W. N. 1876, 54; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 20; Anglo-Italian Bank v. Wells, W. N. 1877, 263; 1878, 10; 38 L. T. N. S. 197.

What must be shewn to entitle the defendant to defend has been variously expressed. It has been said, for instance, that he is only required to show a "bonâ fide" defence: Andrews v. Stewart, supra; to suggest a defence and show some probability of getting it from the plaintiff, or proving it himself: Harrison v. Bottenheim, 26 W. R. 362; or reasonable ground for supposing that there is a "plausible" defence; Beckingham v. Owen and Thorne v. Seel, W. N. 1878, 215; or grounds for fairly disputing the claim: Runnacles v. Mesquita, 1 Q. B. D. 416; or that the matter is so doubtful that it ought to be allowed to go to a jury: Andrews v. Stewart, and Beckingham v. Owen, supra; Anon, W. N. 1876, 64; Berridge v. Roberts, W. N. 1876, 86; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 21. The facts disclosed in defendant's affidavit must justify a reasonable belief that he has a defence: London, etc., v. Willis, 28 Sol. Jour. 478; see also Hughson v. Gordon, 10 P. R. 565.

In Fell v. Williams, 3 C. L. T. 358, it was held that the plaintiff's case must appear to a demonstration, and where the defendant set up matter which might possibly afford a defence, the Court refused to criticize or enter into the probabilities of the defence: see also Thompson v. Marshall, 28 W. R. 220, and Lowden v. Martin, 12 P. R. 496.

In answer to the motion a simple affidavit of merits is not sufficient, the affidavit must disclose a good defence, i.e. shew its nature, and give some reason for thinking that it exists in fact: Collins v. Hickok, 11 Ont. App. 620; Pascal v. Stone, 9th Sept., 1881, (Mr. Dalton); see also Anno, 1 Char. Ch. Ca. 48; W. N. 1875, 249, 250. In the words of Lord Blackburn in Wallingford v. Mutual Soc., 5 App. Cas. 704: "It is not enough for defendant to swear 'I say I owe the man nothing.' Doubtless if it were true that you owed the man nothing, as you swear, that would be a good defence; but that is not enough. You must satisfy the Judge that there is reasonable ground for saying so. So again if you swear there was a fraud, that will not do. It is difficult to define it, but you must give such an extent of definite facts pointing to the fraud as to satisfy the Judge that those are facts which make it reasonable that you should be allowed to raise that defence. And in like manner as to illegality, and every other defence that might be mentioned." Affidavit of defendant must disclose defence.

The fact that there is a valid counter-claim is not necessarily sufficient, as the admission of a counter-claim is not of right but in the discretion of the Judge: Anglo-Italian Bank v. Wells, W. N. 1877, 263; 1878, 10; 38 L. T. N. S. 197; Fowler v. Lee, W. N. 1876, 86; Rotheram v. Priest, 49 L. J. C. P. 104; Anon, 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 45; Bank of Ottawa v. Johnston, 9 C. L. J. 251. When counter-claim sufficient.

Where a counter-claim is, however, proper, the defendant will generally be allowed to set it up: Anon, 60 L. T. Jour. 85; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 45; Morin v. Calcock, 26 Oct. 1881, (Mr. Dalton in Chambers); and, if sufficiently connected with the same transaction as that which is the subject of the plaintiff's claim, the counter-claim may be sufficient to entitle the defendant to defend, even where set up as a defence to a liquidated claim, as on a bill of exchange: per L. J. Thesiger in Anglo-Italian Bank v. Wells, 38 L. T. N. S. 197. So where the defendant has a valid set-off greater than the plaintiff's claim: Groom v. Rathbone, 41 L. T. N. S. 591; and see Bowyear v. Pawson, 6 Q. B. D. 540; Government Co. v. Dempsey, 50 L. J. Q. B. 199.

Rule 739. Claim for indemnity not a defence.

A claim for indemnity against a third party will not suffice: Thorne v. Seel, W. N. 1878, 215; German Bank v. Schmidt, W. N. 1876, 10; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 53; nor a promise to give time without consideration: Woolston v. Baines, W. N. 1876, 74; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 21.

As to what are meritorious defences, see note to Rule 705.

Judgment was ordered to be signed where it was stated that the defendant was at sea on his way to join his regiment, and that he had been served with the writ the day before leaving England: Anon, W. N. 1875, 260; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 49. That defendant was served in New York, and had not time to instruct his solicitors, was considered sufficient reason for refusing an order: Anon, 60 L. T. Jour. 213; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 18.

The orders which may be made upon the application are:

Leave to sign judgment.

(1) Leave to the plaintiff to enter final judgment:—This order ought not to be made save where the case is free from doubt: Ray v. Barker, 48 L. J., Ex. 569; 4 Ex. D. 279; Thompson v. Marshall, 28 W. R. 220. It will be made if defendant does not appear, or files no affidavit: W. N. 1876, 12; or only an affidavit stating that there is a good defence, without stating what it is: Wallingford v. Mutual Society, supra; though an opportunity of filing a better affidavit may be given: Pascal v. Stone, supra; or if no fairly arguable defence be shewn: Anglo-Italian Bank v. Wells, 38 L. T. N. S. 197; Thorne v. Seel, W. N. 1878, 215; Anon, W. N. 1876, 23; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 18; East Assam, etc., v. Roche, W. N. 1875, 238; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 46. Judgment was ordered to be signed where the only defence was that the defendant had commenced proceedings in Bankruptcy: Anon, W. N. 1875, 220: W. N. 1876, 23; Clifford v. Budds, W. N. 1884, 40. So where in an action against two defendants, one admitted the debt and let judgment go by default, and the other only deposed that he was willing to pay his share, and that his co-defendant was acting in collusion with the plaintiff: East Assam Company v. Roche, W. N. 1875, 238. Execution was stayed to enable defendant to appeal, in Anglo-Italian Bank v. Wells, 38 L. T. N. S. 197. An order directing payment by a day named, otherwise judgment to be signed, need not be served before signing judgment on default of payment: Hopton v. Robertson, 23 Q. B. D. 126; W. N. 1884, 77; 28 Sol. Jour. 375.

Where the action was on an untaxed bill of costs delivered within a year, the order made was for taxation and judgment for the amount certified: Larkin & Co. v. McInerney, 16 L. R. Ir. 246; see also Smith v. Edwardes, 22 Q. B. D. 10.

Leave to defend unconditionally.

(2) Leave to defend unconditionally:—This will be the order where the affidavit shows what the defence is, and gives reason for thinking that it is substantial, and may be sustained by evidence: Runnacles v. Mesquita, 1 Q. B. D. 416. Where the defendant was a surety, and had not acknowledged his indebtedness, and there was nothing to show that the defence was merely for delay, he was held entitled to put the plaintiff to proof of his claim, and was admitted to defend: Lloyd's Banking Co. v. Ogle, 1 Ex. D. 262.

So also where a set-off was shewn exceeding the plaintiff's claim: Groom v. Rathbone, 41 L. T. N. S. 591; Conmee v. C. P. R., No. 2, under Rule 652; but see Branwhite's case, 40 L. T. N. S. 652; and where it was alleged that the plaintiff's affidavit was untrue, and the defence was stated to be that the services for which the plaintiff claimed remuneration had never been performed: Ameuny v. Nawab Nazim of Bengal, W. N. 1875, 239; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 47; and where the plaintiff in an action on a promissory note alleged, but did not state in his affidavit, that he was a bonâ fide holder for value, and the defendant swore to the defence that the bill was drawn in fraud of him, the defendant was held entitled to defend unconditionally as the onus of proof was on the plaintiff that he was a bona fide holder for value: Fuller v. Alexander, 47 L. T. N. S. 443; 52 L. J. Q. B. 103; Millard v. Baddeley, W. N. 1884, 96; 28 Sol. Jour. 412, 427.

Indorsers who denied receipt of notice of dishonour, although the protest was produced, were held entitled to have the matter tried: Ontario Bank v. Burk, 10 P. R. 561; see also Hughson v. Gordon, 10 P. R. 565.

(3) Leave to defend on payment of money into Court within a reasonable time, or on other terms:—Where it is not clear that there is a defence, but the defendant shews such a state of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial he may be able to establish a good defence: Ray v. Barker, 4 Ex. D. 279. Rule 739. On terms.

In Anon, 60 L. T. Jour., 85; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 45, Quain, J., gave leave to defend where a proper counter-claim was the defence, but confined the defence to the counter-claim.

In Roberts v. Guest, W. N. 1876, 10; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 53, judgment was ordered to be signed, unless the defendant paid the money into Court, where the defence was a counter-claim for costs in a suit in Chancery, in which an order for costs had not been obtained.

See also German Bank v. Schmidt, W. N. 1876, 10, and as to the amount to be paid: Oriental Bank v. Fitzgerald, W. N. 1880, 119.

Where the defence to an action by the holder of a bill of exchange was sworn to be that the acceptance was obtained by fraud, to which the plaintiff replied that he took the bill for value without notice of any fraud, it was held reasonable to give defendant leave to defend upon payment into Court of the amount of the bill: Brooks v. Aylmer, 73 L. T. Jour. 80.

In an action by a company on a call, a clerk of the company swore that notice of allotment was duly posted to defendant. Defendant swore that the letter was never received, it was held that this constituted no defence: see Household Fire Insurance Company v. Grant, 4 Ex. D. 216; but the defendant was entitled to cross-examine the clerk who swore to the posting, and leave was therefore given to defend on payment into Court: Carta Para Gold Mining Company v. Fastnedge, 30 W. R. 880.

Where a primâ facie case is made out on notes signed by a married woman, and the Judge not being satisfied that there was ground for a defence that the business was her husband's, and she only acted as his agent, and the defendant declined to pay money into Court, leave to sign judgment was granted: Nelson v. Thorner, 11 Ont. App. 616.

Where the defendant shews what his defence is, and his reasons for thinking it substantial, and it appears to be fairly in dispute, he ought not to be ordered to bring money into Court: Runnacles v. Mesquita, 1 Q. B. D. 416; Dobie v. Lemon, 12 P. R. 64.

Where in a claim for payment of sums of money, the defence set up is a denial and contradiction of the accounts on which the claim is founded, it is erroneous to make an order under this Rule refusing leave to defend, except upon the condition of the defendant paying into Court a definite sum within a certain time, and that, unless he does so, judgment shall be signed against him. This is especially the case where there are mortgages, and the creditor has been in possession as mortgagee: Wallingford v. Mutual Society, 5 App. Cas. 685.

A defendant is not entitled as of right to defend upon paying money into Court, without an affidavit of merits: Crump v. Cavendish, 5 Ex. D. 211.

A defendant who has paid money into Court has been held entitled to have it paid out to him if successful in the action, notwithstanding that a notice of appeal has been given: Yorkshire Banking Co. v. Beatson, 4 C. P. D. 213.

(4) Leave to defend as to part on terms, and as to the residue unconditionally—where the defendant's affidavit admits part of the claim to be due and discloses a defence upon the merits as to the residue. There is no power to grant leave to defend as to part of the claim only, on condition of payment of the amount as to which there is no defence. The proper judgment is, that the plaintiff have judgment for the amount admitted; the defendant to be at liberty to defend as to the residue: Dennis v. Seymour, 4 Ex. D. 80, and see Rule 741.

(5) Dismissal of the motion.—The simple dismissal of the plaintiff's motion will be equivalent to leave to defend: Margate Pier, etc., Co. v. Perry, W. N. 1876, 52; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 19; and, if the order giving him leave to defend did not name a time, the defendant was obliged to deliver his defence within eight Effect of dismissal of motion.

Rule 740. days, under original Rule 162, otherwise judgment might be obtained by default, even though no statement of claim was delivered: Atkins v. Taylor, W. N. 1876, 11; Margate Pier, etc., Co. v. Perry, supra; Rae v. Langford, 10 L. R. Ir. 108; Egerton v. Anderson, W. N. 1884, 95; 28 Sol. Jour. 95. This is not now the practice in Ontario, as original Rule 162 has been abrogated; and where the motion is dismissed the plaintiff must proceed with the action in the usual way, by delivering a statement of claim.

The dismissal of a motion is held in England to be no bar to a fresh application on fresh materials: Waystaff v. Jacobowitz, W. N. 1884, 17. But see Trench v. Mulcahy, supra, p. 628.

Judgment for part. Where a good defence is not shewn to the whole of the plaintiff's claim, judgment may be signed under this Rule for so much of the claim as is not answered; see Anon, W. N. 1876, 53; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 22; Hammer v. Flight, 35 L. T. N. S. 127; W. N. 1876, 54; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 23. On appeal, however, in the last case, 36 L. T. N. S. 279, it was considered that the facts set out in the pleadings did not support the claim in respect of which the plaintiff sought to sign judgment, and the order was therefore refused.

Forms of orders, etc. For forms of orders under this Rule: see Appendix, Forms, Nos. 126-129. For forms of judgment after order and default in complying with the conditions imposed, see App. Forms, Nos. 175, 176; and where leave to defend refused, App. Form, No. 167.

Appeal. Where leave to defend has been given, an appeal against the discretion thus exercised will hardly ever be entertained: Papayanni v. Coutpas, W. N. 1880, 109.

How defendant to show cause.

740. The defendant may shew cause against such application by affidavit, or (a) by offering to bring into Court the sum indorsed on the writ. In such affidavit he shall state whether the defence he alleges goes to the whole or to part only, and if so, to what part, of the plaintiff's claim. And the Judge may, if he thinks fit, order the defendant (b) to attend and be examined upon oath; or to produce any books or documents or copies of or extracts therefrom. J. A. Rule 82.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 14, r. 3 (1883, R. 117) except that the latter expressly provides at (a) "except in actions for the recovery of land." The effect of the Ont. Rule must be the same; at (b) the Eng. R. has "or in the case of a corporation, any officer thereof."

A defendant is not entitled as of right to defend upon paying money into Court without an affidavit of merits: Crump v. Cavendish, 5 Ex. D. 211.

The affidavit must be made by the defendant himself, where he is a person who can make an affidavit: Muirhead v. Direct U. S. Cable Co., 27 W. R. 708; Shelford v. Louth, etc., Ry. Co., 4 Ex. D. 317. Although a defendant, a corporation cannot make an affidavit, the Rule nevertheless applies, and the corporation must show cause under the words "or otherwise" in Rule 739, i.e., by some other means than the affidavit of the defendant: Ib. The defendant's affidavit must disclose the defence: Pascal v. Stone, p. 629. A mere affidavit that he has a good defence is not sufficient: per Quain, J., Anon, 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 48; W. N. 1875, 249, 250. The affidavit will not be insufficient merely because it contains only hearsay evidence: Harrison v. Bottenheim, 26 W. R. 362.

The application may be adjourned, if necessary, for better particulars of the plaintiff's claim: Aston v. Hurwitz, W. N. 1879, 194. In Anon, 60 L. T. Jour. 176; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 52, on an appeal from a Master who had ordered money into Court, a fresh affidavit not used before the Master being read, leave to defend unconditionally was given.

The Judge may, in his discretion, allow the plaintiff to file affidavits in reply to the defendant's affidavit: Davis v. Spence, 1 C. P. D. 719; this case was not approved in North Central Waggon Co. v. The N. Wales Waggon Co., 39 L. T. N. S. 628, but has been followed in Girvin v. Grepe, 13 Ch. D. 174. The filing of an affidavit in reply, under this Rule, is however not a matter of right: Rotheram v. Priest, 49 L. J. C. P. 104; W. N. 1879, 190. Rules 741-744.

741. In any case if it appears that the defence set up by the defendant applies only to a part of the plaintiff's claim, or that any part of his claim is admitted to be due, the plaintiff shall have judgment forthwith for such part of his claim as the defence does not apply to, or as is admitted to be due, subject to such terms, if any, as to suspending execution, or the payment of any amount levied or any part thereof into Court by the sheriff, the taxation of costs, or otherwise as the Judge may think fit. And the defendant may be allowed to defend as to the residue of the plaintiff's claim. J. A. Rule 83. Defence as to part.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 14, r. 4 (1883, R. 118), has not the words "in any case" at the beginning, and has the words "the amount" instead of the words "any amount." The two Rules otherwise correspond. See the Rule applied in Hammer v. Flight, 24 W. R. 346; 36 L. T. N. S. 279.

742. If it appears to the Judge that any defendant has a good defence to the action, or ought to be permitted to defend the action, and that any other defendant has not such defence and ought not to be permitted to defend, the former may be permitted to defend, and the plaintiff shall be entitled to enter final judgment against the latter, and may issue execution upon such judgment without prejudice to his right to proceed with his action against the former. J. A. Rule 84. Where several defendants.

This Rule corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 14, r. 5 (1883, R. 119).

743. Leave to defend may be given unconditionally, or subject to such terms as to giving security, (a) or otherwise, as the Court or Judge may think fit. J. A. Rule 85. Leave to defend may be absolute or conditional.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 14, r. 6. That of 1883, R. 120, inserts at (a) "or time or mode of trial (in cases which under these Rules may be tried without a jury)."

See notes to Rule 739.

744. Where at any time after the writ of summons has been issued it is made to appear to the Court or a Judge on an ex parte application that it will be conducive to the ends of justice to permit a notice of motion for a judgment to be forthwith served, the Court or Judge may order the same Motion for judgment by leave after service of writ.

Rule 744. accordingly; and when such permission is granted, the Court or Judge is to give directions, as to the service of the notice of motion and filing of the affidavits, as may be expedient. J. A. Rule 324.

Chy. G. O. 271 was to the same effect. There is no corresponding English Rule.

The Master or a Judge in Chambers may grant leave under this clause to make the motion, but under the next clause the motion itself must be made in Court: Morrison v. Taylor, 46 U. C. Q. B. 492. The report of Lucas v. Fraser, 9 P. R. 319, is erroneous. The motion was before Osler, J., in Court.

Where an order was erroneously made in Chambers instead of in Court, it was held that advantage of the irregularity must be taken by a summary motion to set aside the judgment, and that its invalidity could not be set up in an action founded upon it: Martin v. Evans, 6 Ont. 238.

(a) Upon hearing the motion the Court may grant the application on such terms and conditions as may be thought proper, or may refuse the same; or instead of either granting or refusing the same, may give such directions for the examination of either parties or witnesses, or for the making of further inquiries, or with respect to the further prosecution of the suit, as the circumstances of the case may require, and upon such terms as to costs as the Court thinks right. J. A. Rule 542.

The Chy. O. 272 was to the same effect.

In Federal Bank v. Hope, 6 Ont. 209, the Court refused to decide on a motion under this Rule whether a defence set up was a valid one, it not being clearly bad.

Where the plaintiff applied under the original Rule before the time for appearance, and the defendant had acted fraudulently in disposing of some property, and in otherwise embarrassing his creditors, it was held a proper case as against the defendant for the exercise of the discretion of the Court; but that the Rule could not be used to give an undue advantage against other creditors. Therefore, where other bonâ fide creditors were suing, but could not in ordinary course get execution till after the plaintiff, though they had commenced before him, an order was made on terms that the plaintiff should share pari passu with other judgment creditors who should place executions in the Sheriff's hands within eighteen days from the service of the plaintiff's writ, in case of an insufficiency of assets: Kinloch v. Morton, 9 P. R. 38; 1 C. L. T. 660. Since The Creditors' Relief Act a provision of this nature in the judgment for protection of other creditors is unnecessary.

After the above decision some of the Judges expressed doubts as to the power to impose such conditions, under the terms of the original Rule, and accordingly Rule 542, consolidated in the above Rule, was passed to make the power clear. See also 20 C. L. J. 77.

It was also held that there was no power to amend an order granted, without concealment or fraud, and not containing such conditions: Harrison v. Leach, 20 C. L. J. 124; 4 C. L. T. 185.

Special circumstances necessitating a hearing out of the ordinary course must be shewn: Francis v. Francis, 9 P. R. 209. Something beyond the plaintiff's desire to get a speedy judgment is necessary: Kinloch v. Morton, 9 P. R. 38; Lucas v. Fraser, 9 P. R. 319.

Where the affidavits filed for and against the motion were conflicting, the action was ordered to be entered for trial: Francis v. Francis, 9 P. R. 209.

5. Application for Account.

Rule 745.

745. In default of appearance to a writ indorsed under Rule 247, and after appearance [in a case in which the preceding Rules do not entitle the plaintiff to a judgment or order on præcipe or otherwise, then] unless the defendant, by affidavit or otherwise, satisfies the Court or a Judge that there is some preliminary question to be tried, an order for the account claimed, with all directions formerly usual in the Court of Chancery in similar cases, shall be forthwith made. J. A. Rule 86.

Action for account.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 15, r. 1, (1883 R. 121) except that the words in brackets are new.

Indorsement of claim for account.

Rule 247 provides for the indorsement of a claim for an account in all cases of ordinary account, such as a partnership, or executorship, or ordinary trust account, where the plaintiff desires to have an account taken in the first instance. The present Rule provides for two cases; first, default of appearance; in which case the order will be made as of right; secondly, appearance; in which case the order is to be made unless the defendant shows that there is some question which ought to be tried first.

A claim against an executor for an account on the footing of wilful default, is not an ordinary account within Rule 247, and therefore does not come within the present Rule: Re Bowen, Bennett v. Bowen, 20 Ch. D. 538.

An order for account may be made in any Division of the High Court: York v. Stowers, W. N. 1883, 174.

Before taking proceedings under this Rule in default of appearance the plaintiff must file an affidavit of service, or of notice in lieu of service: see Rule 704.

The Rule applies not merely where the plaintiff claims an account from defendant, but also where the plaintiff will himself be the accounting party: Molony v. Molony, 21 L. R. Ir. 91.

Under the corresponding English Rule, where the account claimed is an executorship or administration account, the order made is the same as the usual administration decree formerly made in Chancery: see Bell v. Lowe, W. N. 1875, 229; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 56; and Pratt v. Brown, cited in Dan. Forms, 3rd ed., 206. An account of the amount due in a foreclosure action may also in England be obtained: Gatti v. Webster, 12 Ch. D. 771; see Smith v. Davies, 28 Ch. D. 650; and in such cases any matter required on further consideration as to costs may be proved by affidavit: Beaney v. Elliott, W. N. 1880, 99. An affidavit not before the Chief Clerk was allowed to be read on further directions, there having been no trial: Re Michael, Dessan v. Lewin, 52 L. T. N. S. 609. In Ontario it is not customary to make orders for an account under this Rule, in mortgage actions.

The benefit of the Rule is only to be given where a writ is indorsed under Rule 247 with a claim to have an account taken. The proviso to that Rule states that the Rule does not apply to proceedings under Rules 965 to 988, i.e., to proceedings taken for administration in a summary way without writ, in which case, of course, there could be no indorsement. It will also not apply to cases of foreclosure, sale, and redemption, where a judgment may be obtained on præcipe, or on motion in Chambers: Rules 717, 718, 726. A form of indorsement claiming an account in administration actions is given in the Appendix, No. 11 (a, and b). It was pointed out in Gatti v. Webster, 12 Ch. D. 771, that the form of judgment given in Seton, 4th ed., p. 8, containing the following words; "a Judge not requiring any trial of this action other than the hearing of this application"—may not always be appropriate, and they are not to be used indiscriminately, so as to prejudice any issue that may be raised by the subsequent pleadings.

Rules 746, 747.

The provisions of the Rules 499, 520, 648, for enforcing orders for discovery or inspection of documents, are not applicable to the order for accounts under this Rule: Pike v Keene, 35 L. T. N. S. 341; 24 W. R. 322.

Only common accounts will be directed to be taken, not accounts and inquiries the right to which depends upon the plaintiff making a case for them at the trial: Re Gyhon, Allen v. Taylor, 29 Ch. D. 834.

In a redemption action an order under the corresponding English Rule of 1883 (R. 121), should be for an account and inquiries only, and must not contain further directions equivalent to a general redemption decree: Clover v. Wills & West, etc., Soc., 32 W. R. 895; 50 L. T. N. S. 382; 53 L. J. Chy. 622.

This Rule is not intended to enable parties upon a summons to obtain what is equivalent to a decree, but merely to take accounts upon which the Court can make a decree: S. C. W. N. 1884, 110; see also Borthwick v. Ransford, 28 Ch. D. 79.

The plaintiff cannot apply for the determination of questions at issue, except where the Rules permit such applications: S. C. 54 L. J. Chy. 569.

Application to be on notice.

746. An application for such order as mentioned in the last preceding Rule shall be made on notice, (a) and be supported by an affidavit filed on behalf of the plaintiff, stating concisely the grounds of his claim to an account. The application may be made at any time after the time for entering an appearance has expired. J. A. Rule 87.

(a) Instead of "on notice" the Eng. R. 1875, O. 15, r. 2 (1883, R. 122), has the words "by summons." The Rules are otherwise identical. Where the defendant has not appeared, besides the affidavit mentioned in this Rule, the plaintiff is required by Rule 304 to file an affidavit of service. In cases where an order allowing service is necessary: (see Rule 274), the allowance should, doubtless, also be proved. If an order has not been obtained, the application to allow the service and for an order under this Rule, might be conveniently made at the same time. The application will be made in Chambers.

A form of summons from which a notice of motion may be framed will be found in Danl. Forms (3rd ed.) 206.

It would seem that a statement of claim should, in general, be delivered before a motion is made under this Rule. In Re Huckwell, David v. Dalton, W. N. 1879, 86, in an administration action, the motion was directed to stand over until a statement of claim was delivered See also Green v. Colby, 24 W. R. 246.

Orders for administration, partition or sale.

747. But the preceding two Rules are not to prevent orders for the administration of the estate real or personal of a deceased person, or for the partition or sale of an estate from being obtained on motion without any previous notice or other preliminary proceeding, and in the manner provided for by the Rules 965 to 991 in that behalf. J. A. Rule 88.

See note to Rule 745, supra.

Although Rule 745 should be considered to apply in some cases of administration and partition, nevertheless a judgment or order will in such cases be most appropriately obtained under Rules 965, et seq.

6. Motion for Judgment.

Rules 748, 749.

748. Unless it is elsewhere provided that judgment may be obtained in any other manner, the judgment of the Court shall be obtained by motion for judgment. J. A. Rule 315. How judgment obtained.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 40, r. 1 (1883, R. 559).

The "Court" in this Rule means the "High Court of Justice," whether as distinguished from its Divisions or not: Wellbank v. Conger, 12 P. R. 354; usually the motion will be made before a single Judge: see sec. 61 of the Act, and Davenport v. Ward, 47 L. T. N. S. 348.

Rules 705 et seq. provide for the plaintiff's signing final judgment by default of appearance, and Rules 719 et seq. for the like judgment upon default of pleading without any motion.

Rule 718 provides for a judgment or order on præcipe in cases of foreclosure, sale or redemption.

Rules 687 and 688 provide for judgment on a trial, without a motion for judgment afterwards.

Rule 768 provides for a like judgment where, under the Act or these Rules, or otherwise, it is provided that judgment may be entered or signed upon the filing of an affidavit or production of a document.

Rules 965, 991 provide for obtaining judgments in Chambers for administration or partition.

Motions for judgment may be necessary in other cases to obtain the proper relief in case of defendant's default in appearing or pleading: see Rule 727; or where the Judge at the trial of the action has not ordered judgment to be entered: see Rule 682 and Wellbanks v. Conger, 12 P. R. 354; or different issues or questions have been determined in different ways, and at different times, where a motion for judgment on the result may thus become necessary: see Rules 729, 753; see also Rules 739, 745.

Before setting a case down on motion for judgment, the plaintiff must in general have delivered a statement of claim, or the notice authorized in lieu thereof: see Minton v. Metcalf, 46 L. J. Chy. 584; W. N. 1877, 142; and Rule 369; Hunter v. Wilcockson, 9 P. R. 305, and notes to Rule 368 p. 399. It would not seem to be required in cases under Rule 299; see notes to that Rule.

Two clear days' notice under Rule 479 is sufficient: Martens v. Birney, 10 P. R. 368; see Roupell v. Parsons, W. N. 1876, 61.

By direction of the Judges of the Chancery Division, the Clerk of Records and Writs is required in future to see that all preliminary proceedings are regular, before setting a cause down, and to classify motions for judgment into defended and undefended ones. Solicitors will therefore require, in setting down cases for judgment for default of appearance or pleading (1) to file with the Clerk of Records and Writs the writ of summons, affidavit of service of writ, and statement of claim, affidavit of non-appearance or no defence, and proof of the allowance of the service of the writ, when that is necessary under Rule 271; (2) a certificate of state of cause, where the action is pending in an outer county.

No motion for judgment is necessary in an action in the High Court, after a trial or assessment in a County Court: Scutt v. Freeman, 2 Q. B. D. 177.

It seems that in England, as a matter of form, further directions cannot be reserved; but the same object is accomplished by declaring that the further consideration of the action is adjourned: Bennett v. Moore, 1 Ch. D. 692; Gilbert v. Smith, 2 Ch. D. 686; Brassington v. Cussons, 24 W. R. 881. This difficulty would seem not to exist in practice here.

749. At the trial of any action no party shall be entitled to judgment on the grounds of his pleading being true, if No judgment on true pleadings merely.

In the Court of Chancery the Judge at the hearing always disposed of both questions of fact and law. He decided not only whether the plaintiff had proved the truth of his case, or the defendant the truth of his defence; but also whether the claim or the defence was a valid one.

At Common Law it was otherwise. The Judge at Nisi Prius was a commissioner to try the issues of fact joined between the parties as appearing upon the record, and to direct a verdict for plaintiff or defendant accordingly. He had power to decide questions of law arising incidentally in the course of the trial of the issues of fact, and in many other ways to deal with matters of law; but the broad question whether the plaintiff's claim, assuming his facts proved, was good in law, or whether the defendant's defence, if true in fact, was good in law, it was not within his province to determine. Those questions could be disposed of by the Court by demurrer, or brought before the Court in banc after trial by motion for judgment non obstante veredicto, and in other ways; but not before a Judge at the trial.

Gray v. Stait, 11 Q. B. D. 668, illustrates this Rule. That was an action for wrongful distress by seizure of goods off the premises after the expiration of the tenancy, and the tenant had given up possession. The defence set up was proved, viz.: that they had been fraudulently removed to prevent distress for rent; but nevertheless judgment was directed to be entered for the plaintiff for 1s.

See also McGee v. Kane, 14 Ont. 226, where this Rule was held not to be applicable. In that case the statement of claim had been held to be sufficient upon a demurrer, and the plaintiff having at the trial proved the material allegations in it, it was held that an objection that the facts proved were not sufficient in law to entitle the plaintiff to judgment, could not be entertained, and that the decision on the demurrer should be followed at the trial. See also Weir v. Mathieson, 11 Gr. 390.

If plaintiff was entitled at service of writ, but not afterwards.

750. In case the title of the plaintiff in an action to recover land, as alleged in the writ, existed at the time of service thereof, but had expired before the trial, the plaintiff shall, notwithstanding, be entitled to judgment, according to the fact that he was entitled at the time of serving the writ, and to his costs of the action. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 31.

A writ of possession will be allowed to issue although the plaintiff's estate terminated after action commenced, and before trial unless it will be unjust and futile to issue the writ, and it is for the defendant to shew affirmatively that such will be the result of issuing the writ: Knight v. Clark, 15 Q. B. D. 294.

Notice of motion for judgment.

751. Where the evidence in any action is under these Rules taken by affidavit, the notice of motion for judgment thereon shall be given at the same time or times after the close of the evidence, as in other cases is by these Rules provided after the close of the pleadings. J. A. Rule 306.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 38, r. 6 (1883, R. 550), requires the affidavits to be printed. The notice is therein called "Notice of trial," instead of notice of motion for judgment." Otherwise the Rules are to the same effect.

The provisions of this Rule as to time do not apply to exclude the use of affidavits made under a Judge's order, though filed after notice of trial: Waring v. Lacey, 24 W. R. 318.

752. No action shall, except by leave of the Court or a Judge, be set down on motion for judgment after the expiration of 1 year from the time when the party seeking to set down the same first became entitled so to do. J. A. Rule 320. No motion after one year.

753. Where issues have been ordered to be tried, or issues or questions of fact to be determined in any manner [and there is no direction of a Court or Judge for the entry of judgment], the plaintiff may set down the action on motion for judgment as soon as such issues or questions have been determined. If he does not so set it down, and give notice thereof to the other parties, within 14 days after his right so to do has arisen, then after the expiration of such 14 days, any defendant may set down the action on motion for judgment, and give notice thereof to the other parties. J. A. Rule 318. After trial of issues of fact.

The words in brackets are not in the Eng. R. 1875, O. 40, r. 7, (1883, R. 565), and it names 10 days instead of 14, otherwise it is the same. The introduction of the words in brackets appear to make no difference in the construction of the above Rule; they are implied, though not expressed in the English Rule.

This Rule has been held to apply where a reference had been ordered to the Master to inquire whether a partition alleged in the pleading was binding upon the parties thereto. The Master found in the affirmative. A motion for judgment under this Rule was held proper, and the judgment was directed to be entered according to the report: Consolidated Bank v. Wallbridge, 18 C. L. J. 205.

754. Where issues have been ordered to be tried, or issues or questions of fact to be determined, in any manner, and some only of such issues or questions of fact have been tried or determined, any party who considers that the result of such trial or determination renders the trial or determination of the others of them unnecessary, or renders it desirable that the trial or determination thereof should be postponed, may apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to set down the action on motion for judgment, without waiting for such trial or determination. And the Court or Judge may, if satisfied of the expediency thereof, give such leave, upon such terms, if any, as appear just, and may give any directions which may appear desirable as to postponing the trial of the other questions of fact. J. A. Rule 319. After trial of some only of the issues of fact.

Where an order was taken, by the consent of the parties, to determine certain issues of fact in a manner which the Judge afterwards held to be beyond

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rule 755. the powers of the Court, Jessel, M.R., refused to proceed with the trial, on the ground that any decision founded upon this consent order would not be binding upon the parties: Republic of Bolivia v. National Bol. Nav. Co., 24 W. R. 361.

On motion for judgment or new trial final judgment may be given by Court.

755. Upon a motion for judgment, or for a new trial, the Court may, (a) if satisfied that it has before it all the materials necessary for finally determining the questions in dispute, or any of them, or for awarding any relief sought, give judgment accordingly; or may, if it is of opinion that it has not sufficient materials before it to enable it to give judgment, direct the motion to stand over for further consideration, and direct such issues or questions to be tried or determined, and such accounts and inquiries to be taken and made as it may think fit. J. A. Rule 321.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 40, r. 10. The Rule of 1883, R. 568 introduced at (a) "draw all inferences of fact not inconsistent with the finding of the jury." Under this language in the Eng. R. it was held that when the Court is satisfied that the verdict is against the weight of evidence, and considers that all the facts are before it, it may enter judgment accordingly instead of ordering a new trial: Millar v. Toulmin, 17 Q. B. D 603; 12 App. Cas. 746.

The motion for judgment referred to must mean not the ordinary motion, to the Judge who tried the cause, for judgment after the findings upon the facts, but such a motion as is contemplated by Rule 798, where a judgment has already been directed to be entered, and a Divisional Court is moved for a new trial, or to enter another judgment.

Where the case is one proper for the decision of a jury, the powers conferred on the Court by this Rule may not affect the decision in Moore v. Connecticut Mutual, 6 App. Cas. 644, that a Court has power to enter a verdict in accordance with what they deem to be the true construction of the findings coupled with other facts, either admitted or so clearly proved that there could be no controversy about them, but have no power to enter a verdict in direct opposition to the finding of the jury upon a material issue: see also Perkins v. Dangerfield, 51 L. T. N. S. 535; W. N. 1884, 72; Jones v. Hough, 5 Ex. D. 122; and Millissich v. Lloyds, 40 L. J. [illegible]; W. N. 1877, 36; Sewell v. B. C. Towing Co., 20 C. L. J. 170; 4 C. [illegible]; 9 S. C. R. 527.

This Rule, however, seems to confer upon the Court, the power to enter a verdict not in accordance with the finding of the jury, where the Court considers that the most convenient course is not to send the case for the opinion of another jury, but to enter a judgment in accordance with their own views, upon the whole case, if they consider that they have the proper materials before them upon which to decide: see Hamilton v. Johnson, 5 Q. B. D. 263, 266; Lancey v. Brake, 10 Ont. 428; James v. Clement, 13 Ont. 115; Palmer v. Miller, Ib., 576; Campbell v. Cole, 7 Ont. 127; or to finally determine all questions in dispute though the jury may not have found upon them all: Sewell v. British Columbia Towing Co., supra.

Where, therefore, the case is one in which no additional facts remain to be proved, and in which, upon the facts proved, no jury would be justified in finding a verdict adverse to the party against whom it has been found, the Court has before it all the materials necessary for finally determining the questions in dispute, and will act under this Rule: Yorkshire Banking Company v. Beatson, 5 C. P. D. 109, 127; Stewart v. Rounds, 7 Ont. App. 515, 519; McConnell v. Wilkins, 13 Ont. App. 438.

The power must be most sparingly and cautiously exercised, (per Wilson, C.J., in Stewart v. Rounds, supra); and will not be exercised where there is evidence to go properly to a jury: Brewster v. Durrand, W. N. 1880, 27; or where if a new trial were ordered further evidence might be adduced: Clark v. Molyneux 3 Q. B. D. 237, 245; see Baker v. G. T. Ry. Co., 11 Ont. App. 72. Rule 756.

In Milissich v. Lloyds, 46 L. J. C. P. 404, W. N. 1877, 36, an action for libel, the Court held that whether the report of a trial in question was a fair one or not, was a question for the jury, which the Court would not withdraw from them under this Rule.

Where there was a conflict of evidence, and the Judge who tried the cause without a jury, attributed greater weight to the evidence of some witnesses than others, but, in the opinion of the Court, took a wrong view of the law, the Court refused to make a decree on the evidence, and sent the case for a new trial: Canada Landed Credit Co. v. Thompson, 8 Ont. App. 696.

See also for applications of this Rule; Mercier v. Williams, 9 Q. B. D. 337; 10 App. Cas. 1, where judgment was entered for defendant upon a motion for new trial in an interpleader issue; Daun v. Simmins, 40 L. T. N. S. 556; 41 L. T. N. S. 783; 28 W. R. 129; W. N. 1879, 178; where a non-suit was entered, after a verdict for plaintiff, and though the rule only asked for a new trial, the Court being of opinion that there was really no evidence in support of the findings: also Batty v. Clever, 71 L. T. Jour. 43; and Waddell v. Blockley, 10 Ch. D. 416; Eastland v. Burchell, 38 L. T. N. S. 563; Rosenberger v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 32 C. P. 349, 365; 8 Ont. App. 482; 9 S. C. R. 311; Standard Bank v. Dunham, 14 Ont. 67; Heath v. Pugh, 6 Q. B. D. 355.

The Court declined to act under this Rule in Garland v. Thompson, 9 Ont. 376; see also Hislop v. McGillivray, 7 C. L. T. 37.

This Rule was held not to apply to Inferior Courts by virtue of sec. 77 of the Jud. Act of 1881 (now R. S. O. 1887, c. 47, s. 23; c. 51, s. 73): Pryor v. City Offices Co., 10 Q. B. D. 504.

756. Any party to an action may at any stage thereof apply to the Court or a Judge for such order as he may, upon any admissions of fact in the pleadings, [(w) or in the examination of any other party] be entitled to; [(x) and it shall not be necessary to wait] for the determination of any other question between the parties (y); [(z) or he may so apply where the only evidence consists of documents and such affidavits as are necessary to prove their execution or identity without the necessity of any cross-examination; or he may so apply where infants are concerned, and evidence is necessary so far only as they are concerned, for the purpose of proving facts which are not disputed.] Summary relief on motion upon admissions in pleadings, etc.

(a) The foregoing Rules shall not apply to such applications, and any such application may be made by motion as soon as the right of the party applying to the relief claimed has appeared from the pleadings.

(b) The Court or a Judge may, on any such application, give such relief, subject to such terms, if any, as such Court or Judge may think fit. J. A. Rule 322.

(w) The words here in brackets are not in the Eng. R. 1875, O. 40, r. 11, (1883, R. 376), which here has "or otherwise," and those words were held to include admissions contained in an affidavit filed on a previous interlocutory application made in an action in which no pleadings had been delivered, and the writ not specially indorsed: Landergan v. Feast, 34 W. R. 469, 691; 54 L. T. N. S. 369. This was reversed on appeal: 55 L. T. N. S. 42; 55 L. J. Chy. 505; on the ground that the admission was not definite enough, and it was held that there must be a clear admission in the action in which the admission is made.

(x) Instead of the words in brackets here, the English Order has the words "without waiting."

(y) Where one defendant does not appear, or does not deliver a defence, and another delivers a defence on which the plaintiff's right to relief is admitted, the plaintiff may proceed against the latter under this Rule, and against the former by default: Re Smith's Estate, Bridson v. Smith, 24 W. R. 392; Parsons v. Harris, 6 Ch. D. 694; see however Warner v. Davies, 79 L. T. Jour. 136. See also Jenkins v. Davies, 1 Ch. D. 696, where a statement of defence, purporting to be the defence of a husband and wife, raised no defence as regarded the husband, and the plaintiff was held entitled under the English rules of pleading (though it would be otherwise here under Rule 403) to judgment against the husband as admitting the plaintiff's claim, without waiting for the determination of the case against the wife.

(z) The words here in brackets are not in the English Rule and are taken from the Chy. G. O. No. 270.

The object of this Rule is to enable a plaintiff or defendant to get rid of so much of the action as there is no controversy respecting. If the whole issue is not in controversy, either party may be entitled to move on the admissions of the other: Thorp v. Holdsworth, 3 Ch. D. at p. 640.

There cannot be an admission under this Rule where there are pleadings, until both claim and defence, (Jurmer v. Davis, 23 Sol. Jour. 462,) have been delivered: McLeod v. Sexsmith, 12 P. R. 606; and the indorsement on a writ was held to be not a pleading within the Rule: Wallis v. Jackson, 23 Ch. D. 204, followed by Boyd, C., in Fell v. Williams, though not mentioned in the report 3 C. L. T. 358; see also Gillott v. Ker, 24 W. R. 428; and the reference to pleadings in clause (a) of the Rule; and Landergan v. Feast, supra.

The Rule is applicable at any stage of the action, after pleadings: McLeod v. Sexsmith, supra, and therefore it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to judgment on an admission under this Rule, though he had delivered a reply, and the action was set down for trial: Brown v. Pearson, 21 Ch. D. 716; and the Rule may be acted on at the trial: Tildesley v. Harper, 7 Ch. D. 403. After a judgment obtained without pleadings, the Rule was held to be applicable on a motion under Rule 876 for leave to issue execution against a person as a partner under a judgment against the firm: Tennant v. Manhard, 12 P. R. 619.

The entering of a dispute note under Rule 299, limiting the defence to a part of the sum claimed and admitting the remainder is an admission under this Rule: Crawford v. Gemmell, 7 C. L. T. 117.

It is in the discretion of the Judge whether to give relief on the motion or not, and the Court of Appeal will not review his discretion: Mellor v. Sidebottom, 5 Ch. D. 342.

A defendant may move upon an admission entitling him to the "relief" of having the action dismissed: Pascoe v. Richards, 50 L. J. Chy. 337; 44 L. T. N. S. 87; The Naples, 35 W. R. 59.

In the exercise of such discretion, parties are, as a matter of convenience, not allowed in England to make under this Rule applications which involve a serious question of law to be argued which might better be decided on demurrer, or at the trial: per Mellish, L.J., in Gilbert v. Smith, 2 Ch. D. 689; Mellor v. Sidebottom, 5 Ch. D. at p. 344. See also Studdert v. Von Steiglitz, 19 L. R. Ir. 237.

These cases, however, do not fully apply in Ontario. The provisions of this Rule, which are not contained in the English Rule, are taken from and supersede the former Chancery practice regulating hearings on motion for decree (see Chy. O. 270), and on bill and answer. On a motion for decree the examination of a defendant might be read with his answer against him: Proctor v. Grant, 9 Gr. 31; Mathers v. Short, 14 Gr. 255; see also Powell

v. Lea, 20 Gr. 621; and Rogers v. Wilson, 12 Ont. 322. Affidavits proving exhibits might formerly be read on motion for decree under Chy. O. 270, or on a hearing on bill and answer: see Killaly v. Graham, 2 Gr. 281; Chalk v. Raine, 13 Jur. 981. But query how far this is the case now: Cook v. Lemieux, 10 P. R 577. It may be found that upon the documents which may be referred to the questions raised in the action cannot satisfactorily be disposed of, in which case the action may be directed to be brought on for trial in the usual way: Gardner v. Brown, (before Galt, C.J., 28th October, 1889). Rule 756.

Both those methods of hearing a case were formerly employed in cases involving the consideration of important questions of law. Suits for the construction of wills are familiar examples: see for instance Fuller v. Macklem, 25 Gr. 455; Robson v. Argue, 25 Gr. 407; Patton v. Hickson, 25 Gr. 102; Clarkson v. Scott, 25 Gr. 373. In such cases this Rule is no doubt applicable, and the motion will be properly made in Court: Rogers v. Wilson, 12 Ont. 322. In simpler cases similar to those in which the English Rule was intended to apply, the application may be made in Chambers: see Gough v. Heatley, W. N. 1884, 14; 32 W. R. 385; 49 L. T. N. S. 772; Cook v. Heynes, Ib. 75; London, etc., v. Digby, 36 W. R. 497; 58 L. T. N. S. 724; 57 L. J. Chy. 505. The Rule has frequently been applied by the Master in Chambers: see Trust and Loan Co. v. Hill, 9 P. R. 8.

Even in England an application may be made where the judgment asked for is in the nature of a final judgment and not merely interlocutory: Gilbert v. Smith, 2 Ch. D. 686; Jenkins v. Davies, 1 Ch. D. 696; Re Barker's Estate, 10 Ch. D. 162, 165; but it has been held that the party moving must have a clear case, and if he claims a right which does not exist at law, the fact that it is not denied in the other party's pleadings will not entitle him to judgment: Chilton v. London, 7 Ch. D. 735; see Rule 749.

In an action on a foreign judgment where the only defence was a denial of the judgment, it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to judgment under this Rule, upon the pleadings and an exemplification of the judgment, as it was necessary for the plaintiff to give evidence to connect the defendant with it, and support its genuineness, the defendant having put the judgment distinctly in issue: Henebery v. Turner, 2 Ont. 284. Illustrations.

In reply the plaintiffs admitted that a collision was not due to default of the defendant, or those on board, and submitted to a decree that it was due to inevitable accident. On motion by the defendant on the admission, the action was dismissed with costs: The Naples, 35 W. R. 59.

Where the plaintiff's case is not conclusively made out, the motion will be refused: Cook v. Lemieux, 10 P. R. 577, where it was held that much care must be taken in cases under this Rule not to take away the right of trial on vivâ voce evidence: see also Gardner v. Brown, supra.

In an action for infringement of a patent, the defendant admitted the infringement in ten instances, but denied any other infringement. On a motion for judgment on the pleadings the plaintiff was held bound to take the denial as well as the admissions, and entitled to an inquiry as to damages limited to the ten instances admitted: United Telephone Co. v. Donohoe, 31 Ch. D. 399.

An admission by defence must be taken just as it is pleaded: Demorest v. Midland, 10 P. R. 640. Thus in an action on a policy of insurance for £1000, a defence that on an apportionment of the loss under a certain condition in the policy, the defendants were liable for £62 only was set up. The plaintiffs were not allowed to have judgment for this and proceed for more, the defendant's contention being that the admission was that £62 was due as the result of an entire defence showing that no more was due: Andrews v. Patriotic Assurance Co., 18 L. R. Ir. 115.

The whole of an admission in a pleading must be looked at, and the sense, and not merely the grammatical construction or the form thereof, is to be regarded as the criterion of the extent and scope of the admission: Dovey v. Irwin, 4 Ont. 8; and it must be clear and distinct: Landergan v. Feast, 34 W. R. 691; 55 L. T. N. S. 42.

The statement of one partner on his examination (in a suit against the firm), as to transactions which occurred during the partnership binds all the partners,

Rule 756. unless they seek by examination of some of themselves to contradict or qualify the statements of the partner whose evidence they object to: Taylor v. Cook & Co., 11 P. R. 60.

In a foreclosure action, the statement of defence craved leave to refer to deeds mentioned in the statement of claim and, save as by such deeds when produced should appear, the defence did not admit that they were to the effect mentioned in the statement of claim. Upon motion for judgment under this Rule, the deeds being produced, it was held that there was a sufficient admission of the execution of the deeds, as they appeared to be of the dates, and made between the parties, mentioned in the statement of claim: Barnard v. Wieland, W. N. 1882, 103; 30 W. R. 947.

In an action on a covenant for payment in a mortgage, the defendant admitting the mortgage, submitted that the land should be sold and proceeds applied in payment of the plaintiff, or, he having sold the land to another who had assumed the mortgage, that if he was bound to pay the plaintiff he was entitled to an assignment of the mortgage, and judgment was given for the plaintiff under this Rule, it being held that the defendant as mortgagor was not entitled to an assignment: Crozier v. Alkenbach, 19 C. L. J. 79.

Judgment for possession was given against a mortgagor who admitted the mortgage and default simply: Trust & Loan Co. v. Hill, 9 P. R. 8; so where he admitted that his mortgage was in default and plaintiff was mortgagee, merely saying, in addition, that some one else was in possession: Padgett v. Binns, W. N. 1884, 10; see also Croft v. Collingwood, Ib. 33.

Where the plaintiff's claim is admitted, but the defendant sets up a counter-claim for damages for a larger amount, the plaintiff is not necessarily entitled to judgment upon the admission of his claim. Semble if the counter-claim is apparently frivolous or unsubstantial, the plaintiff would be entitled to have the amount of his claim brought into Court to await the result: Mersey Steamship Co. v. Shuttleworth, 10 Q. B. D. 468; affirmed in appeal 11 Q. B. D. 531. A judgment for the plaintiff was made, where the counter-claim was in fact an independent claim for damages as to the quality of other goods than those for the price of which the plaintiff was suing; but execution was directed to be stayed till after the trial, if the defendant should pay the amount of judgment into Court: Showell v. Bowron, W. N. 1883, 50; 31 W. R. 550; 48 L. T. N. S. 613; 52 L. J. Q. B. 284.

In Coddington v. Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railway Co., 39 L. T. N. S. 12, the plaintiff claimed a charge upon certain bonds of a foreign state which were deposited in the bank to the credit of the cause. The defendants, in their answer, admitted the plaintiff's title, and an order was made, before the hearing, for the sale of the bonds as perishable goods within the meaning of Rule 1133.

Under this Rule in a partition action, an inquiry was directed as to the persons interested in the property: Gilbert v. Smith, 2 Ch. D. 686; an order for sale was made: Burnell v. Burnell, 11 Ch. D. 213; an order was made for taking the accounts of partnership dealings: Turquand v. Wilson, 1 Ch. D. 85; the agent of the trustees of a will was ordered to deliver up all securities relating to the testator's estate, and to account for all sums received on behalf of the estate: Rumsey v. Reade, 1 Ch. D. 643; and an order for a dissolution of a partnership: Thorp v. Holdsworth, 3 Ch. D. 637; see also Bennett v. Moore, 1 Ch. D. 692; Martin v. Gale, 4 Ch. D. 428. Probably also the common application for payment into Court by an accounting party of a sum admitted to be in his hands may now, at any rate before judgment, be made in Chambers under this Rule, though formerly made in Court: Re Curry, 8 P. R. 340. As to what is a sufficient admission for this purpose, see Re Curry, supra; Re Babcock, 8 Gr. 409; Collins v. Orme, 3 Chy. Ch. 70; London Syndicate v. Lord, 8 Ch. D. 84; Freeman v. Cox, Ib. 148; Symonds v. Jenkins, 34 L. T. N. S. 277.

Admissions in letters written by a trustee before, and after, action brought, that he has received trust funds, and the recital of that fact in the settlement, the execution of which by the trustee has been proved, are sufficient admissions to support an order for payment into Court, although there is no formal admission in the pleadings: Hampden v. Wallis, 27 Ch. D. 251; see also Porrett v. White, 31 Ch. D. 52. Rules 757, 758.

The Court can, on an interlocutory application, when it has before it the parties to an account, look at all the facts of the case, and use its discretion as to disallowing charges to which the party making them is clearly not entitled, and will order payment into Court of the sum which it thus decides to be plainly due to the other party: Wanklyn v. Wilson, 35 Ch. D. 180.

A foreclosure decree was refused where the defence did not admit the mortgage deed: Davies v. Smith, 29 Sol. Jour. 115 [or Smith v. Davies, 29 Sol. Jour. 132]: see W. N. 1884, 242; 52 L. T. N. S. 19.

Where a solicitor put in a fraudulent defence for his client, without the knowledge of the client making admissions on which judgment was obtained against the client, the judgment was set aside and the client allowed to withdraw the defence and put in a fresh one: Williams v. Preston, 20 Ch. D. 672.

It seems that in England, as a matter of form, further directions cannot be reserved; but the same object is accomplished by declaring that the further consideration of the action is adjourned: Bennett v. Moore, 1 Ch. D. 692; Gilbert v. Smith, 2 Ch. D. 686; Brassington v. Cussons, 24 W. R. 881. No difficulty of that kind would seem to arise here, (see Rule 758), and where the motion is made in Chambers the motion on further directions should also be made in Chambers: McGillicuddy v. McCarthy, 7 C. L. T. 165.

Pending application turned into motion for judgment, or hearing of cause.

757. Where it is made to appear to the Court or a Judge, on the hearing of any application which may be pending before the Court or Judge, that it will be conducive to the ends of justice to permit it, the Court or Judge may direct the application to be turned into a motion for judgment, or a hearing of the cause or matter; and thereupon the Court or Judge may make such order as to the time and manner of giving the evidence in the cause or matter, and with respect to the further prosecution thereof, as the circumstances of the case may require; and upon the hearing it shall be discretionary with the Court or Judge to either pronounce a judgment or make such order as the Court or Judge deems expedient. J. A. Rule 323.

Same in effect as the Chancery Order 614. There is no corresponding English Rule.

See this Rule applied in Byrne v. Box, 2 C. L. T. 47.

If cause not set down on F. D. within 14 days after confirmation of report, any party interested may set down and give notice.

758. Where further directions have been reserved, if the party having the conduct of the action does not set the same down by way of motion for judgment on further directions, and serve notice thereof within 14 days after the confirmation of the Master's report, any other party affected by the report may set the same down, and serve notice of the motion. Chy. O., 419.

Evidence taken in the Master's office cannot be read on a hearing on further directions: Gould v. Burritt, 11 Gr. 234; Curling v. Austin, 2 Dr. & Sm. 129; McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271. But on the question of costs reserved, the Court will look at an order made on appeal from the report, and also

Court on F. D., may refuse to act on report, or to carry out an erroneous judgment.

The Court may, on a hearing of the cause on further directions, refuse to act upon a report, although it be confirmed, if it appears to be improper, or unsatisfactory: Taylor v. Craven, 10 Gr. 488; Baldwin v. Crawford, 1 Gr. 202; Harrison v. McShechan, 80 L. T. Jour. 79; and it may also refuse to carry out the original judgment pronounced in the action, if it appears to have been improvidently granted: see Commercial Bank v. Graham, 4 Gr. 419; Mitchell v. Strathy, 28 Gr. 80.

A judgment pronounced by a single Judge on a hearing on further directions, is not appealable to a Divisional Court; Wansley v. Smallwood, 10 P. R. 233; except by consent: Rule 219.

Judgments where settled.

759. All judgments ~~delivered~~ in Toronto ~~or elsewhere than at the place of trial~~ shall be settled when necessary by a Registrar.

The Registrar here referred to is the Registrar of the Division in which the action, or matter, is pending.

When a judgment is pronounced, or an order made, by the Court, a note is taken by the Registrar or other officer attending the Court for the purpose, and a similar note is indorsed by counsel on their briefs; and from these notes the draft or minute of the judgment, or order, is prepared.

Judgments pronounced on circuit, are, when necessary, to be settled by the Deputy Registrar, Deputy Clerk, or Local Registrar: Rule 761.

Appointment to settle.

The party desiring to enter the judgment, or issue an order, the minutes of which require to be first settled, usually in practice prepares a draft, and attends the Registrar, or other officer authorized to settle the minutes of the judgment or order, for an appointment to settle it. The Registrar or other officer will, however, if required, himself prepare the draft of the judgment or order, and when it is ready will issue the appointment to settle it, if he shall deem one necessary. See Rule 762.

On the return of the appointment, the parties notified are to attend and make any objections they may have to the draft, which are disposed of by the Registrar, or the officer settling the minutes, who then marks the draft settled, and adds his initials. The minutes having been settled, the judgment, or order, is then engrossed, and having been compared with the draft and passed, it is then signed or marked by the Registrar, or other officer, who has settled the minutes for entry.

Appointment to pass.

Where the Registrar or other officer thinks it necessary he may give an appointment to pass; e.g., when any blanks have been left in the draft; or the terms of the order, or judgment, are complicated, and there is any danger of error in transcribing the draft. The passing of the judgment, or order, is merely the act of comparing the engrossment with the draft and seeing that it agrees with it, and signing and marking it for entry.

Registrar may make alterations.

The Registrar or other officer in drawing up, or settling any judgment or order, may introduce such alterations as from his experience he believes the Court will sanction; and these alterations are binding on the parties: see Davenport v. Stafford, 8 Beav. 503; Hargrave v. Hargrave, 3 Mac. & G. 348; Seton, 1546; McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200.

Where questions of difficulty arise, the Registrar may require the matter to be mentioned to the Court.

Varying minutes.

Motion to vary minutes.—After the draft or minutes have been settled by the Registrar, or other officer, but not before, any party dissatisfied may move to vary the minutes; and the Registrar, or other officer, should be previously informed of the application: Prince v. Howard, 14 Beav. 208; Hood v. Cooper, 26 Beav. 373; Tennant v. Trenchard, L. R. 4 Chy. 537, 545; British Dynamite Co. v. Krebs, 25 W. R. 846; and such application may be made at any time before the judgment, or order, is passed and entered; 1 Turn. & Ven. 319;

Danl. Pr. 875; Seton 1546. The notice of motion should be served on all parties interested, and state the alteration desired. Rule 789.

The Court may refuse to permit any question to be argued on a motion to vary the minutes, except what was the actual order made, and whether the intention of the Court has been correctly expressed: South Wales Min. Co. v. Davies, 31 Sol. Jour. 110; unless both parties consent to an addition being made, or when it cannot be ascertained what order was pronounced; in which cases the Court may allow the case to be re-argued: see Seton 1546; Hendrie v. Beatty, 29 Gr. 423. The Court has, however, on a motion to vary minutes, varied the decree: Johnson v. School Trustees, 26 Gr. 204; and until a judgment has been actually entered a Judge may recall, or alter the judgment: Glasgow v. Glasgow, 9 Ont. 511, note; Canadian Loan Co. v. Dysart, Ib.; Re Suffield & Watts, 20 Q. B. D. at p. 697; Re Adam Eyton, 36 Ch. D. 299, and other cases in notes to Rule 780.

Any variation made on a motion to vary the minutes is embodied in the draft, and except where the costs of the motion are ordered to be paid, no further order need be drawn up by any party. Costs of motion.

If there is fair ground for the application, and there has been no improper opposition, the costs are usually made costs in the cause, and the judgment, or order, may be post-dated so as to include the costs of the day: see Seton 1546.

Where an order has been made in Chambers it cannot be drawn up as a Court order, even though the case be one which might have properly been argued in Court, unless both the parties and the Court consent: Re Henning, 11 P. R. 272.

Where the minutes have been settled by a Local Officer they may be varied either on application to a judgment clerk, or on motion to "the Judge," presumably the Judge who pronounced the judgment: Rule 761.

Where, after judgment was pronounced, a mistake was discovered in the statement of claim, on a subsequent application to amend the statement of claim, the judgment was directed to be post-dated as of a day subsequent to the amendment: Winkley v. Winkley, 44 L. T. N. S. 572.

Under the former practice, if the suit abated after decree pronounced, or between hearing and judgment, the decree might be passed and entered notwithstanding the abatement of the suit: Seton, 1547; Beamish v. Pomeroy, 1 Chy. Ch. 32. Abatement.

A party not producing his briefs when required, was ordered to do so within a limited time, and in default the order was to be drawn up without them: Yeatman v. Read, 14 W. R. 123.

A solicitor who has been discharged by his client before the passing and entry of an order, will not be allowed to withhold papers on which he claims to hold a lien, so as to prevent the drawing up or entry of the order: Simmonds v. G. E. Ry. Co., L. R. 3 Chy. 797; Clifford v. Turrill, 2 D. & S. 1.

An appointment to settle minutes, served one day and returnable the next, was sufficient under the former practice: Re Christmas, 19 Beav. 519. No time is prescribed by the Rules within which a judgment or order is to be bespoken, and issued,—under the former practice a time was limited by Chy. Ord. 10, 11: see Holmested's Rules & Ords. 8; and after the lapse of the prescribed time the judgment or order was not to be issued without leave—but this practice was not very strictly followed. After the lapse of four years' notice of the application to issue an order was required to be given to all parties: Re Forrester, Messnier v. Forrester, 1 Chy. Ch. 29.

Entry of Judgments and Orders.—Before an order requiring entry can be enforced by attachment for disobedience, it must be entered, and such entry should have been made before the expiry of the time limited by the order for doing the act thereby ordered to be done: Ballard v. Tomlinson, 48 L. T. N. S. 515.

Proceedings under a judgment, or, order requiring entry, before it has been entered, are irregular and voidable: Telson v. Jervis, 8 Beav. 366; Drummond

LAW LIBRARY

Rules 760-762.

v. Anderson, 3 Gr. 150. Although in the case of injunctions and restraining orders, parties are bound by notice of the restraining order, however received, from the time when it is pronounced: Seton, 174.

Time for entry.

By English Gen. Ord. of 4th December, 1691, all orders pronounced in Michaelmas or Hilary Terms, or the vacations following, were to be entered before the first day of the ensuing Michaelmas Term; and all orders pronounced in Easter or Trinity Terms, or the following vacations, were to be entered before the first day of the ensuing Term. This order is considered to be still in force in England: see Seton, 1547. Whether it is binding here seems doubtful: Rule 3; see, however, Jud. Act, ss. 22, 56.

Entry nunc pro tunc.

Orders may be made to enter judgments, or orders nunc pro tunc: Donne v. Lewis, 11 Ves, 601; Lawrence v. Richmond, 1 J. & W. 241. But when a defendant would be prejudiced by such an order it will be refused: Drummond v. Anderson, 3 Gr. 150.

Varying judgment.

After a judgment, or order, has been passed, and entered, it can, as a general rule, only be varied on appeal or rehearing: see Pepper v. Pepper, W. N. 1868, 104; Re Robinson, W. N. 1873, 28; Andrews v. Bohannon, W. N. 1869, 80; Teil v. Barlow, 3 D. J. & S. 426; Mason v. Seney, 2 Chy. Ch. 30; Moffatt v. Hyde, 6 U. C. L. J. 94; Simmers v. Erb, 21 Gr. 289; but where the applicant has neglected to move to vary the minutes in the usual way, the amendment will only be granted on payment by the applicant of all costs: Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 30 Ch. D. 239; 53 L. T. N. S. 205. In cases of clerical mistakes, or errors arising from any accidental slip or omission, a judgment or order may be corrected on motion, without appeal: Rule 780. So also a judgment may be amended on motion where it has been obtained by default: see Kline v. Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; or on præcipe: Nelles v. Vandyke, 17 Gr. 14.

Registrars may confer.

760. The Registrars may confer together in settling minutes of judgments.

When judgments settled by Dep. Reg.

761. All judgments delivered ~~at the place of trial other~~ elsewhere than at Toronto, shall be settled when necessary by the Deputy Registrar, Deputy Clerk or Local Registrar, at the place of trial; subject to the right of any party affected to apply upon notice to the other parties interested to one of the Judgment Clerks, or to the Judge, to vary the minutes.

Appointments to settle minutes or pass orders, how to be issued.

762. No notice of settling minutes, or passing a judgment or order is to be given unless by direction of the officer by whom the judgment or order is to be settled, nor until the proposed minutes of the judgment or order have been prepared by, or delivered to the officer by whom the same is to be settled; the notice (where the officer deems a notice proper) is to be by an appointment signed by him, a copy whereof is to be served; the proposed minutes shall remain in his office for inspection until settled or passed, and any party may take a copy thereof. Chy. O. 12, 596.

The Registrar, or other officer, may dispense with notice of settling or passing if he think fit; but except where the order or judgment is simple, notice is usually required to be given; the minutes must be first prepared, and left with the Registrar, or other officer (see Rule 761), and an appointment obtained from him: see Rule 759 note.

An appointment served one day for the next is sufficient: Re Christmas, 19 Beav. 519.

Rules 763-765. Procedure where party makes default.

763. Where a notice is given to settle minutes, or to pass a judgment or order, and the party served attends thereon, but the party giving the notice does not attend, or is not prepared to proceed, the officer settling the judgment or order may proceed ex parte to settle the minutes, or pass the judgment or order, or may in his discretion order the party giving the notice to pay to the other party the costs of his attendance; or if a party served asks for delay, the officer may grant the delay on such terms as he thinks reasonable as to payment of costs or otherwise. Chy. O. 13.

Where either party does not attend, it would seem that the officer is not justified in proceeding ex parte until the lapse of a half an hour from the time appointed: Rule 481.

8. Entry of Judgments and Orders.

Judgment pronounced in Court.

764. Every judgment whether pronounced by the Court or signed by default shall be drawn up and signed by a Registrar, Local Registrar, Deputy Registrar or Deputy Clerk of the Crown, as the case may require. J. A. Rule 326, first part. (a)

Date of judgment.

765. Every judgment pronounced by the Court shall be dated as of the day on which such judgment is pronounced, and shall take effect from that date, unless otherwise directed by the Court or a Judge, [and shall also bear upon its face the date upon which it is signed.] See J. A. Rule 326.

(a) Every judgment signed by default shall be dated on the day on which it is signed. See J. A. Rule 327.

The words in brackets are new.

Otherwise the same as the first part of Eng. R. 1875, O. 41, r. 2. The Rule of 1883 (R. 571), introduces a provision for ante-dating or post-dating a judgment by leave.

See Rule 891, and Winkley v. Winkley, 44 L. T. N. S. 572.

This Rule does not apply when the judgment itself regulates the entry: McLaren v. Canada Central, 10 P. R. 328, where the judgment was, "I direct judgment to be entered after the 5th day of Hilary Sittings for $100,000."

Where a judgment is varied by a Divisional Court the judgment should be entered as of the date on which the Divisional Court pronounced judgment: Beckett v. G. T. Ry. Co. 12 P. R. 377.

Orders in Chambers should be dated on the day on which they are finally made: Ashley v. Taylor, 27 W. R. 228.

In Lyon v. Tweddell, 44 L. T. N. S. 785; 50 L. J. Chy. 571; 17 C. L. J. 367, it was held, that where dissolution of a partnership was asked, it should be decreed from the judgment, not from the issue of the writ.

Rules 766-770. Forms.

766. The forms in Part X. of the Appendix may be used for judgments, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 325.

This Rule is identical with the last sentence of the Eng. R. 1875, O. 4, 2 r. 1, (1883, R. 569). The English Rule also provides for the entry in a book, and for a copy of the pleadings being delivered to the officer by the party entering the judgment; the English practice being that pleadings are not filed in the first instance, but simply delivered between the parties. The practice in this Province has been to file them; and this is still the practice here under the new system: Rule 398.

For form of judgment against executors: see Huyck v. Proctor, 10 P. R. 26.

An order made by consent, and not with the sanction or direction of the Court, should contain a statement on its face that it is by consent: Michel v. Mutch, 34 W.R. 251; 54 L. T. N. S. 45; 55 L. J. Chy. 485.

Immediate judgment.

767. In all cases the judgment pronounced by the Court may be signed and entered forthwith, unless otherwise ordered. New.

Entry on affidavit, etc.

768. Where it is provided that any judgment may be signed upon the filing of any affidavit or production of any document, the officer shall examine the affidavit or document produced, and if the same be regular and contain all that is by law required, he shall enter judgment accordingly. J. A. Rule 328.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 41, r. 4, (1883, R. 575).

Entry on order or certificate.

769. Where any judgment may be signed pursuant to any order or certificate, or return to any writ, the production of such order or certificate, sealed with the seal of the Court, or of such return, shall be a sufficient authority to the officer to sign judgment accordingly. J. A. Rule 329.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 41, r. 5, (1883, R. 573).

Orders obtained on condition deemed to be abandoned so far as beneficial to party obtaining unless condition performed.

770. In all cases where a person or party obtains a judgment or order from the Court, or from a Master, upon condition, and fails to perform or comply with the condition, he is to be considered to have waived or abandoned the judgment or order, as far as the same is beneficial to himself, and any other party or person interested in the matter, on the breach or non-performance of the condition, may either take such proceedings as the judgment or order in such case may warrant, or such proceedings as might have been taken if the judgment or order had not been made. Chy. O. 196.

Where a plaintiff gave notice of trial for 2nd October, and on 23rd September the defendant obtained an order postponing the trial on payment of costs, it was held to be a conditional order not staying plaintiff's proceedings, and one which the defendant was at liberty to abandon without paying any costs except those of the application: Allen v. Mathers, 9 P. R. 477; Pugh v. Kern, 5 M. & W. 164; Brega v. Hodgson, 4 P. R. 47; Horton v. Westminster Commissioners, 7 Ex. 911. Rules 771-774.

771. It shall not be necessary in any judgment or order to reserve liberty to apply, but any party may apply to the Court from time to time as he may be advised; and where any judgment or order directs the payment of money out of Court, it shall not be necessary to direct that a cheque be drawn for the purpose. Chy. O. 186. Liberty to apply, need not be reserved.

It is said that all orders of the Court carry with them in gremio liberty to apply to the Court, per Fry, J., Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542; 42 L. T. N. S. 225. But this liberty was held not to be implied in orders of a final nature: Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353; 48 L. T. N. S. 868; nor, in favour of defendant, in an order dismissing an action, except for the purpose of enforcing the terms of the order: Huntley v. Link, 26 Sol. Jour. 59.

Where costs of an interlocutory motion were reserved "until the hearing or other final disposition of the cause," and an order was subsequently made allowing a demurrer to the plaintiff's bill for want of equity, but the costs of the interlocutory motion were not then asked for, it was held that a subsequent application might be made to the Court to amend the order by directing the allowance of the costs reserved: St Michael's College v. Merrick, 26 Gr. 216; 18 C. L. J. 130; Viney v. Chaplin, 3 D. G. & J. 281; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542; Blakey v. Hall, 56 L. T. N. S. 400; and see Gosnell v. Bishop, 38 Ch. D. 385. Costs reserved to trial may be subsequently disposed of.

772. Every judgment shall be entered at full length in a book to be kept for that purpose. Entry of judgment.

773. No order of course, and no order obtained ex parte and not being of a special nature, is to be entered in full unless so directed by the Court or a Judge; but this provision is not to be construed as applying to judgments, orders in the nature of judgments, or to final orders for sale, or foreclosure. Chy. O. 195. Orders of course, and orders obtained ex parte, not to be entered unless directed.

See Rules 774, 991. An order of which there was no entry, and of which the original was lost, was directed to be redrawn: Ex parte Dean of St. Paul's, 18 W. R. 724. Lost order, may be redrawn.

Inasmuch as this Rule expressly prescribes that certain orders are not to be entered in full, it would seem to follow that all orders which do not come within the class mentioned must be so entered. This is in accordance with the former practice in Chancery.

774. No orders of course, or orders made in Chambers, are to be entered in full, except: Orders required to be entered in Chambers.

Judgments issued upon Præcipe;
Judgments against Infants;
Orders declaring persons Lunatics;
" for Administration;
" for Partition;
" for the Sale of Infants' Estates;

Rules 775, 776.

Orders for Payment of Money into or out of Court;
" for Foreclosure or Sale;
" of Revivor;
Vesting Orders;

and such other orders as may from time to time, in any particular case or otherwise, be directed to be entered. Chy. O. 594.

Judgments and orders to be entered.

Judgments for foreclosure, or sale, in mortgage suits, and orders for administration, or partition, when pronounced in Chambers, must be drawn up as judgments and be entered in the judgment book either of the Registrar of the Division in which the action is pending, or of the proper local officer in the same manner as other judgments: Rule 546.

The other orders, not being judgments, enumerated in this Rule are entered by the Entering Clerk in Chambers.

Where an order, which had not been entered, was lost, it was directed to be redrawn: Ex parte Dean of St Paul's, 18 W. R. 724. No proceedings can properly be taken upon a judgment or order required to be entered, until it has been entered: see Ballard v. Tomlinson, 48 L. T. N. S. 515. But where an administration judgment had been issued before being entered, and was subsequently entered after proceedings had been taken under it, such proceedings were upheld: Re Morphy, Morphy v. Niren, 11 P. R. 321.

Entering.

775. The Entering Clerk is to note in the margin of the judgment or order book the day of entering a judgment or order, and is at the foot of the judgment or order to note the same date, and the book in which the entry has been made and the pages of such book. Chy. O. 32.

9. Form of Judgments and Orders, Etc.

General form of judgment for foreclosure or sale.

776. Judgments for foreclosure or sale, where a reference is required, are, after the proper recitals hitherto in use, to direct, in general terms, that all necessary inquiries be made, accounts taken, costs taxed, and proceedings had for redemption or foreclosure, (or for redemption or sale, as the case may be) and that for these purposes the cause is referred to (naming the Master); and a judgment so expressed is to be read and construed as if the same set forth the particulars contained in Rules 124 to 134 and Rule 353. Chy. O. 441.

Judgments under Judicature Act for foreclosure or sale, effect of.

Judgments for foreclosure, or sale, since The Judicature Act have been authorized to be drawn in a similar form to that prescribed by Chy. Ord. 441, from which this Rule is taken: see App. Forms, Nos. 182, 183. The former Rules did not expressly state that judgments so worded were to have the effect which Chy. O. 441 stated they should have, but in McDougall v. Lindsay, 10 P. R. 248, it was held that such was the effect of judgments so drawn; and in addition to the provisions of the Chy. Ords. 442-454, there was also now incorporated in all such judgments the further provisions contained in original Rules 331, 336, so far as applicable to each particular case. When a sale was ordered, original Rule 331 provided that the Master might sell by public auction, private contract, or tender, as he might think best. He might also, at the meeting held for settling the advertisement, fix a reserved bid which was required to be notified in the conditions of sale. The Master was also to settle all necessary conveyances, in case any infants, or lunatics, were interested, or the parties differed. Original Rule 336 also provided for reconveyances, and delivery of documents, by any party redeemed. Rules 777-779.

Where the circumstances of the case are special, a judgment in the ordinary form prescribed by this Rule would not be appropriate. Thus, where a tender was pleaded a special inquiry was directed on this point, and further directions, and costs, were reserved: Peers v. Allen, 19 Gr. 98. So also where the defendant pleaded payment in full, costs were reserved: Gooderham v. DeGrassi, 2 Gr. 135. In such cases, this must still be done, or the judgment must provide for the dismissal of the action in case the Master shall find in the defendant's favour. So also, where the defendants were rival claimants to the equity of redemption, special directions were inserted in the decree: Ramsey v. Thompson, 8 Gr. 372. In special cases.

When infants are defendants, a judgment of foreclosure must also ordinarily reserve a day to show cause: see Rule 717. Day to show cause

It is for the plaintiff himself to determine whether or not a reference is required. This will depend upon whether or not there are any subsequent incumbrances, of this he must satisfy himself by getting the proper certificates from the proper officers: see Rule 125. Where there are no subsequent incumbrancers, the account should be taken on entering the judgment, if the plaintiff take a reference to the Master unnecessarily, he cannot recover the extra costs so occasioned: Hamilton v. Howard, 4 Gr. 581; Purdy v. Parks, 9 P. R. 424. Reference to take account, when unnecessary.

The reference, if directed, should be made to a Master in the county where the writ issued: Macara v. Gwynne, 3 Gr. 310. But the reference may afterwards be changed on motion, for sufficient cause. Reference, when to be directed.

Where the plaintiff took a judgment without a reference, and, after obtaining a final order of foreclosure, discovered that there were subsequent incumbrances, the Court refused to make a supplemental judgment directing the usual accounts and inquiries against the incumbrancers, but amended the judgment by inserting the usual reference as to incumbrancers which had the effect of nullifying the previous proceedings: Wilgress v. Crawford, 12 P. R. 658.

777. Judgments and orders are to be divided into convenient paragraphs, and such paragraphs are to be numbered consecutively; and where accounts are directed to be taken, or inquiries to be made, the direction in that behalf may be in the form No. 187 in the Appendix, with such variation as the circumstances of the case require. Chy. O. 187. Orders to be divided into paragraphs.

778. In all judgments and orders, sums are to be stated in dollars and cents. Chy. O. 188. Sums to be stated in dollars and cents.

779. Every judgment or order shall show on its face the day of the week and month on which it was given or made, and (except judgments signed by default or upon an order for leave to sign judgment and orders of course), shall show the name or names of the Judge or Judges who gave or made the same. See Rules H. C. J. viii. Form of orders

Rule 780.

10. Variation of Judgments and Orders.

Correction of mistakes in judgments and orders.

780. Clerical mistakes in judgments or orders, or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission, may at any time be corrected by the Court or a Judge on motion without an appeal. J. A. Rule 338.

Identical with Eng. R. Dec., 1879, R. 5 (1883, R. 319), and substantially the same as Eng. Chy. O. 23, Rule 21, as to which see Morgan Chy. Acts and Orders, 4th ed., 493; Seton, 1547-8.

A record when passed and entered, can only be amended as provided by the Rules of Court: Blake v. Harvey, 29 Ch. D. 827.

Where a report or certificate is varied, it is not the practice to make any actual physical alteration in the document: see Fox v. Bearblock, 45 L. T. N. S. 469; 46 L. T. N. S. 145.

This Rule is based upon and supersedes Chy. Gen. Order 335, which was as follows:

"335. An application to amend an order which has not been drawn up in conformity with the judgment pronounced so as to make the same conformable thereto; and an application to correct any other clerical mistake in an order, or an error arising from an accidental slip or omission, may be made in Chambers on petition, and the Court may grant the same if under all the circumstances the Court sees fit."

What kind of errors corrected.

Under that Order a direction necessarily consequent upon the judgment, but omitted from the decree drawn up might be supplied, such as a direction (now unnecessary, see Rule 107), to settle a conveyance: Moffatt v. Hyde, 6 U. C. L. J. 94; Trevelyan v. Charter, 9 Beav. 140; or a reference as to title, in a decree for specific performance: Hughes v. Jones, 26 Beav. 24; and an error in an order arising from an error in the chief clerk's certificate which had escaped the notice of all parties: Eckersley v. Eckersley, W. N. 1884, 133; a foreclosure judgment in the form without a reference as to incumbrancers, it having been discovered that there was an incumbrancer: Wilgress v. Crawford, 12 P. R. 658; or other mistake or slip: Turner v. Hodgson, 9 Beav. 265; Askew v. Peddle, 14 Sim. 301; and see Eadie v. McEwen, 14 Gr. 404; see also Ex parte Straight, 16 W. R. 661; Andrews v. Bohannon, W. N. 1869, 80; Jefferys v. Smith, 11 W. R. 479; Re Glanville's Trusts, W. N. 1878, 21; Warman v. Zeal, W. N. 1871, 241; Re Tiel, 11 W. R. 351; but not any term which could only have been introduced by express direction of the Court, which was not given: Bird v. Heath, 6 Ha. 236; Whitehead v. North, Cr. & Ph. 78; nor any substantial addition except by consent: Willis v. Parkinson, 3 Sw. 233; but see Rule 781.

The application must, as a general rule, be on notice: Radenhurst v. Reynolds, 11 Gr. 521.

An error was corrected under this Rule, not because it did not correctly carry out the intention of the Court at the time, but because the parties were mistaken as to the fact upon which the judgment as it stood was founded: Barker v. Purvis, 31 Sol. Jour. 155; 56 L. T. N. S. 131. But in Klinck v. Ontario Loan & I. Co., before the Divisional Court, Ch. D., 28 June, 1889, it was considered that a Judge had no power to amend his judgment, after it had been formally issued, even on the ground of mistake, and an order made under such circumstances was vacated, and a new order to the like effect was made by the Divisional Court.

A motion to amend a decree in which the pleadings and evidence, or anything beyond the judgment pronounced, and the decree, is required to be looked at, must be made in Court: Lapp v. Lapp, 3 Chy. Ch. 234; 4 Chy. Ch. 3. As to how far the judgment may be varied: see Hendrie v. Beattie, 2 C. L. T. 102, and notes to Rule 759.

In Livingstone v. Wood, 29 Gr. 157, a decree directing an account was amended, by striking out a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to certain credits which had not formed a substantive part of the judgment, so as to make the decree conform to the actual judgment, and enable the credits to be further investigated in the Master's office. Rule 780.

A consent, judgment or order may be amended by striking out terms not consented to: Merchant's Bank v. Grant, 3 Chy. Ch. 64.

On motion under the corresponding English Rule, an order made under the Settled Estates' Act was varied, so as to dispense with consents of tenants for life to leasing powers granted: Re Riley's Trusts, 30 W. R. 78.

Where an order had been made on the petition of several persons, two of whom had not authorized it, the Court, under this Rule, amended the order by striking out the names of these two as petitioners, and treating them as not having been served with the petition: Re Savage, 15 Ch. D. 557.

Where the costs of a motion for an interim injunction having been reserved to the trial of the action, the plaintiff's counsel omitted to ask for them at the trial, and they were not provided for, it was held that the omission might be supplied under this Rule: Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542, 561. So, where the Judge inadvertently omitted to make any order as the costs of the action: Hardy v. Pickard, 12 P. R. 428. Supplying omissions. As to costs.

See for amendment of orders so as to provide for costs omitted by mistake: Blakey v. Hall, 56 L. J. Chy. 568; 56 L. T. N. S. 400; Viney v. Chaplin, 3 DeG. & J. 282; St. Michael's College v. Merrick, 26 Gr. 216.

In Lawrie v. Lees, 7 App. Cas. at p. 34, Lord Penzance said: "I cannot doubt that under the original powers of the Court, quite independent of any order that is made under the Judicature Act, every Court has the power to vary its own orders which are drawn up mechanically in the registry, or in the office of the Court, to vary them in such a way as to carry out its own meaning, and where language has been used which is doubtful to make it plain." Thus an alteration may be made so as to make the record truly contain what was adjudged: Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 30 Ch. D. 239, and if notice to vary is not given, and the Registrar notified thereof, before he issues the order, the applicant may have to pay costs: S. C. 53 L. T. N. S. 205. Varying judgment to carry out intention of the Court.

After a judgment by consent has been passed and entered, it cannot be afterwards amended, except for reasons sufficient to set aside an agreement on the ground of mistake: Atty.-Gen v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388; Davis v. Davis, 13 Ch. D. 861. But where parties had consented to a judgment establishing a will which afterwards turned out to be a forgery, it was held that they were not estopped from shewing the forgery, and setting aside the compromise judgment on that ground: Priestman v. Thomas, 9 P. D. 210. Mistake.

An interlocutory order consented to by mistake may be discharged, though the mistake was on one side only: Mullins v. Howell, 11 Ch. D. 763; and see Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259; but not because one of the parties finds it less beneficial than he expected: Cousineau v. London F. Ins. Co., 12 P. R. 512; Powell v. Smith, L. R. 14 Eq. 85; Midland v. Johnston, 6 H. L. C. 811.

Where an order has been made by consent, the consent given without mistake is binding, and cannot be withdrawn, even before the order is drawn up: Harvey v. Croydon, 26 Ch. D. 249; over-ruling S. C. W. N. 1883, 222; Elsas v. Williams, 52 L. T. N. S. 39; Re West Devon, etc., Mines, 38 Ch. D. 51, 55; Holt v. Jesse, 3 Ch. D. 177, and Rogers v. Horn, 26 W. R. 232, in which, as reported, it was held that the consent might be withdrawn before the order was passed and entered: see Williams v. Meakins, Crump. & Evans Chy. Pr. 562. Consent order.

After an order made declaring that children took per stirpes, it was discovered that this was contrary to authorities, and by arrangement the matters mentioned to the Court again, and an order altering the order so as to declare that they took per capita was made: Re Blackwell, Bridgman v. Blackwell, W. N. 1886, 97.

And where the decree did not direct the payment of costs "forthwith," and it did not appear that such a direction was intended by the judgment, an application to amend was refused: Wilson v. Robertson, 3 Chy. Ch. 100.

An order arranged by consent between the parties, and not directed by the Court, should show on its face that it is by consent: Michel v. Mutch, 34 W. R. 251; 54 L. T. N. S. 45; 55 L. J. Chy. 485.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

YORK UNIVERSITY

Rules 781, 782.

Counsel has full authority to compromise an action at the trial: Matthews v. Munster, 20 Q. B. D. 141; but see Watt v. Clark, 12 P. R. 359.

Reconsideration by the Judge.

A Judge can always reconsider his decision until the judgment or order is drawn up: Re St. Nazaire Co., 12 Ch. D. p. 91; Miller's Case, 3 Ch. D. 661; Atty.-Gen. v. Tomline, supra; Canada Land, etc., Co. v. Dysart, 9 Ont. 511; Glasgow v. Glasgow, Ib.; Re Suffield and Watts, 20 Q. B. D. at p. 697; Re Adam Eyton, 36 Ch. D. 299.

Amendment of judgment on præcipe.

A judgment entered on præcipe cannot be amended on application in Chambers, by inserting therein any special direction which could not properly be included in a judgment issued on præcipe: Ross v. Vader, 3 Chy. Ch. 29.

Liberty to apply.

Liberty to apply is implied, without being expressly reserved: Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542, 561, but only in orders not final: Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353. It is not implied in favour of a defendant against whom the action has been dismissed, except for the purpose of enforcing the terms of the order: Huntley v. Link, 26 Sol. Jour. 59.

As to amending judgments, by moving to vary the minutes, see notes to Rule 759.

Order made without jurisdiction.

An order made without jurisdiction, if not appealed against, must stand: West v. Downman, 27 W. R. 697; and a de facto judgment, which has not been set aside, cannot be objected to, as having been rendered ultra vires, in an action of trespass for acts done under it; see Bruce v. Canadian Bank of Commerce, before Osler, J., 26th September, 1882; Forester v. Thrasher, 9 P. R. 383.

Amendment as to matters on which there was no adjudication.

781. Where a judgment or order as drawn up requires amendment in any other particular on which the Court did not adjudicate, the same may be amended in open Court on petition without an appeal, if under all the circumstances the Court deems fit. Chy. O. 336.

Where the application was made after the time within which the cause could have been reheard without leave, it was held that the applicant need not apply for leave to move, but must, nevertheless, make out such a case as would be necessary, in order to obtain leave to rehear after the time had elapsed: O'Donoghue v. Hembroff, 19 Gr. 95.

Application by petition, to impeach judgments, etc.

782. Any party entitled to the variation or reversal of a judgment or order, upon the ground of matter arising subsequent to the making thereof, or subsequently discovered, or to impeach a judgment or order on the ground of fraud, or to suspend the operation of a judgment or order, or to carry a judgment or order into operation, is to proceed by petition in the cause, praying the relief which is sought, and stating the grounds upon which it is claimed. Chy. O. 330.

In England, where no such practice as that prescribed by this Rule is in force, it is held by analogy to the former practice, that in order to set aside a judgment obtained by fraud, a new action must now be brought: Flower v. Lloyd, 6 Ch. D. 297.

On petition under Chy. Ord. 330, security required.

Formerly a person presenting a petition under this Chy. Ord. 330, from which this Rule is taken, in a case where formerly a bill of review, or a bill in the nature of a bill of review, should have been filed, was required to give security for costs: Sadlier v. Doyle, before Proudfoot, V.C., 19 and 26 Nov. 1877, and see Beames' Orders, pp. 314, 366, and see Canadian Order in Chy. 12th July, 1844, lxxix; but see Chy. Ord. 1; but it would seem that no such security is now required to be given unless expressly ordered.

Leave to file a petition under this Rule is not necessary in any case: Duggan v. McKay, 1 Chy. Ch. 380. Rules 783, 784.

For cases in which petitions have been presented under Chy. Ord. 330: see Bank of Upper Canada v. Wallace, 16 Gr. 280; Brouse v. Stayner, 16 Gr. 1; Dumble v. Cobourg & P. R. W. Co., 29 Gr. 121; Mason v. Seney, 12 Gr. 143; Colonial Trusts v. Cameron, 21 Gr. 70; Robson v. Wride, 14 Gr. 606; 15 Gr. 565.

Petitions to Impeach Judgment on the Ground of Fraud.—A bill of this kind was, prior to Chy. Ord. 330, proper, where a decree had been obtained by fraud. Where the decree, however, had also been affirmed by the House of Lords, it would seem to have been necessary that application should be first made to the House of Lords for directions: Shedden v. Patrick, 1 Macq. H. L. C. 535, and see Tommey v. White, 4 H. L. C. 313. Petitions to impeach judgments on ground of fraud.

Petitions to Suspend the Operation of a Judgment.—Bills of this kind were formerly necessary whenever it was sought to stay the execution of a decree: e.g., where an appeal was pending from the decree. But relief of this kind has, since Chy. Ord. 330, been granted on motion in Chambers, without even a petition: Campbell v. Edwards, 6 P. R. 159; Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 418. In such cases security was generally required to be given: Ib. The staying proceedings pending an appeal is discretionary. In a case where the Court refused to stay proceedings pending an appeal from an order allowing a demurrer, it directed that an answer filed should not prejudice the appeal: McMurray v. Grand Trunk R. W., 3 Chy. Ch. R. 125. Petitions to suspend operation of judgment.

Petitions to Carry a Judgment into Operation.—Bills of this kind were sometimes necessary where the parties had neglected to proceed upon the decree, and their rights under it had become embarrassed by subsequent events, and it was necessary to have them settled by the decree of the Court. See Mitford Pleadings, 3rd ed., 75. Petition to carry judgment into operation.

Petitions of Review.—Prior to Chy. Ord. 330, where a party sought to impeach a decree, either for error in law appearing in the body of the decree, without further examination of matters of fact, or in respect of some new matters arising after the decree; or on new evidence discovered after decree made, which could not possibly have been used when the decree was pronounced; in such cases, where the decree had been enrolled, a bill of review was filed, and where it had not been enrolled, a bill in the nature of a bill of review was the proper proceeding. Petition of review.

When the bill was filed on the ground of error, it was necessary to specifically assign the error complained of, and it must have been an error of law, apparent on the face of the decree, and not a mere error of judgment: Green v. Jenkins, 6 Jur. N. S. 515, e.g.: It could not be assigned for error that any matter had been decreed contrary to the proofs: Mellish v. Williams, 1 Vern. 166; and see Rule 786. When bill filed on ground of error, error of law must be apparent on face of decree.

For cases since The Judicature Act: see Synod v. De Blaquiere, 10 P. R. 11; Bank of B. N. A. v. Western Ins. Co., 11 P. R. 434.

783. The petition is to be verified by affidavit, and served upon the solicitors of all parties interested; and in case a party has no solicitor, then upon the party. Chy. O. 331. Petition to be verified and served on all parties interested.

See note to Rule 782.

784. Upon the copy of the petition served is to be indorsed the following memorandum or notice: "If you do not appear on the petition the Court will make such order on the petitioner's own shewing as shall appear just, in your absence; and if this petition is served personally, you Notice to be indorsed on copy served.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rules 785-787.

will not receive any notice of the future proceedings on the petition." Chy. O. 332.

See note to Rule 782.

Hearing of petition.

785. Upon the hearing of the petition, the Court may either make a final order, or direct the petition to stand over, with liberty to the parties interested in sustaining the judgment or order to file a special answer to the same; and may make such order as to the production of further proof, and the manner thereof, and the further hearing of the petition, as the Court deems meet. Chy. O. 332.

See note to Rule 782.

The respondent may file affidavits in answer to the petition, without first obtaining the leave of the Court: Robson v. Wride, 14 Gr. 606; 15 Gr. 565.

Evidence required when reversal sought on new matter.

786. Where the reversal or variation of order is sought upon new matter, such proof as would have been requisite upon a motion to file a bill of review must be supplied. Chy. O. 334.

See note to Rule 782.

Proof requisite to support bill of review.

The rule as to the proof requisite upon a motion to file a bill of review was thus laid down in the Privy Council, in Hosking v. Terry, 8 Jur. N. S. 977: "The rule which we collect from the cases cited in the argument is this, that the party who applies for permission to file a bill of review, on the ground of having discovered new evidence, must show that the matter so discovered has come to the knowledge of himself and his agents, for the first time since the period at which he could have made use of it, and that it could not, with reasonable diligence, have been discovered sooner; and secondly that it is of such a character, that if it had been brought forward in the suit, it might probably have altered the judgment." See also Mason v. Seney, 12 Gr. 143.

11. Entry of Satisfaction.

Satisfaction of judgments, entry of.

787. In order to acknowledge satisfaction of a judgment, it shall be requisite only to produce a satisfaction piece in form as hereinafter mentioned, and such satisfaction piece shall be signed by the party or parties acknowledging the same or their personal representatives, and their signatures shall be witnessed by some practising solicitor, expressly named by him or them, and attending at his or their request to inform him or them of the nature and effect of such satisfaction piece before the same is signed; which solicitor shall declare himself in the attestation thereto to be the solicitor for the person so signing the same, and state he is witness as such solicitor (provided that a Judge at Chambers may make an order dispensing with such signature under special circumstances, if he thinks fit); and in cases where the satisfaction piece is signed by the personal representative of a party deceased, his representative character shall be proved by the production of the probate of the will, or of the letters of administration, to the officer in custody of the judgment. Rules T. T. 1856, 64. Rules 788, 789.

See App. Form No. 214. The plaintiff's signature may be dispensed with, and his solicitor in the cause be authorized to acknowledge satisfaction, upon proof that the solicitor is authorized by the plaintiff to arrange the claim, and that the delay in obtaining the plaintiff's signature would be prejudical: Rudall v. Hurd, 3 U. C. L. J. 14; Pawson v. Wrightman, 2 U. C. L. J. 184; so also when the amount of the judgment is small and the plaintiff resides out of the jurisdiction: Bank of Montreal v. Cronk, 3 U. C. L. J. 32; or when the plaintiff resides abroad and has given his solicitor written authority to acknowledge satisfaction for him: Darling v. Wright, 3 U. C. L. J. 50. When a satisfaction piece is executed before an attorney of another Province, a certificate of his due admission must be produced, and his signature duly verified: Moss v. Dayly, 3 U. C. L. J. 74; signature before a practising attorney of a foreign country is a sufficient compliance with this Rule: Abernethy v. Beddome, 6 P. R. 162.

An order to enter up satisfaction will not be granted where it is not clear that the judgment has been satisfied: Lewine v. Savage, 3 U. C. L. J. 89.

After the judgment has been satisfied, the plaintiff's solicitor cannot be compelled by defendant to procure a satisfaction piece to be executed by his client; but the solicitor may be ordered to disclose his client's place of residence, so that the defendant may tender a satisfaction piece for execution, and if the plaintiff refuse to sign it he may be ordered to do so: Carr v. Coulter, 2 P. R. 226.

The arrest of one of several defendants on a ca. sa. and his subsequent discharge with the consent of the plaintiff, operates as a satisfaction of the judgment, even though the plaintiff at the time of the discharge expressly stipulated that his other remedies on the judgment were not to be impaired: Hamilton v. Holcomb, 7 U. C. L. J. 40; where a vendor after recovering judgment for his purchase money, subsequently cancels the contract of sale, that operates as a satisfaction of the judgment: Cameron v. Bradbury, 9 Gr. 67.

788. Every satisfaction piece shall be entered in the office where the judgment is entered. Rules T. T. 1856, 65. Satisfaction piece where to be entered.

12. Motions Against Verdicts or Judgments.

In England there is a special provision for motions for a new trial in jury cases in the Q. B., C. P., and Ex. D., and not in the Chy. D. The Ontario Act does not preserve the distinction provided for by the English Act in the jurisdiction, and consequent practice of the various Divisions.

789. Where there has been a trial by a jury, any application for a new trial shall be to a Divisional Court. J. A. Rule 307. Application to Div. Court.

The Eng. R. Dec. 1876, R. 5, was to the same effect. Eng. R. 1883, R. 551, is different.

This Rule embraces every application for a new trial, after a trial by jury, and therefore includes interpleader proceedings: Cole v. Campbell, 9 P. R. 498; Robinson v. Tucker, 14 Q. B. D. 371, over-ruling Burstall v. Bryant, 12 Q. B. D. 103, and applies to cases in the Chy. Div. tried by a jury: Hespeler v. Beck, 4 C. L. T. 41.

Rules 798 and 799, make provision for motions respecting the trial, or verdict, other than by way of motion for a new trial.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rules 790, 791. For the different grounds on which a new trial may be granted, see note to Rule 791.

As to motions for a new trial, where a case has been tried without a jury, see notes to Rule 798.

Grounds to be stated in order nisi for new trial.

790. In every notice of motion for a new trial the grounds upon which the motion is to be made shall be shortly stated therein; but in case of any omission the Court may permit the notice to be amended and served again on such terms as are deemed reasonable. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 288.

A notice of motion for a new trial on the ground of misdirection, or non-direction, should state how and in what matter the Judge misdirected, or failed to direct the jury: Pfeiffer v. Midland Ry. Co.; 18 Q. B. D. 243; Mugatt v. Smith, 12 P. D. 116; Scott v. Crerar, 11 Ont. 541; Furlong v. Reid, 12 P. R. 201; see 12 Ont. 607. Amendment may be allowed in a proper case, but was refused in Furlong v. Reid.

Restrictions on new trials.

791. A new trial shall not be granted on the ground of misdirection or of the improper admission or rejection of evidence, [or because the verdict of the jury was not taken upon a question which the Judge at the trial was not asked to leave to them] unless in the opinion of the Court to which the application is made some substantial wrong or miscarriage has been thereby occasioned in the trial of the action; and if it appears to such Court that such wrong or miscarriage affects part only of the matter in controversy, [or some or one only of the parties], the Court may give final judgment as to part thereof [or as to some or one only of the parties], and direct a new trial as to the other part only [or as to the other party or parties]. J. A. Rule 311; Eng. R. 1883, 556.

Same as the Eng. R. 1885, O. 39, r. 3, except the provisions in brackets, which are taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 556.

Grounds for new trial.

The following are the grounds for granting a new trial;—

1. Improper admission, or rejection, of evidence.
2. The improper non-suiting of the plaintiff.
3. Misdirection of the jury,
4. Perverse verdict, or verdict against the weight of evidence.
5. Verdict for too small, or too great, damages.
6. Surprise, and discovery of new evidence: see Arch. Pr. 13th ed., 1210.

Misdirection.

Formerly a misdirection by the Judge in point of law, or the improper admission or rejection of evidence in any material matter was, at Law, ground for a new trial as of right. The Common Law Courts had only the power to grant a new trial of the action generally: see Faund v. Wallace, 35 L. T. N. S. 361. This practice was altered by The Administration of Justice Act: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 289, which contained a provision to the same effect as the present Rule.

A new trial may now be ordered on a particular question: see also Rule 312.

Quære whether "misdirection" in the Rule applies to the case of the Judge ruling that there is no evidence to go to the jury, and therefore withdrawing the case from them, and giving judgment for defendant: see Hall v. Jupe, 43 L. T. N. S. 411. Rule 791.

Where a new trial is moved for on the ground of misdirection, the onus of showing that the misdirection did not cause a miscarriage of justice, lies upon the party showing cause: Anthony v. Halstead, 37 L. T. N. S. 433.

It is not misdirection for the Judge to tell the jury his own opinion on the issue before them: Smith v. Dart, 14 Q. B. D. 105, 108.

An appeal does not lie to the Supreme Court from a judgment upon a motion for a new trial on the ground of misdirection: O'Sullivan v. Lake, 9 C. L. T. 260.

"Substantial wrong," or miscarriage.

Substantial wrong was considered to have occurred where, amongst other things, inadmissible evidence was received after objection to it, and was commented on by the Judge in his charge, as being important: Bank of Hamilton v. Isaacs, 16 Ont. 450.

For other cases as to what amounts to "substantial wrong," see Pickup v. Thames Insurance Co., 3 Q. B. D. 594; Shapcott v. Chappell, 12 Q. B. D. 58; Swift v. Nunn, W. N. 1878, 217; McDonald v. Murray, 5 Ont. 559; Howell v. Listowel Rink & Park Co., 13 Ont. 476.

The defendant's counsel, in order to show that a witness called by him was hostile, and to treat him as such under s. 22 of the C. L. P. Act (Eng.), asked the Judge to look at the affidavit of a witness in a former action. As there was nothing in the witness's demeanour, or way in which he gave his evidence, to shew that he was hostile, the Judge refused to look at the affidavit, and it was held on motion for a new trial that the Judge's discretion was absolute, and the Court had no jurisdiction to review his decision: Rice v. Howard, 16 Q. B. D. 681.

Objections to jury not causing miscarriage.

The omission to swear a juror, where no injustice was done, is not a ground for a new trial: Cook v. G. T. Ry. Co., 9 C. L. T. 403; nor the fact that a juryman was challenged for cause, the party moving for the new trial, having accepted the opinion of the Judge that there was no cause, and having proceeded with the trial: Wood v. McPherson, 17 Ont. 163.

Verdict against weight of evidence.

It is the practice in England, adopting the practice of the former Court of Queen's Bench, not to grant a new trial, on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence, where the damages are under £20, except under peculiar circumstances, such as the trial of a right, or where the personal character of a person may be injured: Joyce v. Metropolitan Board of Works, 44 L. T. N. S. 810; 17 C. L. J. 411; Booth v. Briscoe, 2 Q. B. D. 496; see also Jenkins v. Morris, 14 Ch. D. 674.

If the damages found by the jury are so small, as to show that they must have omitted to consider some of the elements of damage, the Court will grant a new trial: Phillips v. London & S. W. Ry. Co., 5 Q. B. D. 78; 5 C. P. D. 280.

On an application for a new trial upon the weight of evidence, where there has been no miscarriage in law, the question is, does the verdict in the opinion of the Court do substantial justice, and, if not, does the evidence warrant interference: Grieve v. Molson's Bank, 8 Ont. 162, and the Court though considering that a different verdict would have been more satisfactory, may refuse to interfere, the question being one proper for the decision of a jury: Malcolmson v. Hamilton Prov. & L. Soc., 10 Ont. App. 610.

The ordinary reasoning according to which the verdict of a jury on a question of fact ought not to be disturbed unless the preponderance of evidence against the verdict is strong and clear, does not apply to cases in which the verdict depends upon a question of science which is not fully solved, but is still within the region of bonâ fide controversy. The importance of the verdict to others besides the parties to the litigation, and the novelty of the question are elements to be taken into consideration. Where a new trial is granted on the ground of the unsatisfactory nature of the verdict, a condition should not be imposed that the party applying for the new trial should pay the costs of the previous trial: Managers of Metropolitan Asylum v. Hill, 47 L. T. N. S. 29.

A new trial, on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence, should not be granted, unless the verdict was one which the jury, viewing the whole evidence reasonably, could not properly find: Webster v. Friederberg, 17 Q. B. D. 736, correcting Solomon v. Bitton, 8 Q. B. D. 176; see also Metropolitan Ry. Co. v. Wright, to same effect in the House of Lords, 11 App. Cas. 152; Quinlane v. Murnane, 18 L. R. Ir. 53; Commissioners for Railways v. Brown, 13 App. Cas. 133; see also remarks in 31 Sol. Jour. 135.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

YORK UNIVERSITY

Rule 792.

A new trial should not be granted merely because the Judge who tried the case, or the Court is dissatisfied with the verdict of the jury: Solomon v. Bitton, 8 Q. B. D. 176; see Jenkins v. Morris, 14 Ch. D. p. 684; Wilcocks v. Howell, 5 Ont. 360.

Though the report of the Judge who presided as to whether he was satisfied or dissatisfied with the verdict is not conclusive, great weight will be attached to it: Webster v. Friederberg, 55 L. T. N. S. 295; affirmed in appeal: Ib., 49; 17 Q. B. D. 736.

The Court may, in its discretion, refuse a new trial on the consent of the plaintiff alone to the damages being reduced to such an amount as the Court may think, if given by the jury, would not have been excessive: Belt v. Lawes, 12 Q. B. D. 356.

Where cross-actions involving the same question of law and fact are separately tried with the result that contradictory verdicts are obtained, if the evidence is so fairly balanced that the jury might reasonably find either way both cases ought to be tried again, not separately, but together. The Court cannot be called upon either to exercise the functions of a jury, or to issue contradictory judgments: Australian, etc., Co. v. Smith, 14 App. Cas. 321.

In Riding v. Hawkins, 14 P. D. 56, the plaintiff's case, when opened, seemed to proceed on a case of fraud, and undue influence only was alleged. The plaintiff applied for leave to amend, which was granted, and the trial proceeded after the defendant had refused an offer of the Judge to adjourn the trial at the plaintiff's expense; the finding was for the plaintiff on the question of fraud, but for the defendant in the issues on the original pleadings. It was held that defendant was not precluded, by his refusal of the offer of adjournment, from moving for a new trial on the ground of being surprised by the plaintiff's new case. It was also held that the amendment was properly allowed, due care having been taken that the defendant should not be damnified.

See Canada Landed Credit Co. v. Thompson, in note to Rule 755.

Surprise.

The abstaining by a party from proof under an idea that his adversary had no real intention of putting him to such proof, and being thereby taken by surprise, is no ground for a new trial: Andrews v. Stuart, 1 C. L. T. 724.

Where the reason for the application is surprise, the affidavits must state the grounds of surprise: Dow v. Dickenson, W. N. 1881, 52.

As to when a new trial or supplemental trial may be had on the ground of discovery of new evidence, see note to Rule 676.

New trial as to part.

A new trial will not be granted on the ground of premature admission of evidence which has afterwards become admissible: Faund v. Wallace, 35 L. T. N. S. 361; nor of the discovery of new evidence, unless it is nearly or quite conclusive: Anderson v. Titmas, 36 L. T. N. S. 711.

792. A new trial may be ordered on any question in an action, whatever be the grounds for the new trial, without interfering with the finding or decision upon any other question. J. A. Rule 312.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 39, r. 4, (1883, R. 557).

Quære, whether a new trial may not now be ordered as to one defendant, without disturbing the verdict as to another: Purnell v. G. W. Railway Co., 1 Q. B. D. 636.

Where there are distinct issues, the Judge may, under this Rule, accept the verdict of the jury on those issues on which they agree, and discharge them as to others, and a new trial may be ordered on undecided issues: Marsh v. Isaacs, 45 L. J. C. P. 505. Rules 793-795.

793. On the argument of a motion for a new trial or against a judgment, the counsel of the party making the motion shall begin, and shall state fully the grounds of the application, and shall have the reply. J. A. Rule 314. Counsel supporting application to begin and have reply.

794. When a new trial is granted to a party on condition of payment of costs, or other condition, no order shall be made on default in performing such condition unless a motion is made therefor upon notice. Rules T. T. 1856, 45. Rule for new trial on payment of costs, how rescinded for non-payment.

Where a new trial is granted on payment of costs, it is the duty of the party obtaining the indulgence to get the costs taxed and paid, so as to enable the case to be tried at the next opportunity: Johnson v. Sparrow, 1 U. C. Q. B. 396; Grantham v. Powell, 1 P. R. 256; but see VanEvery v. Drake, 3 P. R. 84; Stacey v. McIntyre, 5 P. R. 205; Pacaud v. McEwan, 6 P. R. 20; Lyman v. Snarr, 3 P. R. 86; but where the solicitor of the party to pay the costs promptly applied to the solicitor of the opposite party begging to know what the costs were that he might pay them, of which communication no notice was taken, a rule subsequently obtained ex parte discharging the rule for a new trial and the judgment entered thereon were set aside without costs: Doe d.Arnold v. Auldjo, 6 U. C. Q. B. 21. The party to receive costs cannot insist in their being taxed: Stock v. Shewan, 18 C. P. 185. Where the costs were tendered, but refused because there was not sufficient time to give proper notice of trial for the next assizes which, however, the defendant offered to waive, it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to have the rule for a new trial rescinded: Rabidon v. Harkin, 2 P. R. 129; and see Thompson v. Sewell, 4 O. S. 16. The costs must be paid before notice of trial can properly be given: Stock v. Shewan, 18 C. P. 185.

Where an order was made granting a new trial on payment into Court of $500 within a limited time, and in default dismissing the motion with costs, it was held no further order was necessary: Story v. McKay, before Divl. Court, Chy. D., 6 Sept., 1888.

795. Any verdict or judgment obtained where one party does not appear at the trial may be set aside by a Divisional Court or by a Judge in Court or by the Judge at the sittings upon such terms as may seem fit. J. A. Rule 270. Setting aside judgment by default.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 20, (1883, R. 457). The English Rule requires the application to be made within six days after the trial, after which time there is no power to restore the action: Walter v. James, 34 W. R. 29; 53 L. T. N. . 597.

The original of this Rule has been altered so as to make it clear that it does not give jurisdiction to the Master in Chambers or a Judge in Chambers to set aside a judgment obtained by default of the opposite party at the trial: see Hilliard v. Arthur, 10 P. R. 281, 426; Ross v. Carscallen, 11 P. R. 104.

Where a judgment was given at the trial for the defendant owing to the absence of the plaintiff, and an application to reinstate was refused by the Judge, it was held that the plaintiff might apply to the Divisional Court to set aside the judgment, and for a new trial: Wilson v. Irwin, 10 P. R. 598.

The Court of Appeal has jurisdiction to hear an appeal from a judgment by default, but such appeals are not encouraged. A party should apply to have the judgment set aside and the case re-tried: Vint v. Hudspeth, 29 Ch. D. 322.

Rule 796.

Where a defendant was not represented at the trial of an action, because his solicitor was ignorant of the fact that the action had with others been transferred from one Judge of the Chancery Division to another, Fry, J., held that the solicitor had therein been guilty of gross negligence, and that the plaintiff could not be relieved. But it was held on appeal, that the judgment must be set aside, on payment of the costs of the day. Jessel, M.R., observing: "Solicitors cannot any more than other men conduct their business without sometimes making slips; and where a solicitor watches the list, and happens to miss the case, in consequence of which it is taken in his absence, it is in accordance with justice, and with the course of practice, to restore the action to the paper on the terms of the party in default paying the costs of the day; which include all costs thrown away by reason of the trial becoming abortive": Burgoine v. Taylor, 9 Ch. D. 4.

Where the Court was satisfied that the absence of the defendant and his counsel was purely accidental, a judgment by default was set aside on payment of plaintiff's costs of hearing, including reasonable disbursements to counsel, and the costs of the application: Wolffe v. Hughes, 17 C. L. J. 427. On similar terms an action dismissed was restored to the paper, where, in consequence of the illness of the plaintiff's solicitor, the necessary arrangements were not made: Birch v. Williams, W. N. 1876, 168.

Where one counsel had been unavoidably detained by a railway accident, and the other had been prevented by indisposition from conducting the case (see Cockle v. Joyce, in Burgoine v. Taylor, 9 Ch. D. 3), and where the defendant had personally been guilty of no negligence, though his solicitor had neglected to attend to the defence, and the defendant made an application within six days of his having heard that the trial had taken place, the Court granted an extension of time, to enable him to make application to set aside the judgment: Mitchell v. Wilson, 25 W. R. 380. So also where one side had trusted to a reasonable expectation of a settlement of the dispute: Wright v. Clifford, 26 W. R. 369; 47 L. J. Chy. 544.

As to delay in applying, see May v. Head, W. N. 1880, 26; Wilkins v. Bedford, 35 L. T. N. S. 622; Webster v. Coal Consumers Co., 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 131; Attwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 722; King v. Sandeman, 38 L. T. N. S. 461, and notes to Rules 705, and 796.

Judgment by default may be set aside on terms.

796. Any judgment by default may be set aside by the Court or a Judge, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court or Judge may think fit. J. A. Rule 214.

Same in effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 29, r. 14 (1883, R. 308).

Where a judgment has been obtained irregularly, the party against whom it has been obtained is entitled ex debito justitiæ to have it set aside: Anlaby v. Prætorius, 20 Q. B. D. 764. The court has only power to impose terms as a condition of giving him costs: Ib. This Rule applies rather in cases where a regular judgment is sought to be set aside as an indulgence.

To set aside a regular judgment, an affidavit of merits will be necessary: Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124; but where merits are shewn, it is only a question of proper terms: see Wright v. Mills, 60 L. T. N. S. 887.

Mere delay is not in itself a reason for refusing to set aside a judgment by default. Some irreparable injury must be shewn to result to the plaintiff: see Attwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 722; Watt v. Barnett, 5 Q. B. D. 183, 363, and notes to Rule 705; but lapse of time and acquiescence may be an answer to the motion: McLean v. Smith, 10 P. R. 145.

Where a judgment obtained on default of appearance at the trial was set aside, the defaulting party was ordered to pay the costs of the day, and of the application to restore: Cockle v. Joyce, 26 W. R. 59.

A plaintiff not being ready to proceed with the trial of his action when it came on unexpectedly, applied for a postponement, and upon its being refused let judgment go by default; a Divisional Court refused to set aside the judgment; but the Court of Appeal, upon fresh materials offering a reasonable explanation of the plaintiff's unreadiness, set aside the judgment, and ordered the action to be restored to the list on his paying the costs of the day, including all costs thrown away, and the costs of the applications both to the Divisional Court, and to the Court of Appeal: King v. Sandeman, 38 L. T. N. S. 461; 26 W. R. 569; see also Williams v. Brisco, 29 W. R. 713, where a judgment was set aside and leave given to defend upon payment of all costs of the action subsequent to the delivery of the statement of claim; and Ryan v. Fish, 9 P. R. 458, where judgment of seisin signed in an action of dower, under a misapprehension of plaintiff's solicitor as to its effect was vacated. Rules 797, 798.

A judgment by default in an action against a lessee for recovery of land on a forfeiture was set aside under this Rule on the application of equitable mortgagees, although not parties to the action: Jacques v. Harrison, 12 Q. B. D. 136; but on appeal it was held that the order was technically wrong, as the applicant ought to have obtained the leave of the defendant to move in his name, or to have applied for leave to defend on terms of indemnifying defendant, and the order made was amended so as to allow the mortgagees to defend in defendant's name: S. C. 12 Q. B. D. 165. The Rule is designed to enable judgments by default to be set aside by those who have, or who can acquire a locus standi, and does not give a locus standi to those who have none: Ib.

Where the action had been improperly brought against the defendant, and the plaintiff was aware of the impropriety, and had suffered no irreparable mischief, it was held that the lapse of time was no bar to the application to set aside judgment by default: King v. Sandeman, supra.

Where the defence had been struck out for wilful refusal to produce, and judgment by default obtained, the Court refused to set it aside on any terms: Haigh v. Haigh, 31 Ch. D. 478; and see Dunn v. McLean, 6 P. R. 156.

See also notes to Rules 705, and 795.

797. Any judgment of nonsuit, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs, shall have the same effect as a judgment upon the merits for the defendant; (a) but in any case of mistake, surprise, accident, [(b) or otherwise], any judgment of nonsuit may be set aside on such terms, as to payment of costs and otherwise, as to the Court or a Judge shall seem just. J. A. Rule 330. Judgment of non-suit.

(a) Up to this point the Rule corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 41, r. 6, and makes a material change in the previous practice at Law. Formerly, a judgment of non-suit left a plaintiff at Law free to commence another action for the same cause. There was no such practice in Chancery.

(b) The English Rule has not the words "or otherwise;" this is the only difference between the above Rule and the corresponding part of the English Rule. The effect of this difference is, perhaps, to give a somewhat greater discretion to the Court here than in England, as to setting aside a judgment of non-suit.

There can now be no such thing as the former "judgment of non-suit," unless perhaps under Rule 672: Poyser v. Minors, 7 Q. B. D. 329.

As a non-suit is therefore now the same as a judgment on the merits, it may be pleaded in bar to a fresh action for the same cause: Bywater v. Dunne, 10 L. R. Ir. 380; and if the non-suit be reversed on appeal, the defendant is not entitled, as of right, to a new trial for the purpose of adducing evidence on his behalf: Macdonald v. Worthington, 7 Ont. App. 531, 563.

This provision is not applicable to Division Courts under sec. 73, or sec. 304, of The Division Court Act, R. S. O. 1887, c. 51; Building & Loan Ass. v. Heimrod, 3 C. L. T. 361; Bank of Ottawa v. McLoughlin, 8 Ont. App. 543.

798. Where at or after the trial of an action by a jury, the Judge has directed that any judgment be entered, any Appeal from decision of a party may, without any leave reserved, apply to set aside such judgment and to enter any other judgment, on the ground that the judgment directed to be entered is wrong by reason of the Judge having caused the [judgment] to be wrongly entered, with reference to the finding of the jury upon the question, or questions, submitted to them.

The original Rule had "finding" instead of "judgment." Otherwise it was the same as Eng. R., Dec. 1876, R. 7 (compare 1883, R. 561).

(a) Where at or after the trial of an action before a Judge, the Judge has directed that any judgment be entered, any party may, without any leave reserved, apply [for a new trial], or to set aside the judgment, and to enter any other judgment, upon the ground that the judgment so directed is wrong.

The words "or for a new trial" are new, and are taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 287. Otherwise substantially the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 40, r. 7, (compare 1883, R. 562).

(b) Such application may in either of the above cases be to a Divisional Court of the High Court, or to the Court of Appeal, and when the application is made to a Divisional Court it shall be made at the first sittings for which the motion can be set down in due course after the judgment has been rendered, unless otherwise ordered. See J. A. Rules 510, 523.

See Rule 800.

It would seem to be necessary to move at the first sittings, for which, after the rendering of judgment, seven clear days' notice of motion can be given before the first day of the sittings: Sierichs v. Woodcock, in note to Rule 800; and the time would seem to be computed from the day of rendering the judgment, irrespective of the day of entering it: see Hickey v. Stover, 11 P. R. 88.

A motion to extend the time for moving under this Rule should be made before the Divisional Court itself: Imperial Loan Co. v. Baby, 13 P. R. 59. For circumstances under which the time may be extended, see Hickey v. Stover, 11 P. R. 88.

(c) It shall not be necessary to move separately against or with respect to the findings of the jury and the judgment directed to be entered thereon. New.

This Rule was originally passed to make the business of the Divisional Courts and the Court of Appeal respectively, nearly of the same character as before The Judicature Act, it having been held in Trude v. Phœnix Insurance Co., 29 Gr. 426, and other cases soon after the passing of the Act, that under original Rule 317 the jurisdiction of Divisional Courts in trials before a Judge without a jury, was restricted to cases in which the findings of fact were undisputed, and it was only sought to modify or set aside the conclusion drawn by the Judge therefrom; and that in other cases any motion against the judgment should be to the Court of Appeal: see also Re St. Nazaire Co., 12 Ch. D. 88.

Scope of Rule.

In jury cases the present Rule provides for a motion to enter some judgment different from that pronounced at the trial, but not for a motion for a new trial. In non-jury cases, motions for a new trial as well as to reverse the judg- Rule 798.

ment pronounced are provided for.

The party against whom a judgment is given has always to consider in moving against it, whether his complaint is as to the findings of fact, and this consideration will determine whether his remedy is to move for a new trial, or to enter such judgment as may be the proper one.

The practice on motions for a new trial in jury cases is dealt with by Rule Jury cases.
789, and applies in cases where the facts have not been correctly found. This may occur (1) by reason of the jury having made an error which the applicant is entitled to complain of, or (2) by reason of some action of the Judge which has prevented the facts from being properly brought forward, such as misdirection, rejection of evidence, or non-suit of the plaintiff. In such cases the objection is not to the conclusions of the Judge from the finding, and his consequent entry of judgment upon it; but the objection is to the correctness of the finding itself, for instance where the Judge misdirects the jury: Hamilton v. Johnson, 5 Q. B. D. 263, 266; or non-suits the plaintiff: Etty v. Wilson, 3 Ex. D. 359; or refuses to do so, and a verdict is found for the plaintiff, and judgment directed to be entered thereon: Davies v. Felix, 4 Ex. D. 32; or where the Judge gives judgment for one party on the findings of the jury: Hamilton v. Johnston, 5 Q. B. D. 263; or where, the facts being undisputed, the Judge directs the jury to find for one party, and it is contended the finding should have been the other way: Yetts v. Foster, 3 C. P. D. 437. In all these cases, though the action is that of the Judge, the dispute is in respect to the propriety of the finding of the facts, and the motion should therefore be ordinarily for a new trial. A motion cannot be made under the present Rule to enter a different judgment, unless the case is one in which the Court considers that it has all the needful evidence before it and can therefore, under Rule 755, instead of directing a new trial, direct the proper judgment to be entered.

Motions for a new trial in jury cases can only be made to a Divisional Court. Motions to enter a different judgment may be made either to the Divisional Court, or the Court of Appeal.

Motions in non-jury cases, whether for a new trial, or to enter a different judgment, may be made either to a Divisional Court or the Court of Appeal.

Where both the findings of fact, and the conclusions of law, are complained of, the application in jury cases must be to a Divisional Court under Rules 789 and 798, combined: see under the Eng. practice Robinson v. Tucker, 14 Q. B. D. 376.

Where the trial has been before a Judge without a jury, Rule 798*a* applies, Non-jury cases.
whether the finding of fact, or the conclusions deduced from it, are questioned; and whether it is proper to direct a new trial or to enter a different judgment.

In such cases the remedy is generally by motion to reverse the judgment under this Rule, or by appeal to the Court of Appeal in the ordinary way, and if the Judge has improperly rejected evidence, the Court has power to let in the evidence improperly rejected, instead of directing a new trial: see Dollman v. Jones, 12 Ch. D. 553; and Rule 585.

The practice adopted by the Court of Appeal in such cases in England is thus explained by Lord Justice Cotton, in Jones v. Hough, 5 Ex. D., at p. 125. "When the appeal comes before us, the Court of Appeal has the full right, if it thinks necessary, although there is no motion for a new trial to say that the conclusion of fact arrived at is not satisfactory; and as they have not the materials before them to arrive at a proper conclusion, the Court will order a new trial; and I can instance a case where this would be done; where the question turns on the credibility of witnesses who had been heard vivâ voce, and seen by the Judge, who himself had tried the case. In such a case, even although the Court had thought the conclusion was not a correct one, they might direct that the case should go back for a new trial. Here the case is not one which turns on the amount of credibility to be given to the different witnesses, but on the conclusion of fact from certain letters, and from certain evidence which was taken upon commission. Under those circumstances, it is our duty to deal with the matter; and if we see before us the materials for arriving at a conclusion on the facts contrary to that which was arrived at by the learned Judge, we ought not, in my opinion, to put the parties to the expense and delay of sending the matter back for a new trial. Of course I need not say in all questions of fact, especially where there has been vivâ voce evidence before the Judge in the Court below, the Court of Appeal ought to be most unwilling to interfere with the conclusion which the Judge has arrived at when he has had the opportunity, which the Court have not, of seeing the witnesses, and judging of their demeanour."

The Court of Appeal, or the Divisional Court, under this Rule, has full power to review the decision of the Judge upon the facts. See also the language in Jones v. Hough, 5 Ex. D., at p. 122 (quoted with approval in Prentice v. Consolidated Piano Co., 13 Ont. App. 74), where Bramwell, L.J., says: "If upon the materials before the learned Judge, he has, in giving judgment, come to an erroneous conclusion upon certain questions of fact, and we see that the conclusions are erroneous, we must come to a different conclusion, and act upon the conclusion that we come to, and not accept his finding. * * A great difference exists between a finding by the Judge, and a finding by the jury. Where the jury find the facts, the Court cannot be substituted for them, because the parties have agreed that the facts shall be decided by a jury; but where the Judge finds the facts, then the Court of Appeal has the same jurisdiction that he has, and can find the facts whichever way they like. I have no doubt, therefore, that is our jurisdiction, our power, and our duty." See also the observations of Brett, M.R., in Read v. Anderson, 13 Q. B. D. 781.

Where there was a conflict of evidence and the Judge who tried the case attributed greater weight to the evidence of some witnesses than others, but in the opinion of the Court of Appeal took a wrong view of the law, the Court refused to make a decree upon the evidence, and sent the case for a new trial: Canada Landed Credit Co. v. Thompson, 3 C. L. T. 158.

As to the principles upon which Courts act in reviewing the findings of a Court of first instance on the facts, see supra, p. 35.

As to appeals from the decision of a Judge sitting as and for the Court, but not at the trial, see notes to secs. 43, 61 and 70 of the Act.

Where there is a general judgment against several defendants, the last clause of this Rule does not enable them to sever, and appeal to several Courts; but they must all appeal to the tribunal to which the defendant who takes the first step has appealed: per Armour, J., in Hateley v. Merchants Despatch Co., 4 Ont. 723.

Where a motion for a new trial was made conditionally upon the result of a decision pending in the Court of Appeal, it was held that the usual steps to bring the motion on within the usual time should be taken, and that if necessary application should be made to the Court to postpone the hearing of the motion till the decision of the Court of Appeal should be given. The Court has full discretion over such an application to extend the time for giving notice of such motion, and is not limited to cases where the party has been misled: Peckett v. Short, 32 W. R. 123.

Interpleader.

Where a Judge has directed judgment to be entered on an interpleader issue, an appeal lies under this Rule: Witt v. Parker, 25 W. R. 518; see Wilson v. Kerr, 18 U. C. Q. B. 470; Dodds v. Shepherd, 1 Ex. D. 75; 45 L. J. Ex. 457; Withers v. Parker, 28 L. J. Ex. 383; Robinson v. Tucker, 14 Q. B. D. 371; Dawson v. Fox, 14 Q. B. D. 377.

Motion for judgment where jury disagree.

799. In any case where on the trial the jury disagree and find no verdict, the Court may, notwithstanding such disagreement give judgment of non-suit. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 290.

See Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, in note to Rule 682; also Casey v. C. P. Ry. Co., 15 Ont. 574, where judgment was given for defendants, the plaintiff's own evidence shewing that the accident, the occasion of the damages claimed by him, was caused by his own negligence.

The making of a motion under this Rule was held to stay the carrying of the case down to a second trial, where the motion was not heard at an intervening sittings of a Divisional Court because the notes of evidence were not ready in time: Schuhl v. Rosenstadt, 9 C. L. T. 114. Rules 800-802.

800. Every motion against a judgment or for a new trial shall be a seven clear days' notice, and the motion shall be set down at least two days before the first day of the sittings of the Divisional Court for which the notice is given, unless otherwise ordered. See J. A. Rule 522. Length of notice.

This Rule is in accordance with the former practice on rehearing: see Chy. G. O. 418; except that 7 clear days setting down was required.

Both the seven days and the two days are clear days: see Rule 475, and Rumohr v. Marx, 18 C. L. J. 444; 19 C. L. J. 10; 3 C. L. T. 31, decided under the former practice.

The seven clear days' notice of motion must be given for the first day of the sittings and will not be sufficient if given for any subsequent day although given in time to permit the motion to be set down two clear days before the commencement of the sittings: Sierichs v. Woodcock, (the Div. Court C. P. D., 26 Nov., 1889).

Where a solicitor had instructed his clerk to set down a case, but the clerk, by a mistake in supposing that the seven days were not clear days allowed the last day to pass, this was held not a sufficient ground for granting leave to set the case down: Rumohr v. Marx, supra.

Where judgment for defendants was delivered on 22nd November, and the plaintiff's solicitor immediately applied for a copy, but did not receive it until 29th November, which was the last day for setting down a motion to reverse the judgment, and there was, therefore, no time to consult either the plaintiff or counsel, the Court held that the delay was sufficiently excused, and granted leave to set down upon payment of costs: Foley v. Canada Permanent, etc., 18 C. L. J. 444; 3 C. L. T. 32.

Where a cause had been set down and subsequently struck out by order of a Judge, an application to the Court at the sittings for which the cause had been set down, for leave to set the cause down at such sittings by way of appeal from the order striking it out, was held to be an exception to this Rule, and not required to be set down: Bell v. Macklin, 21 C. L. J. 95.

Where a case is improperly set down, a substantive motion should be made to strike it out: Wansley v. Smallwood, 10 P. R. 233. When the objection has not been taken until the case has been called on for argument, costs have sometimes been refused, although the objection was sustained.

801. If a party who serves a notice of motion for a new trial or against a judgment, does not set the motion down, he shall be deemed to have abandoned the same. New. Abandoning motion.

The opposite party may doubtless apply at the opening of the sittings on the first day for the costs of the abandoned motion: see Reg. v. Armstrong, (the Div. Court C. P. D., 21 Dec., 1889.)

802. On every application for a new trial, or to enter a different judgment, where the evidence was at the trial taken down by a short-hand writer, there shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be filed when the motion is set down 3 copies of the evidence in words at length, each copy to be certified as correct by the short-hand writer. C. L. Rules, 10th March, 1876, 1. Copies of shorthand notes to be delivered on motions for new trial, etc.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rules 803, 804.

Per Boyd, C., October, 8, 1888: "This Rule is not for the present to be enforced strictly." It is not usual to require the copies of the shorthand notes to be delivered at the time of setting down the case; to do so would necessitate constant applications to the Court to be relieved from the operation of the Rule. It is considered sufficient to deliver the copies of the notes at any time before the case is argued; although, of course, it is desirable that they should be delivered as soon as possible. A case is not usually put on the peremptory list for argument before the copies of the notes have been delivered, if other cases are ready; but if a cause should be placed on the peremptory list, and the notes are not forthcoming when the cause is called on, counsel for the party whose duty it is to deliver them, should be prepared with an affidavit, showing that due diligence has been used to procure them, or the cause may be struck out with costs.

Notice of appeal.

803. The notice of appeal required by Section 71 of The Judicature Act may be in the Form No. 41 in the Appendix.

See notes to sec. 71, p. 80.

When execution to be stayed.

804. Upon the perfecting of the security, mentioned in section 71 of the Judicature Act, execution shall be stayed in the original cause, except in the following cases:—

Subject to certain exceptions in which partial performance is required by delivery into Court.

(1) If the judgment appealed from directs the assignment or delivery of documents or personal property, execution shall not be stayed until the things directed to be assigned or delivered have been brought into the Court appealed from, or placed in the custody of such officer or receiver as that Court or a Judge appoints, nor until security has been given to the satisfaction of that Court or Judge, and in such sum as may be directed, that the appellant will obey the order of the Court of Appeal;

Rule 804. Or by executing instrument.

(2) If the judgment appealed from directs the execution of a conveyance or any other instrument, execution shall not be stayed until the instrument has been executed and deposited with the proper officer of the Court appealed from, to abide the judgment of the Court of Appeal;

Or by the giving of special security not to commit waste.

(3) If the judgment appealed from directs the sale or delivery of possession of real property or chattels real, execution shall not be stayed until security has been entered into to the satisfaction of the Court appealed from, and in such sum as that Court or a Judge directs, that during the possession of the property by the appellant, he will not commit or suffer to be committed any waste on the property, and that if the judgment be affirmed, he will pay the value of the use and occupation of the property from the time of the appeal until the delivery of possession thereof, and also, in case the judgment is for the sale of property and the payment of a deficiency arising upon the sale, and the appellant will pay the deficiency;

Or to pay debt and costs.

(4) If the judgment appealed from directs the payment of money, execution shall not be stayed until the appellant has given security, to the satisfaction of the Court appealed from or a Judge, that if the judgment, or any part thereof, be affirmed, the appellant will pay the amount thereby directed to be paid, or the part thereof as to which the judgment may be affirmed if it be affirmed only as to part, and all damages awarded against the appellant on the appeal. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 26.

Security for Costs, etc.—Sec. 71 of the Act provides for the giving of security for costs in the sum of $400 as a condition precedent to an appeal.

Staying Execution under Judgment appealed from—

The security provided for by sec. 71 is only for the costs of the appeal. The giving of such security for the costs of the appeal effects a stay of execution, except in the cases mentioned in this Rule: see McGarvey v. Strathroy, 6 Ont. 138; Toronto v. Toronto Street Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 361. In any of such cases if the appellant desires to stay the execution of the judgment he must further comply with this Rule; execution will not otherwise be stayed: Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., 26 Gr. 352; Gossage v. Canadian L. & E. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 452: see Barker v. Lavery, 14 Q. B. D. 769.

In order to stay execution where the judgment directs payment of money, whether as debt, damages, or costs, further security must be given under this Rule: Powell v. Peck, 8 P. R. 85; see also Heward v. Heward, 2 Chy. Ch. 245; and execution for costs can only be stayed upon giving security for both the costs in the Court below and in the Court of Appeal: Grand Trunk Ry. v. Ont. & Que. Ry., 9 P. R. 420. The application to stay execution should not be made ex parte: Ib., and is made in the Court below: see Jud. Act, sec. 71, and G. T. Ry. Co. v. Ont. & Que. Ry. Co., supra; Wilson v. Church, 11 Ch. D. 576; Otto v. Lindford, 18 Ch. D. 394; Cropper v. Smith, 24 Ch. D. 315.

Instead of giving a bond, money may be paid into Court to abide the result of the appeal; in such case, some additional sum, to answer the difference between the legal rate of interest, and that allowed on deposits in Court, may be required to be paid: McDonald v. Worthington, 8 P. R. 554.

A stay of execution for the payment of money or costs awarded by the Court below, will be given to an appellant as a matter of right upon giving the security by this Rule prescribed: see Campbell v. Edwards, 6 P. R. 159; Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., 26 Gr. 352. The Court may on such an application consider whether the appeal is frivolous: Norval v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 7 P. R. 462.

It has been held that the recovery of costs, payable under an order, will not be stayed by the Court of Appeal, pending an appeal to the House of Lords, if the solicitors to whom they are payable, give their personal undertaking to refund, in case of the order being reversed: Grant v. The Banque Franco-Egyptienne, 3 C. P. D. 202; Morgan v. Elford, 4 Ch. D. 352; The Khedive, 5 P. D. 1; but see supra and Atty.-Gen. v. Emerson, 88 L. T. Jour. 97.

Costs of motion.

The costs of an application to stay execution in England, where there is no enactment similar to Rule 804, are as a general rule ordered to be paid by the applicant: see Merry v. Nickalls, L. R. 8 Chy. 205; Cooper v. Cooper, 2 Ch. D. 492; Morgan v. Elford, 4 Ch. D. 358. In Burdick v. Garrick, L. R. 5 Chy. 453, and Adair v. Young, 11 Ch. D. 136, however, they were made costs in the appeal.

In Ontario, the costs of applications to stay execution, or proceedings, are in the discretion of the Court: Rule 1170; and the general rule is to make the costs, costs in the appeal. Sometimes formerly they were ordered to be paid by the applicant: see Norval v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 15 C. L. J. 86; 7 P. R. 462; Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., supra.

Where security has been perfected for a stay of execution under Rule 804, the execution is not only stayed, but is superseded, so that it ceases to bind, if it has been issued and placed in the Sheriff's hands: O'Donohoe v. Robinson, 10 Ont. App. 622.

When money made under execution, will be ordered to be refunded, or possession of land be ordered to be restored.

If the money has been made by the Sheriff, but not paid over before the Judge's fiat to stay execution is served on the Sheriff, the appellant may demand back the amount levied from the Sheriff: see sec. 72 of the Act, p. 82. And where a suit was brought to restrain an action of ejectment, and the plaintiff failed, and thereupon a writ of hab. fac. poss. had been executed before the proceedings thereon could be stayed, possession was ordered to be restored to the appellant pending the appeal, on his giving security as required by Rule 804: Campbell v. Royal Canadian Bank, 19 Gr. 477. But when the money has been made by the sheriff, and transmitted to the respondent's solicitor, before an order staying execution is served, such money will not be ordered to be refunded, even though the order staying the execution be granted before the money actually reached the solicitor's hands: McDonell v. McKay, 2 Chy. Ch. 354; see further Rules 804, 805, 808, 809, 811.

Stay of proceedings—when ordered pending appeal.

Staying Other Proceedings under the Judgment Appealed from.—Pending an appeal, proceedings upon accounts and inquiries are not in general stayed: Hyam v. Terry, 29 W. R. 32; Whitehead v. Buffalo and L. H. R. W. Co., 7 Gr. 578; Butler v. Standard Fire Ins. Co., 8 P. R. 41; Heward v. Heward, 2 Chy. Ch. 242; (but see Bank of U. C. v. Pottroff, 8 U. C. L. J. 328); but they will be stayed where the appeal, if successful, would be nugatory if proceedings were continued pending the appeal: Wilson v. Church, 12 Ch. D. 454; 41 L. T. N. S. 50; 48 L. J. Chy. 690; 28 W. R. 284; or where the appellant would sustain irreparable injury: Adair v. Young, 11 Ch. D. 136; 40 L. T. N. S. 591; Walford v. Walford, L. R. 3 Chy. 812; Goldie v. Date P. S. Co., 7 P. R. 1; Cotton v. Corby, 5 U. C. L. J. 67; but not otherwise: McMurray v. Grand Trunk R. W. Co., 3 Chy. Ch. 125. In Re Palmer, 48 L. T. N. S. 52, the Court refused to stay the trial of issues of fact, pending an appeal on a question of law; and see McDonald v. Murray, 9 P. R. 464, where a new trial was allowed to proceed, pending an appeal from the rule granting the new trial where it was shewn that important evidence might be lost, and the plaintiff would be prejudiced financially by delay, but in Goldie v. Date P. S. Co. supra, a notice of trial given without leave, pending such an appeal, was held irregular: see also Hyam v. Terry, 29 W. R. 32; and where an appeal to the Supreme Court was pending upon a question arising as to whether the action should be tried with, or without a jury, the trial was stayed: Conmee v. Canadian Pacific Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 356. Rule 804.

When an appeal was pending against an order for production of documents, proceedings to enforce the order pending the appeal were stayed, on the terms of the appellant bringing the documents in question into Court: Emmerson, Ind., 33 Ch. D. 326; 55 L. T. N. S. 422.

The application to stay proceedings will not be entertained if the time for appealing has elapsed: Brigham v. Smith, 3 Chy. Ch. 315.

Proceedings to commit a defendant for a breach of an injunction, will not be stayed pending an appeal from the judgment, or order, granting the injunction: Gamble v. Howland, 3 Gr. 281, 303; and see McLaren v. Caldwell, 29 Gr. 438; and pending an appeal from a judgment awarding an injunction, the injunction will not be suspended: Ib., and see S. C., 6 Ont. App. at p. 494; Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing R. W. Co., 26 Gr. 352, unless in the case of a mandatory injunction, where obedience to the injunction would render the appeal nugatory: see Dundas v. Hamilton & Milton Road Co., 19 Gr. 455; but see McGarvey v. Strathroy, 6 Ont. 138; 19 C. L. J. 393, where Proudfoot, J., refused a sequestration to enforce an injunction restraining the defendants from permitting water to flow on plaintiff's land, pending an appeal, after security had been given under R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 26, from which this Rule is taken; and see also Toronto v. Toronto Street Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 361. Injunction, when suspended.

Where a sum of money is ordered to be paid, or in default a receiver is directed to be appointed, the appointment of a receiver can only be stayed pending an appeal, on security being given for the amount ordered to be paid, as required by Rule 804 (4): Fox v. Toronto and Nipissing R. W. Co., 26 Gr. 352. Appointment of Receiver, when stayed.

In mortgage cases, simply for foreclosure, or sale, proceedings may be stayed pending an appeal without security being given: Bank of U. C. v. Pottroff, 8 U. C. L. J. 328. And it would seem that the Court appealed from, may, in its discretion, irrespective of this Rule, suspend the operation of its judgment in any case pending an appeal: Cotton v. Corby, 5 U. C. L. J. 67. Mortgage actions, when stayed.

Where an appellant proceeds to enforce an order or judgment appealed from pending the appeal; and by his appeal he claims relief inconsistent with that given by the order or judgment appealed from, he will be held to have abandoned his appeal: International Wrecking Co. v. Lobb, 12 P. R. 207. Money paid into Court pending appeal,—disposition of.

Where money has been paid into Court for a specific purpose, and that purpose has been answered in favour of the party paying it in, it will be paid out to that party; therefore, when security for costs of an appeal to the Court of Appeal has been given, by paying money into Court; in the event of the appeal proving successful, the appellant is entitled to have the money paid out to him, notwithstanding the respondent may desire to appeal to the Supreme Court: McLaren v. Caldwell, 9 P. R. 118; Wilson v. Beatty, Re Donovan, 10 P. R. 71; Atherton v. B. N. A. Co., L. R. 5 Chy. 720; Lindsay Petroleum Co. v. Hurd, 3 Chy. Ch. 16; Billington v. Provincial Ins. Co., 9 P. R. 67; Crossman v. Shears, 15 C. L. J. 110; and the respondent in such a case, if he desires to stop the payment out, must give security for damages consequent on its detention in Court: McDonald v. Worthington, 8 P. R. 554.

Similarly an appeal bond may be delivered up, where the appellant is successful, all liability upon it being at an end, notwithstanding that an appeal to the Supreme Court may be pending: Burgess v. Conway, 11 P. R. 514.

This principle does not, however, apply to enable a party who has paid money into Court as security for costs in the High Court and succeeded, to obtain payment of the money out to him pending an appeal to the Court of Appeal, as the appeal is a step in the original action: Rule 818, and the purpose for which the money is paid in is not answered, unless the appeal is unsuccessful: National Ins. Co. v. Egleson, P. R. 202. But where the opposite party was otherwise secured, payment out was directed: Napier v. Hughes, 9 P. R. 164. Similarly where a bond was given for security for costs a motion to have it delivered up was refused, an appeal being pending to the Court of Appeal: Hateley v. Merchants' Despatch, 12 Ont. App. 640; 11 P. R. 9.

Money paid in by a party as security for costs in appeal will generally be paid out to the solicitor for the party on his undertaking to refund it if the appeal is allowed by the Supreme Court: Kelly v. Imperial, etc., 10 P. R. 499; Steele v. York, 7 C. L. T. 170.

And where a sum of money has been paid into Court, not to answer any specific purpose, but generally to abide further order, then the Court has a discretion as to ordering the money to be paid out pending an appeal, and in such a case, may require security to be given to refund if required: King v. Duncan, 9 P. R. 61; Canadian Land Co. v. Dysart, 11 P. R. 51; e.g., where owing to the poverty of the successful party there is danger that it may not be recovered if the decision should be reversed: Re Airey, Airey v. Bower, 79 L. T. Jour. 95.

Where a fund in Court is, by the judgment appealed from, directed to be paid out to the respondent, the Court may stay the payment out, upon the appellant giving security for the difference between legal interest and the interest which will actually accrue in Court: McDonald v. Worthington, 8 P. R. 554; Brewer v. Yorke, 31 W. R. 109; Bradford v. Young, 28 Ch. D. 18.

Where money has been paid in as security for costs of an appeal by a party who is unsuccessful, it will be applied in payment of the costs of the appeal, and the balance will not be treated as that party's own moneys and applied to pay other costs of the action payable by him, if it is shewn to have been borrowed for the specific purpose of securing the costs of the appeal: McKenzie v. Kittridge, 1 C. L. T. 110. See also Worthington v. Johnson, 72 L. T. Jour. 373.

Where money was so paid out to a respondent to satisfy costs of an unsuccessful appeal, but the decision was reversed by the Privy Council, the respondent was compelled, in an action brought for the purpose, to repay the moneys so paid out forprincipal and interest, with interest on that gross amount at six per cent., and all sums otherwise paid for costs without interest: Citizens Ins. Co. v. Parsons, 32 C. P. 492. Semble that an action was only necessary because the money had been paid out to persons not parties to the original suit as trustees for the creditors of the original plaintiff: Ib. See McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200.

Proceedings in an action upon an appeal bond were stayed, where a further appeal was pending and security had in it been given for the costs secured by the bond: McLaren v. Stephen, 10 P. R. 88.

Appeal disallowed, where security not put in in time.

An appeal under The Joint Stock Companies Winding-up Act, (R. S. O. c. 183), s. 27 (2) cannot be entertained where security has not been given within eight days from the rendering of final judgment, or order, appealed from: Re Union Ins. Co., 7 Ont. App. 783.

When given, a fiat to stay execution to be granted.

Judge may order execution to issue.

805. When the security has been perfected and allowed, any Judge of the Court appealed from may issue his fiat to the Sheriff to whom any execution on the judgment has issued, to stay the execution, and the execution shall be thereby stayed, whether a levy has been made under it or not; but if the grounds of appeal appear to be frivolous, the Court appealed from, or a Judge, upon motion on notice, may order execution to issue or to be proceeded with. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 28.

See note to Rule 804.

Security to be by bond.

806. Unless otherwise specially ordered by the Court appealed from, or a Judge thereof, the security required by section 71 of The Judicature Act and Rule 804 shall be personal and by bond, and may be in the form No. 209 in the Appendix, mutatis mutandis. Provided that in any case in which execution may be stayed on the giving of security under the preceding Rules, such security may be given by the same instrument whereby the security prescribed in section 71 is given. App. O. 2. Rules 807, 808. Form of bond.

See note to Rule 804.

807. The bond shall be executed by the appellant or appellants, or one or more of them, and by two sufficient sureties, unless the Court or a Judge thinks fit to dispense with the execution thereof by the appellant. App. O. 3. Appeal bond, parties to.

Instead of giving a bond, security may be given by paying $400 into Court, and leave to pay in that sum will be granted on an ex parte application: Connolly v. O'Reilly, 8 P. R. 159; or, after a bond has been given, the Court below may allow money to be paid into Court as security in substitution therefor: Chatham & Dover, E., v. The Erie & Huron Ry. Co., 7 P. R. 399; but it is not sufficient to deposit the money, and obtain a certificate of the deposit; it must also appear that the security so given, is to the satisfaction of the Court appealed from, or a Judge thereof: Macdonald v. Abbott, 3 S. C. R. 278. As to the time for putting in security, see sec. 71 of the Act, p. 79; McRae v. White, 9 P. R. 288.

If either surety dies or becomes insolvent, pending the appeal, an application may be made to compel the appellant to substitute another: Saunders v. Furnival, 2 Chy. Ch. 159; Gage v. Canada Publishing Co., 10 P. R. 169. The application must be made to the Court appealed from: Lumsden v. Davis, 10 P. R. 10. Further security where it may be ordered.

A bond cannot be excepted to on the ground that the sureties are "standing sureties" of the applicant, in the absence of evidence as to their insufficiency: Norval v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 7 P. R. 313. It is irregular for the solicitor of the appellant to become surety in an appeal bond. Beckitt v. Wragg, 1 Chy. Ch. 5; Grand Trunk Ry. Co. v. Ontario & Quebec Ry. Co., 3 C. L. T. 173. Exceptions to sureties.

A married woman has been held to be not a proper surety: Mullin v. Pascoe, 8 P. R. 372. But see The Married Woman's Property Act, (R. S. O. 1887, c. 132) and Kerr v. Stripp, 40 U. C. Q. B. at p. 134; Frasee v. McFarland, 43 U. C. Q. B. 281; Lawson v. Laidlaw, 3 Ont. App. 77; and Hessin v. Baine, 2 Ont. 302.

An officer of the Court is not an improper surety: Wilkins v. McLean, 7 C. L. T. 5.

When the title to land, in respect of which a surety qualified was not registered, it was held that he was an insufficient surety unless registration of his title was procured: Adamson v. Adamson, 9 P. R. 96.

When an appellant gives notice of discontinuance of his appeal, the respondent may without further order, tax his costs of the appeal, and, in case of non-payment, obtain an order for the delivery of the appeal bond to him for suit: Hughes v. Hughes, 19 C. L. J. 10. Discontinuance of appeal—effect of.

808. Where the judgment appealed from directs the payment of money, the security required by Rule 804, shall be in double the amount so directed to be paid; provided always that, in cases where the security to be given shall be in a sum above $2,000, it shall be in the discretion of the Amount of security to be given to procure stay of execution where judgment is for payment of money.

Court appealed from or of a Judge thereof, to allow security to be given by a larger number of sureties apportioning the amount among them as may appear reasonable; and provided further, that, where the amount by the judgment directed to be paid exceeds $10,000, it shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge to allow security to be given for such amount less than double as may appear reasonable. App. O. 4.

When dispensed with in mortgage actions.

It has been held that Rule 804 (4) does not apply to appeals from judgments, in mortgage cases for foreclosure, or sale, simply: Bank of Upper Canada v. Pottroff, 8 U. C. L. J. 328, but where such a judgment also contains a personal order for payment of the mortgage debt, then the sub-section (4) would apply and security must be given before execution can be stayed.

Suit for account.

Where, in a suit for an account, at the hearing of the cause, a sum of money was directed to be paid into Court, pending a reference to take the accounts, it was held that proceedings might be stayed on such direction, pending an appeal, upon security being given: Whitehead v. Buffalo & Lake Huron Ry. Co., 7 Gr. 578.

The Court has no discretion, on an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, to increase the amount of security (fixed by R. S. C. c. 135, s. 46, at $500,) because of the number of respondents: Archer v. Severn, 12 P. R. 472.

Where sale or delivery of possession of property ordered.

809. Where the judgment appealed from directs the sale, or delivery of possession, of real property, or chattels real, the security required by Rule 804, shall be taken in double the yearly value of the property in question, unless the Court appealed from, or a Judge thereof, otherwise directs. App. O. 5.

The Court refused to stay execution of a judgment for defendant in replevin for a month to enable the plaintiff to give security: Scott v. Carveth, 20 U. C. Q. B. 435.

Affidavit of justification to be made by sureties.

810. The parties to every such bond as sureties shall by affidavit respectively make oath that they are resident householders or freeholders in Ontario, and severally worth the sum mentioned in the bond, over and above what will pay and satisfy all their debts; and the affidavit may be in the form No. 209 in the Appendix. App. O. 6.

Bond and affidavits to be filed. When allowed.

811. The bond, with an affidavit of the due execution thereof, and affidavit of justification, shall be deposited with the proper Registrar of the Court appealed from in Toronto, and shall be deemed to be perfected and allowed, unless within 14 days after being served with notice thereof the respondent moves for its disallowance. App. O. 7.

The bond, and affidavits of execution, and justification, are separate documents, and each must be stamped with a proper filing stamp: McBeth v. Smart, 1 Chy. Ch. 269.

The affidavits of execution, and justification, should be entitled in the cause.

The affidavit of justification cannot be dispensed with: Donnelly v. Jones, 4 Chy. Ch. 48. Rules 812-814.

Where the respondent objects to the sufficiency of the bond, he must move to disallow it, or it will, under this Rule, stand allowed after the lapse of fourteen day from service of notice of its filing. The motion should be made in the Court appealed from. The application may be entertained by the Master in Chambers, or, when the bond is filed in an outer Court, by a Local Master, or County Court Judge, having jurisdiction: see Rules 41, 138; Brigham v. Smith, 1 Chy. Ch. 334. Motion for disallowance of bond when made.

Affidavits may be read in opposition to the affidavits of justification of the sureties: Campbell v. Royal Canadian Bank, 6 P. R. 45; Brigham v. Smith, 1 Chy. Ch. 334; and the sureties are also liable to cross-examination on their affidavits of justification: Rule 577, and formerly might, under Chy. O. 268, be so examined by being served with an appointment and subpœna though no motion against the bond was pending: Hughes v. Hughes, 17 C. L. J. 110; 1 C. L. T. 189; sed quære under the present Rule 577. Affidavits may be used. Sureties may be examined.

See also Firth v. Ryan, 20 C. L. J. 175; and notes to Rule 807.

Where the bond stands allowed under this Rule, by reason of the lapse of fourteen days from its filing, a Judge's fiat to the sheriff to stay execution may be obtained: Rule 805. But where the appellant claims to stay execution before the fourteen days have expired, then a special application for that purpose is necessary under the following Rule. Fiat to stay execution, when granted.

Where the appeal to the Court of Appeal is dismissed, an action on the appeal bond will be stayed, where the appellant has given proper security, and is prosecuting an appeal from the decision of the Court of Appeal to the Privy Council: McLaren v. Stephen, 10 P. R. 88; 19 C. L. J. 404. Action on appeal bond, when stayed.

812. The appellant may, after such deposit, make a special application, before the expiration of 14 days, to stay execution in any of the cases mentioned in Rule 804. App. O. 8. Special application to stay execution may be made.

813. The appeal shall be a step in the cause or matter in which the judgment complained of was given, and shall be upon a case to be stated by the parties, or in the event of difference to be settled by the Court appealed from, or a Judge thereof, and shall set forth so much of the pleadings, evidence, affidavits, documents, and the ruling or judgment objected to, as may be necessary to raise the question for the decision of the Court of Appeal. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 31 (1). Appeal to be a step in the cause and upon a case stated.

The formal judgment as drawn up must be printed. That is, the subject of the appeal and not the reasons upon which it is founded: Thomson v. Robinson, 16 Ont. App., at p. 184.

814. After the security has been perfected, the appellant shall prepare a draft of the case mentioned in the preceding Rule, and shall submit the draft to the respondent, who shall return the same within 4 days, with his modifications or suggestions, and in the event of differences, the appellant shall give 2 clear days' notice of an application to the Court, or a Judge, to settle the case. App. O. 9. After security perfected, case to be prepared—draft to be submitted to respondent.

LAW LIBRARY

Rules 815-819.

The security referred to in this Rule is the security for $400 for the costs of appeal under s. 71 of the Act, and not the security required to be given in order to secure a stay of execution under Rule 804.

Co-defendants not entitled to notice of settling case.

When one of several defendants appeals, the other defendants are not entitled to notice of settling the case, even though the plaintiff claim relief over against them: Freed v. Orr, 6 Ont. App. 690; and see Rule 828.

The Court, or Judge, to settle the case in the event of the parties differing, is the Court appealed from or a Judge thereof: see Rule 813.

The case should only contain so much of the proceedings as is necessary to raise the questions involved in the appeal. In Parsons v. Standard Ins. Co., 4 Ont. App., at p. 330, Burton, J.A., in remarking upon the unnecessary length of the case, said: "It appears to us to be a very grave abuse and violation of the Rules we have made on the subject, and we do not intend to impose upon the Registrar the task which the appellants have cast upon us of wading through this mass of matter for the purpose of discovering whether some portion of it may properly be applicable to this appeal, but we disallow the whole of the appeal books in the taxation. If a similar case should occur again after this warning it will be our duty seriously to consider whether it is not sufficient reason for refusing the whole costs of the appeal."

If the notes of the evidence taken have been lost, the Court of Appeal may allow the evidence to be taken over again: Ex parte Firth, Re Cowburn, 19 Ch. D. 419; 51 L. J. Chy. 473.

Raising new points on appeal.

A new point may not be allowed to be raised in the Court of Appeal, where if raised, it might have been met by evidence: Ib.

Where as a matter of pleading certain issues were not raised, but at the trial had been treated as if raised, the objection was not allowed to be taken in the Court of Appeal: Kennan v. Murphy, 8 L. R. Ir. 285.

Where an appellant succeeds upon a point not adjudicated upon in the Court below he may not be allowed his costs: Goddard v. Jeffreys, 46 L. T. N. S. 904; Page v. Austin, 7 Ont. App. 1: Van Velser v. Hughson, 9 Ont. App. 390; Cooper v. Cooper, 59 L. T. N. S. 1.

In the Privy Council an appellant is not allowed to take a point not taken in the Court below: Corporation of Adelaide v. White, 55 L. T. N. S. 3.

Name of Judge to be stated.

815. The case shall state the name or names of the Judge or Judges appealed from.

Reasons of, and against appeal—to be served.

816. The appellant shall serve his reasons of appeal along with, and as part of, the draft case mentioned in the preceding Rules, and the respondent shall serve his reasons against the appeal, within 10 days from such service, or within such further time as a Judge of the Court of Appeal may allow. App. O. 11.

Part of judgment appealed from.

817. If the appeal is from a part only of the judgment, the reasons of appeal shall specify the part. App. O. 12.

Neglect of respondent to serve reasons against appeal—effect of.

818. If the respondent neglects to serve reasons against the appeal, the Court may hear the appeal ex parte, and give judgment thereon without the intervention of the respondent. App. O. 13.

Appeal book to be printed.

819. Upon being served with the respondent's reasons against the appeal, or upon his having made default in service thereof, the appellant shall cause appeal books to be printed containing the case as settled by the parties, or the Judge, and the reasons for the appeal, and the reasons against the appeal, if such latter reasons have been served as aforesaid, and any notice given under Rule 821, and shall forthwith deliver one of such copies to the Registrar of the Court of Appeal, by whom the same shall be filed as the stated and settled case, and 10 copies for the use of the Judges and officers of the Court; and also 30 copies for the purpose of being delivered, in the event of an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, to the party appealing to that Court, for use upon such appeal. App. O. 14, 69.

Rules 820, 821.

Number of copies to be delivered.

820. The respondent may, after such printed book has been delivered to the Registrar, apply to a Judge of the Court of Appeal for leave to serve his reasons, upon affidavit accounting for the delay, and such leave may be given upon such terms as the Judge may think proper. App. O. 15.

Leave to deliver reasons against appeal, after book printed, may be granted.

821. A cross appeal shall not under any circumstances be necessary, but if a respondent intends upon the hearing to contend that the decision should be varied, he shall with his reasons against the appeal give notice of such contention to any parties who may be affected by such contention, and such notice shall concisely state the grounds of such contention in the same manner as reasons of appeal are stated. The omission to give such notice, shall not diminish the powers conferred by Act upon the Court of Appeal, but may, in the discretion of the Court, be ground for an adjournment of the appeal, or for a special order as to costs. App. O. 16.

Cross appeal unnecessary—proceedings in lieu of.

This Rule is substantially the same as the English R. Sup. C. 1875, O. 58, r. 6, (1883, R. 870).

Notice by way of cross appeal will come on with the original appeal: see Cooney v. Nicholls, 7 L. R. Ir. 107.

Notice by a respondent under the English Rule to vary the decision of the Court was proceeded upon, though the point was one in which the original appellant had no interest: Ralph v. Carrick, 11 Ch. D. 873. But the Court will not, under the power contained in this Rule, entertain a cross appeal merely on a question of costs: Harris v. Aaron, 4 Ch. D. 749.

Where respondents gave notice of intention to have the judgment varied, and both appeals were dismissed, the appellants were ordered to pay the costs, except such as were occasioned by the notice: The Lauretta, 4 P. D. 25.

Where there were two respondents, one of whom gave a cross notice affecting the other respondent, the appellant, whose appeal was dismissed, was ordered to pay half the costs of both the respondents, and the unsuccessful respondent in the cross appeal was ordered to pay half the costs of the other respondent:

Rules 822, 823.

Harrison v. Cornwall Mineral Ry. Co., 18 Ch. D. 334. Where, however, the costs could not have been materially increased by the notice, no apportionment was made but a fixed sum was allowed for costs incidental to the notice: Robinson v. Drakes, 23 Ch. D. 98.

Where after a cross notice given the appellant discontinues or abandons, the respondent's notice is to be treated as a cross appeal, but the appellant may bring forward the matter of his appeal by way of objection to the cross appeal: "The Beeswing," 10 P. D. 18.

Where relief over claimed by respondent against defendants who do not appeal.

Where one of several defendants appealed, and the plaintiff claimed relief over against the co-defendants who did not appeal, service of notice of appeal, under s. 71 of the Act, supra p. 79, on such co-defendants was held unnecessary but it was held that they were sufficiently notified by being served with the respondent's reasons against the appeal, a copy of the printed appeal book, and notice of the hearing of the appeal: Freed v. Orr, 6 Ont. App. 690. And where a plaintiff appealed as against one of two defendants, and claimed no relief as against the other defendant, but gave him notice of the appeal on the ground that his co-defendant might claim relief over against him, which, however, he did not do, the appeal as against the defendant as to whom no relief was claimed was upon an interlocutory motion dismissed with costs to be paid by the plaintiff: O'Sullivan v. Lake, 12 P. R. 550.

Reasons, what to contain.

822. The reasons for and against the appeal shall contain a statement of the points of law intended to be argued, and the authorities relied upon. App. O. 17.

Appeal books, how to be printed.

823. The appeal book shall be printed on paper of good quality, on one side of the paper only, and in demy-quarto form, with small pica type leaded; and every tenth line of each page shall be numbered in the margin, the numbering to be from the top of each page and not from the beginning of the book; and the size of the books shall be 11 inches in height, and 8½ inches in width. An index showing in detail each pleading, order or entry with its date, each witness by name, each exhibit or other document with its description and date, and all other principal matters, shall be added; it shall be at the beginning of the book and is not to be arranged alphabetically, but in the order in which the matters are printed in the book. The opinions of the Judges of the Court appealed from shall not be printed where the same have already been issued in the regular reports, but a reference to the same shall be given in the appeal books, and shall be sufficient. The style of the cause in the Court below shall be used and retained in the appeal book, and in every proceeding in the Court of Appeal, the designation "appellant" or "respondent" being added, e.g.,

Between A. B. (respondent) and PLAINTIFF.
C. D. (appellant)
DEFENDANT.

App. O. 67, 68.

The following directions respecting the printing of appeal books have been issue by the Court of Appeal. Rules 824-826.

The Registrar, before receiving any appeal book, is to see that the following requirements have been observed :

1. Paper : good quality, printed on one side only. (The book should have the printed page on the left hand side).

2. Form : demy quarto.

3. Type : pica leaded or small pica leaded. (Pica leaded preferred).

4. Marginal numbering of every tenth line of each page.

The numbering of the lines is not to run on through the book, but the lines of each page are to be numbered separately, e.g., 10, 20, 30, 40.

5. Index of principal matters.

The index is to shew in detail

(a) Each pleading, rule, order, or entry, with its date.

(b) Each witness by name.

(c) Each exhibit or other document, with its description and date.

The index is to be at the beginning of the book, and is not to be arranged alphabetically, but in the order in which the matters are printed in the book.

The Registrar is also to see that the title page contains a correct statement of the Court or Judge whose judgment is appealed from. An appeal from a single Judge is to be stated to be an appeal from the Judge, giving his name ; and no appeal is to be called an appeal from the Queen's Bench Division, or from the Chancery Division, or from the Common Pleas Division, unless it is from the judgment of a Divisional Court.

The appeal book is to contain the date of the first proceeding and the date of the filing of the several pleadings at the commencement of the copy thereof : Rule 845.

When Orders 67 and 68 (now Rule 823) were promulgated, a notice was added as follows :

NOTE—Rule 19 (now 824) which precludes the Registrar from receiving books unless printed according to the foregoing terms, will be rigidly enforced. After the above intimation parties will only have themselves to blame should the books be rejected by the Court on account of their not being properly arranged.

824. The Registrar shall not file the case without the leave of a Judge if the preceding Rule has not been complied with. App. O. 19. Otherwise Registrar not to file case.

825. If the press has not been carefully corrected, the Court may disallow the costs of printing, or may decline to hear the appeal, and make such order as to postponement and payment of costs as may seem just. App. O. 20. Costs when errors in press.

In Barber v. Morton, 2 C. L. T. 340, Burton, J.A., said : "I think there is no reason to interfere with the previous decision in this Court as to allowing ten cents a folio for revising proof. It is, I think, little enough if the work is properly done ; and if not properly done then the Court should adhere to its Rule and disallow this charge altogether."

826. The printed case, and the copies thereof for the use of the Court, shall be delivered to the Registrar, within thirty days after the allowance of the security, unless the Time for delivering appeal books.

time shall be extended by the Court of Appeal, or a Judge; and in the case of neglect or omission by the appellant to comply with this Rule, the respondent may apply to a Judge upon 2 clear days' notice to the appellant for an order dismissing the appeal as for want of prosecution, and the Judge may thereupon make such order as to dismissing the appeal, or otherwise, as may appear just. App. O. 21. R. S. O. c. 38, s. 31 (2).

The "security" referred to in this Rule is for the costs of the appeal, and not the security required to be given in order to procure a stay of execution.

The full Court will not interfere with the discretion exercised by a single Judge under this Rule; O'Neill v. Travellers Insurance Co., 9 Ont. App. 54; Platt v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 380.

Where notice of appeal had been served, but no security given, a motion to dismiss the appeal for want of prosecution was refused: Smith v. Smith, 11 P. R. 6; 22 C. L. J. 222.

Appeals, how entered for hearing.

Notice of hearing.

827. Appeals shall be entered by the Registrar upon the list for hearing at the next regular sittings of the Court which shall commence at least 8 days after the receipt by him of the printed copies; and the appellant shall serve the respondent or such respondents as are directly affected by the appeal, with notice of hearing, at least 7 days before the first day of such sittings; and he shall at the same time deliver to the respondent two printed books. App. O. 22. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 32.

An appellant ought to serve notice on all parties who will be affected by the order of the Court of Appeal; and if such person is not served, he may appear without service and obtain costs: Re New Callao, etc., 22 Ch. D. 484.

Court may order parties not served to be notified.

828. If, in the opinion of the Court, any parties not served ought to be notified, the Court may direct service to be made, and may postpone the hearing of the appeal for that purpose, upon such terms as may seem just. App. O. 23.

In Re Salmon, Priest v. Uppleby, 61 L. T. N. S. 146; W. N. 1889, 106, the Court directed third parties to be served, who, if the judgment were reversed, would have to indemnify defendant, the defendant so desiring, though the Court considered that the third parties were only indirectly affected. The defendant was ordered to pay the costs of the adjournment.

Default of parties at hearing—effect of.

829. If either party neglects to appear at the proper day to support, or resist the appeal, the Court may hear the other party, and may give judgment without the intervention of the party so neglecting to appear, or may postpone the hearing upon payment of such costs as the Court shall direct. App. O. 24.

Rules 830-832.

830. The decision of the Court of Appeal shall be certified by the Registrar of the Court of Appeal to the proper officer of the High Court, who shall thereupon make all proper and necessary entries thereof, and all subsequent proceedings may be taken thereupon, as if the decision had been given in the Court below. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 44.

The Clerk to certify result of appeals.

831. Where the Registrar considers a notice of settling the certificate of the Court of Appeal to be proper, he shall appoint a time for the purpose, and two clear days' notice thereof shall be given to the unsuccessful party or parties. App. O. 31.

Certificate of appeal—settlement of.

It was formerly the practice in the Court of Chancery to apply ex parte in Chambers for an order making the certificate of the Court of Appeal an order of the Court of Chancery before proceeding to enforce it. In the Common Law Courts the issue of a rule upon the certificate was held unnecessary: Re McArthur and the Township of Southwold, 8 P. R. 27.

Since the Jud. Act, though not by reason of any provision contained in it, the Master in Chambers has held that an order in Chambers of the High Court is unnecessary: Freed v. Orr, 9 P. R. 181; Lowson v. Canada Farmers Ins. Co., ib., 185, and that the Registrar of the proper Division of the High Court, acting under the present Rule 830, can correct the original judgment from the certificate of the Court of Appeal. This is the practice now to be followed: see Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 8 Ont. App. 613; though there are several cases in which a contrary opinion is expressed: see National Insurance Co. v. Egleson, 9 P. R. 203; Norval v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 339. Process is then issued on the judgment as corrected: Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 8 Ont. App. 613. The inconveniences attending such procedure are pointed out in 19 C. L. J. 302.

The mode of making the entry differs. In the Chancery Division the certificate of the Court of Appeal is entered in the judgment book, and a note referring thereto is made in the margin of the entry of the original judgment, or order, affected thereby. In the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions a new judgment is drawn up, entitled in that Division, reciting the previous judgment, the appeal, and the result thereof as certified, and then concluding with the words, "It is therefore considered that (setting forth the substance of the judgment, as awarded by the Court of Appeal).

The Registrar in drawing up the certificate may introduce any proper and usual provision though not expressly ordered in the judgment delivered on the appeal, and this authority extends to the insertion of directions for the restitution of money paid in obedience to a reversed judgment: McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200.

Any party dissatisfied with the minutes of the certificate, may move to vary them: General Share and Trust Co. v. Wetley, 20 Ch. D. 130, and see Rule 759, et seq.

Moving to vary minutes of certificate.

When the certificate drawn up and issued, does not conform to the judgment of the Court, a motion may be made to amend it so as to make it conform thereto: Ex. John v. Rykert, 3 C. L. T. 119; McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200.

Or to amend same.

Appellants may discontinue.

832. An appellant may discontinue his proceedings by giving to the respondent a notice headed in the Court and cause, and signed by the appellant or his solicitor, stating that he discontinues such proceedings; and thereupon the respondent shall be at once entitled to the costs of and occasioned by the proceedings in appeal, and may either sign judgment for such costs or obtain an order for their payment in the Court below, and may take all further proceedings in that Court as if no appeal had been brought. R. S. O. 1877. c. 38, s. 41.

Where an appellant has given notice of his intention to withdraw his appeal and has obtained respondent's consent, he cannot afterwards revoke it and proceed with the appeal: Watson v. Cave, 29 W. R. 768; 44 L. T. N. S. 40; 50 L. J. Chy. 561; 17 C. L. J. 366.

Where an appellant discontinued, it was held that no order for payment of costs was necessary the present Rule 832, giving the respondent his costs, and the respondent might therefore at once tax costs and obtain the bond for security out of Court to proceed upon it: Hughes v. Hughes, 19 C. L. J. 10.

A respondent may consent to a reversal of the judgment, etc.

833. A respondent may consent to the reversal of the judgment, order or proceeding appealed against, by giving to the appellant a notice headed in the Court and cause, and signed by the respondent or his solicitor, stating that he consents to the reversal of the judgment, order or other proceeding, and thereupon the Court shall pronounce judgment of reversal as of course. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 42.

Appeal to Supreme Court.

834. No case shall be certified on an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, unless the proof sheets of the judgments in the Court of Appeal have been submitted to the Judges thereof for correction. New.

(ii) County Court Appeals.

Original papers to be certified and transmitted in C. C. appeals.

835. For the purpose of avoiding unnecessary expense in appeals from the County Courts—particularly in making copies of papers—it is ordered that the pleadings, motions, orders, and other papers certified to the Court of Appeal under ~~section 41~~ of the Act respecting County Courts, shall be the original papers filed in the County Court; and when the evidence has been taken by an official reporter, his transcript of the evidence used, or prepared for use, in the County Court upon the motion which is the subject of the appeal, shall be the evidence so certified.

Papers—how to be transmitted, and returned.

(a) The said papers, together with the Judge's charge, and his judgment or decision, and also the evidence when not taken by an official reporter, and all objections and exceptions to the evidence, shall be fastened together and transmitted with the Judge's certificate to the Registrar of the Court of Appeal, who is to return them to the County Court when the appeal is disposed of.

(b) It shall not be necessary to certify or transmit the evidence, or the objections or exceptions thereto, in any case in which the appeal is from a judgment or decision upon the pleadings, or upon an action not founded upon the evidence. App. O. 39*a*. Rule 835. Evidence, when need not be certified.

The reference to section 41 in this Rule is no doubt an error for sec. 51 : see R. S. O. c. 47, s. 51.

R. S. O. c. 46, s. 51, which is the section intended to be referred to in this Rule is as follows :

"51. Upon the bond being so approved, or the deposit being paid into Court, the Judge shall, at the request of the appellant, certify under his hand to the Court of Appeal, the pleadings in the cause, and all motions, rules, or orders, made, granted or refused, therein, together with the Judge's charge, and the judgment or decision on the same, and, where a trial has been had, the evidence and all objections and exceptions thereto, and all other papers in the cause affecting the question raised by the appeal."

This section, however, is modified by sec. 45, which provides that the Judge shall only be required to certify the motions, rules, orders, affidavits, evidence, and other materials, necessary for the full understanding of the matter in appeal, together with his judgment or decision on the same.

The words "upon an action" in clause (b) are probably intended to mean "upon a judgment in an action."

COUNTY COURT APPEALS.

County Court appeals are regulated by the provisions of R. S. C. c. 47, ss. 40-52.

Cases in which an Appeal lies from County, and District Courts.—An appeal lies from County and District Courts to the Court of Appeal from a judgment directed by a Judge of any such Court at or after the trial in a case tried by him without a jury, or after the trial upon the special findings of the jury in a case tried with a jury : R. S. O. c. 47, s. 41, s-s. 1, but, instead of appealing to the Court of Appeal, a motion may be made to the County Court for a new trial, or to set aside the judgment on any ground except that upon the evidence given, the judgment so directed is wrong in law : Ib., s-s. 2 ; and see Norton v. McCabe, 12 P. R. 506 ; and in cases tried with a jury instead of appealing to the Court of Appeal, a similar motion may be made before the County Court for a new trial or to set aside the judgment directed to be entered on the findings of the jury upon any ground except that the judgment so directed to be entered is wrong in law : Ib., s-s. 3. Either party may appeal from the judgment of the County Court upon application made under sub-sections 2 and 3, supra : Ib., s-s. 4. Cases in which appeals lie from County Courts.

An appeal also lies to the Court of Appeal at the instance of any party to a cause or matter from every decision made by a Judge of a County Court under any of the powers conferred on him by any Rules of Court or statute, unless provision is therein made to the contrary ; and from every decision or order made by a Judge of a County Court sittings in Chambers under the provisions of the law relating to the examination of debtors : see Rules 926, et seq ; attachment of debts and proceedings against garnishees : see Rules 935, et seq ; and from every decision or order made in any cause or matter disposing of any right or claim, provided always that the decision or order is in its nature final and not merely interlocutory : R. S. O. c. 47, s. 42.

Prior to 45 Vict. c. 6, there could be no appeal from the County Court in garnishee proceedings : Sato v. Hubbard, 6 Ont. App. 546. Although the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeal is not excluded in appeals from the County Court, where a new trial has been granted, or refused, as a matter of discretion, still the Court will not readily interfere in such cases with the discretion exercised by the Judge appealed from: Hunter v. Vanstone, 6 Ont. App. 337; and see Wilson v. Brown, 7 Ont. App. 181; though it may do so, where the evidence strongly preponderates in favour of the appellant: Campbell v. Prince, 5 Ont. App. 330. So also, where the Judge of the County Court finds in favour of the respondent on contradictory evidence, the Court of Appeal will not interfere, even though, if the matter had come before it in the first instance, it would have decided otherwise: Rees v. McKeown, 7 Ont. App. 521.

Where a case is tried by a Judge of a County Court without a jury and he gives judgment, an appeal lies direct therefrom to the Court of Appeal, and it is not necessary to apply in term to the County Court Judge to review his decision: Ferguson v. McMartin, 11 Ont. App. 731. When the case has been tried by a junior Judge, the senior Judge, and a Judge of another County Court, have no jurisdiction to review his decision: Ib. An appeal lies from an order made in a County Court to enter judgment under Rule 739; Bank of Minnesota v. Page, 14 Ont. App. 347.

An appeal will lie upon an interpleader order: Feehan v. Bank, U. C. 10 C. P. 32. An appeal will lie from a decision under The Partition Act, on a special case stated: Re Shaver and Hart, 31 U. C. Q. B. 603; and see Furness v. Mitchell, 3 Ont. App. 510.

Formerly there could be no appeal after judgment entered: Murphy v. Northern Ry. Co., 13 C. P. 32; Duffil v. Dickinson, 14 C. P. 142; Wood v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 16 C. P. 275; but an appeal may now be had from any appealable decision, notwithstanding judgment has been signed, provided that security be given within ten days from the decision appealed against, or within such further time, not exceeding thirty days, as the Judge of the County Court appealed from may allow; and in case the appeal is successful the Court may set aside, or vary, the judgment: see R. S. O. c. 47, s. 43.

Cases in which appeal held not to lie from County Courts.

Cases in which an appeal has been held not to lie. No appeal lies from any decision of a Judge of a County Court in contested municipal election proceedings: Regina ex rel., Grant v. Coleman, 7 Ont. App. 619; R. S. O. c. 184, s. 207.

The order of a Judge on an application to amend, was formerly held not appealable: Branigan v. Stinson, 10 U. C. Q. B. 403; and see Anglin v. Municipality of Kingston, 16 U. C. Q. B. 121; but see Peterkin v. McFarlane, 4 Ont. App. 25; and a decision upon a case by consent without pleadings, was formerly held not to be appealable: Harding v. Knowlson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 564; and when a verdict is entered by consent, subject to the opinion of the Judge upon the law and facts, no appeal will lie from his decision thereon: McCall v. Waddell, 19 C. P. 213; but see now R. S. O. c. 47, s. 42, supra. No appeal lies from the ruling of the Judge as to the right to begin: Hastings v. Earnest, 7 U. C. Q. B. 520.

An appeal will not lie from the granting of a rule nisi before it has been made absolute, or discharged: Robinson v. Richardson, 32 U. C. Q. B. 344; but it seems that the rule absolute, or rule discharging the rule nisi, need not be taken out before appeal: Penton v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 28 U. C. Q. B. 367.

The Court formerly refused to entertain an appeal, where the decision turned wholly upon the evidence, and involved no point of law: Fowler v. McDonald, 3 U. C. Q. B. 385; Bradley v. Crane, 4 U. C. Q. B. 122; Manning v. Ashall, 23 U. C. Q. B. 302; Clark v. Hurlburt, 6 C. P. 438; McKinstry v. Furby, 24 U. C. Q. B. 176; Harris v. Robinson, 25 U. C. Q. B. 247. Nor where the Judge granted a new trial on the ground that he had not sufficiently directed the jury as to the law: Somers v. Livingstone, 24 U. C. Q. B. 64.

Who may appeal.

Who May Appeal.—Besides the actual parties to the cause, persons suing or being sued in the name of others, though not mentioned in the record, and persons on whose behalf, or for whose benefit any suit is prosecuted or defended, may appeal: see R. S. O. c. 47, s. 40.

Time for appealing.

Time for Appealing.—No time is expressly limited by the Statute within which an appeal from a County Court must be lodged: but proceedings are only authorized to be stayed for a period not exceeding thirty days in all, to enable the appellant to give the security required: R. S. O. c. 47, ss. 43, 46.

All appeals, however, must be set down to be heard at the first sittings of the Court for the hearing of arguments which shall commence after the expiration of thirty days from the decision complained of: see Rule 856. Rule 835.

Sunday is not reckoned in the thirty days where it is the first day: Cooper v. Dixon, 3 C. L. T. 198; nor where it is the last day: see Rule 476.

Security to be given on appeals from C. C.

Security.—Every appellant must give security for such sum as the Judge may direct, either by bond, or by payment into Court.

Condition of bond.

If a bond be given it must be executed by two persons, whether named as sureties or as parties interested or otherwise, and must be for such sum as the Judge of the Court appealed from directs, conditioned that the appellant shall abide by the decision of the cause by the Court of Appeal, and pay all sums of money and costs, as well of the suit as of the appeal, awarded and taxed to the opposite party: R. S. O. c. 47, s. 47.

Affidavits of justification, and of execution of bond, to be filed.

Affidavits of justification to the amount of the penalty of the bond, are to be made by the obligors, and annexed to the bond, and an affidavit of the due execution of the bond is also necessary. These affidavits should be entitled in the cause. The bond with these affidavits is then to be produced to the Judge of the Court appealed from, to be approved by him, and, when approved, is to be filed in the office of the Court appealed from, until the opinion of the Court of Appeal has been given, when it is to be delivered out to the successful party: Ib. ss. 47-49.

Whem the Judge refuses to certify the proceedings on the ground of an alleged insufficiency of the bond, the question as to its sufficiency may be tested by an application for a mandamus to compel the Judge to certify: Regina v. Wells, 17 U. C. Q. B. 545; In re Keenahan v. Preston, 21 U. C. Q. B. 461.

Objections to sufficiency of bond, how taken.

But when the Judge has allowed the bond and certified the proceedings to the Court of Appeal, the Court of Appeal will not refuse to hear the appeal, nor will it entertain an application to strike out the appeal on objections to the form, or amount, of the bond, or the sufficiency of the sureties, or on the ground that the bond was not filed in due time; Penton v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 28 U. C. Q. B. 367; McLellan v. McLellan, 2 C. L. J. 297; Haworth v. Fletcher, 20 U. C. Q. B. 278; but see Pentland v. Heath, 24 U. C. Q. B. 464. Applications to set aside the bond must be made to the Judge of the County Court.

The appeal bond, conditioned as prescribed by the statute, is security both for the costs of the appeal, and also for the costs below: Waddell v. Robertson, 26 U. C. Q. B. 376.

Staying proceedings pending appeal.

Staying Proceedings.—Proceedings may be stayed for thirty days to enable security to be given: R. S. O. c. 47, s. 46. The allowance of the security, is in practice regarded as a stay of further proceedings, but there appears to be no provision in the Rules or statutes, which makes the perfecting of security ipso facto a stay of proceedings pending the appeal, though possibly in some cases the respondent would find difficulty in enforcing his judgment, pending the appeal, owing to all the original papers being transmitted to the Court of Appeal under Rule 835.

The Court appealed from would, however, have inherent jurisdiction, to make an order granting such stay pending the appeal: see Cotton v. Corby, 5 U. C. L. J. 67.

As to appeals from Division Courts: see R. S. O. c. 51, s. 148, as amended by 51 Vict. c. 10, s. 2.

As to appeals from Provisional Judicial District Courts: see R. S. O. c. 91, s. 56.

As to appeals from stipendary magistrates: see R. S. O. c. 91, sec. 31.

Rules 836-840.

C. C. appeals when to be set down.

836. An appeal shall be set down to be heard at the first sittings of the Court for the hearing of arguments which commences after the expiration of 30 days from the decision complained of. App. O. 40.

Sunday is not reckoned in the thirty days' notice, when it is the first day: Cooper v. Dixon, 3 C. L. T. 198, (sed quære); nor where it is the last day: see Rule 476.

C. C. appeal how set down.

837. An appeal shall be set down for hearing, by delivering to the Registrar of the Court of Appeal, at least 8 days before the sittings at which the appeal is to be heard, the certified copy of the pleadings, proceedings, evidence and other matters required by section 41 of chapter 43 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, and ten appeal books for the use of the Judges of the Court of Appeal and the officers of the Court. App. O. 41.

The reference in this Rule is to the Revised Statutes of 1877. The statute intended to be referred is now R. S. O. c. 47, s. 51.

Where an appeal is not duly prosecuted, it may be dismissed for want of prosecution, on application to a Judge of the Court of Appeal in Chambers, and his decision will not usually be interfered with: Platt v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 24 C. L. J. 121.

Appeal books, how printed.

838. The books shall be printed on paper of good quality, on one side of the paper only, in demy quarto-form, with small pica type, leaded, and every tenth line of each page shall be numbered in the margin, commencing from the top of each page and not from the beginning of the book, and a statement of the reasons of appeal shall form a part thereof. App. O. 42.

The appeal books are printed by the appellant without any previous settlement of the case. If the respondent is dissatisfied with the case printed by the appellant, he must apply to a Judge of the Court of Appeal in Chambers to set it aside, unless he merely complains of an omission, in which case he may, under Rule 843, deliver a memorandum of such omitted matter to the Registrar.

Pleadings, how to be printed.

839. A full copy of the pleadings shall not be printed in the books, unless it be necessary for the proper consideration of the question raised upon the appeal, ex. gr. in questions arising on demurrer. In other cases it shall be sufficient to state the substance of the pleadings, in a brief form, but so as to be intelligible. App. O. 43.

Evidence not relevant, not to be printed.

840. It shall not be necessary to print evidence which does not bear upon the question in appeal, but the books must always contain the opinion delivered by the Judge on any motion against the verdict or judgment, and his charge in case of a trial by a jury, and his note of judgment in case of a trial by himself. App. O. 44. Rules 841-846.

See Re McConnell, 33 W. R. 359, a case involving the construction of a will, where there was no shorthand writer's note of the judgment appealed from and no note by counsel on either side, and in consequence, the Court in allowing the appeal gave no costs.

841. Exhibits used at the trial shall not be printed in the books, unless their contents are material to the question in appeal, and then only such parts as are material. App. O. 45. Exhibits, how far to be printed.

842. All formal matters, such as copies of the motion papers and rules discharging, or making rules nisi absolute, shall be omitted, but such reference shall be made to them including the dates thereof, as may appear necessary for giving a clear and intelligible statement of the case. App. O. 46. Formal proceedings not to be printed in extenso.

843. The appellant shall, at least 6 days before the sittings at which the appeal is to be heard, serve the respondent with the notice of the setting down of the appeal, and with a copy of the ~~printed~~ appeal book, and of the grounds and reasons of his appeal. ~~In case the respondent is of opinion that any necessary matter has been omitted, he may at any time before the hearing leave with the Registrar a memorandum briefly referring to such omitted matter.~~ App. O. 48. Appeal book and notice of setting down, to be served on respondent six days before sittings.

844. If the foregoing Rules are not complied with, the appeal shall not be heard, unless the Court or a Judge, ... ll, on application made upon 2 clear days notice to the respondent, otherwise order. App. O. 50. Otherwise appeal not heard.

845. All books, as well in High Court, as County Court appeals, shall contain the date of the first proceeding in the suit or matte... ; and the dates of the filing of the several pleadings shall be stated at the commencement of the copy or summary thereof. In the event of non-compliance with this Rule, the books will not be received by the Registrar, nor will the appeal be heard. App. O. 52. Non-compliance with Rules, effect of.

2. Appeals from Chambers.

846. Any person affected (x) by any order or decision of the Master in Chambers, a Local Judge or a local Master, may appeal therefrom to a Judge of the High Court in Chambers : Appeal to Judge

Rule 846.

(a) Such appeal may be made notwithstanding that the order or decision was in respect of a proceeding or matter as to which the Local Judge or officer aforesaid had jurisdiction only by consent;

(b) The appeal shall be by motion, on notice served within 4 days after the decision complained of, or within such further time as may be allowed by a Judge of the High Court or by the Local Judge or officer aforesaid whose decision is complained of;

(c) The motion shall be made within 9 days after the decision has been made which is appealed against, or within such further time as may be allowed as aforesaid;

The original Rule named eight days. The notice is to be served within four days, and the motion to be made returnable within nine days from the decision complained of: see Steedman v. Hakim, 22 Q. B. D. 16, under an Eng. R. in different terms.

(d) In such case, the Deputy Registrar, Deputy Clerk of the Crown or Local Registrar, shall, on a præcipe being filed in this behalf, transmit to the proper officer of the High Court of Justice all documents filed in his office and required for disposing of the appeal; and the same shall be transmitted by mail, prepaid and registered except where all parties interested in such documents file a consent to any other mode of transmission. The said documents shall be returned in like manner when the appeal has been disposed of;

(e) The appeal shall be no stay of proceedings unless so ordered by a Judge of the High Court or by the Judge or officer whose decision is complained of. J. A. Rule 427.

Compare Eng. R. 1883, R. 410.

In Laidlaw v. Miller, 11 P. R. 335, it was held that an appeal might be made to a Judge without reference to the Division to which an action is assigned. The contrary was held in Re Christie, Christie v. Christie, 12 P. R. 15, and in practice the latter case is followed, though in case of necessity a Judge of any Division would have jurisdiction to hear the appeal; his leave should, however, be first obtained.

This Rule governs appeals from the Master in Chambers and the County Judges, and Local Masters, acting under Rules 41 and 138: Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9 P. R. 188.

There is no power to vary an order except in the manner provided by the Act, or Rule, e.g., by way of appeal or motion to discharge under sec. 69 of the Act or Rule 536: see Atty.-Gen. v. Llewellyn, 58 L. T. N. S. 367; and Re Adam Eyton, Limited, 36 Ch. D., at p. 301, and notes to Rule 780.

(x) Any person affected by an order may appeal, and therefore an appeal lies from an ex parte order by a person affected thereby: Wigle v. Harris, 9 P. R. 276; G. T. Ry. Co. v. Ont. & Que. Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 420; but an application to set aside an order made ex parte, and without knowledge of the facts, is not an appeal, and not within this Rule: Hughes v. Field, 1 C. L. T. 702.

Rule 846.

The time for appealing runs from the pronouncing of the order, and not from the day upon which it was issued: Miller v. Stillwell, 21 C. L. J. 98, following Dayer v. Robertson, 9 P. R. 78. The contrary was at one time decided in McNeil v. McGregor, 3 C. L. T. 309; see Heatley v. Newton, 19 Ch. D. 326; Gibb v. Murphy, 2 Chy. Ch. 132; see also Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9 P. R. 185.

Where the time expires on a Sunday or holiday, Rule 476 applies: see that Rule and Taylor v. Jones, 45 L. J. C. P. 110.

Some difference exists also between the practice of the Chy. Div. and that of the other Divisions, in regard to bringing on the appeal within the time. The Judges in the Q. B. D. and C. P. D. have sometimes over-ruled objections that the appeal is too late, and treated the motion as a substantive motion to rescind an order improperly made.

An appeal from a decision of a Master refusing to rescind a former order was held tantamount to an appeal from the first order, and dismissed as too late under this Rule: Jamieson v. Prince Albert Colonization Co., 11 P. R. 115.

Extending appealing.

Orders extending the time should not be made ex parte: Hamilton v. Tweed, 9 P. R. 448. It has been held that leave to serve short notice of appeal should not be obtained from the Master in Chambers; he has no power to shorten the time on a motion not returnable before himself: Donovan v. Boultbee, 2 C. L. T. 501; sed quære, see clauses (b) and (c): see 1 C. L. T. 614, 645. time for

Where an order was made on Friday, so that two clear days' notice of appeal could not be given for the next Chamber day (Monday), application was made ex parte within four days, for leave to bring on the appeal on the following Thursday, but leave was given instead for the following Monday, and no order was taken out extending the time. It was held not an application for an extension of time, and an objection that the appeal could not be heard as eight days' notice (the time named under the original Rule), had expired, was over-ruled: Standard Bank v. Wells, 10 P. R. 159.

The time was extended where there was the intention to appeal, but by misapprehension of the new practice, the time was allowed to pass: Dayer v. Robertson, 9 P. R. 78; also where it was supposed Christmas vacation did not count in computing the time: Sievewright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200. But in Snowdon v. Huntington, 12 P. R. 1, notice of appeal given Dec. 24 for Jan. 10, the first day after vacation when a Judge sat in Chambers, was held not good notice. The notice should have been given for a day within the eight (now nine) days, and then an extension of the time for bringing on the appeal should have been applied for on an ex parte application as of course: see also Wallingford v. Mutual Soc., 5 App. Cas. 685; see also Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9 P. R. 185; Carter v. Stubbs, 6 Q. B. D. 116; Gibbons v. London Financial Association, 4 C. P. D. 263. The motion by way of appeal must be served within four days, and be made returnable within the nine days: see Bell v. N. Staffordshire Ry. Co., 5 Q. B. D. 205. The application to enlarge the time should in general be made within the nine days: Stirling v. Du Barry, 5 Q. B. D. 65.

Setting down.

Appeals in the Chancery Division must be set down as formerly, not later than the preceding Saturday: Rand v. Rolph, 2 C. L. T. 151. This is not required in the other Divisions, but the appeal is brought on like an ordinary motion.

If an appeal is not properly set down, a motion to strike it out must be made instead of objecting, when the appeal comes on: McCaw v. Pontpn, 11 P. R. 328.

Appeals from a Judge in Chambers to a Divisional Court are governed by Rule 847.

The Master's discretion is open to review on an appeal under this Rule: Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

Waiver.

A right to appeal may be waived by acting upon the order appealed from: International Wrecking Co. v. Lobb, 12 P. R. 207, or otherwise recognizing it, e.g., by obtaining an extension of time for complying with it: Pierce v. Palmer, 12 P. R. 308, where a motion by defendant to set aside a judgment for irregu-

Rule 847. larty was refused, but defendant was let in to defend on terms, and he was held to have waived the right to appeal from the refusal to set aside the judgment by obtaining an extension of the time for compliance with the terms. See also Re Smart, 12 P. R. at p. 638; Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249.

Fresh evidence on appeals.

Under the English Judicature Act an appeal is in all cases a rehearing, and fresh facts may be gone into: Anon, per Lush, J., 60 L. T. Jour. 67; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 128. "Every appeal is now a rehearing, and therefore fresh affidavits may be used on all appeals from a Master to a Judge in Chambers": per Quain, J., Anon, W. N. 1875, 250; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 129. "This ruling has been held by other Judges and confirmed by the Court" (Coe's Practice in the Judge's Chambers, p. 6.) It may be doubted whether this is the case in Ontario. Fresh evidence may be given by leave only under Rule 585; see Taylor v. Sisters, etc., of Ottawa, 11 P. R. 496. In Re Neath Harbour etc., Works, 20 Sol. Jour. 26, it was said that each case must in this respect depend upon its own circumstances; fresh evidence was there allowed, also in Robinson v. Bradshaw, 32 W. R. 95.

In Re Munns v. Longden, 32 W. R. 675; 50 L. T. N. S. 356, it was held that the Court will not receive further evidence on a motion to discharge an order made in Chambers, where the motion has been fully argued and disposed of: see also notes to Rule 585.

Where it is intended to apply for leave to use fresh affidavits or documentary evidence, notice should be given to the opposite party that such leave will be applied for on the hearing of the appeal: Hastie v. Hastie, 1 Ch. D. 562; see Bigsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D. 24; and Dicks v. Brooks, 13 Ch. D. 654.

Costs of affidavits in answer to fresh affidavits were refused where the fresh affidavits were not allowed to be read: Mitchell v. Condy, W. N. 1881, 83.

Appeal to Div. Court.

847. Every appeal to a Divisional Court from any decision of a Judge at Chambers shall be by motion, which shall be set down at latest on the day before the sittings, and shall be made at the first sittings of a Divisional Court which takes place after the decision complained of unless otherwise ordered. See J. A. Rule 414.

Not the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 54, r. 6, amended by Rule 8, of March, 1879, (1883, R. 757).

This Rule applies only to appeals under sec. 69 of the Act to the Court from a Judge in Chambers, not from the Master in Chambers, or Local Judges. Appeals of the latter kind are governed by Rule 846: Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9 P. R. 185.

The original Rule required that the motion should be made within eight days and difficulties arose in consequence, as it was held in England not to be sufficient to give notice of motion within that time: see Fox v. Wallis, 2 C. P. D. 45; see also Jackson v. Gardner, 15 Gr. 425; Harris v. Meyers, 16 Gr. 117: McIlroy v. Hawke, 3 Chy. Ch. 66; Taylor v. Jones, 45 L. J. C. P. 110; Hewson v. Macdonald, 2 C. L. T. 348; McLaren v. Marks, 10 P. R. 451; Steadmean v. Hakim, 22 Q. B. D. 16.

The present Rule makes entirely different provision. An appeal from a Judge in Chambers is to be brought on at the next following sittings of a Divisional Court of the proper Division, unless otherwise ordered. Notice must be served two clear days before the first day of the sittings, and the motion must be set down, at latest, the day before the sittings.

An order made at the Assizes on a motion referred from Chambers to change the venue, was held to be in Chambers. The Judge may treat the Court-room as his Chambers if he chooses: Sarnia Agricultural Implement, etc., Co. v. Perdue, 11 P. R. 224.

YORK UNIVERSITY

A solicitor knowing of a preliminary objection to an appeal which he intends to raise ought, as a matter of professional courtesy, to inform his opponent, but the omission to do so is not a sufficient ground for depriving the respondent of the costs of the appeal: Ex p. Sheed, re Mundy, 15 Q. B. D. 338, not following Re Speight, 13 Q. B. D. 42; and Ex p. Blease, 14 Q. B. D. 123. Rule 848.

The Court on appeal will, in general, not interfere on a question which is by the practice purely within the discretion of the Judge: McDonnell v. McKay, 2 Chy. Ch. 243; Neill v. Travellers' Ins. Co., 9 Ont. App. 54.

3. Appeals from Masters and Referees.

848. Every report shall become absolute at the expiration of fourteen days from the day of filing the same, including such day, unless notice of appeal is served within that time. See Chy. O. 252. Report when absolute.

This Rule is considered to apply to all reports including those of commissioners to admeasure dower under R. S. O. 1887, c. 56, s. 12.

The heading of this group of Rules would seem to indicate that the procedure therein laid down is intended to apply to reports made by Official Referees, as well as to those made by Masters. This and the two following Rules apply only to appeals from reports, made by Masters, and Referees. Where they are exercising jurisdiction in Chambers under Rules 31, 138, appeals from their decisions are regulated by Rule 846.

Reports which require Confirmation.—All reports and certificates, which are the subject of appeal, are, as a general rule, required to be confirmed before they can be acted on: Scott v. Livesey, 2 Sim. & S. 300; or any application can be made to the Court founded thereon: Hayes v. Hays, 8 P. R. 546; Nichols v. McDonald, 6 Gr. 594; Craven v. Ingham, 58 L. T. N. S. 486. There are, however, some reports, and certificates, which may be acted upon without confirmation, on their being filed. Reports which require confirmation, may be confirmed by special order before the expiration of the time limited for appealing therefrom, upon consent of all parties interested. An order confirming a report may be made by the Master in Chambers. Reports requiring confirmation.

Reports which do not require to be Confirmed.—All reports, or certificates, of mere calculation: Lewis v. Talbot St. Road Co., 10 P. R. 15; and of matters of opinion, which do not require any further order from the Court to give effect to, or sanction them,—except reports on sales,—do not require confirmation. Under this head are included certificates of compliance, or non-compliance, with any order of the Master, or of the Court, (but not certificates of insufficient compliance; e.g., that accounts filed are insufficient in substance and form: Foster v. Morden, 9 P. R. 70). Certificates for commissions to take evidence; certificates of scandal, or impertinence, in pleadings, or affidavits, referred to the Master; reports appointing trustees, or committees: but see Finkle v. Date, 7 P. R. 413; Foster v. Morden, supra;) reports on passing the accounts of receivers, or committees; reports computing subsequent interest, or of apportionment of a fund on principles and in proportions, declared by the Court: reports approving of conveyances; and other certificates and reports of a like description; see Sm. Pr. 2nd ed., Vol. II., 357-8. Reports not requiring confirmation.

No Appeal After Confirmation without Leave.—After a report requiring confirmation has been confirmed, no appeal from it will be entertained without leave first given, on special application: Thomson v. Luke, 10 Gr. 281. No appeal after confirmation without leave.

After the cause or matter has been heard on further directions, the Court has no power to permit an appeal from the report upon which the order or judgment on further directions is founded: Re Dingman v. Hall, 13 P. R. 232. Effect of confirmation.

Effect of Confirmation.—After confirmation, the parties are concluded by the report; yet the Court in its discretion may refuse to act upon it, and may refer the cause back to the Master, or require additional information to be furnished: Taylor v. Craven, 10 Gr. 488; Baldwin v. Crawford, 1 Gr. 202; Harrison v. McSheehan, 80 L. T. Jour. 79.

LAW LIBRARY

Clerical errors may be corrected notwithstanding.

Notwithstanding confirmation, clerical errors, and accidental slips, in a report, may be corrected at any time upon motion in Chambers, without appeal: Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453; King v. Connor, 10 Gr. 364; Watson v. Moore, 1 Chy. Ch. 266; and where the error was apparent on the face of the report, the application was granted ex parte: White v. Courtney, 1 Chy. Ch. 11. But although the error be apparent, it does not follow that the proper correction is apparent, and the motion therefore is usually required to be on notice, or consent: Simpson v. Ottawa, 2 Chy. Ch. 12. Mistakes in a report, however, cannot be corrected by the Master mero motu, on any subsequent reference in the action: Crooks v. Street, 1 Chy. Ch. 78; but on a reference back upon an appeal, when the Court enunciates a principle, which is applicable to other parties, and other points, than those expressly concerned in the appeal, it is the duty of the Master so to apply that principle in all cases to which it is applicable in making his new report, even though it involve the readjustment of an account not appealed from: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 306; and see Gilbert v. Jarvis, 20 Gr. 478.

Report stands confirmed, as to matters not appealed.

Even though an appeal be had, the report will stand confirmed as to matters not objected to by the appeal, and which the decision on the appeal does not affect: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 308; Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206. And when the report is referred back, an appeal will not lie from the further report, for matters disposed of by the first report, and not objected to on the first appeal: Ross v. Perrault, supra, or affected thereby: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 308.

Waiver of objection that appeal too late.

When notice of appeal is delivered, without leave, after a report is confirmed, the delivery of notice of cross-appeal is a waiver of the objection: Larkin v. Armstrong, 1 Chy. Ch. 31.

Report not to be dated before costs revised, made in vacation, is irregular.

The report should not be dated before the costs have been revised, where revision is necessary: Waddell v. McColl, 14 Gr. 211. A report made in vacation without the consent of all parties is irregular: Anderson v. Thorpe, 12 Gr. 542; and as to parties who have no notice, it is a nullity: Fuller v. McLean, 8 P. R. 549; but parties having notice of the proceedings before the Master in vacation, must move against them, or they will be confirmed: Mitchell v. Mitchell, 22 Gr. 23.

Confirmation of report.

Notice.

Confirmation of Report.—A report requiring confirmation now becomes absolute at the expiration of fourteen days from the filing, unless in the meantime motion of appeal is served. An application to extend the time for appealing from a report, even before confirmation, must be made on notice: see Hamilton v. Tweed, 9 P. R. 448; as also an application for leave to appeal after the time has expired: Peterborough v. Ireton, before Proudfoot, J., Nov. 11th, 1883.

Special order confirming report, when made.

Where it is desired to confirm a report before the expiration of the 14 days, a special application in Chambers may be made for that purpose, but such applications are granted only where all parties entitled to appeal consent: Patterson v. Gilbert, 12 P. R. 652, and it is considered undesirable that an officer should make an order confirming his own report: Ib.

Filing report; time for.

Filing Report.—The report must be filed before an appeal will lie: Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546. If it appoint a day for payment of money, it should be filed before the day of payment: Mills v. Dixon, 2 Chy. Ch. 53; and confirmed: Mountain v. Porter, 1 Chy. Ch. 207, if it is a report requiring confirmation. No proceedings can properly be taken on a report until filed, either by the issue of process, or otherwise: Beames' Ord. 293; Jellett v. Anderson, 8 P. R. 38; even though the report or certificate be one not requiring confirmation: Ib; but such reports can be acted on, immediately on filing, it is not necessary to wait fourteen days: Re Yaggie, 7 U. C. L. J. 293.

In cases of references to Local Masters the report is to be filed in the office of the Local Master. In all other cases the report is to be filed in the proper office at Toronto, i.e., to say in the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Division in the office of the Registrar, and in the Chancery Division in the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs: see Rule 84.

No appeal after con-

Leave to Appeal after Confirmation.—After a report is confirmed, leave to appeal from it may be granted on motion in Chambers. The application must be made on notice, or consent: Cozens v. McDougal, 1 Chy. Ch. 29; Cade v. Newhall, 1 Chy. Ch. 200; Peterborough v. Ireton, before Proudfoot, J., 11th November, 1883; all parties are entitled to notice even though they be in the same interest as the party seeking to appeal: Larkin v. Armstrong, 1 Chy. Ch. 31. Where leave has been granted ex parte, the objection to the order may be taken on the appeal coming on for argument: Peterborough v. Ireton, supra. On such application it is necessary to account for the delay, and to show a primâ facie ground of appeal: Dickson v. Avery, 3 Chy. Ch. 222; Rowe v. Wert, 13 C. L. J. 326; Caisse v. Burnham, 6 P. R. 201; Dudley v. Berczy, 3 Chy. Ch. 81; Chard v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 120. It is not absolutely necessary that the grounds of the proposed appeal, should be stated in the notice of motion for leave to appeal: Romanes v. Herns, 1 Chy. Ch. 363; but reasonable, and probable, grounds of appeal, must be shown by the affidavits: Ib., and a mere statement of the proposed grounds of appeal in the notice of motion will not suffice: De Blaquiere v. Armstrong, 9 C. L. J. 363; but costs unnecessarily incurred in making out a case on the merits were disallowed: Nash v. Glover, 6 P. R. 267. The Master in Chambers has jurisdiction to entertain the application: Russel v. Brucken, 3 Chy. Ch. 488; Sievewright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200.

Rules 849, 850.

Confirmation without leave.

What necessary to be shown on application.

Master in Chambers may grant leave.

Leave to appeal was refused with costs, where it appeared that the object of the appeal, was to fix executors with interest upon a sum which they had invested, and upon which a loss had been incurred: Coates v. McGlashan, 2 Chy. Ch. 218; so also when the matter had been heard on further directions, and an order pronounced founded on the report: Re Dingman and Hall, 13 P. R. 232.

But leave was granted where time was allowed to elapse through the mistake of the solicitors in supposing that his clients would be entitled to the benefit of the appeal of their co-defendants: Re Gabourie, Casey v. Gabourie, 12 P. R. 252; and see Sievewright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200; but see Blackstock v. McFarlane, 15 C. L. J. 137.

849. The notice of appeal shall be a seven clear days' notice, shall set out the grounds of appeal, and shall be returnable within one month from the date of the report, unless otherwise ordered. See Chy. O. 642.

Notice of appeal.

As to the time for appealing, see notes to Rule 82, p. 187.

As to whether appeals now lie from a ruling of a Master, see Markle v. Ross, and note thereon in the notes to Rule 82, p. 187. In Maclennan v. Gray, 12 P. R. 431, it was held that the time for appealing from a ruling runs from the date of the ruling irrespective of the date of the certificate of such ruling.

850. The appeal shall be set down for argument before a Judge in Court for the day on which the motion is returnable. New.

Setting down.

Formerly appeals from reports were required to be set down for hearing before a Judge in Chambers; and the Judge in Chambers might, if he saw fit, adjourn the appeal into Court. Under this Rule the appeal is to be set down to be heard in Court in the first instance.

A Divisional Court has no power to hear an appeal from a Master's report, except by consent; the appeal is to a single Judge: Clarke v. Jamieson, 9 C. L. T. 97.

Costs of Appeals from Master's Reports.—When some grounds of appeal are allowed with costs, and others disallowed with costs, the appellant is entitled to all the costs of the appeal that are exclusively applicable to the objections allowed, and to a proportionate share of those costs common to all the objections, according to the number of really distinct grounds of appeal on which he succeeds; and the same rule applies to the costs of a respondent: Bank of Montreal v. Ryan, 13 Gr. 204; Trinity College v. Hill, 8 Ont. 286.

Costs of appeals from reports, how awarded.

LAW LIBRARY

Rule 851. Sometimes, instead of giving costs to each party of so much of the appeal as to which he succeeds, the general costs of the appeal are awarded to one of the parties, subject to the deduction of a proportionate part of the gross amount, in respect of the partial success of the other party. Thus, when there were four distinct grounds of appeal embraced in eleven objections, of which objections only two were allowed, the Court gave the general costs of the appeal to the respondent, deducting therefrom one-fourth in respect of the partial success of the appellant: Ferguson v. Frontenac, 21 Gr. 188.

General rule is, that costs follow the event.

In the disposition of the costs of appeals from Master's reports, the Judges will probably continue to follow the rules of the Court of Chancery. The general rule is, that the costs should follow the event of the appeal: Downey v. Roaf, 6 P. R. 89; Huntington v. Van Brocklin, 8 Gr. 421; and the word "event" is to be understood distributively: Bank of Montreal v. Ryan, 13 Gr. 204. But where the appeal fails on the principal point involved, and succeeds only as to a comparatively insignificant one, the whole costs of the appeal may be given to the respondent: Brownlee v. Cunningham, 13 Gr. 586. And where the Court is of opinion, that the finding of the Master was a fit subject for discussion under the circumstances, although the appeal be dismissed, costs may be refused: Secord v. Terryberry, 14 Gr. 172, and costs have also been refused of a successful appeal, where the report was defective, and the solicitors appeared to have been negligent: Clouster v. McLean, 10 Gr. 576.

But secus when appeal successful only on a trifling point.

Costs, when appeal dismissed or allowed on point, not adjudicated upon by Master.

When an appeal was dismissed on a ground raised for the first time on the appeal, and not adjudicated upon by the Master, the Court refused costs: Heward v. Wolfenden, 14 Gr. 188; McDonald v. Wright, Ib., 284, and the same rule applies when the appeal is successful on a ground not taken before the Master: Goddard v. Jeffreys, 46 L. T. N. S. 904. Where an appeal by an executrix was allowed without costs, on the hearing on further directions, the Court refused to order costs of the appellant to be paid out of the estate: Story v. Dunlop, 13 Gr. 375.

4. Appeals from Taxation.

Review of taxation by Judge.

851. Any party who may be dissatisfied with the certificate of the taxing master; as to any item or part of an item which may have been objected to, as provided by Rules 1230 and 1231, may apply to a Judge at Chambers for an order to review the taxation as to the same item or part of an item, and the Judge may thereupon make such order as to the Judge may seem just; but the certificate of the taxing master shall be final and conclusive as to all matters which shall not have been objected to in manner aforesaid. J. A. Rule, 449.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, Aug. 12th, R. 32 [1883, O. 65, r. 27 (41)] except as to the time for appealing.

The Master in Chambers had, under this Rule and Rules of Feb., 1870, no jurisdiction to review taxations: see note to Rule 30; but an appeal now lies to him, or the Master in Ordinary, under Rule 854, from the Taxing Officer in Toronto, pending a taxation.

This Rule applies both to appeals from the Taxing Officer in Toronto and the Local Taxing Officers: Rule 196. Before the Act on which Rule 196 is founded, there was no direct appeal from the Local Officers. The old practice of revision in their cases was continued, except as to the length of notice of revision: see Crowe v. Steeper, 2 C. L. T. 88; Exchange Bank v. Newell, 9 P. R. 528.

Matters in discretion of T.O.

Where questions of taxation are in the Master's discretion, his discretion will not be interfered with, unless it be manifest that he has failed to exercise it in a reasonable manner: The Neera, 5 P. D. 118; Hargreaves v. Scott, 4 C. P. D. 21; and will not in general interfere with the decision of the Taxing Officer as to items in regard to which he has exercised a discretion left to him by the Rules: Smith v. Wills, 34 W. R. 30; 53 L. T. N. S. 386; see also Boswell v. Cooke, 36 Ch. D., 444; Re Hillyard and Royal Ins. Co., 12 P. R. 285; Gall v. Collins, 12 P. R. 413. Rules 852, 853.

The Taxing Officer's decision, as to the amount of counsel's fees, will not be interefered with, unless a gross mistake is made: Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517; see also Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry., 7 P. R. 157; Betts v. Cleaver, L. R. 7 Chy. 513; Re Bethune & Co., 4 C. L. T. 251; Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 600. The Court will slowly and reluctantly enter into all questions of quantum merely: Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19 Eq. 478: Morgan and Wurtzburg on Costs, 480.

The decision of the Taxing Officer, as to items placed by the tariff in his discretion, such as instructions for motions, letters, attendances, will not be reviewed: McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555; see also Turnbull v. Janson, 3 C. P. D. 264.

An appeal from a taxation of costs in Appeal is properly made to a Judge of the High Court, quære: Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 600.

A memorandum at the foot of the bill shewing the result upon which execution had issued, was held to be a sufficient certificate, where filed in the proper office: McCallum v. McCallum, 11 P. R. 179; but an informal certificate written at the end of the bill, shewing that it was fixed at so much, initialed by the Taxing Officer, marked filed in his office, is insufficient: Gall v. Collins, 12 P. R. 413. It must be filed in the proper office for filing a report: see Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 44. Certificate.

Two clear days' notice of appeal is sufficient: McCallum v. McCallum, supra.

An appeal will not be allowed as to any items not included in the objections brought in under Rules 1230 and 1231: Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273; and where no objections have been brought in under Rules 1230 and 1231, the appeal will be dismissed: Snowden v. Huntington, 12 P. R. 1; Cameron v. Cameron, 9 C. L. T. 196; see also Hester v. Hester, 34 Ch. D. 607; Re Nation, 37 L. T. N. S. 648.

Appeals from a Taxing Officer, in respect to a solicitor and client taxation, were formerly brought before the Court in the same way as other appeals from a Master: see Exchange Bank v. Newell, 9 P. R. 528, and Rule 848. It would seem now, however, that all appeals in respect to taxations are to be brought under this Rule. Sol. and client taxation.

852. No appeal shall lie unless a notice thereof is given within four days from the day of the date of the certificate, and is brought on for argument within ~~nine~~ days from the said day. New. When appeal lies.

This practice is similar to that on appeals from the Master in Chambers: see note to Rule 846.

This Rule is in affirmance of what was held to be the practice in Stark v. Fisher, 11 P. R. 235; Ireland v. Pitcher, Ib., 403. The time may be enlarged by the Master in Chambers, or a Judge: Quay v. Quay, 11 P. R. 258.

The time runs from the date of the certificate of taxation, and not from the date of each ruling in the course of the taxation: Re O'Donohoe, 12 P. R. 612.

853. Such application shall be heard and determined by the Judge upon the evidence which shall have been brought in before the taxing master, and no further evi- Evidence thereon.

dence shall be received upon the hearing thereof unless the Judge otherwise directs. J. A. Rule 450.

Identical with the Eng. R. Aug. 1875, r. 33 [1883, O. 65, r. 27 (42)]. See English Chancery Order 40, R. 36, Morgan Chy. Orders, 4th ed., 594.

It has been held to be a convenient practice on an appeal from a Local Officer as to numerous items, or on the ground of general exorbitancy, to refer the whole bill to the Taxing Officer in Toronto: Quay v. Quay, 11 P. R. 258; and in such case no costs of the revision and appeal are usually allowed, unless substantially entire success is with one party or the other: Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273.

Appeal to J. C.

854. There may be an appeal by appointment without other notice from the taxing masters in Toronto to the Master in Chambers or to the Master in Ordinary pending the taxation in all cases. J. A. Rule 544 (1).

An appeal from the Master in Chambers or Master in Ordinary lies to a Judge as in other cases: Re Monteith, Merchants Bank v. Monteith, 11 P. R. 361.

The practice in appeals under this Rule is intended to be simple and inexpensive. The Master in Chambers hears the parties in the presence of the Taxing Officer or otherwise ascertains the reasons of the Officer for his decision, and announces to him verbally or by informal memorandum his decision on the points submitted. This procedure was approved of in Re Nelson, 13 P. R. 30. There is no need of a formal order and its attendant expenses: Ib.

It is not desirable that a taxation should come more than once by way of appeal before a Judge, and therefore where there had been an appeal to the Master in Ordinary pending a taxation and an appeal from his decision was taken, the latter was directed to stand over until the conclusion of the taxation: Ib.

5. Appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

The Privy Council will not advise Her Majesty to admit an appeal from the Supreme Court, save where the case is of gravity involving matters of public interest or some important question of law, or affecting property of considerable amount, or where the case is otherwise of some public importance, or of a very substantial character: Prince v. Gagnon, 8 App. Cas. 103; Johnston v. St. Andrews, 3 App. Cas. 159; it is not enough that the questions involved are of great importance to the parties or calculated to attract public attention: Dumoulin v. Langtry, 57 L. T. N. S. 317. Special leave to appeal was refused in a case involving only an issue of fact: Canada Central Ry. Co. v. Murray, 8 App. Cas. 574.

Where the Supreme Court of Canada has acted under a special reference to it, under an agreement between the parties and not in its ordinary jurisdiction as a Court of Appeal no appeal lies to the P. C.: Atty.-Gen. of Nova Scotia v. Gregory, 55 L. T. N. S. 270; 55 L. J. P. C. 40.

Security to be given on appeals to Privy Council.

855. The security to be given in cases of appeal to Her Majesty in Privy Council, shall be personal, and by bond to the respondent or respondents, such bond to be executed by the appellant or appellants, or one or more of them, and by two sufficient sureties, (except in special cases), as mentioned in Rule 808, in the penal sum of $2,000, the condition of which bond shall be to the effect that the appellant or appellants shall and will effectually prosecute his and their appeal, and pay such costs and damages as shall be awarded in case the judgment appealed from shall be affirmed, or in part affirmed; and any application to the Court of Appeal to stay proceedings shall be made in like manner, and be upon the like terms as to security, as is provided in like cases upon appeals from the High Court to the Court of Appeal. App. O. of 8th Sept., 1871, O. 35. Rules 856, 857.

856. The bond referred to in the foregoing Rule shall be according to the Form No. 210 in the Appendix. App. O. of 8th Sept., 1871, O. 36. Form of appeal bond.

A bond according to the terms of this Form having the words "or pay" in the condition, instead of "and pay," the words used in Rule 855, is regular; and "effectually prosecute" means "successfully prosecute." But to secure the amount found due to the respondents a bond with the condition in the form of Form 211 in the App., is not sufficient. A bond for that purpose must be conditioned in the same way as a bond under Rule 804, (4): International Bridge Co. v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 250.

857. In every case of appeal to Her Majesty in Council, the obligors, parties to any bond as sureties, shall justify their sufficiency by affidavit in the manner and to the same effect as is required upon appeals from the High Court to the Court of Appeal. App. O. of 8th Sept., 1871, O. 37. Affidavit of justification required from obligors.

The Orders of the Privy Council which are applicable in appeals from Ontario and may be useful, are here printed:

Rule issued by the Judicial Committee

Directing Judges of the Courts in the Colonies and Foreign settlements of the Crown to give their reasons in writing for the judgment appealed from, and to transmit the same with the Record. Rule of P. C. of 12th Feb., 1845.

At the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 12th Feb. 1845.

By the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council:

Whereas, by an Act passed in the eighth year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled, etc, [Here follows a recital of 7 & 8 Victoria, c. 69, s. 11.]

Now, therefore, the Lords of the said Judicial Committee of the Privy Council are pleased to order, as it is hereby ordered, that when any appeal shall be prosecuted from any judgment of any Court in the Colonies or foreign settlements of the Crown, the reasons given by the Judges of such Court, or by any of such Judges, for or against such judgment, shall be, by the Judge or Judges of such Court, communicated in writing to the Registrar of such Court, or other Officer, whose duty it is to prepare and certify the transcript record of the proceedings in the cause, and that the same be by him transmitted in original to the Clerk of Her Majesty's Privy Council, at the same time when the documents and proceedings proper to be laid before Her Majesty in Council upon the hearing of the appeal are transmitted.

ORDERS OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL

Rule of P. C. of 13th June, 1853.

Passed at the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 13th of June, 1853.

Present:

THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY,
His Royal Highness Prince Albert.

Lord President,	Earl of Aberdeen,
Lord Steward,	Earl of Clarendon,
Duke of Newcastle,	Viscount Palmerston,
Duke of Wellington,	Mr. Herbert,
Lord Chamberlain,	Sir James Graham, Bt.

Whereas, there was this day read at the Board a report from the Right Honourable the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, dated the 30th May last past, humbly setting forth that the Lords of the Judicial Committee have taken into consideration the practice of the Committee with a view to greater economy, despatch, and efficiency in the appellate jurisdiction of Her Majesty in Council, and that their Lordships have agreed humbly to report to Her Majesty that it is expedient that certain changes should be made in the existing practice in appeals, and recommending that certain Rules and Regulations therein set forth should henceforth be observed, obeyed, and carried into execution, provided Her Majesty is pleased to approve the same:

Her Majesty, having taken the said report into consideration, was pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to approve thereof, and of the Rules and Regulations set forth therein, in the words following, videlicet:—

Appellant, when successful may recover costs of appeal.

I. That, any former usage or practice of Her Majesty's Privy Council notwithstanding, an appellant who shall succeed in obtaining a reversal, or material alteration, of any judgment, decree or order, appealed from, shall be entitled to recover the costs of the appeal from the respondent, except in cases in which the Lords of the Judicial Committee may think otherwise to direct.

Transcripts to be sent to the Registrar of the Privy Council.

II. That the Registrar or other proper officer having the custody of the records in any Court, or special jurisdiction from which an appeal is brought to Her Majesty in Council, be directed to send by post with all possible despatch, one certified copy of the transcript record in each cause to the Registrar of Her Majesty's Privy Council, Whitehall; and that all such transcripts be registered in the Privy Council office, with the date of their arrival, the names of the parties, and the date of the sentence appealed from; and that such transcript be accompanied by a correct and complete index of all the papers, documents and exhibits in the cause; and that the Registrar of the Court appealed from, or other proper officer of such Court, be directed to omit from such transcript all merely formal documents, provided such omission be stated and certified in the said index of papers; and that special care be taken not to allow any document to be set forth more than once in such transcript; and that no other certified copies of the record be transmitted to agents in England by or on behalf of the parties in the suit; and that the fees and expenses incurred and paid for the preparation of such transcript be stated and certified upon it by the Registrar, or other officer, preparing the same.

Transcripts may be printed abroad.

III. That where a record of proceedings or evidence in the cause appealed has been printed or partly printed abroad, the Registrar or other proper officer of the Court from which the appeal is brought shall be bound to send home the same in a printed form, either wholly or so far as the same may have been printed, and that he do certify the same to be correct, on two copies, by signing his name on every printed sheet, and by affixing the seal, if any, of the Court appealed from to these copies, with the sanction of the Court.

YORK UNIVERSITY

And that in all cases in which the parties in appeals shall think fit to have the proceedings printed abroad, they shall be at liberty to do so, provided they cause fifty copies of the same to be printed in folio, and transmitted, at their expense, to the Registrar of the Privy Council, two of which printed copies shall be certified as above by the officers of the Court appealed from; and in this case no further expense for copying or printing the record will be incurred or allowed in England. Rule 857.

IV. That on the arrival of a written transcript of appeal at the Privy Council office, Whitehall, the appellant or the agent of the appellant prosecuting the same shall be at liberty to call on the Registrar of the Privy Council to cause it, or such part thereof as may be necessary for the hearing of the case, and likewise all such parts thereof as the respondent or his agent may require to be printed by Her Majesty's Printer, or by any other printer on the same terms, the appellant or his agent engaging to pay the cost of preparing a copy for the printer at a rate not exceeding one shilling per brief sheet, and likewise the cost of preparing such record or appendix, and that one hundred copies of the same be struck off, whereof thirty copies are to be delivered to the agents on each side, and forty kept for the use of the Judicial Committee; and that no other fees for solicitors' copies of the transcript, or for drawing the joint appendix, be henceforth allowed, the solicitors on both sides being allowed to have access to the original papers at the Council office, and to extract or cause to be extracted and copied such parts thereof as are necessary for the preparation of the petition of appeal, at the stationer's charge not exceeding one shilling per sheet. Written transcripts to be printed by Her Majesty's printer.

V. That a certain time be fixed within which it shall be the duty of the appellant or his agent to make such application for the printing of the transcript, and that such time be within the space of six calendar months from the arrival of the transcript and registration thereof in all matters brought by appeal from Her Majesty's Colonies and plantations east of the Cape of Good Hope, or from the territories of the East India Company, and within the space of three months in all matters brought by appeal from any other part of Her Majesty's Dominions abroad; and that in default of the appellant or his agent taking effectual steps for the prosecution of the appeal within such time or times respectively, the appeal shall stand dismissed without further order, and that a report of the same be made to the Judicial Committee by the Registrar of the Privy Council at their Lordships' next sitting. Transcripts to be printed within a certain time.

VI. That wherever it shall be found that the decision of a matter on appeal is likely to turn exclusively on a question of law, the agents of the parties, with the sanction of the Registrar of the Privy Council, may submit such question of law to the Lords of the Judicial Committee in the form of a special case, and print such parts only of the transcript as may be necessary for the discussion of the same; provided that nothing herein contained, shall in any way bar or prevent the Lords of the Judicial Committee from ordering the full discussion of the whole case, if they shall so think fit; and that in order to promote such arrangements and simplification of the matter in dispute, the Registrar of the Privy Council may call the agents of the parties before him, and having heard them and examined the transcript, may report to the Committee as to the nature of the proceedings. Appeals may be heard in the form of a special case.

And Her Majesty is further pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the foregoing Rules and Regulations be punctually observed, obeyed, and carried into execution, in all appeals or petitions, and complaints in the nature of appeals, brought to Her Majesty, or to Her heirs or successors, in Council from Her Majesty's Colonies and plantations abroad, and from the Channel Islands, or the Isle of Man, and from the territories of the East India Company, whether the same be from Courts of Justice, or from special jurisdictions, other than appeals from Her Majesty's Courts of Vice-Admiralty, to which the said Rules are not to be applied.

Whereof the Judges and Officers of Her Majesty's Courts of Justice abroad, and the Judges and Officers of the Superior Courts of the East India Company, and all other persons whom it may concern, are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Rule 887. Rule of P. C. 31 May, 1855.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 31st Day of March, 1855.

Present.

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Judicial Committee may relax Rules.

Whereas doubts have arisen with reference to the power of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to suspend or relax, under certain special circumstances, the regulations in appeal causes established by Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 13th June, 1853; Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that in appeal cases in which a petition of appeal to Her Majesty shall have been lodged, and referred by Her Majesty to the Judicial Committee, the said regulations shall be subject to any order or direction which, in the opinion of the Lords of the Judicial Committee, the justice of any particular case may seem to require.

C. C. Greville.

Rules to be observed.

Rule of P. C. 31 Mar., 1870.

By proctors, solicitors, agents, and other persons admitted to practise before Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, established by Order-in-Council of the 31st day of March, 1870.

I. Every proctor, solicitor, or agent admitted to practice before Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, or any of the committees thereof, shall subscribe a declaration to be enrolled in the Privy Council office, engaging to observe and obey the rules, regulations, orders, and practice of the Privy Council: and also to pay and discharge, from time to time, when the same shall be demanded, all fees or charges due and payable upon any matter pending before Her Majesty in Council; and no person shall be admitted to practice, before the Privy Council, without having subscribed such declaration in the following terms:—

Form of Declaration.

We, the undersigned, do hereby declare, that we desire and intend to practise as solicitors or agents in appeals and other matters pending before Her Majesty in Council; and we severally and respectively do hereby engage to observe, submit to, perform, and abide by all and every the orders, rules, regulations, and practice of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council and the committees thereof now in force, or hereafter from time to time to be made; and also to pay and discharge, from time to time, when the same shall be demanded, all fees, charges, and sums of money due and payable in respect of any appeal, petition, or other matter in and upon which we shall severally and respectively appear as such solicitors or agents.

II. Every proctor, solicitor, or attorney practising in London, and duly admitted in any of the Courts of Westminster, shall be allowed to subscribe the foregoing declaration, and to practice in the Privy Council, upon the production of his certificate for the current year; and no fees shall be payable by him on the enrolment of his signature to the foregoing declaration.

III. Persons not being certificated London solicitors, but having been duly admitted to practise as solicitors by the High Courts of Judicature in India or in the colonies respectively, may apply, by petition, to the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council for leave to be admitted to practise in the Privy Council; and such persons, if admitted to practise by an order of their Lordships, shall pay annually, on the 15th of November, a fee of five guineas to the fee fund of the Council office.

This Rule is strictly construed, and persons who are not solicitors in the Colonial Courts will not be admitted to practice before the Privy Council: leave to practice was refused to a pleader of the High Court of Calcutta: In re Tevidale, 14 App. Cas. 328.

IV. Any proctor, solicitor, agent, or other person practising before the Privy Council, who shall wilfully act in violation of the rules and practice of the Privy Council, or of any Rules prescribed by the authority of Her Majesty, or of the Lords of the Council, or who shall wilfully misconduct himself in prose- Rule 857.

cuting proceedings before the Privy Council, or any committee thereof, or who shall refuse or omit to pay the Council office fees or charges payable from him when demanded, shall be liable to an absolute or temporary prohibition to practise before the Privy Council, by the authority of the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council upon cause shown at their Lordship's Bar.

At the Court at Windsor Castle, the 26th day of June, 1873.

Rule of P. C. 26 June, 1873.

Present:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty In Council.

Whereas in many appeals now pending before Her Majesty in Council no effectual steps have been taken by the parties or their agents to set down their cases for hearing, although more than twelve months have elapsed since the arrival and registration of the transcript of appeal in this country, and it is expedient to make further provision in that behalf: Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and upon a recommendation of the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the solicitors or agents for the party appellant in all such appeals now pending before Her Majesty in Council are hereby required to take effectual steps to set down their cases for hearing within six months from the date of this Order, and in all other appeals to Her Majesty in Council within a period not exceeding twelve months from the date of the arrival and registration of the transcript in this country.

And Her Majesty is further pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that it shall be the duty of the Registrar of the Privy Council to report to the Lords of the Judicial Committee the names of the parties and dates of the decrees in appeals in which no effectual steps have been taken within the aforesaid periods of time to set down the case for hearing; and the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council shall be at liberty to call upon the appellant or his agent in such cases to show cause why the said appeal or appeals should not be dismissed for non-prosecution, and (if they shall so think fit) to recommend to Her Majesty the dismissal of any such appeal, or to give such directions therein as the justice of the case may require.

And Her Majesty is further pleased to order that nothing in the present Order shall prevent the dismissal of an appeal under the 5th of the Rules approved by Her Majesty on the 13th of June, 1853, in cases to which that Rule is applicable.

Whereof the Governors of Her Majesty's Plantations and Dominions abroad, and the Judges or Officers of Her Majesty's Courts of Justice from which an appeal lies to Her Majesty in Council, and all other persons whom it may concern, are to take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

R. 1875 O. 43, r. 2 (1883, R. 617), so far as relates to writs of venditioni exponas is the same, but it embraces other writs, viz.: writs of "distringas super vicecomitem, fieri facias de bonis ecclesiasticis, sequestrari facias de bonis ecclesiasticis, and all other writs in aid of a writ of fieri facias or of elegit." Rules 861, 862.

The Sheriff should sell the goods under a writ of fi. fa. without the issue of a ven. ex., but where he has seized, but for some reason not sold goods, he may be required to return the fi. fa. and thereupon a writ of ven. ex. may issue on præcipe. After the delivery of this writ to the Sheriff he is bound to sell the goods and have the money in Court immediately after its execution: Chit. Arch. 13th ed. 584; Keighley v. Birch, 3 Camp. 521.

861. A writ of possession shall have the effect of a writ of assistance as well as of a writ of habere facias possessionem. J. A. Rule 381. Hab. fac. poss.

Not in any Eng. R.

This, together with the abrogation of Chy. O. 294, makes clear what is also clear by decisions in England, that this writ supersedes the old Chancery writ of assistance so far as the recovery of land is concerned: Hall v. Hall, 47 L. J. Chy. 680; Wyman v. Knight, 39 Ch. D. 165; but in England it seems that in case of necessity the writ of assistance may still be used, e.g., to recover possession of personal property which is in danger of being removed beyond the jurisdiction of the Court: Wyman v. Knight, sup. It may be doubted whether this is so in Ont. in view of Rule 3. A special order in the nature of an order of replevin, or a special form of writ of delivery might probably in such case be framed.

For form of writ of possession, see Form 191 in the Appendix.

The chief difference between a writ of assistance and a writ of habere facias possessionem is, that the former instructs the sheriff to "defend and keep" the plaintiff "and his assigns in peaceable and quiet possession when and as often as any interruption may or shall be given or offered to them or any of them": see Daniel's Forms 982; thus it is presumed, rendering unnecessary applications for a new writ where a defendant wrongfully resumes possession after being ejected by the sheriff: see Doe d. Peck v. Roe, 2 U. C. Q. B. 27; Edwards v. Bennett, 5 P. R. 161; McDermott v. McDermott, 4 P. R. 252. This is now the language of Form 191.

Where a plaintiff has been put in possession under a writ of possession and a defendant soon after regains possession after the return of the writ executed, the plaintiff, on motion, is entitled to an order for a new writ of possession: Proctor v. Weller, 3 C. L. T. 551: see Stacpoole v. Walsh, 6 L. R. Ir. 444.

862. A judgment for the recovery by or payment to any person of money may be enforced by any of the modes by which a judgment or decree, for the payment of money, of any [of the Superior Courts,] might have been enforced prior to the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881. J. A. Rule 389. Enforcing judgment for recovery of money.

Instead of the words in brackets, the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 1 (1883 R. 581), has the words, "Court whose jurisdiction has been transferred by the same Act." The Rules are otherwise the same.

The effect of this Rule is to preserve the right to issue any process of execution which might formerly be adopted to enforce payment of money under a judgment or decree, and to make the same available in all Divisions of the High Court: see London, etc. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 380.

Rule 863. The principal of these were:

1. Writs of fieri facias and (in aid thereof) venditioni exponas: as to which see Rules 859 and 860), and distringas.

2. Writs of sequestration: Rules 883, and 884.

In aid of execution, proceedings might also be taken by way of,

(a) Attachment of debts and garnishee process: Rules 926, etc.

(b) Equitable execution: Rules 935, 1007.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Fi. fa.

863. Every person to whom any sum of money or any costs is payable under a judgment, shall, immediately after the time when the judgment was duly ~~entered~~, be entitled to sue out one or more writ or writs of fieri facias to enforce payment thereof, subject nevertheless as follows:

(a) If the judgment is for payment within a period therein mentioned, no such writ as aforesaid shall be issued until after the expiration of such period.

(b) The Court or Judge at the time of giving judgment, or the Court or a Judge afterwards, may give leave to issue execution before, or may stay execution until any time after the expiration of such period. J. A. Rules 352, 499.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 15 (1883, R. 595), has here the additional words "or one or more writ or writs of elegit." In other respects the Rules are to the same effect.

Semble, the jurisdiction here given to stay execution cannot be exercised by qualifying a judgment for recovery of money, so as to make it payable by instalments: Brien v. Sullivan, 14 L. R. Ir. 391.

Now, in all cases, judgment may be entered as soon as given by the Judge, unless otherwise ordered: Rule 767. Exceptions formerly existed in the case of actions tried by jury: orig. Rule 527; and judgments by default of appearance: orig. Rule 72. These exceptions are not continued in the present Rules: see Rules 767, 798, and 705.

The use of the word "immediately," in this Rule, probably sets at rest the question raised in Cullen v. Cullen, 2 Chy. Ch. 94, and Coolidge v. Bank of Montreal, 6 P. R. 73, as to whether the party to pay is entitled to any time to pay, without the issue of execution.

Notwithstanding this Rule, it would seem that a writ of execution against a Mutual Insurance Co. cannot, under R. S. O. c. 167, s. 136, issue, in the case of a policy issued on the premium note system, until after the expiration of sixty days from the recovery of judgment: see Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 9 P. R. 185; Lount v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 8 P. R. 433; but that provision in R. S. O. 1877, c. 161, s. 61, did not apply to a judgment recovered on a policy issued on the cash premium principle: Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Mutual Ins. Co., 3 C. L. T. 452. The above section 136 now applies to a cash Mutual Co., except where more than fifty per cent. of the premium or premium note was paid in cash at the time of the insurance: and a Judge or Referee in Chambers may, on application of the judgment creditor, inquire into the question, whether fifty per cent. was paid, and, if he certifies that it was so paid, execution may issue forthwith: R. S. O. c. 167, s. 136 (2).

It has been held that the recovery of costs, payable under an order, will not be stayed by the Court of Appeal, pending an appeal to the House of Lords, if the solicitors to whom they are payable give their personal undertaking to refund, in case of the order being reversed: Grant v. The Banque Franco-

Egyptienne, 3 C. P. D. 203; Morgan v. Elford, 4 Ch. D. 352; The Khedive, 5 P. D. 1; but see Atty-General v. Emerson, 88 L. T. Jour. 87. Rules 864-866.

The Court of Appeal is the proper Court to which to apply to suspend any order which that Court has made, consequently the application should be made to it to stay proceedings under its own order, pending an appeal from that order: The Khedive, supra.

Murray v. Infield, 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 142, was an action for libel; a verdict for the plaintiff for £100. "Huddleston, B., said that although he was now able to order immediate execution, he would adopt the old (English) practice, and give execution in fourteen days."

In Taylor v. Skerley, 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 143. "Following the old practice," Pollock, B., gave execution in fourteen days.

See Hodges v. Fincham, 1 Ch. D. 9.

This Rule abrogates the old practice, under which if a judgment creditor issued execution before costs were taxed, he was held to have waived his right to costs: Harris v. Jewell, W. N. 1883, 216.

864. Any person who becomes entitled to issue a writ of execution against goods and chattels may, at or after the time of issuing the same, issue a writ of execution against the lands and tenements of the person liable, and deliver the same to the Sheriff to whom the writ against goods is directed, at or after the time of delivery to him of the writ against goods, and either before or after any return thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 14. Writs against lands may issue at same time as writs against goods.

865. In case any action of the proper competence of a Division Court is brought in the High Court or in a County Court, no execution against lands shall issue unless the amount of the judgment exceeds $40. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 13. When lands not liable unless the judgment exceeds $40.

See The Division Court Act, (R. S. O. c. 51), s-s. 223, 224.

866. Every order of the Court or a Judge, whether in an action, cause, or matter, may be enforced (a) in the same manner as a judgment to the same effect. J. A. Rule 357. Execution on orders.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 20 (1883, R. 602), inserts at (a) the words against all persons bound thereby. Otherwise the Rules are the same.

The same effect was given by R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 72; and c. 67, s. 12, as respects an order for the payment of money. But that Act provided that the order should be deemed a judgment. The present Rule only says that such an order may be enforced in the same way as a judgment. In England it has been held that it is not intended that all orders are to be equivalent to judgments: Ex p., Chinery, 12 Q. B. D. 342; and that the provisions respecting attachment of debts (Rule 935, et seq.) which apply to judgments may not be employed to enforce an order dismissing an action with costs for want of prosecution: Cremetti v. Crom, 4 Q. B. D. 225; see also Ex p. Earl of Strathmore, 20 Q. B. D. 512; Ex p. Whinney, 13 Q. B. D. 476; Ex p. Grimwade, 17 Q. B. D. 357; Ex p. Moore Re Faithfull, 14 Q. B. D. 627; see, however, Nott v. Sands, W. N. 1883, 74; Whittaker v. Whittaker, 7 P. D. 15.

As to the practice in this Province, see notes to Rules 926, and 935.

Rules 867-869.

For payment into Court.

867. A judgment [or order] for the payment of money into Court may be enforced by [any mode by which a judgment for that purpose may be enforced (a) and the person having the carriage of the judgment or order for the time being, shall be deemed to be the person to receive payment for the purpose of enforcing the same.] J. A. Rule 340. See R. S. O., c. 66, s. 72 (3).

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 2 (1883, R. 582) has not the words "or order." (a) What follows is taken from R. S. O., 1877, c. 66, s. 72 (3).

Instead of the other words in brackets, the Eng. R. has the following: "writ of sequestration; or, in cases in which attachment is authorized by law, by attachment." The original Ont. Rule 340 preserved the existing modes of procedure. In altering the language the meaning of the present Rule has not been made clear.

In Stanger Leathes v. Stanger Leathes, W. N. 1882, 71, payment of money into Court was enforced by the appointment of a receiver of the dividends of moneys invested in Court, of rents of lands, and of shares in a mining company, in which the party ordered to pay had an interest: so also in Coney v. Bennett, 33 W. R. 700; 29 Ch. D. 993, where money was payable by a trustee into Court, he being out of the jurisdiction.

The English R. of 1883, R. 582, enables an order for payment into Court to be enforced by writ of attachment in certain cases: see Hutchinson v. Hartmont, W. N. 1877, 29; but that process cannot be employed here: see notes to Rules 878, to 880.

For recovery of land.

868. A judgment for the recovery or for the delivery of the possession of land may be enforced by writ of possession. J. A. Rule 341.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 3 (1883, R. 583).

A writ of possession was ordered to issue in an action by a landlord against a tenant, notwithstanding that the landlord's reversion terminated before the trial, the defendant not showing affirmatively that it would be unjust and futile to issue the writ: Knight v. Clarke, 15 Q. B. D. 294.

A final order of foreclosure is not a judgment for the recovery or delivery of possession of land within this Rule: see Wood v. Wheater, 22 Ch. D. 281 although the bringing of an action for foreclosure stops the running of the Statute of Limitations: Heath v. Pugh, 6 C. P. D. 345. Under the practice in Ontario, an order for the delivery of possession forthwith may be contained in the judgment in a foreclosure action: see Rule (341*a*) and Forms 82, 83; but where it has not been so obtained, an application for an order for delivery of possession may be made on or after obtaining the final order for sale, or foreclosure: Rule 341 (a). See notes to that Rule.

See Rudd v. Frank, 17 Ont. at p. 764.

For the purpose of recovering possession of land, the writ of possession supersedes the old writ of assistance: Wyman v. Knight, 39 Ch. D. 165.

Writ of possession.

869. Where by any judgment any person therein named is directed to deliver up possession of any lands to some other person [on or at any specified time after being served with the judgment,] the person prosecuting the judgment shall, without any order for that purpose, be entitled to sue out a writ of possession on filing an affidavit showing due service of the judgment and that the same has not been obeyed. J. A. Rule 380. Rules 870-873.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1880, O. 48 r. 2 (1883 R. 645), except the words in brackets which are not in the English Rule, but seem implied therein.

In Chitty's Forms (12th ed.) p. 596 note, it is said that the affidavit is only necessary in cases within the words of the Rule, viz., where the judgment directs the defendant "to deliver up possession."

The judgment on an award is in this form and judgments in the Chancery Division are sometimes so drawn. In the other Divisions the form is "that the plaintiff do recover," etc.: see App. Forms 163 to 165.

The affidavit in support of a writ of assistance needed only to show that the order was not complied with within the time limited, and not an existing non-compliance: Webster v. Taylor, 18 Jur. 869.

See Rule 750 and note.

870. Upon judgment or order for recovery of any land and mesne profits or rents in respect of the premises claimed and costs, there may be either one writ or separate writs of execution for the recovery of possession, and for the mesne profits, rents and costs, at the election of the party entitled to recover the same. R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 36. Execution for land and costs.

It is held in Ireland, under sec. 209 of the C. L. P. Act (16 & 17 V. c. 113) repeated in the Rules under the Ir. Jud. Act, that where a plaintiff has obtained a verdict for possession, mesne profits and costs, execution for possession cannot issue till the costs are taxed, unless he has waived them: Beasley v. Chapman, 6 L. R. Ir. 393.

That section is as follows:

"209. Upon any judgment in ejectment there may be either one or several writs of execution for the recovery of possession and for the damages, the rents ascertained to be due and costs, at the election of the plaintiff."

871. The writ of assignment of dower required to be issued after a judgment in an action for dower has been entered in favour of the plaintiff, shall be in the form hitherto in use in Ontario. C. L. Rules, 15th February, 1862. Form of writs of assignment of dower.

872. The writ of assignment of dower required to be issued under the third clause of the Dower Procedure Act, when the right of dower is acquiesced in by the owner of the estate, may be according to the form given in Form No. 201 in the Appendix. C. L. Rules, 15th February, 1862.

873. In all cases where specific goods, chattels, deeds, securities, valuable papers, or any property other than land or money, are demanded in an action, and the plaintiff has judgment to recover the same or their value, the Court or a Judge shall, at the request of the plaintiff, where a recovery or delivery of the property in specie is desired, direct a writ of execution to issue on the judgment, commanding the Execution for property other than lands.

defendant specifically to deliver up forthwith the property demanded, and in case of refusal, that the defendant be arrested and detained in prison until he complies with the terms of the writ, and also that the goods and chattels of the defendant to double the value of the property in question be taken and kept until the further order of the Court to ensure or enforce obedience to the writ, or that a writ of sequestration may issue; or, at the option of the plaintiff, the Court or Judge may order the Sheriff to make of the defendant's goods the value of such property; but the plaintiff shall, either by the same or by a separate writ or writs of execution (to be issued in the ordinary manner) be entitled to have made of the defendant's goods or lands, the damages, costs and interest in such action. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 56. See J. A. Rules 342, 382.

Option to the plaintiff.

Damages, costs, etc.

Not the same as the Eng. Rule 1875, O. 42, r. 4, and O. 49, (1883, R. 584), but substantially the same as Rule 649 of 1883.

The original Rules 342, and 382, in substance preserved the former practice at Law in actions of detinue.

The writs of execution in actions of detinue were the writ of distringas to compel the delivery of the goods by the party, and writ of sci. fa. to compel delivery by any third person in whose hands the goods might happen to be. The manner of issuing and enforcing these writs was expressed in R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 56, from which the terms of the above Rule are taken.

The judgment for delivery of the property or payment of its value does not divest the plaintiff of the property in the chattel until the satisfaction of the value found by the judgment even though satisfaction is prevented by the bankruptcy of defendant: Ex p. Drake, 5 Ch. D. 866.

It is doubtful under the English Rules, whether an order for the writ is necessary: Ivory v. Cruickshank, W. N. 1875, 249. In Ont. it is probable that the direction of the Judge will be given in the judgment.

In Ivory v. Cruickshank, W. N. 1875, 249; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 123, an action for rent and for the return of specific goods, judgment having been signed for the amount of rent in default of appearance the plaintiff was allowed to sign judgment also for the return of the specific goods, and to then proceed under Eng. R. 584 as he might be advised by writs of delivery, attachment or sequestration. In Battley v. Sears (Times, 7th March, 1876, cited Charley's Jud. Act, 3rd ed. p. 669), it is stated that a rule nisi for an attachment was granted against a defendant for refusing to give up a diamond ring or pay for it, execution having proved futile, as the defendant was a married woman.

For Execution against Municipal Corporations: see R. S. O. 1887, 184, ss. 428 and 429.

Judgment requiring person to do or leave undone.

874. A judgment requiring any person to do any act other than the payment of money, or to abstain from doing anything, may be enforced by writ of attachment, or by committal. J. A. Rule 343.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 5, (1883, R. 585).

Formerly where a writ of attachment on a ca. sa. was obtained, a fi. fa. could not be also issued, whereas proceedings for committal for disobedience of an order were no bar to proceeding also against the property of the contemnor:

Smith Chy. Pr., 7th ed., p. 185; see also Harvey v. Harvey, 26 Ch. D. 654; Callow v. Young, 56 L. T. N. S. 147. Rules 875, 876.

As to mode of obtaining a writ of attachment, see note to Rules 878, and 879.

On a notice of motion to commit the defendant, Malins, V.-C., ordered a writ of attachment to issue against him: Piper v. Piper, W. N. 1876, 202; but after obtaining an order for an attachment, a party cannot move ex parte for an order for committal instead: Buist v. Bridge, 43 L. T. N. S. 432; 29 W. R. 117. The distinction between attachment and committal, it would seem, still exists: Callow v. Young, 56 L. T. N. S. 147; see also note to Rule 879, p. 716.

The Court will not encourage motions where the object is not really to attach, but only to obtain an apology and costs, and therefore in Plating Co. v. Farquharson, 17 Ch. D. 50, no costs were given.

As to obtaining a writ of sequestration, where an attachment is ineffectual, see notes to Rule 881. Also in the case of a corporation: Cook v. Credit Valley Ry. Co., 8 P. R. 167; Demorest v. Midland, 10 P. R. 82.

As to enforcing injunctions, and punishing a breach thereof, see further the notes to sec. 53 (8) of the Act.

875. Where a judgment (a) is to the effect that any party is entitled to any relief subject to or upon the fulfilment of any condition or contingency, the party so entitled may, upon the fulfilment of the condition or contingency, and demand made upon the party against whom he is entitled to relief, apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to issue execution against such party. And the Court or Judge may, if satisfied that the right to relief has arisen according to the terms of the judgment, (a) order that execution issue accordingly, or may direct that any issue or question necessary for the determination of the rights of the parties be tried in any of the ways in which questions arising in an action may be tried. J. A. Rule 345. Judgment for conditional relief.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 7. That of 1883, R. 587, has at (a) the words "or order."

In an action for specific performance of a contract for the purchase of leaseholds, judgment was obtained for the payment of purchase money on the delivery of deeds. The vendor tendered the deeds, but the purchaser refused to accept them or pay the money. On motion under this Rule the vendor was ordered to deposit the deeds in Court, and the purchaser was ordered to pay the money within four days: Bell v. Denvir, 34 W. R. 638; 54 L. T. N. S. 724; W. N. 1886, 113; see also Morgan v. Brisco, 31 Ch. D. 216; 32 Ch. D. 192.

876. Where a judgment is against partners in the name of the firm, execution may issue in manner following: Judgment against partners.

(a) Against any property of the partners as such;

(b) Against any person who (x) has admitted on the pleadings that he is, or has been adjudged to be a partner;

(c) Against any person who has been served as a partner with the writ of summons, and has failed to appear.

The service here contemplated would seem to be personal service; sed quære: see Jackson v. Litchfield, 8 Q. B. D. 478; 46 L. T. N. S. 519.

LAW LIBRARY

Rule 877.

If the party who has obtained judgment claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person as being a member of the firm, he may apply to the Court or a Judge for leave so to do; and the Court or Judge may give such leave if the liability be not disputed, or if such liability be disputed, may order that the liability of such person be tried and determined in any manner in which any issue or question in an action may be tried and determined. J. A. Rule 346.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 8. That of 1883, R. 588, has at (z) the words, "who has appeared under his own name, under Order 12, Rule 15 (Ont. Rule 288) or."

This Rule provides the mode of realizing, against a firm or the individual partners, a judgment obtained against the firm: see Rules 265, and 288.

Where the writ is issued against partners, not individually, but in the name of the firm, service of the writ on one or more will be sufficient: Rule 265; but the judgment must follow the writ and be against the firm: Rule 288. Therefore, if no appearance is entered, judgment cannot be entered against any of the individual partners, even though they may have been served with the writ. Execution may, however, under this Rule, be issued, without leave, in the cases mentioned against individual partners, upon the judgment against the firm: Jackson v. Litchfield, 8 Q. B. D. 474.

This Rule shews that a judgment against a firm is not conclusive of the liability of a person who has neither admitted on the pleadings that he is, nor has been adjudged to be a partner, nor has been served with the writ. Execution in such case will not be allowed to issue without a trial of the liability under the last clause of the Rule: ex parte Young, 19 Ch. D. 124; 18 C. L. J. 119.

On an admission in the depositions of a person sought to be made liable under this Rule, taken on the motion it was held that the Master in Chambers might under Rule 756 determine that such person was a partner without directing the trial of an issue: Tennant v. Manhard, 12 P. R. 619.

The execution is not limited to partners carrying on business at the date of the writ, but it is a question of fact in each case whether the plaintiff intended to sue under the firm name those persons only who where partners at the date of the writ, or former partners as well: Davis v. Morris, 10 Q. B. D. 436.

The plaintiff is not confined to his remedy against the individuals by execution under this Rule, but may bring fresh actions against the partners individually upon the judgment obtained against the firm: Clark v. Cullen, 9 Q. B. D. 355.

See also notes to Rules 288 and 317.

On execution by infant, money to be paid into Court.

877. Where any money (other than for costs) is recovered by or on behalf of an infant, or a person of unsound mind by his guardian, next friend, or committee, the same shall, unless otherwise ordered, be paid into Court subject to further order; and no payment to the guardian, next friend, or committee, of moneys due to such infant or person of unsound mind, otherwise than for the costs of any such action, shall be a valid discharge to the party making such payment as against the infant or person of unsound mind. Every writ of execution for the levying of any such moneys is to be indorsed by the officer issuing the same with the following notice: "All moneys made under this execution, other than costs, are to be paid into Court by the Sheriff, as required by Rule 877." J. A. Rule 589. Rule 878.

2. Attachment and Sequestration.

878. A writ of attachment [against the person shall be issued under the same circumstances and in the same manner and] shall have the same effect as according to the practice of the Court of Chancery, prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881. J. A. Rule 364. Effect of attachment.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 44, r. 1, (1883, R. 620,) has not the words which are in brackets; it is otherwise to the same effect.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 67, sec. 6, is as follows:

"10. Process of contempt for non-payment of any sum of money, or for non-payment of any costs, charges or expenses, payable by any judgment or order of the High Court or of a Judge thereof, or by any judgment or order of a County Court or a Judge thereof, is abolished; and no person shall be liable to arrest for non-payment of costs." Rev. Stat. c. 67, s. 6.

Chancery Order 288 provided as follows:

"288. If a party who is ordered, otherwise than by an order of course, to do any act, other than to pay money, in a limited time, refuses or neglects to obey the order according to the exigency thereof, the party prosecuting the order shall, at the expiration of the time limited, upon filing with the Registrar an affidavit of the service of the order, and of the non-performance thereof, be entitled, upon præcipe, to a writ or writs or attachment against the disobedient party." Ch. Ord. 288.

But Rule 879, requires a notice to be served and leave to be obtained before an attachment is issued. To this extent the former practice preserved by Rule 878 is varied.

Chy. Order 293, provided that every order requiring a party to do an act, other than the payment of money, should have indorsed upon the copy of the order served, a memorandum to the effect set forth in Schedule N to the Chy. Orders notifying the party as follows: Chy. O. 293.

"If you, the within named (here insert the name of the party), neglect to obey this order by the time therein limited, you will be liable to be arrested by the sheriff; and you will also be liable to have your estate sequestered for the purpose of compelling you to obey this order without further notice. If you wish to apply to the Court to add to, vary, or set aside the said order, or to suspend the operation thereof, you must do so before the expiration of the time within limited." Schedule N.

This Chy. O. 293, is not consolidated in the Ont. Rules, but the corresponding Eng. O. is continued in the Eng. Rules of 1883, R. 573. Under the new practice it was held in England under the Rules of 1875, (but of course not under the Rules of 1883, R. 573: see Hampden v. Wallis, 26 Ch. D. 746, and Treherne v. Dale, 27 Ch. D. 66; 54 L. J. Chy. 83), that this indorsement was not necessary, as an attachment under the new procedure could not be obtained except upon notice: see Rule 879, but the rule might be different in the case of a sequestration: Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 360; and see Wallace v. Graham 11 L. R. Ir. 369. In Ont. a sequestration does not issue on præcipe except where a party is already in custody under an attachment: see Rule 289; and in other cases, is not, under Rule 882, obtained without notice; so that the indorsement would seem to be not necessary in cases either of attachment or sequestration.

Eng. R. 573 has no application to a prohibitive order: Selous v. Croydon, 53 L. T. N. S. 210; 29 Sol. Jour. 485.

LAW LIBRARY

Rule 879. Where default in complying with an order was not clearly enough shewn to justify an order for attachment, if the opposite party had not appeared, the defect was held to be cured by his appearing and resisting the motion on other grounds: Treherne v. Dale, 27 Ch. D. 66.

Leave to issue.

879. No such writ of attachment shall be issued without the leave of the Court or a Judge, to be applied for on notice to the person against whom the attachment is to be issued. J. A. Rule 365.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 44, r. 2, (1883, R. 621).

This Rule introduced an important change in the Chancery Practice. A writ of attachment can now never issue as of right without an order, granted after notice to the party: Baigent v. Baigent, 1 P. D. 421; W. N. 1875, 218; Abud v. Riches, 2 Ch. D. 528; Dallas v. Glyn, 3 Ch. D. 190; see Re Heiron's Estate, Hall v. Ley, 12 Ch. D. 795; Re Knight, Knight v. Gardiner, 25 Ch. D. 297; Re Chatham Harvester Co. v. Campbell, 12 P. R. 666. This was the rule in the Common Law Courts, except in the case of an attachment against a sheriff for disobeying an order to return a writ; in which case the rule was made absolute ex parte: Reg. Gen. T. T. 1856, R. 140; see Jupp v. Cooper, 5 C. P. D. 26. In Jupp v. Cooper, all that the attention of the Court was called to was whether the order should be absolute in the first instance, or only an order nisi, and the latter was granted, as also was done in Fowler v. Ashford, 45 L. T. N. S. 46. An attachment against the Sheriff, like any other attachment, is now governed by the new Rule: Eynde v. Gould, 9 Q. B. D. 335: see also Dallas v. Glyn, supra; Re Heiron's Estate, supra. Rule 140 of T. T. 1856 is expressly abrogated by the Con. Rules.

The provisions of Rule 1170, infra, apply to an application for an attachment. The costs are therefore in the discretion of the Court: Abud v. Riches, supra, and should be asked for and disposed of on the application for the attachment: Ib.

A motion for attachment when made for non-compliance with rules of practice or orders of course, or orders in Chambers, may be made to a Judge in Chambers: see Sahn Kyrburg v. Posnanski, 13 Q. B. D. 218; Amstell v. Lesser, 53 L. T. N. S. 759; 34 W. R. 230; but when made for non-compliance with an order or judgment of the Court should be made in Court: Klein v. Union Fire Ins. Co., 3 C. L. T. 602. The practice in England is not similar to that in Ontario: see Davis v. Galmoye, 39 Ch. D. 322; 40 Ch. D. 355.

Neither the Master in Chambers, nor a County Judge (acting under Rules 30 or 41), has jurisdiction to entertain a motion to attach or commit, as such matters are excepted from the powers conferred upon them: see Rule 30, and Keefe v. Ward, 9 P. R. 220.

Notice of motion.

Two clear days' notice of motion is sufficient. The practice laid down in Abell v. Hilts, 6 P. R. 122, and Bryce v. McIntyre, 7 P. R. 134, is not now in force: Monaghan v. Dobbin, 2 C. L. T. 215; see also Cook v. Credit Valley Ry. Co., 8 P. R. 167.

Service of.

Where the order to be obeyed has been personally served it is nevertheless necessary, in case of disobedience, to serve personally any notice of motion for attachment or committal, except in the case provided for by Rule 521 of disobedience of an order to bring accounts into the Master's Office, or for production, or inspection of books and papers; in cases under Rule 521 it is not necessary to serve a notice of motion to attach personally upon the disobedient party, if he has a solicitor: see Wilson v. Wilson, 7 P. R. 57.

Where personal service of notice of motion to attach the defendant could not be effected, the order was made on affidavit of service of the notice on a solicitor who had appeared in the action for the defendant, although the solicitor had ceased to act for him: Callow v. Young, 55 L. T. N. S. 543.

There is no distinction, in regard to service of a notice of motion for attachment, between contempt in breach of an undertaking, and contempt in breach of an injunction, knowledge of which is given by previous service of the order: Ib. Rule 879.

An order to deliver a bill of costs served on a solicitor's clerk at his office was disobeyed. On motion for attachment the solicitor swore that he had not been personally served. A letter from him giving reason for delay and promising to deliver bills was produced, but it was held that the necessity for personal service was not waived by the letter: Re Cunningham, 55 L. T. N. S. 766.

In Mann v. Perry, W. N. 1881, 4; 44 L. T. N. S. 248; 50 L. J. Chy. 252, it was held that notice of motion to commit must be served personally, unless some reason is shewn for dispensing with personal service. On a motion for an attachment however, it had previously been held that service of notice of motion upon the solicitors on the record of the party to be attached was sufficient though personal service was not shewn to be impracticable: Browning v. Sabin, 5 Ch. D. 511; Richards v. Kitchen, 25 W. R. 602: or by leaving the notice at the residence of the party affected thereby: Re a Solicitor, 14 Ch. D. 152. See also Tilney v. Stansfield, W. N. 1880, 77.

In Ontario it was held that Mann v. Perry, is to be followed: Smith v. Marrin, 4 C. L. T. 493; except where Rule 521, applies: Re Harnden, 11 P. R. 35.

In Re Steele, 23 Sol. Jour. 906, the question was raised whether the order to be obeyed need be personally served since an attachment can now only be had upon notice. It is submitted, however, that there is nothing to alter the former practice which required personal service of the order to be obeyed, (except in cases under Rule 522), more especially where the notice of motion to attach need not be personally served. Service of notice is waived by Counsel appearing and consenting to an enlargement: Ex p. Alcock, 1 C. P. D. 68. Service of the order to be obeyed.

The copy of order served must be an exact copy: Re Holt, 11 Ch. D. 168; see also Ex p. Smith, 28 W. R. 174.

The provisions as to substituted service have been held not to apply to an application for an attachment, but only to service of writs of summons: Anon, W. N. 1876, 105; but see cases supra p. 301, and Williams v. Johns, 2 Dick 477; 1 Mer. 303 (d); Pulteney v. Shelton, 5 Ves. 147; DeMannerille v. DeMannerille, 12 Ves. 202; Lechmere Charlton's case, 2 M. & C. 335; also Hope v. Carnegie, L. R. 7 Eq. 254; Howarth v. Howarth, 11 P. D. 95; and Tilney v. Stansfield, W. N. 1880, 77.

Service of notice made on the clerk of a solicitor at his office, his residence not being known, was held to be good service, but, notwithstanding, the order was stayed for a week, and notice thereof directed to be served on the solicitor: Tilney v. Stansfield, supra.

An interlocutory order, under Rule 1131, et seq., may be enforced by attachment: Hutchinson v. Hartmont, W. N. 1877, 29. But a judgment or order, under those Rules or otherwise, if it be for the payment of money into Court, cannot be enforced by attachment.

An order should be drawn up and entered before being enforced by process: Ballard v. Tomlinson, 48 L. T. N. S. 515.

On a motion to commit for contempt, an attachment may issue: Piper v. Piper, W. N. 1876, 202; but on a motion for an attachment an order to commit cannot be obtained ex parte: Buist v. Bridge, 43 L. T. N. S. 432; 29 W. R. 117. Issue and execution of writ of attachment.

A writ of attachment may be issued against a party out of the jurisdiction, though it can only be enforced in the event of his coming within the jurisdiction: Bloomfield v. Brooke, 6 P. R. 264.

No particular return day is inserted in the writ (see form No. 194), but after a reasonable interval a return may be required: Owen v. Pritchard, W. N. 1876, 147.

The officer charged with the execution of the writ may break open the outer door of the house in order to execute it: Harvey v. Harvey, 26 Ch. D. 644.

Rules 880, 881.

A further opportunity to comply with the order may be given, or the order may be stayed, pending an appeal, in the discretion of the Judge: Mellor v. Thompson, W. N. 1883, 128.

A person attached for misconduct will not be detained for costs: Jackson v. Mawby, 1 Ch. D. 86; see also Earl of Lewes v. Barnett, 6 Ch. D. 252; and Micklethwaite v. Fletcher, 27 W. R. 793. But, in order to punish anyone who has been guilty of a contempt, he may be imprisoned for a stated period, and allowed to be discharged if he pays the costs before the expiration of such period: Harris v. Meyers, 1 Chy. Ch. 229; see also Marris v. Ingram, 13 Ch. D. 338.

Attachment against the President of a Company is not an available proceeding for default in performing an act which he could not by himself perform, but which could only be performed by a majority of the Board of Directors: Demosthenes v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 82. Sequestration is not the proper remedy for disobedience to a mandamus: Ib.

As to attaching a Member of Parliament, see Re Anglo-French Co-operative Soc., 14 Ch. D. 533.

On a motion for attachment for contempt in committing a breach of undertaking contained in an order, a preliminary objection was raised that the proper remedy was committal. The objection was allowed and the plaintiff given leave to amend his notice of motion and serve it again: Callow v. Young, 56 L. T. N. S. 147; 56 L. J. Chy. 690. The distinction between attachment and committal still exists. "Committal was the proper remedy for doing a prohibited act and attachment was the proper remedy for neglecting to do something ordered to be done": Ib. See also Harvey v. Harvey, 26 Ch. D. 644, 654.

Where an attachment issued against a defendant for not complying with an order for discovery and compliance was then made, but the defendant was nevertheless thereafter arrested, it was held that the arrest was irregular and that it was the duty of the plaintiff's solicitor to have stayed the enforcement of the attachment: Gay v. Hancock, 46 L. T. N. S. 207.

Attachment for non-performance of an act.

880. If a person who is ordered, otherwise than by an order of course, to do any act other than to pay money, in a limited time, refuses or neglects to obey the judgment or order, according to the exigency thereof, the party prosecuting the same shall be entitled to a writ or writs of attachment against the disobedient party. Chy. O. 288.

A writ of attachment cannot issue as of course, because under the preceding Rule 879 no such writ is to issue without an order to be applied for on notice: Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 360; 57 L. T. N. S. 207.

Upon attachment of contemnor. Sequestration may issue on præcipe.

881. In case a person is, under the preceding Rule, taken or detained in custody under a writ of attachment, without obeying the judgment or order, then upon the sheriff's return that the person has been so taken or detained, the party prosecuting the judgment or order shall be entitled, upon præcipe, to a commission of sequestration against the estate and effects of the disobedient party. Chy. O. 289.

Sequestration.—Originally the writ of sequestration was the last prerogative process, issued out of the Court of Chancery, for the purpose of enforcing obedience to its decrees. The right of the Court of Chancery to issue such writs, was at first contested by the Common Law Courts, on the ground that the Court of Chancery could not enforce its decrees by process in rem, but only in personam. And it was even ruled at law, that to kill a sequestrator in the execution of such process was no murder. But the authority of the Court to issue such writs was ultimately established, in spite of the "bloody and desperate resolutions" of the common lawyers. See Gilbert's Chy. Pr. 77. Rule 881.

A sequestration is in "the nature of a grand distress." It is a process of contempt in rem: Tatham v. Parker, 1 Sm. & G. 506; (see, however, observations of Spragge, C., Meyers v. Meyers, 21 Gr. 216,) and may be issued to enforce either an interlocutory order, or a final judgment. It affects the personal estate, and the rents and profits of the realty, of the person whose estate is sequestered: Jackson v. Jackson, 1 Chy. Ch. 115; but it does not appear to bind the land itself: Hyde v. Greenhill, 1 Dick 107; in Meyers v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 191, Mowat, V.-C., expressed the opinion, that under 5 Geo. 2, c. 7, s. 4, in Ontario, lands were bound by the writ of sequestration from the time of its delivery to the sequestrator; and that the Court might order a sale of sequestered lands; but the full Court were of opinion that lands could not be sold under a sequestration: S. C. 21 Gr. at p. 218. According to English authorities, it is said that the writ binds from its date, and not merely from its execution: Burdett v. Rockley, 1 Vern. 58; but see Angel v. Smith, 9 Ves. 336; Harris v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 107.

Binds personalty, and rents and profits of realty.

From date of sequestration.

The writ of sequestration has been shorn of much of its original efficacy by the enlarged operation given here to the fi. fa. goods. It is now only to be employed as a last resource. The fi. fa. goods and proceedings for attaching debts, etc., are first to be used, and if by these the debtor's property cannot be reached, a writ of sequestration may be issued on application in Chambers, upon notice as a general rule, but it will in general only be granted when the debtor's lands are insufficient to satisfy the debt, and it therefore becomes of importance to enter upon the land and realize the profits thereof during the year which must elapse before they can be sold under a fi. fa. lands, or where the interest of the debtor is such that it cannot be taken under a fi. fa.: Nelson v. Nelson, 6 P. R. 194. The Court has however power to order a sequestration instead of a fi. fa., if occasion should require (ib.) See note to Rule 883.

Where it was shown that a debtor had no effects which would be available in execution, a writ of sequestration was granted to enforce payment of costs which had been ordered to be paid: Snow v. Bolton, W. N. 1883, 73.

It is not necessary here to serve the judgment or order for payment, or a demand thereunder, as a condition precedent to an application for a sequestration: Lony v. Long, 6 P. R. 137.

Writ may issue without order, where contemnor in custody.

Formerly the writ could in no case issue except under special order. Rule 881 makes an exception to this rule, where the party is in actual custody for contempt, without obeying the judgment, or order, sought to be enforced. In such cases the writ may be obtained on præcipe, upon filing the sheriff's return.

A sequestration to enforce compliance by a Railway Co. with a peremptory mandamus was refused, and an attachment against the directors was held to be the proper remedy: Demorest v. Midland, R. W. Co., 10 P. R. 82; but see Rule 882.

Property liable; goods and chattels.

Property Liable to Sequestration—All goods, and chattels, in the possession of the contemnor, are liable to be seized; and also any property belonging to him, which can be reached by the sequestrator without suit, or action. And if the keys are denied him, the sequestrator may open rooms, and boxes, that are locked, and schedule the contents; but may not remove property off the premises without the special order of the Court: Pelham v. Newcastle, 3 Sw. 290 n. A debtor's seat in the Stock Exchange is not exigible under sequestration: London & Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Morphy, 10 Ont. 86. By the Imperial Statute 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Wm. 4. c. 36, s. 15, r. 16, sequestrators have the same power over documents in the custody of a person committed for not delivering them, or depositing them in Court, as they have over the contemnor's own property. This provision is incorporated into the law of this Province by R. S. O. c. 44, ss. 21-23.

Documents in custody of contemnor.

can; Irving v. Boyd, 15 Gr. 157; and see McDowell v. McDowell, 1 Chy. Ch. 140; Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Beav. 263; Crispin v. Cumano, L. R. 1 P. & M. 622. As regards choses in action, an order of the Court is necessary, to enable the sequestrators to sue for their recovery: Irving v. Boyd, 15 Gr. 157; or they may be reached by motion in the action in which the sequestration issued; see Ward v. Booth, L. R. 14 Eq. 195; Ex parte Nelson, Re Hoare, 14 Ch. D. 41.

But the chose in action is not bound by the writ of sequestration, until either the sequestrator, or the party prosecuting it, take steps to obtain payment: McDowell v. McDowell, 1 Chy. Ch. 140; 10 U. C. L. J. 48; London and Canadian Loan and Agency Co. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 375.

How recovered under.

If the debtor admits the liability, and submits to the order of the Court, an order may be made, without further suit, authorizing the debtor to pay, and deliver, the fund, or property, to the sequestrator; or authorizing the latter to seize the property: Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Beav. 263; Re Slade, Slade v. Hulme, 18 Ch. D. 653, 45 L. T. N. S. 276; Crispin v. Cumano, 1 L. R. P. & M. 622. But such order cannot be made without the debtor's assent: Ib.

A claim to indemnity, which a surety has against his principal, before payment by the surety, is not a chose in action, which can be reached by sequestration: Irving v. Boyd, 15 Gr. 157.

The accrued dividend of a fund in Court, to the income of which a married woman is entitled for her separate use without power of anticipation: Claydon v. Finch, L. R. 15 Eq. 266; Bryant v. Bull, 10 Ch. D. 153; a deposit on appeal: Conn v. Garland, L. R. 9 Chy. 101; and a rent charge: Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Beav. 263, have been held liable to sequestration.

Pensions and salaries.

PENSIONS, AND SALARIES.—Pensions granted entirely for past services, may be sequestered: Willcock v. Terrell, 3 Ex. D. 323; Dent v. Dent, 1 L. R. P. & M. 366; McCarthy v. Goold, 1 Ba. & B. 387; but pensions and salaries for services, still being rendered, or which may be required in futuro, cannot be sequestered: Fenton v. Lowther, 1 Cox 315; McCarthy v. Goold, supra; Collyer v. Fallon, 1 T. & R. 459; Spooner v. Payne, 1 D. M. & G. 383; and see Lloyd v. Cheetham, 3 Giff. 171.

Rents and profits of realty bound, but land not saleable under.

RENTS, AND PROFITS, OF REAL ESTATE, including crops, or other natural produce, or rents paid in kind, are liable to sequestration, but land, whether freehold, or leasehold, cannot be sold under the writ, which only confers a right to the possession, but does not transfer any title to the land, or term, to the sequestrator: Shaw v. Wright, 3 Ves. 22; or confer any priority over prior specific charges: Meyers v. Myers, 20 Gr. 185; 21 Gr. 214. Tenants in possession should be notified to attorn to the sequestrator, and pay their arrears, and growing rents, to him: Danl. Pr. 5th ed. 916; and upon refusal, the sequestrator may obtain an order compelling them to attorn: Rowley v. Ridley, 3 Sw. 306; Jackson v. Jackson 1 Chy. Ch. 115.

Tenants to be notified. Order against.

Paying rents after attornment. Lease by sequestrator.

If a tenant attorns to the sequestrator, and afterwards pays his rent to another party, he may be compelled to pay it over again to the sequestrator: Harris v. Meyers, 2 Chy. Ch. 121. A sequestrator, with the sanction of the Court, can make leases, for any period during which the aggregate rents, will not exceed the amount for which the sequestration issued: Harris v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 89. But the sequestrator cannot, by his lease, affect the right of a person holding an incumbrance prior to the claim of the party issuing the sequestration: Meyers v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 541.

Disposition of property sequestered.

Disposition of Property Sequestered.—Prima facie a sequestration confers merely a right of detainer of the property sequestered. Where the sequestration, however, is issued for non-payment of money, the proceeds of the goods seized will be ordered to be applied in satisfaction of the demand: Davis v. Davis, 2 Atk. 24. The sequestrator should not, however, so apply them, but should pay the proceeds into Court upon leave obtained on motion in Chambers: Danl. Pr. 5th ed. 917.

The Court may, at the instance of the sequestrator, order payment into Court of the balance standing in a banker's books to the credit of the debtor upon notice to the banker: Miller v. Huddlestone, 22 Ch. D. 233.

Sale of Property.—Where necessary, a sale of personal property sequestered, may, on the application of the sequestrator, be ordered, e.g., where goods are of a perishable nature: Shaw v. Wright, 3 Ves. 22; or it is necessary for the satisfaction of the claim for which the writ issued: Ib; Mitchell v. Draper, 9 Ves. 208; a defendant's reversionary interest in a fund in Court, has been ordered to be sold: Cowper v. Taylor, 16 Sim. 314. The application for leave to sell must be made on notice to the debtor: Mitchell v. Draper, supra; Forbes v. Connolly, 1 Chy. Ch. 6; but service of notice may be dispensed with: Re Rush, 19 W. R. 417. Rule 882. Sale, when ordered.

According to the dictum of Mowat, V.-C., in Meyers v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 185, sequestered land may now be ordered to be sold, as well as goods and chattels; but the full Court in Meyers v. Meyers, 21 Gr. at p. 218, expressed the contrary opinion, and stated that "all that the Court does is to direct the application of the rents and profits, and this, not by way of execution, but upon the ground that the party is in contempt for disobedience of some order of the Court." See also Nelson v. Nelson, 6 P. R. 194. Notice of application for sale must be given to debtor.

Adverse Claims.—Where property affected by a sequestration, or any interest therein, is claimed by some third person, the sequestrator, and possibly the claimant, may apply to the Court for relief, by a summary application in the cause: see Rule 1141 et seq. Parties having claims adverse to sequestration—proceedings by.

The claimant should not commence an action against the sequestrator, or disturb his possession without the leave of the Court. If he do so, he may be restrained by injunction.

Obstruction of Sequestrator, is a contempt of Court: Angel v. Smith, 9 Ves. 335; Pelham v. Newcastle, 3 Sw. 289 n, and see Francklyn v. Colhoun, 3 Sw. 276. But persons having claims on the property sequestered, adverse to the sequestrator, are not driven to bring actions, but may apply to the Court for relief in a summary way upon petition in the action; and see Meyers v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 541. Obstruction of sequestrator a contempt.

Death of Contemnor.—Where a sequestration has issued to compel payment of money, in case the contemnor die, an order may be obtained to continue proceedings against his real representative, where the lands descended, or devised, would be assets for the payment of the debt: Hyde v. Greenhill, 1 Dick, 107; but where the writ issues for personal contempt, on the part of the contemnor, on the death of the contemnor, no order to continue proceedings can be obtained: Turley v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 102; Gilbert's Chy. Pr. 86-87; except perhaps for the costs: see Rule 630. Death of contemnor; when proceedings may be continued against his representatives.

882. If an attachment cannot be executed against the person refusing or neglecting to obey the judgment or order, by reason of his being out of the jurisdiction of the Court, or of his having absconded, or that with due diligence he cannot be found, or if in any other case the Court may think proper to dispense with a writ of attachment, an order may be granted for a commission of sequestration against the estate and effects of the disobedient person; and it shall not be necessary for that purpose to sue out an attachment. See Chy. O. 290. Where attachment cannot be executed, etc.

An order for sequestration will not be granted against a defendant required to do an act, where an appeal is pending from the judgment directing its performance, and the defendant has perfected the security required by the Order of the appellate Court, entitling him to a stay of proceedings: Dundas v. Hamilton & Milton R. Co., 19 Gr. 455; McGarvey v. Strathroy, 6 Ont. 138. Sequestration pending appeal.

Originally the sequestration only issued after an attachment, and all other process had been exhausted. Under this Rule in cases where it would be impossible to execute an attachment, it is unnecessary to go through the form of issuing one; and see Snow v. Bolton, W. N. 1881, 73. Attachment need not issue to found sequestration.

Rules 883-886.

An attachment may be ordered against a party who is out of the jurisdiction: Bloomfield v. Brooke, 6 P. R. 264, and see Farewell v. Wallbridge, 3 Gr. 628.

A writ of sequestration was issued against a person of unsound mind in Robinson v. Galland, W. N. 1889, 108; 37 W. R. 697.

Sequestration may issue for default in payment of money, on application in Chambers.

883. If a person who is ordered to pay money, neglects to obey the judgment or order according to the exigency thereof, the party prosecuting the same, may, at the expiration of the time limited for the performance thereof, apply in Chambers for a writ of sequestration against the defaulting party, and upon proof of due service of a notice of the motion, unless the Court thinks proper to dispense with such service, and upon proof by affidavit of such other matters, if any, as the Court requires, the Court may order a writ of sequestration to issue. Chy. O. 291.

Sequestration, when granted to enforce payment of money demand.

Where a writ of sequestration is sought, to enforce the payment of money, unless some special ground is made for proceeding ex parte, notice of motion must be given; and the ordinary procedure for recovering money demands, viz.: writs of fi. fa. etc., and attachment of debts, should be first resorted to, or shewn to be unavailing: Nelson v. Nelson, 6 P. R. 194; but see Re Russell, Burnet v. Allen, before Spragge, C., January 24, 1876, where the writ of sequestration was granted without such preliminary proceedings; and see Snow v. Bolton, W. N. 1881, 73 where the sequestration was granted on it being shown that the debtor had no effects exigible under execution.

An order for payment of money need not be personally served in order to found a motion for a sequestration: Long v. Long, 6 P. R. 137.

The writ cannot properly be issued, to enforce an ordinary judgment for the recovery of money, which does not expressly order payment, or limit a time therefor: London and Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 375; Ex parte Nelson, Re Hoare, 14 Ch. D. 41.

Commissions of sequestration to be directed to Sheriff.

884. Commissions of sequestration are to be directed to the Sheriff, unless otherwise ordered. Chy. O. 292.

For form of writ see App. Form No. 199.

3. Issue and Form of Writ.

Execution within six years.

885. As between the original parties to a judgment, execution may issue at any time within 6 years from the recovery of the judgment. J. A. Rule 355.

This is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 18 (1883 R. 600), and is in substance the same as R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 322.

Garnishee process is not a form of execution within Rule 858 so as to be subject to Rules 885, and 886: Fellows v. Thornton, 14 Q. B. D. 335.

Execution by leave of Court.

886. (a) Where 6 years have elapsed since the judgment, or the date of the order, or where any change has taken place by death or otherwise in the parties entitled or liable to execution;

(b) Where a husband is entitled or liable to execution upon a judgment or order for or against his wife; Rule 886.

(c) Where a party is entitled to execution upon a judgment of assets in futuro; the party alleging himself to be entitled to execution may apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to issue execution accordingly. And such Court or Judge, if satisfied that the party so applying is entitled to issue execution, may make an order to that effect, or may order that any issue or question necessary to determine the rights of the parties, shall be tried in any of the ways in which any question in an action may be tried. And in either case such Court or Judge may impose such terms as to costs or otherwise, as shall seem just. J. A. Rule 556.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 19.

Rule 601 of the Eng. Rules, 1883, includes the further case of a party entitled to execution against any of the shareholders in a joint-stock company upon a judgment against the company. Previously a writ of scire facias was necessary, and in Ont. Rule 887 will probably apply in such case.

The practice at Common Law in reviving pecuniary judgments for the purpose of execution, after the lapse of six years, or the death of parties, was formerly governed by C. L. P. Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 322 to 330 (corresponding with Eng. C. L. P. Act, s. 128, et seq.) Under those provisions the party seeking execution could apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to enter a suggestion to the effect that such party was shown to be entitled to execution, and to allow execution to issue, and, if the case was made clear, the suggestion and the consequent execution were allowed. If the case was not made clear, the suggestion and execution consequent upon it were disallowed, and the party was left to his writ of revivor. This was a new action, in which by the ordinary processes of pleading the questions in dispute were brought to issue and decided.

The above Rule preserves alternative processes, according as the right to execution is, or is not, sufficiently clear to be enforced summarily by a Judge; but a somewhat simpler process is provided; if the case be clear, the Judge may order execution to issue; if it be not, he may direct an issue to try the right.

Where judgment is obtained by several executors and one of them dies after the entering of judgment, there is no "change" of parties within the meaning of this Rule. The surviving plaintiffs are entitled to issue execution in the name of all, and no order for leave to do so is necessary: Baird v. Thompson, 14 L. R. Ir. 497. So also in the case of partners the action survives: Davies v. Andrews, 28 Sol. Jour. 411; W. N. 1884, 94.

Successors in title are not bound by a decree against their predecessors restraining the continuance of a nuisance: Atty.-Gen. v. Birmingham, etc., Board, 17 Ch. D. 685.

An application for leave to issue execution may be made ex parte; Mercer v. Lawrence, 26 W. R. 506; Lysaght v. McGrath, 7 L. R. Ir. 532; but the Court or Judge may, if it seems proper, direct notice to be served.

Where writs had expired, leave was given, on notice to defendant, under this Rule, to issue new writs to include the costs of the former ones, and the costs of the motion: McDougall v. McDougall, 3 C. L. T. 42.

At Common Law, after 20 years without payment, a presumption arises that the judgment is satisfied: see Coke 2 Inst. 470, Mortimer v. Piggott, 2 Period of limitation.

LAW LIBRARY

YORK UNIVERSITY

Rules 887-889.

Dowl. 615. But this presumption may be rebutted: Williams v. Welch, 3 D. & L., 565, and possibly does not arise where execution has never been issued: see Jenkins v. Kirby, 2 C. L. J. 164.

As to the period of limitation for enforcing a judgment, and whether the limitation applies to proceedings under this Rule: see Boice v. O'Leane, 3 Ont. App. 167; Caspar v. Keachie, 41 U. C. Q. B. 601; McDonald v. Elliott, 12 Ont. 98; Macdonald v. McDonald, 11 Ont. 190, and McCullough v. Sykes, 11 P. R. 337.

Leave to issue execution was given where a judgment recovered in 1856 was revived in 1869, twenty years not having elapsed: McCullough v. Sykes, 11 P. R. 337.

In case of persons not parties.

887. In cases other than those mentioned in Rule 885, any person, not being a party in an action, who obtains any order or in whose favour any order is made, shall be entitled to enforce obedience to such order by the same process as if he were a party to the action; and any person not being a party in an action, against whom obedience to any judgment or order may be enforced, shall be liable to the same process for enforcing obedience to such judgment or order as if he were a party to the action. J. A. Rule 358.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 21. The Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 604, is applicable in the case of a "a cause or matter," and corresponds with Chy. O. 297.

See note to Rule 886.

Præcipe for writ.

888. No writ of execution shall be issued without the party issuing it, or his solicitor, filing a præcipe for that purpose. The præcipe shall contain the title of the action, (a) the date of the judgment, and of the order, if any, directing the execution to be issued, the names of the parties against whom, or of the firms against whose goods, the execution is to be issued; and shall be signed by or on behalf of the solicitor of the party issuing it, or by the party issuing it if he do so in person. The forms in Part VII. of the Appendix hereto may be used, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 347.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 10, (1883, R. 590), has here the additional words, "the reference to the record." The above Rule corresponds otherwise with the English Rule as it now stands; see Bolton v. Bolton, 3 Ch. D. 276.

Indorsement of name and address.

889. Every writ of execution shall be indorsed with the name and place of abode or office of business of the solicitor actually suing out the same; and when the solicitor actually suing out the writ sues out the same as agent for another solicitor, the name and place of abode of such other solicitor shall also be indorsed upon the writ; and in case no solicitor is employed to issue the writ, then it shall be indorsed with a memorandum expressing that the same has been sued out by the plaintiff or defendant in person, as the case may be, mentioning the city, town or [(a) other place,] and also the name of the (b) street and number of the house of such plaintiff's or defendant's residence, if any such there be. J. A. Rule 348. Rule 890.

(a) Instead of "other place" the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 11, (1883, R. 591), has the word "parish."

(b) The English Rule has here the additional word "hamlet." The two Rules are otherwise identical.

Where the Sheriff, being misled by an indorsement made on a writ by the plaintiff's solicitor, seized the goods of a wrong person, the plaintiff was held liable in an action of trespass: Morris v. Salbery, 22 Q. B. D. 614. See also Smith v. Keal, 9 Q. B. D. 340.

890. Upon every execution there may be levied, in addition to the sum recovered by the judgment, the poundage, fees, expenses of execution and interest upon the amount recovered. J. A. Rule 350. R. S. O. c. 66, s. 44. Poundage, etc.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 13, (1883 R. 593), and to the same effect as R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 44.

The mere delivery of the writ, without an actual or virtual seizure, does not entitle the Sheriff to poundage: Nash v. Dickinson, L. R. 2 C. P. 252; Morris v. Boulton, 2 C. L. Cham. 60; but the receipt of money by the Sheriff under a writ is a virtual execution of the writ though there is no actual seizure or sale: Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 172; Bissicks v. Bath Colliery Co., 2 Ex. D. 459; Ex p. Lithgow, 10 Ch. D. 169. Where there has been a seizure the Sheriff is entitled to poundage, though there be no sale, if by compulsion of the writ the debt is recovered directly through the Sheriff: Mortimore v. Cragg, 3 C. P. D. 216, overruling Roe v. Hammond, 2 C. P. D. 300, or indirectly by means of some compromise which is the consequence of the seizure, subject to Rule 1233, Mortimore v. Cragg, supra; Thomas v. Cotton, 12 U. C. Q. B. 148; Gillespie v. Shaw, 10 U. C. L. J. 100; McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P. R. 95; but not where the writ is withdrawn by direction of law: Mortimore v. Cragg, supra; Walker v. Fairfield, 8 C. P. 95; or where before sale an order is made for delivery of the goods to a receiver: Re Ludford, 33 W. R. 152; see 51 L. T. N. S. 240; Re Ludmore, 13 Q. B. D. 415. Poundage on fi. fa. goods.

Where the money levied has to be restored to defendant in consequence of some act of the plaintiff, the Sheriff may recover poundage from the latter: Henry v. Commercial Bank, 17 U. C. Q. B. 104; see Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390.

A Sheriff upon arresting a judgment debtor under ca. sa. thereby becomes at once entitled as against execution creditors to full poundage on the amount of the execution: McNab v. Oppenheimer, 11 P. R. 348.

The Sheriff is only entitled to poundage on the sum paid over, not on what he retains for himself: Michie v. Reynolds, 24 U. C. Q. B. 303. If he makes part only by force of the execution, the poundage is only on such part; and if a seizure is not followed by a sale by reason of satisfaction having been otherwise obtained, and no money is actually made by the Sheriff on or by force of the execution, the poundage is only on the goods seized, and a Judge may on application award such less sum as may be reasonable: Rule 1233, and see Wadsworth v. Bell, 8 P. R. 478; Bowman v. Masson, 1 C. L. T. 109; Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390; Hamilton, etc., v. Gore Bank, 20 Gr. 202: Re Ludford, 51 L. T. N. S. 240. If no such application is made, the Sheriff would seem to be entitled to full poundage on the goods seized: see Brockville, etc. v. Canada Central, 7 P. R. 372, 376.

Rule 891.

The Sheriff was held entitled to poundage, on three several writs issued by the same solicitor and placed in his hands at the same time: Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 40.

For the proper mode of computing poundage, see Fleming v. Hall, 9 P. R. 310.

Poundage on fi. fa. lands.

A Sheriff is not entitled to poundage upon an execution against lands, unless there has been an actual sale: Merchant's Bank v. Campbell, 32 C. P. 170.

The plaintiff's solicitors are not liable to the Sheriff for his fees in the absence of any contract, and no contract is implied from lodging the writ in the Sheriff's office: Royle v. Bushy, 6 Q. B. D. 171.

For the Fees to which Sheriff's are entitled, see Tariff C., infra.

Indorsements on writ.

891. Every writ of execution for the recovery of money shall be indorsed with a direction to the sheriff, or other officer or person to whom the writ is directed, to levy the money really due and payable and sought to be recovered under the judgment, stating the amount, and also to levy interest thereon, if sought to be recovered, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from the time when the judgment was entered up; provided that in cases where there is an agreement between the parties that more than 6 per cent. interest shall be secured by the judgment, then the indorsement may be accordingly to levy the amount of interest so agreed. J. A. Rule 351.

Same in effect as Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 14, (1883, R. 594), except that the rate of interest therein named is four per cent. instead of six, and provides for the case of money payable under a judgment or order.

It is not quite clear how far the last clause is intended to alter the former rule that a contract for payment of a higher rate of interest than six per cent. when sued on, becomes merged in the judgment under which six per cent. only will be recoverable: see St. John v. Rykert, 4 Ont. App. 213. At all events, in the absence of any agreement operating subsequently to judgment, interest is limited to six per cent., though the debt on which the judgment was recovered bore a higher rate: Re European Central Ry. Co., 4 Ch. D. 35; Ex p. Fewings, 25 Ch. D. 338.

In indorsing a writ to levy interest upon the amount of the judgment, the interest is to be computed from the day of pronouncing the judgment; that, and not the day of formal entry thereof, is the day from which the judgment takes effect: Rule 764, and is, therefore, the day upon which it is entered up within the meaning of this Rule: Kelcher v. McGibbon, 10 P. R. 89; see Rule 764, and McLaren v. Canada Central there noted.

The date from which interest is to be computed has been further made clear by sec. 88 of the Act.

As a general rule, interest cannot be allowed on untaxed costs though awarded out of a fund in Court: West v. West, 17 L. R. Ir. 49.

Where costs of all parties of an action for the construction of a will were ordered to be paid out of an estate and were taxed, but no estate was available for their payment for five years, interest on the costs was not allowed out of the estate: Archer v. Severn, 12 P. R. 648.

Where an appeal is brought against a judgment, which is affirmed on the appeal, interest is allowed for such time as execution is delayed by the appeal; but where the plaintiff refrained from entering judgment till after the appeal, the Court of Appeal on motion refused to order interest on the verdict, leaving the plaintiff to apply to the Court below to enter judgment nunc pro tunc:

Interest on costs runs from the date of the certificate of taxation, that being the date given in the form of writ No. 175 in the App.: Schroeder v. Cleugh, 46 L. J. C. P. 365; Trinity College v. Hill, 8 Ont. 286. Formerly at Common Law interest ran from the date of entering judgment; and this is the date under English Rules of 1883: Landowners of W. England, 33 W. R. 41; Re London Wharfage and Warehouses Co., 33 W. R. 836; 53 L. T. N. S. 112; Boswell v. Coaks, 36 W. R. 65, although judgment issued before 1883, and the taxation was afterwards. The form of writ under those Rules (App. H, Form 1) and note thereto now so provide, differing in this respect from the forms of 1875: Pyman v. Burt, 28 Sol. Jour. 428; W. N. 1884, 100; 76 L. T. Jour. 425.

892. It shall be the duty of every officer issuing a writ of execution, or renewal thereof, to indorse upon the same a memorandum signed by him of the amount or amounts respectively hereinafter mentioned, which the party issuing such writ is entitled to receive for suing out such writ or renewal and placing it in the Sheriff's hands, including all attendances, indorsements, letters, etc., and for his costs of any prior, or other writs, or renewals, specifying the amount allowed for each writ or renewal; and no sum not so indorsed is to be collected for such costs. J. A. Rule 594. Indorsement of amounts to be paid for costs of writs.

The amounts which may be collected were mentioned in the original Rule 594 but are now contained in the Tariff of Costs, Item 15.

893. Every writ of execution shall bear date of the day on which it is issued. The forms in Part XI. in the Appendix may be used, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 349. Date.

Identical with the Eng R. 1875, O. 42, r. 12, (1883, R. 592).

Where a plaintiff had given notice to the defendant of discontinuance of the action, and the costs had been taxed, it was held that no further order of the Court was necessary to enable the Chief Clerk to issue a writ to enforce payment, and that the writ might, be varied to suit the circumstances of the case: Bolton v. Bolton, 3 Ch. D. 276; see also Pyman v. Burt, W. N. 1884, 100; 1 Cab. & El. 207; Boswell v. Coaks, 36 W. R. 65.

See note to Rule 641.

894. A writ of execution if unexecuted shall remain in force for one year only from its issue, unless renewed in the manner hereinafter provided; but such writ may, at any time before its expiration, (a) be renewed by the party issuing it for one year from the date of such renewal, and so on from time to time during the continuance of the renewed writ—either by being marked [(b) in the margin with a memorandum signed by the proper officer who issued such writ, or by his successor in office, stating] the date of the day, month, and year of such renewal, or by such party Currency of writ.

giving a written notice of renewal to the sheriff, signed by the party or his solicitor, and [(c) having the like memorandum :] and a writ of execution so renewed shall have effect, and be entitled to priority, according to the time of the original delivery thereof. J. A. Rule 353.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 16, (1883, R. 598), has here the words "by leave of the Court or a Judge." The renewal under this Rule does not require leave.

(b) The method of marking under the English Rule is directed to be "with a seal of the Court bearing," etc., instead of the mode provided by the passage in brackets.

(c) Instead of the words here in brackets, the English Rule has "bearing the like seal of the Court."

With these exceptions, the English Rule is the same as the above. The method of marking provided for in the present Rule is taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 11, with which the present Rule corresponds in substance.

A writ is for the purpose of renewal necessarily taken out of the actual possession of the sheriff without affecting the position of the party who so withdraws it; but where more than a reasonable time for renewal elapsed and by mistake a writ was not returned renewed for more than six months, though there was no intention of withdrawing it except for purposes of renewal, it was held that a mortgage registered before the withdrawal had gained priority, and that it made no difference that no new rights had intervened : Re Hime v. Ledley, 13 P. R. 1; and see other cases noted p. 222.

There is no power to enlarge the time for renewing writs where, by an accident, they have not been returned in time for renewal within the year: Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 9 P. R. 309.

A writ of assistance was held to be a writ of execution within R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 11, and to be not in force for more than one year from the teste unless renewed : Adamson v. Adamson, 12 P. R. 21.

Proof of renewal.

895. The production of a writ of execution, or of the notice renewing the same, purporting to be marked with the memorandum in the last preceding Rule mentioned, shewing the same to have been renewed, shall be sufficient prima facie evidence of its having been renewed. J. A. Rule 354.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 42, r. 17, (1883, R. 599), has the words "such seal as," instead of the words "the memorandum," and has not the words "primâ facie"; but is otherwise the same as the above Rule, and is the same as sec. 12 of R. S. O. 1877, c. 66. It has been said that the expression "sufficient evidence" probably means primâ facie evidence : Barraclough v. Greenhough, L. R. 2 Q. B. 612.

Teste and date of writs of ca. sa.

896. Every writ of capias ad satisfaciendum shall continue in force two months from the day of the date thereof, inclusive, and no longer; but on the expiration thereof another writ may be obtained upon a Judge's order, in the manner directed by section 9 of The Act respecting Arrest and Imprisonment for Debt. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 53.

The Act referred to in this Rule is R. S. O. 1887, c. 67.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 9. It shall still be necessary to sue out execution in the proper county to charge bail.

4. Sale under Writ.

899. Where any goods or chattels are seized in execution under a writ issued out of the High Court or out of any County Court, the Sheriff, his Deputy, or officer, who seized the same, shall, on request, deliver to the owner, his agent or servant, an inventory thereof before they are removed from the premises on which they have been so seized; and no Sheriff or other officer shall sell any effects under a writ of execution until he has, previously thereto, given at least 8 days' public notice in writing of the time and place of sale in the most public place in the Municipality where such effects have been taken in execution. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 19. Sheriff to deliver inventory to the owner, etc.

900. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff, in every case where goods seized by him under execution remain unsold in his hands for want of buyers, to state and specify in his return of "goods on hand," the time and place when and where such goods were offered for sale by him, and the names of at least three persons who were present at the time of such attempted sale, if so many were present, but if so many were not present, then the names of those who were present, if any, and that there were no others, and if no person was present then to state that fact. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 34. Return where goods remain in Sheriff's hands unsold.

901. The Sheriff shall not expose the lands for sale under a writ against lands, or sell the same within less than 12 months from the day on which the writ against the lands is delivered to him. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 14. Lands not to be sold within a year.

Where a fi. fa. lands has been in the Sheriff's hands for a year and is returned, nothing having been done under it, the Sheriff may nevertheless sell under an alias fi. fa. lands issued thereon, without waiting a year: Campbell v. Delihanty, 24 U. C. Q. B. 236; Nickall v. Crawford, Tay. 277; Ruttan v. Levisconte, 16 U. C. Q. B. 495.

A sale of lands under an expired writ is void: Doe Burnham v. Simmonds, 9 U. C. Q. B. 436; Gardiner v. Juson, 2 E. & A. 188; Doe Greenshields v. Garrow,

Rules 902-904.

5 U. C. Q. B. 237; Reynolds v. Streeter, 3 P. R. 315; Lee v. Howes, 30 U. C. Q. B. 292; but where there has been an inception of execution during its currency, e.g., by advertising the land for sale under it, the sale may be made and carried out after the writ has become returnable: Hall v. Goslee, 15 C. P. 101; Rule 907. Though the advertisement may be published during the currency of the writ, yet by the express terms of this Rule the day named for the sale must not be earlier than twelve calendar months: see Rule 4; R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, (15,) from the day on which the writ was delivered to the Sheriff. Advertisements of sale under the writ, first published after the writ has expired, are invalid, and a sale in pursuance of such advertisement is void: Gardiner v. Jason, Reynolds v. Streeter, Lee v. Howes, supra; and a return of "lands on hand" made after the writ has expired, and without any previous inception of execution under it, is invalid, and will not authorize the issue of a venditioni exponas, and if issued, and a sale be made under it, the sale may be set aside: Lee v. Howes, supra. The Sheriff's telling the execution debtor that he has a fi. fa. against his lands, and that his lands will be sold, unless he pays up, is not an inception of execution: Bradburn v. Hall, 16 Gr. 518; neither is the mere sending of a list of lands for sale under an execution to the Gazette for publication an inception of execution; there must be an actual publication of the advertisement during the currency of the writ: Reynolds v. Streeter, supra.

The selling of land by the Sheriff before the proper period has expired is not a mere irregularity, but renders the sale void: see cases supra; whereas defects in the advertisement of sale to which the purchaser is no party will not affect the validity of the sale: Paterson v. Todd, 24 U. C. Q. B. 296; Ross v. Malone, 7 Ont. 215, 397, unless the circumstances are such that the purchaser's taking the deed can be said to amount to a fraud: McDonald v. Cameron, 13 Gr. 84; but where irregularities are committed by the Sheriff by instructions of the execution creditor's solicitor, and the execution creditor himself becomes the purchaser, the Court may, if the sale has been prejudiced, refuse to maintain the Sheriff's deed, if attacked, except as a security for the debt: Ib.; and see In re Davis, 17 Gr. 603; Kerr v. Bain, 11 Gr. 423; and where land has been sold under execution at a gross undervalue, owing to the title being in dispute, the Court may refuse to give effect to the Sheriff's deed, except as a security: Chalmers v. Pigott, 11 Gr. 475; and see Molloch v. Plunkett, 11 Gr. 439; but the inadequacy of price must be very excessive to induce the Court to refuse to maintain a Sheriff's deed: Laing v. Matthews, 14 Gr. 36.

Where the sale has been improperly conducted, the Sheriff may be restrained by injunction from executing a conveyance: Jones v. Jones, 15 Gr. 40.

Fi. fa. lands against absconding debtor.

902. When a writ against lands is issued in an action against an absconding debtor in which an order for attachment has issued, the Court or a Judge may order the Sheriff to sell the lands before the expiration of the twelve months, but in like manner as in other cases. 50 V. c. 7, s. 7.

Time for Sheriff's sales in Algoma and Thunder Bay limited.

903. No Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff or other officer shall sell, or expose for sale under execution, any lands or tenements in the Provisional Judicial Districts of Algoma or Thunder Bay, except between the 1st day of July and the 1st day of November. 42 V. c. 15, s. 4.

No sale of lands until return of nulla bona.

904. No sale shall be had under any execution against lands until after a return of nulla bona, in whole or in part, with respect to an execution against goods in the same action or matter by the Sheriff of the same county. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, ss. 15, 16. Rules 905, 906.

The omission to make a return of nulla bona, as required by this Rule, before selling land, is an irregularity only, and will not render the sale of the lands void: Ross v. Malone, 7 Ont. 215, 397; Doe d. Spafford v. Brown, 3 O. S. 92. So also a return of nulla bona, where there are in fact goods liable to execution, is only an irregularity: Ontario Bank v. Kerby, 10 C. P. 35, 41; Molson's Bank v. McMeekin, 15 Ont. App. 535.

905. If the amount authorized to be made and levied under the writ against goods is made and levied thereunder, the person issuing the writ against lands shall not be entitled to the expenses thereof, or of any seizure or advertisement thereunder; and the return to be made by the Sheriff to the writ against lands shall be to the effect that the amount has been so made and levied as aforesaid. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 17. If the debt is realized under writ against goods.

906. Before the sale of real estate under execution against lands and tenements, the Sheriff shall publish an advertisement of sale in the Ontario Gazette, at least six times, specifying: Notice of sale of lands in execution.

(a) The particular property to be sold;

(b) The names of the plaintiff and defendant;

(c) The time and place of the intended sale;

and he shall, for three months next preceding the sale, also publish such advertisement in a public newspaper of the county in which the lands lie, or shall for three months put up and continue a notice of such sale in the office of the Clerk of the Peace, or on the door of the Court House or place in which the Court of General Sessions of the Peace of the county is usually holden; but nothing herein contained shall be taken to prevent an adjournment of the sale to a future day. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 41.

It would seem that the omission to advertise, where there is an uncertainty as to what has been sold, though it may give a right against the Sheriff, will not invalidate the sale as against a bonâ fide purchaser: Osborne v. Kerr, 17 U. C. Q. B. 134, 141; and see Lee v. Howes, 30 U. C. Q. B. 292. Defects in the advertisement will not invalidate the sale as against a third person, or even the execution creditor, who bonâ fide becomes the purchaser: Paterson v. Todd, 24 U. C. Q. B. 296; but where the execution creditor becomes the purchaser, if he has in any way by himself or his solicitor participated in the irregularities, his deed may be ordered to stand merely as a security: McDonald v. Cameron, 13 Gr. 84; In re Davis, 17 Gr. 603.

The want of regularity in giving public notice of an adjournment of the sale was held to be cured where the debtor attended the sale by his agent, and afterwards ratified what had been done: Doe Dissett v. McLeod, 3 U. C. Q. B. 207. But where a Sheriff refused to execute a deed on the ground of there having been an irregularity in the advertisement, but readvertised the lands and put them up for sale again, where they brought a price far exceeding that offered by the first purchaser, the Court refused to interfere summarily on the application of the first purchaser to compel the Sheriff to make a deed to him: In re Campbell, 10 U. C. Q. B. 641.

Notice in Gazette shall constitute incipient execution.

907. The advertisement in the Ontario Gazette of any lands for sale under a writ of execution, during the currency of the writ (giving some reasonably definite description of the land in such advertisement), shall be deemed a sufficient commencement of the execution to enable the same to be completed by a sale and conveyance of the lands after the writ has become returnable. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 42.

5. Return of Writs, etc.

Orders to return writs or bring in body, to be six day orders.

908. All orders against Sheriffs to return writs, or to bring in the bodies of defendants, shall be returnable in 6 days, and shall be issued from the same office whence the writ was sued out. Rules T. T. 1856, 101.

Before an order to return a writ is issued, it would seem that a demand for a return should be first made under Rule 914. The neglect to make the demand first would probably be held to disentitle the party issuing the order to the costs thereof: see Rule 916.

The order may be obtained on præcipe: see Rule 909.

An order to bring in the body upon a return of cepi corpus may be issued immediately after the time for putting in special bail has expired: Poucher v. Lieven, 4 Mo. & Sc. 427; Hutchins v. Hind, 5 T. R. 479; Potter v. Marsden, 8 East, 525. But the order should not issue until the day after the expiration of an order (if any) to return the order for arrest: see Hutchins v. Hind, supra. The order to bring in the body cannot be properly issued where the plaintiff has taken an assignment of the bond to the Sheriff: 2 Saund. 60b; or when he accepts a cognovit or other security from the defendant, without the privity of the Sheriff: Rex v. Sheriff of Surrey in Brewer v. Clarke, 1 Taunt. 159. The order should be issued and served promptly: Rex v. Sheriff of Middlesex, 1 Dowl. 53. It would seem that an order to return the writ or bring in the body need not be personally served on the Sheriff, if he cannot conveniently be found: see Rule 917.

Orders for return of writs, etc., to be on præcipe.

909. No Judge's order shall issue for the return of any writ, or to bring in the body of the defendant, but a præcipe order shall issue for that purpose, which shall be of the same force and effect as side bar rules formerly made for that purpose in Term. Rules T. T. 1856, 102.

This order may issue from the office whence the writ issued: see Rule 25.

Sheriff to file writ in office from which order to return issues.

910. The Sheriff shall file the writ in the office from which the order to return the same was issued, at the expiration of the order, or as soon after as the office shall be open, and the officer with whom it is filed shall indorse the day and hour when it was filed. Rules T. T. 1856, 103.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Where the Sheriff disobeys the order to return the writ, he is liable to attachment for contempt; but an attachment can only be obtained on motion, of which the Sheriff is entitled to notice: see Rule 879. Rules 911-914.

911. Where any Sheriff, before his going out of office, arrests any defendant, and takes a bail bond and makes a return of cepi corpus, he shall and may, within the time allowed by law, be called upon to bring in the body by an order for that purpose, notwithstanding he may be out of office before the order is granted. Rules T. T. 1856, 105. Arrest by sheriff before going out of office; order to bring in body.

The order to bring in the body is obtainable on præcipe as against a Sheriff: see Rule 908; but where the order is required against one who has ceased to be Sheriff, it is possible that Rule 908 would not apply, and that the order must be obtained on motion.

912. Every Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Pleas, Local or Deputy Registrar, or Clerk of the County Court, may sign and issue orders on any Sheriff to return writs issued out of the office of such Deputy Clerk, Local or Deputy Registrar, or County Court Clerk and directed to such Sheriff; and the Sheriff shall, in case of his being served therewith, return the writs to the office from which the same issued. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 57. Deputy Clerks of the Crown and other officers may issue orders to return writs, etc.

913. In case a writ delivered to a Sheriff for service or execution has remained in his hands 15 days, and in case he has not been delayed from returning the same by an order in writing from the party from whom he received the writ, his solicitor or agent, and in case he is afterwards directed by order of Court to return such writ, he shall not be entitled to any fees thereon unless, within 4 days after being so directed, he returns or encloses the writ by post to such party, his solicitor or agent. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 58. Sheriff not entitled to fees on writs unless returned in four days after being ordered, if writ delivered fifteen days before such order.

914. In case the party who delivered any writ or process to any Sheriff to be executed, by himself or by his solicitor, or by the agent of such solicitor, requires, by a demand in writing, the Sheriff to return the writ either to the party or to his solicitor or solicitor's agent, or to the Court from which the writ issued, (and whether such requisition is made before or after the service or other execution thereof,) the Sheriff shall within 8 days, inclusive of the day of the service of the requisition, return the writ according to the terms of the requisition; and in case the sheriff wilfully refuses or neglects to do so, he shall be liable to be ordered to return Sheriff refusing to make return when demanded by party who delivered it to him. the writ, and to be further proceeded against as in other cases of contumacy. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 59.

Other party entitled to return may proceed in like manner.

915. In all cases where the party to the writ or process who did not deliver the same to the Sheriff to be executed, is entitled, according to the practice of the Court, to call for a return of the writ or process, he may proceed in like manner to procure such return as is above provided in the case of parties who have delivered the writ or process to the sheriff for execution. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 60.

When Sheriff liable to costs for not returning writs.

916. In every case in which a Sheriff neglects or refuses to return any writ when so called upon, he shall be bound to pay the costs of any order taken out to compel the return, and all other costs consequent thereon, and also the costs of the previous requisition to make the return. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 61.

Personal service on Sheriff unnecessary.

917. In no case shall personal service on the Sheriff be necessary, if it appears by affidavit that inquiry was made for him, and that he could not conveniently be found, but service shall be deemed to have been made upon the Sheriff by serving the Deputy Sheriff if he can be conveniently found; and if the Deputy Sheriff cannot conveniently be found, then service may be made upon the Sheriff's clerk, or upon any bailiff of the Sheriff who may for the time being be present in, or have charge of, the Sheriff's office. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 64.

Certain sections to apply to Coroners and Elisors.

918. Rules 873, 912 to 915 inclusive, 917, 919, 925 and 1233 to 1237 inclusive, shall extend and apply to coroners and elisors employed in the service or executing of the process of the High Court, or of any of the County Courts. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 65.

Attachments for non-return of writs may be issued unless further time for return granted.

919. In case a writ is issued out of any Court of Record directed to a Sheriff, and is delivered to him for execution, and in case the Sheriff is ordered to return the same by any order of the court out of which the writ issued, and does not make the return within the time specified in the order, the plaintiff or defendant in the writ (as the case may be) may move for an order of attachment against the Sheriff, and the Court or a Judge may order the Sheriff to be attached, or limit a further period after which an order of attachment shall issue unless a return be made in the meantime, or may otherwise order as to him seems proper. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 66. Rules 920-923.

920. In case the writ is not returned at the expiration of any further time limited by the order mentioned in the last preceding Rule, and in case the service of the order and the failure of the Sheriff to return the writ is proved, the Court or Judge may order a writ of attachment to issue forthwith against the Sheriff. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 67. When attachment may issue.

921. Upon the return of "cepi corpus" to any such attachment, any Judge having jurisdiction as aforesaid may direct the issue of a writ of habeas corpus, and thereupon may exercise the same powers and discretion in committing the Sheriff to close custody, or in admitting him to bail, and in all other respects, as are possessed by the Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 68. Judge in Chambers may order issue of writs of habeas corpus.

922. All orders of attachment and writs of habeas corpus issued against a Sheriff may be returnable on a day certain to be fixed by the order of the Judge or Court; and the return day shall not be more than 30 days from the issuing of the order; the order when issued out of the High Court shall be made returnable before the presiding Judge in Chambers, and when issued out of any County Court, before the Judge thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 69. Such writs may be returnable on a day certain.

923. Every Deputy Sheriff, Bailiff, or other Sheriff's officer or clerk entrusted with the custody of any writ or process, or of any book, paper or document belonging to the said Sheriff or his office, shall, upon demand upon him by such Sheriff, restore and return such writ, process book, paper or document to the custody of the said Sheriff, and in case of any neglect or refusal to return or restore the same as aforesaid, the party so neglecting or refusing may be required by an order of any Court of Record in Ontario, or of any Judge in such Court, to return and restore such writ, process, book, paper or document to such Sheriff, and may be further proceeded against by attachment, as in other cases of contumacy to orders of Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 16, s. 32.

924. If any Deputy Sheriff, Bailiff or Sheriff's officer has in his possession, custody, or control, any writ of summons, fieri facias, or other writ, or any bench warrant or process whatsoever, and, upon demand made by the Sheriff from whom the same was received, or his successor in office, or by any other party entitled to the possession of the same, neglects or refuses to deliver up the same, such Sheriff or his successor in office, or the party entitled to the possession of the same, may proceed before any Judge having jurisdiction in the Court out of which such writ or process issued, to compel the production thereof, and the order made thereupon may be enforced in the same manner as like orders for the return of writs against Sheriffs, and with or without costs or the motion may be refused with costs against the party applying, in the discretion of the Judge aforesaid. R. S. O. 1877, c. 16, s. 33.

6. Discharge of Execution Debtors from Custody.

On what authority Sheriffs may discharge debtors from custody.

925. A written order under the hand of the solicitor in the action by whom a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum has been issued, shall justify the Sheriff, gaoler or officer in whose custody the party is under such writ in discharging such party, unless the party for whom such solicitor professes to act has given written notice to the contrary to the said sheriff, gaoler, or officer; but such discharge shall not be a satisfaction of the debt unless made by the authority of the creditor; and nothing herein contained shall prejudice the solicitor in giving an order for discharge without the consent of his client. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 55.

which was the subject of the action in which judgment has been obtained against him was incurred, and as to the property and means he still has of discharging the said judgment, and as to the disposal he has made of any property since contracting such debt or incurring such liability, and as to any and what debts are owing to him.] J. A. Rule 366, R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 17; c. 50, s. 304. Rule 926.

This Rule varies from both R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 17; c. 50, s. 304, and the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 1, (1883, R. 610-611).

(a) The words here in brackets are taken from the English Rule, and are more extensive than the corresponding words in the Rev. Stat.

(b) Both the Statute and the English Rule require an order which the present Rule dispenses with.

(c) The clause here in brackets was not in Rule 366, and is taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 304.

(d) Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 17.

Before an examination can be had under this Rule there must be a return of nulla bona or the Sheriff must have notified the creditor that he is prepared to make such a return: Ontario Bank v. Trowern, 26 C. L. J. 190; 10 C. L. T. 137.

The fees are payable in stamps on an examination before a County Judge, or Local Master, under an order made by himself: see Rule 1192.

Debtor not examinable where judgment for costs only.

By Rule 934 it is provided that every judgment or order directing the payment of money or of costs, charges or expenses, shall be deemed a judgment, and that the person having the carriage of a judgment or order for payment of money into Court shall be entitled to enforce it under Rule 926.

The practice in England with regard to such cases, at any rate before the Rules of 1883, was different: Re Frankland, L. R. 8 Q. B. 18; Cremetti v. Crom, 4 Q. B. D. 225; Best v. Pembroke, L. R. 8 Q. B. 363; Re Price, L. R. 4 C. P. 155; Horsely v. Cox, L. R. 4 Chy. 92; see, however, Nott v. Sands, W. N. 1883. 74; and it was held that an order dismissing an action with costs was not a judgment within the Rule corresponding to Rule 926, and therefore not enforceable by attachment of debts: see notes to Rule 935.

Doubts were expressed under the original Ont. Rule as to whether R. S. O. 1877, c. 67, s. 12, 13, (now Rule 934) applied to extend the word "judgment" in this Rule, and Rule 935. In McLachlin v. Blackburn, 7 P. R. 287, it was held that the debtor was liable to examination though the judgment was only for costs: but in Meyers v. Kendrick, 9 P. R. 363, that case was disapproved of, and it was held that a defendant having a judgment for costs against the plaintiff, was not entitled to examine the plaintiff under this Rule as a judgment debtor: Meyers v. Kendrick, has been held by the Divisional Court, C. P. D., to have been correctly decided under the Rules and Statutes then in force and to still apply under the present Rules, notwithstanding Rule 934, which is merely a repetition of a clause of one of the former Statutes: Troutman v. Fisken, 13 P. R. 153.

It was held that R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 72, set such doubts at rest so far as the right to attach debts (see Rule 935) was concerned: Re Irvine, 12 P. R. 297; Elliot v. Capel, 9 P. R. 35. That section was more explicit than Rule 934, and expressly gave the right to attach debts in the case of a judgment or rule or order for costs, or for payment of money into Court.

Under the present Rules, though R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 72, has not been continued in either the R. S. O. 1887, or the Consolidated Rules, it has been held by the Master in Chambers that Troutman v. Fisken, supra, does not qualify the right to attach, but that under Rules 934, and 935, that right continues as when Elliot v. Capel, and Re Irvine, were decided: London Mutual v. Jacob, (Mr. Dalton in Chambers, 30th October, 1889.) See also Rule 862.

merly, an order for costs of an interpleader issue, will entitle the person to whom the costs are payable to attach debts: Hartley v. Shemwell, 1 B. & S. 1.

Who may be examined.

Not only the judgment debtor but by order, under Rule 938, his clerks or employees, and, in the case of a corporation debtor, its officers may be examined. The Rules in this respect are wider than those in England: see Sewell v. Eden, 18 Q. B. D. 588.

A debtor under arrest on final process may be examined: Brown v. Bemmige, 2 U. C. L. J. 213; or a garnishee who has been ordered to pay over: Cowan v. Cartill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. N. S. 431. A married woman may be examined as to her separate estate: Standard Bank v. McQuaig, 7 P. R. 356. See McLeod v. Emigh, 12 P. R. 450.

Though an examination may be had without an order in the first instance, yet, where a party wishes to examine a judgment debtor a second time, he must make a substantive motion for that purpose on notice to the judgment debtor, and shew grounds for the order: London & Canadian Loan, etc. v. Merritt, 2 C. L. T. 260.

The examination is intended to be a cross-examination of the strictest character: Beattie v. Barton, 2 C. L. T. 104; and any question "fairly pertinent to the subject matter of the inquiry, which means put with a view to ascertain so far as possible by discovery from a reluctant defendant what debts are owing to him, ought to be answered by the defendant." He must also "give all necessary particulars to enable the plaintiffs to recover under a garnishee order: Republic of Costa Rica v. Strousberg, 16 Ch. D. 8.

Where the person examined cannot speak as to the facts about which examination may be had, without referring to books, etc., the Examiner's duty is to require their production and they must be produced: Russell v. Macdonald, 12 P. R. 458.

Inquiry as to the means of the debtor is not restricted to the period of contracting the debt, but it may be shewn that at some anterior time the debtor had property as to which he may be required to give an account, and it is not a sufficient answer to say merely that it has all been disposed of before the debt was incurred: Ontario Bank v. Mitchell, 32 C. P. 73.

Application for examination of officers of corporations.

927. In case the judgment is against a body corporate, or an order for the payment of money has been obtained against a body corporate, the person entitled to enforce the judgment, or order, may in like manner examine any of the officers of such body corporate, upon oath, before the Judge of the County Court, or other officer referred to in the next preceding Rule, touching the names and residences of the stockholders in said body corporate, the amount and particulars of stock held or owned by each stockholder and the amount paid thereon, also as to any and what debts are owing to the said body corporate; and as to the estate and effects of the body corporate; and as to the disposal made by the body corporate of any property since contracting the debt or liability, in respect of which the said judgment or order was obtained. J. A. Rule 367; R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 19.

The statute referred to required an order, which now under this Rule is dispensed with.

The corresponding provision in England, Rules of 1883, R. 610, is in substance the same. There was formerly no power to order the examination of an officer of the corporation in such case: Dickson v. Neath, etc., Ry. Co., L. R. 4 Ex. 87. This Rule removes the defect.

928. Where judgment has been obtained as aforesaid, the Court or a Judge may, on the application of the party entitled to enforce the judgment, order any clerk or employee or former clerk or employee of the judgment debtor, or any person, or the officer or officers of any corporation, to whom the debtor has made a transfer of his property or effects since the date when the liability or debt which was the subject of the action in which judgment was obtained was incurred, to attend at the county town of the county in which such person resides, before a Master, or an Official Referee or Examiner, or a Local Master, a Deputy Registrar of the High Court or a Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or before the Judge of the County Court of the county, and to submit to be examined upon oath as to the estate and effects of the debtor, and as to the property and means he had when the debt or liability aforesaid was incurred, and as to the property or means he still has of discharging the judgment, and as to the disposal he has made of any property since contracting the debt or incurring the liability, and as to any and what debts are owing to him. The examination is to be for the purpose of discovery only, and no order is to be made on the evidence given on such examination.

Rule 928. Examination of certain persons as to a debtor's means.

An order under this Rule should not be made without notice to the transferee; nor without proof that the transfer was made after the date when the liability of the judgment debtor was incurred: Blakeley v. Blaase, 12 P. R. 565.

A chattel mortgage is a transfer of property and effects within this Rule: Ib.

Where a garnishee has been ordered to pay over, he becomes a judgment debtor, and may be examined under this Rule: Cowan v. Carlill, 52 L. T. N. S. 431; 33 W. R. 583.

(2) Any person liable to be examined under this Rule may be compelled to attend, testify, and to produce books and documents, in the same manner and subject to the same rules of examination and the same consequences of neglecting to attend or refusing to disclose the matters in respect of which he may be examined, as in the case of a witness. 49 V., c. 16, s. 12.

This provision being remedial, is to be construed so as to advance the remedy given by it, so far as the fair meaning of the words will permit: Gowans v. Barnet, 12 P. R. 330.

It has therefore been held that the word "transfer" in this Rule should not be limited to the transfer of the title to the property or effects, but should be regarded as equally applicable to the transfer of the possession, and therefore a solicitor to whom under a power of attorney to receive it, the consideration money on a sale of property had been paid, was held to be examinable: Ib.

But "transfer" in this Rule does not cover an "assignment" for the general benefit of creditors, as such an assignment virtually ends all litigation with respect to property and effects of a debtor, and this Rule is only to aid a judgment creditor in proceeding against the debtor's property, which he can no longer do after a valid assignment for all creditors: British Com. L. & I. Co. v. Britnell (Boyd, C., 3rd Dec., 1889).

If the original order is not shewn at the time of service of a copy, the person served cannot be brought into contempt for disobedience of it: Blakeley v. Blaase, 12 P. R. 565.

Compelling attendance.

929. Any person liable to be examined under any of the preceding Rules may be compelled to attend and testify, and to produce books and documents, in the same manner and subject to the same rules of examination, and the same consequences of neglecting to attend or refusing to disclose the matters in respect of which he may be examined, as in the case of a witness. J. A. Rule 368.

The procedure by this Rule directed to be followed is that provided in case of examination of parties generally: Rules 487, 490. In England there is no corresponding provision with reference to the present subject, but there, also, the debtor or other person to be examined is entitled to conduct money. An attachment was refused for disobedience to an order to come up to London for examination, without an affidavit shewing tender of conduct money, and reason for not examining the debtor at his own residence: Protector Endowment Co. v. Whitlam, 36 L. T. N. S. 467.

Service of appointment.

930. Any person liable to be examined under Rules 926 to 928 may be served with an appointment signed by the Judge or officer, and where the examination is to take place under an order, also with a copy of the order; such service to be made at least 48 hours before the time appointed for the examination; and the person to be examined is to be paid the same fees as a witness. J. A. Rule 369.

Insufficient service is waived by attending and submitting to be examined: Dayfoot v. Byrens, 7 C. L. T. 21.

An appointment signed by the Judge or officer is what is required to be served, not a copy, nor a subpœna, nor copy: Meyers v. Kendrick, 9 P. R. 363.

As an original appointment is required to be served, it would seem advisable, in order to prove service, that the appointment should be signed by the Judge or officer in duplicate.

An order to examine a defendant as a judgment debtor, and an appointment under it, are together equivalent to an order that the debtor should attend on the day mentioned in the appointment: Re Chatham Harvester Co. v. Campbell, 12 P. R. 666. Where he attends and offers to be examined, the force of the order is spent, and to obtain a fresh appointment a fresh order is necessary: Ib.

Mode of conducting examination.

931. The examination shall be conducted in the same manner as in case of an oral examination of an opposite party; and in the case of a judgment in any County Court, such County Court or the Judge or acting Judge thereof may exercise similar jurisdiction in relation to such judgment, and in like manner as might be exercised by the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 306.

YORK UNIVERSITY

The examination should not be so conducted as to try to entrap the debtor, but it should be full, fair and searching: Graham v. Devlin, 13 P. R. 245. Rule 932.

Committal of debtor for non-attendance, refusal to answer, answering unsatisfactorily, etc.

932. In case such debtor does not attend as required by the said appointment, or appointment and order, as the case may be, and does not allege a sufficient excuse for not attending, or if attending, he refuses to disclose his property or his transactions respecting the same, or does not make satisfactory answers respecting the same, or if it appears from such examination that such debtor has concealed or made away with his property in order to defeat or defraud his creditors or any of them, the Court or Judge may order the debtor to be committed to the common gaol of the County in which he resides, for any term not exceeding twelve months; or the Court or Judge may, by order, direct that a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum may be issued against the debtor, and a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum may thereupon be issued upon the judgment, or in case the debtor is at large upon bail, the Court or Judge may make an order for the debtor's being committed to close custody; and the sheriff, on due notice of the order, shall forthwith take the debtor and commit him to close custody until he obtains an order of Court or a Judge's order for again allowing him to go out of close custody, on giving the necessary bond in that behalf, or until he is otherwise discharged in due course of law. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 18; c. 50, s. 305; J. A. Rule 369 (a).

Unsatisfactory answers.

The broad test to be applied in gauging the character of the answers, in order to determine whether they are satisfactory, is, having regard to the circumstances of each particular case, are the answers sufficient to satisfy the mind of a reasonable person that a full and true disclosure has been made: Graham v. Devlin, 13 P. R. 245.

Answers are not "unsatisfactory" because they do not account for the application of the debtor's assets in a proper manner: Hobbs v. Scott, 23 U. C. Q. B. 619: but see Crooks v. Stroud, 10 P. R. 131. The debtor must have contumaciously refused to answer, or so equivocated as to render his answer no answer at all: Lemon v. Lemon, 6 P. R. 184; see also Merrill v. McFarren, 1 C. L. T. 133; Beattie v. Barton, 2 C. L. T. 104, and the authorities fully reviewed in Schneider v. Agnew, 6 P. R. 138. Where the defendant, a widow, was shewn to have received $500 insurance money payable on the death of her husband, part of which she had lent to her brother, part she had expended on clothing for herself and children, and the remainder, $100, she still had, but refused to apply on the judgment, as she had no other means with which to support herself and three children, an order to commit for unsatisfactory answers was refused: McKay v. Atherton, 12 P. R. 464.

It is the debtor's duty to furnish such explanation about his affairs as will place his dealings in an intelligible shape, and not leave his creditors to find out as best they may, what it is the business of the debtor to make clear. It is not enough for the debtor to say, touching any transaction, that he does not know, or does not remember, if he has the means at hand to qualify himself to explain: Foster v. Van Wormer, 12 P. R. 597. He must produce books, etc., which will enable him to answer, and submit to examination upon them: see Russell v. Macdonald, 12 P. R. 458; and any question fairly pertinent, and properly asked with a view to ascertain full particulars of what debts there are and which of them may be attached, must be answered: Rep. of Costa Rica v. Strousberg, 16 Ch. D. 8; 43 L. T. N. S. 399.

Where particulars, wherein disatisfaction is felt, have been pointed out, an opportunity should be given to the debtor of reconciling what may be conceived to be contradictions, or supplying what may appear to be admissions: Graham v. Devlin, 13 P. R. 215.

Where answers were considered unsatisfactory the Judge allowed defendant a week to pay costs of examination and of the motion and attend again and give further information before making an order on the motion to meet the justice of the case: Dyment v. Jerrett, 9 C. L. T. 141.

Motion for committal.

An order for committal for a fixed period, is said to be the appropriate punishment authorized by this Rule; an order for a writ of attachment requiring the Sheriff to hold the debtor in custody for an indefinite period was held to be improper: Re Chatham Harvester Co. v. Campbell, 12 P. R. 666.

A notice of motion, seeking relief on the ground of unsatisfactory answers, should particularize the answers complained of: Foster v. VanWormer, 12 P. R. 597.

The application is to a Judge in Chambers: see R. C. Bank v. Lockman, 7 P. R. 102. It may be made at the time of the examination and without further notice, if the officer before whom the examination takes place has jurisdiction to entertain it, e.g., in County Court cases, where the examination is before the Judge: Ponton v. Bullen, 2 E. & A. 379; Baird v. Story, 23 U. C. Q. B. 624.

An order to commit must be absolute not upon a condition, e.g., unless the debtor forthwith gives a note: Chichester v. Gordon, 25 U. C. Q. B. 527.

A married woman is liable to be committed: Metropolitan L. & S. Co. v. Mara, 8 P. R. 355; Dillon v. Cunningham, L. R. 8 Ex. 23.

The committal is for a contempt, and the fact that the judgment is one for costs does not make the committal an imprisonment for non-payment of costs: Pearson v. Essery, 12 P. R. 466.

Committal of officer of corporation in like manner.

933. In case any such officer of a corporation as aforesaid does not attend as required by the said appointment or appointment and order, and does not show a sufficient excuse for not attending, or if attending, he refuses to disclose any of the matters in respect of which he may be examined, the Court or Judge may order the officer to be committed to the common gaol of the County in which he resides, for any term not exceeding 6 months. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 19.

Judgments for payment of money or costs to be within preceding Rules.

934. Every judgment or order of the High Court and of the County Court directing payment of money or of costs, charges, or expenses, shall, so far as it relates to such money, costs, charges, or expenses, be deemed a judgment, and the person to receive payment a creditor, and the person to make payment a debtor, within the meaning of the preceding Rules. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 20.

Notwithstanding the wording of this Rule it has been held that where judgment is recovered for costs only, the judgment creditor has no right to examine the judgment debtor: Troutman v. Fisken, 13 P. R. 153.

See notes to Rule 926, p. 735.

(a) In case a judgment or order directs the payment of money into Court, or to the credit of any cause, or otherwise than to any person, the person having the carriage of the judgment, or order, so far as relates to such payment, shall be deemed the person to receive payment within the meaning of the preceding clause of this Rule. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 20, (2). Rule 935. Person having carriage of the judgment, etc., to be deemed the person to receive payment.

See notes to Rule 926, p. 735.

935. The Court or a Judge may, upon the ex parte application of the judgment creditor, or the person entitled to enforce the judgment, either before or after the oral examination in the preceding Rules, and upon affidavit by himself or his solicitor, (a) [or some other person or persons aware of the facts respectively,] stating that judgment has been recovered, and that it is still unsatisfied, and to what amount, and that any other person is indebted to the judgment debtor, and is within Ontario, order that all debts owing or accruing from such third person (hereinafter called the garnishee) to the judgment debtor, (b) [~~and all claims and demands of the judgment debtor against the garnishee arising out of trust or contract, where such claims and demands could be made available under equitable execution,~~] shall be attached to answer the judgment debt; and by the same or any subsequent order it may be ordered that the garnishee shall appear before the Court or a Judge or an officer of the Court, as the Court or Judge shall appoint, to shew cause why he should not pay the judgment creditor, or the person entitled to enforce the judgment, the debt, claim or demand due from the garnishee to the judgment debtor, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment debt. J. A. Rule 370. Court or Judge may order attachment of debts. Order that garnishee appear.

The passage in brackets at (b) is new.

The Rule otherwise corresponds with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 2, (1883, R. 622), and also with R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 307 and 308, except that those sections did not contain the passage in brackets at (a) owing to the absence of which the affidavit was required to be by the creditor or his solicitor: Builder v. Kerr, 7 P. R. 323; Boyd v. Haynes, 5 P. R. 15.

Scope of the Rule.—The judgment creditor here mentioned is apparently a judgment creditor who may examine his debtor under Rule 926, and therefore whether process by attachment under this Rule can be employed where the judgment or order of the creditor is only for costs has been questioned: see Ghent v. McColl, 8 P. R. 428; Meyers v. Kendrick, 9 P. R. 368-9, and other cases cited under Rule 926, p. 735. See also Rule 862.

A judgment for recovery of land and awarding costs has been held to be within this Rule: Lloyd v. Wallace, P. R. 335, and also a rule giving costs of the day to the defendant: Elliot v. Capell, 9 P. R. 35; see also Whittaker v. Whittaker, 7 P. D. 15; and Manchester, etc. v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173.

Rule 935. The words "the person entitled to enforce the judgment" include an assignee of the judgment: Goodman v. Robinson, 18 Q. B. D. 332.

It will be seen that the scope of the original Rule 370 is intended to be very much enlarged by the new powers conferred by this Rule of attaching claims and demands not being debts, but being interests which could formerly have been made available under equitable execution. This extension of the Rule, thus includes a subject so different from the ordinary and tolerably well understood practice of attachment of debts that in working out the Rule it will probably be found to really include two distinct subjects:

(1) Attachment of debts as previously understood; and,

(2) Summary process of equitable execution in case of claims or demands not being debts.

In either case only such property can be attached as the debtor could deal with properly, and without violation of the rights of other persons, at the time the attaching order is served: see Badeley v. Consolidated Bank, 34 Ch. D. 536; 38 Ch. D. 238; Re General Horticultural Co., 32 Ch. D. 512; Tyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; McCraney v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 541; Parker v. Howe, 12 P. R. 351, and Rule 936.

Attachment of debts.

Attachment of Debts.—This Rule will be applied as formerly where the interest of the debtor is in the shape of a debt whether legal or equitable: see cases infra of matters held attachable, but the former cases in which interests were held to be not attachable must now be considered as merely authorities that such interests are not attachable as debts; they may under the present Rule sometimes be attachable as claims or demands which might formerly have been the subject of equitable execution.

Affidavit.

The affidavit for an attaching order need not state the amount of the debts: Lucy v. Wood, 28 Sol. Jour. 326; W. N. 1884, 58; and will be sufficient if it states that the deponent is informed and believes that the garnishee is indebted to the judgment debtor: Coren v. Barne, 22 Q. B. D. 249.

No distinction between legal and equitable debts.

Since The Judicature Act the power of garnishing debts has been very extensive. The word debt has a more extended meaning than it had at the time of the passing of the original garnishee clauses in the C. L. P. Act. Since the re-enactment of those clauses therefore in the Rules a creditor may attach any debt due by any other person to his judgment debtor, making no distinction between legal debts, garnishable under the C. L. P. Act, and equitable debts: Leaming v. Woon, 7 Ont. App. 42; Wilson v. Dundas, W. N. 1875, 232; Summers v. Morphew, 61 L. T. Jour. 140; Re Cowan's Estate, 14 Ch. D. 638; Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518.

In the Canada Cotton Co. v. Parmalee, 13 P. R. 26, it was held that insurance moneys unadjusted, and not in respect of an admitted claim, were not attachable under the provisions of the present Rule, but an opinion to the contrary was given on appeal to the Divisional Court, C. P. D., which has been followed in Young v. Young, (Galt, C.J., 24th October, 1889). No order was, however, made by the Divisional Court, on the ground that it did not sufficiently appear that the garnishees, a foreign insurance company, were "within Ontario." (Dec. 1889.) Possibly, therefore, the point can not be considered to be settled, whether an immature legal claim, which has not ripened into a debt, and by possibility may never do so, would formerly have been a subject of equitable execution, and so can now be attached.

It was formerly held that money in the hands of a receiver could not be attached: Russell v. East Anglian Ry. Co., 3 Mac. & G. 104; Ames v. Birkenhead Docks, 20 Beav. 332; Re Hunter v. Greensill, L. R. 8 C. P. 24; Jones v. Brown, 29 L. T. N. S. 79; see French v. Lewis, 16 U. C. Q. B. 547. But in Re Cowan's Estate, 14 Ch. D. 638, it was held by Hall, V.-C., to be otherwise under The Judicature Act; and a receiver in an administration action, who had been directed to pay money to a legatee was directed to pay the same to judgment creditors of the legatee. Hall, V.-C., held that the Rules as to attachment of debts "are applicable to a fund payable under an order of the Court, but in the hands of a receiver, just as much as if the fund were not in Court, but in the hands of a trustee whose duty it was to pay it over to the debtor."

Re Cowan's Estate was approved and followed in Leaming v. Woon, 7 Ont. App. 42, where money payable to G., as rents of real estate of which a receiver had been appointed, were held attachable in the hands of the receiver by execution creditors of G. In Lloyd v. Wallace, 9 P. R. 335, following some expressions of opinion in the two last cases (which do not seem to have been necessary for their decision), money in the hands of a trustee, though not yet due to the cestui que trust, was held to be attachable. In the later case, however, of Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518, the Court of Appeal approved of Re Cowan's Estate, only so far as it decided that a debt due, whether it be legal or equitable, is attachable; and Webb v. Stenton has now in Ontario been followed in Stuart v. Gough, 15 Ont. App. 299. It is probable, however, that such an interest as was in question in Re Cowan's Estate or in Stuart v. Gough may be attached under the extended terms of the present Rule, though not as a debt. Rule 935.

Before the Judicature Acts, it was held that on a judgment against a company, money in the hands of an official liquidator might be attached: Ex parte Turner, 2 D. F. & J. 354; and though this was afterwards questioned in Re Hunter v. Greensill, L. R. 8 C. P. 24, The Judicature Act or the present Rule will probably be held to have removed any difficulty in holding the money to be attachable.

A fair test as to a debt being attachable has been said to be, whether the debt is capable of being the subject of a set-off: Webster v. Webster, 31 Beav. 393; McNaughton v. Webster, 6 U. C. L. J. 17; see also Parker v. Howe, 12 P. R. at p. 353.

The debts which the Court or Judge is empowered to attach under this Rule are debts owing or accruing to the judgment debtor, whether legal or equitable, which includes any money, or a fund in which he is interested, and for which he can sue, as well as debts ascertained to be so.

The debt must be an absolute and perfected debt, not merely a conditional one, e.g., payable upon the execution of a conveyance: Howell v. Metropolitan District Ry. Co., 19 Ch. D. 508, and must be owing to the judgment debtor alone. Where it is due to him jointly with another person it cannot be attached: Macdonald v. Tacquah Gold Mines Co., 13 Q. B. D. 535.

The Rule applies to debts accruing as well as debts actually owing: see Sparks v. Younge, 8 Ir. C. L. 251; Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10, Q. B. 591; ex parte Joselyne, 8 Ch. D. 327; but a future debt, i.e. a debt which has no present existence but can only arise on the happening of some future event e.g. moneys which may in the future come into the hands of a trustee for the benefit of his cestui que trust, could not be attached formerly: Fellows v. Thornton, 14 Q. B. D. 335; but such claims have been made available under equitable execution by the appointment of a receiver: Block v. Cox, before Robertson, J., see Judgment Book Chy. D. No. 12, fo. 28; and it is possible may now be attachable; and see Nash v. Pearse, and Lloyd v. Wallace infra. Debts due, but not payable till a future time, may be ordered to be paid at such future date; and it is not necessary to wait and obtain a fresh order for payment of each instalment as it becomes payable: Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; see also, Re Cowan's Estate, and Leaming v. Wood, supra; Booth v. Trail, 12 Q. B. D. 8, and Rule 938; but the garnishee cannot be compelled to pay before credit given to him has expired: Harding v. Barratt, 3 U. C. L. J. 31.

Where a cheque was given and duly paid, it was held that there was no debt between the time of giving it and the time of payment, and no duty upon the drawer of the cheque to stop payment on being served with a garnishee order: Elwell v. Jackson, 1 Cab. & El. 362.

Where, before an attaching order issued, a legacy was payable to the defendant, and he had made a settlement of it, it was held that no debt was due from the executor of the will to the defendant, as even if the settlement were set aside by the plaintiff, there was no ground for saying that the executor was obliged to pay over to the defendant. The defendant could not revoke the settlement, and even if it were set aside as void against creditors, it would be still valid as between the executor and the defendant: Vyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; 1 Cab. & El. 225.

Where the trustees of an annuity, payable to a judgment debtor half-yearly, had advanced to him more than was payable at the end of the last half-

Rule 935. yearly period, it was held that nothing was attachable as either owing or accruing: Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518; see Booth v. Trail, supra. So a salary which is not payable till earned is not attachable as a debt before the date when it is payable: Hall v. Pritchett, 3 Q. B. D. 215; Shanley v. Moore, 9 U. C. L. J. 264. But a debtor's interest in a trust fund not yet payable by the trustee has been held to be attachable: Nash v. Pearse, 47 L. J. Q. B. 766; Lloyd v. Wallace, 9 P. R. 335.

An order to attach a debt may be made, notwithstanding that six years have elapsed since the judgment was obtained by the judgment creditor: Fellows v. Thornton, supra.

The following have also been held to be attachable as debts:—

Attachable debts. Rent due by a tenant: Mitchell v. Lee, L. R. 2 Q. B. 259; but not rent not due: Commercial Bank v. Jarvis, 5 U. C. L. J. 66; McLaren v. Sudworth, 4 U. C. L. J. 233. But since the Act, now R. S. O. 1887, c. 143, s. 2, by which rent is made apportionable, it may be attached as a debt accruing between gale days; and the judgment creditor is entitled to be paid on the gale day such portion as had accrued due on the day of service of the attachment: Massie v. Toronto Printing Co., 12 P. R. 12, but quære whether rent could be garnished as against a mortgagee of the landlord: Ib.

Money in the hands of a Sheriff, the proceeds of an execution levied by him: Murray v. Simpson, 8 Ir. C. L. App. xlv.; Re Smart v. Miller, 3 P. R. 385, or in the hands of a Division Court Clerk: Bland v. Andrews, 45 U. C. Q. B. 431, or Bailiff: Lockhart v. Gray, 2 C. L. J. 163, though the contrary has been held in England: Dolphin v. Layton, 4 C. P. D. 130.

Money in the hands of a receiver: Re Cowan Estate, 14 Ch. D. 638; Leaming v. Woon, 7 Ont. App. 42, sed quære whether now only under the extended powers given by this Rule, and not as a debt: see Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 530; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; or official liquidator: ex parte Turner, 2 D. F. & J. 354: see Mack v. Ward, W. N. 1884, 16; and Stuart v. McKim, 8 Ont. 739.

Rents due to a mortgagor before a notice given by the mortgagee to the tenant to pay subsequent rents to him: Patterson v. O'Reilly, in note to sec. 53, sub-sec. 4 of the Act.

Surplus money in the hands of mortgagees after sale under a power in mortgage: Nicol v. Ewin, 7 P. R. 331; see McKay v. Mitchell, 6 U. C. L. J. 61; See also Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259, where it was held that a judgment debtor, who had obtained a garnishee order against a mortgagor debtor of his debtor, was not entitled to surplus proceeds of a sale by a prior mortgagee, which took place after his garnishee order, but the holder of a garnishee order obtained after the sale against the prior mortgagee was entitled.

Dividends on Bank stocks: Salamon v. Donovan, 10 Ir. C. L. R. App. xiii.

Money in the hands of Bankers: Re United Eng. & Scot. Ins. Co., L. R. 5 Eq. 300; L. R. 3 Chy. 787; Miller v. Huddlestone, 22 Ch. D. 233.

Money payable under a contract for work done for a Municipal Corporation: Alden v. Boomer, 2 P. R. 339.

Money due to a Railway Company for the purpose of distribution among its shareholders under an agreement sanctioned by Act of Parliament, may be attached by a creditor of the Company: Bouch v. The Seven Oaks, etc., Railway Company, 4 Ex. D. 133.

Money in the hands of an agent in this Province may be garnished where the garnishee resides out of the jurisdiction: Brown v. Merrills, 3 U. C. L. J. 31; but not where the garnishee is a foreign corporation: Bank of British North America v. Laughrey, 2 C. L. J. 44; Lundy v. Dickson, 6 U. C. L. J. 92; and see Canada Cotton Co. v. Parmalee, supra p. 742.

Upon a judgment against an executor as such, a debt due to the testator's estate may be attached: Burton v. Roberts, 6 H. & N. 93; Fowler v. Roberts, 2 Giff. 226; Tiffany v. Bullen, 18 C. P. 91. The order in such case should show on its face that it is directed to the executor as such: Stevens v. Phelps, L. R. 10 Chy. 417.

After the analogy of a fi. fa. under which the goods of any one of those against whom it is issued may be taken, a debt due to one of several judgment debtors may be attached to satisfy the judgment against all: Miller v. Mynn, 1 E. & E. 1075; but a debt owing to two cannot be attached for the debt of one: Re Smart v. Miller, 3 P. R. 385; McCormick v. Park, 9 C. P. 330; Macdonald v. Tacquah Gold Mines Co., 13 Q. B. D. 535. Rule 935.

D. 8; Re Webber, 18 Q. B. D. 111.

Full pay of an officer in the Royal Navy on active service cannot be assigned or attached: Apthorpe v. Apthorpe, 35 W. R. 728; 12 P. D. 192; nor the pay of a retired officer in the Army: Crowe v. Price, 22 Q. B. D. 429.

A debt of an unascertained amount if only it be payable as soon as ascertained: Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445; Macpherson v. Tisdale, 11 P. R. 261; where costs remained to be taxed: Re Withrow, Poucher v. Donovan, 19 C. L. J. 97, 114, where the amount to be found due to a plaintiff who had been declared entitled to a mechanics' lien, was attached.

The following are not attachable as debts, but as above mentioned may now be attached in many cases as "claims or demands formerly available under equitable execution." Not attachable as debts.

Unliquidated damages: Johnson v. Diamond, 11 Ex. 73; though secured by bond in a penal sum, Ib: Griswold v. Buffalo, Brantford & Goderich Ry. Co., 2 P. R. 178; though the amount has been ascertained by the verdict of jury or award, but no judgment yet had been obtained to make the claim the debt: Jones v. Thompson, E. B. & E. 63; Dresser v. Johns, 28 L. J. C. P. 281; In re Newman, 3 Ch. D. 494; Boyd v. Haynes, 5 P. R. 15; Tate v. Corporation of Toronto, 3 P. R. 181; Bank of Toronto v. Burton, 4 P. R. 56; Gwynne v. Rees, 2 P. R. 282; Roberts v. City of Toronto, 16 Gr. 236. But see Hollby v. Hodgson, 61 L. T. N. S. 297, affirmed in appeal 88 L. T. Jour. 33, where money due under a judgment pronounced but not formerly entered was held to be attachable; and see Canada Cotton Co. v. Parmalee, 13 P. R. 26, reversed in appeal, (Dec. 1889), and Young v. Young, (Galt, C.J., 24th October, 1889), where insurance moneys unadjusted, and not in respect of any admitted claim, were held to be attachable under the new clause contained in the present Rule: see note supra p. 742.

Where a claim for work done under a contract, and one for unliquidated damages are referred, there could formerly be no garnishment of the latter until after award: Tate v. The Corporation of the City of Toronto, 10 U. C. L. J. 66; 3 P. R. 181. See also Randall v. Lithgow, 12 Q. B. D. 525.

So any claim which might or might not result in a debt, e.g., a notice to treat under the English Lands Clauses Act, on which notice nothing had been done: Richardson v. Elmit, 2 C. P. D. 9; an unascertained balance due from one partner to another: Campbell v. Peden, 3 U. C. L. J. 68.

Salary not yet payable: Hall v. Pritchett, 3 Q. B. D. 215; Re Shanley v. Moore, 9 U. C. L. J. 264.

A negotiable promissory note not yet due: Jackson v. Cassidy, 2 Ont. 521; Pyne v. Kinna, 11 Ir. C. L. R. 40.

A legacy in the hands of an executor unless there has been such an account stated by the executors as would entitle the debtor to sue: McDowall v. Hollister, 25 L. T. N. S. 185.

Money deposited with a stock broker to secure any loss on speculations on stocks and shares, so long as the transactions in the stocks and shares are open: Hutt v. Shaw, 3 Times Rep. 354.

Money sent by a father to his son, the debtor, as a gift, through a bank, was garnished before the debtor was advised of the deposit; it was held not garnishable, as the father had till then power to revoke the gift: Caisse v. Tharp, 5 P. R. 265.

Rule 935.

Money in a bank at the credit of the judgment debtor, a stock broker, which was shewn to be wholly money of his clients: Hancock v. Smith, 41 Ch. D. 456.

A debt due by the garnishee to the judgment debtor as executor: Macauley v. Rumball, 19 C. P. 284; and a debt due to an administrator as such, cannot be attached to answer a private debt: Bowman v. Bowman, 1 Chy. Ch. 172.

Surplus, if any, after payment of the debts of A. by the terms of a trust deed to be paid to B.: McKindsey v. Armstrong, 10 Ont. App. 17.

Money was held not attachable under a contract which was not performed according to its terms, so that nothing was due at the time of the attaching order: see McCraney v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 539.

The income of trust funds payable to a wife for her separate use, subject to a restraint against anticipation, accrued since a judgment against her and her husband, was held not attachable, as otherwise it would be in substance to enable her to anticipate her income in violation of the restraint on anticipation: Chapman v. Biggs, 11 Q. B. D. 27; see also Stanley v. Stanley, 7 Ch. D. 589.

The allowance of a juror is not attachable in the hands of the County Treasurer: Phillips v. Austin, 3 C. L. T. 316.

Wages or salary of servants, etc., to the extent of $25, are not attachable under R. S. O. c. 64, s. 8. The salary of the secretary of a company amounting to £200, payable quarterly, was held not within the meaning of a similar Imperial protecting Act: Gordon v. Jennings, 9 Q. B. D. 45.

A garnishing order cannot be made attaching a debt due from a partnership firm described by its partnership name: Walker v. Rooke, 6 Q. B. D. 631. This is now otherwise in England under an express Rule, O. 45, r. 10: see Snow Ann. Prac. 1889-90, p. 702.

A debt which is attachable does not cease to be so because the debtor has brought an action to recover it; and the giving of a cheque by the garnishee to the debtor, payment of which was stopped on service of the order nisi, was held not to prevent the debt from being attached: Cohen v. Hale, 3 Q. B. D. 371; but it is otherwise where a cheque has been given and accepted in payment of a debt, though the cheque has not been presented: Elwell v. Jackson, 1 Times Rep. 454; 1 Cab. & E. 362, and it is not the duty of the garnishee to stop payment on being served with an order attaching debts: Ib.

Death of garnishee.

There was formerly at law no power to order or permit a suggestion to be entered of the death of a garnishee, so as to get execution against his representative: Re Ward v. Vance, 3 P. R. 323; but that end possibly may now be attained under Rule 622. An executor or administrator of a judgment creditor who has not made himself a party to the judgment cannot proceed under this Rule without making himself a party to the record: Baynard v. Simmonds, 5 E. & B. 59. The creditor must be one who is entitled to enforce immediate payment. Therefore the holder of a bond of a corporation containing a condition that all bondholders should be paid pari passu, was held not to be such a creditor, since an attachment would have given him priority over other bondholders: Kennett v. Westminster Improvement Commissioners, 11 Exch. 349.

Assignment of the debt garnished.

A garnishing order can only charge what the judgment debtor can honestly deal with himself: Re General Horticultural Co., 32 Ch. D. 512: Hancock v. Smith, supra. A debt, therefore, bonâ fide assigned, before the judgment, is not attachable: Hirsch v. Coates, 18 C. B. 757; nor a debt so assigned before the attaching order: Wise v. Birkinshaw, 29 L. J. Ex. 240: even though the garnishee had no notice of the assignment: Pickering v. Ilfracombe Railway Co., L. R. 3 C. P. 235; Robinson v. Nesbitt, L. R. 3 C. P. 264; Brown v. McGuffin, 5 P. R. 231; Grant v. McDonell, 39 U. C. Q. B. 412: or the assignment be attacked as a fraud on creditors: Vyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199.

Set-off by garnishee.

The Judge has no power to go into the state of the accounts between the garnishee and the judgment creditor, or to allow the former to deduct any amount due to him from the latter, but must order execution to issue for the whole amount due from the judgment debtor to the judgment creditor: Sampson v. Seaton & Beer Railway Co., L. R. 10 Q. B. D. 28. He may, however, go into the state of accounts between the judgment debtor and the garnishee, and give effect to any set-off or cross debt arising before (Ib; see Nathan v. Giles, 5 Taunt. 558), but not after: (Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591), the date of the attaching order. Rule 935.

Garnishee proceedings will not be set aside after great delay: Re Gordon v. Bonter, 6 U. C. L. J. 112, and should not in any case be opened without previous notice to all parties interested: Bank of U. C. v. Wallace, 2 P. R. 352.

An equitable charge given before a garnishee order is obtained takes priority of an order, even in the absence of notice of the charge: Badeley v. Consolidated Bank, 34 Ch. D. 536; 38 Ch. D. 238.

Solicitor's lien.

An attachment of a judgment over-rides a solicitor's lien or control over it in respect of general costs: Davidson v. Douglas, 15 Gr. 347; Reg. v. Benson, 2 P. R. 350; Bank U. C. v. Wallace, 2 P. R. 352; Cotton v. Vanstittart, 6 P. R. 96; Hough v. Edwards, 1 H. & N. 171; Burcnell v. Pugin, 32 L. T. N. S. 495; but the special lien for costs of the action in which the debt attached has been recovered will be protected when the garnishee has notice of it: The Jeff Davis, L. R. 2 A. & E. 1; The Leader, Ib., 314; Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Crouch, 8 P. R. 437; Shippey v. Grey, W. N. 1880, 99; 28 W. R. 877.

As to the effect of an attachment upon a solicitor's lien, see further Hough v. Edwards, 1 H. & N. 171; Eisdell v. Coningham, 28 L. J. Ex. 213; Sympson v. Prothero, 26 L. J. Chy. 671.

Where amount is within the jurisdiction of County or Division Court.

In an action in the High Court where the amount claimed from the garnishee is within the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court case the garnishee is to be directed to appear to shew cause before the County Court Judge of the County where he resides: Rule 940.

For similar procedure in actions in a County Court, see Rule 943.

Payment over.

The garnishee should not pay over without an order to do so, or he may also have to pay the judgment debtor: Clark v. Clark, 8 U. C. L. J. 107; Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878.

Claims and demands other than debts.

Equitable Execution.—Equitable execution is a mode of obtaining payment of a judgment by reaching, by means of the assistance of the Court, property of the debtor which the Sheriff, by reason of the imperfection of the statutes or Rules respecting execution, is unable to deal with: see Kirk v. Burgess, 15 Ont. 608; Wills v. Luff, 38 Ch. D. 260.

The principal mode of obtaining equitable execution was by the appointment of a receiver; and it has been said that even though other and ordinary remedies by way of execution are open, yet the Court has power to award a receiver by way of equitable execution in any and every case in which it is just or convenient so to do: Kirk v. Burgess, supra, at p. 610, Re Pope, 17 Q. B. D. 749; see also Kincaid v. Kincaid, 12 P. R. 462. As in other cases, however, where the auxiliary jurisdiction of Equity was invoked, the power to award equitable execution was only exercised, in general, where the remedy at law was ineffectual, and therefore a receiver was refused where an attaching order could be obtained: see Trust & Loan v. Gorsline, 12 P. R. 654; or a fi. fa. was sufficient: Manchester, etc. v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173.

Before the Jud. Act, 1881, only a legal debt could be attached. By the Jud. Act and Rules the right to attach was extended, and where a judgment debtor had an equitable interest in personalty, if it assumed the shape of an equitable debt, this was held to be attachable: see Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; and other cases supra. There still, however, remained cases where the Rules respecting attachment of debts would not apply, by reason of the judgment debtor not being entitled to a debt either legal or equitable, though he, nevertheless, was entitled to some valuable equitable interest.

The mode in which such equitable interests were reached and made available was generally by the appointment of a receiver. Receivers have thus been appointed of a reversionary interest under a will: Fuggle v. Bland, 11 Q. B. D. 711; a legacy expectant on the death of a tenant for life: Macnicoll v. Parnell, 35 W. R. 773; the income of a trust fund: Oliver v. Lowther, 28 W. R. 381;

Rule 935. 42 L. T. N. S. 42; Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518, 530; an interest in a subsisting life insurance and in a charge upon land: Beamish v. Stephenson, 18 L. R. Ir. 319; moneys secured by mortgage held by the debtor, who resided abroad: Parent v. Lortie, 7. C. L. T. 195; the life interest of a married woman in stock: Bryant v. Bull, 10 Ch. D. 153; a fund in another Court: Westhead v. Riley, 25 Ch. D. 413; the interest of a debtor in a trust estate being a share of the proceeds of the estate when sold by the trustees: Stuart v. Grough, supra; see also other cases referred to supra pp. 60 and 61.

It is to such cases that the new provisions of this Rule seem to be directed. The principle of the Rule would seem to be that wherever there is a person who is the custodian of, or liable in respect of a fund or chose in action of the debtor under any trust or contract, and the right or interest of that debtor might formerly have been the subject of equitable execution, that person may in effect be converted into a quasi receiver by being served with an attaching order and may be made accountable for the fund or chose in action, to the extent of the debtor's claim or demand in respect thereto.

A special form of attaching order appropriate in the particular case may have to be framed in each case. The general form in the Appendix No. 142 is only applicable to the case of debts; but where it is desired to obtain a particular interest, or a chose in action of the debtor, some precise definition of it must be given and steps taken to assert a right to that particular interest or chose in action.

The terms of the clause in brackets at (b) in this Rule would only seem to extend to cases in which a money payment by the garnishee will discharge his liability in respect of the claim or demand. Where the judgment debtor's interest, is not of this nature it would seem to be necessary to resort to other modes of obtaining equitable execution, e.g., under Rules 1007 et seq., or by the appointment of a receiver, or by action.

Rule 938 provides for an order being made for payment at maturity of claims and demands not due at the time of the attachment. That Rule was acted on in Young v. Young (Galt. C.J., 24 Oct., 1889).

Equitable interests in land.

Where the debtor has an interest in land of such a nature that it cannot be sold under a fi. fa., the judgment creditor may reach it, by application under Rules 1007 et seq., or by action: see Johnson v. Bennett, 9 P. R. 337.

An equity of redemption in mortgaged lands is saleable under an execution, by virtue of R. S. O. 1887, c. 64, s. 22, only in the case of a simple equity arising upon a single mortgage of the land, or at most existing between one mortgagor and one mortgagee: see Samis v. Ireland, 4 Ont. App. 122; and cases in which an equity of redemption is not so saleable, furnish familiar examples of suits for equitable execution: see Donovan v. Bacon, 16 Gr. 472; Kerr v. Styles, 26 Gr. 309; Johnson v. Bennett, 9 P. R. 337, in which last case there were no writs of execution in the sheriff's hands, as to the which see infra, p. 749.

An order appointing a receiver was held to be "a process of execution" within the Imperial Act, 27 & 28 Vict. sec. 112: Re Pope, 17 Q. B. D. 743.

Receivers.

Since the Jud. Act the Court can grant equitable execution by the appointment of a receiver at the instance of the judgment creditor in cases where garnishee proceedings under this Rule are not applicable: see notes supra p. 60, and for the form of such orders see Hewett v. Murray, 52 L. T. N. S. 380; 54 L. J. Chy. 572.

An attaching order against a garnishee, and a receiver as against the debtor, were granted on the same application in Whittaker v. Whittaker, 7 P. D. 15; but the authority of that case has been doubted in Manchester, etc. v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173.

The appointment of a receiver would seem to be an effective mode of procedure under circumstances such as existed in Donovan v. Bacon, sup. There the debtor was entitled to the equity of redemption in land, but the land was subject to two mortgages held by different persons, and the mortgagor was in possession and in receipt of the rents. See also Webb v. Stenton, sup.; London and Canadian, etc. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 383, 384, 386.

A receiver was appointed on an interlocutory application in a fresh action by the judgment creditor in Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies, 9 Ch. D. 275; see also ex parte Evans, 13 Ch. D. 252. But a fresh action is unnecessary; the application for receiver may be in the original action after judgment: Salt v. Cooper, 16 Ch. D. 544; Smith v. Cowell, 6 Q. B. D. 75. Rule 936.

A receiver will, however, only be granted in cases where the amount of the judgment debt warrants the expense, and where there is a fair reason to suppose that there is something to receive: I. v. K., W. N. 1884, 63. See also Manchester, etc. v. Parkinson, and other cases supra p. 61.

A judgment creditor who has obtained a receiver subject to existing incumbrances, cannot place himself in a better position than the debtor, and by giving notice to a trustee obtain priority: Arden v. Arden, 29 Ch. D. 702.

Where the interest of the judgment debtor is not one which is exigible under writs of fi. fa. goods or lands respectively, the issue of such writs is an unmeaning and needless formality, and is, therefore, an unnecessary preliminary to proceedings for equitable execution: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 309; see formerly Shea v. Denison, 14 Gr. 513; Wilson v. Proudfoot, 15 Gr. 103. The issue of such writs has also no effect to give priority. The equitable interest of the debtor is only bound by, and from the time of, the issue of the appropriate form of equitable execution: Stuart v. Gough, supra.

936. Service of an order that debts, claims or demands due or accruing to the judgment debtor shall be attached, or notice thereof to the garnishee in such manner as the Court or Judge shall direct, shall bind such debts, claims or demands in his hands [from the time of such service]. J. A. Rule 371. Order for attachment to bind debts from service.

The words in brackets are new. Otherwise this Rule is identical with the Eng.R. 1875, O. 45, r. 3, (1883, R. 623), and corresponds with part of R. S. O. c. 50, sec. 308.

Service of an attaching order does not create the relation of debtor and creditor between the garnishee and attaching creditor: Wardrope v. Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 7 Ont. 321. It is otherwise, however, after an order to pay over has been made: Cowan v. Carlill, 32 W. R. 83; 52 L. T. N. S. 431.

Money paid into Court in an administration suit by an executor is not money "in the hands" of the executor, and a garnishee order nisi against the executor is not a charge on such money, although paid in after service of the order: Stevens v. Phelips, L. R. 10 Chy. 417; Jones v. Brown, 29 L. T. N. S. 79.

An order nisi does not create any charge till after service: Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Re Stanhope, Ib., 160; Holmes v. Tutton, 5 E. & B. 65.

By the express terms of this Rule the debts are bound from the date of the service of the order of attachment, though, if nothing was attachable at the time the order was made, doubtless it cannot attach a debt or claim arising after the order, but before service: McCraney v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 539; Parker v. Howe, 12 P. R. 351. The bonâ fide payment by the garnishee to the judgment debtor before such service will protect the garnishee: Cooper v. Brayne, 27 L. J. Ex. 446; 31 L. T. N. S. 265. No set-off, and nothing affecting the state of the accounts between the garnishee and the judgment debtor, arising after that date, can be taken into account: Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; though a set-off existing at that date will avail: Sampson v. Seaton and Beer Railway Company, L. R. 10 Q. B. 28.

In Fitzpatrick v. Warring, 13 L. R. Ir. 2, two defendants, S. and W., each had an order against the plaintiff for costs. S. was indebted to the plaintiff for rent. W.'s costs were first taxed, and he obtained an order against S., attaching the rent due by S. to the plaintiff. When an order to pay over was applied for, S.'s costs had been taxed, but it was held that the rent could not be set-off against them as the order nisi had attached it, and S. had no claim until his costs were taxed. But see Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445.

Where a banker was served with the usual order attaching all debts, etc., he was held to be justified in refusing to honour any cheques even to the extent of the amount in his hands over and above the amount required to satisfy the judgment of the attaching creditor: Rogers v. Whiteley, 23 Q. B. D. 236.

In the case of several attaching orders, the creditors formerly ranked in the order in which their attaching orders are served: Tate v. The Corporation of Toronto, 3 P. R. 181; Sweetnam v. Lemon, 13 C. P. 534; see also Salaman v. Donovan, 10 Ir. C. L. R. App. xiii; but see now R. S. O. 1887, c. 65, s. 37.

Personal service is not indispensable if the service comes to the garnishee's knowledge: Ward v. Vance, 9 U. C. L. J. 214, 244.

The effect of the word "bind" has often undergone discussion, and under the earlier English Bankruptcy Act the assignee was entitled, and not the attaching creditor, if bankruptcy intervened before actual payment under an order to pay over: Holmes v. Tutton, 5 E. & B. 80; Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Tilbury v. Brown, 20 L. J. Q. B. 46; Rylands v. Reardon, 8 L. R. Ir. 1; but if the garnishee was compelled to pay under threat of execution after notice of the bankruptcy, he was discharged as against the assignee: Wood v. Dunn, L. R. 2 Q. B. 73. He was bound, however, to set up the bankruptcy, if he had notice of it before the order to pay over: Ib. The present English law gives the creditor a charge which is good against the trustee in bankruptcy: Emmanuel v. Bridger, L. R. 9 Q. B. 286; Ex p. Joselyne, 8 Ch. D. 327; see Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, 6 App. Cas. 393.

The service does not effect a transfer of the debt or securities for it: Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259; see also Backhouse v. Siddle, 38 L. T. N. S. 487.

Order for execution against garnishee.

937. If the garnishee does not forthwith pay into Court the amount due from him to the judgment debtor or an amount equal to the judgment debt, and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear upon notice to him, then the Court or Judge may order execution to issue, and it may issue accordingly without any previous writ or process, to levy the amount due from the garnishee, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment debt. J. A. Rule 372.

This is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 4, (1883, R. 624), and is in substance the same as the provision of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O., 1877, c. 50), s. 309.

Payment to the judgment debtor under stress of an execution discharges the garnishee from liability to the judgment creditor: Turnbull v. Robertson, 38 L. T. N. S. 389; but he cannot discharge himself by a voluntary payment: Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, 6 App. Cas. 393; and where, before payment, a receiver of the fund is appointed, the garnishee should not pay, without first bringing the conflicting claims of the receiver and the attaching creditor to the attention of the Court: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; and see Rule 944.

After an order absolute, the garnishee may be examined as to his means under Rule 926: Cowan v. Carlill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. N. S. 431.

Execution for maturing claims.

938. If the claim or demand be not due at the time of the attachment, an order may be made for payment thereof at maturity, and execution may issue therefor when it matures. New.

The maturing claims here referred to would seem to be those in regard to which summary proceedings in the nature of equitable execution are authorized by Rule 935. See notes to that Rule. Rule 939.

939. If the garnishee disputes his liability, the Court or Judge, instead of making an order that execution shall issue, may order that any issue or question necessary for determining his liability be tried or determined in any manner in which any issue or question in an action may be tried or determined. J. A. Rule 373. Issue where garnishee disputes liability.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 5, (1883, R. 625), and gives a simpler machinery than R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 310.

A garnishee order made absolute, and no motion made to set it aside, although no debt was at the time due, precludes the garnishee from afterwards questioning it: Randall v. Lithgow, 12 Q. B. D. 525.

A garnishee cannot set off against a judgment creditor a debt due to him (the garnishee) from the judgment debtor, if the garnishee was aware, from the commencement of the transaction which resulted in his becoming indebted to the judgment debtor, that the latter's right to such debt would only be as trustee for the judgment creditor: Fitt v. Bryant, 1 Cab. & El. 194.

A garnishee can set off against a judgment creditor costs incurred by him, but not paid at the time the issue is directed, against which the judgment debtor is bound to indemnify the garnishee: Rymill v. Wandsworth Dist. Bd., 1 Cab. & El. 92.

The judgment creditor in the issue stands in the shoes of the judgment debtor, and the garnishee can assert against him all claims he could have asserted against the judgment debtor either as plaintiff or defendant in an action: Nathan v. Giles, 5 Taunt. 558; Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; 1 Cab. & El. 95; up to the time of the attaching order. See also notes to Rule 936.

This section does not render it obligatory on the Court or Judge to direct an issue. If the matter is clear upon the affidavits, the Court may refuse an issue: Wise v. Birkenshaw, 29 L. J. Ex. 240; and rescind the attaching order: Johnson v. Moody, 12 P. R. 203, where the plaintiff cannot suggest a plausible ground for supposing the money attached to belong to the debtor; but otherwise it would probably be proper to direct an issue, if the plaintiff so desired: Ib. On the other hand, execution may be ordered if the garnishee does not satisfy the Judge that he has real ground for disputing his liability for the debt: Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445; Newman v. Rook, 4 C. B. N. S. 434; and is acting bonâ fide in making the dispute: Wise v. Birkenshaw, 29 L. J. Ex. 240.

Where an action is pending against the garnishee at the suit of the judgment debtor, and there is no collusion between them, the Court will not grant an issue: Richardson v. Greaves, 10 W. R. 45. The Court will, unless quite satisfied that the debt is not liable to attachment, allow the judgment creditor to have an issue with the garnishee: Seymour v. The Corporation of Brecon, 29 L. J. Ex. 243. If the garnishee disputes his liability, and the judgment creditor declines to proceed to try the question, the garnishee is entitled to have the attaching order discharged with costs: Wintle v. Williams, 3 H. & N. 288.

In Wilson v. Dundas, W. N. 1875, 232, Quain, J., ordered the liability to be tried by means of a special case; and where the question is one of law, this seems to be the most convenient course.

Where an issue is directed to a County Court, the action, nevertheless, remains in the High Court, and the County Court Judge has no authority to order production: Cochrane v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 606.

An order for cross-examination of the garnishee was refused in Storer v. Simmons, W. N. 1876, 40, on the ground that the English Rule corresponding with Rule 566 was not intended to apply to such a case; but quære, in Ontario.

Rules 940-943.

When garnishee to appear before County Court Judge in cases in High Court.

940. In cases in the High Court, where the amount claim or demand claimed as due or accruing from any garnishee is within the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court, the order to appear made under Rule 935 shall be for the garnishee to appear before the Judge of the County Court of the County within which the garnishee resides, at some day and place within his County to be appointed in writing by such Judge; and written notice thereof shall be given to the garnishee at the time of the service of the order. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 311.

Execution from County or Division Court, if the garnishee does not dispute the debt.

941. If the garnishee does not forthwith pay the amount due by him, or an amount equal to the judgment debt, and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear before the Judge named in the order at the day and place appointed by such Judge, then such Judge, on proof of service of the order and appointment having been made two clear days previous, may make an order directing execution to issue out of the County Court or out of a Division Court, according to the amount due, and such order shall, without any previous writ or process, be sufficient authority for the Clerk of either of such Courts to issue execution for levying the amount due from such garnishee. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 312.

Proceedings if he disputes the debt.

942. If the garnishee disputes his liability, then such Judge of the County Court may order that the judgment creditor shall be at liberty to proceed against the garnishee according to the usual practice of the County or Division Court, as the case may require, for the alleged debt or for the amount due to the judgment debtor if less than the judgment debt, and for costs of suit. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 315.

Proceedings in County Courts when amount within the jurisdiction of Division Courts.

943. In cases in the County Courts when the amount claimed as due from any garnishee is within the jurisdiction of a Division Court, the order to be made under Rule 935, shall be for the garnishee to appear before the Clerk of the Division Court within whose Division the garnishee resides, at his office, at some day to be appointed in the said order by the Judge of the County Court; and the said order shall be served on such garnishee, and if the garnishee does not forthwith pay the amount due by him or an amount equal to the judgment debt, and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear before the Division Court Clerk named in the order at his office at the day appointed by such Judge, then such Judge, on proof of the service of the order having been made two clear days previous, may make an order directing execution to issue out of the Division Court of the Division in which such garnishee resides, according to the amount due, and such order shall, without any previous summons or process, be sufficient authority for the Clerk of the said Division Court to issue execution to levy the amount due from such garnishee, and the bailiff to whom such writ of execution is directed shall be thereby authorized to levy and shall levy the amount mentioned in the said execution towards satisfaction of the judgment debt, together with the costs of the proceedings to be taxed, and his own lawful fees; but if the garnishee disputes his liability, then such Judge may order that the judgment creditor in the said County Court shall be at liberty to proceed against the garnishee, according to the practice of the said Division Court, for the alleged debt or for the amount due to the judgment debtor if less than the judgment debt, and for costs of suit. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 316. Rules 944, 945.

944. Where in proceeding to obtain an attachment of debts it is suggested by the garnishee that the debt sought to be attached belongs to some third person, or that any third person has a lien or charge upon it, the Court or Judge may order such third person to appear and state the nature and particulars of his claim upon the debt. J. A. Rule 374. Order for third person to appear.

This Rule is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45 r. 6, (1883, R. 626); and corresponds in substance with sec. 313 of R. S. O., c. 50.

A suggestion that the money attached is trust money and not belonging to the judgment debtor, should be listened to, and upon reasonable suspicion of such a fact, the Judge has power (even though no suggestion is made that the money belongs to some third person) to direct an issue to determine whether or not the money is trust money; and any person who has a claim to the money has a locus standi to point out the facts to the Judge: Roberts v. Death, 8 Q. B. D. 319; 30 W. R. 76. The judgment debtor may appear to inform the Court of any such material fact: Lovely v. White, 12 L. R. Ir. 381.

Where the garnishee neglects to bring to the notice of the Court the claim of any third party he may possibly have to pay the claim twice over: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299.

945. After hearing the allegations of such third person under such order, and of any other person whom by the Proceedings as to claims of same or any subsequent order the Court or a Judge may order to appear, or in case of such third person not appearing when ordered, the Court or Judge may order execution to issue to levy the amount due from the garnishee, or may order any issue or question to be tried or determined according to the preceding Rules, and may bar the claim of such third person, or may make such other order as the Court or Judge thinks fit, upon such terms, in all cases, with respect to the lien or charge (if any) of such third person, and to costs, as the Court or Judge thinks just and reasonable. J. A. Rule 375.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 7, (1883, R. 627); and corresponds in substance with sec. 313, sub-s. 2 of R. S. O. 1877, c. 50. See Mitchell v. Lee, L. R. 2 Q. B. 259.

The Judge under this Rule has a discretion to direct, or refuse to direct, the trial of an issue, and his discretion was held properly exercised in refusing, where the plaintiff could not suggest a plausible ground for supposing that the money in the hands of the garnishee belonged to the judgment debtor, or to cast a suspicion upon the bona fides of the claim of the third party after examination of him. Had the plaintiff been able to do this, it would have been the duty of the Judge to direct an issue, if the plaintiff desired it: Johnson v. Moody, 12 P. R. 203.

The concluding part of this Rule authorizes an order for security for costs against either party to the issue if residing out of the jurisdiction: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121.

Garnishee discharged by payment.

946. Payment made by or execution levied upon the garnishee under any such proceeding as aforesaid shall be a valid discharge to him as against the judgment debtor, to the amount paid or levied, although such proceeding may be set aside or the judgment reversed. J. A. Rule 376, 500.

This Rule is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, 45 r. 8, (1883, R. 628); and corresponds in substance with R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 317.

The mere issue of an attaching order, or order to pay over, is no defence to an action by the judgment debtor: Lockwood v. Nash, 18 C. B. 536; Sykes v. Brockville and Ottawa Ry. Co., 22 Q. B. 459; Blevins v. Madden, 11 C. P. 195. Payment to the judgment creditor after an attaching order served, but before an order to pay over, is not a discharge, and the garnishee is liable to pay again to the judgment debtor: Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Clark v. Clark, 8 U. C. L. J. 107; McGinnis v. Yorkville, 21 Q. B. 163, 171. Payment into Court discharges the garnishee: Clark v. Clark and Rule 937; and the judgment creditor will be entitled to the fund, notwithstanding the subsequent execution of a composition deed: Culverhouse v. Wickens, L. R. 3 C. P. 295; and payment under an order to pay over, will not protect the garnishee, if before paying over he has notice of the fund being claimed by another, who proves to have had the better right: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299.

As to the practice where orders are made in respect of the same debt in different Counties, see Victoria Mutual Ins. Co. v. Bethune, 1 Ont. App. 398.

Attachment book to be kept

947. There shall be kept by the proper officer a debt attachment book, and in such book entries shall be made of the attachment and proceedings thereon, with names, dates, and statements of the amount recovered, and otherwise; and copies of any entries made therein may be taken by any person upon application to the proper officer. J. A. Rule 377. Rules 948, 950. by proper officer.

This is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 9, (1883, R. 629).

The book provided for by R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 320, and the present Rule, has been duly kept in the Q. B. office; but since 1866 only on two occasions have persons required any entries to be made in it.

The effect of making entries or omitting to make entries therein is nowhere stated. The book would appear to be no more than a procedure book for this particular class of proceedings, and the neglect of the officer to make entries would not prejudice the litigants.

948. In case of any judgment or order other than for the recovery or payment of money, if any difficulty shall arise in or about the execution or enforcement thereof, any party interested may apply to the Court or a Judge, and the Court or Judge may make such order thereon for the attendance and examination of any party or otherwise as may be just. New. Examination in other cases.

Taken from Eng. R. 1883, 611.

CHAPTER X.

PETITIONS OF RIGHT.

949. A petition of right may be entitled in one of the Divisions of the High Court, and shall name the proposed place of the trial; and such petition shall be addressed to Her Majesty in the words or to the effect of Form No. 203 in the Appendix and shall state the Christian name and surname and usual place of abode of the suppliant and of his solicitor, if any, by whom the same is presented, and shall set forth with convenient certainty the fact entitling the suppliant to relief, and shall be signed by such suppliant, his counsel or solicitor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 3. Form of petition of right.

950. The said petition shall be left with the Provincial Secretary, in order that the same may be submitted to the Petition to be submitted to Rules 951-955. Lieutenant-Governor for his fiat.

Lieutenant-Governor for his consideration, and in order that the Lieutenant-Governor, if he thinks fit, may grant his fiat that right be done; and no fee or sum of money shall be payable by the suppliant therefor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 4.

Proceedings after fiat is obtained.

951. Upon the Lieutenant-Governor's fiat being obtained, a copy of the petition and fiat shall be left at the office of the Attorney-General, with an indorsement thereon in the words or to the effect of Form No. 204 in the Appendix, praying for an answer on behalf of Her Majesty within 28 days. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 5.

Service on person in possession of real property.

952. In case the petition is presented for the recovery of any real or personal property, or any right in or to the same, which has been granted away or disposed of by or on behalf of Her Majesty or Her Predecessors, a copy of the petition, allowance and fiat shall be served upon or left at the last or usual or last known place of abode of the person in the possession, occupation or enjoyment of the property or right, indorsed with a notice in the words or to the effect of Form No. 205 in the Appendix, requiring such person to appear thereto within 8 days, and to file his statement of defence within 14 days after the same has been so served or left as aforesaid. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 6.

Appearance.

953. It shall not be necessary to issue any scire facias or other process to any person so served for the purpose of requiring him to appear and file his defence to the petition, but he shall, within the time so limited, enter an appearance to the same in the words or to the effect of Form No. 206 in the Appendix, and shall file his defence or demurrer to the said petition within the time specified in such notice, or within such further time as may be allowed by the Court or a Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 7.

Time for pleading or demurring.

954. The time for filing a defence or demurrer to the petition, on behalf of Her Majesty, shall be the said period of 28 days after the petition has been left as aforesaid at the office of the said Attorney-General, or such further time as may be allowed by the Court or a Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 8.

Pleadings in answer to petition.

955. The petition may be answered by statement of defence or demurrer, or by both statement of defence and demurrer, by or in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney-General, on behalf of Her Majesty, and by or on behalf of any other person who may be called upon to file his defence thereto, in the same manner as in an ordinary action, and without the necessity for any inquisition finding the truth of such petition or the right of the suppliant; and any sufficient ground of defence in point of law or fact to the petition on behalf of Her Majesty, may be alleged on behalf of any other person so called on to defend. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 9. Rules 956-959.

956. So far as the same are applicable, and except in so far as is inconsistent with these Rules, the laws and statutes in force as to pleading, evidence, trial, security for costs, amendment, arbitration, special cases, the means of procuring and taking evidence, set-off and appeal, in ordinary actions, and the rules, orders, practice and course of procedure therein for the time being, shall, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders, be applicable to petitions of right. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 10. Rules of pleading, etc.

957. In case of a failure on the behalf of Her Majesty, or of any other person duly called upon to defend in due time, at any stage of the proceedings, the suppliant shall be at liberty to apply to the Court or a Judge for an order that the petition may be taken as confessed; and the Court or Judge may order that such petition may be taken as confessed, as against Her Majesty, or other party so making default; and in case of default on behalf of Her Majesty, and any other person called upon as aforesaid to defend, judgment may be given by the Court in favour of the suppliant. In default of defence etc., applicant to take petition pro confesso.

(a) Such a judgment may be set aside by the Court or a Judge, upon such terms as may seem proper. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 11.

958. Any issue of fact or assessment of damages to be tried or had in respect of a petition of right, shall be tried or had by a Judge without a jury. R. S. O. 1877 c. 59, s. 13. Issues to be tried by a Judge without a jury.

shall be that the suppliant is or is not entitled either to the whole or to some portion of the relief sought by his petition, or that such other relief may be given, and upon such terms and conditions (if any) as the Court thinks just. R. S. O. 1867, c. 59, s. 14.

When judgment to be equivalent to amoveas manus.

960. In cases in which the judgment, commonly called a judgment of amoveas manus, was formerly in England pronounced upon a petition of right, a judgment that the suppliant is entitled to relief, as hereinbefore provided, shall have the same effect as a judgment of amoveas manus. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 15.

Costs against suppliant.

961. The costs of all proceedings under these Rules shall be in the discretion of the Court or a Judge, and shall be recovered in the same way as in ordinary actions, save when costs are ordered to be paid by Her Majesty. New. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, ss. 16, 17.

If judgment be for relief, etc., Judge to certify to Provincial Treasurer.

962. Upon any judgment or order for the payment of costs by Her Majesty, the Judge shall and may, upon application in behalf of the party entitled to costs, after the lapse of 14 days from the making, giving or affirming of the judgment, or order, certify to the Provincial Treasurer the tenor and purport of the same, in the words or to the effect of Form No. 207 in the Appendix; and such certificate may be sent to or left at the office of the Provincial Treasurer. R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 18.

963. Nothing in these Rules shall prevent a subject from proceeding by petition of right in any manner in which he might have proceeded before the 23rd day of April, 1887; nor shall anything in these Rules be construed as entitling a subject to proceed by petition of right in any case in which he would not be entitled so to proceed under the Acts passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom before the said date. New. See 50 V. c. 7, s. 6.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, s. 20, preserves to suppliants the right to proceed as before that Act. The date mentioned in this Rule is that of the passing of 50 V. c. 2 (O.) which provided for the coming into force of the R. S. O. 1887.

1. Petitions.

Petition to be indorsed with notice of hearing.

964. There shall be indorsed on every petition a notice addressed to the parties concerned, stating the time and place at which the petition is to be heard, and informing them that if they do not appear on the petition at such time and place, the Court may make such order, on the petitioner's own shewing, as shall appear just. Chy. O. 265.

When petition to be made returnable.

The day to be named for the hearing of a petition to the Court or a Judge, must be one on which the Court, or Judge, sits for such business. In the Chancery Division, petitions to the Court are taken by a single Judge in Court on Tuesdays or Wednesdays, and petitions to a Judge in Chambers on Mondays. In the other Divisions, petitions to the Court, or a Judge in Chambers, are taken on Tuesday and Friday in each week, vacation excepted. During vacation a special day is named in each week for hearing matters of urgency.

Service of petition, how made.

When the petition is required to be served on a party to an action who has not appeared, leave to serve the petition is necessary if the time for appearance has not expired: Rule 533. But not if the time for appearance has expired: Rule 532.

2. Administration.

Creditors, legatees, next of kin, heirs or devisees, may apply on motion, in Chambers for administration.

965. Any person claiming to be a creditor, or a specific, pecuniary, or residuary legatee, or the next of kin, or one of the next of kin, or the heir, or a devisee interested under the will of a deceased person may apply to the Court or a Judge upon motion, without any action being instituted, or any other preliminary proceeding, for an order for the administration of the estate, real or personal, of such deceased person. Rule 965.

Applications for administration under this Rule.

It was formerly considered that applications for administration by motion, under Chy. Ord. 467, from which this Rule is taken, should be confined to simple cases, and wherever misconduct was charged, a bill should be filed: Re Babcock, 8 Gr., at p. 410; Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565; Acaster v. Anderson, 19 Beav. 161; Rump v. Greenhill, 20 Beav. 512; and it was considered that under an administration order obtained on motion against an executor, no inquiry could be made as to wilful neglect and default: Harrison v. McGlashan, 7 Gr. 531; although such an inquiry could be directed where the personal representative himself obtained the order: Ledgerwood v. Ledgerwood, 7 Gr. 584. It is, however, now settled, that the inquiry as to wilful neglect and default, may be made in all cases under an administration judgment granted on motion: Re Allen, Pocock v. Allen, 9 P. R. 277; 18 C. L. J. 242; Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354; Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500, 19 C. L. J. 234; and it would seem that any breach of duty which is practically a matter of account, may be effectually inquired into, and dealt with, under a judgment obtained under this Rule. Where, however, there is any question to be determined, before a judgement for administration can properly be pronounced, the action should be commenced by writ. Thus it was held a bill must be filed where the construction of a will was necessary: Heywood v. Sievwright, 8 P. R. 79; Franks v. Worth, 35 W. R. 663; 56 L. J. Chy. 779; Carlyon v. Carlyon, 35 W. R. 155; 56 L. T. N. S. 151; where the claim was for support of wife and children of deceased, raising substantially the same question as would be raised in an alimony suit: Re Foster, Griffith v. Patterson, 20 Gr. 345; Groom v. Darlington, 9 P. R. 298; where the claim arose out of a contract of suretyship, Re Colton, 8 P. R. 542; see also Re Allan, 9 P. R. 277; and Re Arcedeckne, 53 L. J. Chy. 102; or where the executor is charged with misconduct: Re Babcock, 8 Gr. 409, that is, misconduct which would entitle the plaintiff to apply at the outset for an injunction or a receiver: Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500; not misconduct consisting merely in not having accounted for moneys received, and which would be shewn upon the taking of accounts: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565, Re McMillan, 8 C. L. J. 285; where the plaintiff claimed to be a creditor, and his claim appeared to be barred by the Statute of Limitations, but he claimed to avoid the operation of the Statute, on the ground of fraud on the part of the testator: Re McDonald, Cameron v. McDonald, 2 Chy. Ch. 29; and where a legatee claimed administration, and it appeared that an award had been made respecting the applicant's claim, but the applicant denied being party to the reference: Nudel v. Elliott, 1 Chy. Ch. 326; and see Groom v. Darlington, 9 P. R. 298; and Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112. But where the facts are not in dispute, and there is only a question of law as to the right of the applicant to sue, it would seem that such a point would be decided on a motion without putting the parties to the necessity of bringing an action: Re Powers, Lindsell v. Phillips, 30 Ch. D. 291.

Wilful neglect and default may be inquired into under judgment obtained under this Rule.

When writ must issue.

In Barry v. Brazill, 1 Chy. Ch. 248, special inquiries as to what would be proper to be allowed to the applicant (the widow and administratrix) for improvements made on the property, and for the maintenance of the infant children of deceased were refused, and applicant left to file a bill.

Where the application is made on motion, in a case in which the Court is of opinion that a writ should be issued, an order is usually made giving the applicant a day to commence his action, in default, the motion to be dismissed; but if the action be commenced, reserving the costs of the motion until the trial of the action: Re McDonald, Cameron v. McDonald, supra. But where the plaintiff commences an action, instead of applying on motion, where the latter course is proper, he will be disallowed the extra costs occasioned thereby: Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559; or if it is not clear that the action was unnecessary, the question of the additional costs will be reserved until after the Master has made his report: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565.

Application when to be made.

Applications under this Rule are made in Chambers, Rule 542; if, however, the motion is contested, the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers is excluded, and the motion must be adjourned before a Judge in Chambers: see Rule 30, s-s. 8.

Local Masters.

Applications by adults may be made for the like purpose to the Local Master having jurisdiction in the county where the deceased died: Rule 972. A Local Master's jurisdiction is not ousted by the motion being opposed.

Rule 966 provides that, at least, fourteen days' notice of the motion must be given. Motions for administration seem, therefore, to constitute an exception to ordinary motions which only require two clear days' notice: Rule 479; and see Exchange Bank v. Newell, 19 C. L. J. 253. The words "at least" require that the fourteen days be clear days: see Rumohr v. Marx, 19 C. L. J. 10. Rule 965. Fourteen days' notice of motion to be given.

Parties.—The provisions of Rules 309, 320, 321, 322 apply to proceedings under this Rule. All parties from whom an account is sought, should be served with notice: see Rule 320 note. Parties.

Creditors.—A creditor whose debt is payable, may make application for administration of his deceased debtor's estate, without waiting a year from his decease. To an application by a creditor for the administration of the personal estate, no one but the personal representative need be made a defendant: but where an administration of the realty is also sought, unless the personal representative is also interested in the realty, some one must also be made a party who is interested in the realty: Rule 970. Under the Devolution of Estates Act, the personal representative now sufficiently represents both the real and personal estate of all persons dying since 1st July, 1886, and it is not proper to make the heirs or devisees of such persons parties. But when the letters of administration are limited to the personalty, it will be necessary to get letters of administration of the realty, in order to obtain proper representation of the realty. Applications for administration by creditors. Personal representative must be served.

Where there are several personal representatives all must be served, even though some be resident out of the jurisdiction: Re Freeborn, Freeborn v. Carroll, 6 P. R. 188; Latch v. Latch, L. R. 10 Eq. 464. A judgment for administration could not formerly be granted as against an executor de son tort where there was no legal personal representative before the Court: Rowsell v. Morris, 17 Eq. 10. Nor against an executor named in the will who had not proved the will: Outram v. Wyckhoff, 6 P. R. 150. But see now Rule 312, as to action against an executor de son tort: notwithstanding Rule 312, where the action is brought against an executor de son tort, it would seem to be the better practice to commence it by writ, etc., not under Rule 265. See further as to parties Rules 320-322 note. If more than one, all must be served.

On the motion, the applicant must be prepared with proof that the defendant is the personal representative: ordinarily, the letters of administration, or letters probate, should be produced: Re Marshall, Fowler v. Marshall, 1 Chy. Ch. 29; Re Israel, 2 Chy. Ch. 392. But where the plaintiff swore that the defendant was administrator, and the fact was not disputed, production of the letters was dispensed with: Re Bell, Bell v. Bell, 3 Chy. Ch. 397. It is sufficient if the letters of administration be granted at any time before the hearing of the motion, even though subsequent to giving the notice: Edinburgh Life Assurance Company v. Allen, 19 Gr. 593; Re Masonic & G. L. A. Co., 32 Ch. D. 373; Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433. But letters of administration obtained pendente lite will not relate back to the commencement of the action so as to bar the running of the Statute of Limitations: Chard v. Rae, Boyd, C., 3rd Dec., 1889. Where the motion was refused on the ground that the personal representative was not a party, only the costs necessary to raise that objection were allowed: Irwin v. Buck, 6 P. R. 183. The creditor applying must also give prima facie evidence of his claim as creditor: Re Clarke, 2 Chy. Ch. 57; and where his claim is disputed, he must establish his claim by proper evidence—his own uncorroborated evidence, is insufficient: Vivian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; see R. S. O. c. 61, s. 10; and as to nature of corroboration required: see Stoddart v. Stoddart, 39 U. C. Q. B. 203; Sugden v. Lord St. Leonards, L. R. 1 P. D. 154, 179; McDonald v. McKinnon, 26 Gr. 12; McKay v. McKay, 31 C. P. 1; Adamson v. Adamson, 28 Gr. 228; Brown v. Capron, 24 Gr. 91; Halleran v. Moon, 28 Gr. 319; Re Laws, Laws v. Laws, Ib., 382; Re Robbins, 23 Gr. 162; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; 18 C. L. J. 11; Parker v. Parker, 32 C. P. 113; Watson v. Severn, 6 App. R. 559; Watson v. Bradshaw, Ib., 666; Cook v. Grant, 32 C. P. 511; Re Murray, 29 Gr. 443; 9 Ont. Proof of applicant's claim. Corroboration must be given if contested.

Rule 695.

A partnership creditor suing for the administration of the estate of a deceased partner must join the surviving partner as a party, even though he is insolvent: Re McCrae, Forster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16; 49 L. T. N. S. 544.

Applicant must be creditor of the deceased.

The creditor must be a creditor of the deceased person whose estate is sought to be administered. Where the applicant was merely a creditor of the personal representative for advances made to him as such, the application was refused: Campbell [illegible], 16 Gr. 115; Farhall v. Farhall, L. R. 7 Chy. 123; Re Pettee, McKinnon [illegible], 6 P. R. 157; Owen v. Delamere, L. R. 15 Eq. 134; Ewart v. Steven, [illegible]; Seton, 916; and see Henry v. Sharp, 18 Gr. 16. Creditors, whose debts are incurred by the executor, in carrying on a business of his testator, are entitled to indemnity out of the deceased's estate to the extent, if any, which the executor is entitled: Re Johnson, Shearman v. Robinson, 15 Ch. D. 548; 43 L. T. N. S. 379; and a plaintiff, who had made advances to pay the debts of a deceased person, to save the estate the costs of suits to recover them, was held entitled to administration: Glass v. Munsen, 12 Gr. 77; see also, Mills v. Cottle, 17 Gr. 335; Strickland v. Symons, 48 L. T. N. S. 188; which were cases of advances to trustees.

A judgment for administration cannot be set aside on the ground that the applicant was not a creditor, after other creditors have proved under it: Re Cannon, Oates v. Cannon, 13 Ont. 70.

Effect of judgment for administration as to claims of other creditors.

A judgment for administration, is equivalent to a judgment in favour of all the creditors of the estate, but creditors who are not parties to the action, can only claim the benefit of it from its date, as to the claims of the latter, the running of the Statute of Limitations is not stopped, until the judgment is obtained: Re Cannon, Oates v. Cannon, 13 Ont. 705; Re Greaves, Bray v. Tofield, 18 Ch. D. 551; 45 L. T. N. S. 464; Manby v. Manby, 3 Ch. D. 101; but see Crooks v. Crooks, 4 Gr. at p. 619. The judgment, however, does not prevent the Statute from running in favour of debtors to the estate: Archer v. Severn, 12 Ont. 615; 14 Ont. App. 723.

Statute of Limitations.

The personal representative is not bound to set up the Statute of Limitations as a bar to a creditor's claim: Lewis v. Rumney, L. R. 4 Eq. 451; and if the personal representative, and such of the parties beneficially interested, as are parties to the suit, or who have come in under the judgment, do not set up the Statute, the Court is not bound, on behalf of absent parties benefically interested, to disallow claims against the estate which are barred by the Statute: Alston v. Trollope, L. R. 2 Eq. 205. But although the personal representative may refuse to set up the Statute as against the claim of a creditor of the estate, yet any party interested in the estate, whether as creditor, legatee, or next of kin, may set it up as a bar to the claim: Shewen v. Vanderhorst, 1 R. & M. 352. And though a personal representative may pay, or retain, debts barred by the Statute, though otherwise justly due, he cannot properly pay, or retain a debt due under a promise which cannot be enforced by reason of its not being in writing under the Statute of Frauds: Re Rownson, Field v. White, 29 Ch. D. 358; 52 L. T. N. S. 825. An order for the administration of the estate of the owner of the equity of redemption, does not stop the running of the Statute in favour of the mortgagee in possession: Crooks v. Watkins, 8 Gr. 340. Where a cause of action accrues in the lifetime of the creditor, the Statute begins to run against him, and continues to run against his estate, notwithstanding there is no executor, or administrator; but where the cause of action does not accrue until after his death, then the time does not begin to run until there is a personal representative: Grant v. McDonald, 8 Gr. 468; Stevenson v. Hodder, 15 Gr. 570. A claim cannot be kept alive by any acknowledgment or payment by an executor de son tort: Ib., Boatwright v. Boatwright, L. R. 17 Eq. 71.

As to staying creditor's action when an administration order has been granted, see Re Langtry 18 Gr. 530; Re Henderson, 26 Gr. 297; Bailey v. Monteith, 3 C. L. T. 599; Henderson v. Maxwell, 19 L. R. Ir. 225; Monteith v. Merchants Bank, 4 C. L. T. 41; Harrison v. Stubb, W. N. 1878, 79; Re Tims, W. N., 1878, 141.

In Re Womersley, Etheridge v. Womersley, 29 Ch. D. 557, the Court refused to restrain a creditor who had recovered judgment previously to the administration order, from proceeding against the execution personally.

A personal representative cannot set up his own devastavit and claim that the Statute of Limitations bars any claim against him by reason of such devastavit; but if he is sued for a devastavit, he may rely on the Statute as a bar: Re Hyatt, Bowles v. Hyatt, 38 Ch. D. 609; 59 L. T. N. S. 297. Rule 966.

Proceedings by a creditor may be stayed on the application of any person interested in the estate, on payment of his claim and costs: Fitten v. Dawson, 3 Chy. Ch. 461; Re Henderson, 26 Gr. 297; 15 C. L. J. 132.

Where some defendants in an administration action by a creditor offered to satisfy the plaintiff's claim and the costs of the action, the Court refused to stay proceedings unless the rights of an infant defendant were provided for; Clegg v. Clegg, 17 L. R. Ir. 118.

After judgment for administration, a creditor cannot counter-claim in an action of trespass brought against him by the personal representative, for a debt due by the deceased to him: Monteith v. Walsh, 10 P. R. 162; 20 C. L. J. 71.

Legatees, Next of Kin, etc.—Applications by legatees, or next of kin, for administration cannot be made until the lapse of a year from the death of the deceased: 33 Geo. 3 c. 8 (Imp.) Slater v. Slater, 3 Chy. Ch. 1; Vivian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; Grant v. Grant, 9 P. R. 211; but see contra Wallis v. Wallis, 9 Ir. Chy. 511; Prosser v. Mossop, 29 W. R. 430; which were not followed in Re Morley, Tucker v. Morley, Sept. 1882, by Proudfoot, J. When the action is brought unnecessarily, the legatee may be ordered to pay the costs of all parties: Re Woodhall, Garbutt v. Hewson, 2 Ont. 456. Wherever a legatee, if alive, may apply, his personal representative, in case of his death, can also apply: Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. 1. As to parties to application by legatees: see Rule 320 note. An application for administration by an infant, by his next friend, was granted on the mere suggestion that it would be for his benefit: Re Wilson, Lloyd v. Tichborne, 9 P. R. 89; but where the ground of motion was that strangers had got possession of most of the estate, an order was refused, there being no allegation that the executor refused to account or was colluding, and the Court thought he ought to apply for the order if it were necessary: Re Dearing, Mitchell v. Dearing, 12 June, 1882, Proudfoot, J.; see also Re Blake, 29 Ch. D. 913. But where it turned out that a suit had been brought unnecessarily by an infant, his next friend was ordered to pay the costs of it: Hutchinson v. Sargent, 17 Gr. 8; McAndrew v. Laflamme, 19 Gr. 193; Moodie v. Leslie, 12 Gr. 537; and see Re Johnston, Johnston v. Hogg, 25 Gr. 261; Carroll v. Carroll, 23 Gr. 438; Re Blake, 29 Ch. D. 913. Applications for administration by legatees, or next of kin, cannot be made until lapse of a year from death. Personal representatives of deceased legatee may apply.

An administration suit should not be instituted on behalf of infants, where the object is simply to obtain an allowance for their maintenance out of the estate, which can be as readily got by application under Rule 992 et seq.: Fenwick v. Fenwick, 20 Gr. 381; Goodfellow v. Rannie, Ib., 425.

966. The notice of motion is to be served upon all proper parties at least 14 clear days before the day named for hearing the application, and is to be in the form or to the effect set forth in Form No. 12 in the Appendix, and must be served upon the executor or administrator. Chy. O. 468, 552, 561. Fourteen days' notice of motion. Form of notice.

Where the motion is to be made before the Master in Chambers, the notice should be varied to the following effect, e.g., "Take notice that an application will be made to the Master in Chambers, on etc.; or, if opposed, then to a Judge in Chambers, as soon thereafter as a Judge shall be sitting in Chambers in the —Division, etc." See Rule 30, s. 8.

Where infants are intended to be served with notice of the motion, a guardian ad litem must be appointed to them. The procedure provided by Rule 258, for the appointment of guardians ad litem to infant defendants, made parties by writ, does not appear to be explicitly extended to applications for administration under these Rules. But see Rule 252, and Re Pepper, Pepper v. Pepper, supra, p. 288. It is possible, however, that under Rule 3 it may be Guardian ad litem to infant defendants, how to be appointed.

LAW LIBRARY

Rule 967. held that the Official Guardian ad litem is to be served with the notice of the application and will thereupon become guardian ad litem to the infant on whose behalf he is served, by analogy to the practice prescribed by Rule 258, but until this is decided it would appear to be safer to obtain an order appointing a guardian ad litem to infant parties.

Heir and devisee when to be served.

Where the administration of the realty is sought, notice must be given to the heirs, or devisees, or one or more of them: Rule 970; unless under The Devolution of Estates Act the personal representative also represents the realty: next of kin, and legatees need not be served with the notice of the motion, but they must be served with an office copy of the judgment, as prescribed by Rule 322. See note to that Rule.

The words "at least," indicate that the notice is to be fourteen clear days: Rumohr v. Marx, 3 C. L. T. 31.

Upon proof of service of notice, or on appearance of personal representative, etc., order for administration may be granted.

967. Upon proof by affidavit of the due service of the notice of motion, or on the appearance in person, or by his solicitor or counsel, of the executor or administrator, and upon proof by affidavit of such other matter, if any, as the Court requires, the Court may make the usual order for the administration of the estate of the deceased, with such variations, if any, as the circumstances of the case require; and the order so made is to have the force and effect of a judgment to the like effect made at the trial of an action between the same parties. Chy. O. 469.

The affidavit on which the application is founded should be filed with the proper officer, before the notice of motion is served.

Evidence in support, how obtained.

The affidavits should establish the facts and circumstances necessary to entitle the applicant to the administration. As to obtaining oral evidence in support of the motion: see Rule 578; see further as to the evidence required: Rule 965. A commission may be issued after notice of motion served, for the purpose of obtaining evidence in support of the motion: Farrell v. Cruikshank, 1 Chy. Ch. 12.

Order for administration entered as a judgment.

The order for administration is now in effect a judgment, and is to be drawn up and entered, as required in the case of other judgments: see Rule 546. But in McHenry v. Lewis, 21 Ch. D. 202; 47 L. T. N. S. 549, an interlocutory order for an account without any declaration of right was held not to be a judgment. But that case it is apprehended does not interfere with the practice as above stated; because an order for administration can only be properly granted after an adjudication on the question of the applicant's right to the account claimed. Where any preliminary question has to be determined, as has been already pointed out, the Court will generally require an action to be brought: see Rule 965, note.

Where the personal representative has distributed the estate, after duly advertising under R. S. O. c. 110, s. 36, that is an answer to the application: see Rule 320, note, p. 348. Re Brackin, Doughty v. Townson, 61 L. T. N. S. 531.

Application refused when estate trifling.

The fact that the estate was small, and that no misconduct was imputed to the executors, and that it was unadvisable to incur expense, was held to be no ground for refusing the application of a legatee for administration: Re Falconer, 1 Chy. Ch. 273. Where, however, the executor swore that the personal estate did not exceed $50, the Court, before granting the order, required the applicant, who was one of the residuary legatees, to file an affidavit stating that he had reason to believe, and did believe, that the result of the proceedings would show a substantial balance to be divided among the legatees: Foster v. Foster, 19 Gr. 463; and see Westbrook v. Browett, 17 Gr. 339; Shaw v. Freedy, 8 C. L. J. 136; Gilbert v. Braithwait, 3 Chy. Ch. 413.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Administration was refused on the application of a legatee whose claim only amounted to $28, although it was alleged that other claims to a considerable amount remained unpaid: Reynolds v. Coppin, 19 Gr. 627. And an application by a partnership creditor was refused, where it was shewn that the separate estate of the deceased was insufficient to pay his separate creditors: Re Barnard, Edwards v. Barnard, 32 Ch. D. 447; 55 L. T. N. S. 40. Rules 968, 969. Or claim of applicant under $40.

The reference should be primâ facie directed to the Master of the county where the person whose estate is to be administered resided: Thompson v. Fairbairn, 10 P. R. 533.

968. The Court is to give any special directions touching the carriage or execution of the order, which it deems expedient; and in case of applications for an order by two or more persons, or classes of persons, the Court may grant the same to such one or more of the claimants as it thinks fit; and the carriage of the order may be subsequently given to any party interested, and upon such terms as the Court may direct. Chy. O. 470. Special directions may be given respecting carriage of order, etc. Carriage of order may be subsequently changed.

Where two or more applications are made by different persons under this Rule, only one judgment for administration should be granted; and the Court may determine which of the applicants shall have the carriage of it. The rule being to give the conduct of the proceedings ceteris paribus to the party most interested in prosecuting them properly and economically: Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452; Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283; Re Draygon, 8 P. R. 330; Re Prime, 48 L. T. N. S. 208; Penny v. Francis, 7 Jur. N. S. 248; but see Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 46 L. T. N. S. 437. The conduct was given to the first applicant in Re West, West v. Falkiner, 7 C. L. T. 85. The carriage of the judgment may be changed in case of delay: Patterson v. Scott, 4 Gr. 145; and see Rules 45, 50, and notes. As between a separate creditor and a partnership creditor of the person whose estate is to be administered, the conduct of the proceedings is given to the former: Re McRae, Forster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16; 48 L. T. N. S. 544. Several applications—only one judgment should be granted.

969. An order for the administration of the estate of a deceased person may be obtained by his executor or administrator, and all the provisions of the foregoing Rules are to extend to applications by an executor or administrator. Chy. O. 471. Order may be obtained by personal representative.

Where the application is made by the personal representative, it may be made ex parte: Re Dunlevy, Esten, V.C., 16th May, 1861, Ord. B. 11, fo. 778; Re Ette, 6 R. P. 159. But where no sufficient ground was shown for making the order, it was refused: Barry v. Barry, 19 Gr. 458; and it is clear that the personal representative cannot apply for administration merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602; Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392.

How far a deficiency of assets justifies a personal representative applying for administration is the subject of some doubt. In 1874 orders were made on that ground, on the application of the personal representative, in Swetnam v. Swetnam, 6 P. R. 149, and Re Ette, Ib. 159. But in the subsequent cases of Re Shipman, Wallace v. Shipman, 24 Gr. 177; Blake, V.-C., said that the reasons which existed for making the order in Re Ette no longer held good, and that the personal representative, on being sued at law, could set up the deficiency of assets, and claim administration under The Administration of Justice Act. That Act, however, was in force when Swetnam v. Swetnam and Re Ette were decided. In 1877 in Marsh v. Marsh, 7 P. R. 126, Spragge, C., held that the course pointed out in Re Shipman should be followed, and refused the order; Deficiency of assets, how far it justifies application by personal representative.

Rule 970.

and in Re Jack, Jack v. Jack, 13 C. L. J. 358, Proudfoot, V.-C., did the same. On the other hand, in Re Bromley, before Blake, V.-C., 28th January, 1878, the order was granted, the applicant having been sued by one creditor in the Division Court, and another creditor having written to him, urging him to obtain the order.

As to the grounds justifying a personal representative obtaining administration, see further Rule 320 note.

An executor, who has suffered a creditor of the estate to recover judgment against him by default of appearance, cannot, on subsequently obtaining a judgment for administration, restrain the creditor from proceeding on his judgment, even though there be a deficiency of assets: Doner v. Ross, 19 Gr. 229; and see Hutchinson v. Edmison, 11 Gr. 477.

On deficiency of assets, personal representatives must distribute pari passu among creditors.

It is the duty of an executor, on a deficiency of assets, to pay all creditors pari passu; and even his right of retainer cannot be set up so as to give his own debt any preference, but the lien of any creditor on the real or personal estate, created in the lifetime of the deceased, is not to be prejudiced by this rule: R. S. O. c. 110, s. 32; Meyers v. Meyers, 20 Gr. 185; Willis v. Willis, 29 Gr. 296; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; foreign creditors are entitled to the same rights as creditors living within the jurisdiction: Re Klabe, Kaunreuther v. Geiselbrecht, 28 Ch. D. 175; 21 C. L. J. 155, a creditor who has recovered execution against the executor has no priority: Bank of British North America v. Mallory, 17 Gr. 102; and debts due by the deceased as trustee form no exception to the rule: Brock v. Cameron, 25 Gr. 369. And it would seem, notwithstanding what is said by Mowat, V.C., in Doner v. Ross, supra; that creditors who have been overpaid may be compelled to refund, on the application of a creditor who has not received his due proportion: Chamberlain v. Clarke, 1 Ont. 135; 9 Ont. App. 273. But a creditor's claim against a legatee or creditor, who has been overpaid, to compel him to refund, will be barred in six years from the time of the overpayment, notwithstanding that the creditor's claim against the testator's estate is not barred; Blake v. Gale, 31 Ch. D. 196. This case was subsequently affirmed by the Court of Appeal, however, on the ground that the creditor had acquiesced in the overpayment: 55 L. T. N. S. 234.

Creditors overpaid, may be compelled to refund.

Suit improperly brought, or occasioned by personal representatives, costs of.

Where an executor improperly institutes a suit for administration he may be ordered to pay the costs of it: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 16 Gr. 94; or he may be refused his costs and commission: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 310; and where he improperly renders a suit necessary by a creditor, he may also be ordered to pay the costs of it: McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271.

No accounts to be ordered of realty, unless heir, or devisee served.

970. No accounts or inquiries in respect of the real estate are to be directed, unless notice of the application has been given to the heirs and devisees interested therein, or one or more of them. Chy. O. 472.

This Rule is merely declaratory of what has before been the practice of the Court: Eccles v. Lowry, 23 Gr. 172, per Proudfoot, V.-C.

In case of intestacy, one or more of heirs must be notified.

In case of an intestacy of a person who died before 1st July, 1886, the heir, or one or more of the heirs, must be a party, or parties, to the application, either as plaintiff, or defendant: Tiffany v. Tiffany, 9 Gr. 158; but it is not necessary, where there are several, that all should be joined as defendants: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441; and in case of a person who died before 1st July, 1886, leaving a will, it is sufficient to make one, or more, of the devisees, a party, or parties: Tiffany v. Thompson, 9 Gr. 244; where the executor was also devisee of part of the realty, it was held that he sufficiently represented the other parties interested in the realty: Stewart v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 132; where a devisee is a party, it is not necessary that the heir should be joined: Fenny v. Priestman, 1 Gr. 133.

Or in case of testacy, one or more of devisees.

On deficiency of assets, heir entitled to costs as between solicitor and client.

Where, in an administration action, it is necessary to make the heir a party defendant, he is entitled to be paid his costs as between solicitor and client, in priority to the costs and claims of creditors, although the estate may be insufficient for the payment of the debts: Hartrick v. Quigley, 21 Gr. 287; Tardrew v. Howell, 2 Giff. 530.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Rules 971-972.

In the case of persons dying since the 1st July, 1886, the personal representative, who has obtained administration of both real and personal estate, sufficiently represents the real estate: see R. S. O. c. 50, s. 58; Ib. c. 108, s. 4.

A judgment for the administration of the realty alone will not be granted, unless the personal estate has been previously administered: Rowsell v. Morris, L. R. 17 Eq. 20; Re Armour, Moore v. Armour, 10 P. R. 448; but see Dey v. Dey, 2 Gr. 149.

Parties to be served with judgment.

Although it is not necessary to serve all the parties interested in the realty with notice of the application for administration, they must, nevertheless, all be served in the Master's office with an office copy of the judgment as prescribed by Rule 322: see note to that Rule; parties who are not served will not be bound by the accounts: Norris v. Bell, 9 Gr. 23; May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347. A party improperly served may move to set aside the service: Re Symons, Betts v. Betts, 54 L. T. N. S. 501.

Accounts of realty may be directed by supplemental order.

971. After inquiries directed in respect of the personal estate, the Court may, in a proper case, after notice given to those interested in the real estate, or to one or more of them, make a supplemental order in respect of the real estate, upon such terms as the Court sees fit. Chy. O. 473.

Where administration of realty required, order may be made in first instance.

It is now customary, whenever an administration of the realty is likely to be required, to serve all the parties necessary to be served, in order to obtain an administration of both realty and personalty, and a judgment is then awarded for the administration of both the realty and personalty. And whenever the realty is the primary fund for the payment of debts, it is absolutely necessary that this should be done.

As to the parties to be notified in order to obtain an administration of the realty, see note to preceding Rule.

Adult person may apply to Local Master for administration of deceased person's estate. Notice requisite.

972. Any adult person entitled to apply, under Rules 965 or 969, for an administration order may apply to the Master in the County town of the County (other than the County of York) where the deceased person, whose estate it is desired to administer, resided at the time of his death; and the Master may, on 14 clear days' notice being given to the person or persons entitled to notice of such an application, make an order for the administration of, and proceed to administer such estate in the least expensive and most expeditious manner. Chy. O. 638.

Master cannot entertain applications by infants.

The jurisdiction of the Local Masters under this Rule is confined to applications made by adult persons: where an administration of an estate is sought on behalf of an infant, or where the person whose estate is to be administered died in the County of York, the application must be made in Chambers at Osgoode Hall; or in some cases it may be necessary to commence an action by writ for that purpose.

Personal representative when to be served.

When the application is made by persons claiming as creditors, or as specific, pecuniary, or residuary, legatees, or next of kin, notice must be served on the personal representative of the deceased person whose estate is sought to be administered; and where an administration of the realty is required, unless the applicant himself be entitled to some interest therein, some one or more of the heirs or devisees interested therein must be served with notice of the application: Rule 970.

In cases of estates in the County of York, there would seem to be no power given, even to a Judge in Chambers, to make the order contemplated by this Rule for the winding up of the estate without reserving further directions. In Rule 972. such case the order which may be made would seem to be an order for inquiries reserving further directions and costs: see App. Form 187, and it will be made under Rules 30 and 965, before the Master in Chambers unless opposed.

Application may be made, though wilful neglect and default charged.

Chy. Ord. 467, under which similar applications were authorized to be made, was formerly held to apply to simple cases only, and where executors were charged with misconduct, it was held that a bill must be filed, but a different construction was subsequently placed on that Order; the earlier cases proceeded to some extent on the ground that under the common order for administration, an inquiry as to wilful neglect and default could not be made, unless the order were obtained by the personal representative himself: Harrison v. McGlashan, 7 Gr. 531; Ledgerwood v. Ledgerwood, Ib. 584; but it is now held that the inquiry as to wilful neglect or default, may be made in all cases, and therefore it is no longer a sufficient reason for not proceeding by summary application instead of by action, that an inquiry as to wilful neglect and default is required: Re Allen, Pocock v. Allen, 9 P. R. 277; as to cases in which it is proper to commence an action for administration by writ: see note to Rule 965.

Writ of summons where necessary.

Costs, where writ issued unnecessarily.

When a plaintiff unnecessarily issues a writ for administration, instead of applying for a judgment on notice, he is not entitled to the extra costs thereby occasioned: Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559; and where it is not clear whether the proceeding by writ is unnecessary the costs will be reserved until further directions: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565.

Administration when estate of trifling amount.

When the estate in question is small, a suit for administration should not be brought until all reasonable means of avoiding the suit have been exhausted; and where a next friend of an infant brought a suit for administration, without having taken steps to avoid litigation, and the suit afterwards appeared to have been unnecessary, he was ordered to pay the costs of the suit: Hutchinson v. Sargent, 17 Gr. 8; McAndrew v. Laflamme, 19 Gr. 193; Mackie v. Leslie, 12 Gr. 537; and see Re Johnston, Johnston v. Hogg, 25 Gr. 261; Carroll v. Carroll, 23 Gr. 438.

Where an executor in answer to an application for administration swore that the personal estate had not exceeded $50, the Court before it would make an order for administration, required the applicant to file an affidavit stating that he had reason to believe, and did believe, that the result of the proceedings would show a substantial balance of personal estate to be divided among the legatees: Foster v. Foster, 19 Gr. 463.

Administration was refused on the application of a legatee whose claim, including interest on his legacy, only amounted to $28, notwithstanding that it was alleged that other legacies remained unpaid, which amounted to a considerable amount: Reynolds v. Coppin, 19 Gr. 627; and see Re Johnston, Johnston v. Hogg, 25 Gr. 261.

Creditor, legatee, or next of kin, bringing unnecessary suit—costs.

And where a creditor brings an administration suit, after being informed that there are no assets applicable to the payment of his claim, if the information appear by the result to be substantially correct, he may have to pay the costs of the suit: The City Bank v. Scatcherd, 18 Gr. 185; and so also a next of kin, or residuary legatee, unnecessarily bringing a suit, may be ordered to pay the costs of it: see Parsill v. Kennedy, 22 Gr. 417; Re Woodhall, Garbutt v. Hewson, 2 Ont. 456; so also a trustee: Re Cabburn, 46 L. T. N. S. 848.

Legatee, or next of kin, cannot apply until lapse of a year from death.

A legatee, or next of kin, cannot apply for administration until the expiration of a year from the death of the person whose estate is sought to be administered: Slater v. Slater, 3 Chy. Ch. 1; Vivian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; Grant v. Grant, 9 P. R. 211; but see contra, Wallis v. Wallis, 9 Ir. Chy. 511; Prosser v. Mossop, 29 W. R. 439.

Where land is devised subject to the payment of an annuity, so long as the annuity is promptly paid the annuitant cannot claim to have the land sold; Re Potter, Potter v. Potter, 50 L. T. N. S. 8; and where a will creates a life estate in chattels, the executor is discharged when he hands over the chattels to the tenant for life; the latter, and not the executor, then becomes liable to the remainderman: Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112.

Rule 972. When the application is made by a creditor, whose claim is disputed, he must establish his debt by proper evidence, his own uncorroborated affidavit is not sufficient: Vivian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461.

Creditor must prove his claim.

Residuary legatee bringing unnecessary suit.

A suit unnecessarily brought by a residuary legatee claiming, but failing to establish himself, to be a creditor, was on further directions dismissed with costs: Re Johnston, Johnston v. Hogg, 25 Gr. 562; and see Re Woodhall, 2 Ont. 456; and a residuary legatee of money and stocks, subject to a prior estate for life, is not entitled, as of course, to have the property brought into Court to be administered; and where the fund is invested in the names of proper trustees, and in proper securities, the Court will refuse to interfere: Re Braithwaite, B. v. Wallis, 21 Ch. D. 121; 48 L. T. N. S. 857.

Application by personal reps.

Where the personal representative makes an application for the administration of the personal estate, the application may be granted ex parte: per Esten, V.C., Re Dunlevy, see Order Book 11, fo. 778: Re Ette, 6 P. R. 159; Re Bromley, before Blake, V.C., 28th January, 1878.

There appears to be some conflict of authority as to whether a deficiency of assets, for the payment of debts, is a sufficient ground for the personal representative to apply to the Court for administration; see cases cited ante in note to Rule 965.

Suit to obtain indemnity against covenants in lease.

The personal representative is entitled to bring a suit for administration in order to obtain an indemnity in respect to leasehold estates: Re Bosworth, Howard v. Easton, 45 L. T. N. S. 136; but he has no right to institute a suit for administration merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602; Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392; Barry v. Barry, 19 Gr. 458; and he may be refused his costs of a suit if unnecessarily brought: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 318; Springer v. Clarke, 15 Gr. 664; but see Farrow v. Austen, 18 Ch. D. 58; 45 L. T. N. S. 227; Re McClellan, McClellan v. McClellan, 29 Ch. D. 495; 52 L. T. N. S. 741; or he may be ordered to pay the costs of the suit; Sullivan v. Sullivan, 16 Gr. 94; Re Dineen, Hughes v. Dineen, before Boyd, C., 13th May, 1884; or the costs of a suit brought by a creditor or legatee, rendered necessary by the action of the executor: McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271; Re Radcliffe, Pearse v. Radcliffe, 44 L. T. N. S. 96; 50 L. J. Chy. 317; Killins v. Killins, 29 Gr. 472. An application was held proper where one of the legatees was absent from the Province and the executor has taken proper steps to find him, and could not get a discharge without coming to the Court: Re Wade, 18 Gr. 485. So also executors have been charged with so much of the costs of the reference as were incurred in establishing charges against them which they disputed: Stewart v. Fletcher, 18 Gr. 21; Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 311; Bald v. Thompson, 17 Gr. 154; and see Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 433. But an executor may be allowed his costs though he have committed a breach of trust, if the estate has suffered no loss: Wiard v. Gable, 8 Gr. 458. But a personal representative in default was held not entitled to costs until he had made good his default: Re Bashan, Hannay v. Basham, 23 Ch. D. 195; 48 L. T. N. S. 476; McEwan v. Crombie, 25 Ch. D. 175; 49 L. T. N. S. 499. In Tebbs v. Carpenter, 1 Mad. 290, it was laid down that if the suit would have been proper, and the executor a necessary party, if the executor had not misconducted himself, he ought not to pay all the costs of the suit, though in the course of the suit it appears he has misconducted himself; but if the misconduct of the executor was the sole occasion of the suit, he ought then to pay the costs. This rule was approved in Smith v. Rowe, 11 Gr. 321; and Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. 1; but see remarks in the latter case at p. 9.

Personal representative may be ordered to pay costs of unnecessary suit, or of suit rendered necessary by his misconduct.

Where the guardian ad litem of an infant defendant had made no objection to the unnecessary proceedings, no costs were given either to the executors or the guardian, of such proceedings: Springer v. Clark, 15 Gr. 664.

All the personal reps. to be notified.

Where there is more than one personal representative all must be notified, notwithstanding that one of them be resident out of the jurisdiction: Re Freeborn, Freeborn v. Carroll, 6 P. R. 188. A judgment for administration formerly could not be made against an executor de son tort, where there was no legal personal representative before the Court: Rowsell v. Morris, 17 L. R. Eq. 20; Outram v. Wyckoff, 6 P. R. 150; Re Colton, Fisher v. Colton, 8 P. R. 542; but see now Rule 312. A creditor making an application must be a creditor of the deceased person, and not merely a creditor of his executor or administrator; thus, an application by a person who had made advances to the executor was refused: Campbell v. Bell, 16 Gr. 115; Farhall v. Farhall, 7 L. R. Chy. 123; Re Pettee, McKinley v. Beadle, 6 P. R. 157; Ewart v. Steven, 18 Gr. 35; Mills v. Cottle, 17 Gr. 335; Hughes v. Hughes, 6 Ont. App. 378; but see Henry v. Sharp, 18 Gr. 16, where a decree was made by consent. A plaintiff who had made advances to pay debts of a deceased person to save the estate the costs of suits to recover the same, was held entitled to administration: Glass v. Munsen, 12 Gr. 77.

Executor, de son tort.

In simple cases only one report necessary.

In simple cases, where all parties interested are represented before the Master, it would be possible, under this and the following Rules, for the Master to defer making any report until the accounts were taken and the estate realized, and then by one general report to wind up all matter connected with the estate, and this course is pursued wherever practicable.

Master may give special directions as to conduct of proceedings.

Under Rule 968 the Master would have power to give any special directions he might think proper respecting the carriage of the judgment, where there are conflicting claims, and also to transfer its carriage from one party to another, if occasion should require. The rule being to give the conduct of the proceedings ceteris paribus, to the party most interested in prosecuting them properly and economically: Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452; Re Draygon, 8 P. R. 330; and see Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283; Lambier v. Lambier, 9 P. R. 422; Re Prime, 48 L. T. N. S. 208; see, however, Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 46 L. T. N. S. 437; Townsend v. Townsend, 23 Ch. D. 100; 48 L. T. N. S. 694, Re West, West v. Falkiner, 9 C. L. T. 85, where it was held that the party first originating proceedings was entitled to the conduct.

The administration of two estates may be consolidated, where intimately connected: Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283.

For form of judgment on applications under this Rule, see App. Form No. 185.

The order made on any application is to be drawn up and entered as a judgment: Rule 546.

Master to have full power to deal with realty and personalty, and dispose of costs, etc.

973. The Master shall have full power to deal with both the realty and personalty of the estate, the subject of administration, and shall dispose of the costs of the proceedings, and shall finally wind up all matters connected with the estate, without any further directions, and without any separate, interim, or interlocutory reports, or orders, except where the special circumstances of the case absolutely call therefor; and in so doing he shall be guided by the practice in the administration of estates upon an application made in Chambers for an administration order.

This Rule was formerly a part of Chy. Ord. 639. See note to following Rule.

Moneys realized to be paid into Court, and not paid out except on Judge's order.

974. All moneys realized from the estate shall at once be paid into Court, and no moneys shall be distributed or paid out for costs or otherwise, without an order of a Judge in Chambers or the Court, and on the application for such order, the Judge may review, amend, or refer back to the Master his report or order, or make such other order as he deems proper, and no order for payment out shall be made until the purchaser has consented thereto, or has been notified of the motion. Chy. O. 639. Rule 974.

The object of this and the preceding Rule is to do away with the necessity of a hearing on further directions in administration suits; the judgment granted by the Master covers all those directions, which, by the former practice, were usually made on the hearing on further directions, except the order for payment of the fund out of Court; e.g., it directs any balances found in the hands of accounting parties to be paid into Court, it also authorizes a sale of the land, the payment of the purchase money into Court, the execution of conveyances by all proper parties, and empowers the Master also to execute such conveyances for infants, who are incapable of executing the same themselves: see App. Form No. 185; Rules 89, 97, 107. The Master has also power to make any order, or report, which may be necessary for completely winding up the estate, or protecting the rights of the parties to the suit; for example, if it should become necessary to appoint a receiver, or grant an injunction, it would seem that it is intended that the Master shall have power to make the necessary order therefor: see Re Patterson, Catton v. Patterson, before Proudfoot, J., 23rd Nov., 1881: sed quære, and see Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500. Where the executor is insolvent a receiver may be appointed: Harrold v. Wallis, 9 Gr. 443; and it would seem that a receiver may be appointed, when necessary, in proceedings commenced under Rules 965, 972: Re Francke, Drake v. Franke, 58 L. T. N. S. 305.

Rule intended to do away with further directions in administration suits.

Judgment form of.

Powers of Master under.

The words "without any separate interim, or interlocutory reports, or orders, except where the special circumstances of the case absolutely call therefor," indicate that it is only unnecessary orders, or reports, that are dispensed with, but that so far as such interlocutory reports, or orders, may be essential to the winding up of the estate, the Master is to have power to make them. Under Rule 67, a party directed by the Master to bring in any account, or do any other act, is to be held bound to do the same in pursuance of the direction of the Master without any warrant, or written direction, served for that purpose. The provisions of that Rule, of course, only apply when the party attends the Master in person or by solicitor, and has notice of the direction.

Separate orders and reports only to be made when essential.

The Master should not proceed with the reference ex parte, even though the defendant did not appear on the motion for judgment: Jackson v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 47; Robinson v. Whitcombe, 20 Gr. 415.

Master not to proceed ex parte.

Under the ordinary administration order, it has been held that the Master may take an account of timber cut with which a defendant is chargeable: Stewart v. Fletcher, 18 Gr. 21; and may also, without any special directions, take evidence, and report the facts, as to payments made by executors for the maintenance and education of infant beneficiaries: Stewart v. Fletcher, 16 Gr. 235; and may also take the accounts on the footing of wilful neglect and default; and when the widow of the deceased is found a debtor to the estate, her indebtedness may be set off against her claim for past and future dower: Williams v. Reynolds, 25 Gr. 49. The Master would have similar powers under a judgment awarded by himself, he would also be entitled to make all proper allowances to executors, administrators, and trustees, by way of compensation for their services.

Accounts which may be taken under ordinary administration judgment.

Where a legacy is given to executors as compensation for their services, they are not precluded from claiming a further sum under the statute if the legacy be an insufficient remuneration: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 306: see, however, Kennedy v. Pingle, 27 Gr. 305; Williams v. Roy, 9 Ont. 534; and see supra p. 175. In the event of a deficiency of assets such a legacy does not abate with other legacies: Anderson v. Dougall, 15 Gr. 405. Such a legacy precludes any presumption that the executor is entitled to the undisposed of residue: Loveless v. Clarke, 24 Gr. 14; but see Boys' Home v. Lewis, 4 Ont. 18; 3 C. L. T. 211. Where a suit was brought by an executor unnecessarily, the Court refused to allow him any commission: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 318. But where executors had acted improperly, the Court, although allowing them compensation, refused them their costs of suit: Kennedy v. Pingle, 27 Gr. 305. The omission to keep a regular set of books is not alone a sufficient ground for refusing trustees compensation: Life Association of Scotland v. Walker, 24 Gr. 293.

Compensation to executors, etc., may be allowed.

Effect of legacy by way of compensation.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Rule 975.

Misconduct of executor, effect of, on right to compensation.

Nor is the fact that a balance is found against an executor, part of which is occasioned by the allowance of a surcharge, alone sufficient to disentitle him to compensation: Sievewright v. Leys, 1 Ont. 375; McCardle v. Moore, 2 Ont. 229. An executor, not being a trustee of the realty, is not entitled to receive the rents thereof, and if he do, he is a mere intermeddler, and not entitled to any compensation in respect of such rents: Dagg v. Dagg, 25 Gr. 542; and see Re Brazill, Barry v. Brazill, 11 Gr. 253. Since The Devolution of Estates Act, however, the rights of personal representatives in regard to the real estate are materially changed. See further as to principle on which compensation is allowed, Rule 57 note.

Compensation prior to claims of creditors.

The executor's claim for compensation is prior to the claims of creditors: Harrison v. Patterson, 11 Gr. 105; and a trustee's claim for compensation must be satisfied before a conveyance of the trust estate to the cestui que trust will be ordered: Life Association of Scotland v. Walker, 24 Gr. 293.

Order for payment out of Court cannot be made by Master.

The only order which the Master is precluded from making in suits for administration, or partition, in which he has awarded judgment, is that for the payment out of the money in Court; but the Master should state the amount of the commission, and what he finds would be a proper apportionment thereof among the different solicitors under Rule 1187, and also the amounts he finds payable to creditors, and other beneficiaries, respectively.

Application to Judge for, how made.

The order for payment is to be made by a Judge, or the Court. Application for this order, in cases in the Chancery Division, is to be made in Chambers on a Monday: Chy. Ord. 590; Rule H. C. J. iv.; (see, however, Rule 211, which for the present is suspended) in the other Divisions the motion may be made on a Tuesday or Friday. The application is to be made upon notice; and it would seem that all persons who, under the former practice, would be entitled to notice of a hearing on further directions, would be entitled to notice of such an application.

When an appeal from Master necessary.

Where a party is not satisfied with the findings of the Master, the Judge, on any motion for distribution, may, on notice being given by the complaining party to the other parties, review the Master's decision without an appeal, if the matters complained of can be investigated and disposed of on reading the pleadings (if any), and judgment, and the Master's report without reference to the evidence; otherwise an appeal in the usual way under Rule 848, et seq. is necessary Kendrick v. Kendrick, 9 C. L. T. 310.

Master to enquire as to outstanding estate.

And to compute interest on debts and legacies.

975. In taking an account of a deceased's personal estate under an order of reference, the Master is to inquire and state to the Court what, if any, of the deceased's personal estate is outstanding or undisposed of; and is also to compute interest on the deceased's debts from the date of the judgment or order, and on legacies from the end of one year after the deceased's death, unless any other time of payment is directed by the will. Chy. O. 474.

Master not to proceed ex parte.

The Master ought not to proceed ex parte, even though the defendant did not appear on the motion for administration: Jackson v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 47.

Proof of persons necessary to be served with judgment.

Before proceeding to take the accounts, the Master should require the necessary evidence to be brought before him, to show who are the parties, if any, who ought to be served with an office copy of the judgment as prescribed by Rule 322. The Master should direct on whom the judgment is to be served, and he may also dispense with service, on any parties, as he may think fit: Ib.

Service may be dispensed with.

Service may be dispensed with on parties whose apparent interest is small, and where there is difficulty in effecting service, and other parties in the same interest are already represented, or directed to be served with the judgment; mere difficulty in effecting service would not alone be sufficient ground for dispensing with service. Rule 976.

Parties who are served with an office copy of a judgment under Rule 322 do not thereby become parties to the action, they merely acquire a right to attend the proceedings on giving notice of their desire to do so to the plaintiff's solicitor, but they are bound by the proceedings as though they were actually parties to the action. English v. English, 12 Gr. 441; and see supra p. 352. Persons served do not become parties to the action.

Parties so served may give notice to the plaintiff of their desire to attend the proceedings, and are then entitled to be served with the appointments in the Master's office, and with notice of the motion for distribution; but when a person served with the judgment, does not notify the plaintiff of his desire to attend the proceedings, he is not entitled to notice of the proceedings in the Master's office, nor of the motion for distribution: see Rule 322 note. But on notice to plaintiffs' solicitor may attend proceedings.

Persons so attending, however, are not, as of course, entitled to the costs of so doing out of the estate, and unless the Court is satisfied that there was some good reason for their so attending they will be left to bear their own costs in any event; and may be ordered to pay the extra costs occasioned by his unnecessary attendance: see supra p. 352.

Parties served under Rule 322 cannot be required to account: see ante p. 352.

Where the Master finds any persons (not coming within Rule 322), ought to be made parties, and enabled to attend the proceedings, he may add them as parties under Rule 46. Persons added under that Rule become parties to the action, as if they had been originally made parties to the writ. Master may add parties.

The direction contained in Rule 975, as to the allowance of interest on debts, applies to debts not bearing interest, prior to the date of the judgment. The judgment for administration, as has been said, operates as a judgment for all the creditors of the estate for the amount of their respective debts, and consequently from that date they bear interest; but where a creditor is entitled to interest from any prior date, by virtue of any statute, or any contract, expressed or implied, the Master may allow such interest. But where a sum is payable at a certain day, with interest, there is no implied contract to pay interest at the same rate after default; and even where the same rate has been paid for many years after default, there is no implied contract to continue doing so: Re Roberts, Goodchap v. Roberts, 14 Ch. D. 49; 42 L. T. N. S. 666; Cooke v. Fowler, L. R. 7 H. L. C. 27; Dalby v. Humphrey, 37 U. C. Q. B. 514; Simonton v. Graham, 8 P. R. 495; as to what is a sufficient demand of interest within the Jud. Act s. 86, s-s. 2 supra p. 89; see Geake v. Ross, 32 L. T. N. S. 666. Interest to be allowed on debts. Judgment for administration operates as a judgment in favour of all creditors. Rate of interest payable.

General legacies payable out of personalty bear interest from the expiration of a year from the testator's death, unless the testator was the legatee's debtor, or being a parent or standing in loco parentis to the legatee has made no provision for the maintenance of the legatee who is an infant: interest on legacies charged on land, bear interest from the testator's death: Ashburner v. Macguire, 2 Tudor's L.C. (6th ed.) 308; but where the legacy is payable out of the proceeds of the sale of land, the interest does not run until a year from the death: Turner v. Buck, 18 L. R. Eq. 301; but where the sale was postponed by the testator till after the death of a tenant for life, and the rents were directed to be applied as if the sale had taken place, a legacy payable out of the proceeds, was held to bear interest from the death of the tenant for life: Re Waters, Waters v. Boxer, 42 Chy. D. 61 L. T. N. S. 431. Where for the convenience of the estate the payment of a legacy is postponed by the testator, the legacy bears interest nevertheless from a year from the testator's death: Re Olive, Olive v. Westerman, 50 L. T. N. S. 355; and see further as to interest on legacies: Re Judkin, 25 Ch. D. 743; 50 L. T. N. S. 200. Interest on legacies.

or to his solicitor, to be named and described in the advertisement, the name and address of the creditor, and the full particulars of his claim, and a statement of his account, and the nature of the security (if any) held by him; and such advertisement is to be in the form set out in Form No. 36 in the Appendix, with such variations as the circumstances of the case require, and at the time of directing such advertisement, a time is to be fixed for adjudicating on the claims. Chy. O. 475.

Where the Master finds that there has been a proper advertisement for creditors, under R. S. O. c. 110, s. 36, he may dispense with any further advertisement without any special direction so to do: Cuthbert v. Wharmby, W. N. (69) 12; Seton, 805; and see Bracken, Doughty v. Townson, 60 L. T. N. S. 628; S. C. affirmed 88 L. T. Jour. 6.

Affidavit of creditor dispensed with unless required.

977. No creditor need make an affidavit, or attend in support of his claim (except to produce his security, if any,) unless he is served with a notice requiring him to do so as hereinafter provided. Chy. O. 476.

Parties entitled to appear on adjudication on creditor's claim.

No person, except the personal representative, is entitled (except by leave of the Master) to appear on the claim of any person not a party to the cause, against the estate of the deceased, in respect of any debt or liability. But the Master may direct any other party to the cause to appear, either in addition to, or in place of, the personal representative, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as he shall think fit: see Rule 334.

Creditors when allowed costs.

Creditors merely sending in their claims pursuant to advertisement, ought not to be allowed any costs of so doing; but where they are required to go into formal proof thereof, the Master may fix a sum for costs, or allow taxed costs of proving the claim: see Rule 1178.

A notice to a creditor requiring him to make an affidavit in support of his claim, may be transmitted by post, pre-paid, addressed to him or his solicitor: see Rule 988.

Corroborative evidence.

When a creditor's claim is disputed, he may be required to produce corroborative evidence thereof: see R. S. O. c. 61, s. 10; and see cases Rule 965, note.

A judgment obtained without fraud or collusion is conclusive evidence in suits between creditors in relation to the property of the debtor, of the indebtedness of the latter and of the amount of such indebtedness: Candee v. Lord, 2 Com. N. Y. Rep. 269; Martin v. Boulanger, 8 App. Cas. 296; 49 L. T. N. S. 62; and see Bowerman v. Phillips, 15 Ont. App. 679: Re Hague, Traders Bank v. Murray 13 Ont. 727.

Where the solicitor of a plaintiff in an administration action, had purchased, after judgment and pending an inquiry thereunder as to debts, two claims against the estate for less than the sum due, it was held that the officer to whom the action was referred had no jurisdiction to certify that the solicitor was a trustee for the creditors for any surplus he might receive over and above what he had paid for the claims: Re Tillett, Field v. Lydall, 32 Ch. D. 639; 54 L. T. N. S. 604; and it was also held that such a contention could not be raised at the hearing in further directions, except by consent of the solicitor.

Creditors to produce securities.

978. Every creditor is to produce before the Master, the security (if any) held by him, at such time as is specified in the advertisement for that purpose, being the time appointed for adjudicating on the claims; and every creditor, if required by notice in writing, to be given by the executor or administrator of the deceased, or by such other party as the Master directs, in the form set forth in Form No. 37 in the Appendix, is to produce all other deeds and documents necessary to substantiate his claim before the Master, at such time as is specified in the notice. Chy. O. 477. Rules 979-983. And other documents, if notified.

The notice to produce documents in support of his claim, may be transmitted to the creditor, by post, addressed to him or his solicitor, if any: see Rule 988. Notice may be posted.

979. In case a creditor neglects or refuses to comply with the next preceding Rule, he is not to be allowed any costs of proving his claim, unless the Master otherwise directs. Chy. O. 478. Otherwise not to be allowed costs.

980. The executor or administrator of the deceased, or such other party as the Master directs, is to examine the claims sent in pursuant to the advertisement, and is to ascertain, as far as he is able, to which of such claims the estate of the deceased is justly liable. Chy. O. 479. Creditors claims to be examined.

981. The executor or administrator, or one of the executors or administrators, or such other party either alone or jointly with his solicitor, or other competent person, or otherwise, as the Master directs, is, at least 7 clear days before the day appointed for adjudication, to file an affidavit, which may be in the Form No. 50 in the Appendix, verifying a list of the claims, the particulars of which have been sent in pursuant to the advertisement, and stating to which of such claims, or parts thereof, respectively, the estate of the deceased is, in the opinion of the deponent, justly liable, and his belief that such claims, or parts thereof respectively, are justly due, and proper to be allowed, and the reasons for such belief. Chy. O. 480. Affidavit to be made by person examining creditors' claims. When to be filed. Form of.

982. In case the Master thinks fit so to direct, the making of the affidavit referred to in the next preceding Rule, is to be postponed till after the day appointed for adjudication, and is then to be subject to such directions as the Master may give. Chy. O. 481. Time for making affidavit may be postponed without proof by the creditors, and may direct such investigation of all or any of the claims not allowed, and require such further particulars, information, or evidence relating thereto, as he thinks fit, and may, if he so thinks fit, require any creditor to attend and prove his claim, or any part thereof; and the adjudication on such claims as are not then allowed is to be adjourned to a time to be then fixed. Chy. O. 482.

983. At the time appointed for adjudicating upon the claims, or at any adjournment thereof, the Master may allow any of the claims, or any part thereof respectively, Adjudication on claims by Master.

Master cannot employ experts.

The Master has no power under this Rule to employ experts to assist him in coming to a conclusion on the claims of persons claiming to be creditors: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555.

Mortgagee's claim.

A mortgagee is entitled to prove against the general estate, and hold his security for any amount the general estate is insufficient to pay: Re Stewart, Stewart v. Stewart, 10 Gr. 169. Where on a deficiency of assets, some creditors are paid more than their proportion, they may, on the petition of a creditor who has not been paid his proportion, be ordered to refund the excess: Chamberlen v. Clarke, 1 Ont. 135; 9 Ont. App. 273.

Where the Master requires a creditor to attend and prove his claim, the notice so to do may be transmitted to him or his solicitor by post, unless the Master otherwise directs: see Rule 988.

Notice to be sent creditors.

984. Notice is to be given by the executor or administrator, or such other party as the Master directs:

Where claim allowed without proof

(1) To every creditor whose claim, or any part thereof, has been allowed without proof by the creditor, of the allowance, and the notice may be in the form No. 38 in the Appendix.

Where proof of claim is required.

(2) And to every such creditor as the Master directs to attend and prove his claim, or such part thereof as is not allowed, by a time to be named in the notice, which may be in the form No. 39 in the Appendix, not being less than 7 clear days after the notice, and to attend at a time to be therein named, being the time to which the adjudication thereon has been adjourned; and in case any creditor does not comply with the notice, his claim, or such part thereof as aforesaid, is to be disallowed, unless the Master thinks fit to give further time. Chy. O. 483.

The notice may be transmitted by post, prepaid, to the creditor or his solicitor, unless the Master otherwise directs: see Rule 988.

Creditor may send in particulars of claim.

985. A creditor who has not before sent in particulars of his claim pursuant to the advertisement, may do so 7 clear days previous to any day to which the adjudication is adjourned. Chy. O. 484.

After expiry of time limited by

986. After the time fixed for the advertisement, no claim is to be received (except as before provided in case of an adjournment,) unless the Master thinks fit to give special leave upon application, and then upon such terms and conditions as to costs and otherwise as the Master directs. Chy. O. 485. Rules 987-989. advertisement for filing claims.

An application of a creditor to prove after the time has elapsed is usually granted; but on the terms of not disturbing any division of assets which has actually been made: Re Metcalfe, Hicks v. May, 13 Ch. D. 236; 42 L. T. N. S. 383; 49 L. J. Ch. 192.

987. Where an order is made for payment of money out of Court to creditors, the party whose duty it is to prosecute the order is to send each creditor, or his solicitor (if any,) a notice that the cheques may be obtained from the Accountant; and the notice may be in form No. 40 in the Appendix, and the party is, when required, to produce any papers necessary to enable the creditors to receive their cheques. Chy. O. 486. Creditors to be notified when their claims are payable out of Court.

Creditors who have proved claims, but who are not parties to the action, are not entitled to notice of a hearing on further directions, nor of an application for distribution: Lavin v. O'Neill, 13 Gr. 179.

Creditors who have received more than their share, may be ordered to refund, on the application of a creditor who has not received his proper proportion: Chamberlen v. Clarke, 1 Ont. 135; 9 App. Ont. 273; but the right may be barred by the Statute of Limitations, if not prosecuted within six years from the date of the overpayment: Blake v. Gale, 31 Ch. D. 196; or may be lost by acquiescence: S. C. 55 L. T. N. S. 234.

988. Every notice by these Rules, required to be given is, unless the Master otherwise directs, to be deemed sufficiently given and served if transmitted by post, prepaid, to the creditor to be served, according to the address given by the creditor in the claim sent in by him pursuant to the advertisement, or, in case the creditor has employed a solicitor, to such solicitor, according to the address given by him. Chy. O. 487. Form of notice. Notice, how to be sent to creditors.

The expression "these Rules" in this Rule is not intended to refer to the whole body of Rules, but merely to Rules 965-987.

3. Partition.

989. Any adult person entitled to a judgment or order for the partition of an estate, may, on serving one or more of the persons entitled to a share of the estate of which partition is sought, with a 14 clear days' notice of motion, apply to the presiding Judge in Chambers, or to the Master in the County (other than the County of York) wherein the land sought to be affected by the proceeding lies, for an order for the partition or sale of the premises in question; Adult party may apply to Local Master for partition, on motion.

LAW LIBRARY

Rule 989.

Proceedings on judgment for partition.

whereupon the Judge or Master may make such order for partition or sale, or such other order as may be proper, and the Master shall thereupon proceed in the least expensive and most expeditious manner, according to the practice now in force, for the partition or sale of the premises, the ascertainment of the rights of the various persons interested, the adding parties, the taxation and payment of costs, and otherwise. Provided always, that where an infant is interested in the estate, no order shall be made for partition or sale until such infant is represented by its guardian ad litem; and provided also that all moneys realized from the estate shall at once be paid into Court, and that no moneys shall be distributed or paid out for costs or otherwise, without an order of a Judge in Chambers or the Court; and on the application for such order, the Judge may review, amend, or refer back to the Master his report or order, or make such other order as he deems proper. Chy. O. 640.

Infants interested must be represented by guardian ad litem

Money not to be paid out without Judge's order.

Where infant plaintiff seeks partition, writ must be issued.

This Rule is confined to the case of proceedings instituted by adult persons; where an infant institutes proceedings for partition, a writ must be issued: Brown v. Brown, 2 C. L. T. 311. This Rule extends the principle of Rule 329 to partition suits; formerly it was necessary to make all tenants in common of the land in question, parties to the bill; under this Rule, it suffices to notify one or more of such persons. The application cannot be made for the partition of an estate of a deceased person, until the lapse of one year from his death: R. S. O. 1887, c. 104, s. 8; Grant v. Grant, 9 P. R. 211. Prior to the last revision of the Statutes the period was six months: R. S. O. (1877) c. 101, s. 8. Where the interests are unequal, the person having the largest interest should, as a general rule, be notified of the application.

Summary application cannot be made, when any party claims adversely.

This Rule does not apply where it is necessary to add a defendant whose claim to share in the estate is contested, e.g., where a stranger is in possession claiming adversely to the plaintiff and his co-tenants, an action must be brought by writ: see Young v. Wright, 8 P. R. 198: Re McMillan, Patterson v. McMillan, 8 P. R. 546; 17 C. L. J. 86; Hopkins v. Hopkins, 9 P. R. 71; and where after judgment for partition has been issued a question is raised as to the validity of an outstanding lease, it would seem that the Master has no jurisdiction to try it, but an issue may be directed by a Judge under Rule 655: Re Rogers, Rogers v. Rogers, 11 P. R. 90.

A Local Master has no power to make an order for partition of lands out of his jurisdiction, i.e., his county, and if he do so his order is null and void even as to lands within his County: Nichol v. Allenby, 17 Ont. 275; but see Rule 990.

Where the lands are situate in the County of York, or in more Counties than one, the application for partition should be made to a Judge in Chambers. The jurisdiction, here conferred on a Judge in Chambers, is apparently, from the wording of the Rule, not intended to be exercised by the Master in Chambers: and see Rule 30, s. 11.

Where two or more judgments are granted for partition of different parts of the same person's estate, the proceedings may be consolidated under Rule 990.

Accounting parties to be made original defendants.

Wherever an account is required from any person, such person should be made a defendant in the first instance, as it would seem parties served with the judgment in the Master's office cannot be made to account thereunder: Walker v. Seligmann, L. R. 12 Eq. 152: Hopper v. Harrison, 28 Gr. 22.

YORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Rule 989. Evidence on motion.

The plaintiff was formerly bound to allege, and if disputed, to prove, his title, and under this Rule it will still be necessary that the affidavits in support of the application should establish the applicant's title, and it would also appear to be necessary to show thereby, the estates and interests of all other persons interested as joint owners. The existence of a discretionary power of sale in trustees, does not exclude the jurisdiction of the Court to order partition: Boyd v. Allen, 48 L. T. N. S. 628; but a partition was refused in a case where the trustees were taking active proceedings to execute the power: Re Dennis, 14 Ont. 267.

Partition not granted of unpatented land.

The Court will not decree partition of lands, for which no patent has issued, neither will it decree a sale of such lands at the instance of the representatives of a deceased locatee: Abell v. Weir, 24 Gr. 464; Cuthbert v. Cuthbert, 11 Gr. 88, at p. 91; Jenkins v. Martin, 20 Gr. 613.

Tenant for life, or dowress, how far entitled to partition.

A tenant for life of an undivided share, is entitled to partition: Gaskell v. Gaskell, 6 Sim. 643; and see Lalor v. Lalor, 9 P. R. 455. A decree for partition was made at the suit of a dowress: Harrison v. Bottrill, before Blake, V.-C., 21st January, 1880; Devereux v. Kearns, 11 P. R. 452, over-ruling Rody v. Rody, 1 C. L. T. 546; but her right to partition is subject to judicial discretion and it will only be granted when her dower cannot conveniently be otherwise set apart: Fram v. Fram, 12 P. R. 185. The right of a dowress in the whole estate to have partition or sale, appears to be doubtful, but where the dower is claimed out of an undivided share, the dowress would seem entitled to partition, or sale, as the only way by which her claim can be properly ascertained and satisfied. A mortgagee of an undivided share, has been held not to be entitled to partition: Train v. Smith, before Spragge, C., 14th April, 1875; and see Laplante v. Scamen, 8 Ont. App. 560; but in Fall v. Elkins, 9 W. R. 861, it seems to have been assumed that a mortgagee was entitled to this relief; and see Agar v. Fairfax, 2 W. & T. L. C. 881: as to whether a tenant in common who has mortgaged his land can have a partition without first paying off his mortgage: see Gibbs v. Haydon, 47 L. T. N. S. 184. In this Province it would seem that he can, and that his mortgagee should be made a party either in the first instance, or in the Master's office, but any additional costs so occasioned must be borne by the mortgagor: McDougall v. McDougall, 14 Gr. 267; a mortgagee who comes in and consents to a sale, is not entitled to either six months' notice, or six months' interest: Re Houston, 2 Ont. 84; and see as to mortgages made since 1st July, 1888, 51 Vict. c. 15, s. 1, (O).

Mortgagee not entitled to partition.

Tenant in common whose share is mortgaged, may have partition.

Extra costs must be borne by his share.

A partition or sale cannot be ordered as against a tenant for life of the whole estate on the application of those entitled in remainder: Murcar v. Bolton, 5 Ont. 164, and a partition was refused in a case in which trustees of a will were empowered to sell and divide the proceeds and they were about to exercise the power: Re Dennis, 14 Ont. 267.

Where the plaintiff claimed as vendee of the equity of redemption of one of four tenants in common under a sale by the sheriff, a decree for partition was set aside on appeal, on the ground that the interest was not salable: Wood v. Hurl, 28 Gr. 146.

In determining whether a sale, or partition, should be directed, the Master will be guided by what is best for all parties interested: Blasdell v. Baldwin, 3 Ont. App. 6. When the property is not susceptible of partition, a sale should be directed: Steven v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 541.

The discretion exercised by a Judge in granting a partition or sale will not be interfered with by the Court of Appeal: Re Dyer, Dyer v. Paynter, 53 L. T. N. S. 744; but where the discretion is exercised by an officer of the Court having judicial functions his discretion may be reviewed: see Bryant v. Reading, 17 Q. B. D. 128; 54 L. T. N. S. 300; Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. N. S. 122.

Form of judgment.

By this Rule the Master is empowered to award such a judgment as the Court of Chancery was accustomed to grant in partition suits,—except the order for payment of the money out of Court: see note to Rule 974. He would, therefore, appear to be entitled to award a judgment under which an account of rents and profits could be taken, and under which a sum in gross could be allotted in lieu of dower, curtesy, or any other life estate, and under which all Rule 990. other usual and necessary accounts, and inquiries, could be taken, and made, as the circumstances of the case may require. For form of judgment: see App. Form 186.

Service of judgment. All parties interested in the land who are not served with the notice of motion for the judgment, will have to be served with an office copy of the judgment: Rule 46: and they will be entitled to move to vary, or set it aside, as provided by Rule 48.

Account of rents and profits, etc. A tenant in common who has been himself in actual occupation of the whole estate cannot be charged with an occupation rent: Henderson v. Eason, 17 Q. B. 701; Rice v. George, 20 Gr. 221; Re Kirkpatrick, Kirkpatrick v. Stevenson, 10 P. R. 4, except in favour of an infant co-tenant: Courcier v. Courcier, 26 Gr. 307. He is, however, liable to account to his co-tenants for rents and profits received from third parties: Goodenow v. Farquhar, 19 Gr. 614; Curtis v. Coleman, 22 Gr. 561; and if he make any claim for improvements made, or for prior incumbrances paid off, by him, he must submit to account for an occupation rent, otherwise he cannot be allowed them: Rice v. George, supra; Rivet v. Desourdi, 12 C. L. J. 203. But as against an execution creditor of the tenant who has been in possession, the other tenants in common cannot charge his share with the excess of rents received by him, in priority to the execution: McPherson v. McPherson, 10 P. R. 140. Where a tenant in common is lessee of his co-tenant's shares and continues in sole possession after the expiration of the lease, he becomes liable to his lessor for use and occupation: Leigh v. Dickson, 12 Q. B. D. 194; 15 Q. B. D. 60; 50 L. T. N. S. 124; 52 L. T. N. S. 790.

Only such improvements as are made by a tenant in common to prevent the estate going to ruin are recoverable: Ib.

Improvements how to allot. In making partition, those portions on which improvements have been made by any of the tenants in common should, as far as possible, be allotted to the parties by whom they were made: see Wood v. Wood, 16 Gr. 471.

When a sale is directed in a partition action the Master should inquire as to incumbrances existing on the shares of the parties interested up to the time of sale and not merely up to the commencement of the proceedings: Robson v. Robson, 10 P. R. 324; 20 C. L. J. 192. Such persons as have incumbrances should be made parties under Rule 46, and if not made parties they will not be bound by the proceedings: R. S. O. c. 104, s. 21.

When after judgment, lands discovered in another county.

990. When after an order has been made under the preceding Rule lands are discovered in another county, an application may be made to a Judge of the High Court in Chambers for the partition or sale of such lands under the order formerly made, and where two or more orders have been made by Masters in different counties, an application may be made in Chambers for an order as to the conduct of the future proceedings. Chy. O. 641.

This Rule applies to the case of lands subsequently discovered in another county; it does not apply when it appears on the original application that the lands sought to be partitioned are in different counties: in such a case a Local Master has no jurisdiction at all, even as to the lands in his own county; Nicholl v. Allenby, 17 Ont. 275.

Where lands are discovered in another county after a judgment has been pronounced by a Local Master, the Judge in Chambers may award judgment as to the lands so discovered: Clark v. Clark, 8 P. R. 156.

Several suits, consolidation of. The object of this Rule is to prevent more than one suit being prosecuted in respect of the same estate. Where more than one suit is brought, under this Rule, application may be made to consolidate them. The application must be made before a Judge in Toronto. But where two or more applications are made by different persons to the same Local Master, the latter has jurisdiction to pronounce judgment in one of them, and stay the others: Lambier v. Lambier, 9 P. R. 422; 19 C. L. J. 158. Where a suit is stayed, the costs are prima facie payable out of the estate pari passu with the costs of the suit which is carried on: Re Clark, Cumberland v. Clark, L. R. 4 Chy. 412.

Rules 991-994. Costs.

991. The Local Masters shall enter in books kept for that purpose, all judgments, or orders, made by them, in administration and partition matters, and they shall on the conclusion of the proceedings, annex together all the papers filed with them in such proceedings, and transmit the same to the Clerk of Records and Writs, who shall duly enter the same. Chy. O. 650.

Entry of orders. At conclusion of suit papers to be forwarded to Clerk of R. & W.

This Rule seems somewhat inconsistent with the provisions of Rule 546, which provides that all orders for administration or partition made in Chambers shall be drawn up as judgments and entered in like manner as other judgments are required to be entered. By Rule 764 judgments are required to be signed by a Registrar, Local Registrar, Deputy Registrar, or Deputy Clerk, with whom it is presumed they are also to be entered as required by Rule 772; but Rule 991 requires the Local Masters to enter the judgments pronounced by them for administration, or partition, and most of the Local Masters fill neither of the offices mentioned in Rule 772.

The requirements to transmit documents to the Clerk of Records and Writs would seem to be applicable to proceedings in all the Divisions. Though why the documents in actions pending in the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions should be transmitted to the Clerk of Records and Writs is not quite apparent.

4. Property of Infants.

992. All applications for the sale, mortgage, lease or other disposition of an infant's estate shall be made to the Master in Chambers, and no reference in any such matter is to be directed to any Local Master, except by leave of a Judge. J. A. Rule 585.

Applications to sell, etc., infants estate where made.

993. The Official Guardian shall be duly notified of all applications under the last preceding Rule. J. A. Rule 586.

Official guardian to be notified.

See supra p. 115.

994. A petition for the sale or other disposition of the real estate of an infant, is to be intituled in the matter of the infant. Chy. O. 527.

Petition, how entitled.

Applications for the sale, leasing, or other disposition of the real estate of infants, are authorized by R. S. O. c. 137, s. 3, where it is made to appear to the Court that it is necessary, or proper, for the maintenance or education of the infant; or that, by reason of any part of the property being exposed to waste and dilapidation, or to depreciation from any other cause, the interest of the infant requires, or will be substantially promoted by such disposition. Where a sale is necessary for the payment of the debts of the ancestor it may be ordered: Re McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 97; Re Barker, 6 P. R. 225. But it should be shewn that unless the sale, or other disposition, is made, the estate will sustain loss, or that the creditors are about to enforce payment of their demands by suit: Re Boddy, 4 Gr. 144. Where none of the circumstances mentioned in the Act are proved to exist, the Court has no authority to make any order: Calvert v. Godfrey, 6 Beav. 197; Re Phelan, 6 P. R. 269; Re Robinson, Pickard v. Wheater, 31 Ch. D. 247; 53 L. T. N. S. 865; and see Re Jackes, 3 C. L. J. 69, where the Court refused to sanction a renewal of a lease made by the infant's ancestor; but see Blean v. Blean, 10 Ont. 693; and see sec. 53 s-s. 10, ante p. 62.

When it appeared that the application was made more for the benefit of the infants' father than of the infants themselves, the application was refused: Re McDonald, 1 Gr. 90; and a sale will not be ordered to repay a relative, such as a father, mother, or brother, for the past maintenance of the infant: Keller v. Tache, 1 Chy. Ch. 388; and see Edwards v. Durrjen, 19 Gr. 101.

No disposition can be authorized contrary to any will or deed.

No sale, lease, or other disposition can be ordered under R. S. O. c. 137, against the provisions of any will or conveyance by which the estate has been devised or granted to the infant, or for his use: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 3, s-s. 2; Re Smith, 6 P. R. 282; Re Wilson, 7 P. R. 244; Re Callicott, 1 Chy. Ch. 26 182; but see Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589; and sec. 32, ante p. 26.

A guardian of an infant cannot, without the sanction of the Court, make a valid lease of his ward's land: Collins v. Martin, 41 U. C. Q. B. 602; Switzer v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 538; Townsley v. Neil, 10 Gr. 72; the report of the last case appears to be erroneous in describing the guardian who made the lease as a guardian ad litem, instead of a guardian of the estate of the infant.

Application for sale, etc., how to be made.

The Statute says the application is to be made in the name of the infant by his next friend or his guardian, but cannot be made without the infant's consent, if he is of the age of fourteen, or upwards: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 4; and see Rule 999; but see Rule 995; 51 Vict. c. 2, s. 4.

Applications for the sale, or other disposition, of infants' estates, cannot now be made to the County Court Judges, or Local Masters: Rule 992.

Execution of conveyance.

The Court may order the execution of the conveyance by the infant, or some one in his behalf, and a conveyance so executed is binding on the infant, as if made after he had attained his majority: R. S. O. c. 137, ss. 5, 6; Rae v. Gedda, 3 Chy. Ch. 404.

Proceeds of sale, retain quality of estate sold.

The proceeds of lands sold, or disposed of under the direction of the Court, retain the quality of the estate sold, or disposed of, so far as the rights of the infant's heirs, and next of kin, are concerned: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 8: Fitzpatrick v. Fitzpatrick, 6 P. R. 134; Thompson v. McCaffrey, 6 P. R. 193; Campbell v. Campbell, 19 Gr. 254. But where such moneys descend as realty if the heir do not effect an actual reconversion, they will pass to his representatives as personality: Mordaunt v. Benwell, 19 Ch. D. 302; 45 L. T. [illegible] And as to adult parties jointly interested with the infants, the order for sale operates as a conversion, and the share of such a person dying before sale, but after the order, will descend as personalty: Hyett v. McKin[illegible] Ch. D. 735.

Order for bar of dower.

Where the mother of the infant is a lunatic, an application may be made for an order barring her dower: R. S. O. c. 133, s. 13. The application must be made to a Judge in Chambers: Re Colthart, 9 P. R. 356.

Settled estates, jurisdiction of Court in regard to.

Settled Estates.—The Court has also the same jurisdiction which the Court of Chancery in England had on the 18th March, 1865, in regard to leases and sales of settled estates, and in regard to enabling infants, with the approbation of the Court, to make binding settlements of their real and personal estate on marriage: see s. 32, and notes ante pp. 26-28. The jurisdiction of the English Court of Chancery, at the above date, was regulated by Imp. Acts 19 & 20 Vict., c. 120; 21 & 22 Vict., c. 77; 25 & 26 Vict., c. 108; 28 Vict., c. 45.

Sale of settled estate when ordered.

The Court has no power under section 32, to order the sale of a part of a settled estate, in order to make improvements on the remainder: Re Moore, 6 P. R. 281; Re Chambers, 27 Beav. 653; nor can it sanction an exchange: Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589; but in that case, on its being shown that, unless the exchange were made the property was liable to depreciation in value, the sale was directed under R. S. O. (1877), c. 40, s. 76; but the provisions of sect. 77 of that Act prohibiting any sale, or disposition against the provisions of any will, or conveyance, do not seem to have been considered in that case.

The provisions of the English Settled Estates Acts which are introduced by section 32, ante, only remove the bar of infancy, but do not enable an infant to do more than an adult could do, e.g., when an infant was also a married woman and made a post nuptial settlement with the sanction of the Court, under those Acts, but the settlement was one which would not have bound her if she had been an adult, it was held to be invalid notwithstanding it had received the sanction of the Court: Bucknaster v. Bucknaster, 35 Ch. D. 21; 56 L. T. N. S. 795. But the Act enables an infant to make a valid post nuptial settlement so far as an adult could make one: Re Wall, 50 L. T. N. S. 435. Rules 995, 996.

An infant ward marrying without the consent of the Court cannot, against his will be required to execute a settlement of his estate, and a settlement made by an infant under such circumstances, unwillingly, but with the sanction of the Court, was set aside on the application of the settlor on attaining his majority: Re Leigh, Leigh v. Leigh, 60 L. T. N. S. 404.

Applications as to leases, and sales, of settled estates, and to enable minors to make binding settlements of their real and personal estate on marriage; and in regard to questions submitted in the form of special cases by persons under disability of infancy or lunacy, under section s. 32, ante, are excluded from the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers and the County Court Judges, and Local Masters: Rules 30, 41, 138. Applications respecting settled estates how made.

995. The petition is to be presented in the name of the infant, by his guardian, or by a person applying by the same petition to be appointed guardian as hereinafter provided. Chy. O. 528. In whose name to be presented.

There is a variance between this Rule, and the Statute R. S. O. c 137, s. 4, which provides that the application shall be in the name of the infant by his next friend, or by his guardian. The procedure prescribed by the Rule is to prevail: 51 Vict. c. 2, s. 4. (O). Variance between Rule and R. S. O. c. 137, s. 4.

996. The petition is to state the nature and amount of the personal property to which the infant in entitled — the necessity of resorting to the real estate — its nature, value, and the annual profits thereof. It must also state circumstances sufficient to justify the sale or other disposition of the estate, and the application of the proceeds in the manner proposed. The prayer must state specifically the relief that is desired; it must designate the lands to be disposed of, and must propose a scheme for that purpose, and for the appropriation of the proceeds. If an allowance for maintenance is desired, it must be so prayed, and a case must be stated to justify such an order and to regulate the amount. Chy. O. 529. What it is to state.

A similar procedure prevails in the State of New York: see Tyler on Infancy, p. 396 — 196. Apart from the power given by the Statute, the Court has no authority to direct the sale of an infant's estate on the mere ground that it would be beneficial: Calvert v. Godfrey, 6 Beav. 197. Circumstances which justify a sale of infants' estate.

The circumstances justifying a sale of an infant's estate, under the Statute, are: (a) The fact that the sale is necessary, in order to maintain, or educate, the infant; or, (b) that by reason of the property, or any part of it, being exposed to waste and dilapidation, or to depreciation from any other cause, the interest of the infant requires, or will be substantially promoted by, a sale, or other disposition: see R. S. O. c. 137, s. 3.

Rule 996.

Payment of debts.

A sale may be authorized for the payment of the ancestor's debts for which the estate is liable, where the creditors are pressing, and loss is likely to be incurred, if the sale be not made: Re Boddy, 4 Gr. 144; Re Barker, 6 P. R. 225.

Master in Chambers has jurisdiction to order sale.

The petition must be presented to the Master in Chambers, or to an Official Referee sitting for him, who has power to direct a sale, and take all necessary accounts, and make all necessary inquiries, and to order payment out of Court of any money realised from any sale, or other disposition of the estate; no reference is to be directed to a Local Master except by leave of a Judge: Rule 992. These applications are usually taken by the Registrar of the Queen's Bench Division, or an Official Referee sitting for the Master in Chambers.

Duty of father to maintain his children.

Where the father of an infant is living, it is his duty primâ facie to support and maintain, and educate, the infant, no matter what the infant's fortune may be: Simpson, on Infancy, p. 161; and maintenance is not ordinarily allowed out of the infant's estate, except upon proof that the father is unable to maintain, and educate, his children, according to their station and prospects in life; and although where there is an express trust in the marriage settlement, to which the father is a party, requiring the trustees to expend the trust fund for the support of the children of the marriage, such a trust may be enforced by the father: Mundy v. Earl Howe, 4 Bro. C. C. 223; yet where the trustees have an option, or a mere power, to do so, the Court will not compel them so to apply the trust fund except on evidence of the father's inability to maintain the infant: Wilson v. Turner, 22 Ch. D. 521; 48 L. T. N. S. 370.

Mother not so bound.

A mother is not under any legal obligation to support her offspring, and consequently maintenance will be allowed out of the children's own property, without reference to her ability to support them: Simp. 161.

On sale being directed, inquiry as to debts of ancestor made.

Upon an application under the R. S. O. c. 137, s. 3, for the sale of an infant's estate, it is usual before directing any application of the proceeds, to require proof of payment of the debts of the ancestor, in cases where the infant has become entitled to the property directed to be sold, as heir-at-law, or devisee; or to require an advertisement to be issued for creditors where no sufficient advertisement has previously been issued by the personal representative, and the Court then makes provision for the payment of the debts, if any.

Sale not ordered in administration action, when brought merely for maintenance of infants.

Where the sole object of the sale is the maintenance of the infant, the proceedings ought to be taken under R. S. O. c. 137, s. 3, and not by way of action for the general administration of the estate; and the Court has refused, where the latter proceeding has been adopted unnecessarily, to sanction a sale in the administration proceedings, for the purpose of maintenance: Fenwick v. Fenwick, 20 Gr. 381; Goodfellow v. Rannie, Ib., 425; Foster v. Patterson, Ib., 345.

The proceeds of the sale of an infant's lands will not be ordered to be paid to the infant's guardian; but will be retained by the Court in its own custody until the infant attains majority: Flanders v. D'Evelyn, 4 Ont. 704; Mitchell v. Richey, 13 Gr. 445; Blake v. Blake, 2 Sch. & Lef. 26; but see Huggins v. Law, 14 Ont. App. 383.

Principal not usually broken into.

As a general rule the Court will not break in upon the principal money, for the maintenance, and education, of infant legatees, still it may be done where necessary: Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 430; Crane v. Craig, 11 P. R. 236.

The marriage of a female ward of Court without the consent of the Court, is a contempt for which the husband may be punished by imprisonment. The Court in such cases usually requires a settlement to be made of the wife's property as a condition of the husband's release, and will provide that the husband shall take no benefit under the settlement, and will also ordinarily exclude the wife from power of appointing by will in his favour in default of issue: Re Wall, 50 L. T. N. S. 435; and see Buckmaster v. Buckmaster, 35 Ch. D. 21; 56 L. T. N. S. 795; and see Field v. Moore, 19 Beav. 176. But the Court has no power to compel a male infant marrying without leave to execute a settlement of his property against his will: Re Leigh, Leigh v. Leigh, 40 Ch. D. 290; 60 L. T. N. S. 404.

Accounts of guardians.

Where there are two or more guardians of an infant, the fact that one of the guardians who has maintained the infant, has been in sole receipt of the income of the infant's estate, is no discharge to the other guardians therefor, but if it is shewn that the infant has been properly maintained and educated by the guardian who received the income, a proper sum will be allowed for that purpose without the details of the expenditure being vouched: Re Evans, Welch v. Channell, 51 L. T. N. S. 175. Rule 997.

997. The petition may pray for the appointment of a guardian, as well as for the disposal of the infant's estate. In that case a proper case must be made by the petition, and established by the evidence, for the appointment of the person proposed. Chy. O. 530. Petition may pray for appointment of guardian.

The Surrogate Court has also power to appoint guardians to minors: see R. S. O. c. 137, s. 10. This Statute, however, does not exclude the jurisdiction of the High Court: Re Stannard, 1 Chy. Ch. 15; Re McQueen, McQueen v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 191; and see R. S. O. 137, s. 13.

Where a guardian has been appointed by the Surrogate Court, the High Court will not appoint any other except for cause, and it should therefore be shewn, on applications to appoint guardians under these Rules, that the minor has no guardian.

A guardian may be appointed for an infant who is a British subject, though he be resident out of the jurisdiction, and have no property within the jurisdiction: Re Willoughby, 30 Ch. D. 324; 53 L. T. N. S. 926; but see In re Bourgoise, 41 Ch. D. 310.

Where the High Court appoints a guardian of the person and estate of a minor, it usually requires the guardian to give security. And if a guardian has been appointed by a Surrogate Court, an inquiry is sometimes ordered as to whether the guardian so appointed has given sufficient security; and if he has not, then he is required to give additional security before he is empowered to receive moneys on account of the infant. Where, however, the fortune of the infant is trifling, and the fund is lodged in Court, the Court frequently dispenses with security being given by the guardian; and requires instead an affidavit to be filed by the guardian from time to time, showing the due application of moneys paid to him under the order of the Court. Security. Security when dispensed with.

Although the Court is in the habit of paying respect to the wishes and directions of a testator in reference to the guardianship, and care of his children, it will not do so, where it is clearly shewn, that a compliance therewith, would be prejudicial to the happiness, and moral training, of the infants: Anon, 6 Gr. 632; Re McQueen, McQueen v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 191. In appointment of guardian Court considers interest of infant.

So, where there was a contest between a step-father and an uncle, and the child preferred the former, the Court being satisfied that it was better for the infant that the uncle should be appointed, appointed him: Re Irwin, 16 Gr. 461. The Court may remove testamentary guardians, and trustees, for the same causes as other guardians: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 16.

Where the father is living, if it is proposed to appoint any other person guardian, the father must be notified of the application: Re Henricks, 2 Chy. Ch. 418.

It is improper to give a reversionary guardianship of wards in Court to the successors in office of any person named: Murphy v. Lamphier, 12 Gr. 241.

It is a contempt of Court to remove a ward of Court from the jurisdiction, without the sanction of the Court; and the Court will interfere on the application of his guardian to prevent his removal: Re Giltrie, 3 Gr. 279; but the Court, if it is for the interest of the ward, will authorize his removal out of the jurisdiction, upon the undertaking of a guardian resident within the jurisdiction to produce the ward to the Court if and when required: Re Callaghan, 28 Ch. D. 186; 52 L. T. N. S. 7. Removal of ward from jurisdiction a contempt.

A guardian appointed either by the Surrogate Court, or by the High Court, is entitled to receive, and can give, a valid discharge for a legacy due to his infant ward: Huggins v. Law, 14 Ont. App. 383; but he has no power to make Guardian cannot make valid lease without sanction of Court. The sanction of the Court should be obtained to all dispositions, whether by sale, or lease, of an infant's estate.

The infant to be produced to Judge or Master.

998. Upon all petitions for the sale of an infant's estate, the infant is to be produced before a Judge in Chambers, or before a Master. Chy. O. 531.

Production of infant when dispensed with. Where the infant is out of the jurisdiction, and not of an age making his consent to the proceedings essential, his production before the Master may, on application to a Judge, be ordered to be dispensed with: Re Lane, 9 P. R. 251; S. C. sub nom. Re Love, 18 C. L. J. 371.

But unless this order be obtained, the infant should in all cases be produced before the Master, even though he be under fourteen years.

Infant if over 14 years to be examined. Examination to be attached to petition.

999. When the infant is above the age of 14 years he is to be examined apart by the Judge or Master, upon the matter of the petition, as to his consent thereto; and his examination is to be stated to have been taken under this Rule, and is to be annexed to and filed with the petition. Chy. O. 532; J. A. Rule 587.

The sale is not to be ordered without the consent of the infant if he is of the age of fourteen years or upwards: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 4; but where there are several infants interested who are over fourteen years, it has been held that the consent of a majority of them is sufficient to authorize the Court to direct a sale, not merely of the shares of the infants who do consent, but also of those who have not consented Re Harding, 13 P. R. 112. In this case one of the infants interested, had disappeared and could not be found and her examination was dispensed with. Where an infant over fourteen was an imbecile, her examination and consent were dispensed with: Re Delanty, 13 P. R. 143.

The Judge or officer before whom the infant is examined, should take down his examination in writing, and also his consent, where the consent is necessary; and this should be signed by the infant, and the Judge or officer, and attached to the petition; Re Axford, 6 P. R. 192.

Where the infant is under fourteen, the Judge or officer should not only certify the fact, but should also state that the infant was produced before him.

Evidence should be given before the Judge or officer identifying the infant and proving his age: see Rule 1000.

Infants under 14 need not be examined.

1000. It shall not be necessary to examine any infant under 14 years of age, in support of a petition affecting such infant's estate, unless required by a Judge; but, unless otherwise ordered, it shall be sufficient for the officer before whom such infant shall be produced, to certify that he has been produced, and that he is under the age of 14 years. J. A. Rule 587.

Where the infants under fourteen were living with their mother out of the jurisdiction, and the mother swore that she was unable to produce them, owing to the expense, and the property was shown to be worth only $400, the production of the infants was dispensed with: Re Lane, 9 P. R. 251.

Rules 1001-1005.

1001. The witnesses to verify the petition are also to be produced before the Judge, or Master, and are to be examined viva voce as to the matter of the petition, and the depositions so taken are to be stated to have been taken under this Rule. Chy. O. 533.

Witnesses in support of petition to be examined before Judge or Master.

A subpœna may be issued under Rule 578 for the examination of witnesses in support of the application: Raymond v. Tapson, 23 Ch. D. 430; 48 L. T. N. S. 403; McMillan v. Wansborough, 10 P. R. 377.

1002. The Masters of the Supreme Court may examine infants and witnesses under the preceding Rule, without special order or reference. Chy. O. 534.

Masters authorized to take examination without special order.

There being this special provision as to the officers who may examine infants and witnesses, it is possible that Special Examiners are inferentially precluded from taking such examinations.

1003. Upon a petition so verified, the Court or Judge may either grant the relief prayed at once, or make such order as to further evidence, or otherwise, as the circumstances of the case require. Chy. O. 535.

Court may grant relief or require further evidence.

1004. No conveyance of the lands of infants is to be settled, until evidence is produced to the officer settling the same of the purchase money having been paid into Court, or of the payment thereof into Court having been dispensed with; and in cases where there is to be a mortgage for part of the purchase money, until evidence is given to the said officer of such mortgage having been registered and deposited with the Accountant. J. A. Rule 506.

Conveyances of infants' lands—evidence to be produced to officer settling.

This Rule applies not only to sales of infants' lands under Rule 992, et. seq., but to sales in actions or other proceedings in Court, in which infants are interested.

The proper evidence of the payment of the purchase money is the Accountant's certificate of its having been paid into Court; and where a mortgage is required to be given, the Accountant's certificate of its having been deposited with him is also necessary.

Where a purchaser makes default, the deposit and all other payments on account of purchase money are forfeited, when the sale is under the standing conditions of sale (Form No. 43), and the property may be ordered to be resold, and the defaulting purchaser ordered to pay any deficiency: Re Hornibrook, 12 P. R. 591.

5. Devolution of Estates.

1005. Before an executor or administrator takes proceedings under The Devolution of Estates Act, for the sale of real estate in which infants are concerned, he shall give to the Official Guardian or other officer charged with the duties referred to in the 8th section of the said Act notice

Notice to official guardian.

Application to Judge.

1006. The Official Guardian or other officer aforesaid, or any person interested in the real estate or in the proceeds of the sale thereof, may apply in a summary manner to a Judge in Chambers, upon notice to all parties concerned or to such persons as the Judge may direct for such direction or order touching the real estate and the proceeds thereof or the costs of the proceedings as to the Judge may seem meet.

6. Summary Inquiries into Fraudulent Conveyances.

Voluntary and Fraudulent Conveyances.

The principal enactments, under which creditors are enabled to reach property conveyed away by their debtors, are,

(1) The Statute 13 Eliz. c. 5, which made void as against creditors all transfers of lands or goods made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors and others; and even though for valuable consideration, unless taken bonâ fide and without notice or knowledge on the part of the purchaser: R. S. O. 1887, c. 96, s. 3.

(2) R. S. O. 1887, c. 124, which makes transfers made by persons in insolvent circumstances, and which defeat or prejudice creditors, void as against such creditors.

Under 13 Eliz. c. 5.

The Statute 13 Eliz. c. 5.—Under this Act the law infers that creditors are delayed, etc., by a voluntary conveyance made at a time when by reason of indebtedness the transferor by so dealing with his property renders himself unable to pay his creditors if required to do so: Freeman v. Pope, L. R. 9 Eq. 206; 5 Chy. 540; whether the conveyance is fraudulent or not: Irwin v. Freeman, 13 Gr. 465; Ferguson v. Kenny, 16 Ont. App. 276. But a valid voluntary settlement may be made by a settlor, indebted at the time, provided ample available assets are left out of the settlement to meet those debts, whether the debts are then actually payable or not: Freeman v. Pope, supra; Re Ridler, 22 Ch. D. 74; O'Doherty v. Ontario Bank, 32 C. P. 285.

A transaction by which a creditor is delayed is as much within the Statute as one which defeats him altogether: Martha v. McKenna, 14 Gr. 59.

A fraudulent intention is sufficient to avoid the transaction whether there were creditors existing at the time or not: see Merchants' Bank v. Clarke, 18 Gr. 594. In the case of voluntary conveyances, it matters not whether the volunteer had or had not notice of the fraud, but in the case of a purchaser for value, fraudulent intent on the part of the transferor alone will not avoid the transaction: Wood v. Irwin, 16 Gr. 398; Merchants' Bank v. Clarke, 18 Gr. 594; Re Johnson, 20 Ch. D. 394; Dalglish v. McCarthy, 19 Gr. 578; Allen v. McTavish, 8 Ont. App. 440.

A voluntary disposition of property, which, by reason of indebtedness at the time, is capable of being avoided by creditors, may be avoided by any subsequent creditor, who was such at the date of its execution, or who becomes such after that date, so long as any one of the original creditors is unpaid: Jenkyn v. Vaughan, 3 Drew. 419; Freeman v. Pope, supra; Middleton v. Pollock, 2 Ch. D. 108; Vinden v. Fraser, 28 Gr. 502; Collard v. Bennett, Ib., 556. Under circumstances also from which intent to delay, etc., may be presumed, a voluntary settlement may be void against subsequent creditors, where it would not be presumed fraudulent merely because of the settlor's embarrassed circumstances when he made it: see May on Fraudulent Conveyances, 2nd ed. 64. A conveyance which has the result of defeating creditors will not be presumed to have been executed with that intent, if from other circumstances the Court is satisfied that such was not the intent: Ex p. Mercer, Re Wise, 17 Q. B. D. 299. Rule 1007.

Where a deed is made for value the question is whether it was made bonâ fide and the burden of proof of this is upon those who seek to set the deed aside: Johnson, 51 L. J. Chy. 504.

Where none of the creditors were judgment and execution creditors and so might be entitled to attack a conveyance, as a fraudulent preference; it was held that in the absence of fraud they had no locus standi to set it aside under the Statute of Elizabeth: Building & Loan Ass. v. Palmer, 12 Ont. 1; and see Macdonald v. McCall, 9 Ont. 185; 12 Ont. App. 593; Real Estate L. Co. v. Yorkville & Vaughan Road Co., 9 Ont. 464.

A transaction by which property purchased by the debtor is conveyed to his wife or other person as his appointee so as to defeat creditors, is a device within the Statute and the husband is not a proper party to proceedings to set the transaction aside: Murdoch v. O'Sullivan, 25 Gr. 392.

So where land is sold by the debtor and with the proceeds other lands are purchased and conveyed to an appointee of the debtor, the consideration money may be followed into the lands conveyed to the appointee: Fleury v. Pringle, 26 Gr. 67.

As to the circumstances under which a man may validly expend money to make improvements upon lands of his wife, see Jackson v. Bowman, 14 Gr. 156; Davidson v. Macguire, 7 Ont. App. 98.

Delay in taking proceedings to avoid a conveyance under the Statute is no defence unless continued long enough to bar the legal right: Re Maddever, 27 Ch. D. 523.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 124.—Section 2 of this Act provides as follows:— Fraudulent Conveyances and Preferences by Insolvents.

2. Every gift, conveyance, assignment or transfer, delivery over or payment of goods, chattels or effects, or of bills, bonds, notes, securities, or of shares, dividends, premiums or bonus in any bank, company or corporation, or of any other property, real or personal, made by a person at a time when he is in insolvent circumstances, or is unable to pay his debts in full, or knows that he is on the eve of insolvency, with intent to defeat, delay, or prejudice his creditors, or to give to any one or more of them a preference over his creditors, or over any one or more of them, or which has such effect, shall, as against them, be utterly void. 48 V. c. 26, s. 2.

[Sec. 3 make exceptions of certain assignments for the general benefit of creditors and certain bonâ fide sales.] See Godfrey v. Poole, 13 App. Cas. 497, where it was said that a deed which contemplates the full payment of all creditors cannot be held to be void as intended to defeat or delay creditors.

Previously to this Act, it was held under R. S. O. 1877, c. 118, that in order to work a fraudulent preference there must be a concurrence of intent to do so on the part of both debtor and creditor: Burns v. Mackay, 10 Ont. 167; and the intent to prefer might be rebutted by shewing pressure exerted by the creditor by his demanding payment or security: Slater v. Oliver, 7 Ont. 158; Long v. Hancock, 12 S. C. R. 532; Re Boyd, 15 L. R. Ir. 321.

Under the present Act it was at first held that without regard at all to any question of bonâ fides, pressure, or knowledge of the debtor's affairs, a transaction of the kind mentioned in sec. 2, which has the effect of defeating, delaying, or prejudicing creditors, or of giving a preference, is void under the Act: River Stave Co. v. Sill, 12 Ont. 557; Rae v. McDonald, 13 Ont. 352; but the Court of Appeal has held that the words "or which has such effect" apply only to the second branch of sec. 2, dealing with the preference of one creditor over another, and do not apply to the first branch of the section; so that a gift, conveyance, etc., which has the effect of defeating, delaying, or prejudicing creditors cannot be avoided without proof of intent to do so unless it has also the effect of giving a preference to one creditor over others: Molsons Bank v. Halter, 16 Ont. App. 323.

Rule 1007. There seems to be no material difference between the expressions "in insolvent circumstances" and "unable to pay his debts in full": Dominion Bank v. Cowan, 14 Ont. 465.

A debtor is in insolvent circumstances if he is unable to meet the current demands of his creditors, and has not sufficient property subject to execution to pay all his debts if sold under legal process at a sale fairly and reasonably conducted: Warnock v. Kloepfer, 14 Ont. 288; Dominion Bank v. Cowan, Ib., 465; Clarkson v. Stirling, Ib., 460; Rae v. McDonald, 13 Ont. 352.

Where a favoured creditor to whom was transferred a promissory note for purchase money of debtor's business, parted with it to a bonâ fide holder for value, it was held that no relief could be given against the preferred creditor: Robertson v. Holland, 16 Ont. 532.

Where a creditor's solicitor, with consent of a debtor and knowledge of his insolvent circumstances, procured a third person to advance money to the debtor on security of a chattel mortgage on his stock in trade, without divulging anything as to the insolvent's circumstances or why the money was wanted, and out of the money the solicitor paid the creditor in full, it was held that the chattel mortgagee was protected by sec. 3 of the Act as being a person who had made a bonâ fide advance of money within that section: Gibbons v. Wilson, 17 Ont. 290; affirmed in the Court of Appeal, 14th Jan., 1890.

For instances in which transactions have been set aside: see Stoddard v. Wilson, 16 Ont. 17; Johnson v. Cline, Ib., 129.

A mortgage by any insolvent person on future acquired chattels, to secure repayment of the price of such chattels to the vendor thereof, is binding and not within the above Act: Goulding v. Deeming, 15 Ont. 201.

The Court or a Judge may at the instance of any judgment creditor call on the debtor and his grantee, etc., to show cause why lands conveyed by fraudulent grant should not be sold.

1007. Where a judgment creditor or a person entitled to money under a judgment or order, alleges that the debtor or person who is to pay has made a conveyance of his lands which is void, as being made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors or a creditor, it shall not be necessary to institute an action for the purpose of setting aside such conveyance, but [a motion may be made to] the Court or a Judge in Chambers by the judgment creditor, calling upon the judgment debtor or person who is to pay, and the persons to whom the conveyance has been made, or who have acquired any interest thereunder, to shew cause why the lands embraced therein, or a competent part thereof, should not be sold to realize the amount to be levied under the execution. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 10.

This Rule was first introduced into the law of Ontario by The Administration of Justice Act, 1873 (36 V. c. 8). It enables summary proceedings to taken be in an action in which a judgment has been obtained, to reach, by way of equitable execution, lands of the debtor fraudulently conveyed. Previously a suit in Chancery was necessary.

The Rule has reference only to transfers of land. The conveyances within its purview are such as are "void as being made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors, or a creditor"; in other words, such as come within the Statute 13 Eliz. c. 5, (which was directed against conveyances "to the end, purpose and intent to delay, hinder and defraud creditors and others, etc.," and which declared such conveyances to be, as against such creditors, "clearly and utterly frustrate, void and of none effect;") and probably also such as are void under R. S. O. 1887, c. 124, as to which see supra.

Rule 1008.

The Statute from which this Rule is taken enacted that, in the cases referred to, "the Court or a Judge in Chambers may upon the application of the judgment creditor call upon, etc." Under this language it was held that the proper practice was to obtain an order nisi calling upon the judgment debtor, etc., to shew cause: Wark v. Moulton, 7 P. R. 14. The present Rule would seem to have been differently expressed in order to shew that a motion is to be made, as in other cases, on notice, and not by way of an order nisi: see Rule 526.

Originally the motion was in Chancery required to be made to a Judge in Chambers: see Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Wark v. Moulton, supra; but in the Common Law Courts the Clerk of the Crown and Pleas has exercised jurisdiction: see Watts v. Hobson, 7 P. R. 334. Now it would seem that the Master in Chambers and other officers having like powers may entertain such applications: see note to Rule 30, p. 144.

The inchoate right of dower at law obtained by a wife in land conveyed to her husband formerly made her a proper party defendant to a suit to set the conveyance aside: McFarland v. McFarland, 9 P. R. 73; and therefore she would seem to be a proper party to be served with notice under this Rule.

Quære whether an order will be made for a sale at an earlier period than the plaintiff could have a sale if the Sheriff had been able to sell under a fi. fa. lands: see Porte v. Irwin, 8 P. R. 40. The practice in Chancery in setting aside a fraudulent conveyance by an execution debtor was never to accelerate the sale.

The Court or a Judge may call on a judgment debtor, etc., to show cause why his equitable interests should not be sold to pay execution.

1008. Where any judgment creditor in an action, or a person entitled under a judgment or order as aforesaid, alleges that the debtor or person to pay is entitled to or has an interest in any land which under the former practice could not be sold under legal process, but could be rendered available in an action for equitable execution by sale for satisfaction of the debt, the Court or a Judge in Chambers may, upon the application of the creditor, call upon the debtor or person who is to pay, and the trustee or other person having the legal estate in the land in question, to shew cause why the said land or the interest therein of the debtor or the person who is to pay, or a competent part of the said land, should not be sold to realize the amount to be levied under the execution. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 11.

In Wood v. Hurl, 28 Gr. 146, in consequence of the section from which this Rule is taken having been, with others, grouped under the heading in the statute "Summary Inquiries into Fraudulent Conveyances," and it was held that, equitable interest was not within the section unless it was in some way covered up by a fraudulent conveyance. The above heading has been carried into the Rules without alteration, but by reason of Rule 5 the heading is to be regarded as for convenience only and does not affect the construction of this Rule: Peters v. Stoness, 13 P. R. 235.

Any interest in land therefore which cannot be sold by the Sheriff may be ordered to be sold under this Rule: Ib. e.g., the interest which the debtor has under an agreement to purchase land: Ib.; Re Prittie & Crawford, 9 C. L. T. 45.

For what is saleable by the Sheriff see R. S. O. 1877, c. 64, ss. 21, 22, 25, and note to Rule 935, supra p.

The language of this Rule has, probably by an oversight, not been altered as was done in Rule 1007, so as to make it clear that the motion is to be made upon notice: see note to Rule 1007; it would seem, nevertheless, that an order nisi would not now be the proper mode of procedure in view of Rule 526.

Rules 1009-1010.

Proceedings after such application.

1009. Upon any application under either of the two preceding Rules, such proceedings shall be had, either in a summary way, or by the trial of an issue, or by inquiry before an officer of the Court, or by an action, or otherwise, as the Court or Judge may deem necessary or convenient for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the matters in question, and whether the lands of the debtor's or other person's interest therein are liable for the satisfaction of the execution; but if in a case in a County Court there is a dispute as to material facts, and the value of the land, or the debtor's or other person's interest therein, appears to be over $400, the Court or Judge shall direct the trial of an issue in the High Court, and may name the county in which the trial is to take place, subject to any order that the High Court or a Judge thereof may see fit to make in that behalf. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49. s. 12.

Cases in County Courts.

This Rule regulates the mode of inquiring into cases under either Rule 1007 or 1008.

The mode in which any question arising will be directed to be tried will be regulated by convenience in the particular case. An issue was directed to be tried in Merchants Bank v. Brooker, 8 P. R. 133; Ray v. Briggs, 13 C. L. J. 40; an inquiry by a Master in Peters v. Stoness, 13 P. R. 235. An order was made forthwith in Watts v. Hobson, 7 P. R. 334, no cause being shewn.

The order if made summarily, or the judgment on the trial of an issue, should probably be in the same form as a decree in the like case would formerly have been in Chancery: see note to Rule 1011.

Where an issue has been directed in a County Court case to be tried in the High Court under the last clause of the Rule, the High Court merely tries the issue and has no further jurisdiction in the matter; the final disposition of the matter, consequent upon the decision on the issue, takes place in the County Court in which the issue was directed: Merchants Bank v. Brooker, 8 P. R. 133.

Application to be made to the Judge of the County in which the lands are situate in County Court cases.

1010. In County Court cases the application under Rules 1007 and 1008 shall be made to the County Court, or to a Judge of a County Court, of the County or Union of Counties in which the lands to which the application relates are situate, unless the said Court or Judge upon the hearing of the application deems it more convenient and more conducive to the ends of justice to order, and orders, that the proceedings be had and taken in the Court or before a Judge of the Court, from which the execution issued; in which case the Clerk of the County Court of the County in which the land lies shall transmit the papers filed with him, together with the order of transference, to the Clerk of the County Court from which the execution issued. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 13.

Rules. 1011-1013.

1011. Where in a summary way or, upon the trial of an issue, or as the result of any inquiries under the four preceding Rules, any land, or the interest of any debtor or other person therein, is found liable to be sold, an order shall be made by the Court or Judge, declaring what land or what interest therein is liable to be sold [and directing sale thereof by the Master according to the usual practice.] R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 14.

If lands or interest of debtor found liable to sale, an order to be made specifying the same.

Instead of the words in brackets the original section had the words "and such order shall be a sufficient warrant to the proper sheriff or other officer to proceed with the sale of the said land and interest."

The original language of the Rule does not seem to have been adequate to enable the equitable interest to be properly dealt with, as it would have been in Chancery, so that the interests of all persons concerned might be protected, incumbrancers, etc., removed, and purchasers enabled, to ascertain and purchase the interest at its real value.

The substituted words in the present Rule would seem to make it proper that the order pronounced should be in the same form as the decree in the like case would formerly have been in Chancery.

1012. Any notice of motion for an order under Rules 1007, 1008, or 1010, may contain a description of the land in question, and upon filing the same with the proper officer, signed by the solicitor of the applicant a certificate of lis pendens may be issued for registration, and in case the said motion is refused in whole or in part, a certificate for registration of the order may be issued. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 16.

Lis pendens may be registered.

7. Quieting Titles.

1013. Under "The Quieting Titles Act" the petition for an investigation of title is not to include two or more properties dependent on separate and distinct titles; but may include any number of lots or parcels belonging to the same person, and dependent on one and the same chain of title. Chy. O. 492.

Two or more properties held by separate titles not to be included in the same petition.

The Act referred to in this Rule is The Quieting Titles Act, (R. S. O. c. 113.)

Where the provisions of this Rule are violated, the Referee may refuse to proceed with the investigation of the title. This may lead to delay and expense, as the objection can only appear before the Referee, after the proceedings necessary to show the title have been taken. The object of the Rule is to prevent the proceedings becoming unnecessarily intricate.

Who May File Petition.—Any owner of an estate in fee simple in land, or any trustee for the sale of the fee simple, may file a petition without leave: R. S. O. c. 113, s. 2. Any other person who has any estate, or interest, legal, or equitable, in or out of land in Ontario, may also file a petition: Ib. s. 3; but under Rule 1014, post, the petition in the latter case, must first receive the sanction of a Judge before it can be referred to a Referee for investigation. A vendor before conveyance, is within sect. 3, and his petition will not be enter-

Rule 1013. tained without the consent of his vendor: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; and a petitioner who is only tenant in fee in remainder must first obtain the consent of the tenant for life to the filing of the petition: Re Pelten, 8 P. R. 470.

Not necessary that petitioner should be in possession.

Formerly it was necessary that the petitioner should be in possession by himself, or tenant: Re Bell, 3 Chy. Ch. 239; Re Mulholland, 18 Gr. 528; Re Mono, 6 P. R. 150; but that is no longer necessary; and a petitioner, who is out of possession, may, on obtaining a certificate of title, obtain on petition an order for the delivery of possession to him of the land in question, which may be enforced by the same process, as a judgment for the recovery of land: see R. S. O. 113, s. 43; Re McDonald, before Boyd, C., 16th May, 1881.

A petition may be filed by a devisee claiming under a will where the property intended to be devised has been erroneously described: Re Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357; Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474; but a grantee cannot by this means rectify an erroneous description in a deed under which he claims: Ib. As to cases in which property intended to be devised, may pass under a will, notwithstanding a misdescription of it in the will: see Re Shaver, 6 Ont. 312; Hickey v. Stover, 11 Ont. 106; Young v. Purvis, 11 Ont. 597; Summers v. Summers, 5 Ont. 110; Wright v. Collins, 16 Ont. 182.

Filing a petition will not save the rights of a contestant otherwise barred by Statute of Limitations.

Effect of Filing Petition.—The filing of a petition is not such a proceeding as will save the rights of a party contestant, otherwise barred by the Statute of Limitations: Laing v. Avery, 14 Gr. 33; nor, it would seem, will it have the effect of stopping the running of the Statute in favour of a contestant in adverse possession, until such contestant is notified, or has filed a claim, or otherwise become a party to the proceedings, nor even then, unless the petitioner ultimately obtain a certificate of title. Where a contestant claiming title under a tax sale, was barred, but the petition was also ultimately dismissed, it was held that the filing of the petition and the proceedings had on the claim of the contestant, were not an effectual questioning of the latter's title, so as preclude him from the benefit of the Act, 37 Vict., c. 15 (O), curing the defect in the tax sale, under which he claimed, if not questioned within two years: McNab v. Peer, 32 C. P. 545.

Description of land in petition.

Description of Land.—The description of the land in the heading of the petition should be sufficient to enable the land in question to be identified, but usually it is unnecessary to set out in it the metes and bounds. The description of the lands in the body of the petition, should be given in the form in which the petitioner desires the land to be described in the certificate of title. Where there is any plan of the property registered, the description of the land in the petition must be in accordance with the plan: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475; R. S. O. c. 114, s. 84, s-s. 2; and where pending the petition, the land was laid out into building lots according to a registered plan, the description was required to be amended according to the registered plan: Ib.

Referee may insert more specific description of land in the notices to be served or published.

Where the description of the land in the heading of the petition, appears to the Referee of Titles, not to be sufficiently explicit, he should require a sufficient and proper description to be inserted in all notices by him directed to be published, or served; and where it appears that there is no sufficiently definite description of the lands contained in either the heading, or the body of the petition, or that the description given is misleading, the Referee may require the petition to be amended in that respect, before proceeding with the investigation. The petition, if amended in this respect, would also require to be re-registered, if it had been previously registered: see R. S. O. c. 113, s. 6.

Estate claimed must be correctly stated in petition.

Estate, or Interest, Claimed.—The estate, or interest, claimed by the petitioner, should also be accurately stated in the petition, and also the estates and interests of all other persons in the land, which are intended to be admitted by the petitioner, otherwise the petitioner may be ordered to pay the costs of such other persons who may come in to prove claims, not admitted in the petition.

Form of petition.

Form of Petition.—The form of petition given in the Schedule to the Act, R. S. O. p. 1037, should be followed as nearly as may be. It is neither necessary, nor desirable, to set out in detail, in the petition, the facts and circumstances affecting the title; but whenever it is necessary, a concise statement of such facts as are necessary to make out the title, and which do not appear in the produced documents, is to be delivered to the Referee, with the other documents required to be furnished under R. S. O. c. 113, s. 7, s-s. 4. Rule 1013. Statement of facts.

Filing the Petition.—Under R. S. O. c. 113, s. 5, the application is required to be made to the High Court or a Judge thereof. Where the petition is filed in the Chancery Division, it must be filed with the Clerk of Records and Writs. If filed in any other Division, it should be filed with the Registrar of the Division. All proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act have thus far been taken exclusively in the Chancery Division. Filing petition.

Where the investigation of title is to be proceeded with before a Local Referee, the petition before being filed, must be entered with the Inspector of Titles at Toronto: see Rule 1019.

Registering Petition.—Upon filing a petition under the Act, the officer with whom it is filed is to issue a certificate of its filing: see form R. S. O., p. 1078; which is to be registered in the Registry Office of the Registration Division, in which the lands in question are situate: R. S. O. c. 113, s. 6. This certificate need not be registered immediately on the petition being filed, but its registration may be deferred until it is sure whether the certificate of title will be granted. Registration of petitions in Registry Office.

Proofs Required on Investigation of Titles.—The following are the papers which it is necessary to deliver to the Referee of Titles, to whom the petition is referred, in all ordinary cases, and the proofs 1 to 15 should be delivered at one time, not piece-meal.

1. The affidavit of the petitioner, under the 8th section of The Quieting Titles Act. If the affidavit is not made by the petitioner, some valid reason should be given why it is not: Re Rundell, 4 Chy. Ch. 71. (For form, see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 1029.) The schedule of documents must be marked, as an exhibit, by the commissioner before whom the affidavit is sworn: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352. Affidavit of petitioner.

N.B.—None of the affidavits in support of the petition should be sworn until the petition has been filed.

2. The certificate of counsel, or solicitor, under the 9th section of The Quieting Titles Act. This certificate should not be dated prior to the swearing of the petitioner's affidavit to which it relates. The certificate should follow the language of section 9. A certificate of counsel that he had corresponded with the petitioner was held insufficient: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352. Certificate of counsel.

3. The County Registrar's certificate of all registrations upon the land in question, up to, and including, the date of filing of the petition: Re Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348. It is advisable that no further registrations should be made upon the lot by the petitioner pending the investigation. If any transfer by way of mortgage, or otherwise, be made by the petitioner pending the investigation, the Referee of Titles should be immediately notified thereof: see Re Cummings, 8 P. R. 473; Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475. County Registrar's certificate.

When there are a great many registrations recorded against the lot, but not affecting the particular parcel in question, and the Registrar cannot certify those that do affect the land in question without including in his certificate those that do not, his certificate may be dispensed with, on production of a proper affidavit of search by a Provincial Land Surveyor; Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475.

The abstract will have to be subsequently continued to the date of the certificate of title: Re Cummings, 8 P. R. 473; and showing the registration of the certificate of filing the petition: R. S. O. c. 113, s. 6, s-s. 2.

4. All deeds and evidences of title in the petitioner's possession or power: see R. S. O. c. 113, s. 7, s-s. 1. Deeds.

5. If the petitioner cannot produce all the deeds relating to the land, under which he derives title, he must procure and produce:—

(a) Certified copies of all registered instruments affecting the title, of which the originals are not produced, including discharged mortgages, and certified copies of all certificates of discharge of mortgages, and of the affidavits of execution thereof.

LAW LIBRARY

Rule 1013. A certificate of discharge of mortgage has not the effect of reconveying the estate until it is registered: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475.

Affidavits of search for lost deeds.

(b) Affidavits of diligent search for the originals of all deeds to which the certified copies of memorials relate (where the memorials are not made sufficient evidence by R. S. O. c. 112, s. 1, s-s. 2, 3), and all other deeds relating to the title which are not produced.

Proof of contents where memorials not sufficient evidence.

(c) Proof of contents of the non-produced deeds, where the memorials are not sufficient evidence thereof. Those of which there are memorials in the short form in use before the Registry Act of 1865, should be shewn to have contained no trust, limitation, condition, exception, or qualification, not mentioned in the memorial, unless such memorials are under R. S. O. c. 112, sufficient evidence of the contents of the deeds to which they relate.

Proof of bar of dower.

6. If there is no release of dower by the wife of a former owner, shew that he was unmarried when he conveyed, or that his wife is dead, or that her dower is barred, or that the land is not subject to her dower: see R. S. O. c. 133, s. 3, otherwise the certificate of title must be subject to her dower.

Affidavits as to possession.

7. Affidavits are required, shewing that possession has always accompanied the title under which the petitioner claims: see Rule 1023. Also affidavits shewing who is, at the time of making such affidavits, in occupation, and under what title, or claim of title. These affidavits should shew how the possession has been held, and should be made by disinterested persons: see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 1035. See further as to evidence of possession requisite: Rule 1023, note.

8. Consent of the person in actual possession, (wherever any person other than petitioner is in occupation), duly verified by affidavit. For form of consent see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 1037.

Consents required.

9. Consent of any mortgagee, or person entitled, to any outstanding charge, or estate, duly verified by affidavit. For form of consent see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 1037; and see Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50.

N.B.—The consents mentioned in clauses 8 and 9 must be produced even though the petitioner admit that his title is subject to the right of such tenant, mortgagee, etc. In some cases the consent must be produced before the petition will be referred for examination: e.g., where the petitioner is a purchaser who has not obtained his conveyance, the consent must be produced: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; or where he is tenant in remainder expectant on a life estate, the consent of the tenant for life must be filed: Re Pellen, 8 P. R. 470.

Sheriff's certificate as to executions.

10. Sheriff's certificate that the property is not affected by any execution, sale under execution, or tax sale. (For form, see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 1033, omitting word "in" in second line.) This certificate should include the names of all persons who have owned the land at any time since 1863: see Re Harding, 3 Chy. Ch. 232; Re Rundel, 4 Chy. Ch. 71; Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357.

County Treasurer's certificate as to taxes.

11. County Treasurer's certificate that there are no taxes in arrear, and that there has been no sale for taxes, and that the roll of taxes in arrear has been returned to him. For form, see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 1032. Proof must be given of payment of all taxes, except those for the year in which the certificate issues. If the certificate first produced does not cover all such taxes, an additional certificate will be required: see Re Harding, 3 Chy. Ch. 232; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352.

N.B.—Certificates of title are always granted subject to the taxes for the current year in which the certificate bears date: see R. S. O. 113, ss. 12, 26, 27. Whenever the roll of taxes in arrear for the preceding year has not been returned to the County Treasurer, his certificate must be supplemented by the collector's, or township treasurer's, receipt for that year: see R. S. O. 193, s. 148.

Statement of facts.

12. A concise statement of any other facts necessary to make out the title; and affidavits or other evidence to prove the same: R. S. O., c. 113, s. 7, s-s. 4, 5.

YORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

N.B.—All affidavits to prove facts material to the petitioner's title, should, as far as possible, be made by disinterested persons: Ex parte Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. Rules 1014, 1015.

13. Schedule of the particulars so produced to be marked as an exhibit to the petitioner's affidavit: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352; R. S. O. c. 113, s. 4, s-s. 1. Schedule of particulars.

Crown bonds registered in the Queen's Bench office no longer bind lands unless also registered in the Registry office: see R. S. O. c. 94, s. 3: Re Franklin, 8 P. R. 470, 51 Vict. c. 36 (D).

The Referee's certificate, allowing or disallowing the claim of any contestant, requires confirmation in the same manner as a Master's report made in an action.

Affidavits proving the publication, and posting of the advertisement required under The Quieting Title Act, s. 14, should shew that the deponent has examined issues of the papers in which the advertisement has been published; and also that the notices have remained posted at the Court House, and Post Office, continuously for one month: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352; Re Hill, Ib. 348. For forms of affidavits, see Taylor on Titles, 2nd ed., pp. 200, 201. Affidavits of publication of advertisement.

1014. Where an application is made under section 2 of the said Act, the Clerk of Records and Writs is to attend one of the Judges with the petition for directions, before the same is referred for investigation. Chy. O. 493. Petitions to be referred to Judge in certain cases before being referred for investigation.

The section of the Act referred to in this Rule includes all applications except those by owners in fee-simple, or trustees for the sale of the fee-simple.

Where the petitioner has merely a partial interest, the Court usually requires the consent of the other persons interested in the estate, to be filed, before authorizing the petition to be referred for investigation. Thus, where a purchaser before conveyance filed a petition, the consent of his vendor was required: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; and where the petitioner was a tenant in remainder, the consent of the tenant of the particular estate was required: Re Pelten, 8 P. R. 470. Where petitioner has only a partial interest, consent of other parties interested required.

The consent duly verified by affidavit should be attached to the petition, when brought to be filed.

1015. A petition under the Act may, at the option of the petitioner, be referred to any of the officers of the Court at Toronto, or to any conveyancing Counsel, who may from time to time be designated by the Court for the purpose; or to any of the following Local Masters, viz., the Masters at Barrie, Belleville, Berlin, Brampton, Brantford, Brockville, Chatham, Cobourg, Cornwall, Goderich, Guelph, Hamilton, Kingston, Lindsay, London, Ottawa, Owen Sound, Perth, Peterborough, Sandwich, Sarnia, Simcoe, Stratford, St. Catherines, Walkerton, Whitby, and Woodstock; or to any other of the Local Masters who shall hereafter be designated. Chy. O. 494. Petition to whom to be referred.

Only the Local Masters of the Supreme Court for Ontario, at the places above named, are ex officio Referees of Titles. Those Local Masters holding office at other places are not entitled to exercise the duties of the Referee Titles unless specially empowered so to do. Local Master not ex officio Referee of Titles.

Where the petitioner desires to have the petition referred to any Local Master as Referee of Titles, he must designate the officer to whom he desires the reference, by indorsement on the petition: see Rule 1017. If there be no such indorsement the petition will be referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto: Rule 1018.

Registrar to be Inspector.

1016. The Registrar of the Chancery Division is, until further order, to be the sole Inspector of Titles, in respect of petitions filed under The Quieting Titles Act, and sole Referee of any petitions, the proceedings under which are to be conducted in Toronto. Chy. O. 633.

The Inspector of Titles supervises the work of all Local Referees of Titles, and as Referee of Titles at Toronto he investigates titles referred to him for investigation: see Rule 492, et seq.

The fees payable to the Inspector of Titles are regulated by Rule 1036.

Inspector of Titles to be appointed.

1017. To facilitate the proceedings in cases referred to the Local Masters, one or more Inspectors of Titles will be named by the Court, for the purposes, and with the powers mentioned in and provided for by the 23rd and 24th sections of the said Act; and on the petition are to be indorsed the names of the Inspector, or one of the Inspectors, as the case may be, and of the Local Master, thus: "To be referred to the Master at , and to Mr. , Inspector of Titles." Chy. O. 495.

Indorsement on petition.

At present there is only one Inspector of Titles, and this officer is also the sole Referee of Titles at Toronto: see Rule 1016.

If there be no indorsement of the name of a Local Master, the petition is to be referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto: Rule 1018.

Only a Local Master who is also a Referee of Titles can be named in the indorsement. As to the Masters who may be named, see Rule 1015.

Where the petition is required to be referred to a Local Master as Referee, it must, before being filed, be entered with the Inspector of Titles, and a fee of $8 in stamps must be paid thereon: see Rules 1019, 1036.

Petitions, when to be referred to Toronto Referee.

1018. Petitions filed unindorsed with the name of a Referee, are to be referred to the Referee in Toronto, or to one of the Referees in Toronto (if more than one), in rotation or otherwise as the Court or a Judge from time to time directs; but a petition indorsed with the name of any Referee is to be referred to him accordingly, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs. Chy. O. 496.

At present there is only one Referee at Toronto: see Rule 1016.

Petitions to be referred to Local Referees to be first entered with Inspector.

1019. Where the petitioner desires the reference to a Local Master, the petition is to be entered with the Inspector of Titles before being filed as required by the Statute, and the Inspector is to note thereon the day of entering the same, adding to such note his own initials, and is thereupon to deliver the petition to the solicitor, or, if duly stamped, to the Registrar, to be filed. Chy. O. 497. Rules 1020-1023.

The word "Registrar" in this Rule, appears to be a mistake; the "Clerk of Records and Writs," is the officer with whom the petition is filed in the Chancery Division: see Rules 23, 1021.

1020. The Local Master shall be entitled to confer or correspond from time to time with the Inspector of Titles, for advice and assistance on questions of practice or evidence, or other questions arising under the Act or under these Rules. Chy. O. 498. Local Masters may confer with Inspector.

This Rule is defectively printed in the official copy of the Rules. The above is its proper reading.

1021. The Clerk of Records and Writs is to deliver to the party filing a petition under the Act, a certificate of the filing thereof, for registration in the proper County; and thereupon the petition is forthwith to be referred and delivered or posted by the Clerk of Records and Writs to the Referee named for that purpose. Chy. O. 499. Certificate of filing of petition to be registered.

The form of the certificate referred to in this Rule is given in R. S. O. p. 1038. The certificate is required to be registered in the proper registry office: see R. S. O. c. 113, s. 6.

The originals, or certified copies, of all instruments, registered prior to this certificate are required to be produced to the Referee: see Ib. s. 7, s.-ss. 1, 2.

1022. The particulars necessary, under section 7 of the Act, to support the petition are to be delivered or sent by the petitioner, or his solicitor, to the Referee, and are to be forthwith examined and considered by him. Chy. O. 500. Papers in support of application to be delivered to Referee and examined by him.

See further as to proof required, Rule 1013 note.

On delivering the papers to the Referee a fee of fifty cents is to be paid on each deed in the chain of title, other than satisfied mortgages; and ten cents on each paper filed: see Tariff. Fees payable.

Where the reference is to the Referee at Toronto the additional fee of $4 on the certificate of title is also payable: Ib.; but this fee is not payable where the reference is to a Local Master as Referee: see Rule 1036.

1023. In every case of an investigation of the title to property under the said Act, the petitioner is to shew, by affidavit or otherwise, whether possession has always accompanied the title under which he claims the property, or how otherwise, or is to shew some sufficient reason for dispensing with such proof either wholly or in part. Chy. O. 501. Evidence required as to possession.

The question of possession is always a very important one, and it is necessary that the affidavits should shew how the possession has been held, e.g.: whether by residence, or by cultivation, and by whom, if by tenants, giving their names and the periods during which they occupied. Proof as to possession is indispensable: Re Wright, 2 Chy. Ch. 355. Possession, evidence as to.

YORK UNIVERSITY L...

Rules 1024, 1025.

Petitioner originally entering as a trespasser.

Where the petitioner is a mere trespasser claiming to have acquired title by possession, the evidence as to possession must be very clear and conclusive, and it must be shewn to have actually extended to the whole of the land claimed. The actual possession of some part of a lot, or parcel, of land by a mere trespasser, will be insufficient to confer a title by possession, as to any other part of which there has been no actual possession, even though the lot be a wild lot: Harris v. Mudie, 7 Ont. App. 414. In order to confer a title under the Statute of Limitations there must be an actual and visible possession, mere payment of taxes on a vacant lot confers no title: Re Jarvis v. Cooke, 29 Gr. 303; Walton v. The Woodstock Gas Co., 1 Ont. 630; but see Steers v. Shaw, 1 Ont. 26.

Possession of part is not constructive possession of rest of lot.

In order to defeat a rightful owner's title, by adverse possession, the possession must have been continuous for the required number of years; whenever the possession is vacant the rightful owner is in possession in contemplation of law: see Trustees Agency Co. v. Short, 13 App. Cas. 793.

Evidence where title claimed solely by possession.

Where the petitioner claims title by possession, he should prove the possession for the requisite time, by the clear and positive evidence, of at least two independent witnesses. In such a case a notice, prepared by the Referee, should be served upon the person having the paper title, if he can be found, but if not, evidence of search for him and his representatives should be put in, and in such a case the possession should be shewn to have been long enough to bar him, even though he had no notice of the possession: Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50; Ex parte Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. Where the petitioner claims title as against the patentee, or his heirs, or assigns, of land of which they have not taken actual possession by residing on, or cultivating some portion thereof, he must shew either knowledge of his possession by the patentee, or his heirs or assigns, or else establish a possession for at least twenty years: R. S. O. c. 111, s. 5, s.-s. 4; Re Linet, 3 Chy. Ch. 230; Bingle v. Dake, 42 U. C. Q. B. 250; Van-Velsor v. Hughson, 45 U. C. Q. B. 252; proof of notice to the husband of the owner is sufficient: Harris v. Prentiss, 30 C. P. 484; S. C. in Appeal, 7 Ont. App. 414.

When actual possession of part may confer title to residue of lot.

It is not clear that it is necessary to establish so strict, and actual, a possession to all the land claimed, where the petitioner has been in possession under a claim of title which was originally defective. In such a case the doctrine of constructive possession might, and would probably, be held to apply even as against the owner of the paper title: see Dundas v. Johnston, 24 U. C. Q. B. 550; Davis v. Henderson, 29 U. C. Q. B. 344; per Burton, J., Harris v. Mudie, 7 Ont. App. p. 425; Steers v. Shaw, 1 Ont. 26.

A person who has been in possession under a fraudulent grantee, but who has not acquired any title as against the latter, cannot set up a title by possession as against a purchaser of the land, from the assignee in bankruptcy of the fraudulent grantor, effected after the fraudulent conveyance has been set aside in proceedings instituted against both the fraudulent grantor and grantee: Donovan v. Herbert, 4 Ont. 635.

Where there is no contest, attendance of petitioner's solicitor dispensed with.

1024. Where there is no contest, the attendance of the petitioner, or of any solicitor on his behalf, is not to be required on the examination of the title, except where, for any special reason, the Referee directs such attendance. Chy. O. 502.

Referee to deliver requisitions and objections.

1025. If, on such examination as aforesaid, the Referee finds the proof of title defective, he is to deliver or mail to the petitioner, or to his solicitor or agent, a memorandum of such finding, stating shortly therein what the defects are, and he is therein to state as far as possible all the objections to the title. Chy. O. 503.

1026. When the Referee finds that a good title is shewn, he is to prepare the necessary advertisement, and the same is to be published in the Official Gazette and in any other newspaper or newspapers in which the Referee thinks it proper to have the same inserted; and a copy of the advertisement is also to be put up on the door of the Court House of the County where the land lies, and, unless the nearest Post Office is in a city, in some conspicuous place in the Post Office which is situate nearest to the property, the title of which is under investigation; and the Referee is to indorse on the advertisement so prepared by him, the name of the newspaper or newspapers in which the same is to be published, and the number of insertions to be given therein respectively, and the period (not less than 4 weeks) for which the notice is to be continued at the Court House and Post Office respectively. Chy. O. 504.

Rule 1026. Advertisements to be published in Gazette and other newspapers. Notices to be posted at Court House and Post Office.

The notice is not to be published until the Referee finds that a good title is shewn.

The notice is, ordinarily, required to be published once in the Ontario Gazette, and at least once a week for two weeks in some local newspaper published in the county town, or other place near where the lands in question are situated; but in some cases it may be found advisable to publish the advertisement more frequently. At least a month should be given from the date of the publication of the first advertisement, for sending in claims.

IN THE MATTER OF

Notice is hereby given that A. B. of has made an application to the High Court of Justice for Ontario for a certificate of title to the above mentioned property under "The Quieting Titles Act," and has produced evidence whereby he appears to be the owner thereof in fee free from all incumbrances: [if any say] except [giving a short description of incumbrances to which the title is subject.]

Wherefore any other person having or pretending to have any title to or interest in the said land or any part thereof, is required on or before day, the day of , now next ensuing, to file a statement of claim, verified by affidavit, at my Chambers, in Osgoode Hall, in the City of Toronto, and to serve a copy on (name and address of petitioners solicitor) as solicitor for the said A. B., and in default every such claim will be barred, and the title of the said A. B. will become absolute and indefeasible at Law and in Equity, subject only to the reservations mentioned in the 26th section of the said Act.

Dated this day of 18

A note is made by the Referee at the foot, or indorsed, giving the necessary directions for publication, e.g.

To be inserted in the Ontario Gazette on the day of and in (stating the newspaper); and a copy to be affixed in a conspicuous place in the Court House of the County in which the land is situate and in the Post Office nearest the premises, for one month.

Rule 1027. The advertisement is principally intended for persons, if any, whose rights are not disclosed on the proceedings. Persons who are known to have any claim adverse to the petitioner, or persons who possibly may have some adverse claim, should generally be required to be served with notice of the proceedings: see R. S. O. c.113, ss. 16-21.

Notice how published.

Affidavits proving publication.

The notices required to be posted at the Court House, and Post Office, should be kept up continuously for the period directed, and the person intending to prove the posting up, should take care to see that such notices are kept up continuously for the requisite period · Re Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. For form of affidavits of posting, and of publication of advertisements: see Taylor on Titles, 2nd ed., pp. 200, 201.

Where the lands are situate in a city, posting of a notice at the Post Office is not required.

Where an advertisement was posted at the Court House nearest the lands, which was not the Court House of the County in which the lands were situate, the irregularity was waived by the Judge: Re Harris, 12 P. R. 430; and see R. S. O. c. 113, ss. 45, 46.

Notices required to be served.

1027. Any notice of the application to be served or mailed under section 16 of the Act, is to be prepared by the Referee; and directions are in like manner, to be given by him as to the persons to be served with the notice, and as to the mode of serving the same. Chy. O. 505.

The 16th section of the Act is as follows:—

Adverse claimant to be notified.

"16.—In case there appears to exist any claim adverse to, or inconsistent with, that of the petitioner to, or in respect of, any part of the land, the Judge shall direct such notice as he deems necessary to be mailed to, or served on, the adverse claimant, his agent or solicitor."

By section 23, the Referee of Titles, to whom any petition is referred, is to proceed as the Judge should do under the Act, had the reference not been made, and he is to have the same powers.

Notice should be required to be served on every person known to have a claim adverse to the petitioner, whether the claim be admitted by the petitioner or not, unless the consent of such person be filed, duly verified, consenting to a certificate of title being granted to the petitioner, free from, or subject to, the claim, if any, of such consenting party, and, if subject to his claim, setting forth with clearness what his claim is. The notice to be served should contain explicit information why it is served: Ex parte Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348.

Notice is also often required to be served for the sake of precaution, thus, where an application was made before The Devolution of Estates Act by devisees within a year of the death of their testator, notice was required to be served on the heirs-at-law, as the petition was, in effect, a proceeding to establish the will: Ex parte Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; and see Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80.

When title claimed by possession, owner of paper title to be served.

When title is claimed by possession, notice should ordinarily be served upon the persons who, but for such possession, would be the owners: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. So also where the petitioner claimed the north-east part of a lot under a will devising the north-west part alleging that the word "west" was a clerical error, all persons interested in maintaining the opposite view were required to be notified: Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357.

Where a petitioner claims title under a will in which the land has been misdescribed, his title may be quieted in any case in which the Court would in an action for the construction of the will determine that the land in question passed by the will as claimed by the petitioner, notwithstanding the erroneous description: see Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474; Re Shaver, 6 Ont. 312; but where the defect is in a deed inter partes the petitioner must bring an action to reform the deed, he cannot get the defect cured under The Quieting Titles Act: see Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474. Rule 1027.

Parol evidence was held to be admissible to show that "Lot 16, Con. 7, N. H." in a will meant "North half of Lot 16, 7th Concession, Township of Morris": Young v. Purvis, 11 Ont. 597; but where a description in a will is free from any patent ambiguity it would seem that parol evidence is inadmissible to show that it means anything else than what is expressed: Summers v. Summers, 5 Ont. 110; Hickey v. Stover, 11 Ont. 106. But where there is a general devise of all the testator's land, followed by a particular erroneous description, the latter may be rejected: Wright v. Collins, 16 Ont. 182.

Petitioner may be required to give negative evidence.

Proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act being for the most part ex parte, it is often necessary to require the petitioner to negative the existence of facts, of which, in the case of a contest between the petitioner and any third person, the onus of proving would be on such third party: Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50.

Or explain circumstances creating suspicion.

Where any transfer of the property has taken place, under circumstances of an unusual nature, it is necessary to require the petitioner to adduce evidence to negative the existence of any fraud, or want of bonâ fides: Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80. Where, for instance, the property is claimed by, or on behalf of, a wife, under a conveyance made to her during coverture, an explanation of the transaction should be given on oath to show that it was bonâ fide, and was such, that the husband's creditors could have no claim to the property, and the affidavit of the petitioner should be corroborated by disinterested persons of credibility: Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357. So where the former owner, a person of the same name as the petitioner, had conveyed the land to the petitioner a few days before the filing of the petition, and the title appeared simple, explanations were required to be given: Re Wright, 2 Chy. Ch. 355.

And, in addition, notice must also be required to be served on persons who may appear to have a possible interest in disputing the bona fides of any conveyance under which the petitioner claims, wherever there are any circumstances calculated to arouse suspicion: Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80.

Service of notices, how effected.

Notices required by the Referee, to be served, are to be prepared and issued by him. Where service is directed to be effected by mailing, the Referee may direct the letter enclosing the notice, to be prepaid and registered, and a notice to be indorsed on the envelope to the effect that if the letter be not called for within eight days that it is to be returned to the Referee of Titles, by whom the notice is issued. Directions to return letters, if not called for, are required by the Post Office authorities, to be printed, in order to secure due attention.

Where a notice, served in this way, is returned to the Referee of Titles, he should require further service. Where service is authorised on the attorney, solicitor, or agent of the party to be notified, there should be evidence produced that the person served was in fact the solicitor, attorney, or agent of the party required to be notified.

Proof of service.

Strict proof is required to be given of the due service of all notices required to be served. The entries of service in a deceased solicitor's docket were held insufficient proof: Ex parte Palmer, 2 Chy. Ch. 351. When a certificate was granted on a false affidavit of the due service of a notice, the certificate was set aside on the application of the party directed to be notified, with costs; the Court refusing to enter into the question whether he was properly entitled to notice or not: Re Ashford, 3 Chy. Ch. 77.

Adjudication on claim of contestant.

Where there is a contest, the Referee may, by consent, report on the contestants' claim before disposing of the petitioner's title; but he should not do so, without consent. In general, the petitioner is bound, in the first place, to make out his own title before he can claim to have an adjudication upon the claim of a contestant: Re Cameron, 14 Gr. 612. And a contestant is at liberty to point out defects in the petitioner's title, before proceeding to prove his own: Armour v. Smith, 16 Gr. 380.

Referee may award costs.

The Referee of Titles may award costs to, or against, a petitioner, or contestant: R. S. O. c. 113, ss. 21, 23; Rules 1170, 1178; Anon, 2 Chy. Ch. 22. When a petitioner claims title by possession and the holder of the paper title on being notified appears and contests the matter, costs will not be awarded against him as a matter of course, even though the petitioner succeed in establishing his title: Low v. Morrison, 14 Gr. 192.

Form of report.

The order, or certificate of the Referee should be drawn up in similar terms to a report—e.g., "I find and certify," and not "adjudge and determine": Anon, 2 Chy. Ch. 22.

When title made out before Local Referee, he is to certify same and forward papers to Inspector

1029. When any person has shown himself, in the opinion of a Local Master, to be entitled to a certificate or conveyance under the Act, and has published and given all the notices required, the Master is to write at the foot of the petition, and sign, a memorandum to the following effect: "I am of opinion that the petitioner is entitled to a certificate of title (or conveyance) as prayed" (or subject to the following incumbrances, etc., as the case may be); and is to transmit the petition (if by mail, the postage being prepaid,) with the deeds, evidence, and other papers before him in reference thereto, to the Inspector of Titles with whom the petition was entered; and the Inspector is to examine the same carefully, and should he find any defect in the evidence of title, or in the proceedings, he is, by correspondence or otherwise, to point the same out to the petitioner, or his solicitor, or to the Master, as the case may be, in order that the defect may be remedied before a Judge is attended with the petition and papers for approval. Chy. O. 507. Rule 1030.

Finding of Local Referee not conclusive.

It will be seen from this Rule that the finding of a Local Referee of Titles is not conclusive, but that it is the duty of the Inspector of Titles to examine the proceedings, and to require any defects in the proofs to be supplied. When the Inspector finds the proceedings defective, he either transmits the papers to the Referee, with a note of the defects, or, where they are few, and of trifling character, he communicates directly with the solicitor of the petitioner.

Where there has been any contest before a Referee of Titles, he should before certifying in favour of the petitioner, and transmitting the papers to the Inspector, dispose of the claim of the contestant. The order or report of the Referee on the claim of a contestant should be filed and confirmed, in the same manner as a Master's report in an action, before a certificate of title is granted to the petitioner: Rules 84, 848.

Appeal from Inspector, or Referee of Titles.

An appeal will lie from the order, report, or certificate, of a Referee of Titles, or Inspector of Titles, to a Judge in Court in the same manner as an appeal from a report made in an action: Rule 1035; seven clear days' notice of appeal must be given to the respondent: see Rules 1035, 848-850.

A contestant who succeeds in establishing an adverse claim, cannot obtain a certificate of title in the proceedings in which he is contestant, but he may himself file a petition, and on such petition, he would be entitled to use the evidence taken in the matter in which he was contestant: Re Dunham, 8 P. R. 472.

When title is made out to satisfaction of Inspector or Toronto Referee, he is to certify same: and to prepare certificate of Title.

Certificate to be engrossed in duplicate.

1030. When the Inspector, or other Referee (not being a Local Master,) finds that the petitioner has shewn himself entitled to a certificate of title, or a conveyance under the Act, and has published and given all the notices required, the Inspector, or Referee, (not being a Local Master,) is to write at the foot of the petition, and sign a memorandum to the same effect as is required from a Local Master, and is to prepare the certificate of title, or conveyance, and is to engross the same in duplicate, one being on parchment or parchment paper; and is to sign the same respectively at the foot or in the margin thereof; and is to attend one of the Judges therewith, and with the deeds, evidence, and other papers before him in reference thereto; and on the certificate or conveyance being signed by the Judge, the Inspector or other Referee aforesaid, as the case may be, is to procure the same to be signed by the Registrar, and registered; and the Clerk of Records and Writs is to deliver or transmit the same when so signed or registered, to the petitioner, his solicitor, or agent, for registration in the proper County. Chy. O. 508.

Signed by Judge, Inspector, or Toronto Referee and Registrar.

Certificate of Title, by whom prepared.

A Local Referee to whom a petition is referred, is not to prepare the certificate of title.

The Inspector of Titles—or the Referee of Titles, at Toronto, where the petition is referred to him—are the only officers authorized to prepare certificates of title, issued under the Act.

YORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

Rules 1031-1034.

Engrossment of certificate.

This Rule requires the certificate to be engrossed by the officer preparing it; the object of the Rule being, to insure the certificates being engrossed in a proper manner; but for sometime past, the practice has been for the petitioner, or his solicitor, to procure the engrossments to be made on printed headings, supplied for the purpose by the law stationers.

The engrossment should be well and carefully made, without using figures or abbreviations, as the Judges refuse to sign certificates engrossed in a careless and slovenly manner.

Fees on.

Where the petition is referred to a Local Referee, no fee is payable on the certificate of title, except the fees for entry; the fee of $8, payable to the Inspector, being in full of all fees: Rule 1036. Where the petition is referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto, a fee of $4 is payable on the certificate of title, in addition to the fees for entry: see Tariff.

After certificate of title granted, Title Deeds may be delivered up without order on receipt being given.

1031. When a certificate of title or conveyance under the Act has been granted, the Inspector or Referee may, without further order, deliver, on demand, to the party entitled thereto, or his solicitor, all deeds and other evidences of title, not including affidavits made, and evidence given in the matter of the title; and is to take his receipt therefor. Chy. O. 509.

Original deeds, only returned to petitioner.

Under this Rule it has been the practice to return only original deeds and documents of title, but not certified copies, these are retained by the Inspector of Titles, with the other papers in the matter.

Inspector or Toronto Referee to keep copies of all letters.

1032. Every Inspector and other Toronto Referee is to keep a book, and to preserve therein a copy of all his letters under these Rules, and is to prepare monthly, for the information of the profession, a memorandum of points of practice decided in matters under the Act. Chy. O. 510.

Points of practice decided under the Act, are brought to the attention of the official reporter, and by him published in the authorized reports from time to time.

Applicant to pay all postage, etc.

1033. The applicant or his solicitor is to pay, or prepay, as the case may be, all postages and other expenses of transmitting letters or papers. Chy. O. 515.

Proceedings under, how conducted, and fees therefor.

1034. Petitions under section 33 of the Act are to be filed and proceeded with in the same manner (as nearly as may be) as petitions for an indefeasible title; and the fees of officers, solicitors, and counsel, are to be the same as in respect of the like proceedings in suits. Chy. O. 516.

The 33rd section of the Act, above referred to is as follows:—

Declarations of legitimacy, etc.

"33. In case any person domiciled in Ontario, or claiming any real estate in Ontario, desires to establish, not his title to some specific property, but generally that he is the legitimate child of his parents, or that the marriage of his father and mother, or of his grandfather and grandmother, was a valid marriage, or that his own marriage was a valid marriage, or that he is the heir, or one of the co-heirs of any person deceased, or that he is a natural born subject of Her Majesty, he may, if the said Court thinks fit, have any of the said matters judicially investigated and declared."

Under the Imperial Statute, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 93, it has been held that a petitioner cannot obtain a declaration of the legitimacy of his grandfather: Dodds v. Attorney-General, 42 L. T. N. S. 402. Rules. 1035-1038.

1035. Appeals from the Toronto Referees, Referee or Local Masters and others when they are acting under the said Act, are to be prosecuted in the same way as appeals from a Master. Chy. O. 591. Appeals from Referee and Local Masters, under Q. T. Act.

This Rule, it is presumed, also governs appeals from the Inspector of Titles, although he is not expressly named. Appeals from a Master may be prosecuted in two ways: appeals from Masters' reports, and certificates, being governed by Rules 848, 850; and appeals from Masters when acting in Chambers being governed by Rule 846; it is probably intended that appeals from Masters when acting under The Quieting Titles Act shall be had in the same manner as appeals from reports, and such appeals are therefore to be prosecuted as directed by Rules 848-50. From Masters.

1036. The fee of the Inspector of Titles on entering the petition with him shall be $8, and no further fee is to be paid him for correspondence, examination of the title, drawing and engrossing certificate or conveyance, or for any other matter or thing done under the petition. Chy. O. 514. Fee payable to Inspector of Titles.

1037. The fees of solicitors and counsel, and the fees payable by stamps, for proceedings under the said Act, are respectively, to be the same as for like proceedings in suits. Chy. O. 511. Fees to solicitors and counsel.

This Rule seems somewhat inconsistent with the Tariff, which prescribes the fees to be paid to Referees of Title, some of which differ from those payable for the like proceedings in suits. Possibly the Rule may be construed so far as it relates to disbursements, as if it read, "where no other fee is expressly prescribed by the Tariff, the fees payable to Referees of Titles shall be the same as for like proceedings in suits."

8. Controverted Municipal Elections.

1038. Proceedings in the nature of quo warranto under The Municipal Act shall be by motion on leave obtained from the Court or a Judge. Upon the application for leave to serve a notice of motion, then upon the Court or a Judge finding sufficient ground for giving the notice, and upon such security being given as the Act requires and the sufficiency thereof being allowed, the Court or Judge shall give a fiat for leave to serve the notice of motion. Proceedings by motion. Fiat to be obtained.

The procedure prescribed by these Rules is not in accordance with that prescribed by The Municipal Act, (R. S. O. c. 184), s. 188, which directs that a writ of summons in the nature of a quo warranto shall be issued; but by sec. 208, the Judges of the High Court are empowered to make Rules "respecting the practice generally"; the provisions of these Rules, therefore, supersede the Rule 1038. practice prescribed by the Statute: see 50 Vict. c. 8, s. 2, (O); 51 Vict. c. 2, s. 4, (O). The application must be made in the name of the Sovereign upon the relation of some person qualified to be a relator.

Relator—who may be.

The Relator.—The relator is the person upon whose application the jurisdiction of the Court is put in motion.

Under "The Municipal Act," (R. S. O. c. 184), s. 187, any municipal elector in the county may be the relator in a case where the right of any municipality to a Reeve, or Deputy-Reeve, or Reeves, is in question: see R. S. O. c. 184, ss. 69-71. When the question is as to the validity of the election of any Mayor, Warden, Reeve, Deputy-Reeve, Alderman, or Councillor, then any candidate at the election, or any elector who gave, or tendered his vote thereat, is qualified to be a relator; and if the contest be concerning the validity of an appointment by the members of the council of a municipality of any member of their body: see R. S. O. c. 184, s. 186; then any member of the council, or any elector of the ward, or if there is no ward, then any elector of the municipality for which the appointment was made, may be the relator.

A voter of another ward if he desires to complain of an election cannot proceed in a summary manner under s. 187, but must file an information in the nature of a quo warranto: Regina ex rel. Coleman v. O'Hare, 2 P. R. 18; see also Regina ex rel. Hart v. Lindsay, 18 U. C. Q. B. 51; Regina ex rel. Clancey v. St. Jean, 46 U. C. Q. B. 77.

Candidate—definition of.

As to who is to be deemed a candidate: see Coombe v. Pitt, 3 Burr. 1590; Morris v. Burdett, 1 Camp. 218; S. C. 2 M. & S. 216; Muntz v. Sturge, 8 M. & W. 310; Harrison's Munl. Manl., (5th ed.) 138.

One whose nomination prevented, may protest election.

It is not necessary in order to constitute a person a "candidate" so as to qualify him to be a relator, that he should be actually nominated at the election, where his actual nomination has been prevented by the misconduct of the Returning Officer: Regina ex rel. Corbett v. Jull, 5 P. R. 41. But if after being nominated, he, with the consent of his proposer and seconder, withdraw, he ceases to be a candidate: Regina ex rel. Coyne v. Chisholm, 5 P. R. 328; and see Regina ex rel. Harris v. Bradburn, 6 P. R. 308.

A relator who was a candidate need not, in his application to oust the defendant, show that he himself is qualified for the office: Regina ex rel. Mitchell v. Adams, 1 C. L. Ch. 203.

If the interest of a relator is denied by the defendant on grounds assigned, then he must establish his interest: Regina ex rel. Bartliffe v. O'Reilly, 8 U. C. Q. B. 617.

Electors—who qualified to be.

As to who are qualified to be electors: see R. S. O. c. 184, ss. 79-87. Electors who are disfranchised between the nomination and polling day are disqualified from voting: Regina ex rel. Taverner v. Willson, 12 P. R. 546. An elector who has been instrumental in electing a candidate will not be permitted to dispute the validity of the election of that candidate: Regina ex rel. Pomeroy v. Watson, 1 U. C. L. J. 48; Regina ex rel. Loyall v. Ponton, 2 P. R. 18; Regina ex rel. Rosebush v. Parker, 2 C. P. 15; Kelly v. Macarow, 14 C. P. 457; Regina ex rel. Grayson v. Bell, 1 C. L. J. 130; Regina ex rel. Regis v. Cusac, 6 P. R. 303; Regina ex rel. Harris v. Bradburn, Ib., 308; unless he can show that he was ignorant of the objection he desires to urge: Regina ex rel. Coleman v. O'Hare, 2 P. R. 18; nor can a Councillor who has been instrumental in the election of a person as Reeve, or Deputy-Reeve, afterwards dispute the election: Regina ex rel. Rosebush v. Parker, 2 C. P. 15; but when his election is successfully disputed by a third party the seat may be awarded to an opposing candidate who voted for the defendant: Regina ex rel. Clint v. Upham, 7 U. C. L. J. 69.

Elector when estopped from disputing validity of election.

No contest allowed where the election is by acclamation.

And when there is only one candidate, or set of candidates, who is, or are, in good faith elected by acclamation, no contest can be entertained under section 185: Regina ex rel. Bugg v. Bell, 4 P. R. 226. As to how far the acquiescence of a candidate in an irregular election disqualifies him from afterwards being a relator: see Regina ex rel. Mitchell v. Adams, 1 C. L. Ch. 203; Regina v. Lofthouse, L. R. 1 Q. B. 433. But the acquiescence of a candidate in an irregular election will not prevent a voter who was no party to such acquiescence from applying: Re Charles v. Lewis, 2 C. L. Ch. 171. But if a voter take part in an election he cannot be heard to say that it was wholly void: Regina ex rel. McLaughlin v. Hicks, 5 U. C. L. J. 89. Rule 1038.

Where the applicant failed to show in his statement that he was either a candidate or an elector who had voted; it was held that the omission was fatal, and could not be amended at a later stage of the proceedings: Regina ex rel. Chauncey v. Billings, 12 P. R. 404.

A quo warranto obtained by one relator was set aside at the instance of another relator, on the ground of the first relator being in collusion with the defendant: Regina ex rel. Patterson v. Vance, 5 P. R. 334; but one relator cannot object to mere irregularities in the proceedings of another, unless he can show they were committed designedly to secure the failure of the proceedings: Ib., and see Rules 441, 442.

A relator is liable to be ordered to pay the costs of the defendant. An officer of the corporation may be a relator, but it is not desirable that he should be, and he may be refused costs even though successful: Regina ex rel. McMullen v. DeLisle, 8 U. C. L. J. 291; Regina ex rel. Brine v. Booth, 9 P. R. 452. Costs, liability of a relator for.

Information, when necessary.—In cases where the summary proceedings prescribed by R. S. O. c. 184, s. 187, cannot be taken to dispute the validity of an election to any public office, the question can only be determined upon an information in the nature of quo warranto. E.g., where the right of School Trustees to act as such is questioned, the regularity of their election can only be tested by information, and cannot be raised in any collateral proceeding. If, however, the existence of the power to form the school section for which the trustees assume to act is denied, that may be raised in a collateral proceeding: Askew v. Manning, 38 U. C. Q. B. 345. As to cases in which leave to file an information will be granted: see Ib. pp. 358, et seq. Where the election of the defendant is regular, but it is claimed that by a subsequent act he has forfeited his seat, it would seem that an information must be filed: Regina ex rel. McGouverin v. Lawlor, 5 P. R. 208. Information, when necessary to be filed.

Where the person elected has not made the requisite declaration of qualification before entering on the duties of his office: see R. S. O. c. 184, ss. 73, 270, his right to exercise the office may be called in question upon an information in the nature of a quo warranto: Regina ex rel. Clancy v. St. Jean, 46 U. C. Q. B. 77.

Under R. S. O. c. 184, ss. 191, 199, it would seem that a relator can now attack the whole of the members of the council in one proceeding.

Formerly it was held that a relator could not attack a municipal council by name, upon grounds which if sustained must necessarily lead to a dissolution of the body, nor could he attack the whole council in one proceeding, through the individual names of every member of it: Regina ex rel. Lawrence v. Woodruff, 8 U. C. Q. B. 336; but see Rex v. Parry, 6 A. & E. 810-820. An information for that purpose, however, would lie in the name of the Attorney-General on behalf of the Crown: Rex v. Carmarthen, 2 Burr. 869; Rex v. Ogden, 10 B. & C. 230; Regina v. Taylor, 11 A. & E. 949. When the information is filed by the Attorney-General, no leave of the Court is required, but when it is filed on behalf of some individual, then the leave of the Court must be obtained: 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 18, ss. 2, 6. Leave of Court to filing information, when necessary.

A municipal election may now be attacked by proceeding under these Rules for bribery, corrupt practices, or any other cause: Regina ex rel. Johns v. Stewart, 16 Ont. 5.

Where a relator can proceed under section 187, he will not be permitted to file an information: Kelly v. Macarow, 14 C. P. 313, 457; Regina ex rel. White v. Roach, 18 U. C. Q. B. 226; Regina ex rel. Johns v. Stewart, 16 Ont. 5; but see Regina ex rel. Clancy v. St. Jean, 46 U. C. Q. B. 77.

When the time for proceeding in a summary manner is suffered to elapse the relator will not be allowed to file an information in the nature of a quo warranto: Regina ex rel. White v. Roach, 18 U. C. Q. B. 226.

Rule 1038. A summons under The Municipal Act, is not an appropriate proceeding to unseat a defendant who has forfeited his seat by an act subsequent to the election, where the election was legal: Regina ex rel. McGouverin v. Lawlor, 5 P. R. 208.

Application to whom made.

Application for leave to serve notice of motion.—The application may be now made to any Judge of the High Court, or a Judge of the County Court of the County in which the election or appointment took place: R. S. O. c. 184, s. 187, 52 V. c. 36, s. 46; or to the Master in Chambers: Rule 30; Reg. ex rel. White v. McClay, 13 P. R. 96; but if the proceedings are taken before a Judge of the County Court they must be styled in the County Court, as the Judge has no power to act under this Rule or the foregoing Statutes in proceedings taken in the High Court of Justice: Rule 41; Reg. ex rel. Dougherty v. McClay, 13 P. R. 56. Applications in Toronto in the High Court are now usually made to the Master in Chambers: see Regina ex rel. Hauer v. Roberts, 7 P. R. 315; Reg. ex rel. Brine v. Booth, 9 P. R. 452; S. C., 3 Ont. 144; Reg. ex rel. Halsted v. Ferris, 5 P. R. 241; Reg. ex rel. Hamilton v. Piper, 8 P. R. 225; Reg. ex rel. Frelitz v. Howland, 11 P. R. 264.

Formerly where an application was made to a Judge of a County Court for a writ of summons he had power to direct that it should be made returnable before a Judge of the High Court, if he should think it proper: Regina ex rel. Lutz v. Williamson, 1 P. R. 94; but he has now no power to order a notice of motion to be made returnable before the Judge of the High Court: Reg. ex rel. Dougherty v. McClay, 13 P. R. 56.

When the Junior Judge of a County Court is officiating it would seem that he has jurisdiction to grant the leave to serve the notice of motion in cases brought in the County Court: Regina ex rel. McDonald v. Anderson, 8 P. R. 241.

The application should be supported by production of the notice of motion desired to be served, in which the various grounds intended to be relied on should be specifically set out; and also by affidavit or affidavits verifying the material facts necessary to support the application. It would seem that the affidavit of the relator alone would be sufficient: Regina ex rel. Carroll v. Beckwith, 1 P. R. 278.

When the mistake or irregularity complained of by the relator, has in no way contributed to any improper result, the Judge may properly refuse to grant leave to serve the notice of motion: Regina v. Ward, L. R. 8 Q. B. 210; Regina v. Cousins, Ib. 216; Regina ex rel. Grayson v. Bell, 1 C. L. J. 130; and see Regina ex rel. Halsted v. Ferris, 5 P. R. 241.

Recognizance to be entered into by Relator and two sureties.

The relator is also bound to enter into a recognizance of $200 with two sureties in $100 each, conditioned to prosecute the writ with effect, or to pay to the party against whom the same is brought any costs which may be adjudged to him against the relator: R. S. O. c. 184, s. 188. The recognizance should be produced with an affidavit of justification by the sureties.

A distinct order for the allowance of the recognizance is not necessary: Regina ex rel. Linton v. Jackson, 2 C. L. Ch. 18.

As to entitling the recognizance: see Regina ex rel. Bland v. Figg, 6 C. L. J. 44.

The relator's solicitor should not act as commissioner to take the recognizance: see Rule 1073; but see Regina ex rel. Blaisdell v. Rochester, 12 U. C. Q. B. 630.

Time for making the application.

Time within which application to be made.—By R. S. O. c. 184, s. 188, the application is to be made "within six weeks after the election, or one month after acceptance of office by the person elected." In computing the six weeks the day of the election is to be excluded: Har. Munl. Manl., (4th ed.,) 126-127. The month referred to is a calendar month: see R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, s.-s. 15.

The acceptance of office is a formal acceptance by making the statutory declaration of qualification, and office: see R. S. O. c. 184, ss. 73, 270; and not a mere verbal acceptance by speech to the electors: Regina ex rel. Clancey v. McIntosh, 46 U. C. Q. B. 98.

In computing the calendar month the last day falls on the corresponding day in the ensuing month to that on which the acceptance of office took place:

Freeman v. Read, 4 B. & S. 184-5, but if the acceptance take place on the 29th, 30th, or 31st January, the month ends on the last day of the ensuing month of February. Six weeks are allowed to impeach the election, although the office may have been accepted more than a calendar month. If the application be not made within six weeks after the election, it may still be made, if the office has not been accepted a calendar month by the person elected. Rule 1039.

Where after a summons had been obtained under the former practice the relator finding his proceedings irregular notified defendant not to appear and that it was his intention to proceed de novo, it was held that the first proceeding was no bar to his making a second application: Reg. ex rel. Metcalfe v. Smart, 10 U. C. Q. B. 89; 2 C. L. Ch. 114. Abandonment of proceedings.

The granting of leave to give the notice of motion is in the discretion of the Judge, and if in his opinion the objection relied on has not contributed to an improper result he may properly refuse to grant leave to serve the notice: see note to Rule 1040.

The notice of motion is to be served personally, but if the defendant evade service an order for substitutional service may be made: R. S. O. c. 184, s. 194; but personal service will not be dispensed with except for this cause: Reg. ex rel. Arnott v. Marchant, 2 C. L. Ch. 167. Irregularities in the writ may be waived by appearance: Regina ex rel. Linton v. Jackson, 2 C. L. Ch. 18. Service of notice of motion, how to be made.

In general a copy of the notice should be left with the defendant and the original shown to him if he desire to see it: Goggs v. Huntingtower, 1 D. & L. 599, per Alderson, B. Service upon a wife, agent, or servant is not personal service: Frith v. Donegal, 2 Dowl. 527; Davies v. Morgan, 2 C. & J. 237; Goggs v. Huntingtower, supra; Christmas v. Eicke, 6 D. & L. 156; Harrison's Muni. Manl, 4th ed., 139.

An irregularity in the teste of the writ was formerly held to be waived by entering an appearance: Regina ex rel. Linton v. Jackson, 2 C. L. Ch. 18. Irregularity in proceedings.

Proceedings are not to be held irregular and void which do not interfere with the just trial of the matter on the merits: Regina ex rel. McManus v. Ferguson, 2 C. L. J. 19; and see Rules 441, 442.

Where a County Court Judge under the former practice, had set aside a writ which had been granted by himself, on exceptions taken thereto for irregularity; it was held that he had power to take that course, and that a Superior Court had no power to interfere with his decision: Regina ex rel. Grant v. Coleman, 8 P. R. 497; 46 U. C. Q. B. 175; and see Regina ex rel. O'Dwyer v. Lewis, 32 C. P. 104. But the Court of Appeal, although affirming the decision on the ground that the matter was not appealable, nevertheless held that, after a quo warranto summons had been issued, and served, it could not properly be set aside for irregularity, but must be disposed of on the merits: Regina ex rel. Grant v. Coleman, 7 Ont App. 626. Writ cannot be set aside for a mere irregularity.

Several Applications.—R. S. O. c. 184, s. 192, provides as follows:—

"192. Where more writs than one are brought to try the validity of an election, or the right to a reeve, or deputy reeve, or reeves as aforesaid, all such writs shall be made returnable before the Judge who is to try the first, and the Judge may give one judgment upon all, or a separate judgment upon each one or more of them as he thinks fit": see Regina ex rel. Forward v. Detlor, 4 P. R. 197; Regina v. Mayor of Tewkesbury, L. R. 3 Q. B. 629.

By analogy to this provision it would probably be deemed proper in the event of more than one notice of motion being served, to adjourn both or all to be heard before the Judge who is to hear the one first served, and upon such applications the Judge would be at liberty to pronounce one judgment or several as he might see fit. When an application is collusive and intended to protect the defendant in the enjoyment of his office, see Regina ex rel. McLean v. Watson, 1 C. L. J. 71.

1039. The notice of motion shall be at least a seven clear days' notice, and the relator may either mention the return day therein or may state that the motion will be Notice of motion.

Rule 1040. made on the eighth day after the day of service of the notice, excluding the day of service.

Notice of motion, what to contain.

1040. The relator shall, in his notice of motion, set out his name in full, his occupation, place of residence, and the interest which he has in the election, as candidate or voter, and shall also set forth specifically under distinct heads, separately numbered, all such grounds of objection as he intends to urge against the validity of the election complained against, and in favour of the validity of the election of the relator, or another or other person or persons, when he claims that he or they, or any of them, have been duly elected.

The omission to state that the applicant is either a candidate, or a voter who has voted at the election, is fatal, and cannot be amended at a subsequent stage of the proceedings: Regina ex rel. Chauncey v. Billings, 12 P. R. 404.

When seat claimed on ground of disqualification of defendant, evidence required that notice of disqualification of defendant was given to electors.

When the seat is claimed by the relator himself, or for some other person, on the ground of the disqualification of the party elected, it is necessary to show that the electors were duly notified at the nomination: Regina ex rel. Tinning v. Edgar, 4 P. R. 36, of the alleged disqualification. Where this is not shown, even though the disqualification be established, a new election will be ordered: Regina ex rel. Hervey v. Scott, 2 C. L. Ch. 88; Regina ex rel. Richmond v. Tegart, 7 U. C. L. J. 128; Regina ex rel. Fanaghan v. McMahon, Ib. 155; Regina ex rel. Dexter v. Gowan, 1 P. R. 104; Regina ex rel. Adamson v. Boyd, 4 P. R. 204; Regina ex rel. Ford v. McRae, 5 P. R. 309. In order merely to set aside the election it is not necessary to show the notice of the disqualification was given: Regina ex rel. Coleman v. O'Hare, 2 P. R. 18. When the relator claims to have been elected at the nomination owing to the defendant's disqualification, his subsequent going to the polls waives such right: Regina ex rel. Forward v. Dellor, 4 P. R. 198. The returning officer has no power to adjudicate upon the alleged disqualification of a candidate who has the majority of votes; he is bound to declare him elected, and the announcement of the fact that he has the majority of votes would seem to be a sufficient declaration: Regina v. Mayor of Bangor, 18 Q. B. D. 349, S. C. sub nom. Pritchard v. Mayor of Bangor, 13 App. Cas. 241; 58 L. T. N. S. 502.

Discretion of Judge as to awarding seat.

It would seem to be a matter of discretion with the Judge whether or not he awards the seat to the relator, which cannot be interfered with on appeal, assuming that there can now be any appeal at all: see R. S. O. c. 184, s. 207; Regina ex rel. Clark v. McMullen, 9 U. C. Q. B. 467.

Property qualification, how estimated.

In estimating the property qualification required by a candidate under R. S. O. c. 184, s. 73, the amount of mortgages upon the property must be deducted from the assessed, and not from the real value: Regina ex rel. Kelly v. Ion, 8 P. R. 432; and see Regina ex rel. Brine v. Booth, 9 P. R. 452; 3 Ont. 144; Regina ex rel. Clancy v. McIntosh, 46 U. C. Q. B. 98. The accuracy of the assessment roll cannot be controverted on such an application: Regina ex rel. Hamilton v. Piper, 8 P. R. 225.

Technical objections.

Proceedings are not to be set aside or held void on account of any irregularity or defect which shall not in the opinion of the Judge interfere with the just trial or adjudication of the case on the merits: Rules 441, 442; but see Regina ex rel. Chauncey v. Billings, 12 P. R. 404.

Abandonment of proceedings by relator.

Where after a defendant has been served with the summons, but before he has appeared the relator finds his proceedings are irregular or defective, he may notify the defendant not to appear, and abandon his proceedings, and commence de novo provided the time allowed for commencing his proceedings has not expired: Regina ex rel Metcalfe v. Smart, 10 U. C. Q. B. 89.

YORK UNIVERSITY L...

Rule 1041.

Objections not taken in statement.

The relator is not permitted at the hearing to take objections not specified in the notice of motion: see Rule 1042; but the Judge may in his discretion entertain upon his own view of the case any substantial ground, or objection to, or in support of, the validity of the election of either, or any, of the parties which may appear on the evidence: Ib.

Statement of relator.

Where the allegation in the statement was that the relator "had an interest in the said election as a voter," and his affidavit stated that he had voted "on the said election, but not for the said William Rastal," it was held to be sufficient: Regina ex rel. Ross v. Rastal, 2 C. L. J. 160. A relator is not necessarily bound to prove his interest, unless it is expressly denied by the defendant: Regina ex rel. Boutliffe v. O'Reilly, 8 U. C. Q. B. 617; Regina ex rel. Pomeroy v. Watson, 1 U. C. L. J. 48; Regina ex rel. Campbell v. OMalley, 10 C. L. J. 250; Regina ex rel. Shaw v. Mackenzie, 2 C. L. Ch. 36; but it was held under the former practice that the issue of the writ did not establish the interest of the relator if denied, Ib. But the interest of the relator should be distinctly stated in the notice of motion: Regina ex rel. White v. Roach, 18 U. C. Q. B. 226; and see Regina ex rel. Ross v. Rastal, 2 C. L. J. 160; but where the fact appears by the affidavit, but the allegation is omitted from the notice of motion it is possible the latter may be amended: see Regina ex rel. O'Reilly v. Charlton, 6 P. R. 254; but see Regina ex rel. Chauncey v. Billings, 12 P. R. 404.

Interest of relator.

Amendment of statement when allowed.

Proof of relator's interest.

When the interest of the relator as an elector is denied, the proper proof of his right, is the production of the roll, or an authenticated copy: Regina ex rel. Campbell v. O'Malley, 10 C. L. J. 250.

Statement of relator to be signed.

Formerly the statement of the relator was required to be signed; and it was held that the affidavit of the relator indorsed that he believed the objections within stated to be well founded was not sufficient to dispense with his signature: Regina ex rel. Telfer v. Allan, 1 P. R. 214; but it would seem that the relator's signature to the notice of motion, unless he is proceeding in person, is not now necessary, but that it will be sufficient if signed by his solicitor in the ordinary way.

The affidavit of the relator alone, was held sufficient to obtain the writ of summons in the nature of a quo warranto under the former practice, even before the act enabling him to be a witness in his own behalf: Regina ex rel. Carroll v. Beckwith, 1 P. R. 278.

The affidavit sustaining the relator's case need not necessarily state that the defendant has accepted or acted in the office: Regina ex rel. Helliwell v. Stephenson, 1 C. L. Ch. 270. But when alienage is the objection relied on by a relator, it must be shown particularly how the parties complained of are aliens; a general affidavit of the fact was held insufficient: Regina ex rel. Carroll v. Beckwith, 1 P. R. 278.

Entitling affidavit of relator.

When the affidavit of the relator, though not entitled in any Court, followed and referred to his statement which was properly entitled, it was held sufficient, and an objection that the recognizance was not entitled in any Court was disallowed on similar grounds: Regina ex rel. Bland v. Figg, 6 U. C. L. J. 44; but see Hirons v. Amherstburgh, 11 U. C. Q. B. 458.

Affidavits to be filed.

1041. Before serving his notice of motion he shall file all the affidavits and material upon which he intends to move, except when viva voce evidence is to be taken, and in that case he shall name in his notice the witnesses whom he proposes to examine.

Filing papers.

When the papers on which a summons was obtained were left with the County Court Judge, but were handed by him to the defendant's solicitor, before the return day, for perusal; it was held sufficient, and that it was not essential that they should have been filed with the Deputy Clerk of the Crown before the summons issued: Regina ex rel. Blaisdell v. Rochester, 12 U. C. Q. B. 630.

YORK UNIVERSITY L...

Rule 1041.

R. S. O. c. 184, s. 197, provision of, as to trial.

"The Judge shall in a summary manner, upon statement and answer, without formal pleadings hear and determine the validity of the election, or the right to a Reeve or Deputy Reeve, or Reeves, and may by order cause the assessment rolls, collector's rolls, list of electors, and any other records of the election to be brought before him, and may inquire into the facts on affidavit or affirmation, or by oral testimony, or by issues framed by him, and sent to be tried by jury by writ of trial directed to any Court named by the Judge, or by one or more of these means, as he deems expedient, subject, however, to the provisions of section 212:" R. S. O. c. 184, s. 197.

Ib. s. 212.

Section 212 provides that when in an application in the nature of a quo warranto, any question is raised as to whether the candidate or any voter has been guilty of any bribery, corruption, or using violence, or intimidation, within section 209, or 210 of the Act, the evidence to prove the offence must be given viva voce before a Judge of any County Court, upon a reference to him by the Judge of the High Court for that purpose, or upon an appointment granted by him in cases pending in such County Court. It has been held that the Master in Chambers has power to direct a reference to a Judge of a County Court to take the evidence: Reg. ex rel. White v. McClay, 13 P. R. 96; 25 C. L. J. 284.

In other cases the right to adduce oral evidence was formerly in the discretion of the Judge, and an oral examination of the parties or witnesses might be refused; Regina ex rel. Piddington v. Riddell, 4 P. R. 80; but see now, Rule 578.

Where an issue is directed to be tried by jury, see Rule 1043.

Material facts alleged in the relator's notice of motion and supported by the affidavit should be answered, or they may be taken to be admitted by the defendant: Regina ex rel. Hervey v. Scott, 2 C. L. Ch. 88.

And the interest of the relator, if intended to be contested must be distinctly denied, even in a case where though it is stated in the notice of motion, it is not verified by the relator's affidavit: see note to Rule 1040.

Disclaimer, where to be filed.

Disclaimer.—By R. S. O. c. 184, s. 200, "Any person whose election is complained of may, unless such election is complained of on the ground of corrupt practices on the part of such person, within one week after service on him of the writ, transmit post paid, through the post office, directed to 'The Clerk in Chambers, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto,' or to 'The Judge of the County Court of the County of ' (as the case may be) or may cause to be delivered to such Clerk or Judge a disclaimer signed by him to the effect following:

Form of disclaimer, after proceedings.

I, A. B., upon whom a [writ of summons, in the nature of a *quo warranto] has been served for the purpose of contesting my right to the office of Township Councillor (or as the case may be) for the Township of , in the County of , (or as the case may be), do hereby disclaim the said office, and all defence I may have of any right to the same.

Dated day of (Signed.) A. B."

Transmission of.

Such disclaimer, or the envelope containing the same, is to be indorsed on the outside thereof with the word "Disclaimer," and to be registered at the Post Office where mailed: Ib. s. 201.

A duplicate should also be delivered to the Clerk of the Council: see s. 204, infra.

Where there has been a contested election, the person elected may at any time after the election, and before his election is complained of, deliver to the Clerk of the Municipality a disclaimer signed by him as follows:

Form of disclaimer before proceedings.

"I, A. B., do hereby disclaim all right to the office of Township Councillor, (or as the case may be), for the Township of , (or as the case may be), and all defence of any right I may have to the same." Ib. s. 202.

---

* Having regard to the change effected in the practice by these Rules, for the words here in brackets should now be substituted "notice of motion."

"Such disclaimer shall relieve the party making it from all liability to costs, and when a disclaimer has been made in accordance with the preceding sections, it shall operate as a resignation, and the candidate having the highest number of votes shall then become the Councillor, or other officer as the case may be." Ib. s. 203. Rules 1042, 1043. Party disclaiming not liable for costs.

A duplicate of every disclaimer is to be delivered by the party disclaiming to the Clerk of the Council who is forthwith to communicate it to the Council: see Ib. s. 204.

Where a disclaimer is filed, no costs are to be awarded against any person duly disclaiming, unless the Judge is satisfied that such party consented to his nomination as a candidate, or accepted the office, in which case the costs are in the discretion of the Judge: Ib. s. 205; Regina ex rel. Coupland v. Webster, 6 U. C. L. J. 89. Costs when disclaimer filed.

The procedure laid down in the Statute should be strictly followed, otherwise the disclaimer would be insufficient to relieve the party disclaiming from costs.

Where the disclaimer was filed a day too late the defendant was ordered to pay the relator's costs: Regina ex rel. Hawke v. Hall, 2 C. L. Ch. 182; and where a defendant, after he had accepted office, but before he knew of the issue of the writ, but knowing that his election was to be contested, sent an instrument to the council in the following form:—"Palmerston, February 7th, 1881. To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Palmerston: Gentlemen, I beg to disclaim my seat at the Council Board. (Signed). G. S. Davidson." it was held that the disclaimer, not being in the form prescribed by the Statute, was not sufficient to relieve the defendant from costs: Regina ex rel. Mitchell v. Davidson, 8 P. R. 434.

The effect of a disclaimer after the service of the notice of motion is to put an end to the suit: Regina ex rel. Hannah v. Paul, 9 C. L. J. 238; but where the object of the proceedings is not only to cause the defendant to vacate the office, but to substitute another candidate in the office, the disclaimer cannot prevent the substitution: see Regina v. Blizard, L. R. 2 Q. B. 55. Effect of disclaimer after writ issued.

1042. On the hearing of the motion the relator shall not be allowed to object to the election of the party or parties complained against, or to support the election or elections of the person or persons alleged to have been duly elected on any ground not specified in the notice of motion; but it shall, nevertheless, be in the discretion of the Judge to entertain upon his own view of the case any substantial ground of objection to or in support of the validity of the election of either or any of the parties which may appear in the evidence before him. Hearing of motion.

This Rule is taken from Rule 9 of the former Municipal Election Rules: see Holmested's Rules and Orders, p. 633.

When the interest of the relator appeared by the affidavits, but was omitted from the statement, the latter was allowed to be amended: Regina ex rel. O'Reilly v. Charlton, 6 P. R. 254; but see Regina ex rel. Chauncey v. Billings, 12 P. R. 404.

1043. In case a necessity shall appear for sending an issue to be tried by a jury, an order for that purpose may be made, and the issue to be tried shall be stated in the order. Issue, when to be tried.

Rule 1044. Judgment.

1044. When the Judge before whom any such case shall be pending shall have determined the same an order shall be drawn up in the usual manner which shall state concisely the ground and effect of the judgment, which order may be at any time amended by the same Judge in regard to any matter of form, and the said order shall have the same force and effect as a writ of mandamus formerly had in the like case.

"The decision of the Judge shall be final, and he shall immediately after his judgment return the writ and judgment, with all things laid before him touching the same, into the Division from which the writ issued, there to remain of record as a judgment of the High Court; and he shall as occasion requires, enforce the judgment by a writ in the nature of a writ of peremptory mandamus, and by writs of execution for the costs awarded:" R. S. O. c. 184, s. 207; Regina ex rel. Hamilton v. Piper, 8 P. R. 225; Regina ex rel. Grant v. Coleman, 7 Ont. App. 619.

It is presumed as there is no longer to be any writ of summons issued the return contemplated by this section should be made to the proper officer of the Division in which the proceedings are entitled; or in cases in the County Court to the Clerk of the Court. Under the former practice it was held not to be necessary to enter the judgment in the judgment book: see Rule 772; but it was sufficient to file the proceedings of record: per Boyd, C., and Ferguson, J., Standish v. Shields, Ch. D., 4th Mar. 1886.

Notwithstanding the wording of s. 207, as to the finality of the judgment, it is possible that when it is pronounced by the Masters in Chamber it is still appealable in the same way as any other order made by him: see Bryant v. Reading, 17 Q. B. D. 128; 54 L. T. N. S. 524; Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. N. S. 122.

Costs, discretion of Judge as to.

Costs.—Costs are in the discretion of the Judge or judicial officer to whom the application is made: Rule 1170, 1178.

No costs are to be awarded against a person duly disclaiming, unless the Judge is satisfied that such party consented to his nomination, or accepted the office, in which case costs shall be in the discretion of the Judge. In all cases not otherwise provided for, costs are in the discretion of the Judge: R. S. O. c. 184, ss. 205, 206.

There appears to be no means of enforcing payment of interlocutory costs, unless they be ordered to be paid by the judgment in the matter: see per Patterson, J. A., Regina ex rel. Grant v. Coleman, 7 Ont. App. at p. 626.

Where a new election is ordered, the relator is primâ facie entitled to costs against the defendant: Regina ex rel. Ross v. Rastal, 2 C. L. J. 160; Regina ex rel. Kirk v. Asselstine, 1 U. C. L. J. 49. So also when the relator is declared entitled to the seat in consequence of defendant's disqualifications: Regina ex rel. Richmond v. Tegart, 7 U. C. L. J. 128.

But the Judge may refuse to order a party to pay costs, when it is not shown that he participated in the improper conduct for which an election is set aside: Regina ex rel. Davis v. Wilson, 3 U. C. L. J. 165; and see Regina ex rel. Swan v. Rowat, 13 U. C. Q. B. 340; Regina ex rel. Gordanier v. Perry, 3 U. C. L. J. 90.

When the relator was an officer of the Corporation, though successful, costs were refused: Regina ex rel. McMullen v. DeLisle, 8 U. C. L. J. 291; Regina ex rel. Brine v. Booth, 9 P. R. 452.

Decisions as to costs.

A defendant who had acted in good faith, but was held to be disqualified, was ordered to pay costs: Regina ex rel. Rollo v. Beard, 3 P. R. 357; In re Charles v. Lewis, 2 C. L. Ch. 171, 177.

But where a defendant through the improper decision of the Clerk of a Council was declared entitled to a seat, and accepted office, and was sworn in without having interfered with the decision of the Clerk or otherwise misconducted himself, though his election was set aside, no costs were awarded against him: Regina ex rel. McManus v. Ferguson, 2 C. L. J. 19. Rule 1044.

Where a returning officer was added as a party, and was acquitted, and discharged, and the relator's statement not being strictly correct, the relator was ordered to pay the officer his costs: Regina ex rel. Hawke v. Hall, 2 C. L. Ch. 182.

A returning officer will not usually be ordered to pay costs, even though his conduct be in some particulars irregular, if his motives were pure, and his conduct free from corruption or partiality: Regina ex rel. McVean v. Graham, 7 U. C. L. J. 125; Regina ex rel. Coupland v. Webster, 6 U. C. L. J. 89; Regina ex rel. Arnott v. Marchant, 2 C. L. Ch. 167.

Where the returning officer acted bonâ fide, and the defendant procured a written legal opinion to be sent to him, by which means he obtained the seat, the costs of making the returning officer a party, were ordered to be paid by the defendant: Regina ex rel. Pomeroy v. Watson, 1 U. C. L. J. 48.

Where the returning officer has acted improperly at the defendant's instance, both he and the defendant may be ordered to pay the relator's costs: Regina ex rel. Acheson v. Donoghue, 15 U. C. Q. B. 454.

But a returning officer who received illegal votes, not on the assessment rolls, was ordered to pay costs: Regina ex rel. Johnson v. Murney, 5 U. C. L. J. 87; and see Regina ex rel. Mitchell v. Rankin, 2 C. L. Ch. 161; Regina ex rel. Totten v. Benn, 4 U. C. L. J. 262; Regina ex rel. Corbett v. Jull, 5 P. R. 41.

Costs will not always be awarded against an unsuccessful relator: Regina ex rel. Crozier v. Taylor, 6 U. C. L. J. 60; Regina ex rel. Armor v. Coste, 8 C. L. J. 290; Regina ex rel. Piddington v. Riddell, 4 P. R. 80.

A by-law passed by a township council levying money to pay the costs of a contested election is illegal and will be quashed with costs: In re Bell v. Mauvers, 2 C. P. 507; 3 C. P. 400.

Costs will be taxed on motions in the High Court under these Rules according to the tariff on motions in the High Court. See Reg. v. Hill, 9 C. L. T. 170.

1. Bailable Proceedings.

(i) Arrest.

No ca. re. to issue.

1045. No writ of capias ad respondendum shall issue in any case, but an order for arrest may be made in an action which shall have the same effect as such a writ formerly had.

An order for arrest will only be granted in those cases, in which a writ of ca. re or a writ of ne exeat might have formerly issued. In order to entitle a plaintiff to an order for arrest, therefore, he must shew to the satisfaction of a Judge of the High Court, or to the Judge or acting Judge of a County Court, by the affidavit of himself or some other person that he has a cause of action against a defendant liable to arrest, to the amount of $100 or upwards, or that he has sustained damage to that amount, and must also by affidavit shew such facts and circumstances as satisfy the Judge that there is good and probable cause for believing that the defendant, unless he be forthwith apprehended, is about to quit Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors generally, or the plaintiff in particular; whereupon the Judge may order the defendant to be held to bail for such sum as the Judge thinks fit: R. S. O. c. 67, s. 1.

A writ of ne exeat was a writ formerly issuable in Chancery to restrain a defendant from leaving the Province in cases where the plaintiff had an equitable money demand against the defendant and there was reason to apprehend that the defendant intended to quit the jurisdiction. A party who, according to the former practice, was entitled to a ne exeat is now to proceed under R. S. O. c. 67, s. 1; Ib. s. 3, as modified by these Rules.

R. S. O. c. 67, s. 1, applies only to actions against persons liable to arrest: see R. S. O. c. 67, s. 5. Some persons are privileged from arrest in civil proceedings. The privilege from arrest is either temporary or permanent. Among those permanently privileged are—members of the Royal Family, and the servants of the Royal Household; peers and peeresses of the realm of England in certain cases; foreign ambassadors and their servants; Judges: see Arch Pr. 14th ed., p. 1455, and married women: R. S. O. c. 67, s. 7. Among those who have a temporary privilege from arrest are members of the Legislative Assembly during the Session of the House, and for twenty days before and twenty days after: R. S. O. c. 11, s. 48, s-s. 10; probably also members of the Senate, and House of Commons, of Canada during the sittings of Parliament for forty days before and forty days thereafter: see Arch. Pr. 14th ed., p. 1456. Barristers while attending the Superior Courts for the purpose of being engaged in the business of the same, or while attending circuit, and for this purpose a circuit is continuous from its commencement to its termination: see Arch. Pr. 14th ed., pp. 1484-5. A solicitor is also privileged while attending Court, or any of the officers of the Court, and in going to, and returning therefrom; also Coroners while executing their office. Parties to suits and witnesses while going to, attending at, and returning from Court. Bail are also privileged from arrest in actions on bail bonds, replevin bonds, and recognizances of bail: Brandon v. Robson, 6 T. R. 336; Ormond v. Brierly, 1 Salk. 9; Mellish v. Petherick, 8 T. R. 450. But if the plaintiff obtain judgment on such bond or recognizance he may hold the defendant to bail in an action on the judgment: Prendergast v. Davis, 8 T. R. 85. Executors and administrators are also privileged from arrest in actions brought against them for the debts of the deceased: unless they have made themselves personally liable for the debt: see Arch. Pr. 14th ed., p. 1459. A defendant only indebted for costs would seem not to be liable to arrest: R. S. O. c. 67, s. 6. As to sailors in Her Majesty's service: see Impl. Stat. 29 & 30. Vict. c. 109, s. 97; and as to soldiers see the annual Mutiny Act: Arch. Pr. 14th ed., p. 1460-1. Rule 1045.

Where a defendant has a foreign domicile and comes temporarily within the jurisdiction, he is not liable to arrest, in respect of a tort committed within the jurisdiction: Rice v. Fletcher, 13 P. R. 46; nor in respect of a debt contracted in the country of his domicile: Smith v. Smith, 9 P. R. 511; provided he is about to return to the country where he is domiciled: Butler v. Rosenfeldt, 8 P. R. 175. If he is going to another country he may be liable to arrest: Ib. But where a defendant contracts a debt in Canada and then absconds to, and acquires a domicile in, a foreign country, he may on his subsequently coming within the jurisdiction be held to bail in respect of a debt so contracted: Kersteman v. McLellan, 10 P. R. 122; sed vide Clements v. Kirby, 7 P. R. 103; Stauffer v. Stauffer, before Proudfoot, J., May 15, 16, 1883. Pecuniary liability arising from a fraud committed by the defendant is a claim for which he may be arrested: Hunter v. Mountjoy, 6 Gr. 433. A trustee not in default, is not liable to arrest: Colverson v. Bloomfield, 29 Ch. D. 341; and where a trustee is ordered to pay money after service of the order, he is not in default until the order has been served, and he has failed to comply with its terms: Ib.

A defendant in an action for alimony is liable to be held to bail, if he is about to quit Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors in general, or the plaintiff in particular. The amount for which he may be held to bail is a sum sufficient to cover future alimony for two years besides arrears and costs, but may be less, in the discretion of the Court or Judge: Rule 1088. The order for arrest may be obtained in a proper case before, or after judgment. When a writ of ne exeat had been granted before decree, it was held to continue in force after decree: Macdonald v. Macdonald, 5 U. C. L. J. 66. Where in an alimony action the defendant had been arrested and held to bail; on an application for his discharge, the Judge looked into the merits so far as to see if the plaintiff could reasonably expect to succeed in her case; and the defendant having displaced the primâ facie case made by the plaintiff, he was ordered to be discharged: Macpherson v. Macpherson, 2 Chy. Ch. 222. Such a practice is, however, open to objection, as to some extent involving the trial of the action on the merits on an interlocutory application.

The Master in Chambers, and Local Masters (not being County Court Judges), have no jurisdiction to grant the order for arrest: Rules 30, s. 1, 138. But County Court Judges may grant such orders in actions pending in the High Courts: R. S. O. c. 67, s. 1.

Rules 1046-1049.

Order for arrest.

1046. In case a person is to be arrested and held to special bail, the process shall be by order of the Court or a Judge, in the words or to the effect of Form No. 155 in the Appendix, which order shall bear date on the day on which it is made, and may be delivered to the Sheriff of any County in Ontario for execution. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 4, 30, 31.

The form given in the Appendix appears to contemplate that the order shall be directed to a particular Sheriff to be named in the order. Where it is doubtful in which County the defendant may be found, provision is made by Rule 1048 for the issue of concurrent or duplicate orders. Concurrent orders, may, as in the case of concurrent writs, be addressed to different Sheriffs. Formerly when a writ of capias ad respondendum issued, it was not necessary to issue an ordinary writ of summons so far as the defendant arrested was concerned, but the issue of an order for arrest, is not now intended to dispense with the issue of a writ of summons. The writ of summons should be issued and duly indorsed, and served on the defendant before or along with the order for his arrest.

Orders to be in force two months and not renewable.

1047. Every order for arrest shall be in force for two months from the day of the date thereof inclusive, and no longer; but on the expiration thereof a new order may be obtained in the manner directed by The Act respecting Arrest and Imprisonment for Debt. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 29; J. A. Rule 9.

A new order can only be obtained on proof of the like facts and circumstances as were necessary in order to obtain the former order: see R. S. O. c. 67, s. 1. It would seem that the affidavits used on the former application could not be used on a second application; at all events, so far as they related to facts which were susceptible of change, a modification, since the date of the affidavits being sworn.

The two months within which an order for arrest is in force are calendar months: R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, s-s. 15; 51 Vict. c. 2, s. 4, (O). An order made on the 10th day of the month would expire on the 9th day of the second month thereafter. The day of the date of the order being included.

Concurrent orders may issue.

1048. Concurrent or duplicate orders for arrest may be issued from time to time in like manner and form as the original order, and shall be in force for the same period as such original order and no longer. R.S.O. 1877, c. 50, s. 32.

So far as regards the Sheriff to whom the order is directed, the concurrent order would vary from the original order.

Copies, etc., to be served.

1049. Every order, and so many copies thereof as there are persons intended to be arrested thereon shall be delivered with the original order to the Sheriff or other officer to whom the order is delivered for execution, and the plaintiff or his solicitor may direct the Sheriff or officer to arrest one or more of the defendants therein named, which direction shall be duly obeyed by the Sheriff or officer. R.S.O. 1877, c. 50, s. 33. Rules 1050, 1051.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

The direction to the Sheriff should be made by indorsement on the order, and signed by the solicitor.

Sheriff to execute within two months from date.

1050. The Sheriff or officer shall, within two months from the day of the date of the order for arrest, but not afterwards, execute the same according to the exigency thereof, and shall upon or immediately after the execution of such order cause one copy thereof to be delivered to every person whom he is directed to arrest, and shall exhibit the original order to each. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 34.

After the lapse of two calendar months from its date, including the day it bears date, the order ceases to be in force: see Rule 1047. Although the order is in force for two months, yet if the Sheriff execute it before the expiration of the two months the plaintiff may immediately after its execution obtain an order on the Sheriff to return the order for arrest: Arch. Pr. 11th ed., 800. He cannot be so ruled after the plaintiff has taken an assignment of the bail bond, provided it be a valid one under 23 H. 6, c. 9, or where he accepts a capiovit or other security from the defendant without the privity of the Sheriff: Ib., and see Rule 1056, note.

Defendant may apply to a Judge to be discharged from custody.

Power of Judge.

Court may discharge or vary Judge's order.

1051. Any person arrested upon any order for arrest may apply at any time after his arrest to the Court, or a Judge, for an order that he be discharged out of custody; and such Court or Judge may make such order thereon as to such Court or Judge seems fit subject to appeal; and the Judge or acting Judge of a County Court making any order to arrest, whether in the High Court or in his own Court, shall in respect to such order, and the arrest made thereupon, possess all the powers given to a Judge of the High Court under this Rule, and may in like manner, on application to him, order the defendant to be discharged out of custody, or make such order therein as to him seems fit; and any such order made by a County Court Judge may be discharged or varied by a Divisional Court. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 36.

Usually on an application to a Judge to discharge a defendant, the Judge will not, when the affidavits upon which the order for arrest was made, are primâ facie sufficient, discharge the defendant on affidavits being filed negativing his intention to leave Ontario: McGuffin v. Cline, 4 P. R. 134; nor on the ground that the plaintiff's cause of action was not sufficiently shown: Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16; Terry v. Comstock, 6 U. C. L. J. 235; Bank of Montreal v. Campbell, 2 C. L. J. 18; Jones v. Gress, 25 U. C. Q. B. 594; Delisle v. DeGrand, 3 P. R. 105; but see Brown v. Riddell, 13 C. P. 457. But where it appears that the defendant, though about to leave Ontario, was nevertheless on grounds disclosed by the defendant, not liable to arrest, he may be discharged: see Rule 1045, note; and where the plaintiff's cause of action was denied by the defendant and not corroborated by the plaintiff, the defendant was discharged: Donegan v. Short, 12 P. R. 589; and the omission

Rule 1052. to swear to damages where the cause of action is tort, also entitles a defendant to his discharge: Ib. Putting in special bail is a waiver of technical objection to the order for arrest, but it does not amount to a waiver of objections not of a technical nature: McGuffin v. Cline, supra; and see Racey v. Carman, 3 U. C. L. J. 204; sed vide Ross v. Balfour, 5 O. S. 683; Bowers v. Flower, 3 P. R. 62; but an undertaking to put in bail in due course of law is not a waiver of an objection to the affidavit: Glass v. Baby, 1 P. R. 274. When the affidavit on which the order for arrest was made was entitled in the High Court of Justice without naming any Division it was held that the defect was amendable: Robertson v. Coulton, supra; and see R. S. O. c. 67, s. 2; Ellerby v. Walton, 2 P. R. 147; Molloy v. Shaw, 5 P. R. 250; Damer v. Busby, 5 P. R. 356. The order for arrest will not be set aside for irregularity in the affidavit, after the prisoner has escaped: Keefer v. Merrill, Tay. 490. Where the affidavit to hold to bail was made while the defendant was in the United States, and was left here to be used in case he should come over, the arrest was set aside: Cozens v. Ritchie, Dra. 167.

An application to set aside the order for arrest made after special bail put in, and judgment obtained, on the ground that the affidavit was insufficient in law, will not be entertained: Runciman v. Armstrong, 2 C. L. J. 165.

When in the affidavit on which the order was granted, the words "intent to defeat" were used, instead of "intent to defraud," it was held to be no ground for setting aside the arrest: Laing v. Singerland, 12 P. R. 366.

Where the defendant seeks to set aside the Judge's order and arrest, on the ground that the affidavit discloses no sufficient cause of action; or does not show facts which should have satisfied the Judge that the defendant was about to quit Ontario, it would seem that the application is really in the nature of an appeal from the Judge who granted the order, and must be made to the Divisional Court, and cannot be entertained by a single Judge: see Damer v. Busby, 5 P. R. 356, et seq; Diamond v. Cartwright, 22 C. P. 494; Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16; and see Palmer v. Rodgers, 6 U. C. L. J. 188.

When the application under this Rule is made to a Judge upon materials not laid before the Judge who made the order to arrest, the application should in general be to discharge the defendant out of custody, or for the bond or other security to be given up to be cancelled, as the case may require. But when the application is based on the alleged insufficiency of the affidavits on which the order to arrest was granted, then the application may be in addition to set aside the order, but in this case it would seem the application should be made to a Divisional Court as it is in the nature of an appeal from the Judge who granted the order: see supra, and Cartwright v. Hinds, 3 Ont. 384; Gilbert v. Stiles, 13 P. R. 121; and where the application is based upon the insufficiency of the material on which the order for arrest was granted, as distinguished from a motion to discharge the prisoner from custody on the merits, no new material can be used: Ib. A Judge of a County Court who has made an order for arrest in an action in the High Court, under R. S. O. c. 67, s. 1, has power under this Rule to entertain an application to discharge the defendant from arrest.

Statement of claim when to be delivered when defendant is imprisoned for want of bail.

1052. If any defendant is taken or charged in custody upon any such order, and imprisoned for want of bail to the action, the plaintiff may, within one month after the arrest of the defendant, deliver a statement of claim in the action; otherwise the defendant shall be entitled to be discharged from the arrest or detainer, unless further time to deliver a statement of claim is given to the plaintiff by the Court or a Judge. Rules of T. T. 1856, 100; R.S.O. 1877, c. 50, s. 37.

The month mentioned in this Rule is a calendar month: see R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, s-s. 15; 51 Vic. c. 2, s. 4, (O).

The time for delivery of a statement of claim in ordinary cases is now regulated by Rule 369. The object of this Rule is to hasten proceedings against prisoners: Glenn v. Box, 3 U. C. Q. B. 183; Tyson v. McLean, 1 P. R. 339; Bambery v. Salomon, 3 U. C. L. J. 69; Glennie v. Ross, 3 P. R. 289; 10 U. C. L. J. 105. If the defendant be out on bail the Rule does not apply: Glenn v. Box, supra. Rules 1053, 1054.

The pendency of proceedings to set aside the capias and arrest was held to be no excuse for not declaring within the time limited: Houtaling v. Cuttle, 6 P. R. 251.

1053. The plaintiff shall, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders, cause the defendant to be charged in execution within fourteen days after the plaintiff is entitled to enter final judgment. See Rules T. T. 1856, 99. When defendant to be charged in execution.

This Rule is intended to apply to defendants referred to in the preceding Rule, who are imprisoned for want of bail in the action. The term "charging in execution" is the process whereby a prisoner in actual confinement is detained in custody in execution: Hesketh v. Ward, 17 C. P. 667. This is effected by delivering a writ of ca. sa. to the Sheriff. The writ must be delivered to the Sheriff within fourteen days after the time the plaintiff is entitled to enter judgment, and not from the time the judgment is actually entered. Where a defendant is arrested under an order pending action, and before judgment gives bail, and after judgment and ca. sa. to fix bail returned non est inventus, is rendered to the Sheriff's custody by his bail, in their own discharge, such prisoner is still held under the mesne process, and is not charged in execution: Hesketh v. Ward, supra. Where the defendant is not a prisoner at the time of the trial, but is rendered, or renders himself in discharge of his bail before judgment: see Brash v. Latta, 5 U. C. L. J. 225; Curry v. Turner, 3 P. R. 144. Where the defendant is surrendered by his bail after judgment and notice thereof given to the plaintiff: see Torrance v. Holden, 10 U. C. L. J. 322. Where the defendant is out on bail before judgment, he need not be "charged in execution," within the time mentioned in this Rule: Torrance v. Holden, 10 U. C. L. J. 298. The writ of ca. sa. to fix bail must be returnable on a day certain, and not immediately after execution: Proctor v. McKenzie, 11 Ont. App. 486.

Where a defendant is ordered to be discharged because plaintiff has not charged him in execution in due time, he cannot be thereafter arrested on the same judgment: Burn v. Straight, 5 O. S. 523; and see Wheatley v. Sharpe, 8 P. R. 307; Golding v. Mackie, Ib. 237.

See Rob. & Jos. Digest, 3060.

1054. Where the defendant is described in the order for arrest, or affidavit therefor, by initials, or by wrong name, or without a Christian name, the defendant shall not for that cause be discharged out of custody, or the bail bond be delivered up to be cancelled on motion for that purpose, if it appears to the Court that due diligence has been used to obtain knowledge of the proper name. Rules T. T. 1856, 66. Misnomer of defendant in bailable proceedings, effect of.

A defendant arrested, if summoned by a wrong name may still be discharged, and have the bail bond delivered up to be cancelled, unless the plaintiff can shew that he has exercised diligence to ascertain the right name: Ladbrook v. Phillips, 1 H. & W. 109; Rossett v. Hartley, 7 A. & E. 522; and in determining the question whether due diligence has been used, the Court will consider all the circumstances: see Hicks v. Marreco, 1 C. & M. 84; Finch v. Cocken, 2 C. M. & R. 196; Lyon v. Walls, 2 M. & Sc. 393; Lindsay v. Wells, 3 Bing. N. C. 777. The fact that the affidavits to hold to bail are not entitled in any Discharge of defendant for misnomer.

Rules 1055, 1056.

Court is no ground for setting aside the order made thereon: Ellerby v. Walton, 2 P. R. 147; Molloy v. Shaw, 5 P. R. 250; and see Damer v. Busby, 5 P. R. 356.

On writs from County Courts, the Sheriff to take bail from persons arrested, and assign bail bond, etc.

1055. The Sheriff to whom an order for arrest issued out of a County Court is delivered, shall take bail from any defendant arrested thereon, and if required shall assign the bail bond in like manner as in cases where like process is issued from the High Court, and such assignment shall have the same effect as if the order had issued from the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 38.

When plaintiff may sign judgment upon bail bond.

1056. In all cases where the bail bond is directed to stand as a security, the plaintiff shall be at liberty to sign judgment upon it. Rules T. T. 1856, 68.

Bail to Sheriff.

Bail to the Sheriff.—On the arrest of a defendant on mesne process, the sheriff's officer may not carry him to gaol within twenty-four hours from the time of such arrest, under a penalty of £50, unless the defendant refuses to be carried in the meantime, to some safe and convenient dwelling house in the county, to be named by him, not being his own house: 32 Geo. 2, c. 28, ss. 2 and 12; Arch. Pr. 13th ed., 707.

This provision has been held not to apply where a defendant is arrested for disobedience of an order to pay the debt: Mitchell v. Simpson, 23 Q. B. D. 373; 61 L. T. N. S. 248.

It is the duty of the officer to request the defendant to name such house, before he can take him to gaol within the twenty-four hours: Dewhirst v. Pearson, 1 Dowl. P. C. 664; 1 C. & M. 365; Simpson v. Renton, 5 B. & Ad. 35, and see Gordon v. Laurie, 9 Q. B. 60; 18 L. J. Q. B. 98. The defendant is entitled to be discharged on giving bail to the sheriff, and on payment of the sheriff's fees including the costs of the bond. The sheriff may take a bond with one surety; but it is strictly his duty not to accept a bond with less than two sureties. The bond must be executed and taken on or before the tenth day limited by the order for arrest, for putting in special bail. The sheriff is to take bail for the sum indorsed on the order, and no more; 12 Geo. 1, c. 29, s. 2; in practice the penalty is usually double the sum for which the defendant is ordered to be held to bail: see Baker v. Jackson, 9 Ont. 661. The security to the sheriff must be by bond, otherwise it is void, 23 H. 6, c. 9 ss. 7, 8; 10 Co. 101; Lewis v. Knight, 8 Bing. 271; 1 M. & Sc. 353; 1 Dowl. P. C. 261. The bond must be to the sheriff himself by the name of his office, and upon condition written, that the defendant shall appear at the day contained in the order for arrest, and in such place as the order shall require: 23 H. 6, c. 9, s. 7, otherwise it shall be void: Ib. s. 8. If the bond be executed before the condition is filled up it will be void: Powell v. Duff, 3 Camp. 181.

Defendant to be discharged on giving bail to Sheriff.

Form of bond—one surety sufficient, but Sheriff should require two.

The bond is forfeited if the defendant do not put in bail to the action, or as it is called 'bail above,' or 'special bail,' within ten days after his arrest; or if special bail be put in within that time, then by his not perfecting them in due time. When in consequence of the forfeiture of the bail bond to the sheriff, an action is brought thereon, upon an assignment thereof by the sheriff, or proceedings are taken, against the sheriff; upon an application to stay such action or proceedings, in order that the case may be tried on the merits against the original defendant, it is in the power of the Court, or Judge, to direct the bail bond to the sheriff to stand as security to the plaintiff should he succeed in establishing his claim against the defendant on the merits, and it is to cases in which such a direction has been given that Rule 1056 applies.

Bail to Sheriff, when forfeited.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Rules 1057-1060.

1057. Proceedings on the bail bond may be stayed on payment of costs in one action, unless sufficient reason be shewn for proceeding in more. Rules T. T. 1856, 69.

Proceedings on the bail bond may be stayed on payment of costs in one action.

After verdict in more than one action on a bail bond, an application to stay proceedings under this Rule on payment of costs in one action only is too late: Johnson v. Macdonald, 2 Dowl. 44.

1058. In case an order for returning an order for arrest expires in vacation, and the Sheriff or other officer having the return of such order, returns cepi corpus thereon, an order may thereupon issue requiring the Sheriff or other officer within the like number of days after the service of the order, as by the practice of the Court is prescribed with respect to orders to bring in the body, to bring the defendant into Court, by forthwith putting in and perfecting bail to the action, and if the Sheriff or other officer does not duly obey the order, an attachment shall issue for disobedience of the order, whether bail has or has not been put in and perfected in the meantime. Rules T. T. 1856, 74.

Order may issue requiring Sheriff to bring body into Court.

Attachment may issue for disobedience.

Orders to bring in the body are to be made returnable in six days: Rule 908.

The concluding clause of Rule 1058, as to the issue of an attachment against the sheriff, or other officer, must be read in connection with Rule 879; under that Rule an attachment cannot issue in any case without an order therefor, to be applied for on notice to the party against whom it is to be issued: Jupp v. Cooper, 5 C. P. D. 26. It will be noticed that the order prescribed by this Rule is one "to bring the defendant into Court, by forthwith putting in and perfecting bail to the action," i.e., special bail.

Order for issue of attachment is now necessary.

1059. A plaintiff shall not be at liberty to proceed on the bail bond pending an order to bring in the body of the defendant. Rules T. T. 1856, 71.

Plaintiff may not proceed against bail, pending order to bring in body.

The bail bond referred to in this Rule is the bond given to the sheriff, or bail below, and which bond is conditioned for the defendant putting in "special bail," within ten days after his arrest. The sheriff is, under 4 & 5 Ann, c. 16, s. 20, bound to assign this bond to the plaintiff, by "indorsing the same and attesting it under his hand and seal in the presence of two or more credible witnesses;" and if the security be forfeited, the plaintiff may bring an action thereon in his own name; but under this Rule the action cannot be proceeded with pending an order to bring in the body; which is a proceeding to compel the defendant to put in special bail. If the sheriff refuse to assign the bond, an action will lie against him: See Stamper v. Milbourne, 7 T. R. 122. The plaintiff should not take an assignment unless he is satisfied as to the sufficiency of the sureties, as by taking an assignment he waives his right to proceed against the sheriff to compel him to return the order: see Brooks v. Stone, 1 Wil. 223; Etherick v. Cooper, Salk. 99. The plaintiff is not bound to take the assignment though tendered by the sheriff: Rex v. Daw, 2 Salk. 608.

1060. No order shall be drawn up for setting aside an attachment regularly obtained against a Sheriff for not bringing in the body, or for staying proceedings regularly commenced on the assignment of any bail bond, unless the application for the order, if made on the part of the original defendant, be grounded on an affidavit of merits, or if made on the part of the Sheriff, bail, or any officer of the Sheriff, be grounded on an affidavit shewing that the application is really and truly made on the part of the Sheriff, or bail, or officer of the Sheriff, as the case may be, at his or their own expense, and for his or their indemnity only, and without collusion with the original defendant. Rules T. T. 1856, 72.

Special bail must not only be put in, but perfected, before the Court will stay proceedings on the bail bond to the Sheriff: Gould v. Birmingham, 3 O. S. 298. Where the plaintiff had delayed for three years to proceed against the bail below to compel them to put in special bail, proceedings on the bail bond were stayed after judgment and execution, on payment of costs: Young v. Shore, 2 O. S. 314.

Where bail rely on the performance of their undertaking they must plead it, they cannot apply summarily to stay proceedings in such a case: Mitchell v. Noble, 1 C. L. Ch. 284; and see Blackman v. O'Gorman, 5 U. C. L. J. 161.

Where bail surrendered their principal and gave due notice within eight days after the return of process on the recognizance, and the plaintiffs, nevertheless, proceeded to judgment, proceedings were stayed without requiring payment of costs up to the notice: Wright v. Tucker, 6 U. C. Q. B. 24; see Rule 1084.

Special bail may be put in at any time before return of order to bring in body.

1061. Whenever a plaintiff obtains an order to the Sheriff, on a return of cepi corpus to bring in the body, the defendant shall be at liberty to put in and perfect special bail at any time before the expiration of such order. Rules T. T. 1856, 73.

Where Sheriff may be ruled.

The Sheriff may be ordered to bring in the body after the time for putting in bail has expired: Pouchee v. Lieven, 4 M. & S. 427; Hutchins v. Hird, 5 T. R. 479; Potter v. Marsden, 8 East. 525. But the order cannot issue after judgment has been recovered against the sheriff for an escape, nor when the defendant has been released by order of the plaintiffs: Borwick v. Walton, 2 B. & Al. 623; nor where the plaintiff has taken an assignment of the bail bond: 2 Saund. 60 b., provided it be a valid one; nor where he accepts a cognovit or other security from the defendant, without the privity of the Sheriff: Rex v. Sheriff of Surrey in Brewer v. Clarke, 1 Taunt. 159; Arch. Pr. 12th ed., p. 812. The order should be issued, and served promptly: Rex v. Sheriff of Middlesex, 1 Dowl. 53. The order may issue on præcipe without motion: see Rules 908, 909, 912.

Orders to bring in the body are returnable in six days: Rule 908. Under this Rule special bail may be put in at any time before the expiration of the six days.

Condition of recognisance of bail.

1062. The condition of the recognizance of special bail shall be, that, if the defendant be condemned in the action at the suit of the plaintiff, he will satisfy the costs and condemnation money, or render himself to the custody of the Sheriff of the County in which the action against such defendant has been brought, or that the cognizors will do so for him. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 40. Rule 1063.

Notwithstanding the condition of the recognizance to satisfy the costs "and condemnation money" bail are not liable for more than the sum for which bail is ordered and the costs. Thus, where the plaintiff swore to a cause of action in tort for $500, but bail was ordered for $300 only, it was held, notwithstanding that the plaintiff subsequently recovered judgment for $400 damages and $125.27 costs in the action, that the bail were only liable to the extent of $300 and the costs: Baker v. Jackson, 9 Ont. 661; and see Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 392. The condition of the recognizance prescribed by this Rule appears only to be appropriate where a defendant is arrested on mesne process, where he is arrested after judgment it would seem that bail should be required in the terms of R. S. O. c. 67, s. 14.

1063. Upon due notice given to the plaintiff or his solicitor, and upon production of the bail-piece, and whether the defendant is detained in custody or not, bail may justify before any Judge of the Court in which the action is pending, and such justification and the opposing thereof may be by affidavit or affirmation without the attendance of the bail in open Court or before such Judge, unless specially required by such Court or Judge, and such Court or Judge may thereupon issue an order for the allowance of such bail and for the discharge of the defendant (if in custody) by a writ of supersedeas. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 41. How bail may justify. And order for allowance to issue.

(a) Every order of a Judge directing the discharge of a defendant out of custody, upon special bail being put in and perfected, shall also direct a supersedeas to issue forthwith. Rules T. T. 1856, 98. Order for discharge of defendant out of custody.

The first part of the Rule is taken from the C. L. P. Act, the words "any Judge of the Court in which the action is pending," were originally applied to the Judges of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas, and the section was originally enacted before any jurisdiction in Chambers had been conferred on the Clerk of the Crown of the Queen's Bench, and the County Court Judges, and Local Masters. Since the section was originally enacted the Superior Courts of Law and Equity have been amalgamated into one Court.

Bail cannot be justified where their justification is opposed, before the County Court Judge, or Local Master, having jurisdiction in Chambers in the action, nor in Toronto before the Master in Chambers, but the application must in all cases be made before a Judge of the High Court; because the liberty of the subject is involved, and the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, and Local Masters, and County Judges, is therefore excluded: see Rules 30, 41, 138.

Whether the bail-piece should be filed, or simply produced before it has been actually allowed, does not seem to be clear: see Rule 1075, which seems to assume that the bail-piece is to be filed, this Rule speaks merely of its production. According to the English practice it was customary to file the bail-piece in the Judge's Chambers, until the bail had justified and had been allowed, when it was taken out and filed in the office of the Master: Arch. Pr. 11th ed., pp. 823-847. The notice of justification is to be given two days before the time of justification; Rule 1080. Where notice of justification was given at the Rule 1064. same time as notice of the bail being put in, it would seem that the notice was required to be a four days' notice according to the former English practice: see Arch. Pr. 11th ed., 824; but this was expressly provided for by the English Rule 96, H. T. 1853, which does not seem to have been adopted in Ontario. A two days' notice therefore would seem sufficient though the notice of the bail, and notice of justification, be given at the same time.

YORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

If the plaintiff excepts to the bail, it would seem that the affidavits of justification according to Form No. 46, will be primâ facie sufficient, and the onus will lie on the plaintiff either by cross-examination of the bail on their affidavits, or by counter affidavits to establish their insufficiency.

Bail may surrender their principal to the Sheriff of any County, etc.

1064. Special bail, on production of a copy of the bail-piece certified by the Officer of the Court having the custody thereof, may surrender their principal to the Sheriff of the County in which the principal is resident or found, and the Sheriff shall receive the principal into his custody and give the bail a certificate under his hand and seal of office of the surrender, for which certificate the Sheriff shall be entitled to the sum of one dollar, and any Judge of the Court in which the action is pending, upon proof of due notice to the plaintiff or his solicitor of the surrender, and upon production of the Sheriff's certificate thereof, shall order an exoneretur to be entered on the bail-piece, and thereupon the bail shall be discharged. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 42.

The fee by this Rule authorized to be charged by the Sheriff is not included in the Tariff, and it is presumed is payable in addition to the fees therein specified. It is only bail to the action who can render their principal. Bail to the Sheriff cannot render their principal, they can only discharge themselves by having special bail put in and justified: or by special bail being put in and the principal thereupon rendered. Where the defendant himself fails to put in special bail, the bail to the sheriff may put it in, and without justifying may render their principal: see Rule 1082, Arch. Pr. 11th ed., 861; and this may also be done by the Sheriff, or Sheriff's officer, and perhaps by the defendant's solicitor in discharge of any undertaking he may have given. And the render may be made after the Sheriff has been ordered "to bring in the body," and after an assignment of the bail bond and proceedings commenced thereon: Ib. If, however, the plaintiff proceed against the Sheriff the render should in general be made before the expiration of the order to bring in the body: Arch. Pr. 11th ed., 802. Special bail may render their principal ex debito justitiæ at any time pending the action, or after judgment at any time before the return of the ca. sa. The Court also as a matter of favour has allowed bail a further time after the return of a ca. sa. to render their principal: see Rule 1084. If the bail do not render their principal within the time allowed by the latter Rule their right to render him is gone. As to enlarging time for rendering: see Arch. Pr. 11th ed., 863.

It was formerly held that the bail given under a writ of ne exeat had no power to surrender their principal as at common law, and an application by sureties for a discharge from a bond and for repayment of the money paid to the Sheriff as collateral security was refused: McDonald v. McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 22; the money deposited was ordered to be applied in payment of the plaintiff's claim: Richardson v. Richardson, 8 P. R. 274; Needham v. Needham, 29 Gr. 117; but it would seem to be the intention of these Rules to abolish this distinction, and to allow the surrender of the principal by the bail, whether the course of action in respect of which the defendant has been arrested be legal or equitable.

Where the bail render their principal, an order to enter an exoneretur on the bail bond should be obtained; until the exoneretur is entered, the bail remain liable to the plaintiff on the bail bond: Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 392. Rules 1065-1067.

Such surrender not to affect the place of trial.

1065. In cases where the surrender is made to any other Sheriff than the Sheriff of the County specified in the condition of the recognizance of bail, the plaintiff shall not be compelled to change the place of trial or to conduct his suit in any manner different from that in which he would have been required to conduct it had the surrender been made to such last-mentioned Sheriff. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 43.

It may be observed that according to the terms of the order for arrest (Form No. 155) the bail are required to undertake to surrender the defendant to the custody of the Sheriff of the County in which the appearance is required to be entered; but under the preceding Rule 1064, they are authorized to surrender their principal to the custody of the Sheriff of the County in which their principal is resident or found.

Person arrested out of his County may be transferred to it, paying the costs.

1066. In case a person is surrendered by his bail to the Sheriff of any County other than that in which he resided or carried on business at the time, such person shall be entitled to be transferred to the gaol of his own County on prepaying the expense of his removal; and the Sheriff in whose County he was arrested may, if he is satisfied of the facts, transfer him accordingly; but if the Sheriff declines to act without an order of the Court or a Judge, such an order shall be made on the application of the prisoner and notice to the opposite party. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 44.

Special bail may be entered and plaintiff may proceed as upon a writ of summons.

1067. Special bail may be put in and perfected according to the established practice. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 39.

The persons who are to become bail are not to exceed two in number, except by leave of the Court or a Judge: Rule 1070. They must give a bond, or enter into a recognizance before a Judge, or a Commissioner for taking recognizances of bail, to the effect mentioned in Rule 1062. The bond or recognizance with an affidavit of the due taking thereof, and affidavits of justification by the sureties (Rule 1079) must then be filed in the office named in the order for arrest within the time limited by the order, and at least two days' notice given to the plaintiff in writing of the putting in, and justification of, the bail: Rule 1080. If the affidavits of justification are served with this notice, the plaintiff must, before the time appointed for the bail to justify, if he intends to object to the sufficiency of the bail, give one day's notice of exception, otherwise the bail will be allowed as sufficient: Rule 1077. If, however, the affidavits of justification are not served with the notice of bail, the plaintiff has twenty days thereafter within which to serve notice of exception to the bail: Rule 1078. The plaintiff who has excepted to the bail may cross-examine the bail on their affidavits of justification in the usual way, or may file counter affidavits to show their insufficiency: Rule 1063. If the bail is allowed, an order allowing the bail is issued, and a copy thereof is to be served on the plaintiff's solicitor. The bail is then said to be put in and perfected.

Rules 1068-1073.

If the bail are rejected the defendant must get further time to put in bail, otherwise the plaintiff may take an assignment from the Sheriff of the bail bond, and commence an action thereon, or proceed against the Sheriff by attachment. To obtain this, a return of cepi corpus must be obtained to the order for arrest, whereupon an order to bring in the body may issue, and in default of special bail being put in, the attachment may issue : see, however, Rule 1058, note. As to persons disqualified from being bail : see Rules 1071, 1072, 1073, 1074. Bail, though rejected, may, nevertheless, render their principal : Rule 1082.

In cases in a County Court, how plaintiff to proceed.

1068. In case (in any action in a County Court) the defendant has been surrendered by his bail into the custody of the Sheriff of a County other than that in which the action has been instituted, the plaintiff may charge the defendant in execution, and take all other necessary proceedings in like manner as if the suit had been instituted in the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 45.

Bail in C. C.

1069. Recognizances of bail in County Courts may be proceeded upon in like manner as in the High Court. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 46.

All actions upon recognizances of bail are now to be brought by writ of summons, formerly proceedings might be taken by sci. fa., but such proceedings are now abolished : Rule 224.

Notice of more than two bail, irregular.

1070. Notice of more bail than two shall be deemed irregular, unless by order of the Court or a Judge. Rules T. T. 1856, 75.

More than two bail when allowed.

Where the amount is large a Judge may allow several to become bail in different amounts : Anon, 13 Price 448 ; Easter v. Edwards, 1 Dowl. 39.

Bail not to be changed without leave.

1071. The bail of whom notice shall be given, shall not be changed without leave of the Court or a Judge. Rules T. T. 1856, 76.

Where the bail of which the defendant gives notice fail to justify ; the defendant must get leave to add bail, and also an extension of the time for putting in and perfecting the bail.

Bail indemnified by solicitor of defendant cannot justify.

1072. No person shall be permitted to justify himself as good and sufficient bail for any defendant if such person has been indemnified for so doing by the solicitor or solicitors concerned for such defendant. Rules T. T. 1856, 77.

Solicitor for either party cannot take recognizance.

1073. No solicitor shall take any recognizance of bail in a case in which he is employed as solicitor or agent for either party. Rules T. T. 1856, 78.

The affidavit of justification cannot be sworn before the defendant's solicitor : Rule 613 ; Koyle v. Wilcox, 2 O. S. 113.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Rules 1074-1077.

Solicitor, Sheriff's Officer, or Bailiff cannot be bail, except for purpose of rendering.

1074. If any person put in as bail to the action, except for the purpose of rendering only, be a practising solicitor, or clerk to a practising solicitor, or Sheriff's officer, bailiff, or person concerned in the execution of process, the plaintiff may treat the bail as a nullity, and sue upon the bail bond as soon as the time for putting in bail has expired, unless good bail be duly put in in the meantime. Rules T. T. 1856, 79.

After the return day of the order for arrest, where special bail have not already been put in, and where bail to the Sheriff are desirous of rendering their principal, special bail must be put in before the render can be made: Harrison v. Davis, 5 Burr. 2683. It is bail put in under such circumstances, which is bail for the purpose of rendering only, referred to in this Rule.

The render may be made without justification, and even though the bail have attempted to justify and have been rejected.

Bail put in, in the country, how to be justified in Court.

1075. When bail which has been put in, in the country, is to be justified in Court, the bail-piece with the affidavit of the due taking thereof and the affidavit of justification, shall be transmitted by the Deputy Clerk of the Crown for the County in which they have been filed to the proper office in Toronto, to be filed and produced in Court, upon the motion for allowance, on proper notice being given to such Deputy Clerk to transmit the same. Rules T. T. 1856, 80.

It is necessary to justify bail in every case before a Judge of the High Court at Toronto; the County Court Judges, and Local Masters have no jurisdiction to entertain such applications: see Rule 1063 note.

The words "Deputy Clerk of the Crown," in this Rule includes a Local Registrar, or Deputy Registrar, having the custody of the bail piece.

A rule for allowance was refused, where, after justification, one of the bail had absconded: Billings v. Loucks, 5 O. S. 78, and where the notice to the plaintiff stated that special bail had been put in, but the recognizance produced was only for the limits, an application for allowance was refused: Clegg v. McNab, 1 P. R. 150.

If notice of bail be accompanied by affidavit of justification, costs of justification how borne.

1076. If the notice of bail is accompanied by an affidavit of each of the bail, according to the Form No. 46 in the Appendix, and the plaintiff afterwards excepts to such bail, he shall, if such bail are allowed, pay the costs of justification.

The affidavit of justification cannot be sworn before the defendant's solicitor: Rule 613; Koyle v. Wilcox, 2 O. S. 113.

Notice of exception to bail, when to be served.

1077. If the plaintiff does not give one day's notice of exception to the bail by whom the affidavit was made, the recognizance of the bail may be taken out of Court without other justification than the affidavit. Rules T. T. 1856, 82.

LIBRARY

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Rules 1078-1080.

The notice referred to in this Rule should be given at least one day before the time for justifying the bail expires.

Notice of justification of bail is a two days' notic ee Rule 1080.

According to the English practice the exception must be entered in "the bail-book," and giving notice of exception, without making this entry is a nullity: Thwaites v. Gallinger, 4 D. & R. 365; Hodgson v. Garrett, 1 Chit. 174; but as in this province it has not been customary to keep a bail-book, probably the filing of the exception would be sufficient. The expression "the bail may be taken out of Court," refers no doubt to the old practice whereunder the bail piece was first filed in the Judge's Chambers until allowance, and on its being allowed was handed out, and then filed in the proper office; it is equivalent to saying that the bail is to be allowed.

When notice of bail not accompanied by affidavit of justification, plaintiff has 20 days to except.

1078. Where notice of bail is not accompanied by such affidavit, the plaintiff may except thereto within twenty days next after the putting in of such bail, and notice thereof given in writing to the plaintiff or his solicitor, or where special bail is put in before any commissioner, the plaintiff may except thereto within twenty days next after the bail-piece is filed in the proper office, and notice thereof given as aforesaid; and no exception to bail shall be admitted after the time hereinbefore limited. Rules T. T. 1856, 83.

The affidavit referred to in this Rule is the affidavit of justification prescribed by Rule 1076.

Affidavits of justification, form of.

1079. Affidavits of justification shall be deemed insufficient, unless they state that each person justifying is worth double the amount sworn to, over and above what will pay his just debts, and over and above every other sum for which he is then bail, except when the sum sworn to exceeds $4,000, when it shall be sufficient for the bail to justify in $4,000 beyond the sum sworn to. Rules T. T. 1856, 84.

See Rule 1070. Where the affidavit is insufficient the bail may justify in person: Shave v. Spode, 2 M. & W. 42, but the defendant will not in that case be entitled to the costs of justification: Stevens v. Miller, Ib. 368; and see Rule 1078.

It would seem, notwithstanding the wording of this Rule, that the bail need only swear that they are worth double the amount which the defendant is ordered to be held to bail for, which may be less than the amount sworn to by the plaintiff: see Baker v. Jackson, 9 Ont. 661; Rule 1062.

Two days' notice of justification is sufficient.

1080. It shall be sufficient in all cases if notice of justification of bail be given two days before the time of justification. Rules T. T. 1856, 85.

According to the former English practice when notice of bail and notice of justification were given at the same time, the notice was required to be a four days' notice; see Arch. Pr. 11th ed., 824; but this was expressly provided for by the English Rule 96, H. T. 1853, which was not adopted in Ontario.

1081. In all cases bail to the action shall be justified, when required, within four days after exception, before a Judge at Chambers. Rules T. T. 1856, 86. Rules 1081-1085. Bail to action to justify within four days after exception.

This Rule appears to apply to the case when notice of bail is given, and the plaintiff thereupon serves notice of exception before the defendant has given a notice of justification, but in cases where before the notice of exception has been given, a notice of justification has been served, the bail should be justified at the time named in the notice of justification though it may be less than four days after the exception.

1082. Bail, though rejected, shall be allowed to render the principal without entering into a fresh recognizance. Rules T. T. 1856, 87. Bail, though rejected, may render their principal.

A render can only be made by special bail: see Rule 1064, note.

1083. Where bail to the sheriff become bail to the action, the plaintiff may except to them, though he has taken an assignment of the bail bond. Rules T. T. 1856, 70. Plaintiff may except to bail to Sheriff who become bail to an action.

Bail to the Sheriff are persons who give a bond to the Sheriff that the defendant will put in special bail within the time limited by the order for arrest. "Bail to the action" is another term for special bail. Special bail are persons who undertake generally that if the defendant be condemned in the action he will satisfy the costs and condemnation money, or render himself to the custody of the Sheriff of the County in which the action against such defendant has been brought, or they will do so for him: Rule 1062.

Formerly the taking of an assignment of the bail bond to the Sheriff precluded the plaintiff from excepting to the sufficiency of the bail to the Sheriff if they become bail to the action: 2 Saund. 62.

1084. When the plaintiff proceeds by action on the recognizance of bail, the bail shall be at liberty to render their principal at any time within the space of 8 days next after service of process upon them, but not at any later period, and upon notice thereof given, the proceedings shall be stayed upon payment of the costs of the writ and service thereof only. Rules T. T. 1856, 88. When action commenced against bail, they may render their principal.

Where after due notice of render, plaintiff proceeded to judgment, the proceedings were stayed, and the costs incurred subsequent to notice, disallowed: Wright v. Tucker, 6 U. C. Q. B. 24. The Court will not interfere to stay proceedings where the render is made after the time limited by this Rule: Read v. Scoville, 16 U. C. Q. B. 453. Where there is doubt as to the validity of an alleged render of the principal, a Judge in Chambers will not order an exoneretur, but will leave the bail to plead: Blackman v. O'Gorman, 5 U. C. L. J. 161; Potts v. Baird, 7 P. R. 113. Plaintiff proceeding after notice of render not entitled to costs subsequently incurred.

Where the action is brought after render of the principal but before an exoneretur has been entered, the action may be stayed on terms: Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 392.

1085. Bail shall only be liable to the sum sworn to by the affidavit of debt, and the costs of suit, not exceeding in Bail, extent of liability of.

Rules 1086-1088.

the whole the amount of their recognizance. Rules T. T. 1856, 89.

Notwithstanding the wording of this Rule the bail are not liable for more than the amount which the defendant has been ordered to be held to bail for, and the costs. This may be less than the sum sworn to: see Baker v. Jackson, 9 Ont. 661; Rule 1062; Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 392.

Staying proceedings pending appeal.

1086. To entitle bail to a stay of proceedings pending an appeal, the application must be made before the time to surrender is out. Rules T. T. 1856, 90.

The time for surrender is out, after the expiration of eight days from the service of process on the defendant in an action against the bail upon the recognizance: see Rule 1084. The appeal referred to in this Rule is an appeal in the action against the original defendant.

Costs of prior notices of bail.

1087. Wherever two or more notices of justification of bail have been given before the notice on which bail appear to justify, no bail shall be permitted to justify without first paying (or securing to the satisfaction of the plaintiff, his solicitor, or agent) the reasonable costs incurred by such prior notices, although the names of the parties intended to justify, or some of them, may not have been changed, and whether the bail mentioned in any such prior notice have not appeared, or have been rejected. Rules T. T. 1856, 91.

It is not necessary for bail to appear in person to justify, unless so ordered: see Rule 1063; but though the bail do not appear in person, it is presumed this Rule would apply, and their affidavit of justification would not be received until the provisions of this Rule as to the payment of the costs of the former abortive notices of justification had been first paid.

Limit of bail.

1088. In case an order is made for arrest in an action for alimony, the amount of the bail required shall not exceed what may be considered sufficient to cover the amount of future alimony for 2 years, besides arrears and costs, but may be for less at the discretion of the Court or Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 46.

On a motion to discharge a defendant from arrest in an alimony action, the merits of the case may be inquired into, so far as to enable the Judge to determine whether there is any reasonable prospect of the plaintiff recovering judgment; and where the primâ facie case made by the plaintiff on obtaining the order for arrest is clearly rebutted, the defendant may be discharged: Macpherson v. Macpherson, 2 Chy. Ch. 222.

Although the order to hold to bail in an alimony action is not to exceed a sum sufficient to cover future alimony for two years, yet when the Court has acquired control over the funds of the defendant through any default of his, payment of them to him may be refused except on the terms of his securing the future payment of alimony: Gott v. Gott, 10 Gr. 543.

Formerly it was held that where bail was given in an alimony suit, the bail could not render their principal, and if the principal did not satisfy the plain-tiff's demand, the security given by the bail was forfeited: see McDonald v. McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 22; Richardson v. Richardson, 8 P. R. 274; Needham v. Needham, 29 Gr. 117. But these Rules appear to place arrests in actions for alimony on the same footing as arrests for purely legal demands. Rule 1089.

(ii) Absconding Debtors.

1089. Every attaching order in an action against an absconding debtor shall be issued in duplicate and shall be so marked on its face, and one of the duplicates shall be delivered to the sheriff, and the other shall be used for the purpose of serving the defendant. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 6. Orders in duplicate.

Sections 1, 2 and 3 of R. S. O. c. 66, are as follows:

1. If a person resident in Ontario indebted to any other person, departs from Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors, and at the time of his so departing is possessed to his own use and benefit, of any real or personal property, credits or effects therein not exempt by law from seizure, he shall be deemed an absconding debtor, and his property, credits or effects aforesaid, may be seized and taken for the satisfying of his debts by a writ of attachment. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 1. Who to be regarded as an absconding debtor.

PROCEDURE TO OBTAIN WRIT OF ATTACHMENT.

In the High Court.

2. Upon affidavit made by a plaintiff, his servant or agent that a person so departing is indebted to the plaintiff in a sum exceeding $100, and stating the cause of action, and that the deponent has good reason to believe and does verily believe that the person departed from Ontario and has gone to (stating some place to which the absconding debtor is believed to have fled, or that the deponent is unable to obtain any information as to what place he has fled to), with intent to defraud the plaintiff of his just dues, or to avoid being arrested or served with process, and was, at the time of his so departing, possessed of real or personal property, credits or effects, not exempt by law from seizure to his own use and benefit in Ontario, and upon the further affidavit of two other credible persons, that they are well acquainted with the debtor mentioned in the first named affidavit, and have good reason to believe and do believe that the debtor has departed from Ontario with intent to defraud the plaintiff, or to avoid being arrested or served with process, the High Court, or a Judge thereof, or the Judge of a County Court, may order a writ of attachment to issue from said High Court, and may in the order appoint the time for the defendant's putting in special bail, which time shall be regulated by the distance from Ontario of the place to which the absconding debtor is supposed to have fled, having due regard to the means of and necessary time for postal or other communication. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 2. Proceedings upon affidavit that the defendant has absconded, etc. Further affidavit. Writ of attachment to issue.

In County Courts.

3. In case the sum claimed is within the jurisdiction of the County Courts, such Court or the Judge or acting Judge thereof, may in like manner order a writ of attachment to issue from such Court, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as in this Act provided. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 3. Proceedings in cases within County Court jurisdiction.

It would seem to have been the intention of these Rules to do away with the necessity for a writ of attachment, as in the case of writs of capias ad respondendum: Rule 1045; writs of replevin: Rule 1098; writs of mandamus: Rule 1115; writs of injunction: Rule 1130; writs of prohibition: Rule 1138; writs of certiorari: Rule 1140; and to substitute, for the special form of action

Rule 1089. commenced by a writ of attachment, interlocutory proceedings in an ordinary action by which the property of an absconding debtor may be taken and applied in payment of his debts. The Rules above referred to expressly abolish the writs above mentioned and substitute orders therefor, but there is no such express provision abolishing the writ of attachment. Rule 1089, however, seems incidentally to show that a writ is no longer necessary, as one of the duplicate orders is to be used for serving the defendant, and the other as authority to the Sheriff to attach the debtor's property. Again, as the former writ was the commencement of the action, it would seem to have been abolished and the ordinary writ of summons substituted by Rule 224. Any provisions of The Absconding Debtor's Act to the contrary must therefore be considered to be repealed by the Rules; see 51 V. c. 2, s. 4.

Affidavit. Affidavits for Attachment.—The order for an attachment is obtained on motion ex parte, supported by an affidavit to be made by the plaintiff, his servant or agent, showing that the defendant was resident in Ontario, that he was indebted to the plaintiff in a sum exceeding $100, and stating the cause of action, and that the deponent has good reason to believe and does verily believe that the defendant has departed from Ontario and has gone to, (stating some place to which the absconding debtor is believed to have fled, or that the deponent is unable to obtain any information as to what place he has fled to), with intent to defraud the plaintiff of his just dues, or to avoid being arrested or served with process, and was at the time of his so departing, possessed of real or personal property, credits or effects, not exempt by law from seizure, to his own use and benefit in Ontario : Hart v. Ruttan, 23 C. P. 613.

There must be the further affidavits of two other credible persons that they are well acquainted with the debtor mentioned in the first named affidavit, and have good reason to believe, and do believe, that the debtor has departed from Ontario with intent to defraud the plaintiff, or to avoid being arrested or served with process.

The forfeiture of a recognziance to appear constitutes a debt for which an attachment may issue : Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297.

The debt which the plaintiff claims, must be actually due and payable; where the period of credit had not expired it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to sue out a writ of attachment therefor : Kyle v. Barnes, 10 P. R. 20.

The same particularity in stating the cause of action is not required as was formerly required in an affidavit to hold to bail where no order of a Judge was required, nor the same particularity as is required when personal liberty is involved : Bank of Hamilton v. Baine (2), 12 P. R. 439.

Formerly affidavits upon which the order was granted not styled in any Court, although sworn before a Commissioner for taking affidavits in the Q. B., who appended to his signature the words "a Commissioner in B. R. etc., were held to be sufficient : Scott v. Mitchell, 8 P. R. 518, following Ellerby v. Walton, 2 P. R. 147 ; and not following Hart v. Ruttan, supra ; and see Wakefield v. Bruce, 5 P. R. 77 ; but now that the application for the order is made in an action commenced in the usual way it would seem to be proper that the affidavits should be styled in the action except in cases where in an ordinary action leave may be applied for to issue a writ : see notes to Rules 274 and 276.

A statement that the defendant was indebted to the plaintiffs in the amount of certain promissory notes described, showing them to be overdue and held by the plaintiffs, and that defendant had departed, etc., with intent to defraud plaintiffs, was held sufficient : Wakefield v. Bruce, 5 P. R. 77. It is not necessary that the plaintiff should swear that the debtor was residing in this Province, if that fact be sworn to by other persons : Ib. It is sufficient to show that the debtor intended to defraud the plaintiff, without showing intention to defraud creditors generally : Ib.

An affidavit made by a County Crown Attorney proving a debt due to the Crown by an absconding debtor was held sufficient : Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297. On a motion to set aside the writ, it was held that any defect in the affidavits on which the order for the writ was granted, might be supplied by the affidavits filed in answer to the motion : Ib. Where a defendant had by his solicitor accepted service of the writ with knowledge of certain alleged irregularities and neglected moving against the writ until after the time for pleading had expired, he was held to have waived the objection: Ib. Rule 1089.

A defendant whose family resided in the United States, but who for several months was in this Province purchasing horses for the United States Army and contracting debts therefor with the declared intention of moving permanently into Canada, was held to be sufficiently a resident within Ontario, to be within the Act: Higgins v. Brady, 10 U. C. L. J. 268. Where the deponents reside far from the debtor, the grounds of their belief should be set out: Bank of Upper Canada v. Spafford, 2 O. S. 373; and see Rule 609. Where the affidavit stated that the defendant "has left the Province or is concealed within the same" it was held sufficient: Totten v. Fletcher, T. T. 2 & 3 Vict.; Har. & Jos. Dig. 3. The affidavits must show that the defendant is, or was, a resident of Ontario: Higgins v. Brady, 10 U. C. L. J. 268. It is not sufficient to describe the debtor as "lately doing business" in Ontario, nor to describe him as having "departed from Canada": Ib.

A claim for unliquidated damages is not one upon which an order for attachment can be obtained: see Clark v. Ashfield, E. T., 7 W. 4; Har. & Jos. Dig. 4194.

Application for order to whom to be made.—The application for the order may be made to a Judge of the High Court, or to the Master in Chambers, or any of the Local Judges, or Masters having jurisdiction in Chambers under Rules 30, 41, 138. Where the order has been granted by a Judge of a County Court it has been held that he has no jurisdiction to entertain an application by the defendant to set it aside: Disher v. Disher, 12 P. R. 518, but perhaps in this case it was not sufficiently taken into account that the jurisdiction of a County Court Judge in actions in the High Court is not limited by the provisions of the Statute: R. S. O. c. 62, s. 2; and that he has now a general jurisdiction in Chambers in actions in the High Court under the Rules, over and above that conferred by the Statute. Where the amount claimed is within the jurisdiction of the County Court the application may be made to and the order may be issued out of that Court: R. S. O. c. 66, s. 3. Motion for order.

Successive applications may be made for an order for attachment to successive Judges upon the same material, and an order granted by any one of them will be as valid as if it had been made by the first one, but on each subsequent application on the same or different material, the Judge should be notified of every previous application, though this is more as a matter of propriety than a legal right, and the omission to do so would not be a ground for setting aside the order: Bank of Hamilton v. Baine (2), 12 P. R. 439.

Form of Order.—The Statute (see R. S. O. c. 66, s. 2), enacts that the order is to direct a writ of attachment to issue from the High Court and is to appoint the time for the defendant's putting in special bail, which time is to be regulated by the distance from Ontario of the place to which the absconding debtor is supposed to have fled, having due regard to the means of and the necessary time for postal or other communication. Form of order.

It was formerly held to be unnecessary for the order for the writ to state the amount for which special bail is to be put in: Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297. The sum should, however, now be named in the order of attachment, and the amount sworn to on the affidavits in which the order is obtained is the amount for which special bail must be put in: Ib. at p. 300, and see Rule 1095.

The Rules give no form of order of attachment. The following form is therefore suggested, based upon the form of the writ prescribed by R. S. O. 1887, c. 68, s. 4.

Form of Order of Attachment.

Upon the application of the above plaintiff, and upon hearing read the writ of summons and the affidavits of, etc., and upon hearing the Solicitor for the applicant.

Rule 1069. It is ordered that the Sheriff of the County of , etc., do attach, seize and safely keep all the real and personal property, credits and effects, together with all evidences of title or debts, books of account, vouchers and papers belonging thereto, of C. D., to secure and satisfy the plaintiff A. B. a certain debt (or demand) of $ (the sum sworn to), with his costs of action, and to satisfy the debt and demand of such other creditors of the said C. D. as shall duly place their Orders of Attachment in the hands of said Sheriff or otherwise lawfully notify him of their claim, and duly prosecute the same.

And it is further ordered that the said C. D., do within days after the service of this order on him, inclusive of the day of such service, cause special bail to be entered for him in ,) in this action.

And the said C. D. is hereby required to take notice that his real and personal property, credits and effects in Ontario, have been hereby ordered to be attached at the suit of the said A. B., and that in default of his putting in special bail as aforesaid, the [said A. B. may, by leave of the Court or a Judge, proceed in the action to judgment and execution, and the] (a) said Sheriff may sell the property so attached :

And it is further ordered that the said Sheriff, as soon as he has executed this order, do return the same with the inventory and appraisement of what he has attached thereunder.

Memorandum to be subscribed or indorsed on the Order.

N.B.—This Order is to be served within six months from the date thereof, or if renewed, then from the date of such renewal, including the day of such date, and not afterwards.

See R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, Sched.

Effect of Attachment.—The placing of the order of attachment in the Sheriff's hands does not of itself bind the goods of the debtor, there must be a levy made thereunder : Potter v. Carroll, 9 C. P. 442 ; neither does the order bind the debtor's lands until actual seizure ; Kingsmill v. Warener, 13 U. C. Q. B. 18 ; Robinson v. Bergin, 10 P. R. 127. Where there had been no seizure under the order until after a fi. fa. had been placed in the Sheriff's hands, the latter was formerly entitled to priority : Ib. Since The Creditors Relief Act and s. 56 of The Absconding Debtors Act, however, there will be no such priority. Formerly where proceedings under The Absconding Debtors Act were taken prior to the delivery of an execution to the Sheriff, it was held that The Creditors Relief Act did not apply ; but the distribution of the property attached took place under The Absconding Debtors Act, and creditors had to recover execution for their debts in order to participate in the proceeds : Macfie v. Pearson, 8 Ont. 745.

Whether under that Statute as revised it is any longer necessary for other creditors to recover execution is not very clear. In R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 28, there was an express provision that where several persons sued out writs of attachment against an absconding debtor the proceeds of the property attached were to be rateably distributed among such of the plaintiffs in such writs as obtained judgments and sue out executions, but this provision has been omitted.

By R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 26, it is provided that "in case the property and effects of the absconding debtor are insufficient to satisfy the executions and other claims certified, none shall be allowed to share, unless their proceedings under this Act, (i.e., The Absconding Debtors Act), or The Creditors Relief Act, or the provisions of The Division Courts Act respecting absconding debtors were commenced within six months from the date of the first writ of attachment." By the following s. 27, it is also provided that "the Court or a Judge may delay the distribution in order to give reasonable time for the obtaining of judgment or allowance of claims by persons who have commenced proceedings in due time against the absconding debtor." Rules 1090-1092.

(a) Query whether the words here in brackets, taken from a form of the old writ of attachment, should not be omitted, as now that the action is commenced by writ of summons like any other action, the plaintiff may proceed to judgment, if no appearance or defence is entered ; and the consequence of not putting in special bail would seem to be that the sheriff may sell the property attached.

The probable effect of these provisions is that it is not necessary for other creditors to proceed by attachment, but, where any execution is in the Sheriffs' hands, that it will suffice for other creditors to obtain executions or certificates under The Creditors Relief Act, and that to that extent the decision in Macfie v. Pearson, supra, may now be considered to be superseded. The first attaching creditor is entitled to priority as against other creditors for his costs of issuing the attachment and the Sheriff's fees for executing it, and also the costs of obtaining an order to sell the property: Darling v. Smith, 10 P. R. 360; and see R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 20, (3); Hughes v. Field, 9 P. R. 127.

1090. Every such attaching order shall be dated on the day on which it is made, and shall remain in force as long as the writ of summons is in force. Date.

The writ of summons remains in force for 12 months: Rule 238.

1091. The plaintiff may, at any time within six months from the date of the original order of attachment, upon application to the proper officer, obtain one or more certified copy or copies of the attaching order, which may be delivered to any Sheriff other than the Sheriff to whom the original order was delivered, for the purpose of attaching the property, credits, or effects of the defendant in aid of the original order. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 7. Further orders within six months

Six months was mentioned in R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 7, because that was the duration of the writ of attachment. It would have been more consistent with Rule 1090 to have limited twelve months instead of six months in the above Rule.

1092. In actions against absconding debtors, the writ of summons and order of attachment may be served in like manner as in ordinary actions. New. Service.

The intention of this Rule would seem to be to enable a plaintiff to proceed in the action upon such service as would enable him to obtain judgment in an ordinary action, and to abrogate the former practice under sec. 8, of R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, by which an application for leave to proceed after service of the writ, or reasonable efforts to effect service, where the defendant has not put in special bail, was necessary: see 51 Vict. c. 2, s. 4.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 1, is as follows:

8. "In case it is shewn by affidavit to the Court or a Judge, that a copy of the writ was personally served on the defendant, or that reasonable efforts were made to effect service, and that the writ came to his knowledge, or that the defendant has absconded in such a manner that after diligent inquiry no information can be obtained as to the place he has fled to, the Court or Judge, if the defendant has not put in special bail, may either require some further attempt to effect service or may appoint some act to be done which shall be deemed good service, and thereupon (or on the first application, if the Court or Judge thinks fit), the Court or Judge may authorize the plaintiff to proceed in the action in such manner and subject to such conditions as the Court or Judge may direct or impose." R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 8.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Rules 1093, 1094.

Under that section service of an attachment on the wife of the debtor was allowed as good service upon the debtor, on its being shewn by affidavit that the plaintiff after diligent inquiry was unable to ascertain the debtor's whereabouts: McDougall v. Gilchrist, 3 C. L. J. 28. An affidavit for the allowance of substitutional service was required, among other things, to state what efforts have been made to effect personal service: Stephen v. Dennie, 3 C. L. J. 69.

By the practice under the Statute the plaintiff could take no step until the three months allowed for the defendant to put in bail had expired: Banker v. Griffin, 3 O. S. 163. The intention of this Rule would seem to be to allow the action to proceed in the same manner as in an ordinary action.

Plaintiff to prove claim.

1093. Before the plaintiff shall be entitled to sign judgment by default he shall file an affidavit, proving the amount of the debt and damages claimed by him in such action, after giving credit for all payments and claims which might be set off or lawfully claimed by the debtor at the time of making the affidavit. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 9.

This Rule, it is presumed, supersedes the provisions of R. S. O. 1887, c. 68, s. 9, which is as follows:

Plaintiff must prove his claim, etc. Rev. Stat. c. 53.

"9. Before the plaintiff obtains judgment he shall prove the amount of the debt or damages claimed by him in the action, either before a jury on an assessment, or by reference as provided in section 1 of The Act respecting Arbitration and References, according to the nature of the case, and no execution shall issue until the plaintiff, his solicitor or agent, has made and filed an affidavit of the sum justly due to the plaintiff by the absconding debtor, after giving him credit for all payments and claims which might be set off or lawfully claimed by the debtor at the time of making the affidavit, and the execution shall be endorsed to levy the sum so sworn to with the taxed costs, or the amount of the judgment including the costs, whichever is the smaller sum of the two. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 9."

Proof of the debtor's signature to a note, without proof of the plaintiffs being the payees, was considered sufficient proof of the debt: Appleton v. Dwyer, 4 U. C. Q. B. 247.

Defendant may be let in.

1094. The Court or Judge may, either before or after final judgment, let in the defendant to put in special bail and defend the action, in the same manner, and subject to the same rules and discretion, as on a like application in an ordinary action. See R. S. O. c. 68, s. 10.

This Rule, it is presumed, is intended to supersede R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 10, which is as follows:

10. "The Court or a Judge at any time before or after final judgment, but before execution executed, upon an application supported by affidavits satisfactorily accounting for the defendant's delay and default and disclosing a good defence on the merits, may, having regard to the time of the application and other circumstances, let in the defendant to put in special bail and to defend the action. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 10."

Application for leave to put in bail is of course only necessary when the defendant has omitted to do so within the time limited by the order.

The special bail required to be put in is the same as is required when a defendant is arrested on mesne process: see Rule 1062, and notes, and Rule 1095.

Formerly when a defendant entered an appearance, instead of putting in special bail as required by the writ, it was held to be a useless proceeding: Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297; the only way in which the defendant could entitle himself to defend the action being by putting in special bail: Offay v. Offay, 26 U. C. Q. B. 363. Rules 1095, 1096.

Under the present Rules, however, it would seem to be intended that the defendant may appear and defend the action in the same way as in any other action, and that special bail is only required to enable him to obtain the return of his property under sec. 12 of the Act.

Although a defendant had not put in special bail, his counsel, it would seem, under the former practice, might nevertheless appear at the trial, cross-examine the plaintiff's witnesses, and give evidence in mitigation of damages: Offay v. Offay, 26 U. C. Q. B. 363.

Formerly, also, another attaching creditor of the absconding debtor might appear at the trial of the plaintiff's claim and cross-examine the plaintiff's witnesses, and address the jury against the plaintiff: Lavis v. Baker, 13 C. P. 506; and such other creditor might also move for a new trial of the plaintiff's action upon affidavits, showing fraud and collusion between the plaintiff and the defendant: Ib.

The validity of a judgment might formerly have been attacked, and may still be attacked, by another creditor of the debtor in an independent proceeding: McDonald v. Boice, 12 Gr. 48; and formerly also by an interlocutory application in the action, in which the impeached judgment was recovered: Bank of Montreal v. Burnham, 1 U. C. Q. B. 131; White v. Lord, 13 C. P. 289; see also Bevan v. Wheat, 14 C. P. 51; Dickson v. McMahon: Ib. 521. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 21; but this section was repealed by 46 Vict. c. 6, s. 4, (O); (see now R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 20) and no similar enactment made. So that it is doubtful whether a third party can now intervene by such an interlocutory application.

The Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction to set aside a judgment entered pursuant to the finding of a County Court Judge upon a reference, at the instance of another creditor who wishes to be let in to defend: Wills v. Carroll, 10 P. R. 142.

1095. The special bail (whether put in within the time limited by the order, or within such time as the Court or a Judge directs,) shall be put in and perfected in like manner as if the defendant had been arrested for the amount sworn to on obtaining the attachment. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 11. Special bail, how put in.

This Rule, it is presumed, is intended to supersede R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 11, which is as follows:

"11. The special bail (whether put in within the time limited by the writ or within such time as the Court or a Judge directs), shall be put in and perfected in like manner as if the defendant had been arrested on a writ of capias for the amount sworn to on obtaining the attachment; and after being so put in and perfected, the defendant shall be let in to defend, and the action shall proceed as in ordinary cases. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68. s. 11."

1096. Upon the defendant so putting in and perfecting special bail, all his property, credits and effects attached in the action (excepting any which may have been disposed of as perishable, and then the net proceeds of the goods so disposed of,) shall be restored and paid to him, unless Property to be returned.

Rule 1097. there be some other lawful ground for the Sheriff to withhold or detain the same. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 12.

This Rule, it is presumed, is intended to supersede R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 12, which is as follows :

"12. Upon the defendant so putting in and perfecting special bail, all his property, credits and effects attached in that action (excepting any which may have been disposed of as perishable, and then the net proceeds of the goods so disposed of), shall be restored and paid to him unless there be some other lawful ground for the Sheriff to withhold or detain the same. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 12."

Motion against order.

1097. If at any time before the execution issues it appears, upon motion, that the defendant was not an absconding debtor at the time of obtaining the attaching order, such defendant shall recover his costs of defence, to be deducted from the amount of the plaintiff's claim or judgment; and the plaintiff shall be entitled only to judgment or execution for the excess, if any; and if the taxed costs of the defendant are greater that the amount of the plaintiff's claim or judgment, then the defendant shall be entitled to an order for payment of the excess forthwith. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 19.

This Rule, it is presumed, is intended to supersede R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 19, which is as follows :

"19. If, before execution issues, it appears to the Court upon motion and upon hearing the parties by affidavit, that the defendant was not an absconding debtor within the meaning of this Act, at the time of the issue of the writ of attachment against him, he shall recover his costs of defence, and the plaintiff shall not have execution for the amount of the verdict rendered or ascertained upon reference or otherwise recovered in the action, unless the same exceeds, and then for such sum only as the same exceeds the amount of the taxed costs of the defendant, and in case the sum so recovered is less than the taxed costs of the defendant, he shall be entitled, after deducting the amount of the sum recovered from the amount of the taxed costs, to take out execution for the balance. R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 19."

The intent with which the debtor left the Province can be tried on affidavit on an application to set aside the attachment: Jackson v. Randall, 6 P. R. 165.

When property had been sold under the attachment, the Court on setting it aside, ordered the Sheriff to pay over the moneys realized to the defendant, and directed that no action should be brought for anything done under the attachment: Hart v. Ruttan, 23 C. P. 613.

2. Replevin.

The action of replevin was originally the form of action for the recovery of goods wrongfully taken out of the possession of a person under a distress; but early in the history of Upper Canadian Law the form of action was extended to other cases in which the goods sought to be recovered had not necessarily been taken out of the plaintiff's possession, but were merely wrongfully detained by the defendant. Actions of trover might result in the return of the goods, but were also for damages for the unlawfully taking or detaining of goods, and the value of the goods might be recovered. The object of an action of replevin was to obtain the goods in the first place, and therefore this remedy was extended, so as to be employed in cases in which the obtaining of the goods was the important matter.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

C. S. U. C. c. 29, s. 1, and R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 2, provided that an action of replevin might be brought: Rule 1097.

(1) Where personal property has been wrongfully distrained under the circumstances in which by the law of England at the date of the Con. Stat. U. C. (viz., 5th Dec., 1859), replevin might be brought.

(2) Where trespass, or trover, would lie for the wrongful-taking or detaining of personal property.

This is in effect the present law as embodied in R. S. O. 1887, c. 55, ss. 2, and 3, which are as follows:—

2. Where goods, chattels, deeds, bonds, debentures, promissory notes, bills of exchange, books of account, papers, writings, valuable securities or other personal property or effects have been wrongfully distrained under circumstances in which by the law of England, on the 5th day of December, 1859, replevin might have been made, the person complaining of such distress as unlawful may bring an action of replevin; or where such goods, chattels, property or effects have been otherwise wrongfully taken or detained, the owner or other person capable of maintaining an action for damages therefor may bring an action of replevin for the recovery of the goods, chattels, property or effects, and for the recovery of the damages sustained by reason of the unlawful caption and detention, or of the unlawful detention, in like manner as actions are brought and maintained by persons complaining of unlawful distresses. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 2. When goods may be replevied.

3. No party to an action or proceeding, in any Court, shall replevy or take out of the custody of the Sheriff, Bailiff, or other officer, any personal property seized by him under process against such party. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 3. Goods seized not to be replevied by parties.

Under section 2, replevin will lie in Ontario though there has been no wrongful taking, but a detention only is complained of: Deal v. Potter, 26 U. C. Q. B. 578, and though both a wrongful taking and a detention are alleged, for every detention is a new taking: Ib.

Replevin may be brought on an improper distress for school rates: Applegarth v. Graham, 7 C. P. 171; and see Halpin v. Calder, 26 C. P. 501; Askew v. Manning, 38 U. C. Q. B. 345; or for other taxes, Sargant v. City of Toronto, 12 C. P. 185. Cases of distress.

Where a distress is properly made for some taxes, and also for other sums not properly collectable, it would seem that replevin would not lie until what is properly due has been paid: Corbett v. Johnston, 11 C. P. 317: Goods improperly pledged or sold, by a person having no right thereto, may be replevied by the owner: Bush v. Fry, 15 Ont. 122. Formerly, goods seized under an attachment from a Division Court might have been replevied by a third party claiming them as his own: Arnold v. Higgins, 11 U. C. Q. B. 191; but the proper remedy of the claimant is now to proceed under R. S. O. c. 51, ss. 269 et seq.: but see Reid v. McDonald, 26 C. P. 147.

As being in the custody of the law the following have been held to be not repleviable:—A vessel in the hands of a collector of customs seized for breach of revenue laws: Scott v. McRae, 3 P. R. 16; goods in the hands of an official assignee in insolvency: Barclay v. Sutton, 7 P. R. 14; and see the question as to how far goods seized under execution or attachment are protected from the remedy by replevin discussed in Jameson v. Kerr, 6 P. R. 3. Goods in custodia legis.

Replevin will not lie against a pound-keeper: Ibbottson v. Henry, 8 Ont. 625.

In replevin against one person goods cannot be taken out of the peaceable possession of another without notice or demand: G. W. Ry. Co. v. McEwan, 28 U. C. Q. B. 528; Stoeser v. Springer, 7 Ont. App. 497; Hoorigan v. Driscoll, 8 P. R. 184. Goods in possession of third person.

Plaintiffs in possession of certain lumber limits were held entitled to maintain replevin against a wrong-doer in respect of saw-logs cut on the limits, though by reason of an infirmity in the license they might have no title as against the Crown: Gilmour v. Buck, 24 C. P. 187.

Under the terms of the C. S. U. C. c. 29, s. 1, it was formerly held that where there was not sufficient evidence to constitute a conversion of the goods by defendant, so as to support an action of trover, replevin would not lie: Smalley v. Gallagher, 26 C. P. 531; but the old learning on the subject of conversion is not imported into the system introduced by the Jud. Act: Stimson v. Block, 11 Ont. 96. R. S. O. 1887, c. 55, s. 2, provides for redress where goods are wrongfully taken or detained, in favour of the person capable of maintaining an action for damages therefor, and in such cases the question is, whether there has been such an unauthorized dealing with the plaintiff's property as has caused him damage; and if so, to what extent he has sustained damage: Stimson v. Block, supra.

Writ of replevin abolished.

1098. The writ of replevin is hereby abolished. Whenever a party is entitled to replevy goods he may obtain an order therefor in an action commenced by writ of summons. New.

The order issued, of which a form is given in the Appendix Form 153, contains what was formerly contained in the writ.

The original Rule respecting the commencement of actions, did not apply to actions of replevin, so that a writ of replevin, declaration and avowry under the old practice were necessary: see Campan v. Lucas, 9 P. R. 142; Wallace v. Cowan, Ib. 144.

An action of replevin is since this Rule to be commenced like any other action, by writ of summons, and the return of the goods is to be obtained by order under Rule 1099, after the action is so commenced.

1099. An order of replevin may be obtained,

When motion for order required.

(1) On motion therefor on an affidavit by the person claiming the property, or some other person showing to the satisfaction of the Court or a Judge, the facts of the wrongful taking or detention which is complained of, as well as the value and description of the property, and that the person claiming it is the owner thereof, or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof (as the case may be);

On præcipe.

(2) Or on præcipe if the person claiming the property, his servant or agent, makes an affidavit which shall be entitled and filed in the Court out of which the order is to issue, stating:

Affidavit to obtain order on præcipe.

(a) That the person claiming the property is the owner thereof, or that he is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof, describing the property in the affidavit;

(b) The value thereof to the best of his belief;

(c) That the property was wrongfully taken out of the possession of the claimant, or was fraudulently got out of his possession, within two months next before the making of the affidavit;

(d) That the deponent is advised and believes that the claimant is entitled to the order;

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

(e) And that there is good reason to apprehend that unless the order is issued without waiting for a motion, the delay would materially prejudice the just rights of the claimant in respect to the property. Rule 1099.

(3) Or on præcipe (in case the property was distrained for rent or damage feasant), if the person claiming the property, his servant or agent, makes an affidavit (which shall be entitled and filed in the Court from which the order is to issue), stating, Order may issue on præcipe if the property was distrained for rent or damage feasant.

(a) That the person claiming the property is the owner thereof, or that he is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof, (describing the property in the affidavit);

(b) The value thereof to the best of his belief;

(c) That the property was taken under colour of a distress for rent or damage feasant, and in such case the order shall state that the defendant has taken and unjustly detains the property, under colour of a distress for rent or damage feasant (as the case may be). R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 6.

(4) Except as hereinbefore mentioned no order of replevin shall be issued.

The order is issued on præcipe (by the officer in whose office appearance in the action is required to be entered: see Rules 20 and 25), in cases where the goods have been taken out of the plaintiff's possession, or distrained for rent or damage feasant. A special application is necessary under clause (1) in other cases.

The latter application is made in Chambers ex parte unless the Judge directs notice to be given: Rule 1100.

The affidavit for a præcipe order is to be by the person claiming the property, his servant or agent. An affidavit not describing the deponent as servant or agent, but using the words "now acting for the said (plaintiff)" was held to be insufficient, but for the fact that it further shewed facts from which the agency might be inferred: Arnold v. Hamilton, 1 P. R. 263.

The affidavit on special application under clause (1) may be by any one cognizant of the facts necessary to be sworn to.

In either case the affidavit must be sufficiently explicit to enable the Sheriff to identify the property: Jones v. Cook, 2 P. R. 396; Hoorigan v. Driscoll, 8 P. R. 184; and the description must be inserted in the order: Rule 1102.

An objection that there was in fact no taking or detention is not a ground for setting aside the order; that is one of the questions to be determined in the action: Gilchrist v. Conger, 11 U. C. Q. B. 197.

An order will not be granted to replevy a vessel seized for breach of the revenue laws: Scott v. McRae, 3 P. R. 16; neither should the order be issued on præcipe in such a case: Ib.

Where the order is issued on præcipe the Sheriff takes the property under it, but does not replevy it without further order directing him to do so, except where the property was distrained for rent or damage feasant: Rule 1106.

Rules 1100-1103.

Discretionary power of the Court or Judge when an application for an order is made.

1100. Where a motion for an order is made, the Court or Judge may proceed on the ex parte application of the plaintiff, or may direct notice to be served on the defendant to show cause why the order should not issue; and may on the ex parte application, or on the return of the motion, grant or refuse the order, or direct the sheriff to take a bond in less or more than treble the value of the property, or may direct him to take and detain the property until the further order of the Court, instead of at once replevying the same to the plaintiff; or may impose any terms or conditions in granting the order, or in refusing the same, on the return of a motion, as under the circumstances in evidence appear just. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 7.

Defendant may apply to discharge order.

1101. In case an order of replevin is issued, the defendant may at any time, or from time to time, on notice to the plaintiff, apply to the Court or a Judge, on affidavit or otherwise, to discharge, vary, or modify the order, or to stay proceedings under the order, or for any other relief, to be specified in the notice, with respect to the return, safety or sale of the property or any part thereof, or otherwise; and the Court or Judge may make such order thereon as, under all the circumstances, best consists with justice between the parties. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 9.

An objection that there was in fact no taking is not a ground for setting aside the order: Gilchrist v. Cooper, supra, in note to Rule 1099.

An objection that a writ of replevin was directed to a Sheriff who was sole liquidator of the plaintiff company, was over-ruled, in Alpha Oil Co. v. Donnelly, 12 P. R. 515.

This Rule applies to applications to discharge the order of replevin on the merits, and not for mere irregularities: Ib.

Contents of order and how to be dated.

1102. The order shall state the description and value of the property, and shall be dated on the day on which it is made, and may be in the words or the effect of Form No. 153 in the Appendix, or otherwise adapted to the circumstances of the case. R. S O. 1877, c. 53, s. 10.

Sheriff, before he replevies, to take bond.

1103. Before the Sheriff acts on the order he shall take a bond [from the plaintiff with two sufficient sureties] in treble the value of the property to be replevied, as stated in the order; which bond shall be assignable to the defendant; and the bond and assignment thereof may be in the words or to the effect of Form No. 208 in the Appendix, the condition being varied to correspond with the order. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 11. Rule 1104.

The taking of a bond is imperative, and no act can be done under the order until the security is given: see Lawless v. Radford, 9 P. R. 33, where the seizure was set aside as irregular.

This Rule makes it clear, by the insertion of the words "from the plaintiff with two sufficient sureties," that the Sheriff is bound to use due care to obtain a bond sufficient, at the time of taking it, to answer the damages recoverable in the event of the plaintiff being unsuccessful: see Norman v. Hope, 13 Ont. 556; 14 Ont. 287. The Sheriff must exercise a reasonable discretion in inquiring into the sufficiency of the sureties; if he fails to do so he will be liable to the defendant in the replevin action in case it results in his favour, for all damages to the amount of the penalty naturally flowing from the wrongful act, viz.: (where the replevin arises out of distress for rent) the rent in arrear, costs of distress and of the replevin suit, and of any action against the principal and sureties on the bond: Ib.

As two sufficient sureties are required it will not be sufficient if the plaintiff in replevin and one of the sureties are worth the amount of the penalty at the time the bond is taken: Ib.

Semble that a subscribing witness is necessary to the validity of the bond: see Heley v. Cousins, 34 U. C. Q. B. 63.

As to the terms and extent of the security to which defendant is entitled in cases respecting goods not previously taken out of the plaintiff's possession, see also Rule 1104.

An action lies against the Sheriff for refusing to assign the bond: Pacaud v. McEwan, 31 U. C. Q. B. 328. Only nominal damages were recovered where the plaintiff was found not entitled to recover the value of the goods, not being their owner: Ib.

An action on the bond will lie,

(1) For not prosecuting the suit with effect, i.e., not successfully; as to which see Welsh v. O'Brien, 28 U. C. Q. B. 405: Mulvaney v. Hopkins, 18 U. C. Q. B. 174; Patterson v. Fuller, 31 U. C. Q. B. 323; 32 U. C. Q. B. 240.

(2) For delay in prosecuting: see Beltcher v. Burn, 24 U. C. Q. B. 124; Churchill v. Denham, 29 C. P. 474.

(3) For not returning the goods: see Patterson v. Fuller, supra.

As to the damages recoverable, see Norman v. Hope, 13 Ont. 556. Formerly the excess of solicitor and client costs of defence, over and above taxed party and party costs, were not recoverable: Williams v. Crowe, 10 Ont. App. 501; but see now Rule 1104.

(a) The bond shall be subject to the provisions of section 8 of chapter 11 of the Act passed by the Imperial Parliament in the 8th and 9th years of the reign of His Majesty King William the Third. R. S. O, 1877, c. 53, s. 12. Replevin bond to be subject to 8 & 9 Wm. III. c. 11, s. 8.

For the terms of the statute referred to, see note to Rule 712, supra p. 610.

1104. Where an order of replevin is issued for any personal property which had not been previously taken out of the plaintiff's possession, and for which the plaintiff might formerly have brought an action of trespass or trover, the defendant shall be entitled, if the plaintiff fails in the action to be fully indemnified against all damages sustained by the defendant, including any extra costs which he may Indemnity of defendant in replevin proceedings.

Rules 1105-1107.

incur in defending the action; and the bond to be taken by the Sheriff or Bailiff shall be conditioned, not only as heretofore required in that behalf but also to indemnify and save harmless the defendant from all loss and damage which he may sustain by reason of the seizure, and of any deterioration of the property in the meantime, in the event of its being returned, and all costs, charges, and expenses which the defendant may incur, including reasonable costs not taxable between party and party. This Rule shall not apply to cases of distress for rent or damage-feasant. 48 V. c. 13, s. 8.

This Statute from which this Rule is taken was probably passed in consequence of the decision in Williams v. Crow, 10 Ont. App. 301, to the effect that a successful defendant in replevin could not recover as damages, the extra costs he had been put to between solicitor and client.

Under this Rule these extra costs are now recoverable except in cases of replevin where the goods have been distrained for rent or damage feasant.

The sureties are not discharged by the trial being postponed on the application of the plaintiff without the defendant's consent or concurrence; O'Connell v. Duchenault, 14 Ont. 1.

Sheriff not to serve writ till he has replevied.

1105. The Sheriff shall not serve a copy of the writ of summons or the order until he has replevied the property, or some part of the property therein mentioned, if he cannot replevy the whole in consequence of the defendant having eloigned the same out of his county, or because the same is not in the possession of the defendant, or of any person for him. R. S. O. 1877 c. 53, s. 13.

What Sheriff shall do when the orders issues on præcipe.

1106. In case the order issues on præcipe the Sheriff shall take and detain the property, and shall not replevy the same to the plaintiff without the order of the Court or a Judge in that behalf; but may, within 14 days from the time of his taking the same, re-deliver it to the defendant, unless in the meantime the plaintiff obtains and serves on the Sheriff an order directing a different disposition of the property; but this Rule shall not apply in case of a distress for rent or damage-feasant, under Rule 1099. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 14.

If property to be replevied is concealed in any house, etc., how Sheriff to act.

1107. In case the property to be replevied or any part thereof is secured or concealed in any dwelling house or other building or enclosure of the defendant, or of any other person holding the same for him, and in case the Sheriff publicly demands from the owner and occupant of the premises deliverance of the property to be replevied, and in case the same is not delivered to him within 24 hours after such demand, he may, and shall if necessary, break open such house, building or enclosure for the purpose of replevying such property or any part thereof, and shall make replevin according to the order. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 15. Rules 1103-1110.

When the property is in the possession of any third person not holding it for the defendant named in the order of replevin, the sheriff cannot justify a seizure of it under the order of replevin: see Stoeser v. Springer, 7 Ont. App. 497, and other cases in note to Rule 1103.

1108. If the property to be replevied, or any part thereof, is concealed either about the person or on the premises of the defendant, or of any other person holding the same for him, and in case the Sheriff demands from the defendant or such other person deliverance thereof, and deliverance is neglected or refused, he may, and if necessary shall, search and examine the person and premises of the defendant or other person for the purpose of replevying the property or any part thereof, and shall make replevin according to the order. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 16. If concealed about the person or premises.

See note to Rule 1107.

1109. The Sheriff shall return the order on or before the tenth day after the service thereof, and shall transmit annexed thereto: When order to be returned with Schedule annexed.

(1) The names of the sureties in, and the date of the bond taken from the plaintiff, and the name or names of the witnesses thereto; What Schedule to contain.

(2) The place of residence and additions of the sureties;

(3) The number, quantity, and quality of the articles of property replevied; and in case he has replevied only a portion of the property mentioned in the order, and cannot replevy the residue by reason of the same having been eloigned out of his county by the defendant, or not being in the possession of the defendant, or of any other person for him, he shall state in his return the articles which he cannot replevy and the reason why not. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 17.

1110. If the Sheriff makes such a return of the property distrained, taken or detained, having been eloigned, If Sheriff returns that the property has been eloigned, order to issue.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Rules 1111-1112.

as would have warranted the issuing of a capias in withernam by the law of England on the 5th day of December, 1859, then upon the filing of such return, an order shall be issued on præcipe in the words or to the effect of Form No. 154 in the Appendix, which shall have the same force and effect as a capias in withernam had, and before executing such order the Sheriff shall take security as provided by Rule 1103. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 18.

Damages on judgment by default.

1111. In case the plaintiff becomes entitled to sign judgment by default, he shall be at liberty to sign final judgment for the sum of five dollars, and costs according to the proper scale, but shall not be entitled to recover a larger sum except upon an assessment before a Judge or jury, or upon filing the written consent of the defendant or his solicitor, and an affidavit verifying the signature to such consent. R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 28.

As to the damages recoverable by a plaintiff in replevin at a trial or on an assessment of damages see Graham v. O'Callaghan, 14 Ont. App. 477.

3. Mandamus.

(i) In Actions.

Mandamus in action.

1112. The plaintiff in any action in the High Court of Justice, except replevin or ejectment, may indorse upon the writ and copy to be served, a notice that the plaintiff intends to claim a mandamus; and the plaintiff may thereupon claim in the statement of claim, either together with any other demand which may be enforced in the action, or separately, a mandamus commanding the defendant to fulfil any duty in the fulfilment of which the plaintiff is personally interested. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 4.

The mandamus here referred to is not the prerogative writ which may be granted where a party has no other remedy: see notes to sec. 53 (8) supra pp. 53-4; but the power to grant it was originally a new power conferred on Common Law Courts (analogous to the powers of acting directly in personam possessed by the Court of Chancery) "to direct the performance of some act, of something to be done, which is the result of an action where an action will lie," per Brett, L.J., in Glossop v. Heston Local Board, 12 Ch. D. 122.

It was thus in the nature of an execution, applicable in cases where relief to a plaintiff, who was damaged by the non-fulfilment of a duty by defendant, would be best given by enforcing the specific performance of that duty.

The original Eng. Act from which the R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, relating to Prohibition, Mandamus and Injunction, was taken was intended to carry out in some measure the recommendations of the Common Law Commissioners of 1834. The view of the Commissioners had been what the Jud. Act has accomplished, viz., that resort should not be had to the auxiliary jurisdiction of Equity, but that each Court should possess within itself the power to give complete redress.

They accordingly reported that there was no reason "why a Court of Law should not exercise the same jurisdiction as a Court of Equity and restrain the violation of legal rights in cases in which an injunction might issue for that purpose from Courts of Equity": Second Report, s. 48. Rule 1112. Mandamus.

The object provided for by this Rule is that of enforcing the specific performance of certain duties, in the fulfilment of which a plaintiff is personally interested.

The Courts of Common Law formerly did not exercise the statutory jurisdiction given them, unless in cases where a bill for specific performance would lie in Equity, but the converse did not hold good, viz: that wherever Courts of Equity would entertain a bill for specific relief, the Court of Law would grant a mandamus: see Reg. v. Bulby & Worksop, etc., 22 L. J. Q. B. 164; Edwards v. Lowndes, 1 E. & B. 81. Under the system introduced by the Judicature Act it would seem to be proper to hold, under this Rule and section 53 (8) that, in all cases in which the appropriate relief is to compel the performance by the defendant of that which the plaintiff is in the action held entitled to have performed, performance should be compelled by the issue of a mandamus. It has not, however, been as yet decided that a mandmus is the appropriate remedy for the performance of matters arising out of contract; see, however, Rule 1128. In Re London Huron & Bruce Ry. Co. v. E. Wawanosh, 36 U. C. Q. B. 93, it was held that a prerogative writ of mandamus was not the appropriate remedy in such case; see also Re N. Simcoe Ry. Co. v. Toronto, Ib. 101.

It has been said that the only class of cases, to which the section from which this Rute was taken was formerly held to apply, without doubt, was that in which there was a duty of a public nature, or a duty created by an Act of Parliament, in the fulfilment of which the plaintiff had a personal interest: Harrison, C. L. P. Act, 461.

Under the corresponding English enactment it was decided that the power given is only to be exercised to enforce performance of duties of a public nature, not those arising simply by contract: Benson v. Paull, 6 E. & B. 273; Norris v. Irish Land Co., 8 E. & B. 512; and that the duty must be one in which the applicant is interested; and the remedy by mandamus is only available where there is no other effectual legal remedy: Bush v. Beavan, 1 H. & C. 500. See however notes to sec. 53 (8) of the Jud. Act.

Section 53 (8) of the Act goes further, however, than the previous statutes, and enacts that a mandamus may be granted "by an interlocutory order of the Court in all cases in which it shall appear to the Court to be just or convenient that such order should be made."

Under that section, or this Rule, the remedy may be held to extend to cases of a more private nature than those to which the prerogative writ would apply: see Norris v. The Irish Land Co., 8 E. & B. 527, per Coleridge, J., and Swan v. North British Australasian Co., 7 H. & N. 603; 2 H. & C. 175; Worthington v. Hulton, L. R. 1 Q. B. 63; and in actions even though no actual damage be sustained: Fotherby v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., L. R. 2 C. P. 188.

A mandamus was granted to improvement commissioners, directing them to levy a rate to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, a creditor: Ward v. Lowndes, 1 E. & E. 940, 956; and to apply their funds in payment of debentures: Webb v. Commissioners of Herne Bay, L. R. 5 Q. B. 642; to a railway company, compelling them to give a notice to treat and proceed with the purchase of lands as to which they had given notice of an intention to take: Morgan v. Metropolitan Railway Co., L. R. 3 C. P. 553, 4 C. P. 97; Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 73; see also Tyson v. Mayor of London, L. R. 7 C. P. 18; and to issue a precept for the assessment of compensation after a notice to treat had been given: Fotherby v. Metropolitan Railway Co., L. R. 2 C. P. 188; Guest v. Poole and Bournemouth Ry. Co., L. R. 5 C. P. 553; to a municipal corporation to compel the making of repairs to a drain which it was their duty to repair and the non-repair of which had caused damage to the plaintiff: White v. Corporation of Gosfield, 2 Ont. 287; and see Re Moulton, etc. v. Haldimand, 12 Ont. App. 503; and to compel the opening of a road allowance as to enable an occupant of land to have access thereto: Hislop v. McGillivray, 12 Ont. 749; see also Re Wilson v. Wainfleet, 10 P. R. 147; Clarke v. Palmerston, 6 Ont. 616. See as to the discretion of the Court, Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 934; and to compel them to raise the money to pay the claim of the plaintiff as a creditor of the corporation: Quaintance v. Howard, 25 C. L. J. 545.

In cases of public nuisance, the public has an interest in the removal of the nuisance, but any private individual who suffers particular injury may have his action for damages: see Brown v. Mallett, 5 C. B. 599; Dobson v. Blackmore, 9 Q. B. 991. Query, whether in such case, under the present system, such private individual can have a mandamus for the removal of the nuisance.

Indorsement of writ.

1113. The plaintiff shall indorse the claim to such mandamus upon the writ of summons, and the indorsement may be in the form given in No. 6 in the Appendix. New. See Eng. Rules 719, 720.

Judgment.

1114. If judgment be given for the plaintiff, the Court or Judge may by the judgment command the defendant, either forthwith or on the expiration of such time and upon such terms as may appear to the Court or Judge to be just, to perform the duty in question. The Court or Judge may also extend the time for the performance of the duty. New. See Eng. Rule 721.

Writ abolished.

1115. No writ of mandamus shall hereafter be issued in an action, but a mandamus shall be by judgment or order, which shall have the same effect as a writ of mandamus formerly had. New. See Eng. Rule 722.

This provision is similar to that contained in Rule 1130, providing that no writ of injunction shall issue.

It is to be observed that the Rule applies only to a mandamus in an action. There is no express provision making any alteration in the form of the prerogative writ of mandamus. The intention probably is however that that writ shall now be granted as an order and not as a writ. See note to Rule 1117, also Rule 3.

Proceedings as in ordinary action.

1116. The pleadings and other proceedings shall be the same in all respects, as nearly as may be, and costs shall be recoverable by either party, as in an ordinary action. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 6, first part.

(ii) On Motion.

Jurisdiction not to be affected.

1117. Nothing in the five preceding Rules contained shall take away the jurisdiction of the High Court of Justice to grant orders of mandamus; nor shall any order of mandamus issued be invalid by reason of the right of the prosecutor to proceed by action for mandamus but the preceding Rules, so far as they are applicable, shall apply to the pleadings and proceedings upon a prerogative order of mandamus issued by the Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 10. Rule 1118.

The section which was the original of this Rule was taken from the Imp. Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, s. 75.

The object of the Statute from which this Rule is taken was to declare that the right to obtain the prerogative writ of mandamus was not interfered with. It would therefore seem to be not interfered with by the Rules except perhaps that in form it is to be an order, not a writ. As to this writ, see supra p. 53.

In this and the following Rules, where the Statute referred to the prerogative writ, the expression has been altered to "order" of mandamus. As pointed out above, Rule 1115, providing for an order instead of a writ of mandamus in an action, does not seem to extend to the old prerogative writ, which was not obtained by action; but in view of Rule 3, in addition to the change of language in this and the following Rules, it may be that the prerogative mandamus, as well as the mandamus granted in an action, is now to issue as an order, and not as a writ.

1118. Whereas the provisions contained in a certain Act of Parliament passed in the ninth year of the reign of Queen Anne, entitled "An Act for rendering the proceedings upon Writs of Mandamus and information in the nature of a Quo Warranto more speedy and effectual, and for the more easy trying and determining the rights of Offices and Franchises in Corporations and Boroughs," relating to the writs of mandamus therein mentioned, have been found useful and convenient, and the same ought to be extended to the proceedings on other such writs; it is therefore ordered that the several enactments contained in the said statute relating to the return of writs of mandamus, and the proceedings on such returns, and to the recovery of damages and costs, shall extend and be applicable to all orders of mandamus, and the proceedings thereon, except so far only as the same are varied and altered by these Rules. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 11. Provisions of Act of 9 Anne, c. 20, extended to all other writs of mandamus.

The section which is the original of this Rule was taken from the Imp. Act, 1 William 4, c. 21.

The proceedings here provided for, relate to orders of mandamus nisi.

Prior to the Statute 9 Anne, c. 20,

(1) A rule to return the writ was not usually granted until an alias and pluries writ had first been issued; Former practice.

(2) If the defendant returned, in answer to the writ, a legally sufficient cause, though false in fact, the Court would not try the truth of the return upon affidavits; the prosecutor was therefore put to the bringing an action on the case for a false return, and by this extraneous proceeding might recover damages: Tapping on Mandamus, 6.

It was to remedy these defects in the effectual use of the writ that the Statute of Anne was passed. It related only to certain kinds of mandamus to admit to offices, but by the Imp. Act, 1 William 4, c. 21, (upon which the present Rule is founded) was made applicable in point of procedure to all writs of mandamus. The Act provides for the following matters:—

LIBRARY

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Rule 1118.

(1) That the persons who are required to make a return to a writ of mandamus shall make their return to the first writ;

Practice under 9 Anne, c. 20, and this Rule.

(2) That when a return is made the persons prosecuting the writ may plead to or traverse all or any of the material facts contained within the return, to which the person making the return may reply, take issue or demur, and further proceedings may be had, as if an action on the case for a false return had been brought; so that the damages for the injury sustained might be recovered in the mandamus proceedings;

(3) That in case of judgment for the persons prosecuting the writ, they shall recover their damages and costs as they might have done in such action;

(4) That a peremptory writ shall be granted to the person for whom judgment is given, as might have been done if the return had been adjudged insufficient;

(5) That in case of judgment for the person making the return, he shall recover his costs: 9 Anne, c. 20, s. 2;

(6) The time to make a return, to plead, reply, rejoin, or demur, shall be as the Court may think just and reasonable.

The Statute of Anne under the present Rule, therefore, regulates (1) the return to orders of mandamus, (2) the proceedings on such returns, and (3) the recovery of damages and costs.

In the case of orders of mandamus awarded in an action, these will be generally peremptory orders of mandamus, and the question of the right of the applicant to the order will probably have been determined in the action, as also his right to damages, so that most of the proceedings regulated by the Statute of Anne will generally be applied only in cases of returns to the prerogative order of mandamus which generally issues as a mandamus nisi, unless the Court under Rule 1125 makes it absolute in the first instance: see Re Board of Education of Napanee & Napanee, 29 Gr. 395, 398.

Return to order of mandamus nisi.

The Return.—As above mentioned, this is to be made on or before the return day of the first writ; on default, and on affidavit of service of the writ, a peremptory mandamus will be granted, and after that an attachment: Mayor of Coventry's Case, 2 Salk. 419. On application the Court may extend the time: Tapp. 344. If the applicant is unprepared with an affidavit of service, he might obtain a præcipe order to make a return: Ib.

The writ must be returned as executed, or its execution must be legally excused or justified: Tapp. 346. If the defendant has not had sufficient time, such fact may be returned by stating that "from time to time divers matters and things have been executed for the purpose of complying with the writ, and that further matters and things are in the course of procedure": Tapp. 346.

Returns are of three kinds: (1) Traverses; (2) Special returns; (3) A statement in the nature of a demurrer.

(1) Traverses.—The general rules of pleading were formerly held applicable, by which it was a rule that every distinct and material allegation must, if it be intended to contradict it, be traversed: Tapp. 348. Probably this will not be so now, but the existing rules of pleading in an action will be applicable.

(2) Special returns by way of confession and avoidance. Where the defendant seeks either to excuse or justify the non-execution of the writ, he must, by his return, in direct terms state the grounds of his excuse or justification, and under pain of attachment make the best return his case admits of. The whole legal facts of his case must be set out in extenso, in order both to enable the Court to judge of the law and of the legality of the excuse, and as to whether the command has been complied with, and also to apprise the prosecutor of the grounds of defence, to enable him to answer them. The return will, therefore, not be sufficient if made in general terms.

Every good legal cause, why the prosecutor is not entitled to the writ, whether it arises from his personal incapacity to sue it out, or by reason of the absence of a legal right to what he seeks, will form a good and valid return: Tapp. 358. A return which shows a legal impossibility to perform what the writ commands is good; see Re Bristol & Somerset Ry., 3 Q. B. D. 10; but the fact that the defendant had, after notice of the plaintiff's claim, by his own act put it out of his power to comply with the order is not a legal impossibility: see Regina v. Bernardo, 23 Q. B. D. 305. Rule 1119.

A return will be bad if it shows the legal liability of the defendant, or does not sufficiently answer the command; thus, to a mandamus to ascertain whether a discretion may or may not have been honestly exercised, it is not sufficient to return that "what has been deemed necessary has been done": Tapp. 358.

(3) A return in the nature of a demurrer to the writ.—The defendant cannot demur to the writ, but he may submit that he is not bound by law to execute it, which submission, being in the nature of a demurrer, will be treated accordingly: Tapp. 362.

Proceedings on return.—The return must, together with the writ, be filed in the proper office, and then becomes a return: Tapp. 365.

Amendment of the return to correct clerical mistakes may be allowed.

Rule 1122 provides that the mode of objecting to the validity of a return shall be by demurrer, but a motion to quash a defective return might formerly be made when the return was vicious by reason of any clear and well acknowledged defect, such as that upon its face it was palpably framed only for the purpose of delay: Rex v. Oundle, 1 A. & E. 297; Tapp. 372.

It has also been laid down that a return which is evasive, contemptuous, frivolous, nonsensical, hypothetical, or uncertain may be quashed on motion: Tapp. 350 sed quære; in Re Board of Education of Napanee & Napanee, before Boyd, C., 14th Dec., 1881, it was held that a return could only be quashed by traverse or demurrer, and a motion to quash a return was dismissed as misconceived. See Rule 1222.

As to what constitutes uncertainty: see Tapp. 354, 355.

Court may make orders calling on all persons having interest in the matter of the writ to show cause against issuing, etc.

1119. Whereas writs of mandamus, other than such as relate to the offices and franchises mentioned in or provided for by the said Act passed in the ninth year of the reign of Queen Anne, are sometimes issued to officers and other persons, commanding them to admit to offices, or to do or perform other matters in respect whereof the persons to whom such writs are directed claim no right or interest, or whose functions are merely ministerial in relation to such offices or matters; and it may be proper that such officers and persons should in certain cases be protected against the payment of damages or costs to which they may otherwise become liable: it is therefore ordered, that it shall be lawful for the Court to which application is made for any order of mandamus (other than such as relate to the said offices and franchises mentioned in or provided for by the said Act passed in the reign of Queen Anne), if such Court sees fit to so do, to hear motions calling not only upon the persons to whom such order is required to issue, but also all and every other person having or claiming any right or interest in or to the matter of such order, to show cause against the issuing of such order and payment of costs of the application; and upon the appearance of such other person on such motion, or in default of appearance after notice given, to exercise all such powers and authorities, and to make all such orders applicable to the case as are or may be given or mentioned by or in any Act for giving relief against adverse claims upon persons having no interest in the subject of such claims. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 12.

This and the two next following Rules relate to the same subject and provide that in the case of a mandamus issued to officers or persons whose functions are merely ministerial, the persons having or claiming right or interest in the matter, may be called upon to show cause, and may be made liable to costs: see Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 73.

See Re Massey Mfg. Co., 11 Ont. 44; 12 Ont. App. 446 (see now R. S. O. c. 157, s. 19).

Peremptory Mandamus.—The Court has jurisdiction to award a peremptory mandamus in the first instance instead of a mandamus nisi: Rule 1125.

No return except obedience is admissible to the peremptory writ: Tapp. 408.

Enforcement of Mandamus.—Attachment is the proper remedy for disobeying a peremptory mandamus: Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 82.

See also Rule 1128 enabling the Court to direct the performance of the act to be done by the party obtaining the order at the expense of the party whose duty it is to do the act.

Form of return of issues joined, on demurrer, etc.

1120. The return to be made to any such order, and issues joined in fact or law upon any traverse thereof, or upon any demurrer shall be made and joined by and in the name of the person to whom such order is directed; but nevertheless the same shall, if the Court thinks fit so to direct, be expressed to be made and joined on the behalf of such other person as may be mentioned in such rules, and in that case such other person shall be permitted to frame the return, and to conduct the subsequent proceedings at his own expense; and in such case, if any judgment is given for or against the party suing such order, such judgment shall be given against or for the person on whose behalf the return is expressed to be made, and such person shall have the like remedy for the recovery of costs and enforcing the judgment as the person to whom the order was directed might and would otherwise have had. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 13.

For or against whom judgment shall be given.

Costs.

Case of death, resignation or removal, of persons making the return, provided for.

1121. In case the return to any such order is, in pursuance of the authority given as aforesaid, expressed to be made on behalf of any other person as aforesaid, the further proceedings on such order shall not abate or be discontinued by the death or resignation of, or removal from office of the person having made such return, but the same shall and may be continued and carried on in the name of such person; and if a peremptory order is awarded, the same shall and may be directed to any successor in office or right of such person. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 14. Rules 1122, 1123.

1122. In all cases in which the person prosecuting any order of mandamus wishes or intends to object to the validity of any return to the same, he shall do so by way of demurrer to the same, in such and the like manner as is now practised in the High Court of Justice in ordinary actions; and thereupon the said order and return and the said demurrer shall be entered upon record in the said Court, and the like further proceedings shall be thereupon had and taken as upon a demurrer to pleadings in ordinary actions in the said Court. Form of objections to return. Demurrer.

As to proceedings upon a demurrer in ordinary actions, see Rules 384-391.

(a) The said Court shall thereupon adjudge either that the return is valid in law, or that it is not valid in law, or that the order of mandamus is not valid in law; and if they adjudge that the order is valid in law, but that the return thereto is not valid in law, then the Court shall also by the judgment award that a peremptory order of mandamus shall issue in that behalf, and thereupon such peremptory order of mandamus may be issued accordingly, at any time after four days from the signing of the judgment; and it shall be lawful for the said Court, and it is hereby required, in and by its said judgment, to award costs to be paid to the party in whose favour it thereby decides, by the other party or parties. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 15. Proceedings thereon. Judgment. Peremptory mandamus if the order be good and the return bad. Costs.

Taken from Imp. Act, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 67, s. 1.

The Statute of Anne permitted the prosecutor merely to plead to or traverse a return, but allowed the defendant to reply, take issue, or demur. This distinction gave rise to a practice in the case of an insufficient return, of allowing the prosecution to make application to the Court in the nature of a demurrer, and called a concilium, to quash it, upon which, if successful, a peremptory mandamus was at once awarded. Instead of the concilium, a demurrer has by this Rule been substituted, the proceedings upon it are to be the same as in an ordinary action.

The Imp. Act and R. S. O. 1887, c. 52, s. 28, provided that costs should be in the discretion of the Court; this provision is now unnecessary in view of Rule 1170.

1123. Upon application by motion for any order of mandamus the order may in all cases be made in the first instance, if the Court thinks fit; and the order shall be dated on the day of its being made, and may be made Order may issue in the first instance.

returnable forthwith, but time may be allowed to return it by the Court or a Judge either with or without terms. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 16.

(iii) Applications in Chambers.

Judge may issue order of peremptory mandamus.

1124. In all cases in which the High Court of Justice has jurisdiction to issue an order of peremptory mandamus, application for the said order may be made upon affidavit to a Judge, upon notice of motion in the ordinary manner, to any person who may, in his judgment, be affected by the order, if made, to show cause why the same should not be made. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 17.

The prerogative writ was formerly obtained at a sitting of the Court in Term and was not usually peremptory in the first instance, but in an alternative form, commanding the person to whom it was directed to do the act specified or shew cause to the contrary, which was done by a return.

The enactment from which this Rule is taken was passed to enable applications for the prerogative writ of mandamus to be made in Chambers at any time instead of only during the sittings of the Court in Term, and to empower the Court to grant a writ to which obedience was the only return. The preamble to the original Act, 35 Vict. c. 14, was: "Whereas in many cases very great injustice is done by the delay in the issue of the prerogative writ of mandamus; and whereas, it is necessary to devise a more speedy and summary method for the issue of the same."

That Act and the present Rule therefore provide for a summary application to a Judge in Chambers for the issue of a peremptory order in the first instance; so that all questions as to the right to the order, and the matters which otherwise would be raised by way of return to a mandamus nisi may be argued and disposed of at once without any previous order and return thereto. That is the mode of procedure now generally adopted. The right, however, to move the Court for a mandamus nisi as formerly is preserved by Rule 1129; but on any such motion the Court has power under Rule 1123 to make a peremptory order.

The Master in Chambers and officers having like jurisdiction have no power to make orders of mandamus: see Rules 30 and 1129.

Where a summary application for a mandamus was made in Court the costs of a Chamber motion only were allowed, where the circumstances did not justify the imposition of a larger sum for costs than was sufficient to indicate that the respondents were in the wrong: Re Brookfield and Public School Section 12, Township of Brooke, 12 P. R. 485.

The prerogative mandamus is not granted where the applicant has another appropriate remedy: see notes supra p. 54, and Reg. v. Registrar of Joint Stock Cos., 21 Q. B. D. 131; Reg. v. Lambourn Valley Ry. Co., 22 Q. B. D. 463, Re Whitaker & Mason, 18 Ont. 63.

Duty of Judge.

1125. It shall be the duty of the Judge to whom the application is made, provided he is of opinion that the case is a proper one for the issue of the same to make an order of mandamus absolute in the first instance. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 18.

See note to Rule 1124.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW L.

Rules 1126-1129. Service and direction of order.

1126. The notice of motion may be served upon the person or party named therein, either personally or by substitution as may be directed by the Judge, in the same manner as a writ of summons; and the motion may be prosecuted in Chambers upon affidavit or other evidence in the same manner as other applications in Chambers, and in case an order of mandamus is made, the same may be enforced by process of attachment. New. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 19-23.

Order.

1127. Upon hearing the parties who appear, or their counsel, and after service of the notice upon all proper persons, as hereinbefore provided, the Judge, if in his opinion the case is a proper one, shall make the order and shall thereby direct what is to be done and performed by the person or party to whom the writ is directed; but if, in his opinion, the application should be refused, the said motion shall be dismissed. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 24.

Mandatory order, how enforced.

1128. If a mandamus granted in an action or otherwise, or a mandatory order, injunction, or judgment, for specific performance of any contract be not complied with, the Court or a Judge, besides or instead of proceedings against the disobedient party for contempt, may direct that the act required to be done may be done so far as practicable by the party by whom the judgment or order has been obtained, or by some other person appointed by the Court or Judge, at the cost of the disobedient party; and upon the act being done the expenses incurred may be ascertained in such manner as the Court or Judge may direct and execution may issue for the amount so ascertained and costs. New. See Eng. Rule 608 and R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 9.

This Rule is taken from Eng. Rules of 1883, R. 608. It extended to all kinds of mandatory orders and injunctions, a power which previously existed in regard to a mandamus: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 9.

In an action for specific performance, where an order had been made requiring defendant to make a certain road, and on his default the plaintiff applied for liberty to complete the road at the cost of defendant, it was held that the case was not within this Rule, but an order was made permitting plaintiff to do the work with liberty to apply that the defendant should pay the expense: Mortimer v. Wilson,, 33 W. R. 927.

Master in Chambers and Local Judges not to grant orders of mandamus.

1129. No part of the jurisdiction by Rules 1112 to 1128, conferred upon a Judge shall be exercised by the Master in Chambers or the Local Judges of the High Court; and nothing in the preceding Rules contained shall prevent any person from applying to the Court for a mandamus according to the present practice. R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, ss. 1 and 26.

The "present practice" referred to, other than that mentioned in the preceding Rules was by motion to the Court for the prerogative writ not necessarily a peremptory one in the first instance: see notes to Rule 1118.

4. Injunctions.

Writ of injunction abolished.

1130. No writ of injunction shall be issued in any case. An injunction shall be by a judgment or order, and any such judgment or order shall have the effect which a writ of injunction formerly had. J. A. Rule 401.

Same in effect as the Eng. R., April 1880, R. 32.

Notice of an injunction may be given by telegram and disobedience of such notice punished as a contempt: Ex. p. Langley Re Bishop, 13 Ch. D. 110; see also p. 59, supra.

5. Interim Preservation of Property, etc.

Order for interim preservation of property.

1131. Where by any contract a prima facie case of liability is established, and there is alleged as matter of defence a right to be relieved wholly or partially from such liability, the Court or a Judge may make an order for the preservation or interim custody of the subject-matter of the litigation, or may order that the amount in dispute be brought into Court or otherwise secured. J. A. Rule 396.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 52, r. 1, (1883, R. 657).

This provision gives increased power to the Court for preserving the rights of the parties uninjured, during the pending of litigation, and an interlocutory order made under this Rule may be enforced by attachment: Hutchinson v. Hartmont, W. N. 1877, 29.

In Russell v. Davies, W. N. 1883, 109; 19 C. L. J. 273, an action to recover arrears of an annuity, an order made for payment of the annuity till the trial, the plaintiff being in destitution, was reversed in appeal, as it appeared in the evidence that the defendant had a primâ facie case for insisting that the annuity had determined.

There must be an action or matter pending: Re Paris Skating Rink Co., Limited, No. 2, 25 W. R. 767. Hall, V.-C., there said, "I have jurisdiction to issue a writ of mandamus in every cause or matter before me. In this case, however, while the motion has been standing over, the petition has been dismissed, and there is no longer any matter pending before me in which I can make an order."

As to the stage of the action at which an application may be made, see Rule 1132.

Application when may be made.

1132. An application for an order under the preceding Rule may be made by the plaintiff at any time after his right thereto appears from the pleadings, or, if there be no pleadings, is made to appear by affidavit or otherwise to the satisfaction of the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 400. Rules 1133, 1134.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 52, r. 5, (1883, R. 663).

1133. It shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge, on the application of any party to an action, to make any order for the sale, by any person or persons named in the order, and in such manner and on such terms as to the Court or Judge may seem desirable, of any goods, wares, or merchandise which may be of a perishable nature or likely to injure from keeping, or which for any other just or sufficient reason it may be desirable to have sold at once. J. A. Rule 397. Sale of perishable goods.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 52, r. 2, (1883 R. 658). The power given is new.

An order may be made for the sale of a chattel which, for a "just and sufficient reason, it may be desirable to have sold at once." Thus in Bartholomew v. Freeman, 3 C. P. D. 316, the Court ordered a horse to be sold, on the ground that it was consuming its value in food, and there was no reason why it should not be sold. In Coddington v. Jacksonville P. & M. Ry. Co., 39 L. T. N. S. 12, an order was made for the sale of bonds as perishable property within the meaning of this Rule: (see that case in note to Rule 322).

A foreign ship was ordered to be sold on the report of the Marshal that the sale was desirable : The Hercules, 11 P. D. 10.

In an action for an unpaid balance on the sale of a horse, and for breach of warranty of another horse received in part payment, plaintiff applied for leave to sell the horse so received in part payment; it was held by Quain, J., that no order was necessary, and that the Rule was not applicable : Anon, 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 127 ; 60 L. T. Jour. p. 84.

1134. An application for an order under section 53, sub-section 8, of The Judicature Act, or under the three preceding Rules, may be made to the Court or a Judge by any party. If the application be by the plaintiff for an order under the said sub-section 8, it may be made either ex parte, or on notice, and if for an order under the two preceding Rules, it may be made, after notice to the defendant, at any time after the issue of the writ of summons, and if it be by any other party, then on notice to the plaintiff, and at any time after appearance, by the party making the application. J. A. Rule 399. Application under Rules.

See notes to section 53 (8), and Rules 1131-1133.

The original Rule was made applicable to the Rules now numbered 1131-1133, and 1135, but by the transposition of Rule 1135 in the Consolidation of the Rules it is not now one of the "three preceding Rules" referred to in the present Rule 1134 ; similarly, Rule 1131 is not now one of "the two preceding Rules." If it be considered that this Rule does not regulate the making of motions under Rules 1131 and 1135, Rules 532 and 533 will apply.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW L

Rule 1135. This Rule, it will be observed, authorizes the making of an order on the application of the plaintiff, either ex parte or on notice: it should not be made ex parte except in cases of emergency, as when immediate or irreparable damage is being done or apprehended: see Anon per Lindley, J., W. N. 1876, 12; Meluish v. Milton, 24 W. R. 679; Tozer v. Walford, W. N. 1875, 250: Blewitt v. Dowling, Ib., 202; Hennessey v. Rohmann, 36 L. T. N. S. 51; W. N. 1877, 14, and Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302; Re H's Estate, 1 Ch. D. 276; Hyde v. Warden, 1 Ex. D. 309, cases of receivers.

A plaintiff may move at any time after issue of the writ: Re Sceptre V. Co., 23 Sol. Jour. 230; or even before in cases of urgency: Thornloe v. Skoines, L. R. 16 Eq. 126, and notice of motion may be served with the writ: Capes v. Brewer, 24 W. R. 40; and see Rule 533.

A defendant may move at any time before judgment: Sargant v. Read, 1 Ch. D. 602; and this Rule does not prevent an application ex parte by a defendant under sec. 53, sub-sec. 8 of the Act: Hick v. Lockwood, W. N. 1883, 48.

Acquiescence or delay will generally prevent a plaintiff from obtaining an interlocutory injunction; but he is not bound to move till the hearing, and delay till then is not such acquiescence as will disentitle him then to relief: Davies v. Marshall, 4 L. T. N. S. 105.

The Court in cases of urgency and necessity may grant an injunction or receiver before service of the writ of summons, and on an ex parte application, as where it was alleged that trustees were on the eve of bankruptcy, a receiver was appointed: Re H's. Estate, 1 Ch. D. 276.

Where notice has been given, an injunction should not be granted ex parte even where from pressure of business the motion cannot be brought on: Graham v. Campbell, 7 Ch. D. 490; where however there is some defect in the notice served, the Court may, when injury is likely to ensue by delay in serving a new notice, grant an injunction ex parte.

The usual undertaking as to damages should be inserted in all interlocutory injunction orders: Graham v. Campbell, supra; and there is no exception in this respect in favour of the Crown: Secretary for War v. Chubb, W. N. 1880, 128; 43 L. T. N. S. 83; nor where the injunction is granted on notice: Smith v. Day, 21 Ch. D. 421. As to undertakings as to damages, see 21 C. L. J. 44.

Great unexplained delay in making an application to enforce an undertaking as to damages, was held to be a sufficient answer to it, though the applicant shewed a primâ facie case: Ex. p. Hall, Re Wood, 23 Ch. D. 644: see also Smith v. Day, 21 Ch. D. 421.

The defendant is entitled to the benefit of the undertaking even though the injunction may have been wrongly granted owing to the mistake of the Court itself: Griffith v. Blake, 27 Ch. D. 474. See also Hunt v. Hunt, 54 L. J. Chy. 289.

Where an interim injunction is granted over the next motion day or until further order, it signifies that the injunction may be dissolved before the day fixed, but cannot be extended beyond that period, except with the leave of the Court: Bolton v. London School Board, 7 Ch. D. 766.

A trustee appointed upon his own undertaking in a suit to act as receiver of the trust property, is not, under ordinary circumstances, in England, entitled to a salary as receiver: Pilkington v. Baker, British Mutual Investment Co. v. Pilkington, 24 W. R. 234. But in this Province trustees are entitled to compensation as such: R. S. O. c. 107, ss. 37, 41.

Order for detention and inspection of property.

1135. It shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge, upon the application of any party to an action, and upon such terms as may seem just, to make any order for the detention, preservation, or inspection of any property, being the subject of the action; and for all or any of the purposes aforesaid to authorize any person or persons to enter upon or into any land or building in the possession of any party to such action; and for all or any of the purposes aforesaid to authorize any samples to be taken, or any observation to be made or experiment to be tried, which may seem necessary or expedient for the purpose of obtaining full information or evidence. J. A. Rule 398. Rule 1135.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 52, r. 3, (1883, R. 659).

The powers given by this Rule are very much wider than the mere power to allow inspection given by the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50), s. 168.

Similar jurisdiction of Court of Chancery.

The Court of Chancery, under its similar jurisdiction, would not grant an inspection on the application of the plaintiff, unless satisfied that he had a case to be tried at the hearing; nor in any case unless the inspection asked for was necessary for the purpose of enabling the party applying for it to prove his case: Piggott v. Anglo-American Telegraph Co., 19 L. T. N. S. 46; Batley v. Kynock, L. R. 19 Eq. 90.

Inspection cannot be granted to one defendant of property belonging to another defendant, when there is no right in question between them in the action: Shaw v. Smith, 18 Q. B. D. 193; and see Rule 508.

Inspection of samples was ordered in Munn v. McConnell, 7 C. L. T. 169.

In an action to restrain defendants (who were owners of a house fronting on the same street as a house owned by the plaintiff), from causing or permitting sewage to be discharged from their premises into a drain belonging to the plaintiff, and from permitting any connection to remain between their premises and the plaintiff's drain, an order was made under this Rule authorizing the plaintiff to enter on that part of the street, the soil of which belonged to the defendants, for the purpose of experimenting in order to discover whether the pipe which joined the plaintiff's drain proceeded directly from the defendant's house, and for this purpose to dig up the street as far as might be necessary: Lumb v. Beaumont, 27 Ch. D. 356.

Where the defendant in an action for obstruction of light and air, had not delivered his statement of defence, Archibald, J., refused an order for inspection until he had disclosed his defence: W. N. 1876, 53.

In a nuisance action, an application to inspect the defendant's works to ascertain how the nuisance was occasioned was refused, as proof of the nuisance could be obtained from external sources: Barlow v. Bailey, 18 W. R. 783; see also Flower v. Lloyd, W. N. 1876, 169, 230.

Mineral trespass.

Upon a primâ facie case of mineral trespass or encroachment by the defendant, or where the fact of trespass (which is denied) can only be ascertained by inspection, and no injury will result to the defendant therefrom, an interlocutory order will be made for the inspection of his mine; and the order will, when necessary, extend to the removal of the obstructions to the inspection: Seton 4th ed. 208; see Cooper v. Ince, Hall & Co., W. N. 1876, 24.

Infringement of letters patent.

The rule in actions for the infringement of letters patent is, that where a plaintiff is unable to obtain clear and satisfactory evidence of infringement, the Court, upon a fair primâ facie case being made out, will order the defendant to permit an inspection to be made of his premises and machinery, by proper persons named on behalf of the plaintiff: Seton 351. In an action to restrain infringement of a patent for grinding grain so as to separate the germ from the flour, inspection of the plaintiff's process, to see how it was actually carried on under their patent, was granted. The plaintiffs did not claim any novelty in the machinery, their specification was confined to a new process or product: The Germ Milling Co. v. Robinson, 53 L. T. N. S. 696; 34 W. R. 194; 55 L. J. Chy. 287.

Preservation of subject of action.

In an action to recover jewellery, the defendant alleged that it belonged to a third party, and had been deposited by him to secure a debt due to the defendant. The Court ordered it to be given up to an officer of the Court: Velati v. Braham, 46 L. J. C. P. 415.

Rules 1136, 1137.

Receiver to preserve property.

On the affidavit of plaintiff, stating that the property was rapidly being damaged, the Court of Appeal appointed him receiver and manager, though no application for this purpose had been made, either to a Divisional Court or a Judge: Hyde v. Warden, 1 Ex. D. 309.

Injunction.

The Court has jurisdiction under this Rule to grant an interim injunction in a proper case, to restrain a defendant from ceasing to pump water out of a mine which the defendant was in possession of, and had agreed to lease, in order to prevent its destruction: Strelley v. Pearson, 15 Ch. D. 113.

As to authorizing the making of experiments: see Badishe Anilin, etc. v. Levinstein, 24 Ch. D. 156.

Practice.

An application under this Rule is generally made to the Court as in motions for injunctions: see Rule 399, and English v. Camberwell, W. N. 1875, 256; but an order has been made in Chambers: see Cooper v. Ince Hall Co., W. N. 1876, 24. It should in general be upon notice: see the next Rule, and Habershon v. Gill, W. N. 1875, 231; but where circumstances rendered it proper, on an ex parte application, an order for the purpose of inspecting and taking samples was made: Hennessey v. Rohmann, 36 L. T. N. S. 51; W. N. 1877, 14; an order for detention and preservation of property: Meluish v. Milton, 24 W. R. 679; and an order for inspection of a mine, in an action for damages for withdrawing support to land: Mitchell v. Darley Main Colliery Co., 31 W. R. 549.

A party is bound by an order for preservation of property as soon as he has notice of it: Ex p. Langley, 13 Ch. D. 110. See also p. 35, supra.

Amount of lien claimed may be paid into Court, and property delivered up.

1136. Where an action is brought to recover, or a defendant in his statement of defence seeks by way of counter-claim to recover, specific property, other than land, and the party from whom such recovery is sought does not dispute the title of the party seeking to recover the same, but claims to retain the property by virtue of a lien or otherwise as security for any sum of money, the Court or a Judge, at any time after such last mentioned claim appears from the pleadings, or, if there be no pleadings, by affidavit or otherwise to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge, may order that the party claiming to recover the property be at liberty to pay into Court, to abide the event of the action, the amount of money in respect of which the lien or security is claimed, and such further sum (if any) for interest and costs as the Court or Judge may direct, and that upon such payment into Court being made, the property claimed be given up to the party claiming it. J. A. Rule 402.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 52, r. 6, (1883, R. 664). The power given by this Rule is new.

5. Prohibition.

Application for order of prohibition may be made on affidavit only.

1137. It shall not be necessary to file a suggestion on any application for an order for prohibition. The application may be made on affidavit, subject to the general rules as to motions and evidence on motions. New.

Rules 1138-1141.

The first clause of this Rule is taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 2, the remaining clause is new.

Prior to R. S. O. c. 52, s. 2, a mere surmise or suggestion of the ground for prohibition was enough to put the Superior Court in motion, and the suggestion was not required to be verified where there was a plea in the Court below, but if there was no plea, then an affidavit was required.

Section 2 of the R. S. O. c. 52, provided that it should not be necessary to file a suggestion on any application for writ of prohibition, but such application might be made on affidavit only. Provision was also made for a declaration in prohibition before the issue of the writ, where the Court so directed, and for demurrer or pleading by the defendant to such declaration. These provisions have all been omited, and by implication abrogated, by the present Rule. It would seem, therefore, that the right to the writ has to be tried now upon a motion, subject to the same rules as other motions. Amongst others, Rules 576 to 581 will be applicable, and, in such cases as the Court would formerly direct a declaration and subsequent proceedings in prohibition, a Court or Judge can now upon a motion direct that evidence be taken in such way as may seem proper, and if necessary that an issue be tried.

The motion has usually been made in Chambers to a Judge. The Master in Chambers and Local Judges and Masters have no jurisdiction : see Rule 30.

A successful party on an application for prohibition is entitled to, and should be awarded, costs, unless the Court, in the proper exercise of a wise discretion, can see good cause for depriving such party of them ; and such party should not be deprived of costs, unless there appears to have been impropriety of conduct, which induced the litigation, or impropriety in the conduct thereof : Re McLeod v. Emigh, (2), 12 P. R. 503.

1138. No writ of prohibition shall issue in any case, but the order for prohibition shall have the same effect as a writ of prohibition formerly had. New. Writ abolished.

1139. Any such order may be discharged or varied or set aside by a Divisional Court, subject to an appeal to the Court of Appeal. R. S O. 1877, c. 52, ss. 2 and 3. Order may be varied.

The right of appeal here given would seem to apply though the order for prohibition may have been made in Court. Usually orders made by a Judge in Court are not appealable to a Divisional Court except by consent, see Rule 219.

7. Certiorari.

1140. No writ of certiorari shall issue in any case, but an order may be made which shall have the same effect as a writ of certiorari formerly had. New. Certiorari.

8. Interpleader.

(i) Generally.

1141. Relief by way of interpleader may be granted. When relief by interpleader granted.

(a) Where the person seeking relief (hereinafter called the applicant) is under liability for any debt, money, goods, or chattels, for or in respect of which he is, or expects to

Rule 1161. be, sued by two or more parties (hereinafter called the claimants) making adverse claim thereto:

(b) Where the applicant is a sheriff or other officer charged with the execution of process by or under the authority of the High Court, and claim is made to any money, goods, or chattels, lands or tenements, taken or intended to be taken in execution under any process, [or under an attachment against an absconding debtor,] or to the proceeds or value of any such goods or chattels, by any person other than the person against whom the process issued.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 850.

The words in brackets are not in the Eng. R., having been taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10, otherwise the Rules are the same.

Before this Rule the practice in force both in Common Law Courts and in Equity remained in force under the Judicature Act. The practice in the Common Law Courts was regulated by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, as amended by 44 V. c. 7; 49 V. c. 16, s. 13; the jurisdiction in Equity except in the case of interpleader by Sheriff did not depend upon the statute: McElheran v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181.

The practice on interpleader by a Sheriff was the same in all the Courts, being regulated by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, and amending Acts.

In the case of interpleader by a stake holder, in the Common Law Courts this was only possible where he was a defendant, having been actually sued; in Equity, it was sufficient if a claim was made against the applicant, and he was in danger of being molested by conflicting rights: Story, Eq. Jur. s. 808.

At Common Law a stake holder seeking relief could only do so, as above mentioned, when he was a defendant in respect of a claim for money or goods, of which he had to be in possession, as he had to be in a position to dispose of them in any manner directed by the Court; he also was required to have received a distinct notice of the adverse claim, and expectation of being sued was not enough. The claim of the third party had to be in respect of the same subject matter in respect to which the defendant was sued, but it was not necessary that it should be an absolute right of property in the subject matter.

Where rent was claimed from A. by B., and A. was garnished by creditors of C. (the father of B.), who, it was claimed, was the real lessor, A. refusing to to pay rent unless protected from these claims, and being sued in a County Court by B. for the full amount of rent, was held entitled to relief under this Rule: Re Anderson & Barber, 13 P. R. 21.

Affidavits. Affidavits entitled "In the H. C. J. Chy. D. Between A., applicant, and B. and others, claimants," were held sufficient: Re Anderson & Barber, supra.

Costs. The costs of proceedings are under Rule 1170 in the discretion of the Court, and were ordered to be paid by the person causing the litigation: Re Anderson & Barber, supra.

A stakeholder interpleading, and acting bonâ fide, is entitled to deduct from the fund in dispute the taxed costs occasioned by the interpleader: Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. N. S. 122, without prejudice to the question as to how the costs are to be ultimately borne: Searle v. Matthews, W. N. 1883, 176.

Interpleader by Sheriffs.—Under the present Rule, the practice in interpleader by Sheriffs is substantially the same as under the R. S. O. 1877, c. 54.

The disposition of the Court is to be more liberal in relieving the Sheriff than formerly: Darling v. Collatton, 10 P. R. 110.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW L.

The Sheriff must have made a seizure before he can apply: Ogden v. Craig, 10 P. R. 378. Rule 1141.

Money paid under protest by a claimant was held to be proceeds or value of goods and chattels within the above Rule: Smith v. Critchfield, 14 Q. B. D. 873.

"Goods and chattels" in the Execution Act, and this Rule includes stock: Brown v. Nelson, 20 C. L. J. 390; 4 C. L. T. 594.

A Sheriff should exercise no discretion as to the disposition of the goods seized by him, but should come at once to the Court, otherwise he will disentitle himself to protection: Boswell v. Pettigrew, 7 P. R. 393; Adams v. Blackwell, 10 P. R. 168. He should, however, make some inquiry as to the nature of the claims made, and inform the execution creditor of them: Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 59. Inquiries to be made, and bringing in claimants.

Where the Sheriff had sold with the consent of both parties, it was considered that he had not improperly exercised any discretion of his own: Darling v. Collatton, 10 P. R. 110.

All claimants of whom the Sheriff is aware should be brought in: Clarke v. Farrell, 8 P. R. 234. Division Court execution creditors are proper parties, and should be brought in by the Sheriff along with Superior and County Court execution creditors: MacFie v. Hunter, 9 P. R. 149.

Where some writs are in the High Court the interpleader application should be in the High Court, though the seizure was under a County Court writ and before the High Court writ came to the Sheriff's hands: Strange v. Toronto Telegraph Co., 8 P. R. 1. Forum.

A Sheriff was held not entitled to interplead by reason of a claimant disputing the right of subsequent execution creditors to the goods seized, where there would be no fund to satisfy such subsequent executions: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Bruce, 2 C. L. T. 92. When entitled, or not, to interplead.

A claimant out of the jurisdiction may be served and compelled to interplead: Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 354; Credit Gerundeuse v. Van Weede, 12 Q. B. D. 171.

Where a Sheriff seized but put no bailiff in possession of the goods, and then the landlord seized them for rent, it was held that a second seizure by the Sheriff was illegal as they were in custodiâ legis, and also that the validity of the landlord's claim could not be decided in Chambers: Craig v. Craig, 7 P. R. 209.

The Sheriff was held entitled to interplead a second time in respect of a claim by the same claimant, alleging a different title: Gaynor v. Salt, 24 U. C. Q. B. 180; but not to contest the claim of a landlord, which might have been disposed of on a first application: Clark v. Farrell, 8 P. R. 234. A claimant cannot set up another title in the same issue, but must make a subsequent application to the Court: Barker v. Leeson, 1 Ont. 114.

Goods in possession of an Assignee in Insolvency under the Insolvent Act of 1875 could not be taken in execution, and neither a Sheriff nor an execution creditor could sue the Assignee and oblige him to interplead, though the debtor might do so: McMaster v. Meakin, 7 P. R. 211.

Interpleader may be directed respecting the proceeds of a sale in the Sheriff's hands: Booth v. Preston &c. Ry. Co., 3 P. R. 90; and respecting money paid under protest by a claimant whose goods were seized, and who claimed the money; he was also held to be entitled to protection against an action for trespass for entering upon the premises of a person other than the debtor: Smith v. Critchfield, 14 Q. B. D. 873; see also Edmonds v. Wallingford, 33 W. R. 647.

In Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 66, it was said that interpleader orders should only be made with caution, and, where goods were in the possession of a third person, there should be strong presumptive evidence of the goods being the debtor's, which should ordinarily appear on affidavit of the belief of the Sheriff, and also of the execution creditor. This opinion has not been to the full extent followed in practice, the affidavit of the execution creditor is not considered necessary: and see Ib. 296; also Edmonds v. Wallingford, 33 W. R. 647.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW L

Rule 1141.

Delay.

A Sheriff may disentitle himself to an interpleader order by not coming promptly to the Court when claims are made to the goods seized. He must come within reasonable time; improper delay will be an answer to the application: Thompson v. Ward, 1 P. R. 269; McMaster v. Milne, 2 P. R. 386. What will amount to such laches will depend upon the circumstances of each case: see Boswell v. Pettigrew, 7 P. R. 393; Wilkins v. Peatman, Ib. 84. He is not justified by the fact that the first seizure does not embrace all defendant's goods, in delaying to apply till he can get possession of the residue: Miller v. Nolan, 1 C. L. J. 327.

Where the claimant of the goods paid the Sheriff the amount of the execution, and the latter then withdrew; it was held that he had not disentitled himself to relief by interpleader: Paris Manufacturing Co. v. Walls, 10 P. R. 138.

The interpleader order usually protects the Sheriff only from actions, without special provision the order is no protection to the execution creditor: Park v. Taylor, 1 C. P. 414; McCollum v. Kerr, 8 U. C. L. J. 71; but the Judge has authority to restrain by the interpleader order actions against the execution creditor as well as against the Sheriff: Buffalo & Lake Huron Railway Company v. Hemmingway, 22 U. C. Q. B. 562.

Accepting and contesting an interpleader issue will not make execution creditors liable for the previous seizure by the Sheriff, the execution creditor cannot thus be made a trespasser by relation, or liable for the original seizure: Kennedy v. Patterson, 22 U. C. Q. B. 556: Phillips v. Findlay, 27 U. C. Q. B. 32. Where special directions are given to the Sheriff by the execution creditor, or in writing on the writ, by his solicitor, to make the seizure, an action lies against the execution creditor: Morris v. Salberg, 22 Q. B. D. 614; but directions verbally given by the solicitor's clerk were held not sufficient to render the execution creditor liable: Smith v. Keal, 9 Q. B. D. 340.

Issue.

Issues between the plaintiff and attaching creditors as to the validity of the the plaintiff's judgment and execution, and the validity of the plaintiff's judgment against creditors generally, and as to the attaching creditors for fraud, or as being a preference, were held warranted by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, ss. 3, 10: Leetch v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 226; see also Standard Insurance Company v. Hughes, 11 P. R. 220; and Doyle v. Lasher, 16 C. P. 263; and the present Rule preserves the same power as was contained in the R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10: see the clause in brackets in clause (b) supra.

Where a bank, one of several execution creditors, made parties to an interpleader issue, did not desire to contest the right of the claimant to its share of the proceeds of the goods seized and sold, but was willing that such share should be paid over to the claimant in the event of the latter not succeeding in the issue; it was held that the bank was not under the circumstances liable to contribute to the costs of the issue; but, nevertheless, was properly made a party to the issue and would be entitled, if the claimant failed, to its proportion of the proceeds arising from the sale of the goods: Dundas v. Darvill, 12 P. R. 347.

Where on an interpleader by the Sheriff an order is made for satisfaction of the claimant's claim, the claimant is limited to his claim put forward in the proceedings, and cannot demand any amount not included in his particulars of claim, on which the order was made: Hockey v. Evans, 18 Q. B. D. 390.

Where the claimant is in possession of the goods at the time of seizure, the execution creditor is made plaintiff in the interpleader: see Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 66; Dominion S. & I. Company v. Kilroy, 7 C. L. T. 87; and see Winfield v. Fowlie, 14 Ont. 105, 107. The form of issue in such case is "whether at the time of the seizure the goods in question were exigible under the execution of (the execution creditors) as against the claimant": see Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 296.

The proper issue is whether the goods at the time of the seizure, not at the time of the delivery of the writ to the Sheriff, were the goods of the claimant: Van Every v. Ross, 11 C. P. 133.

An issue is to be taken distributively, so that the claimant may succeed as to part of the goods, though not as to the rest: Feehan v. Bank of Toronto, 10 C. P. 32. The question on the issue is not whether the execution creditor has a right to seize, but whether the claimant had such an interest in them as entitled him to resist the seizure: Grant v. Wilson, 17 Q. B. 144. Rule 1141.

The form of issue between a claimant and attaching creditor is whether the goods attached were at the time of the seizure the property of the claimant as against the attaching creditor, and not as against the absconding debtor: Doyle v. Lasker, 16 C. P. 263; see form of issue where there were two execution creditors and three claimants: Merchants Bank v. Herson 10 P. R. 117.

See also Leetch v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 226; Standard Insurance Company v. Hughes 11 P. R. 220.

The issue is to be filed as soon as settled, and filed in the county in which it is directed to be tried: Rule 280.

Where an action had been brought by the execution creditor against a claimant under an assignment, to set aside the assignment, on an interpleader application, the trial of the issue directed to be tried was postponed till after the trial of the action: Brown v. Nelson, 10 P. R. 421.

A judgment by one creditor cannot be impeached by other creditors on grounds of defence which the defendant might have, but has not, raised: see Re Hague, Traders' Bank v. Murray, 13 Ont. 727; Bowerman v. White, 15 Ont. App. 679.

Where claimants' rights among themselves were in dispute, they were all made defendants, and the execution creditors plaintiffs, it being held that the Court would not try the title of the claimants between themselves, the purpose of the issue being answered if it was determined that the execution creditors were, or were not entitled to have their execution satisfied out of the goods seized: Merchants Bank v. Herson, 10 P. R. 117.

A jury notice not served with the issue but with notice of trial, was held to be an irregularity only and not a nullity: Leeson v. Lemon, 9 P. R. 103. A jury notice will now be served pursuant to sec. 78 (2) of the Act, supra p. 85.

Issues involving $400 or less are to be tried at a County Court sittings: see Rule 1163.

Under The Creditors' Relief Act, R. S. O. 1887, c. 65, s. 4 (3), where the Sheriff takes interpleader proceedings those creditors only who are parties and agree to contribute pro rata to the expense of contesting adverse claims, are entitled to share in any benefit derived from the contestation. The Court or Judge may direct that one creditor shall have the carriage of the interpleader proceedings, and in such case his costs as between solicitor and client form a first charge upon the moneys or goods which may in the proceedings be found applicable to pay creditors.

As to whether these provisions apply only after an issue is directed, or are also applicable where, under Rule 448, the contest is by consent disposed of summarily, the Court of Appeal was equally divided, in Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont. App. 500.

On the trial of the issue the execution creditor is not required to prove his judgment; Hammill v. DeWolf, 10 C. P. 419; Holden v. Langley, 11 C. P. 407, 411; McWhirter v. Learmouth, 18 C. P. 136.

Where the claimant's case is upon a chattel mortgage, evidence is necessary to identify the goods mortgaged as those which were seized by the sheriff and claimed; Jones v. Jenkins, 25 U. C. Q. B. 151. This, coupled with proof of the due execution of the mortgage, on its face purporting to be made for value, constitutes a good primâ facie case, the consideration for the mortgage need not be proved until evidence has been given impeaching it: Furlong v. Reid, 12 Ont. 607.

The execution creditor may show that the goods are not the claimant's by setting up the title of a third party, e.g., a trustee in bankruptcy: Richards v. Duncan, 17 Q. B. D. 544; 18 Q. B. D. 451.

LIBRARY

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW L

Rule 1141. Where the plaintiff neglects to bring the issue to trial, the course is to move to rescind the interpleader order: Sewlel v. Buffalo, etc., Railway Company, 3 U. C. L. J. 29. The application is made in the original cause: Salter v. McLeod, 10 U. C. L. J. 299.

Sheriffs expenses. Where the Sheriff sells under the order, pending the trial of an issue, it was held in Ontario Bank v. Revell, 11 P. R. 249, that he must pay into Court the gross proceeds of sale, without deducting his charges, but in Reid v. Murphy, 12 P. R. 246, 338, it has been held that the net proceeds only need be paid in. In the event of the claimant succeeding in the trial of the issue, he will not be entitled to recover from the Sheriff the amount deducted for possession money and expenses of sale. The claimant's remedy is to apply, in a summary way in the proceedings, for recovery of the amount deducted for charges from the execution creditor.

The claimant, if successful, is entitled to recover from the execution creditor, as costs, the Sheriff's charges subsequent to the interpleader order: Goodman v. Blake, 19 Q. B. D. 77, and cannot be ordered to pay the the costs of taking possession, or possession money prior to the interpleader order: Massey Mfg. Co v. Gandry, 7 C. L. T. 127.

A Sheriff was held liable to attachment by an execution creditor for not taking security or selling, pursuant to an interpleader order, there being no claim for rent or taxes which the Sheriff was justified in acknowledging: McLean v. Anthony, 6 Ont 330.

Where a Sheriff, with the consent of the execution creditor and the claimant, after an interpleader order, temporarily withdrew from possession, it was held that the landlord might distrain, though he knew of the interpleader proceedings: Cropper v. Warner, 1 Cab. El. 152.

In Howell v. Dawson, 13 Q. B. D. 67, a receiver of property seized in execution was appointed, pending an interpleader issue.

Costs of execreditor. An execution creditor is entitled to see the claimant's affidavit in support of his claim to ascertain the bona fides of the claim and may then abandon without incurring any liability for costs: Wilkins v. Peatman, 7 P. R. 84; unless he has specially directed the seizure: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Tasker, 8 P. R. 351: whether or not the special directions were given in contemplation of an adverse claim: Vanstaden v. Vanstaden, 10 P. R. 428.

Costs of Sheriff. The Sheriff is not in general entitled to costs where the execution creditor abandons; see Wilkins v. Peatman, supra; Can. Bank of Commerce v. Tasker, supra; C. v. D., W. N. 1883, 207; Arch. 12th ed., 1411; Churchill on Sheriff's, 183. But he is entitled to costs from the execution creditor where the latter has given special directions to the Sheriff to seize particular goods, and such special directions need not have been given in contemplation of an adverse claim: Vanstaden v. Vanstaden, 10 P. R. 428. If special directions are sworn to and denied, it must be considered that the Sheriff acted on the writ: Ib.

For rules generally as to Sheriff's costs, see Searle v. Matthews, W. N. 1883, 176.

As to the Sheriff's costs where an issue is directed: see Rule 1158 and Smith v. Darlow, 26 Ch. D. 605.

Costs were formerly by the usual interpleader order reserved, and disposed of in Chambers after the trial of the issue: see Carter v. Stewart, 7 P. R. 85; Wilson v. Wilson, Ib., 407; 3 Ont. App. 400; Hartmont v. Foster, 8 Q. B. D. 82; and this form of order is still continued in the App. Forms Nos. 149, 150: see, however, new Rule 1153 and notes.

Scale of costs. The Judge or officer who disposes of the costs may direct what scale of taxation is to be followed: Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 320.

Where the interpleader proceedings are properly instituted in the High Court, though an issue be directed to be tried in a County Court, the Sheriff's costs will be taxable on the scale of the High Court, and semble also the costs of the parties up to the interpleader order: Arkell v. Geiger, 9 P. R. 523. The costs before the issue will ordinarily be on the scale of the forum to which the Sheriff is compelled to resort, and after the issue, on the scale applicable to the forum in which the issue is directed to be tried: see Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 325; Rule 1141. Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

Sec. 65 of the Jud. Act, applies to interpleader matters as well as to actions, so that no appeal lies from the decision of a Judge as to the disposition of the costs: Hartmont v. Foster, supra; Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 323; an appeal lies from the Master in Chambers to a Judge as in other cases: Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

As to how far County Courts have jurisdiction under this Rule, see note to Rule 1162.

The District Court of Thunder Bay has jurisdiction in interpleader since R. S. O. c. 91, s. 56; its jurisdiction is "the jurisdiction possessed by the County Courts" and this is determinable by the fact whether the process, under which the goods were seized, issued out of the District Court and not by the amount for which the recovery was had: Isbister v. Sullivan, 9 C. L. T. 3. The High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a motion against a verdict or judgment of the District Court in the trial of an interpleader issue: Ib.

Interpleader by Stakeholders.—Under the present Rule, which in effect follows the Equity practice, the person seeking relief is only required to be under liability for the subject matter, it is not necessary that he be first sued, before applying for relief. Probably this Rule does not extinguish any power to compel interpleader existing formerly in Equity by bill filed, and now possessed by the High Court: see McElheran v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181; Western Canada L. & S. Co. v. Court, 25 Gr. 151; Henderson v. Watson, 23 Gr. 355.

Formerly, if the defendant might be liable to both the plaintiff and the third party, he could not interplead. This may be still the case under this Rule: see Farr v. Ward, 2 M. & W. 844.

The Crown cannot be compelled to interplead, not having been mentioned: see Candy v. Maughan, 1 D. & L. 745.

A person outside the jurisdiction may be compelled to interplead: Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 352.

It would seem to be immaterial whether the titles on which the adverse claimants rely are legal or equitable, see Jud. Act, sec. 53 (12), and Ruston v. Pope, L. R. 3 Ex. 269; Bank of Ireland v. Perry, L. R. 7 Ex. 14; Duncan v. Cassion, L. R. C. P. 554; Engleback v. Nixon, L. R. 10, C. P. 645.

A debtor who is being sued, and who has notice of an assignment of the debt, may interplead as to part and dispute the residue; and his application may be either under this Rule or under the Judicature Act, section 53 (5), and the proceedings in the action may be stayed under the latter provision: Reading v. London School Board, 16 Q. B. D. 686.

Where the claim of one of the claimants is for damages for the detention of the subject matter in dispute, the applicant is entitled to interplead: Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Co., 3 C. P. D. 450.

Query, whether interpleader is a proper remedy for trying the right to securities as between co-sureties: Trerice v. Burkitt, 1 Ont. 80.

Interpleader was ordered at the instance of an auctioneer; Watson v. Henderson, 12 U. C. L. J. 149; Tanner v. European Bank, 10 R. I. Ex. 261, and of a bailee a policy of insurance; Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Co., 3 C. P. D. 450.

A solicitor who has recovered judgment for a client under an ordinary retainer has no authority, without special instructions, to engage in proceedings in interpleader: James v. Ricknell, 20 Q. B. D. 164.

The Local Judges were under the former Rules held to have jurisdiction in interpleader matters, they being proceedings in an action: see Coulson v. Spiers, 9 P. R. 491; Swain v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490. The Master in Chambers, and officers having like jurisdiction, would seem to have power in interpleader matters, under the present Rules, so far as interpleader by Sheriffs and Bailees, and Carriers, at all events is concerned. Interpleader in other cases was perhaps not at the date of the new Rules a matter dealt with by a Judge in

Chambers and therefore under Rule 30 may not be a subject within the powers of the Master in Chambers, and such other officers. In Re Anderson & Barber, 13 P. R. 21, the application was made to a Judge in Chambers.

Security for costs.

Security for Costs.—Either party to an interpleader issue may be ordered to give security for costs: Swain v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490; over-ruling the dictum in Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121.

An execution creditor made defendant in the issue was ordered to give security, in Lovell v. Wardroper, 4 P. R. 265; and the claimant in Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 59.

Under R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10, provision was expressly made for requiring security for the Sheriff's costs to be given. Under this provision it was held that the Sheriff was only entitled to such security under circumstances where it would be ordered between ordinary litigants: Sweetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 446. Without such express provision, the Sheriff would appear under the present Rules to have the same right as formerly. The fact that the claimant was a married woman, and in straitened circumstances, was held an insufficient reason for ordering security: Rhodes v. Dawson, 34 W. R. 240, 55 L. J. Q. B. 134.

Matters to be proved by applicant.

1142. The applicant must satisfy the Court or a Judge by affidavit, or otherwise—

(a) That the applicant claims no interest in the subject-matter in dispute, other than for the charges or costs; and

(b) That the applicant does not collude with any of the claimants; and

(c) That the applicant is willing to pay or transfer the subject-matter into Court, or to dispose of it as the Court or a Judge may direct.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 851.

A lien for "costs or charges" did not formerly deprive the applicant of his right to interplead: see Best v. Hays, 1 H. & C. 718, also Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Company, 3 C. P. D. 450, 466.

The objection that a stakeholder has, by taking indemnity from one claimant, disentitled himself to relief, cannot be taken by the claimant who gave the indemnity: Thompson v. Wright, 13 Q. B. D. 632.

A form of affidavit will be found in the Appendix, Form No. 52.

Adverse titles of claimants.

1143. The applicant shall not be disentitled to relief by reason only that the titles of the claimants have not a common origin but are adverse to and independent of one another.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 852.

When application to be made by defendant.

1144. Where the applicant is a defendant, application for relief may be made at any time after service of the writ of summons.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 853.

The form of affidavit in the Appendix, Form No. 52, seems to contemplate the application being made before defence; but probably this will not limit the terms of the Rule.

Rules 1145-1150.

1145. The applicant may make a motion calling on the claimants to appear and state the nature and particulars of their claims, and either to maintain or relinquish them. Motion by applicant.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 854.

1146. If the application is made by a defendant in an action the Court or a Judge may stay all proceedings in the action. Stay of action.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 855.

1147. If the claimants appear on the motion, the Court or a Judge may order either that any claimant be made a defendant in any action already commenced in respect of the subject-matter in dispute in lieu of or in addition to the applicant, or that an issue between the claimants be stated and tried, and in the latter case may direct which of the claimants is to be plaintiff, and which defendant. Order

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 856.

1148. The Court or a Judge may, with the consent of both claimants or on the request of any claimant, if, having regard to the value of the subject-matter in dispute, it seems desirable so to do, dispose of the merits of their claims, and [subject to appeal,] decide the same in a summary manner and on such terms as may be just. Disposal of matters in summary manner.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 857.

Under the English Rules 857 and 860, a decision by the Judge summarily is not appealable: see Lyon v. Morris, 19 Q. B. D. 139. The words in brackets in this Rule are not in the English Rule, so that in Ontario the decision will be appealable as in other cases.

As to whether it is necessary that the consent, which gives jurisdiction under this Rule should appear on the face of the order, see Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont. App. 500, 513-516.

The Court has no power to impose conditions on the claimant without his consent, affecting his right to raise defences: Gerhard v. Montagu, 61 L. T. N. S. 564; unless the claimant is seeking any indulgence from the Court.

1149. Where the question is a question of law, and the facts are not in dispute, the Court or a Judge may either decide the question without directing the trial of an issue, or order that a special case be stated for the opinion of the Court. Questions of law.

Taken from the Eng. Rules 1883, R. 858, which, however, further provides expressly that the provisions of the Eng. Rules corresponding to Rules 554 et seq. shall apply to the special case.

1150. If a claimant, having been duly served with a notice of motion calling on him to appear and maintain, or relinquish, his claim, does not appear in pursuance of the Failure of claimant to appear, or neglect to obey summons.

notice, or, having appeared, neglects or refuses to comply with any order made after his appearance, the Court or a Judge may make an order declaring him and all persons claiming under him for ever barred against the applicant, and persons claiming under him, but the order shall not affect the rights of the claimants as between themselves.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 859.

In making an order barring a claimant, where the applicant is a defendant in an action, there is no power to make it a term of the order that the plaintiff shall pay the costs of the defendant in the original action, apart from those in the interpleader proceedings: Hansen v. Maddox, 12 Q. B. D. 100.

Order for sale of goods seized in execution.

1151. Where goods or chattels have been seized in execution by a sheriff or other officer charged with the execution of process of the High Court, and any claimant alleges that he is entitled, under a bill of sale or otherwise, to the goods or chattels by way of security for debt, the Court or a Judge may order a sale of the whole or a part thereof, and direct the application of the proceeds of the sale in such manner and upon such terms as may be just.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 861.

1152. In case a Sheriff or other officer applies to a Court or Judge for relief by interpleader proceedings, and any execution creditor declines to join in contesting the claim of the adverse claimant, the Court or Judge may direct that such creditor shall be excluded from any benefit which may be derived from the contestation of such claim. 48 V. c. 13, s. 27.

The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 65), s. 4 (3) provides that those creditors only who are parties to interpleader proceedings and agree to contribute pro ratâ to the expense of contesting any adverse claims shall be entitled to share in any benefit derived from the contestation of such claims, so far as it may be necessary to satisfy their executions or certificates.

Final disposition of all matters.

1153. The Court or Judge who tries the issue may finally dispose of the whole matter of the interpleader proceedings, including all costs not otherwise provided for. New.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 862.

Formerly the interpleader order reserved the question of costs and all other questions to be disposed of in Chambers after the trial of the issue. This provision is still contained in the forms of order in the App. Forms Nos. 148-150.

In some cases it may be necessary however to reserve questions, for instance, if any questions in which the Sheriff is concerned are not disposed of, otherwise, unless the Sheriff is made a party to the issue, the Judge who tries the issue cannot finally dispose of the whole matter.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

The Sheriff need not receive notice of a motion respecting the costs of the parties to the issue: O'Brien v. Bull, 9 P. R. 494. Rules 1154-1156.

The parties were directed to pay their own costs, and directed each to pay half the costs of the Sheriff, in McLaren v. Central Railway Co., 10 P. R. 329. A claimant partially succeeding was given the general costs of the issue, with a deduction of one-sixth in respect of the goods as to which he failed: Segsworth v. Meriden Silver Plating Co., 3 Ont. 413.

Title of order.

1154. Where in any interpleader proceedings it is necessary or expedient to make one order in several actions or matters pending in several Divisions, or before different Judges of the same Division, such order may be made by the Court or Judge before whom the interpleader proceeding may be taken, and shall be entitled in all such actions or matters; and any such order (subject to the right of appeal) shall be binding on the parties in all such actions or matters.

Taken from Eng. Rules 1883, R. 863.

In case of several executions, all may be embraced in one application for interpleader.

1155. In case a Sheriff has more than one writ at the suit or instance of different persons against the same property, it shall not be necessary for him to make a separate application on each writ, or in each action; but he may make one application, and may make all the persons who are execution creditors parties to said application, and the Court or Judge before whom the application is made shall take such proceedings, and make such order thereon and therein, as if a separate application had been made upon and in respect of each writ. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 11.

Cases of executions from several Courts, to whom application to be made.

1156. In case there are writs from several Courts, including the High Court of Justice and one or more County Courts or including the High Court and one or more Division Courts against the same goods, and whether at the suit or instance of the same plaintiff, or of different plaintiffs, the application for such interpleader shall be made to the High Court, or to one of the Judges thereof; and such Court or Judge shall dispose of the whole matter, as if all of the writs against the goods had been issued from the said Court; and in such case the County Court or Division Court shall have no cognizance or jurisdiction whatever in the matter. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 12; 49 V. c. 16, s. 13.

Orders as to sale, etc., in cases under the two last sections.

1157. In any such case as in the next preceding two sections mentioned, the High Court, or a Judge thereof, shall make such order with respect to staying proceedings on the several writs, or with respect to directing a sale of the goods or property in question, as may be necessary, and with respect to the final disposition or order to be made as to the goods or the proceeds thereof, and in all other matters whatsoever, as fully as if all the writs had been issued from the said Court. When an issue is ordered, the Sheriff may tax his costs and serve allocatur on each party, etc.

1158. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 15.

The successful party liable to the Sheriff for costs.

1159. If after the service of such certificate the party succeeding upon the issue neglects or refuses to tax such costs, the Sheriff or other officer may obtain an order that the successful party shall pay the same. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 16.

If goods seized remain in the Sheriff's custody, the Court may award remuneration.

1161. In case, after the seizure of any property under attachment or in execution, an issue is directed, and the property seized remains, pending the trial of the issue, in the custody of the Sheriff or other officer who seized the same, the Court from which the writ or order of attach-

(ii) ~~Interpleader in County Courts.~~

1162. In case any claim is made to any goods or chattels taken or intended to be taken under an attachment against an absconding debtor or in execution, under any process issued out of any County Court, or to the proceeds or value thereof, all the proceedings shall be had and taken in the County Court of the county or union of counties in which such goods or chattels are so taken or intended to be taken, or before the Judge of such Court notwithstanding that there are writs from two or more County Courts against the same goods, and whether at the suit or instance of the same plaintiff or different plaintiffs; or the said Court or Judge in any such case, if it appears more convenient and more conducive to the ends of justice so to do, may order that the said proceedings be had and taken in the County Court from which such process issued, or before the Judge of such Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 22. 49 V. c. 16, s. 13. In what County Court the proceedings in interpleader shall be had.

The jurisdiction of County Courts under this Rule is confined to proceedings against absconding debtors, and after judgment where execution has issued; there is therefore no jurisdiction in other cases in which under Rule 1141 the High Court may give relief by interpleader: Re Anderson & Barber, 13 P. R. 21.

1163.—(1) Where the amount claimed under or by virtue of an execution, or of an attachment against an absconding debtor in the Sheriff's or other officer's hands, issued out of the High Court or under executions or attachments in the Sheriff's or other officer's hands, issued out of different County Courts, or out of one or more County Courts, or one or more Division Courts, does not exceed the sum of $400, exclusive of interest and Sheriff's or other officer's costs, or when the goods seized are not, in the opinion of the Judge, or other person making the order, of the value of more than $400, the order directing an issue to When issue may be tried in County Court.

be tried may direct that the issue shall be drawn up and tried in the County Court of the county in which the issue would, under the provisions of the preceding Rule be tried, and in such case the issue shall be drawn up, filed and tried in the County Court, and all subsequent proceedings therein, up to and inclusive of judgment and execution, shall be had and taken in the County Court which shall have jurisdiction in the premises as fully as though the writ of execution or attachment had issued out of a County Court.

(2) When an application is made for an order, under this Rule upon the ground that the goods seized are not of the value of more than $400, a list of the goods and of the value placed upon them shall be set out in the affidavit or affidavits, upon which the application is based. 44 V. c. 7, s. 1; 49 V. c. 16, s. 42.

The Act from which this Rule is taken conferred upon the High Court a power which the Court of Chancery had before by previous legislation: Gourley v. Ingram, 2 Chy. Ch. 238, 309; Wilson v. Wilson, 3 Ont. App. 408; Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 323; and since the Act all interpleader issues involving less than $400, in whatever Division arising, are to be disposed of by reference to a County Court: Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 320.

Where to be tried.

Where an interpleader issue is directed by the High Court to be tried at County Court sittings under this Rule, the subsequent proceedings such as e.g. a motion to postpone the trial must be taken in the County Court: London & Can. L. J. & Co. v. Murphy, 11 P. R. 86; and applications against the verdict or for a new trial must be by way of appeal to the Court of Appeal as in other County Court cases; a Divisional Court of the High Court has no jurisdiction in the action in which the interpleader was directed: Close v. Exchange Bank, 11 P. R. 186, distinguishing Barker v. Leeson, 9 P. R. 107.

(3) The Judge making the order shall have the like powers as are provided in Rule 1157 with regard to the proceedings therein mentioned. 49 V. c. 16, s. 42 (a).

Order for costs to be made by Judge of County Court.

1164. The proceedings for and relating to the order for costs, and for obtaining money out of Court, when the same has been paid into Court by the Sheriff, and for such other purposes as may be necessary, may, in the cases provided for in the preceding Rule, be made to the Judge of the County Court who tried the issue, and he shall have power and authority to make such order in the premises as a Judge has heretofore had in such cases, but the application for such order may be made as now in the original cause. 44 V. c. 7, s. 2.

Costs of proceedings in County Court.

1165. In respect of all such proceedings as shall be had in the County Court, the costs and disbursements shall be taxed upon the County Court scale. 44 V. c. 7, s. 3.

Appeal given to parties dissatisfied in interpleader cases in County Courts.

1166. Any party who is dissatisfied with the decision of the Judge of a County Court upon any question of law or fact arising in the course of interpleader proceedings, may appeal from such decision to the Court of Appeal, and sections 40 to 52 inclusive of The County Courts' Act shall extend and apply to and shall regulate and govern the manner of prosecuting and determining such appeal. (iii) Interpleader by Bailees and Carriers.

Bailee or carrier may interplead on certain affidavit.

1167.—(1) Any common carrier or other bailee of goods and chattels, whether under a special contract or otherwise howsoever upon whom any claim is made to any goods or chattels in the possession of such carrier or bailee by any one or more claimants, whether such claims have or have not a common origin, may either before or at any time after action is brought by any such claimants respecting the said goods, upon affidavit showing how the said goods and chattels came to his possession, the nature and extent of any lien which the said carrier or bailee has upon the said goods and chattels for services rendered and money advanced thereon, if any such claim exists, and the value or supposed value thereof, also showing, who said claimants respectively are, and the nature (as far as said carrier or bailee knows) of the claims respectively made to said goods, and that he the said carrier or bailee has good reason to believe, and does believe, that if he delivers such goods to either of the claimants he will be sued by the other or others of them, and that he does not collude with any or either of the parties claiming possession of said goods and chattels, apply to any Judge of the High Court of Justice, or, where the value of the goods does not exceed $200, to anyJudge of a County Court of the county within which such goods are at the time of the application, by motion calling upon all the parties respectively claiming the said goods and chattels, to appear and state the nature and particulars of their respective claims, and to maintain or relinquish the same.

(2) The Judge in disposing of said application, shall have and exercise all the powers given to a Judge in interpleader matters. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 24.

See notes to Rule 1141.

Rules 1168, 1169.

When and how claimant served may be barred.

1168. In case any such claimant, being duly served with notice of the said motion does not appear to maintain or relinquish his claim or right, or refuses to comply with any order made after appearance, the said Judge may declare him barred from making or prosecuting his claim against the said carrier or bailee, saving the right or claim of such party against the person or party to whom, under said order, said goods, or the proceeds thereof, may be delivered; and the said Judge may make such order between the parties to the said application as may seem just. R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 25.

See note to Rule 1147.

The Court may provide for satisfaction of lien of bailee.

1169. It shall not be necessary, in order to entitle any such carrier or bailee to relief by way of interpleader, that he should abandon any lawful lien he may have upon the goods and chattels the subject of such application; and in disposing of such application, the Judge, in case of any such lien, may make such order respecting the satisfaction or payment thereof, and as to the relief asked and sought thereby, and as to the costs of the parties and the payment thereof, as the right and justice of the case may require. CHAPTER XIII.

COSTS.

1. General Rules, 1170-1196.
2. Taxation, 1197-1231.
3. Sheriff's Fees, 1232-1241.
4. Security for Costs, 1242-1252.

1. General Rules.

1170. Subject to the provisions of The Judicature Act, the costs of and incident to all proceedings in the High Court shall be in the discretion of the Court, but nothing herein contained shall deprive a trustee, mortgagee, or other person of any right to costs out of a particular estate or fund to which he would be entitled according to the rules hitherto acted upon in Courts of Equity: Provided, that where any action or issue is tried by a jury, the costs shall follow the event, unless, upon application made at the trial, for good cause shown, the Judge before whom the action or issue is tried or the Court otherwise orders. J. A. Rule 428.

To be in discretion of Court.

Savings as to trustee, etc.

Of issue tried before jury.

(a) Costs of proceedings before judicial officers, unless otherwise disposed of, shall be in their discretion, subject to appeal. See Chy. O. 275, 585.

The first clause is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 55, r. 1. Rule 976 of the Rules of 1883 is different in substituting for "the High Court," "the Supreme Court," and in regard to the costs of trustees, etc.

Under the various statutes affecting costs, the rule in the Common Law Courts was, that costs followed the event, except in the cases in which it was otherwise provided by statute. In Chancery, except in the cases referred to in the Rule of a trustee or mortgagee, etc., they were in the discretion of the Court; but the rule acted upon was, that in the absence of special circumstances the party failing paid the costs: James v. Norton, 1 Charl. Ca. [Court] 161; Downey v. Roaf, 6 P. R. 89.

Rules before the Jud. Act.

The effect of the present Rule is to repeal all former statutes which regulated the disposition of costs instead of leaving them in the discretion of the Court (except perhaps such as give double or treble costs by way of a penalty: see R. S. O. 1887, c. 71, s. 20; Wellbanks v. Conger, 12 P. R. at p. 448; Hasker v. Wood, 78 L. T. Jour. 412; 33 W. R. 697; 54 L. J. Q. B. 419; or confer a right to costs in the case of particular classes of persons: see Garnett v. Bradley, 3 App. Cas. 944; and Arscott v. Lilley, 14 Ont. App. 283, 294); and to enable the Court except in the cases here mentioned, to deal with costs as it may think proper: Garnett v. Bradley, supra; Parsons v. Tinling, 2 C. P. D. 119; Tenant v. Ellis, 6 Q. B. D. 46; see Parnell v. Mort Liddell & Co., 29

Rule 1170. Ch. D. 325. But where the Court had not power, original or statutory, before the Act, to award costs, jurisdiction to do so is not conferred by this Rule: Re Mills, 34 Ch. D. 24, questioning Ex p. Mercers Co., 10 Ch. D. 481; Re Holliday & Mayor of Wakefield, 20 Q. B. D. 699; Ex p. Hospital of St. Katherines, 17 Ch. D. 378; Re Lee v. Hemingway, 24 Ch. D. 669; see also Arscott v. Lilley, 14 Ont. App. 295; Re Knight's Trusts, 26 Ch. D. 82; Re Wood, 31 Ch. D. 607; Kingston v. Murphy, 11 P. R. 304. Where an Act gives jurisdiction to determine questions but is silent as to costs, the Court has inherent jurisdiction to order a person wrongly putting it in motion to pay costs: Re Bombay Civil Fund Act, 40 Ch. D. 288. So where costs were not asked for by a rule nisi though they were at bar, this is no objection, the costs being in the discretion of the Court without any mention of them where the opposite party appears: Re Peck & Galt, 46 U. C. Q. B. 211; but where the opposite party does not appear the Court will not usually give costs if they have not been asked by the notice of motion. In England neither an interpleader order for an issue: Wicks v. Wood, 26 W. R. 680; Hartmont v. Foster, 8 Q. B. D. 82, nor sending a case for trial to a County Court: Farmers v. May, 44 L. T. N. S. 148, removes the case from the jurisdiction of the High Court as to costs: but see Rules 1162, 1165, and secs. 96 and 97 of the Act.

This Rule also repeals all former practice which laid down any special rule as to costs: The Friedeberg, 10 P. D. 112.

The proceedings must have actually come into Court: Re Brandreth's Trade-mark, 9 Ch. D. 618; and it is to be observed that this Rule only has reference to costs of proceedings in the High Court, not in the Court of Appeal. The Eng. Rule of 1883, r. 976, is different in this respect.

General Outline of the Rules.—The Rules as to costs make provision for—

(1) Costs generally of proceedings in the High Court: see p. 892.

(2) The disposal of the costs of the action where tried without a jury: see infra p. 893, and

(3) Where tried with a jury: see p. 895.

Generally. Non-jury cases.

The two last classes of cases are further separately considered. In actions tried without a jury the costs are (subject to certain special exceptions) in the discretion of the trial Judge, and without an order made in the exercise of such discretion, no costs will be taxable to any party: Rule 1170.

Jury cases. Scales of costs.

In actions tried by a jury, the costs are not entirely in the discretion of the trial Judge. Prima facie they must follow the event, but the Judge has a discretion to make a different order "upon good cause shown," but only in that event: Rule 1170.

Non-jury cases.

In the case of actions brought in the High Court, which might have been brought in an inferior Court—(1) If the action is tried without a jury, the scale upon which the costs are to be allowed is in the discretion of the Judge entirely; it was said in Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 152, that there was no better guide than the rule which prevails where the action is tried by a jury, (see Rule 1172), but the Judge's discretion is not fettered by any Rule. (2) If the action is tried by a jury, Rule 1172 applies, and where the costs follow the event, the costs are recoverable as defined by Rule 1172. (3) In actions tried by a jury, where good cause is shown, the scale of costs is in the discretion of the Judge in the same way as if the action were tried without a jury.

Where judgment without a trial.

Where judgment is entered without a trial, and therefore without any expressed direction as to costs, the scale of costs is determined by the Taxing Officer, under Rule 1174.

(1) Costs generally of Proceedings in the High Court.—The following are miscellaneous cases which illustrate the discretion of which the Court has to dispose of the costs of proceedings before it.

The discretion extends to costs dealt with on interlocutory proceedings before the trial, so that they may be directed to be borne by one party in any event: Vicary v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 168.

The dismissal of an action for want of prosecution without costs is within the discretion of the Judge, notwithstanding 4 Anne c. 16, s. 23, and there is no appeal: Snelling v. Pulling, 29 Ch. D. 85.

Where in an action of covenant the defendant paid money into Court and denied the breach, and a referee to whom the issues were referred, reported that the money paid in was sufficient to satisfy the claim, it was held that the costs were in the discretion of the Court, and that the proper method of exercising it was by allowing plaintiff his costs up to the time of payment into Court, and defendant the costs of the action after that time: Buckton v. Higgs, 4 Ex. D. 174. Rule 1170.

But where a cause was referred by consent at a trial to the Master under the C. L. P. Act, as a matter of account, formal judgment being entered for the plaintiff, and the order of reference was silent as to costs, after an award that nothing was due to plaintiffs beyond money paid into Court, it was held that the proceedings were not "proceedings in the High Court" within this Rule, but withdrawn from it by an agreement of the parties, and, the parties having agreed to its terms, the Court could not add to it, and had no power to give costs: Winshurst v. Barrow Ship Building Co., 2 Q. B. D. 335.

A defendant cannot escape the costs of a writ of summons by tendering the amount sued for before service but after the issue of the writ: O'Malley v. Killmallock, 22 L. R. Ir. 326.

Where upon an interlocutory motion the plaintiff obtains the relief he seeks in the action, he should make application to the defendant to consent to have the costs disposed of on motion, otherwise he will not be allowed the extra costs occasioned by going to trial. Without defendant's consent the costs cannot be disposed of on motion; Sonnenschein v. Barnard, 57 L. T. N. S. 712; see Blakeley v. Ingram, 9 C. L. T. 143; Starr v. Maidstone, W. N. 1878, 219; Dicks v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 77; Landed Estates Company v. Weeding, W. N. 1871, 148.

In Bowker v. Kesteven, 47 L. T. N. S. 545, the plaintiff claimed £49 17*s.*, the defendant admitted the claim and counter-claimed for £75, judgment was for the plaintiff on the claim admitted and costs, and for the defendant for £40 and costs. It was held that the plaintiff was entitled to costs up to, and including the statement of defence, and the defendant to costs after that time: see also O'Riordan v. Kelly, 16 L. R. Ir. 263.

By various Rules special provision is made as to costs in particular cases—where the Court has no jurisdiction: see Rule 1256 and Great Northern, etc. v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Crowther v. Boult, 33 W. R. 150; of proceedings to attach debts: Rule 1180; on the granting or refusing a peremptory mandamus: Rule 1122*a*; on confession of defence: Rule 440; on discontinuance: Rule 641; on accepting money paid into Court in satisfaction: Rule 637; of preliminary examinations of parties: Rule 1177; of inspection of documents: Rule 1196; of proving documents where notice to admit not given: Rule 1190; of applications to extend the time for taking a proceeding: Rule 1191; by reason of a party not making admissions: Rule 1189; of proceedings relating to "third parties": Rule 332 and Blore v. Ashby, 42 Ch. D. 682.

Non-jury Cases.—Discretion of Judge.—No hard and fast rules can be laid down as to the manner of exercising discretion as to the costs: see The Friedberg, 10 P. D. 112; Badische Anilin, etc. v. Levinstein, 29 Ch. D. 366. Non-jury cases.

The discretion is a judicial one, and a plaintiff who successfully enforces a legal right, and in no way misconducts himself, may not be deprived of costs, but is entitled to them as of right: Cooper v. Whittington, 15 Ch. D. 501; The Condor, 4 P. D. 120; The Monkseaton, 14 P. D. 51; Upmann v. Forester, 24 Ch. D. 231; Goodhart v. Hyett, 25 Ch. D. 182; Witmann v. Oppenheim, 27 Ch. D. 260; 54 L. J. Chy. 56; see also Mitchell v. Vandusen, 15 Ont. App. 517, where the question of the power to make a successful party pay costs was also raised but not decided.

So the Judge cannot, except under some special Statute, impose costs beyond the costs of suit by way of penalty. His discretion, however, extends to ordering a defendant to pay half the costs or a fixed sum in lieu of costs: Rule 1178; Wilmott v. Barber, 17 Ch. D. 772; Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, 344; see Cockburn v. Edwards, 18 Ch. D. 449, 459; Harrison v. McSheehan, W. N. 1885, 207; or no more costs than the verdict: Hancock v. Hale, 28 Sol. Discretion of Court.

Rule 1170. Jour. 230, where only £21 was recovered on a much larger claim; or costs between solicitor and client (in matters of equitable jurisdiction at any rate): Andrews v. Barnes, 39 Ch. D. 133; Sandford v. Porter, 10 [illegible] App. 565, 577; or to giving no costs where the action was within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court: Vandewaters v. Horton, 9 Ont. 548; Kay v. Tighe, 18 L. R. Ir. 40; or to directing a solicitor to pay costs personally: Barnard v. Scoles, 37 W. R. 668; or to refusing costs to a party, though successful, whose conduct has been discreditable: Darby v. City of Toronto, 9 C. L. T. 371; Beatty v. O'Connor, 5 Ont. 744; or where improper charges are made and not sustained: Fry v. Lane, 40 Ch. D. 312; (or to directing payment of the opposite party's costs of such charges: see Neil v. Winter, 9 Gr. 261; Hodgins v. McNeil, Ib. 305; McKenzie v. Yielding, 11 Gr. 406;) or where a party otherwise misconducts himself, as by making an untruthful defence: Finlayson v. Mullard, 10 Gr. 130; or unnecessarily bringing a suit: Darling v. Wilson, 16 Gr. 255; Springer v. Clarke, 15 Gr. 664; Fane v. Fane, 13 Ch. D. 228; Re Cabburn, 46 L. T. N. S. 848; W. N. 1882, 92; even in the case of a mortgagee: McLean v. Cross, 3 Chy. Ch. 432; Ashworth v. Lord, 36 Ch. D. 545; Boulton v. Rowland, 4 Ont. 720; Graham v. Ross, 6 Ont. 154; see also Smallpiece v. Lee, in note to sec. 65 of the Act.

Where a defendant succeeds generally he may have the costs of some of his defences on which he has not succeeded; but where he has raised a distinct issue and failed he ought not to have the costs of that issue: Blank v. Footman, 39 Ch. D. 678.

Where in an action tried by a Judge without a jury no order is made as to costs, none are recoverable by either party: Re Great Western Advertising Co. v. Rainer, 9 P. R. 494; Lewin v. Trimming, 21 Q. B. D. 230.

A Judge has no power to delegate his discretion: Lambton v. Parkinson, 35 W. R. 545.

The fact that the action was brought without first making an application to the defendant for the relief sought, was not considered sufficient to deprive plaintiff of costs: Goodhart v. Hyett, 25 Ch. D. 182; Wittman v. Oppenheim, 27 Ch. D. 260; Ruskin v. Robinson, 2 Times Rep. 18; but see Holt v. Smith, 3 Times Rep. 329.

A Judge before whom a second trial is held, has power to order a plaintiff who recovers a nominal sum to pay the costs of both trials, even where the action is tried with a jury: Harris v. Petherick, 4 Q. B. D. 611; see Fane v. Fane, 13 Ch. D. 228.

Quære, whether, when the plaintiff fails, the defendant can be ordered to pay the whole costs: Dick v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 76; Foster v. G. W. Ry., 8 Q. B. D. 25, 515; Butcher v. Pooler, 24 Ch. D. 273; Lambton v. Parkinson, 35 W. R. 545; Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517; in such case the defendant may be ordered to pay a co-defendant's costs, though there is no issue between them: Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417.

The Official Guardian's costs of defending an action on behalf of an infant defendant were ordered to be paid by the plaintiff, notwithstanding judgment in favour of the plaintiff against the infant who was found to be party to the fraud which occasioned the action: Westgate v. Westgate, 11 P. R. 62.

In an action tried without a jury, judgment being given for plaintiff, on the claim and counter-claim, but for defendant against third parties with "such costs as defendant would be entitled to by law," it was held that the costs being in the discretion of the Judge, and no discretion being exercised in favour of defendant against the third parties, the defendant was not "entitled by law" to costs: Lewin v. Trimming, 21 Q. B. D. 230.

For the effect on costs of a refusal of a reasonable sum tendered before suit, see The William Symington, 10 P. D. 1.

In an action for infringement of trademark, an offer of full compliance with the plaintiff's demands was made after action commenced, but, notwithstanding this, a motion for injunction was brought on. The motion was held not unnecessary, the compromise being insufficient, and the plaintiff was held entitled to costs: Fenessy v. Day & Martin, 55 L. T. N. S. 161; see also Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574. Rule 1170.

Where a motion by plaintiff is adjourned till the trial and no mention is made of the costs of it then or at the trial, a judgment dismissing the action with costs carries with it the costs of the motion: Gosnell v. Bishop, 38 Ch. D. 385. See also as to costs reserved to be disposed of at the trial: Hodges v. Hodges, 25 W. R. 162; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542. But orders disposing of interlocutory costs are not interfered with by a general award of costs at the trial: Beynon v. Godden, 4 Ex. D. 246.

In Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542, where costs of an injunction had been reserved till the trial, but counsel had then omitted to ask for them, the omission was supplied on subsequent motion under Rule 780.

Where upon a reference by consent but not in a cause the costs of the reference are left in the discretion of the arbitrator the costs of negotiating and settling terms of the submission may be taxed as "costs of the reference": Re Autothreptic etc., Co., & Townsend & Co., 21 Q. B. D. 182.

Jury Cases—Where Costs Follow the "Event."—The observations following are in regard to the cases where the costs follow the "event," i.e., where the Judge has not for "good cause" otherwise ordered. Jury cases.

Where the "event" is the result of a single issue, no difficulty occurs in the application of the Rule. It is where there are several issues, or there is a counter-claim that difficulty arises.

Where there are several issues, and neither plaintiff nor defendant is wholly successful, the question arises, what the "event" is which the costs are to follow. It has been held that the word "event" in this Rule is complex, and must be read distributively as regards distinct causes of action. The general costs of the cause follow the judgment, but the costs of the particular issues must be respectively taxed in favour of the party who has succeeded on them: Myers v. Defries, 4 Ex. D. at p. 180; Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 569; in which the previous case of Staples v. Young, 2 Ex. D. 324, was not approved of: see also Ellis v. Desilva, 6 Q. B. D. 521; Waring v. Pearman, 32 W. R. 429; Lund v. Campbell, 14 Q. B. D. 821; Hawke v. Brear, Ib., 841; Goutard v. Carr, 13 Q. B. D. 59*n*; Ahrbecker v. Frost, 17 Q. B. D. 606; Bertram v. Massey Mfg. Co., 13 P. R. 184. Where several issues.

In each issue the "event" is the result of all the proceedings incidental to the litigation, and the costs which follow the event include the costs of all the stages of that litigation; and therefore where a new trial was had and the plaintiff on the second trial recovered a verdict, he was held entitled to the costs of the first trial as part of the costs of the action: Field v. Great Northern Ry., 3 Ex. D. 261; Creen v. Wright, 2 C. P. D. 354; Waring v. Pearman, 32 W. R. 429; Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 396. So where at the first trial the jury disagreed: Copeland v. Blenheim, 11 P. R. 54.

In Abbott v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 647, where the plaintiff succeeded on some issues but was non-suited on others, no order being made as to costs, the defendant was held entitled to costs of issues on which the plaintiff was nonsuited, and the plaintiff to the other costs, including the general costs of the cause. Where a judgment is ambiguous as to costs, application should be made, to the Judge who pronounced it, to correct the ambiguity. It is not proper to bring the matter up on an appeal from the taxing officer: Ib; Sparrow v. Hill, 8 Q. B. D. 479, may also be referred to, though in that case the Judge made an order as to costs, and the question was the right interpretation of it. There the plaintiff succeeded on three heads of his claim and was awarded costs in respect of the amounts recovered, and the defendant was given costs in respect of the rest. Therefore the plaintiff was held entitled to the general costs of the cause excepting those which related to the issues on which he had failed, and the defendant was given his costs of the latter issues.

In cases where there are counter-claims most difficulty has occurred. Cases of counter-claims.

Rule 1170.
Cases of counter-claim.

There is a distinction between cases where a defendant sets up a counter-claim in the nature of a set-off of a debt or liquidated claim, and a counter-claim for unliquidated damages.

Under the present Rule 373 both kinds of claims may be presented by the defendant in the pleading called a counter-claim: see Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 151; but a true set-off does not lose its real character by being pleaded as a counter-claim: Ryan v. Fraser, 16 L. R. Ir. 253; Cutler v. Morse, 12 P. R. 594; Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 149; Sanderson v. Ashfield, 13 P. R. 230; and the costs are taxable on the same principles as they would have been taxed in like case under the Jud. Act: Cutler v. Morse, supra; see also Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 396.

For the purposes of taxation a counter-claim properly so called is now to be treated as a cross action and the costs thereof may be taxed separately from those of the action: Emerson v. Gearin, 12 P. R. 399; Shrapnel v. Laing, 20 Q. B. D. 334; Amon v. Bobbett, 22 Q. B. D. 543.

Where there is a counter-claim in respect of matters which could not be pleaded as a set-off, and the defendant recovers on his counter-claim a sum exceeding that which the plaintiff recovers on his claim, the claim and counter-claim having for purposes of taxation to be treated as independent actions the costs in each should be taxed in favour of the successful party, subject to a deduction in respect of the costs of any issues on which he has not succeeded: Shrapnel v. Laing, 20 Q. B. D. 334. It is immaterial for purposes of taxation whether the form of the judgment be for recovery by each party of the amount found due to him, or by plaintiff or defendant for the balance in his favour: Ib.

In the case of a true counter-claim the plaintiff cannot foresee that the defendant will set up the counter-claim, but may prefer to bring a cross-action, while in the case of a set off, he must know of the existence of the claim and should give credit for it, if good: see Heritage v. Ford, 71 L. T. Jour. 313; Stooke v. Taylor, infra.

Therefore where the plaintiff establishes his claim and the defendant a set-off of an equal or greater amount, the defendant has succeeded and the plaintiff failed, and the defendant is therefore entitled to costs of the action: Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 576; Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 794; Heritage v. Ford, supra.

On the other hand where the plaintiff establishes a claim and the defendant establishes a counter-claim in the nature of a cross-action, i.e., both claim and counter-claim are successful, the plaintiff is entitled to the costs of the action (without any apportionment of charges common to both claim and counter-claim), and the defendant to such costs only as are properly attributable to the counter-claim: Re Brown, Ward v. Morse, 23 Ch. D. 377; Stooke v. Taylor, supra; Gray v. Davidson, 5 Ex. D. 189; Ellis v. Desilva, 6 Q. B. D. 521. This gives the general costs of the action not to the party recovering the most, or to the party to whom the litigation is on the whole favourable, but to the plaintiff: Baines v. Bromley, supra; Pearson v. Ripley, 32 W. R. 463; 50 L. T. N. S. 629, (because his costs are those of the action), whether the balance is in favour of the plaintiff: Hallinan v. Price, 41 L. T. N. S. 627; 27 W. R. 490; or of the defendant: Re Brown, Ward v. Morse, supra. See also Waring v. Pearman, 32 W. R. 429; 50 L. T. N. S. 633; and Coughlin v. Hollingsworth, 5 Ont 207, where costs were directed to be taxed upon this principle and judgment was directed to be entered for the party in whose favour the balance should be found.

Similarly, where the claim and counter-claim are both dismissed, the plaintiff is to pay the defendant the general costs of the action, and the defendant has only to pay the sum by which the costs have been increased by the counter-claim: Sauer v. Bilton, 11 Ch. D. 416; Mason v. Brentini, 15 Ch. D. 287.

Where the claim was dismissed without costs, and the counter-claim with costs, the Judge ordered defendant to pay half plaintiff's costs, as a convenient mode of settling the matter: Wilmott v. Barber, 15 Ch. D. 96; 17 Ch. D. 774.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LI

Where at a jury trial the plaintiff's claim was admitted on the pleadings, but a counter-claim for damages to a larger amount was set up, it was held that costs should follow the event, and be taxed as in Baines v. Bromley, and that the Judge had no jurisdiction in the absence of good cause to order costs to the plaintiff down to the counter-claim and to the defendant of the counter-claim and subsequent proceedings: Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 396. Rule 1170.

In Chatfield v. Sedgwick, 4 C. P. D. 459, the plaintiff claimed a sum exceeding £50. The defendant pleaded a set-off, and also made a counter-claim for goods to the amount of about £24. The action was referred to a Master, costs to abide the event. The Master certified that there was due to the plaintiff on the claim £16, and to the defendant on the counter-claim £23, and that the balance due to the defendant was £7. It was held that defendant was entitled to his costs, as the question was, taking claim and counter-claim together, which was creditor and which was debtor, and, the finding being in favour of the defendant, that was the event which the costs were to follow. The reasons for this decision are dissented from by Cockburn, C.J., in Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 582, though the decision itself is approved of as in accordance with the principles above mentioned, because the defendant succeeded, but the plaintiff failed, as to costs, not having recovered £20, so as to be entitled to costs under the County Court Act. See also Lowe v. Holme, 10 Q. B. D. 286; Ryan v. Fraser, 16 L. R. Ir. 253; Lund v. Campbell, 14 Q. B. D. 821.

Where, in an arbitration, costs were to follow the "event" and the defendant recovered more on his counter-claim than the plaintiff, it was held that the defendant was entitled to the general costs and the plaintiff to costs of the issue on which he succeeded: Lund v. Campbell, 14 Q. B. D. 821, where Baines v. Bromley is explained: Hawke v. Brear, Ib., 841; see also Ahrbecker v. Frost, 17 Q. B. D. 606.

Where the plaintiffs claimed £304 17s. 9d. and the defendants set up a counter-claim for £480, the arbitrator to whom the matter was referred found in favour of the plaintiffs for £371, and in favour of the defendants for £375. The Court, on appeal from the District Registrar who had given the costs of the cause to the defendants, ordered "the costs of, and relating to the plaintiff's claim, and the proof thereof to be paid by the defendants, and the costs of, and relating to the defendants' counter-claim, and the proof thereof, to be paid by the plaintiffs": Cole, Marchant & Co. v. Firth, 4 Ex. D. 301; 40 L. T. N. S. 851.

It has been held in England that the costs of an action in which judgment has been signed in default of defence, and the damages have been assessed by a jury upon a writ of inquiry, do not follow the event, but are in the discretion of the Judge, there having been no trial with a jury: Gath v. Howarth, 28 Sol Jour. 427; W. N. 1884, 99. See Rule 1174.

Depriving a party of costs for "good cause."—The Judge has no jurisdiction to deprive the successful party of costs or make order as to the costs so that they do not follow the event unless there be 'good cause': Jones v. Curling, 13 Q. B. D. 262; Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 396; Huxley v. West London, 17 Q. B. D. 373; 14 App. Cas. 26; Bertram v. Massey, 13 P. R. 184.

"Good cause" means some misconduct tending to the litigation, or in the course of the litigation, which requires the Court in justice to interfere; and there is a marked distinction between interfering with costs going to a plaintiff, and costs going to a defendant: Farquhar v. Robertson, 13 P. R. 156. It embraces everything for which the party was responsible connected with the institution or conduct of the suit and calculated to occasion unnecessary litigation or expense: Huxley v. Robertson, 14 App. Cas. 26. The Judge is not confined to the consideration of the conduct of the party in the course of the litigation, but may consider his conduct previous to and conducing to the litigation. He must, however, assume the truth of the facts found by the jury: Harnett v. Vise, 5 Ex. D. 307; see also Wellbanks v. Conger, 12 P. R. 447.

Letters or conversations written or declared to be without prejudice cannot be taken into consideration: Walker v. Willsher, 23 Q. B. D. 335.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 1170. The recommendation of the jury that each party should pay his own costs was not considered, and affidavits by some of the jurymen that they would not have acquiesced in a verdict for defendant if they had supposed the result would be to throw all the costs on the plaintiff were held inadmissible: Farquhar v. Robertson, 13 P. R. 156; Weaver v. Sawyer, 16 Ont. App. 422.

But in an action of seduction where the wrong complained of was partly attributable to the girl's parents and the jury gave a verdict for the defendant, but declared that they desired him not to get costs, whereupon judgment was so entered, it was held that "good cause" was shown for depriving him of costs: Widmsley v. Mitchell, 5 Ont. 427.

The jurisdiction to deprive of costs for good cause has been held to be rightly exercised where defendant has by misstatements, made under circumstances imposing an obligation on him to be truthful, brought litigation on himself and rendered an action against him reasonable: Sutcliffe v. Smith, 2 Times 881; and where the action was frivolous and vexatious: Macgregor v. Clay, 4 Times 715.

The fact that only a farthing damages is given is not conclusive that good cause existed, but is an element to be considered: Moore v. Gill, 4 Times 738.

Oppression or misconduct on the part of the successful party is good cause; but not the recovery by the plaintiff of part only of what he claims: Jones v. Curling, 13 Q. B. D. 262; Williams v. Ward, 55 L. J. Q. B. 566; Pool v. Lewin, 1 Times 165; Canning v. Turner, 3 Times 684; Pearman v. Burdett Coutts, Ib., 719; nor the fact that the recovery is for a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court: Foster v. Viegel, 13 P. R. 133.

Time for making application. The discretion as to costs provided for by this Rule to direct the costs to be otherwise than according to the event when an action is tried by a jury, can be exercised only by the Judge who tries the case upon an application made at the trial, or by a Divisional Court.

"At the trial" would seem to mean at the same sitting of the Court: Tyne Alkali Co. v. Lawson, 36 L. T. N. S. 100; Kynaston v. Mackinder, 37 L. T. N. S. 390; or "substantially at the trial": Collins v. Welch, 5 C. P. D. at p. 33; and the Judge may reserve his decision on the application and give judgment at a subsequent time: see Wise v. Hewson, 1 P. R. 232.

It has been said in some cases that the Judge cannot entertain an application made subsequently to the pronouncing of judgment at the trial, nor can the same or another Judge at Chambers: Baker v. Oakes, 2 Q. B. D. 171; Tyne Alkali Co. v. Lawson, 36 L. T. N. S. 100; Re G. W. Advertising Co. v. Rainer, 9 P. R. 494. The application should be made immediately after the verdict: see Collins v. Welch, supra; Mallock v. Johnson, 4 U. C. Q. B. 352; Major v. McKenzie, 23 C. P. 261; or at any rate at the time of any motion for judgment.

But where the Judge at the trial refused to exercise his discretion but some weeks afterwards heard both sides on an application and made an order depriving plaintiff of costs, it was held that he had power to do so and was not functus officio by his refusal at the trial: Huxley v. West London, 14 App. Cas. 26. And where the Judge at the trial had omitted to exercise his discretion as to costs, it was held that even after his judgment had been appealed from, he might make an order as to costs: Hardy v. Pickard 12 P. R. 428.

Where the Judge at the trial anticipates an application, in the presence of counsel on both sides, or without any application: Turner v. Heyland, 4 C. P. D. 432, he has power to make an order depriving the successful party of costs, though the counsel for the other side has not in terms applied to him to do so: Collins v. Welch, 5 C. P. D. 27; Marsden v. Lancashire and Yorkshire Ry. Co., 7 Q. B. D. 641.

Appeal from the Judge's decision. Where the Judge at the trial has made no order, the Divisional Court has original jurisdiction under this Rule to make an order to deprive a successful party of the costs of an action tried before a jury: Meyers v. Defries, and Siddons v. Lawrence, 4 Ex. D. 176; upon an application made within reasonable time after the trial: Bowey v. Bell, 4 Q. B. D. 95. But where the Judge has exercised his alternative jurisdiction the Divisional

Court has no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from his order: Marsden v. Lancashire & Yorkshire Railway Company, 7 Q. B. D. 641; see, however, p. 643 and dicta in Collins v. Welch, 5 C. P. D. at p. 33. These dicta are based upon the English practice which requires an appeal from the decision of a Judge, to be to the Court of Appeal: see Rules of 1875, O. 40, r. 4, (1883, r. 563). In this Province since a decision of a Judge may be reviewed by the Divisional Court under Rule 798, cases may occur where an appeal will lie to the Div. Court, as to the Court of Appeal in England: see 7 Q. B. D. 644; e.g., by leave of the Judge Tomlinson v. Northern Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 527; Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517; or on the question whether there was good cause: see cases infra; but see Kearney v. Harrison, 10 L. R. Ir. 17, and Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417; Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292. Rule 1170.

If there is "good cause" within the meaning of the Rule the Judge's discretion is absolute and cannot be reviewed, but the question whether there is good cause or not is subject matter of appeal: Huxley v. West London, 17 Q. B. D. 373; 14 App. Cas. 26; Walker v. Willsher, 23 Q. B. D. 336; Williams v. Ward, 55 L. J. Q. B. 566; Rooke v. Czarnikow, 4 Times 669. If he holds that there was no good cause the Court on appeal cannot interfere: Moore v. Gill, 4 Times 738.

Appeals Respecting Costs.—This Rule combined with s. 65 of the Act has the effect, that (except in the case of trustees, mortgagees, etc.,) no appeal in respect of costs will be allowed, without leave, since s. 65 prohibits appeals, except by leave of the Court or Judge appealed from, in respect of costs, which are by law left to the discretion of the Court: Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517, where on an appeal by leave the decision was reversed. Appeals for costs.

Orders have therefore been held unappealable in respect of costs of inspection of a mine allowed under Rule 1135: Mitchell v. Darley Main Colliery Co., 10 Q. B. D. 457; costs directed to be paid by a solicitor personally by reason of misconduct or negligence; but an appeal lies as to whether there has been misconduct or negligence: Re Bradford, 15 Q. B. D. 635, over-ruling S. C., 11 Q. B. D. 373; costs directed to be paid to a defendant by a co-defendant though there was no issue between them: Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417; see also Rudow v. Great Britain Assurance Co., 17 Ch. D. 600; costs directed to be paid by defendant and given over against a third party: Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; and costs dealt with before the trial and directed to be borne by one party "in any event": Vicary v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 168.

See also notes to sec. 65, and Bazett v. Morgan, 24 Q. B. D. 28; Harpham v. Shacklock, 19 Ch. D. 207.

Costs are not in the discretion of the Court, and therefore the proper subject of an appeal where they come within the exceptional cases in this Rule.

Thus where a residuary legatee or executor takes proceedings for the administration of his testator's estate, he is entitled to costs out of the estate unless there are special grounds for depriving him of them, and this rule is preserved by the present Rule so that these costs are not in the discretion of the Court: Farrow v. Austin, 18 Ch. D. 58; followed as to the costs of residuary legatees in Re Woodhall, Garbutt v. Hewson, 2 Ont. 456; see also Croggan v. Allen, 22 Ch. D. 101; Johnstone v. Cox, 19 Ch. D. 17; Turner v. Hancock, 20 Ch. D. 303; Re Chennell, 8 Ch. D. 492; Re McClellan, 29 Ch. D. 495, and Sandford v. Porter, 16 Ont. App. 565. Where a settlement is set aside: see as to the trustees' costs Dutton v. Thompson, 23 Ch. D. 278, in note to Jud. Act, sec. 65. Trustees who have been guilty of impropriety of conduct may be deprived of costs in the discretion of the Court: Re Hoskin's Trusts, 6 Ch. D. 281; Turner v. Hancock, supra; Re Cabburn, Gage v. Rutland, 46 L. T. N. S. 848; W. N. 1882, 92; Re Radcliffe, Pearse v. Radcliffe, 44 L. T. N. S. 96; but such an order is appealable as the costs are not in the discretion of the Court if there was no misconduct: Re Pugh, Lewis v. Pritchard, 57 L. T. N. S. 858. Where cestuis que trustent were allowed their costs it was held on appeal that as they were improperly made parties, their costs were not in the discretion of the Court and were disallowed: Cooper v. Vesey, 45 L. T. N. S. 532; W. N.

Rules 1171, 1172.

1882, 55. A mortgagee in entitled, as by contract, to all costs properly incurred in enforcing his security and such costs are not in the discretion of the Court: Re Rio Grande, etc., S. S. Co., 5 Ch. D. 282. See also notes to sec. 65, and 29 Sol. Jour. 178, 199.

Costs of a hostile action against a trustee seeking to charge him with costs on account of misconduct were not within the old rule of Chancery that the plaintiff in an administration suit is entitled primâ facie to costs out of the fund. Such costs are in the discretion of the Court and therefore an order as to them is not appealable: Williams v. Jones, 34 Ch. D. 120.

The rule that a trustee's costs are payable between solicitor and client is not confined to cases where he is brought into Court against his will: Blakeley v. Ingram, 9 C. L. T. 143.

Trustees and executors are, in litigating with third persons, in the same position in regard to their liability to costs, as parties litigating in their own right: Smith v. Williamson, 13 P. R. 126; G. W. Ry. v. Jones, 15 Gr. 355.

Where one of several plaintiffs fails.

1171. When several plaintiffs have been joined, and some or one of them only have or has been found entitled to relief the defendant, though unsuccessful, shall be entitled to his costs occasioned by so joining any person or persons who has or have not been found entitled to relief, unless the Court in disposing of the costs of the action otherwise orders. J. A. Rule 89, part.

Same in effect as Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 1, (1883, R. 123), which was taken from s. 19 of the C. L. P. Act of 1852: see Day's C. L. P. Act.

In an action brought by two plaintiffs on separate causes of action, judgment was in favour of the defendants against one plaintiff and for the other against the defendants. Costs were to abide the event of the action. It was held that the defendants were entitled to the costs occasioned by joining the unsuccessful plaintiff and that the successful plaintiff was entitled to the general costs of the action: Viscount Gort v. Rowney, 17 Q. B. D. 625.

Where the plaintiff succeeds against one defendant and fails against another, the costs of the successful defendant must be borne by the plaintiff and not by the unsuccessful defendant: Child v. Stenning, 7 Ch. D. 413; 11 Ch. D. 82.

In Inferior Court actions brought in High Court.

1172. In case an action of the proper competence of a County Court is brought in the High Court, or in case an action of the proper competence of a Division Court is brought in the High Court, or in a County Court, and is tried by jury, and the Judge or Court makes no order respecting the costs, the plaintiff shall recover only County Court costs, or Division Court costs, as the case may be, and the defendant shall be entitled to tax his costs of suit as between solicitor and client, and so much thereof as exceeds the taxable costs of defence which would have been incurred in the County Court or Division Court, shall, on entering judgment, be set off and allowed by the Taxing Officer against the plaintiff's County Court or Division Court costs to be taxed, or against the costs to be taxed and the amount of the verdict if it be necessary, and if the amount of costs so set off exceeds the amount of the plaintiff's verdict and taxed costs, the defendant shall be entitled to execution for the excess against the plaintiff. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 347, and J. A. Rule 512, first part. Rule 1172.

(a) The event shall in such case be to recover costs according to such scale, subject to such rights of set-off as to costs, as are herein mentioned. J. A. Rule 512, last part. The "event" in such case.

No corresponding Eng. R.

This Rule applies to cases tried by jury only. It reproduces the practice under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 347, and was passed to affirm the continued application of the C. L. P. Act, s. 347, about the application of which doubts arose, as original Rule 428 (now 1170), did not touch the question of scale, and had been held in Garnett v. Bradley, 3 App. Cas. 944, to have repealed all Statutes as to costs: Whitehead v. Tait, 3 C. L. T. 122.

Before this Rule, unless the Judge made an order as to costs, the plaintiff if he recovered anything was entitled to costs of the Court in which the action was brought, "the event," which the costs are, under Rule 1170, to follow, being in his favour: see Parsons v. Tinling, 2 C. P. D. 119; McGarren v. Stratton, 11 P. R. 87; Wilson v. Roberts, 11 P. R. 412, following Garnett v. Bradley, 3 App. Cas. 944. The principle of these cases may still apply in all actions where a trifling amount is recovered but the action could not have been brought in an inferior Court; it will also apply to give to the successful party all costs which are "costs in the cause," and so depending upon the event unless the Judge otherwise orders; see Copeland v. Blenheim, 11 P. R. 54, where the costs of a trial at which the jury disagreed were held to be taxable to the successful party.

Now, however, since this Rule 'the event' includes amongst other things the scale on which costs may be taxable: see also Hyde v. Beardsley, 18 Q. B. D. 24; Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44. The scale on which the plaintiff's costs will be taxable, if no order is made by the Judge, will be that of the lowest Court in which the action was capable of being brought, and the defendant will have the right to set-off the extra costs incurred by him as in the Rule mentioned: see Ireland v. Pitcher, 11 P. R. 403.

Clause (a) of the Rule defines in such case the "event" referred to in Rule 1170.

The Rule only applies in cases within the proper competence of a County or Division Court. In an action of libel which cannot be brought in those Courts, if the plaintiff recovers anything, costs follow, and he cannot be deprived of them except for good cause: see Wilson v. Roberts, 11 P. R. 412; Wellbanks v. Conger (2), 12 P. R. 447; and the Court cannot look behind the finding of the jury and deprive the plaintiff of costs on the ground that he was not really entitled to recover: Ib., and see Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. at p. 398.

For the purposes of the scale on which costs are to be taxed the claim and counter-claim are to be treated as separate actions: see Amon v. Bobbett, 22 Q. B. D. 543, where a plaintiff recovering on his claim an amount within the jurisdiction of a County Court recovered costs on that footing, but succeeding on the defendant's counter-claim to an amount within the High Court jurisdiction he recovered costs of his defence to the counter-claim on the High Court scale.

In an action tried by a jury where the defendant recovers on a counter-claim, the costs should be on the scale of the Court in which the action is brought by the plaintiff, unless the Judge for good cause makes a different order; the fact that the recovery is for a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court is not Rule 1172. good cause for such an order; Foster v. Viegel, 13 P. R. 133. This Rule seems to differ from Rule 1219, in this respect.

The jurisdiction of the County Courts is defined in R. S. O. 1887, c. 47, ss. 18-22.

Where the title to land is in question, though the amount recovered be within the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court, the plaintiff is entitled to costs on the Higher scale, unless the case is one within Rule 1219: Worman v. Brady, 12 P. R. 618.

Neither an action for use and occupation: see Re Crawford v. Seney, 17 Ont. 74; nor an action for trespass to land, necessarily brings in question the title to land and so ousts the jurisdiction of the County or Division Court: Bailey v. Bleecker, 5 C. L. J. 99; Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292: see Graham v. Spettigue, 12 Ont. App. 261; McNeil v. Haines, 13 P. R. 115.

Where the plaintiff's title is denied on the pleadings, and he is required at the trial to prove it, the title to land is brought in question: Worman v. Brady, supra; Danaher v. Little, Q. B. D. 12 Feb., 1890.

The County Court has jurisdiction to investigate accounts and claims of suitors, however large, provided the amount sought to be recovered does not exceed the sum prescribed by the Act: Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 149; where, therefore, a plaintiff claimed $169.72 as a balance on transactions comprehending more than $1000, and defendant counter-claimed for $1325.74, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to costs on County Court scale: Ib. The Judge on an appeal from the taxing officer seems to have dealt with the costs as if sitting at the trial, the case having been tried without a jury.

The plaintiff sued for $228.20, the balance of a claim for $1828.20, and obtained a verdict for $228.20. It was held that the amount was liquidated by the act of the parties within R. S. O. 1877, c. 43, s. 19, (2); and the plaintiff without a Judge's certificate was entitled to County Court costs only: Durnin v. McLean, 10 P. R. 295. Where the suit was to recover "$272.03 the return of moneys received by defendant belonging to plaintiff, being the proceeds from sales of goods in plaintiff's shop, as follows:—" it was held that the sum was not so ascertained, and the action was not with the jurisdiction of a County Court: Robb v. Murray, 16 Ont. App. 503.

Where the defendant had signed a writing in these words: "If anything happens to me sudden, this is to insure my son Joseph (the plaintiff), to take $100 from his sister Hannah's share, to repay money lent to her; if I live till this time next year I will settle it with him." This was held to be a sufficient ascertaining of the amount due by the signature of the defendant to permit of the claim being recovered in a Division Court: Moses v. Moses, 13 P. R. 12, 144.

Where an action was brought to recover damages for wrongfully refusing to deliver up a promissory note for $300 to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff recovered $314, the amount of the note and interest, it was held that the action was within the jurisdiction of the County Court: Johnson v. Kenyon, 13 P. R. 24.

A County Court however has no jurisdiction to give a judgment for an amount within its jurisdiction, when it is arrived at not by any settlement or statement of account between the parties, but as being the balance due upon a disputed account, the total amount of which was beyond the jurisdiction of the Court: Sherwood v. Cline, 17 Ont. 30.

Where the action is tried by a jury and the verdict is rendered for a sum within the Division Court jurisdiction, the Judge may for good cause order costs to be paid to the plaintiff on the Division Court scale, and may deprive the defendant of any right of set-off: Livernois v. Bailey, 12 P. R. 525; 13 P. R. 62; the provisions of this Rule only apply where the Judge "makes no order"; but unless good cause exists the Judge can make no such order nor any order, the costs must follow the event and be taxable on the scale applicable, with the right of set-off in the cases mentioned in this Rule: Callicott v. McKinlay, 9 C. L. T. 106.

The jurisdiction of the Division Courts is defined in R. S. O. 1887, c. 51, ss. 69-79.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB

In an action in the High Court for trespass to lands and removal of fixtures the plaintiff recovered a verdict for $50. It was held that Division Court costs were taxable to the plaintiff and full costs to the defendant: Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292. Rules 1173-1175.

Costs in cases within competence of Division Court but brought in County Court.

1173. The plaintiff in any action which is of the proper competence of a Division Court but is brought in a County Court shall not be entitled to full County Court costs, if judgment is recovered in such action by default for want of an appearance or defence, or on the ground only of a commission for the taking of evidence out of the Province having been issued therein or necessary, whether judgment be recovered by default or otherwise. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 349.

Costs in actions prima facie within the jurisdiction of inferior Courts when judgment entered without trial, how to be taxed.

1174. In every case in which judgment is entered without trial, or the decision of a Court or Judge, or order as to the costs, and where the amount of judgment, primâ facie, appears to be within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, the taxing officer shall not tax full costs of the High Court, without proof on affidavit to his satisfaction that the action was properly instituted therein; and if properly within the jurisdiction of the County, or Division Court, then the taxation shall be on the scale of fees in such Court. J. A. Rule 511. 48 V. c. 13, s. 22.

This Rule would appear to apply only where there has been no trial, not to cases where there has been a trial but no order made as to costs: see Andrews v. London, 12 P. R. 44; in cases tried without a jury no costs are taxable without a decision of a Judge in Re Great Western Advertising Co. v. Rainer, 9 P. R. 494; and Rule 1172 is applicable in cases tried by jury.

No set-off of costs (as under Rule 1172) is contemplated by this Rule where the plaintiff gets only costs according to the County or Division Court scale: Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44.

To determine the proper scale of fees, it is the duty of the Taxing Officer to look at the pleadings, and if necessary to receive affidavits so as to ascertain the facts of the case: White Sewing Machine Co. v. Belfry, 10 P. R. 64.

Where a verdict by consent for $1 to be altered according to the result of a reference agreed on, costs to abide the event, it was held that it was a judgment without a trial and within this Rule: Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44.

Non-appearance, subsequent particulars.

1175. When the plaintiff after non-appearance to a writ not specially indorsed delivers particulars of his claim under Rule 707, he shall not be entitled to the costs of the statement of the particulars of his claim, unless the taxing officer is satisfied that there was good reason for not specially indorsing the writ, so as to render unnecessary filing and serving such statement. J. A. Rules 74, 497.

Rules 1176-1178.

Where several actions on bonds, etc.

1176. Where several actions are brought on one bond, recognizance, promissory note, bill of exchange, or other instrument, or where several actions are brought against the maker and indorser of a note, or against the drawer, acceptor or indorser of a bill of exchange, there shall be collected or recovered from the defendant the costs taxed in one action only at the election of the plaintiff, and the actual disbursements only in the other actions, unless the Court otherwise orders; but this provision shall not extend to any interlocutory costs in the progress of an action. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 350.

Costs of preliminary examination.

1177. The costs of every examination of parties or of officers of corporations before the trial, or otherwise than at the trial of an action, shall be costs in the cause, but the Court or Judge in adjusting the costs of the action shall at the instance of any party inquire, or cause inquiry to be made, into the propriety of having made such examination; and if it is the opinion of the Court or Judge, or the taxing officer, as the case may be, that such examination has been had unreasonably, vexatiously, or at unnecessary length, the costs occasioned by the examination shall be borne in whole or in part by the party in fault. The taxing officer may make such inquiry without any direction. J. A. Rule 220.

The first part of this Rule making the costs, costs in the cause was new and superseded R. S. O. c. 50, s. 167. The remainder of the Rule is the same in principle as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 31, r. 2, varying chiefly by referring to the examination, instead of referring to interrogatories, by which the examination is taken under the English practice.

See observations of Ferguson, J., as to examinations for discovery, 21 C. L. J. 66.

Sum in gross may be allowed.

1178. Where the Court, or Judge, or officer exercising jurisdiction in Chambers or the Master deems it proper to award costs to either party, the judgment or order may direct payment of a sum in gross in lieu of taxed costs, to be fixed by himself or the officer who settles the order, and direct by and to whom such sum in gross is to be paid. See Chy. O. 225, 304, 305, 564, 585, 586.

In actions for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, no costs should be allowed to creditors whose claims are rendered pursuant to an advertisement, except when formal proof is also required and given: see Rule 976, et seq., claimants attempting to prove claims as creditors, or as heirs at law, or next of kin, who fail to establish their claim, may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned to the opposite party by their claim. In case of a deficiency of assets the costs of creditors proving claims are to be added to their debts and paid pro- Rules portionately, and such costs are not entitled to be paid in priority to the debts : 1179-1181. Re Ætna Insurance Co., 17 Gr. 160; Morshead v. Reynolds, 21 Beav. 638; Canham v. Neale, 26 Beav. 266, Morgan and Davy, pp. 130-1.

In an action for dower a lump sum for costs was awarded to the plaintiff : Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, 344.

Under this Rule the Court may award a lump sum, not only on interlocutory Court may applications, but also for the general costs of the cause, or may award costs award according to the lower scale, even in cases which were beyond the former equit- lower scale able jurisdiction of County Courts : Palmer v. Postle, (Chy.) before full Court, costs, in a 7th Dec. 1878 ; see Reg. Lib. of that date. case not formerly

The jurisdiction of the County Court was excluded in many cases, where, within C. C. nevertheless, the amount in controversy was very insignificant : see note to jurisdic- Rule 1219. Under the powers conferred by this Rule the Court may award tion. costs on the lower scale, even in cases not within the provisions of Rule 1219.

1179. Where the official guardian or other guardian of an infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind, is entitled to costs, or against any party to an action or proceeding, the Court or Judge may order the successful adult party, if any, to pay such costs and add them to his own. Costs of guardian.

1180. The costs of any application for an attachment of debts, and of any proceedings arising from, or incidental to, such application, [including examination of the debtor or other person liable to examination,] shall be in the discretion of the Court or a Judge. See J. A. Rule 378. Costs of attaching debts.

This is to the same effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 45, r. 10 (1883, R. 612), and is the same in substance as R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 321, except the words in brackets, which are not in the English Rule or the Statute. Without them it was held in Ginty v. Rich, 7 P. R. 319, that an order for the payment of the costs of the debtor's examination could not be made on an application for that purpose, though it might pershaps be made by way of punishment, on an application to commit.

1181. Where the costs of one defendant ought to be paid by another defendant, the Court may order payment to be made by the one defendant to the other directly ; and it is not to be necessary to order payment through the plaintiff. Chy. O. 319. Costs may be ordered to be paid by one defendant to another.

them, and add them to his own costs. In interpleader proceedings by sheriffs, the costs of the sheriff are to be included in the costs of the successful party under Rule 1158.

The Court has ordered a defendant to pay a co-defendant's costs, even though the action was dismissed: Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417, but a successful defendant cannot be ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs: Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517; Wills v. Corman, Ib., 656. Nor can the plaintiff be ordered to pay the costs of a third party brought in by the defendant: Tomlinson v. Northern Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 419; Witham v. Vane, 44 L. T. N. S. 718; but the defendant may be ordered to pay them: Dawson v. Shepherd, 42 L. T. N. S. 611; and such an order may be refused: Tomlinson v. Northern Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 526.

When a plaintiff succeeds against one defendant and fails against another, the costs of the successful defendant must be borne by the plaintiff and not by the unsuccessful defendant: Child v. Stenning, 7 Ch. D. 413; 11 Ch. D. 82. The Court may order a third party to pay costs to the defendant including those which the defendant has been ordered to pay the plaintiff: Hornby v. Caldwell, 45 L. T. N S. 781.

Costs of H. C. case in C. C.

1182. The costs on all proceedings where a High Court case is tried in a County Court or a County Court case in the High Court, shall be the usual costs of such cases in the Court in which the action was brought. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 43.

Costs of shorthand notes, to be costs in the cause.

1183. The disbursements incurred in any cause, matter or proceeding in obtaining copies of the evidence for the purpose of moving against a judgment or for a new trial, shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be costs in the cause to the party obtaining and paying for the same. C. L. Rules 10th March, 1876, 3.

Taxing officer to allow reasonable sum for shorthand writer in cases not provided for.

1184. In cases not otherwise provided for, the Taxing Officer may in any cause, matter, or other proceeding, allow a reasonable sum for the expense of a short-hand writer, on the certificate of the Judge before whom the examination of any witness or witnesses in any such cause, matter, or other proceeding takes place. C. L. Rules 10th March, 1876, 7.

Official stenographers are now provided for all the ordinary sittings of the Courts. This Rule applies when it becomes necessary for the parties specially to engage a stenographer.

Application for interim costs, when it may be made.

1185. No application for costs, in an alimony action, is to be made until the time for delivering the defence has expired, and no costs shall be ordered to be paid de die in diem by the defendant beyond the amount of the cash disbursements actually and properly made by the plaintiff's solicitor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 47; Chy. O. 489.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB.

The cash disbursements do not include fees paid to agents for solicitors' services, but they do the fees to counsel, even when the solicitor or his partner is the counsel: Magurn v. Magurn, 10 P. R. 570; Bradley v. Bradley, 21 C. L. J. 141; 10 P. R. 571; and see Ingram v. Ingram, 10 P. R. 569; but in Lalonde v. Lalonde, 11 P. R. 143, the payment of a prospective fee to counsel who was also the plaintiff's solicitor was refused. Where a cause was entered for trial it was ordered to stand over, until the defendant had paid to the plaintiff a sum sufficient to pay plaintiff's witnesses: Haffey v. Haffey, 7 P. R. 137.

In Otway v. Otway, 59 L. T. N. S. 153; 13 P. D. 141, a doubt was expressed as to whether the rules respecting a wife's costs in litigation with her husband were affected by the Married Women's Property Act.

Nor any costs by defendant beyond disbursements where plaintiff fails.

1186. In case the plaintiff in an alimony action fails to obtain a judgment for alimony, no costs beyond the amount of the cash disbursements actually and properly made by the plaintiff's solicitor, shall be ordered to be paid by the defendant. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 48.

When a plaintiff pendente lite returned to her husband, on the petition of her solicitor the defendant was ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs between solicitor and client: Leonard v. Leonard, 9 P. R. 450; Moore v. Moore, 10 P. R. 284; 20 C. L. J. 291; but in Ringrove v. Ringrove, 10 P. R. 299, 596; Proudfoot, J. refused to follow those cases and his decision was subsequently affirmed by the Divisional Court: and see Thompson v. Thompson, 57 L. T. N. S. 374; but see Ferris v. Ferris, 7 Ont. 496; The Friedeburg, 10 P. D. 112; Rule 1170. As to what come within the term 'cash disbursements' see Rule 1185, note.

Commission to be allowed in lieu of taxed costs in administration and partition.

1187. In all actions or proceedings instituted for administration, or partition, or administration and partition, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge, instead of the costs being allowed according to the tariff, each person properly represented by a solicitor, and entitled to costs out of the estate,—other than creditors not parties to the action or proceeding—shall be entitled to his actual disbursements in the action or proceeding, not including counsel fees, and there shall be allowed for the other costs of the suit payable out of the estate, a commission on the amount realized, or on the value of the property partitioned in the action or proceeding, which commission shall be apportioned amongst the persons entitled to costs, as the Judge or Master thinks proper. Such commission shall be as follows:

On sums not exceeding $500	20 per cent.
for every additional $100 up to $1,500	5 " "
for every additional $100 up to $4,000	3 " "
for every additional $1,000 up to $10,000	2½ " "
for every additional $1,000	1 " " and such remuneration shall be in lieu of all fees, whether between "party and party," "as between solicitor and client," or "between solicitor and client." Chy. O. 643.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB

Rule 1187. Commission in lieu of costs, who entitled to share in.

The commission payable under this Rule is divisible only between those who are strictly parties to the action, properly represented by a solicitor, and entitled to costs out of the estate. Persons not originally made parties to the action, but served with a copy of the judgment under Rule 322, are not thereby made parties to the action, but are merely enabled to attend the proceedings, and are bound thereby as though they were actually parties: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441. In a suit by a residuary legatees, the plaintiff sufficiently represents the other residuary legatees, and they are not entitled as of course to costs out of the estate occasioned by their appearing by another solicitor in the Master's office: Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386. Creditors who are neither plaintiffs, nor defendants, are also excluded from participation in the commission, their costs are disposed of as formerly. The commission is to cover both the solicitors' fees, and the fees to counsel. It is of course not intended to cover costs ordered to be paid by one party to another. It is intended to cover only costs payable out of the estate. Costs are to be apportioned under this Rule in proportion to the work done by, and responsibility imposed on, the solicitors engaged: Dodge v. Clapp, 8 P. R. 388; Campbell v. Campbell, 8 P. R. 159; 16 C. L. J. 16. The work done in the Master's office is not alone to be considered in making the apportionment of the commission: Cameron v. Lennox, 9 P. R. 304. The Master should also consider the circumstances under which the action is brought, when the judgment has been pronounced by himself, and should not award commission to parties who ought to be deprived of, or ordered to pay, costs. In ascertaining the commission, if the estate has been sold subject to a mortgage, the amount of the mortgage is not to be included as part of the "amount realized": Re McColl, McColl v. McColl, 8 P. R. 480; but in Re Brown, Brown v. Brown, 19 C. L. J. 367, it was held that the commission is to be computed on the total amount accounted for, and not merely on the balance found in the accounting parties' hands; and see Re Batt, Wright v. White, 9 P. R. 447.

Mode of apportionment.

On what sum to be estimated.

Ordinarily no costs will be allowed in addition to the commission and disbursements: Re Fleury, Fleury v. Fleury, 9 P. R. 87; and the Court refused to give taxed costs when the estate was large, but insolvent; Re Stuchig Anthes v. Dewar, 10 P. R. 236; 20 C. L. J. 193. The Master has no power to award taxed costs under this Rule; a Judge of the High Court alone has that power: Hendricks v. Hendricks, 13 P. R. 79.

Where the Master finds, in any administration action commenced before himself, that any of the parties to the action should pay the whole, or any part, of the costs of the action, instead of their being borne by the estate, it would seem that he should so direct: Rule 973. But in such a case it would be convenient also to apportion the commission, and ascertain the disbursements payable out of the estate, in case the costs ordered to be paid by any of the parties personally, could not be recovered from them.

Where taxed costs allowed in lieu of commission.

Where the principal part of the costs of an action are ordered to be paid personally by one or more of the parties, and the costs of only a small proportion of the work done, are chargeable against the estate, it does not appear that in such a case the full amount of the commission here provided would be payable, and the power reserved to the Judge to make other order would probably be exercised. Cases might arise where from special circumstances, the commission here provided would be clearly inadequate, and in such cases too it would be possible that the power to make other order as to the costs would be exercised.

An agent employed by a principal solicitor who is paid by commission, is liable to have his bill taxed: Re Idington, 8 P. R. 566.

Costs of actions unnecessarily prosecuted may be disallowed.

1188. When two or more actions or proceedings are instituted for administration, or partition, or sale, the Judge may, in his discretion, disallow all or any of the costs of any action or proceeding which in his opinion has been unnecessarily prosecuted; where any one of the parties, constituting a class formed by a Master for representation in his office by one solicitor, insists on being represented by a different solicitor, such party is personally to pay the costs of his own solicitor of and relating to the proceedings before the Master, with respect to which such nomination has been made, and all such further costs as are occasioned to any of the parties by his being represented by a different solicitor from the solicitor so nominated. Chy. O. 218, and 644.

Rules 1189, 1190.

Party insisting on being represented by a different solicitor to pay costs occasioned thereby.

Under this Rule the whole costs of an action may be disallowed if it have been commenced, or prosecuted, unnecessarily, and not only the costs of the plaintiff but those of defendants as well; the latter having power under Rule 990 to prevent the prosecution of more than one suit.

Costs, unnecessary, not to be allowed.

A party unnecessarily employing a separate solicitor would not be entitled to participate in the commission referred to in Rule 1187.

Under Rule 40 the Master has power to classify the parties, and require the parties constituting each or any class to be represented by the same solicitor, and where he appoints a solicitor to act for a class, all the members of that class are bound by the acts of the solicitor so appointed, and cannot repudiate them unless they have refused to be so represented and have appointed a separate solicitor: Re McConnell, 3 Ch. Ch. 423. But where a solicitor was appointed ex parte to represent creditors, it was held that the solicitor could not recover costs against creditors who had not proved their claims and who had no notice of his appointment: Re Monteith, Merchants Bank v. Monteith, 12 P. R. 288; 23 C. L. J. 415.

After the appointment of a solicitor to act for a class, the separate costs of any member of that class, subsequently incurred, will not ordinarily be allowed against the estate under administration: Re Ætna Insurance Co., 17 Gr. 160.

The Master should not appoint a separate solicitor for a class already sufficiently represented by the plaintiff; and where the plaintiff primâ facie represents (see Rule 320) the class, if the Master appoint a separate solicitor he should state his reason for so doing in his report: Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386.

1189. When anything in the course of an action or reference which ought to have been admitted, has not been admitted, the party who neglected or refused to make the admission may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by his neglect or refusal. See Chy. O. 234. J. A. Rule 163.

Costs of not admitting.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 4 (1883, R. 242).

The Master has jurisdiction to make the order as regards proceedings pending before him: see Rule 1170.

Rule 400 requires each party to admit such of the material allegations in the pleading of the opposite party as are true.

1190. No costs of proving a document shall be allowed unless a notice to admit has been given under Rule 617, except when the omission to give notice is a saving of expense.

Notice to admit.

Rules 1191-1193.

Costs of application for extension of time.

1191. The costs of an application to extend the time for taking any proceeding shall, in the absence of an order by the Court or a Judge directing by whom they are to be paid, be in the discretion of the taxing officer. J. A. Rule 463.

Same as Eng. R., April, 1880, R. 65; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (24).

Certain references or examinations not to be before officer ordering same.

1192. In actions in the High Court of Justice no reference or examination for the purpose of discovery, or examination of a judgment debtor, on which fees may be payable otherwise than in law stamps, shall be taken before the Judge of the County Court, or local Judge of the High Court, or Local Master being also a Judge of the County Court, by whom the order or appointment for such reference or examination has been made.

(a) References in administration and partition matters under these Rules, and other like references in mortgage actions are excepted from the operation of this Rule. J. A. Rule 549.

Tender of costs, on service of petition.

1193. Where a petition in any action or matter is served, and notice is given to the party served that in case of his appearance in Court his costs will be objected to, and accompanied by a tender of costs for perusing the same, the amount to be tendered shall be $5. The party making the payment shall be allowed the same in his costs, provided the service was proper, but not otherwise; but this Rule is without prejudice to the rights of either party to costs, or to object to costs where no such tender is made, or where the Court or Judge shall consider the party entitled, notwithstanding such notice or tender, to appear in Court. J. A. Rule 434.

This Rule corresponds with the first part of the Eng. R., Aug. 12, 1875, "Costs," R. 17; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (19), except that the latter is confined to the Chy. Div., and the amount to be tendered is different.

This Rule only applies in the case of a petition.

Where the procedure pointed out by this Rule has not been followed the party served will be entitled to attend, and may be allowed taxed costs: Gardner v. Burgess, 13 P. R. 250; and see Rule 1194.

In Re Sutton, 21 Ch. D. 855, trustees respondents to a petition under The Trustee Relief Act, who had been tendered costs under the corresponding English Rule, were refused costs of appearing as their appearance was not necessary to give the Court information. In Re English's Settlement, 60 L. T. N. S. 44, a trustee was allowed costs; no tender of a sum for costs was there made. In Re Vardon's Trusts, 33 W. R. 297, executors were given costs notwithstanding the acceptance of the tender.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB

In Somes v. Martin, W. N. 1882, 113, mortgagees of interests of persons entitled under a will having been served and not having been tendered costs, were allowed costs of appearing on a petition for construction of a will. Rules 1194, 1195.

See also Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 166.

Where a trustee appeared on an appeal though not notified he was not allowed costs: Arden v. Deacon, 51 L. T. N. S. 712.

1194. Where any party appears upon any application or proceeding in Court or at Chambers in which he is not interested, or upon which, according to the practice of the Court, he ought not to attend, he is not to be allowed any costs of such appearance, unless the Court or Judge shall expressly direct such costs to be allowed. J. A. Rule 437. Unnecessary appearance in Court or at Chambers.

Identical with Eng. R. 12th Aug., 1875, "Costs," R. 21; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (23). See Eng. Chy. Ord. 40, r. 28 (Morgan Orders, 4th ed., p. 389), Morgan & Wurtzburg on Costs, 69.

Where the costs of a sheriff in an interpleader matter had been ordered to be paid by the claimant, the claimant appealed, contending that the execution creditor should pay them. Both were able to pay. The sheriff was not allowed costs of appearing on the appeal: Ex. p. Webster, Re Morris, 22 Ch. D. 136.

In O'Brien v. Bull, 19 C. L. J. 211, a sheriff unnecessarily served with notice of motion for final order in an interpleader matter was allowed costs of appearing: see also Robertson v. Grant, 3 Chy. Ch. 331.

Costs of a person appearing to object that there is no jurisdiction: Great Northern v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; or quia timet that by mistake an order will be made against him: Lucas v. Fraser 9 P. R. 319; will be given, but not of a person not interested and appearing merely to ask costs: Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 175; Re Arden, 33 W. R. 460; Waller v. Claris, 11 P. R. 130.

The Court cannot prevent the appearance of persons entitled to appear, but may sometimes protect an estate by allowing only one set of costs to several parties: Lees v. Stanley, 28 Sol. Jour. 415. In Re English's Settlement, supra the costs of a trustee were allowed, he being properly served.

1195. The Court or Judge may, at the hearing of any action or matter, or upon any appeal, application or proceeding in any action or matter in Court or at Chambers, and whether the same is objected to or not, direct the costs of any writ, pleading, petition, affidavit, evidence, notice to cross-examine witnesses, account, statement, or other proceeding, or any part thereof, which is improper, unnecessary, or contains unnecessary matter, or is of unnecessary length, to be disallowed; or may direct the taxing officer to look into the same and to disallow the costs thereof, or of such part thereof, as he shall find to be improper, unnecessary, or to contain unnecessary matter, or to be of unnecessary length. In such case the party whose costs are so disallowed shall pay the costs occasioned to the other parties by such unnecessary proceeding, matter, or length; and in any case where such question shall not Disallowance of costs of unnecessary proceedings.

Rule 1196. have been raised before and dealt with by the Court or a Judge, the taxing officer may look into the same (and, as to evidence, although the same may be entered as read in any judgment or order) for the purpose aforesaid, and thereupon the same consequences shall ensue as if he had been specially directed to do so. See Chy. O. 71. J. A. Rule 435 ; App. O. 10.

Same as Eng. R. 12th Aug., 1875, "costs," R. 18; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (20), and founded on Eng. Chy. Order 40, Rules 9 & 10; see Morgan Orders, 4th ed., 581.

The Court may on its own motion exercise the powers given by this Rule in regard to costs "whether the same is objected to or not": see Brown v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207.

The number of witnesses to prove a point is a matter in the discretion of the Taxing Officer; and so as to witnesses called to establish something on which the party calling them fails: Latour v. Smith, 13 P. R. 214.

The case stated for the purpose of an appeal should only contain as much of the proceedings as is necessary to raise the questions involved in the appeal: see Parsons v. Standard Insurance Co., 4 Ont. App. at p. 330, per Burton, J.A., and see Sickles v. Morris, 1 Charl. Notes of Cases, 174.

Where the notes of the evidence have been lost, the Court of Appeal may allow the evidence to be taken over again: Ex parte Firth, Re Cowburn, 19 Ch. D. 419 ; 51 L. J. Chy. 473.

The Master must inquire on taxation into the propriety of proceedings in an action, though not specially directed to do so; and he cannot refuse to do so where an order is made to stay proceedings on payment of costs: Baines v. Wormsley, 47 L. J. Chy. 844 ; 39 L. T. N. S. 85.

Where an appeal was brought from a Master's report, in order to raise a question which was not the subject of appeal, a substantive motion was also made concurrently for the same relief, though the relief was given no costs were given of either application: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

For the practice as to taxation of costs of an abandoned motion, or on discontinuance of action, see Harrison v. Leutner, 16 Ch. D. 559.

A direction in an order for a commission in the common form: see Form No. 129, in App., that the costs are to be costs in the cause, does not preclude the taxing officer from disallowing the costs on the ground that the evidence has not been used: Dominion, etc. v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177.

Costs of inspection of documents.

1196. No allowance is to be made for any order for production or any notice or inspection under any of the Rules relating to production and inspection of documents unless it is shewn to the satisfaction of the taxing officer that there were good and sufficient reasons for taking the order, giving the notice, or making the inspection. J. A. Rule 230.

The same in substance as Eng. R. Aug., 1875, R. 15; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (17).

Costs of inspection were not allowed between party and party in Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517 ; Wicksteed v. Biggs, 52 L. T. N. S. 428.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB.

2. TAXATION.

Rules 1197-1201.

1197. Where costs are awarded to be paid, it shall be competent to a taxing officer to tax the same, without an express reference to him for that purpose. Chy. O. 316.

Taxing Officers may tax costs without express reference.

The Master or a taxing officer is not justified, without a direction from the Court, in striking a balance between cross claims for costs payable in the action: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318, except where Rule 1204 applies.

1198. No bill of costs where the amount claimed exceeds $30 is to be taxed by the Registrars, the Master in Ordinary, the Master in Chambers or Clerk in Chambers, but every bill exceeding that sum is in Toronto to be taxed by one of the Taxing Officers, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the order for taxation. Chy. O. 310.

No bill of costs exceeding $30 to be taxed by Registrars, etc.

This Rule merely applies to costs taxable in Toronto, and does not in any way restrict the jurisdiction of local taxing officers.

1199. One day's notice of taxing costs, together with a copy of the bill of costs and affidavit of increase, if any, shall be given by the solicitor of the party whose costs are to be taxed to the other party or his solicitor in all cases where a notice to tax is necessary. Rules T. T. 1856, 48.

One day's notice of taxation sufficient.

1200. Notice of taxing costs shall not be necessary in any case where the defendant has not appeared in person, or by his solicitor or guardian. Rules T. T. 1856, 50.

Notice of taxation unnecessary when defendant has not appeared.

As this Rule only dispenses with notice of taxation to defendants who have not appeared, it would seem to be intended that wherever a defendant has appeared, he is to be entitled to notice of taxation, and notwithstanding this Rule notice is necessary when the defendant has done that which is equivalent to appearing, such as consenting to a Judge's order or the like: Lloyd v. Kent, 5 Dowl. 125; Arch. Pr., 13th ed., 431.

1201. The taxing officer shall have authority to arrange and direct what parties are to attend before him on the taxation of costs to be borne by a fund or estate, and to disallow the costs of any party whose attendance the officer shall in his discretion consider unnecessary in consequence of the interest of the party in the fund or estate being small or remote, or sufficiently protected by other parties interested. J. A. Rule 440.

Parties to attend taxations.

Identical with Eng. R., Aug. 1875. "costs" R. 24; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (27).

Rules 1202, 1203.

Defendants improperly severing are to be allowed but one set of costs without special order.

1202. Where two or more defendants defend by different solicitors under circumstances that by the law of the Court, entitle them to but one set of costs, the taxing officer, without any special order from the Court, is to allow but one set of costs; and if two or more defendants defending by the same solicitor separate unnecessarily in their defences, or otherwise, the taxing officer is, without any special order of the Court, to allow but one defence and set of costs. Chy. O. 315.

Where an action is tried against two or more defendants and the judgment is against all defendants, a defendant is not liable to to recoup the plaintiff for costs caused by so much of the separate defence of other defendants as could only be a defence to such other defendants: Stumm v. Dixon, 22 Q. B. D. 99, 529.

As to the right to contribution amongst co-defendants made jointly liable for plaintiff's costs, see Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

Rule as to defendants joining in defence, to whom it applies.

The rule which requires defendants in the same interest to join in their defence, appears only to apply to defendants standing in a fiduciary position, either as trustees: Farr v. Sheriff, 4 Har. 528; or cestuis que trustent: Pellow v. Brooking, 4 L. T. N. S. 731; Sm. Pr. 837-8; but see Crawford v. Lundy, 23 Gr. 251. Thus in a suit for specific performance by a vendee against the vendor, and a subsequent vendee of the same property, it was held that the defendants might properly sever in their defence, and employ separate solicitors: Barrett v. Campbell, 7 P. R. 150. But when husband and wife severed in a partition suit, the costs were ordered to be borne by the wife's share: Mildmay v. Quicke, 46 L. J. Chy. 667.

Where one of several defendants is charged with fraud, the others are justified in severing, even though they stand in a fiduciary position: see Connolly v. Hill, 7 P. R. 441.

One defendant improperly severing.

Where defendants have severed under circumstances which, if the severance were improper, would disentitle one of them to costs in toto, the Master cannot act under this Rule, if the judgment award the defendants costs generally. The Rule applies only where all the defendants are to blame for the severance, and one set of costs is consequently apportionable between them: Reid v. Stephens, 3 Chy. Ch. 372.

The Taxing Officer has a discretion to allow to defendants who appear separately separate sets of costs except in the cases referred to in this Rule: Boswell v. Coaks, 36 Ch. D. 444. For the cases in which it is improper for defendants to sever: see Morgan & Wurtzburg on Costs, p. 124.

On appeal from a Taxing Officer as to whether defendants were entitled to separate costs, where it was not shewn that he had not exercised his discretion at all, or that he had not done so on a wrong principle, it was held that an appeal from his decision could not be entertained: Boswell v. Coaks, 36 Ch. D. 444.

Neglect to bring in or tax costs.

1203. Where any party entitled to costs refuses or neglects to bring in his costs for taxation, or to procure the same to be taxed, and thereby prejudices any other party, the taxing officer shall be at liberty to certify the costs of the other parties, and certify such refusal or neglect, or may allow such party refusing or neglecting a nominal or other sum for such costs, so as to prevent any other party being prejudiced by such refusal or neglect. J. A. Rule 441. Rules 1204, 1205.

Identical with Eng. R., Aug. 1875, R. 25; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (28).

Set-off of costs.

1204. In any case in which a party entitled to receive costs is liable to pay costs to any other party, the taxing officer may tax the costs such party is so liable to pay, and may adjust the same by way of deduction or set off, or may, if he thinks fit, delay the allowance of the costs such party is entitled to receive until he has paid or tendered the costs he is liable to pay; or the officer may allow or certify the costs to be paid, and the same may be recovered by the party entitled thereto in the same manner as costs ordered to be paid may be recovered. J. A. Rule 436.

Same as Eng. R., Aug. 1875, "costs" R. 19; 1883, R. 27 (21).

Under this Rule a discretion is allowed as to whether or not there shall be a set-off of costs in the same action where costs are awarded to and against the parties. Equitable considerations are allowed to enter into the disposal of the contention and there is no strict right in the matter: McCarthy v. Cooper, 12 P. R. 125; where a set-off was refused.

This Rule however does not appear to authorize the Master or taxing officer to adjust the balance due on cross claims for costs, where part of the balance is claimed in the nature of contribution for costs paid by a defendant which the plaintiff was also jointly liable to pay, but of which he has neglected to pay his share: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

This Rule does not apply to different actions between the same parties but only to costs incurred in the same action or proceeding: Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609. It applies to enable costs receivable out of a fund by a party to be set off against costs payable by that party personally in the suit: Batten v. Wedgwood Coal & Iron Co., 28 Ch. D. 317.

So where, by an award in an action, the plaintiff was ordered to pay a sum of money to the defendant, and the defendant was ordered to pay the plaintiff a part of his costs when taxed, it was held that the defendant was entitled to have the debt set off against the taxed costs, and that the right to set-off in such a case was not interfered with by the ordinary solicitor's lien for costs: Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 676.

A change of solicitor is immaterial if the costs are in the same proceeding: Roberts v. Buée, 8 Ch. D. 198.

As to the solicitor's lien in the same cause, see next Rule.

In the case of cross-judgments (not within this Rule), in two different proceedings, the lien of the solicitor will prevail and prevent a set-off: see Rule 1205: Ross v. McLay, 7 P. R. 97; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers Association, 7 P. R. 255; Webb v. McArthur, 4 Chy. Ch. 36; Re Harrald, Wilde v. Walford, 48 L. T. N. S. 352; 51 L. T. N. S. 441; 31 W. R. 518; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922.

Set-off of damages and costs not to prejudice solicitor's lien.

1205. No set-off of damages or costs between parties shall be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular action against which the set-off is sought; provided, nevertheless, that interlocutory costs in the same action awarded to the adverse party may be deducted. Rules T. T. 1856, 52.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB.

Rule 1205. The practice in England, under Rules of 1883 R. 989, is the reverse of the practice prescribed by this Rule, which adopts the Equity rule, as to which, see Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 76.

The Eng. R. is as follows:—

"989. A set-off for damages or costs between parties may be allowed notwithstanding the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular cause or matter in which the set-off is sought."

Whether the Eng. R. extends to a set-off in independent actions or not, the Court has under it a discretion, to order that the set-off shall be subject to the solicitor's lien: see Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922, and Blakey v. Latham, 41 Ch. D. 518.

As to the application of the Rule, see Little v. Philpotts, 8 Jur. N. S. 1175; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Re Harrald, 48 L. T. N. S. 352; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers Association, 7 P. R. 255.

The Common Law Rule 52, from which this Rule is taken, was in similar terms to the English Rule 63 H. T. 1853. The words "damages and costs" in this Rule apply to damages and costs payable in separate actions; and it is only where a set-off of damages and costs in separate actions is sought that the lien of the solicitor is to be protected: George v. Elston, 1 Sc. 418; Dunn v. West, 10 C. B. 420; Scott v. Richebourg, 11 C. B. 447.

A set-off has been allowed of costs due by the plaintiff to one of several defendants as to whom he had failed, against damages and costs due to the plaintiff by other defendants as to whom he had succeeded, without regard to the attorney's lien: Rawlings v. Sewell, 7 Sc. 231; George v. Elston, 1 Sc. 518; Fortune v. Hickson, 1 U. C. Q. B. 408; Scoville v. Noble, 1 H. Bl. 23; Bank of Upper Canada v. Thomas, 10 Gr. 356; Wright v. Chard, 1 L. T. N. S. 182; 4 Drew. 702; but see Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 160; and this, even though the defendants appeared by different attorneys: Lees v. Kendall, 3 A. & E. 707; 5 N. & M. 340; but see Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 160.

But claims for contribution cannot be allowed by the Master or taxing officer by way of set-off: see Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318; the application must be made to a Judge, Ib.

The Court, however, has a discretion in allowing a set-off of costs in the same action: McCarthy v. Cooper, 12 P. R. 125.

The lien of the solicitor only holds as against the opposite party to the extent of the costs between solicitors and client of the cause only, he cannot claim a general lien for all costs due him: Stephens v. Weston, 3 B. & C. 535; Watson v. Maskell, 1 Bing. N. C. 727.

In Jenner v. Morris, 11 W. R. 943, the lien of the solicitor was declared to be always subject to the equities between the parties: and see Mercer v. Graves, L. R. 7 Q. B. 499; but this view has not always been maintained by the Courts: see Re Cleland, 2 Chy. 808.

To the ordinary rule that a set-off of damages and costs in separate actions, will not be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien; costs payable to a trustee out of the trust estate form an exception; and when costs are ordered to be paid out of a trust fund, the lien of the solicitor of the person entitled to receive the costs will not be allowed to interfere with the set-off against the costs so payable of any moneys payable by the client to the trust estate, though the latter may be payable under a judgment recovered in a separate action: Re Harrald, Wilde v. Walford, 51 L. T. N. S. 441. But the ultimate balance found due by one of the partners in a partnership suit cannot be set off against costs previously ordered to be paid to him in the action, to the prejudice of his solicitor's lien: Dawson v. Moffatt, 10 P. R. 366; and see Hieron v. Hobson, 47 L. J. Chy. 574; see, however, Brigham v. Smith, 17 Gr. 512; but in this case no question of lien appears to have been raised.

Whether for the purpose of this Rule a claim and counter-claim are to be treated as separate actions is not very clear. In Brown v. Nelson, 11 P. R. 121, where the claim and counter-claim arose out of the same transaction, the set-off was allowed without providing for the solicitor's lien, but in Canadian Pacific

R. W. Co. v. Grant, 11 P. R. 208, the claim and counter-claim, though arising out of the same transaction, were held to be separate actions, and a set-off, to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, was refused. Rules 1206-1208.

In the following cases a set-off of costs payable in separate actions to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien was refused: Webb v. McArthur, 4 Chy. Ch. 63; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922; 53 L. T. N. S. 69; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers Assocn., 7 P. R. 255; and see Ross v. McLay, 7 P. R. 97; Wardell v. Trenouth, 8 P. R. 142; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Blakey v. Latham, 41 Ch. D. 518. In the following cases a set-off costs in the same action was allowed without regard to the solicitor's lien: Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 676; 40 L. T. N. S. 512; Cameron v. Campbell, 12 U. C. Q. B. 159; 1 P. R. 170; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Maxwell v. Maxwell, 7 P. R. 63; Rawlings v. Smith, 7 Sc. 231; costs of special issues, or of interlocutory proceedings in the same action may be set off without regard to the solicitor's lien.

The solicitor's lien attaches to money received by the plaintiff by way of compromise where such money is in substance the fruit of the action, and a solicitor having notice of the lien who procures the money to be paid to the plaintiff, becomes personally liable to satisfy the lien: Ross v. Buxton, 42 Ch. D. 190.

1206. Costs may be taxed on an award, although the time for appealing from or moving against the award has not elapsed. Rules T. T. 1856, 142. Costs may be taxed on an award, though time for moving not elapsed.

Arbitrators who have power to award costs, cannot, unless expressly authorized so to do, award them "as between solicitor and client." This excess of jurisdiction may be objected to on taxation, when the objection appears in the face of the award; Re Beaty & Toronto, 13 P. R. 316.

1207. All bills of costs or disbursements in actions brought for the administration of an estate, or for partition, or for the foreclosure, redemption or sale of mortgaged premises, and all bills in other actions where the amount is to be paid out of an estate or out of a fund in Court, or in which any infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind is interested, (or which shall be payable out of any estate in which any infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind, is interested,) are to be revised by one of the taxing officers of the Supreme Court at Toronto, before the amount thereof is inserted in any certificate, report, order, or judgment. J. A. Rules 439 and 593. Revision of certain costs.

Revision of costs payable out of "a fund in Court" is not confined to cases where the Court has judicial control over, or has to exercise some judicial function in regard to the fund. The expression "a fund in Court" has no technical signification which makes it mean anything different from "a sum of money in Court": Cousineau v. London Fire Ins. Co., 13 P. R. 42.

The Court will not permit costs occasioned by improper litigation, or negligent conduct of proceedings, to be paid out of an estate under its care; and the amount of costs allowed between solicitor and client is not conclusive as to the amount which will be allowed out of an estate: Brown v. Burdett, 40 Ch. D. 152.

1208. The Local Master or other local officer is forthwith, after taxing any such bill of costs, to transmit the Revision of taxations by local officers.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB.

Rule 1209. same by mail to Toronto, addressed to the proper taxing officer, and he is to allow in the bill the postage for the transmission and return of the bill, and shall prepay the same; and is to allow in the bill the sum of one dollar as a fee for the revision of the bill by the taxing officer at Toronto, and a law stamp for that sum, with postage stamps for the postage, is to be paid at the time of taxation by the party procuring the bill to be taxed; and the Local Master or other officer is to transmit with the bill to the taxing officer at Toronto, the law stamp, and the necessary stamps for postage on the return of the bill to the Local Master or other officer. Chy. O. 311.

A revision of taxation is now necessary to be had only in the class of actions mentioned in Rule 1207.

Review of taxation.

Appeal from taxation by local officers how brought.

A review of taxation may now be had as provided by Rules 1230, 1231; and an appeal therefrom to a Judge, as provided by Rules 851-854. Notwithstanding Rule 851 it was held by Boyd, C. that an appeal from a taxation by a Local Officer, would not lie direct to a Judge, but that the bill must be revised by one of the Taxing Officers in Toronto, from whom alone an appeal to a Judge will be entertained: Crowe v. Steeper, 2 C. L. T. 83; but in Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 40; Wilson, C.J., (see p. 44) appears to have been of opinion that an appeal lay direct from a Local Taxing Officer to a Judge. These consolidated Rules, at all events, provide only for an appeal to a Judge, and appear to supply no machinery for carrying a taxation from a Local Officer before either of the Taxing Officers in Toronto, except in the cases mentioned in Rule 1207, the former Rule S. C. 439 b, which allowed a revision in any case at the option of any of the parties not having been been re-enacted.

Duty of Taxing Officer on receipt of bill for revision.

1209. The taxing officer at Toronto, upon receiving the bill of costs is to examine the same, and to mark in the margin such sums (if any) as may appear to him to have been improperly allowed, or to be questionable; and he is to revise the taxation either ex parte, or upon notice to the Toronto agent (if any) of the solicitor whose bill is in question, as in his discretion he may see fit; but notifying such agent (if any) in all cases where the taxation is not clearly erroneous, or where the amount in question is so large as in the judgment of the taxing officer, to make such notification proper. Such notification may be by appointment mailed to the address of the agent (if any). If upon the revision the sums disallowed shall amount to one-twentieth of the amount allowed upon taxation, the taxing officer is to add to the amount taxed off, the amount of postages, and the sum of one dollar aforesaid, and is thereupon to retransmit the bill so revised to the Local Master or other officer. Chy. O. 312.

Powers of Taxing Officer on revision.

The Taxing Officer, on revision, may restore items improperly disallowed by a Local Master; as well as strike out, or reduce, any which may have been improperly allowed, even though in the discretion of the local officer: Keim v. Yeagley, 6 P. R. 60; Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555. Rules 1210-1213.

But the Taxing Officer cannot receive evidence to show that costs are payable otherwise than the order awarding them, construed by the ordinary rules of construction, directs: Keim v. Yeagley, 6 P. R. 60; and see Edwards v. Pearson, 3 C. L. T. 504.

1210. In any such case no sum is to be inserted in the report of a Local Master or other officer as taxed and allowed for costs, until such revision by a taxing officer; but in a case of urgency a writ of execution may issue to levy debt or costs, or both, upon the order of a Judge, subject to the future revision by the taxing officer. Chy. O. 313. No sum to be inserted for costs in report, until after revision.

1211. Pending a revision, judgment may be entered and execution issued, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders; and in case of an execution being so issued, if the amount taxed is reduced on revision, the party entitled to the costs shall forthwith give notice of the reduction and of the amount thereof to the Sheriff or other officer in whose hands the execution had been placed; and the amount struck off on the revision shall be deducted from the amount indorsed on the execution. J. A. Rule 439 (d). But execution in cases of urgency may issue.

Not taken from any English Rule.

See Rule 1210.

1212. No mileage shall be taxed or allowed for the service of any writ, paper or proceeding, without an affidavit being made and produced to the proper taxing officer, stating the sum actually disbursed and paid for such mileage, and the name of the party to whom such payment has been made; and, except in cases provided for in Rule 254, no fees shall be allowed for the mileage or service of writs of summons unless served, and sworn in the affidavit of service to have been served, by the Sheriff, his Deputy or Bailiff, being a literate person (or by a Coroner when the Sheriff is a party to the action), nor unless a return of the Sheriff or Coroner (as the case may be) is indorsed thereon. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 335; Rule T. T. 1856, 160. Mileage not allowed on service of mesne process unless served by Sheriff.

It would seem that the rules in regard to the allowance of costs of service of writs of summons apply to the costs of serving subpœnas: Carty v. City of London, 13 P. R. 285.

1213. All affidavits of increase must be made by the solicitor in the cause, or some clerk having the manage- Affidavits of increase, to be made ment thereof, or by the client. They must set forth the sums paid to counsel, naming them, and for what service, the names of witnesses, their places of abode, the places at which they were subpœnaed, and the distance which each such witness was necessarily obliged to travel in order to attend the trial, that every such witness was necessary and material for the client in the cause, that they did attend, and that they did not attend as witnesses in any other cause (or otherwise, as the case may be). The number of days which each witness was necessarily absent from home in order to attend such trial must also be accurately stated. If a solicitor attends as a witness, it must be stated whether or not he attended at the place of trial as solicitor or witness in any other cause, and whether or not he had any other business there. The day on which the trial occurred should be stated. If maps or plans were used at the trial, the necessity for them must be shown in the affidavit, or no allowance will be made for them; the sum paid for them must also be set forth, and that they were prepared or procured with a view to the trial of the cause. The taxing officer is authorized in such case to make a reasonable allowance for maps and plans. Rules T. T. 1856, 165.

Form of.

Allowance for maps, etc.

In McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555, it was held that surveys and plans made to enable witnesses to give evidence, are not taxable between party and party; and costs of a preliminary examination of accounts by an accountant to qualify himself to give evidence were disallowed between party and party: Nolan v. Coleman, 8 Q. B. 84. The costs of plans and models, etc., useful to aid the Court and jury in coming to a right conclusion may be allowed: Pilgrim v. Southampton & Dorchester C. W. Co., 8 C. B. 25; Batley v. Kynoch, L. R. 20 Eq. 632.

Where a witness is rejected at nisi prius, and the ruling of the Judge is acquiesced in by the parties, and upheld by the Court, the expenses of his attendance are not allowed on taxation as between party and party: Galloway v. Keyworth, 15 C. B. 228. So, where a witness is rejected by an arbitrator, whether upon a sufficient, or an insufficient ground: Ib. And when witnesses were subpœnaed by the plaintiff to attend at a trial which was postponed in consequence of the defendant's default, and the defendant was ordered to pay the costs of the day; and at a subsequent trial the witnesses in question were examined and their evidence proved to be immaterial, the costs of their attendance at the abortive trial were disallowed as against the defendant: Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149. The costs of a commission to take evidence abroad, when the evidence so taken is not actually used at the trial will be disallowed: Dominion Co. v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177.

Costs of witness rejected, not allowed.

Witness fees for attendance how allowed.

When a cause at the assizes is over at three o'clock in the afternoon, witnesses may reasonably be allowed the following day for their return home, though their place of residence be distant only about fifty miles, and accessible by trains on the same evening: Fryer v. Sturt, 16 C. B. 218. It is not a general rule that parties, if witnesses, are to have an allowance for their attendance: Dowdell v. Australian Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company, 3 El. & Bl. 902.

Witness fees may be paid by setting off, with the consent of the witness, the sum payable against a sum due by the party subpœnaing the witness, and an affidavit of disbursements describing such a transaction as a payment of the witness fees was held to be true: Re Solicitor, 9 C. L. T. 35. Rule 1214.

Witnesses are not, in general, allowed for attendance before the day appointed for the opening of the Court: see Harvey v. Divers, 16 C. B. 497. But when a material witness is going abroad, but is detained on subpœna, his subsistence for the whole time he is detained may be allowed: Potter v. Rankin, L. R. 5 C. P. 518; and the necessary expenses of procuring the attendance of a witness residing out of the jurisdiction may be allowed: Ball v. Crompton Corset Co., 11 P. R. 256.

But under the English Rule 1002, s-s. 9, which authorizes the allowance of such just and reasonable charges and expenses as appear to have been properly incurred in procuring evidence; the expense of surveys by surveyors to qualify themselves to give evidence was allowed: Mackley v. Chillingworth, 2 C. P. D. 273; and see In re Laffitte, L. R. 20 Eq. 650.

The costs of sending a special commissioner abroad to take evidence in a case of a complicated and important character were allowed: Yglesias v. Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation, L. R. 5 C. P. 141.

The Taxing Officer may examine into the truth of affidavits of increase: Boulton v. Switzer, 1 C. L. Ch. 83. The omission of the Christian name of a witness in the affidavit is immaterial: Ham v. Lasher, 24 U. C. Q. B. 357. All witnesses should be paid before taxation, and only the sums actually paid are taxable: Ib. Mileage for serving subpœnas is not to be allowed unless the service is effected by the Sheriff or his officer: Rule 1212; McLean v. Evans, 3 P. R. 154. When witnesses are subpœnaed and paid by both parties the successful party is entitled to recover the costs of such witnesses from the other party: Ib. The costs of a witness called to prove facts admitted by the defendant in his examination for discovery may be allowed: Alexander v. Gloucester, 11 P. R. 157.

Taxations between party and party.

1214. As to costs to be paid or borne by another party, no costs are to be allowed which do not appear to the taxing officer to have been necessary or proper for the attainment of justice or defending the rights of the party, or which appear to the taxing officer to have been incurred through over-caution, negligence, or mistake, or merely at the desire of the party. J. A. Rule 442.

Identical with Eng. R., Aug. 1875, "costs," R. 26; 1883, R. 1002 (29).

As to the general rule that the costs taxable between party and party are only those necessary to enable the party to conduct the litigation: see Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19, Eq. 473.

Where, under an order directing an account of what was due to a party in respect of costs of proceedings taken to enforce a judgment in the Exchequer Division, the Taxing Master disallowed the costs of certain abortive garnishee summonses, it was held that the Master was not precluded by the form of order from disallowing any costs he thought proper, and that, under this Rule, he was bound to do so: Simmons v. Storer, 14 Ch. D. 154.

So a clause in an order for a commission directing that costs of the order, commission and depositions to be taken thereunder, should be costs in the cause, was held not to preclude the Taxing Officer from disallowing the costs when the evidence had not been used: Dominion, etc. v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177; see Delarague v. Oxenholme & Co., W. N. 1883, 227; Re McMillan, 8 C. L. J. 285. Charges not strictly under the tariff of costs, but for work done which saves the greater expense of proceeding in the regular way, may be allowed whether done between the solicitors, or by one party alone: Torrance v. Torrance, 18 C. L. J. 223; 2 C. L. T. 311; 9 P. R. 271.

Rule 1215. Copies of pleadings where necessary for an interlocutory motion will be allowed: Warner v. Mosses, W. N. 1881, 135; 45 L. T. N. S. 359; 17 C. L. J. 479; 19 Ch. D. 72.

Where by an order allowing the plaintiff to make an amendment the costs were made costs in the cause, it was held that the Taxing Officer had no discretion under this Rule to disallow these costs in taxing the plaintiff's costs of the cause: Edwards v. Pearson, 20 C. L. J. 93; 3 C. L. T. 504.

In Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149, a trial was postponed owing to defendant not having obeyed an order to produce, defendant to pay the costs rendered nugatory by the postponement. The plaintiff subpœnaed seventeen witnesses, who were examined at the adjourned trial upon matters which the Judge held could not be interfered with by the Court. It was held that the Taxing Officer in refusing the plaintiff the costs of these witnesses did not erroneously exercise the discretion given him by this Rule.

See also Goodfellow v. Shuttleworth, 3 C. L. T. 105; Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574.

Costs of unnecessary proceedings not to be taxed.

1215. If upon the taxation of costs it should appear to the officer taxing the same that any proceedings have been taken unnecessarily, and which were not calculated to advance the interests of the party on whose behalf the same were taken, it shall be the duty of the officer to disallow the costs of such proceedings, as well on the taxation of costs between solicitor and client, as on a taxation between party and party, unless the officer shall be of opinion that such proceedings were taken by the solicitor because they were in his judgment, reasonably exercised, conducive to the interest of his client. It shall not be the duty of the officer, on a taxation of costs between a solicitor and his client, to disallow to the solicitor his costs of such proceedings where it is made to appear that such proceedings were taken by the desire of the client, after being informed by his solicitor that the same were unnecessary, and not calculated to advance the interests of the client. Chy. O. 306.

Exception in case of taxation between solicitor and his client, when costs incurred at client's request, after notice that proceeding unnecessary.

The costs of unnecessary affidavits, going into the merits, filed on a motion for leave to appeal from a Master's report: Nash v. Glover, 6 P. R. 267, and on a motion to vacate a decree: Redford v. Todd, 6 P. R. 154, were disallowed. Costs rendered unnecessary by the slip of the solicitor cannot be recovered even by the solicitor from his client: Re Massey, 76 L. T. Jour. 361.

And see Rules 1177, 1195, 1196, which also relate to the disallowance of costs of unnecessary proceedings.

The Court does not allow out of an estate costs of proceedings which were of no benefit to it. See note to Rule 972, p. 769, and Re Ormston, 58 L. T. N. S. 74; 59 L. T. N. S. 594; 36 W. R. 216.

Where, in an administration suit, the plaintiffs, who were next of kin, had incurred the expense of several journeys to examine the books of the estate and make inquiries, etc.; and also of other proceedings in the Master's office, without the consent of the creditors who were alone beneficially interested, and after they knew that the estate was insolvent; such costs were disallowed: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555.

come out of the plaintiff's fund, or one in which he is interested, may nevertheless be disallowed out of a fund in which he has no interest: Ib. The costs of preparing and tendering a conveyance before suit are not taxable as costs in a cause subsequently brought: Pringle v. McDonald, 7 P. R. 152; and the amount allowed between solicitor and client is not conclusive as to the amount to be allowed out of the estate: Brown v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207; 40 Ch. D. 214.

Client not necessarily relieved against estate.

The mere non-communication by a solicitor to his client of an offer of settlement does not prove that proceedings after the offer were unnecessary, so that the costs of them should be disallowed under this Rule unless the offer was an advantageous one, the acceptance of which the solicitor ought to have advised, and it can be fairly inferred that he did not do so merely to put further costs into his pocket without regard to the interest of his client: Re O'Donohoe, 12 P. R. 612.

See Latour v. Smith in note to Rule 1195.

Certain costs taxable between party and party as would be allowed as between solicitor and client.

1216. Where costs are to be taxed as between party and party, the officer taxing the same may allow to the party entitled to receive such costs, the like costs as are taxable where costs are directed to be taxed as between solicitor and client, in respect to the following matters:

1. Advising with counsel on the pleadings, evidence, and other proceedings in the cause;

2. Procuring counsel to settle such pleadings and petitions as may appear to have been proper to be settled by counsel;

3. Procuring and attending consultations of counsel;

4. The amendment of pleadings;

5. On proceedings in the Master's office;

6. Supplying counsel with copies of, or extracts from, necessary documents. Chy. O. 307.

This Rule is not so full as either the Eng. Chy. Order on which it is founded (see Morgan 548-550) or the present Eng. R. (O. 65, r. 27. In consequence of the omission of some such expression as "procuring evidence," which is to be found in the Eng. O. and Rule, no sum can be allowed between party and party for payment to a scientific witness to get up a case: see McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555. A reasonable sum is taxable in England: see Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19 Eq. 473; Churton v. Frewen, 15 W. R. 559; Mackley v. Chillingworth, 2 C. P. D. 273; Windham v. Bainton, 21 Q. B. D. 199.

Charges for procuring copies of opinions of Judges in another action which were of assistance to counsel were disallowed: Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273.

Tariff of costs.

1217. The table of costs set forth in the Tariff A appended to these Rules shall be that according to which all costs in civil actions in the High Court and in the County Courts shall be allowed and taxed, and no other fees, costs or charges than therein set down shall be allowed in respect of the matters thereby provided for. New.

Rules 1218, 1219.

Taken from the heading of the former tariff: see J. A. Rule of Sept., 1881, Maclennan Jud. Act., 2nd Ed., pp. 573, 592.

The tariff is substantially that previously in force.

Tariff of disbursements.

1218. The fees and disbursements payable in stamps or otherwise upon proceedings in the High Court and the Court of Appeal shall henceforward be those enumerated in the Tariff B, annexed hereto. New.

In addition to the fees prescribed by the Tariff, there are also certain fees which are payable under the express provisions of certain Rules, e.g., under Rule 1035 a fee of $8 is payable to the Inspector of Titles, and under Rule 1064 a fee of $1 is payable to a Sheriff for a certificate of render by bail of their principal.

This tariff substantially consolidates those previously in force under J. A. Rule 432.

Lower scale.

1219. The fees and disbursements mentioned in the 2nd or "Lower Scale" column of the tariffs A and B, shall be the amounts taxable in respect of the services or matters there enumerated in all actions where equitable relief is sought in any of the following cases:—

Partnership.

"(1) By a person entitled to, and seeking, an account of the dealings and transactions of a partnership dissolved or expired, the joint stock or capital not having been over $800;

Mortgage suits for foreclosure or sale.

"(2) By a legal, or equitable, mortgagee, whose mortgage has been created by some instrument in writing, or a judgment creditor, or a person entitled to a lien or security for a debt, seeking foreclosure or sale, or otherwise, to enforce his security, where the sum claimed as due does not exceed $200;

Redemption.

"(3) By a person entitled to redeem any legal or equitable mortgage, or any charge or lien, and seeking to redeem the same, when the sum actually remaining due does not exceed $200;

Equitable relief.

"(4) By any person seeking equitable relief for, or by reason of any matter whatsoever, where the subject matter involved does not exceed the sum of $200." New. See J. A. Rule 515.

This Rule is based upon the jurisdiction formerly possessed by County Courts under C. S. U. C. c. 15, ss. 33-35. The question of the scale of costs in actions involving equitable claims formerly depended (under J. A. Rule 515) upon whether the action might (before the abolition of the equity jurisdiction of the County Courts by the Law Reform Act of 1868) have been brought in a County Court: Brough v. Brantford, 25 Gr. 43. The County Courts had no jurisdiction, and costs on the higher scale were therefore taxable where defendants within the Province did not all reside in the County: McLeod v. Millar, 12 Gr. 194; Doubledee v. Credit Valley Ry. Co., 5 P. R. 416; Re Lyons, 10 P. R. 150; and where service out of the jurisdiction was necessary: Lawrason v. Fitzgerald, 9 Gr. 371; Skelly v. Skelly, 18 Gr. 495; Scott v. Burnham, 19 Gr. 238. Rule 1219.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB.

Under the present Rule these cases have no application and the question of the scale of costs is made to depend upon the amount of the plaintiff's claim or the amount involved in the cases specified.

The Rule does not apply in the following cases:

Partnership Cases.—Where the partnership had not dissolved or expired: Blaney v. McGrath, 9 P. R. 417, unless perhaps the case comes within clause (4) of the Rule.

Mortgage, etc., Cases.—As was the case under the previous practice, though the amount due plaintiff is less than $200, if there is a subsequent incumbrancer to whom more than that sum is due: Hyman v. Roots, 11 Gr. 202; Seath v. McIlroy, 2 Chy. Ch. 93; see also Mitchell v. Martin, 2 C. L. J. 249; since The Creditors' Relief Act, where in an action by a judgment creditor to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, the claims of all execution creditors together exceed $200: Dominion Bank v. Hefferman, 11 P. R. 504; if there is but one judgment creditor, and to him less than $200 is due, the Rule applies, no matter what may be the value of the property fraudulently conveyed: Forrest v. Laycock, 18 Gr. 611; McKay v. Magee, 13 P. R. 106, 146.

Equitable Relief Generally.—The mortgagees after exercise of a power of sale claimed that $182.61 was due them, but on accounts being taken $20.07 was found due to the mortgagor. It was held that costs awarded the mortgagor were properly taxable on the higher scale, as $182.61 + $20.07 was involved: Morton v. Hamilton Prov. & L. Socy. 10 P. R. 636, affirmed by the Divisional Court, 11 P. R. 82.

It is proper practice to obtain a direction of a Judge as to the scale of costs before they are taxed: Dominion Bank v. Hefferman, 11 P. R. 504; but the Taxing Officer is to tax according to the lower scale wherever it is applicable without any express direction: Brough v. Brantford, 25 Gr. 43.

"Subject matter involved."

On a bill filed by a mortgagor for an account, where the mortgagee had exercised his power of sale and realised $350, and on taking the account only $130 was found due to the plaintiff, it was held "the subject matter involved" was the $350, and the plaintiff was therefore entitled to costs, on the higher scale: McGillicuddy v. Griffin, 20 Gr. 81; Boulton v. Rowland, 4 Ont. 720; Re Lyons, 10 P. R. 150; 20 C. L. J. 33; Morton v. Hamilton Provident L. Socy., 10 P. R. 636; 11 P. R. 82; but see Legarie v. Canada Loan & Bg. Co., 11 P. R. 512; Beatty v. O'Connor, 5 Ont. 747; and where, besides a money demand within the jurisdiction of the County Court, the plaintiff claimed an injunction, and to have certain fences erected and maintained the costs were allowed on the higher scale: Brough v. Brantford, 25 Gr. 43; and see McDonell v. Building & Loan Assoc., 11 P. R. 413. And in a suit by a purchaser for specific performance of a contract for the sale of land for a sum under $150; but before suit the plaintiff had entered and improved the land and increased its value to more than $200, it was held that "the subject matter involved" was over $200, and higher scale costs were allowed: Kennedy v. Brown, 6 P. R. 318. Injunction. Specific performance.

In a suit to enforce payment of an annuity of which only $160 was found in arrear, higher scale costs were allowed: Looney v. Cairns, before Boyd, C., 14 January, 1885.

A mechanics lien action, where the plaintiffs claim $142, but the aggregate amount of liens against the property is over $200, was held properly brought in the High Court, and costs on the higher scale were given, although the plaintiff alone substantiated his claim: Hall v. Pilz, 11 P. R. 449; but see Truax v. Dixon, 13 P. R. 279.

Rules 1220-1222.

In an action for illegal distress under the distress clause in a mortgage for $2,300, by which goods to the value of $112.55 had been distrained, it was held not to be a case under this Rule: McDonell v. Building & Loan Assn., 11 P. R. 413.

To actions for a partnership account the lower scale applies only where the partnership has dissolved, or expired. An action, therefore, for dissolution of a partnership would not be one to which the lower scale would apply unless it could be brought within sub-sec. 4 of this Rule: and see Blaney v. McGrath, 9 P. R. 417.

Partnership. Application of former practice.

1220. The practice of any Court, whose jurisdiction is vested in the High Court of Justice or Court of Appeal, relating to costs, and to the allowance of the fees of solicitors, and to the taxation of costs, existing prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, shall, in so far as they are not inconsistent with the Act and the Rules of Court remain, in force and be applicable to costs of the same or analogous proceedings, and to the allowance of the fees of solicitors of the Supreme Court and the taxation of costs in the High Court of Justice and Court of Appeal. J. A. Rule 445.

This corresponds in substance with Eng. R. Aug. 12th, 1875, R. 28; 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (37).

See Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 676.

Rules 154 and 168 of T. T. 1856, and the practice under them not inconsistent with the J. A., are in effect preserved in force by this Rule, and under such practice the Taxing Officer may allow what is reasonable for procuring the attendance of foreign witnesses: Ball v. Crompton Corset Co., 11 P. R. 256.

Certificate to be filed on instituting action where lower scale tariff is applicable.

1221. The solicitor or party instituting any action or proceeding, in respect of which he claims to pay the fees of Court, according to the tariff referred to in Rule 1219, is to file with the officer in whose office appearance is required to be entered, a certificate in the form No. 211 in the Appendix, of which certificate the said officer is, at the request of any solicitor or party acting in person in the suit or matter, to mark a copy. Chy. O. 554.

Rule is directory.

This Rule is directory, and the omission to file a certificate does not entitle a defendant on dismissal of the action, to higher scale fees, except for fees of Court actually paid by him: Ferguson v. Rutledge, 18 Gr. 511. It applies only where the plaintiff admits that the lower scale is applicable. Prima facie in every action commenced in the High Court of Justice, the fees of Court are payable according to the higher scale.

The certificate should be filed on the issue of the writ, with the officer in whose office the appearance is to be entered.

On production of copy of certificate lower scale fees to be charged.

1222. On production of a copy of the certificate, the officers of the Court are to receive and file all papers and take all necessary proceedings upon payment by stamps, or otherwise, as the case may be, of the proper fees, according to the said tariff. Chy. O. 555.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB.

Rules 1223-1226.

1223. In every case certified for the said tariff in which it may happen that the solicitor becomes entitled to charge and be allowed according to the ordinary tariff, the deficiency of the fees of Court is to be made good. Chy. O. 556. Where costs on higher scale afterwards given.

By the words "ordinary tariff" it is presumed the higher scale of costs is intended.

It appears by this Rule that the Court is not bound by the plaintiff's claim to bring the action under the lower scale, but may award costs according to the scale properly applicable.

It would seem that the deficiency to be made good under this Rule, is the difference in the fees of Court which have been previously paid under the lower scale, and the amount which should have been paid, according to the higher scale, by the party to whom the higher scale costs are awarded. It would not seem to include the deficiency in fees paid by the opposite party, and even if it did, there seems to be no means of enforcing the payment of the deficiency.

1224. In any case in which the fees of Court have been paid, according to the ordinary tariff, and in which it may happen that the solicitor becomes entitled to charge and be allowed his own fees, only according to the lower tariff, the excess of fees of Court so paid may be allowed upon the taxation of costs, if the circumstances of the case, in the judgment of the taxing officer, justify such allowance. Chy. O. 557. Where fees have been paid according to higher scale, excess may be allowed.

In this Rule, as in the last, by the words "ordinary tariff" it is presumed the higher scale of costs is intended.

This Rule provides for the converse of the case covered by the preceding Rule—viz: where the party awarded costs has paid fees of Court according to the higher scale, and is only awarded lower scale costs. In such cases the extra disbursements may be allowed in the discretion of the taxing officer.

1225. Where a seal is under the 126th section of the Judicature Act, impressed on any document which before the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, did not require to be sealed, the fee of fifty cents mentioned in the 155th section of "The Judicature Act," shall not be payable on such document. J. A. Rule 503. No fee for seal when impressed on documents not formerly requiring to be sealed.

This Rule was passed to prevent the fee of 50 cents payable under sec. 155 of the Act for the seal of the Court, from being payable on ordinary filings on which under sec. 126 the seal is to be impressed.

1226. When a client or other person is entitled to the delivery of a solicitor's bill of fees, charges and disbursements, or a copy thereof, the bill or a copy thereof, as the case may be, is to be delivered within fourteen days from the service of the order. Solicitor and client taxation.

See R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, sec. 39 printed infra.

Rule 1226. (a) The bill delivered shall be referred to the proper Master for taxation, and on the reference the solicitor is to give credit for all sums of money by him received from or on account of the client, and is to refund what, if anything, he may on such taxation appear to have been overpaid;

These directions refer only to moneys received in respect of the business for which the bill was rendered, unless there was special agreement: see Jones v. James, 1 Beav. 307; Re Smith, 4 Beav. 309; 9 Beav. 182; Cooper v. Ewart, 2 Ph. 362.

(b) The Master is to tax the costs of the reference and certify what shall be found due to or from either party in respect of the bill and demand and of the costs of the reference, to be paid according to the event of the taxation pursuant to the statute;

The R. S. O. c. 147, s. 35, printed infra in note p. 933, is the Statute referred to. It makes the costs of the reference depend upon whether a sixth part is taxed off the bill.

(c) The solicitor is not to commence or prosecute any action touching the demand pending the reference without leave of the Court or a Judge;

(d) The amount certified to be due shall be paid forthwith after confirmation of the certificate by filing, as in the case of a Master's report, by the party liable to pay such amount;

(e) Upon payment by the said client or other person of what (if anything) may appear to be due to the solicitor, the solicitor (if required) is to deliver to the said client or other person, or as he may direct, all deeds, books, papers, and writings in the said solicitor's possession, custody, or power, belonging to the said client;

(f) The order shall be read as if it contained the above particulars, and shall not set forth the same, but may contain any variations therefrom, and any other directions which the Court or Judge shall see fit to make. See J. A. Rule 443.

There is no corresponding Rule in England. This Rule contains the provisions which previously thereto it was usual to insert in an order for the taxation of a solicitor's bill. It will not now be proper to insert them and the order will be read as if it contained them: see clause f and Rule 1227; but it may contain any variations or additional directions. Form No. 44 in the Appendix, is the form of order to be used in such cases, and should be adhered to; Re Solicitors, 9 P. R. 90, is not to be followed. A direction for payment in 21 days was formerly inserted in orders issued in Chancery, but should not now be inserted: Re Clarke, 9 P. R. 197; Macdonald v. Piper, 10 P. R. 586; see Re A. B. & C. D. 8 P. R. 126. The order may, however, in a proper case reserve questions of retainer and negligence: Millar v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155. Rule 1226.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBR.

Where an order for taxation has been obtained, it is now, under Rule 1227 and clause (f) of the above Rule, to be read as if it contained an order for payment of the amount to be found due upon the reference, (see clause (d) of the Rule), whether the order be made on the application of solicitor, client or third party liable to pay; it is not necessary to bring an action: Re Peace & Waller, 19 L. T. N. S. 637. Formerly when the order had been obtained by the solicitor, he was not entitled to such summary order for payment: Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386.

Where an order had been made for taxation and directing the solicitor to refund what if anything had been overpaid, a subsequent express order for payment of the balance found due to the client by the Master's report was held to be proper: Re Elliot, 18 C. L. J. 75, 143; 2 C. L. T. 104.

R. S. O. c. 147, ss. 31 and 32 are as follows:— R. S. O. c. 147, s. 31.

"31. No action shall be brought for the recovery of fees, charges or disbursements, for business done by a solicitor as such, until one month after a bill thereof, subscribed with the proper hand of such solicitor, his executor, administrator or assignee (or, in the case of a partnership, by one of the partners, either with his own name, or with the name or style of such partnership), has been delivered to the party to be charged therewith, or sent by the post to, or left for him at his counting-house, office of business, dwelling-house, or last known place of abode, or has been enclosed in or accompanied by a letter subscribed in like manner, referring to such bill." R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 32. Solicitors to deliver their bill one month before bringing action for costs.

The assignee of a solicitor may deliver a bill signed by himself, and at the expiration of a month may sue for its recovery: Ingle v. McCutchan, 12 Q. B. D. 518; but see Re Ward, 28 Ch. D. 719.

No action can usually be brought on a solicitor's bill of costs until a month after it has been delivered, but the want of an allegation of a delivery of the bill in a statement of claim, is not a ground of demurrer: Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370; and a solicitor may sue in respect of the bill of costs to set aside a fraudulent conveyance by his client, even before the lapse of the month: Ib.

Where the bill delivered does not set out the items, an action on it cannot be maintained: Wilkinson v. Smart 33 L. T. N. S. 573; but where some items are properly set out, and others are not, the former may be recovered: Black v. Hammell, 51 L. T. N. S. 430.

For the form of judgment in an action on an untaxed bill: see Re Park, Cole v. Park, 41 Ch. D. 326.

"32. Upon the application of the party chargeable by such bill within the month the High Court or a Judge thereof, or a Judge of a County Court shall, without money being brought into Court, refer the bill and the demand thereon to be taxed by the proper officer of any of the Courts in the County in which any of the business charged for in the bill was done, and the Court or Judge making such reference shall restrain the bringing any action for such demand pending the reference. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 33." R. S. O. c. 147, s. 32. Taxation of costs.

Pursuant to this section a solicitor's bill must be taxed in the County in which the work was done: Re Solicitor, 2 C. L. T. 106; Re Idington & Mickle, 8 P. R. 566; by the proper officer of any of the Courts in the County in which any of the business charged for was done. The word "Courts" in the section does not mean Divisions of the High Court, and a præcipe order issued under this Rule may be issued by, and reference directed to, either the Deputy Clerk or Local Master for the County in which any of the business charged for was done: Re Clute & Williams, 13 P. R. 110. Where taxation to be had.

But where the principal part of the work had been done in the country and there had also been agency work done in Toronto, although the Court has in such a case a discretion to refer the bill to Toronto, yet on a special application, it was held that the discretion should not be exercised in favour of Toronto except under special circumstances: Re Skinner, 13 P. R. 267;

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 1226. affirmed, 26 C. L. J. 188; 10 C. L. T. 98. Where, however, the order for taxation is taken on præcipe, the right to name the place of taxation seems to belong to the applicant, subject to the provisions of sec. 32. If the place named in a præcipe order has been unreasonably chosen, the opposite party may possibly have a right to apply to change it: Re Solicitor, 7 P. R. 263.

Where a taxation is ordered after action brought, the right to dispute the retainer has been reserved: Re Green, 7 P. R. 89.

Where an action has been brought and the defendant does not dispute the retainer, but asks for a taxation of the bill, the solicitor is entitled to judgment for the amount allowed on taxation. As to the form of judgment see Re Park, Cole v. Park, 41 Ch. D. 326.

Delivery of bill.

A bill must be delivered before it can be referred for taxation, Re Eccles, 6 U. C. L. J. 59. If none has been delivered, and the client desires to have the solicitor's charges taxed, he may obtain delivery of a bill under R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 39, which is as follows:

Where no bill delivered, Court or Judge may order delivery of bill and of papers.

"39. Where no bill has been delivered, sent or left as aforesaid, and where such bill if delivered, sent or left, might have been referred as aforesaid, any such Court or Judge may order the delivery of a bill, and may also order the delivery up of deeds or papers in the possession, custody or power of the solicitor, his assignee or representatives, in the same manner as has heretofore been done in cases where any such business had been transacted in the Court in which such order was made. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 40."

What bills may be taxed.

The Court has power under its general jurisdiction to order the taxation of any bill relating to Court business, whether the bill be of the solicitor or his agent, or any part of such bill: Re Johnson & Weatherall, 37 Ch. D. 433; though the principal received payment by a commission: Re Idington v. Mickle, 8 P. R. 566; and upon such taxation a Master should, without specific directions, regard any settlement with the solicitors: Ib.

A bill for counsel fees exclusively may be referred: Re C. K. & C., 6 P. R. 226; and see also Re Ashbaugh, 10 C. L. T. 30, where the services were respecting the defence of a prisoner.

A bill for conveyancing only cannot be referred: Re Lemon & Peterson, 8 U. C. L. J. 185. But see Re Pollard, 20 Q. B. D. 160; Re O'Donohoe & Wermoll, 4 P. R. 266, where solicitors were ordered to deliver a bill of costs respecting business not done in Court: and see Re Richardson, 3 Chy. Ch. 144.

Where a solicitor has funds or papers of a client in his possession, and claims a lien, an order for taxation will be made, though the services for which the solicitor claims have been wholly in County Court proceedings: Re Prince, 3 Chy. Ch. 282; and see Re M. C. Cameron, 1 Chy. Ch. 356.

A client who is merely a nominal plaintiff, his name being used for convenience, and who is not responsible to the solicitor, is not entitled to an order for taxation: Re Attorneys, 6 P. R. 319.

R. S. O. c. 147, s. 33.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 33, is as follows:

Court or Judge may order bill to be referred on application of either party.

"33. In case no application is made within the month, then the Court or Judge upon the application of either party may order a reference with such directions and conditions as he may deem proper; and may upon such terms as may be thought just restrain any action for such demand pending the reference. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 34."

The month is a calendar month: see R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (15), and is to be computed exclusively of the day on which the bill is delivered, and the day on which the order was applied for: see Re Morphy & Kerr, 2 Chy. Ch. 56.

Order when obtained on præcipe.

Where a bill has been delivered more than a month, the client cannot obtain a præcipe order, but must apply in Chambers: Re Boultbee, 2 Chy. Ch. 58.

After the lapse of the month the solicitor is entitled on an ex parte motion in Chambers to an order for taxation: Re Solicitor, 7 P. R. 263. An order is not granted ex parte to a solicitor where any of the facts lie in dispute between him and the client, and it is his duty to disclose any such dispute: Re Fitch, 2 Chy. Ch. 288, and Re C. & L., 15 C. L. J. 139.

The common order only is obtained on præcipe, or on such ex parte motion, notice must be given if a special order is required: Re Atkinson v. Pegley, 1, Chy. Ch. 187; as for instance to tax part of a bill: Re Byrch, 8 Beav. 124; Re Johnson & Weatherall, 37 Ch. D. 433; or where there is a special agreement as to retainer: Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541; or where application is made by some only of several jointly liable: Re Ilderton, 33 Beav. 201; secus, where they are severally liable: Re Hair, 10 Beav. 187. Rule 1226. Common order.

Under the common order the Taxing Officer has power to investigate and dispose of questions of carelessness, impropriety and negligence in the conduct of the business to which the bill relates; and the officer's certificate, unless appealed against in proper time, is conclusive as to all matters within his jurisdiction: Re Miller, Millar v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155; Re Kerr, 29 Gr. 188, and R. S. O. c. 147, s. 48.

Whether under the common order by the client the Taxing Officer should disallow all items which appear to be Statute barred, query: see Curwen v. Milburn, 42 Ch. D. 424.

The order to tax may reserve questions of retainer and negligence in a proper case: Re Millar, Millar v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155; in such case a special application would be necessary: but see Re Totten, 27 U. C. Q. B. 449, where it was held that without consent the right to dispute the retainer cannot be reserved. The practice is different in England under 6 & 7 Vict. c. 73; but see also Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, Ib. 204; Re Lewis, 9 U. C. L. J. 81.

Where there is no retainer in writing, and it is disputed, weight is given to the denial of the client: Re Eccles & Carroll, 1 Chy. Ch. 263.

It is held in England that under the common order obtained by the solicitor, the client may object to every item on the ground of want of retainer: Re Jones, 35 Ch. D. 105; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 504; but under an order obtained by the client himself, he cannot object to the whole bill on that ground: Ib.; but see Re A. B., 8 C. L. J. 21.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 34, is as follows: R. S. O. c. 147, s. 34.

"34. No such reference shall be directed upon application made by the party chargeable with such bill after a verdict has been obtained or a writ of inquiry executed, or after twelve months from the time such bill was delivered, sent or left as aforesaid, except under special circumstances, to be proved to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge to whom the application for the reference is made: R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 35." No reference to be made on application of party chargeable after verdict or after 12 months from delivery of bill.

Orders for taxation are not made, except on special circumstances being shewn, after the expiration of twelve months from delivery of a bill: Re Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 311; Re Thompson, 2 Chy. Ch. 100; Re Gildersleeve v. Walkem, 6 P. R. 117; Read v. Cotton, 3 P. R. 118; Pattulo v. Church, 8 P. R. 363; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673; Re Nelson, 30 Ch. D. 1; Re Park, 61 L. T. N. S. 173; see Fletcher v. Field, 10 P. R. 608; Snider v. Snider, 11 P. R. 130 or after payment: Re Walker, 10 P. R. 400; Schragg v. Schragg, 11 P. R. 218; Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571; Re Jackson, 40 Ch. D. 495; Re Fairbanks, 1 Chy. Ch. 222.

Where the special circumstances were that the solicitor was paid on the understanding that the bill might be taxed at any time, an order was made for taxation after his death, against his representatives: Re Baker, 13 P. R. 227.

Special circumstances signify generally "pressure accompanied by some overcharge" or "gross overcharges or errors so great as to amount to fraud": Re Strother, 3 K. & J. 518; Re Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 311; Re Walker, 10 P. R. 400; Re Griffith, 50 L. T. N. S. 434. "Special circumstances."

Where alleged overcharges constitute the special circumstances, they must be specified on the application to tax: Re Gildersleeve & Walkem, supra; a general allegation of overcharge is not enough: Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571; and they must be on their face excessive: Re Bethune & Co., 4 C. L. T. 251. Trifling items will not be sufficient: Re Drake, 8 Beav. 123; overcharge by mutual mistake was held not to be a special circumstance: Re Glascodine, 52 L. T. N. S. 781.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 1226.

A lump sum retained for costs out of the proceeds of a sale, and no bill delivered, were held to constitute "special circumstances": Re Malcolmson & Wade, 9 P. R. 242.

The fact that an action was brought on a number of bills delivered during several years, while defendant was plaintiff's client, is not a special circumstance: Read v. Cotton, 6 U. C. L. J. 114; nor the existence of a controversy as to the terms on which the business was done, nor the continuance of employment after the delivery of the first bill: Arnoldi v. O'Donohoe, 2 Ont. 322; see Gillespie v. Shaw, 10 U. C. L. J. 100. Where judgment had been signed against the client in an action, during the pendency of negotiations for a settlement, this was held a special circumstance: Puttullo v. Church, 8 P. R. 363. So conjunction of the following (1) that the relationship of solicitor and client continued after the delivery of the bill, (2) that the solicitor had offered to make a substantial deduction, and (3) that there were items of apparent overcharge of which no explanation was offered: Re Walker, 12 P. R. 400.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 42, is as follows:

Where a party not being the principal pays a bill of costs, a taxation may be allowed afterwards.

"42. Where any person not being chargeable as the principal party is liable to pay or has paid any bill either to the solicitor, his assignee, or representative, or to the principal party entitled thereto, the person so paying, his assignee or representative, may make the like application for a reference thereof to taxation as the party chargeable therewith might himself have made, and in like manner, and the same proceedings shall be had thereupon, as if the application had been made by the party so chargeable. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 43."

A creditor of an estate has no right under sec. 42 as between himself and the personal representative to a taxation of the costs incurred by the latter in collateral proceedings affecting the estate, all he is entitled to is to have the bill "moderated": Re Hague, Traders' Bank v. Murray, 12 P. R. 119; and see Beatty v. Halden, 4 Ont. App. 239; Re Jackson, 40 Ch. D. 495; 60 L. T. N. S. 589.

The bill of a mortgagee's solicitor in regard to the mortgaged estate may be taxed by the mortgagor: Re Lees, 3 Beav. 410; Ex parte Glass, Re Macdonald, 3 P. R. 138; see also Re Massey, 34 Beav. 463; also the bill of the solicitor of executors of an estate may be taxed by residuary devisees: Re Solicitor, 10 C. L. T. 21; 25 C. L. J. 623.

So on a sale by mortgagees under a power of sale, the mortgagor or a subsequent incumbrancer is entitled to taxation of the solicitor's bill: Re Crerar & Muir, 8 P. R. 56; and under R. S. O. c. 102, s. 28, the taxation may be had without an order and that clause is retrospective: Ferguson v. E. & S. Invest. Co., 8 P. R. 404.

But after payment by the mortgagee of the solicitor's bill, the mortgagor's only remedy is for an account: Re Macdonald, Macdonald & Marsh, 8 P. R. 88; Re Cronyn, etc., Ib. 372.

An account may be had in a summary way under Rule 1229.

Where on the application of a mortgagor the mortgagee's solicitor was ordered under R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 44, to deliver to a third party a copy of the bill of costs of the sale, it was held that, though the delivery was under R. S. O. 147, s. 44, to be regarded as for the purposes of a reference to taxation, yet the person so obtaining the copy had not necessarily the right to tax the bill: Re Moffatt, 12 P. R. 240.

Delivery and constructive delivery to the third parties liable to pay were discussed in Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553.

Adding to bill rendered.

A bill once rendered cannot be added to or deducted from by the solicitor without leave: Re Davy, 1 C. L. J. 213. A substituted bill was allowed to be delivered in Re B. & S., 6 P. R. 18.

Where a bill was delivered indorsed as follows—"In the event of taxation, we reserve to ourselves the right to deliver another and more complete bill," this was held to be an absolute delivery: Re Spencer & McDonald, 19 Grant, 467; Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441.

Where a solicitor obtains leave to amend his bill after taxation commenced, it is improper to strike out items; the charges omitted should be added, and if one sixth be taxed off the amended bill, the solicitor pays the cost of taxation : Re Martin, 7 P. R. 90. Rule 1226.

Leave has been given to amend by inserting omitted items and increasing under charges : Re Crawford & Crombie, 2 Chy. Ch. 13 ; but not to decrease overcharges : Re Whalley, 20 Beav. 576 ; nor to withdraw items improperly inserted : Re Carven, 8 Beav. 436 ; Re Jones, Ib., 479 ; Re Blakesly, 32 Beav. 379; Re B. & S., 6 P. R. 18.

R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, ss. 35-38, are as follows :—

"35. In case either party to any such reference, having due notice, refuses or neglects to attend the taxation, the officer to whom the reference is made may tax the bill ex parte ; and in case the reference is made upon the application of either party and the party chargeable with the bill attends the taxation, the costs of the reference shall be paid according to the event of the taxation, except that if a sixth part is taxed off, the costs shall be paid by the party by whom or on whose behalf such bill was delivered ; and if less than a sixth part is taxed off, then by the party chargeable with such bill, if he applied for or attended the taxation. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 36." If parties refuse to attend officer may tax bill ex parte. Costs of taxation ; how payable.

"36. Every order for such reference shall direct the officer to whom the reference is made, to tax the costs of the reference, and to certify what, upon the reference, he finds to be due to or from either party in respect of such bill and of the costs of the reference, if payable. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 37." Order.

"37. Such officer may certify specially any circumstances relating to the bill or taxation, and the Court or Judge may thereupon make such order as may be deemed right respecting the payment of the costs of the taxation. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 38." Officer may make special certificate.

"38. In case such reference is made when the same is not authorized except under special circumstances, as hereinbefore provided, the Court or Judge, in making the same, may give any special directions relative to the costs of the reference. R. S. O. 1877, c. 140, s. 39." Special directions relative to costs of reference may be given.

Interest is payable on a bill delivered to a client after demand, and notice, under R. S. O. c. 44, s. 86, that interest will be claimed : Re McClive & Gilleland, 2 C. L. T. 103, but the taxing officer has no power to allow interest unless that matter has been expressly referred to him : S. C. 18 C. L. J. 98 ; see in England under the Solicitors Remuneration Act : Blair v. Cordner, 19 Q. B. D. 516 : Re Marsden, 40 Ch. D. 475.

The Taxing Officer has no authority to charge the solicitor with interest upon money in his hands belonging to his client ; Re O'Donohoe, 12 P. R. 612.

Only those payments are allowed which are made by the solicitor in his professional capacity : Re Remnant, 11 Beav. 603, and not payments in proceedings where he was not professionally concerned : Hemming v. Wilton, 4 Car. & P. 318 ; Re Lees, 5 Beav. 410.

After taxation under an order obtained after action brought, the litigation is ended except to enforce payment. If the order does not reserve questions of retainer and negligence, it is not open to the client to take a double chance of defeating the solicitor's claim by proceeding to defend the action after the conclusion of the taxation : Re Millar, Millar v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155 ; where Re Clarke, 9 P. R. 337, and Macdonald v. Piper, 10 P. R. 586, were distinguished. But see Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386.

Costs of Taxation.—The solicitor will be entitled to add the costs of the reference to his claim only in the event of the client appearing upon the reference : Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386 ; see sec. 35 supra.

Where the solicitor has offered to take in full settlement less than the amount of a bill of costs as rendered, and has made the offer in a manner unequivocal and binding on him, then, and not otherwise, he is to be allowed the benefit of the offer in determining whether or not a sixth has been struck off. If the offer to take a less sum is unequivocal and binding on the solicitor, then upon taxation the question whether one-sixth has been taxed off is to be determined by reference to the smaller amount so offered to be accepted : Re Allison, 12 P. R. 6 ; Re Cameron & Co., 13 P. R. 173 ; see also Re Carthew, and Re Paul, 27

Rules 1227-1229.

Ch. D. 485; In re Elwes, 58 L. T. N. S. 580; solicitors paid themselves £20 as their costs out of money in their hands, but the client demanded a bill, and as it amounted to over £26 required it to be taxed; it was taxed to a sum exceeding £20, but one-sixth was taxed off; no costs were given to either party.

Security for Costs.—The fact of a client applying for taxation being out of the jurisdiction is not sufficient ground for an order for security for costs, without special circumstances being shewn: Re A. B., 6 P. R. 210. But see Re Cornwall in note to Rule 1245.

What order presumed to contain.

1227. When a solicitor's bill has been delivered, the order of reference shall be presumed to contain clauses (a) to (e) inclusive of Rule 1226, whether obtained by the solicitor, client or other person liable to pay the same.

Order of course to issue on præcipe.

1228. The order, when grantable of course, shall be issued on præcipe. J. A. Rule 444.

There is no corresponding Rule in England.

An order was formerly in Chancery, and is now under this Rule, grantable on præcipe on the application of the client within a month from the delivery of the bill, unless the retainer is disputed: Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541, or there is some special agreement as to costs; Ib., Re C. & L., 15 C. L. J. 139, or as to the solicitor's lien: Re Moss, 17 Beav 59, or taxation of only part of the bill is desired: Re Byrch, 8 Beav. 124; Re Yetts, 33 Beav. 412; Re Johnson & Weatherall, 37 Ch. D. 433; or only some of several parties jointly liable, are applying: Re Ilderton, 33 Beav. 201; see Re Lewin, 16 Beav. 608; Re Becher, etc., 2 Chy. Ch. 215. But an order on præcipe will not be discharged where the party obtaning it had no previous intimation of special contentions of the other party: Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Cameron, Ib., 204.

Before the consolidation of the Rules it was held that an order for delivery of a bill, as well as for taxation of a bill already delivered, might be obtained on præcipe in all the Divisions according to the former Chancery Practice: Re Fitzgerald, 10 P. R. 279. Query whether R. S. O. c. 147, s. 39 (supra p. 930), now regulates the practice.

Taxation of third party.

1229. When a party not principally liable to pay a bill applies for delivery of a copy thereof for the purpose of a reference, or for taxation of a bill delivered, and it appears that by reason of the conduct of the party principally liable, he is precluded from taxing the same, but is nevertheless entitled to an account by the party principally liable, it shall not be necessary for the party so applying to bring an action for an account, but the Court or Judge may, in a summary manner, refer a bill already delivered for taxation, or may order delivery of a copy of the bill, and refer the same for taxation, and may add such parties not already notified as may be necessary to do complete justice to all parties.

(a) The rights of the parties are to be adjusted by reference to the provisions of Rule 1226 as far as they are applicable, having regard to the relations of the parties to the application and reference. Rule 1230.

See note to Rule 1226, supra p. 932.

1230. Any party who may be dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the Taxing Officer, in any bill of costs taxed by him, of the whole or any part of any item or items, may, at any time before the certificate is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein, and carry in before the Taxing Officer, an objection in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying therein by a list, in a short and concise form, the item or items, or parts or part thereof, objected to (a), and may thereupon apply to the Taxing Officer to review the taxation in respect of the same. J. A. Rule 447. Objection to taxation.

Identical with the Eng. R. Aug. 12th, 1875, R. 30.

When a party carries in an objection in writing to an allowance or disallowance under this Rule, he is only bound to state the items to which he objects, not the reasons of his objection: Simmons v. Storer, 14 Ch. D. 154. The present Eng. O. 65, r. 39, provides differently as it inserts at (a) the words "and the grounds or reasons for such objections."

A Sheriff, as an officer of the Court claiming fees by virtue of its process, is so far within its jurisdiction that his bill may be taxed, and this Rule will therefore apply to prevent an appeal as to items not brought before the Taxing Officer for review: Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390.

Where the question is one of the principle of the whole taxation, and not as to particular items, it is not necessary to specify objections under this Rule: Sparrow v. Hill, 7 Q. B. D. 362; 8 Q. B. D. 479.

So where the ground of objection is to the whole of the finding generally and the bill was not taxed at all, the Taxing Officer finding that a settlement had been made, which under the terms of the order for taxation was not to be disturbed: Re Geo. Castle, 36 Ch. D. 794.

This Rule originally only applied in the case of taxations by the Taxing Officers at Toronto, not to taxations by Local Officers: Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 40. This is, however, not now the case as appeals are now taken under Rule 851, from Local Taxing Officers direct, and not after a revision at Toronto as formerly: see formerly Exchange Bank v. Newell, 9 P. R. 528.

An appeal therefore does not lie, unless objections were carried before the officer, as required by this Rule: see Rule 851, and Snowdon v. Huntingdon, 12 P. R. 248; nor will an appeal be allowed as to any item not included in such objections: Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273. Any objections to the taxation must be carried in in writing before the signature of the officer is affixed to his certificate: Cuerrier v. White, 12 P. R. 571. It is a sufficient certificate if the officer ascertains the correct amount payable at the foot of the bill, and notes the bill of costs as taxed at such sum, with the date, and verifies the whole by his signature: Ib. After having so acted, the officers have no power to alter what they have allowed or disallowed, except as to clerical errors: Ib.; Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444.

A person who is not a party to the making of an order for the taxation of costs, and who desires to have the taxation reviewed, ought to apply to set aside the order for taxation, and not apply to review the taxation: Charlton v. Charlton, W. N. 1882, 183; 31 W. R. 237.

Rule 1231. The following form of stating objections is given in Summerhays & Toogood's Precedents, 2nd ed., p. 45, and is a convenient form to be followed, though it states the reasons of objections, which is unnecessary under Simmons v. Storer, supra :—

In the H. C. J.

[TITLE OF CAUSE].

Objections taken by the plaintiff [or defendant] to the taxation by Esq., one of the Taxing Officers of this Court, of the bill of costs of the plaintiff [or defendant] under the judgment [or order], dated the day of 18 .

The plaintiff [or defendant] objects to the disallowance of the items in his bill of costs mentioned in the second and third columns, hereunder written, for the following reasons :

No. of Objection.	Page of Bill	No. of Items.	REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE.
1	1	1 to 6	These items are properly chargeable under the order which gives the plaintiff his costs, charges and expenses.
2	2	10	The attendance was taken for the purpose of saving expense, and further expense was thereby avoided.
3	4	50	This item is in accordance with the tariff.
4	6	90	The inspection of documents was necessary to enable the plaintiff to prepare his case, and he obtained information as to [set this out], which was of material assistance to him on the trial.
5	7	110	The affidavit was necessary and was used on the hearing of the motion and entered in the order.
6	8	120	This item is in the discretion of the Master and under the special circumstances of the case [set out what these circumstances are] should be allowed.

Dated this day of 18

To Mr. C. D.,
Deft's Sol'r.

Yours, etc.,
A. B.,
Plaintiff's Sol'r.

See also Turnbull v. Janson, 3 C. P. D. 264, for examples of objections.

Review of taxation by Taxing Officer.

1231. Upon such application the Taxing Officer shall reconsider and review his taxation upon such objections, and he may, if he thinks fit, receive further evidence in respect thereof, and, if so required by either party, he shall state either in his certificate of taxation or by reference to such objections, the grounds and reasons of his decision thereon, and any special facts or circumstances relating thereto. J. A. Rule 448.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, 12th Aug., R. 31, 1883, O. 65, r. 27 (40).

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBR

A notice served at 4.30 p.m. to consider objections at 1 p.m. on the following day was considered sufficient in re Hill, 33 Ch. D. 266. Rules 1232, 1233.

The officer should include in his certificate of the result the points of objection to his taxation. After giving a certificate of the result he is functus officio: Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444. Certificates of ruling on any points pending the taxation may be given from which an appeal may be had: Ib.

Appeals from taxations are governed by analogy to appeals from Chamber orders, and should therefore, under Rule 846, be brought on within nine days from the date of the certificate on a notice served within four days: Stark v. Fisher, 11 P. R. 235.

3. Sheriffs' Fees.

Sheriffs' fees.

1232. The fees and allowances set forth in the Tariff C, appended to these Rules shall be taken and received by Sheriffs and coroners in civil proceedings in lieu of all fees to which they have been heretofore entitled under the Tariffs heretofore in force. See Tariff, 2 Feb. 1874.

See Rules 1064, 1236, under which Sheriffs are entitled to fees not mentioned the tariff.

In what cases Sheriff entitled to poundage.

1233. In case a part only is made by the Sheriff on, or by force of any execution against goods and chattels, the Sheriff shall be entitled, besides his fees and expenses of execution, to poundage only upon the amount so made by him, whatever be the sum indorsed upon the writ, and in case the personal estate, except chattels real, of the defendant is seized or advertised on or under an execution, but not sold by reason of satisfaction having been otherwise obtained, or from some other cause, and no money is actually made by the Sheriff on or by force of such execution, the Sheriff shall be entitled to the fees and expenses of execution and poundage only on the value of the property seized not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, or such less sum as the Court or Judge may deem reasonable. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 45.

A Sheriff was formerly only entitled to poundage for money actually passing through his hands, and he was not entitled to charge poundage on moneys paid by the execution debtor direct to the execution creditor or his solicitor: Hamilton & P. D. Ry. Co. v. Gore Bank, 20 Gr. 190; but now where the payment is made or the claim is settled after seizure of the debtor's goods, the Sheriff though not entitled to poundage on the whole amount recovered, is under this Rule entitled to poundage on the value of the goods seized not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ: and see McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P. R. 95. Where the money is paid direct to the Sheriff without any seizure he is entitled to his poundage and fees: Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 172.

This Rule, however, does not authorize a Sheriff to collect poundage under an execution against lands where the lands have been advertised but not sold: see Merchants Bank v. Campbell, 32 C. P. 170.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBR

Rules 1234-1237.

When Sheriff entitled to mileage and fees only.

1234. In cases of writs of execution upon the same judgment to several counties, wherein the personal estate of the judgment debtor or debtors has been seized or advertised, but not sold, by reason of satisfaction having been obtained under and by virtue of a writ in some other county, and no money has been actually made on the execution, the Sheriff shall not be entitled to poundage, but to mileage and fees only for the services, actually rendered and performed by him, and the Court or a Judge may allow him a reasonable charge for such services, in case no special fee therefor is assigned in any table of costs. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 46.

If party dissatisfied he may apply to the Court, who may reduce the amount.

1235. In case any person liable on an execution is dissatisfied as to the amount of poundage, fees, and expenses of execution claimed by a Sheriff, he may, before or after payment thereof, and upon notice to the Sheriff, apply to the Court or a Judge, and if, upon a statement of the facts, the Court or Judge is of opinion that the amount is unreasonable, notwithstanding that it is according to the tariff, the same shall be reduced or ordered to be refunded upon such terms as to costs or otherwise, as the Court or Judge may think fit to impose. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 47.

See McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P. R. 95.

Taxing Sheriff's costs.

1236. Upon the settlement of an execution, either in whole or in part, by payment, levy or otherwise, the Sheriff or officer claiming any fees, poundage, incidental expenses or remuneration, which have not been taxed, shall, upon being required by either plaintiff or defendant, or the solicitor of either party, and on payment or tender of the expenses of such taxation, and the further sum of 25 cents for the copy of his bill in detail (which he shall be bound to render) have his fees, poundage, incidental expenses or remuneration, as the case may be, taxed by one of the Taxing Officers of the Supreme Court, in the County of York, and in other counties by the proper Taxing Officer of the county wherein such Sheriff keeps his office. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 48; 49 V. c. 16, s. 17.

Costs not to be collected till taxed.

1237. No Sheriff shall without taxation collect any fees, costs, poundage or incidental expenses, after having been required to have the same taxed; and upon tender of the amount taxed, no fees, costs, poundage or incidental expenses in respect of proceedings subsequently taken shall be allowed to any Sheriff. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 49. Rules 1238-1242.

1238. It shall be the duty of the Taxing Officer to tax the bills of costs presented to him for taxation, as herein required, upon payment or tender of his fees, and to give, when requested, a certificate of such taxation and the amount thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 50. How to be taxed and taxation certified.

1239. It shall be the duty of the Taxing Officer, upon proof of notice of the time and place of the taxation having been duly served upon the Sheriff, Deputy-Sheriff, or other officer charged with the execution of the writ, to examine the bills presented to him for taxation, as herein required, whether such taxation is opposed or not, and to be satisfied that the items charged in such bill are correct and legal, and to strike out all charges for services which, in his opinion, were not necessary to be performed. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 51. Duty of Taxing Officer.

1240. Either party dissatisfied with the taxation may appeal therefrom as in ordinary cases. R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 52. Revision of taxation.

See supra p. 696 for practice on appeals from taxation in ordinary cases.

1241. The Court or a Judge may, in or for the purposes of any interpleader proceedings, make all such orders as to costs and all other matters as may be just and reasonable. Costs, etc.

4. Security for Costs.

1242. Where it appears, by the writ of summons, notice, or other proceeding by which an action or matter is instituted, or by an indorsement thereon, that the plaintiff resides out of Ontario, the defendant shall be entitled on præcipe to an order requiring the plaintiff within 4 weeks from the service of the order to give security in $400 for the defendant's costs of the action staying all further proceedings in the meantime, and directing that in default of such security being given the action be dismissed with costs against such defendant, unless the Court or Judge upon special application for that purpose shall otherwise order. J. A. Rule 431. Security for costs, order for.

Not in the Eng. Orders. See Paxton v. Bell, W. N. 1876, 221, 249.

Rule 1243.

The Ontario Rules do not expressly require as the English Rules do (see Rules of 1883, r. 19) that the address of the plaintiff suing by solicitor shall be indorsed upon the writ: see Rule 240. The form of writ, however, (Form 1 in the App.) contemplates such an indorsement and this should therefore be followed. Where the plaintiff is without the jurisdiction and liable to give security, if the writ does not disclose the residence, a special application for security is proper: Lawless v. Radford, 17 C. L. J. 388; 1 C. L. T. 661; and the costs of it will be to the defendant as the plaintiff ought in such case to indorse his address on the writ so as to enable defendant to obtain an order on præcipe under this Rule: McCready v. Hennessy, 9 P. R. 489.

As to what is a sufficiently positive statement that the plaintiff's residence is out of the jurisdiction, in an affidavit to obtain an order for security, see Hollingsworth v. Hollingsworth, 10 P. R. 58.

A præcipe order has as much force, upon being served, to effect a stay of proceedings, as if made on application to a Judge: Bank of N. S. v. La Roche, 9 P. R. 503; Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165. An order under this Rule limits in the first instance the time for giving security. Formerly a præcipe order merely stayed proceedings till security was given, and by the Chancery practice or under 42 Vict. c. 15, s. 2, (now Rule 1246) a subsequent application might be made to limit a time. In default of compliance with an order where no time has been limited, a motion may still be made under Rule 1246, to limit the time, or in default to dismiss the action for want of prosecution: La Grange v. McAndrew, 4 Q. B. D. 210; White v. Bromige, W. N. 1878, 28. If the plaintiff then wishes to give security he must pay the defendant's costs of the application: Ex parte Isaacs, 10 Ch. D. 1.

Where an order has limited a time and provided for dismissal in case of default, a subsequent ex parte motion shewing default has been customary in Ontario to obtain the dismissal of the action: see Burns v. Chisholm, 2 Chy. Ch. 88.

It was doubted under the original Rules whether there was any power to fix the amount at less than $400 where a præcipe order had been taken out: North v. Fisher, 10 P. R. 582. Rules 1248 and 1250 were passed to settle this question.

An order obtained by the defendant for security, with a stay of proceedings, does not prevent the defendant from moving to dismiss for want of prosecution: London Road Car Co. v. Kelly, 18 L. R. Ir. 43; but see Duffus v. Scullin, 26 L. R. Ir. 8.

Additional cases in which the defendant may obtain security for costs.

1243. In addition to any cases in which a defendant in any action, may by any law or by the practice of the Courts, be entitled to obtain security for costs from a plaintiff, security for costs may be granted to the defendant or applicant in any action or proceeding in which it is made to appear satisfactorily to the Court or a Judge, that the plaintiff has brought a former action or proceeding for the same cause, which is pending either in Ontario or in any other country, or that he has judgment or order passed against him in such action or proceeding, with costs, and that such costs have not been paid; and such Court or Judge may thereupon make such rule or order staying proceedings until such security is given as to the Court or Judge seems meet. R. S. O. c. 40, s. 97; c. 50, s. 70.

Another judgment or suit pending.

To bring a case within this Rule it must be clearly shewn that the causes of action are identically the same and not merely growing out of the same transaction: Dean v. Lamprey, 2 Chy. Ch. 202. See also Caswell v. Murray, 18

C. L. J. 76; Grand Junction Ry. v. Peterborough, 10 P. R. 107; Lucas v. Cruickshank, 13 P. R. 31; Cobbett v. Warner, L. R. 2 Q. B. 108; and Martin v. Beauchamp, 25 Ch. D. 12; approved in McCabe v. Bank of Ireland, 14 App. Cas. 413. Where some of the causes of action in a second action were the same as in a former action, the plaintiff having discontinued as to those, the Court refused to stay the second action in respect of the new causes of action: Bywater v. Dunne, 10 L. R. Ir. 380. Rule 1244.

Where an action by a married woman by her next friend was dismissed with costs, for want of prosecution, a second action on her behalf for the same object but by a new next friend was stayed till the costs of the first action were paid: Re Payne, Randle v. Payne, 23 Ch. D. 288.

In Brunsden v. Humphrey, 14 Q. B. D. 141, it was held that where a judgment had been obtained, in an action to recover damages for injury to the plaintiff's cab, in a collision caused by the defendant's servant, another action might be brought for damages for a personal injury suffered in the same collision, as it was held to constitute a distinct cause of action.

See Russell v. Waterford & Limerick Ry., 16 L. R. Ir. 314, for an instance of splitting a cause of action.

In Serrao v. Noel, 15 Q. B. D. 549, an action was instituted in the Chancery Division for an injunction to restrain the defendants and a company from parting with shares or registering the defendants as transferees, and for "further and other relief." The action was settled by an order for delivery up of shares to the plaintiff and staying the action. Owing to delay in delivering the shares they were sold at a loss and this action was brought for damages for the detention. It was held that it was the same cause of action as in the Chancery Division and the plaintiff was estopped by a consent order from recovering damages, the action in the Chancery Division being for all kinds of relief to do complete justice between the parties.

Persons suing for penalties may be ordered to give security for costs; in what cases and on what application.

1244. In any action in which the plaintiff sues as an informer, or seeks to recover any penalty given to any informer or person who sues for the same as aforesaid, under any statute or law in which any penalty is given to any person who sues for the same, either for his sole benefit, for the benefit of the Crown, or partly for his benefit and partly for the benefit of the Crown,—the person so sued, or his agent, or solicitor, may apply to the Court in which the action was instituted or is pending, or a Judge thereof, for security for costs, upon an affidavit made by the defendant applying, showing that the action is brought to recover a penalty, and that in the belief of the deponent the plaintiff or informer is not possessed of property sufficient to answer the costs of the action in case a verdict is given or judgment rendered in favour of the defendant, and that he (the said defendant) has a good defence to the action upon the merits, as he is advised and believes; and the Court or Judge may make an order that the plaintiff or informer in the action shall give security for the costs to be incurred in the action, in the same manner and in accordance with the practice in cases where a plaintiff resides out of the Province, and the order shall be a stay of the proceedings in the case, until the proper security is given as aforesaid. R. S. O. c. 50, s. 71.

Amount of security for costs.

1245. In any action or matter (a) in which security for costs is required, the security shall be of such amount and be given at such time or times and in such manner and form, as the Court or a Judge shall direct. J. A. Rule 429.

Identical with the Eng. R. February 1876, R. 7.

(a) See Re Cornwall, 15 L. R. Ir. 144, where security was ordered to be given by a client out of the jurisdiction, seeking to tax his solicitor's bill.

The words "at such time or times" have been held to be inconsistent with the former rule that application for security must be made before taking a step, otherwise the right was waived: see Knowlton v. Knowlton, 8 P. R. 400; Pendry v. O'Neil, 7 P. R. 52; Hathway v. Doig, 9 P. R. 91; and it is therefore held in England that now in a proper case security may be ordered or increased at any stage of the cause however late, e.g., after reply, and notice of trial given: Lydney, etc. v. Bird, 23 Ch. D. 358; and see Budworth v. Bell, 10 P. R. 544, where security under the C. L. P. Act. sec. 71 (now Rule 1244), was ordered after defence on examination of parties; see also Tellett v. Lalor, 8 L. R. Ir. 8; Heil v. Lazenby, 12 L. R. Ir. 75, and Arkwright v. Newbold, W. N. 1880, 59; each case depending upon its own circumstances: see Pooley's Trustee v. Whetham, 33 Ch. D. 76. In this Province though the right is not waived by taking a step, the application must be made at a reasonable time, which has been considered to be in general before issue joined: Caswell v. Murray, 18 C. L. J. 76; 9 P. R. 192.

One surety may be sufficient. The number is in the discretion of the officer before whom the question of the allowance of the security comes: Fletcher v. Noble, 9 P. R. 534; see note to Rule 1247.

A defendant is primâ facie but not necessarily entitled to security because the plaintiff's residence is out of the jurisdiction. If it be made apparent from evidence which the Court can look at, such as defendant's admissions on examination, or other admission though not in any technical form: Anglo-American v. Rowlin, 10 P. R. 391, that there is no defence, security will not be ordered, or a præcipe order will be set aside: Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165; De St. Martin v. Davis, W. N. 1884, 86; 28 Sol. Jour. 392.

The following are some of the principal cases relating to security for costs:

Residence out of jurisdiction.

Residence out of Jurisdiction.—A plaintiff wilfully giving a fictitious address within the jurisdiction, though really living without, will be ordered to give security: Waldron v. McWalter, 6 P. R. 145; Sutherland v. McDonald, 9 P. R. 178; Redondo v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 458; Manby v. Bewicke, 8 De. G. M. & G. 468, and see Re Sturgis, etc., 34 W. R. 163; Andrews v. Read, 3 Times 573; Fraser v. Palmer, 3 Y. & C. 280; and where this is done the order will not be discharged merely because the plaintiff comes to reside within the jurisdiction: Ib. A sole plaintiff residing out of the jurisdiction, will primâ facie be obliged to give security: Dan. Pr. 5 Ed. 28; Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 62; but not if the residence abroad is of a temporary character: Cole v. Beale, 7 Moo. 613; Wilson v. Wilson, 6 P. R. 152; see Sturla v. Freccia, W. N. 1877, 166, 188; or if any one of several plaintiffs resides within the jurisdiction where they sue in respect of a joint claim, even though a several claim be set up in the alternative: D'Hormusgee v. Grey, 10 Q. B. D. 13. But since Rules 300 and 1171, all the plaintiffs are not jointly liable for the whole costs. Hence, the rule that security for costs should not be ordered where the objection taken to a plaintiff (e.g., residence abroad, insolvency), is not applicable to other co-plaintiffs, does not now universally govern: Irving v. Clark, 12 P. R. 29, in which security was ordered for the costs of the defendants against one plaintiff, where the claims of the several plaintiffs were distinct.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBR

Security will not be required if the plaintiff is serving abroad in the army or navy: Evelyn v. Chippendale, 9 Sim. 497; Evering v. Chiffenden, 7 Dowl. 536; Dickenson v. Duffill, 1 Chy. Ch. 108; or if a subject and at the time resident within the jurisdiction, though his movements be uncertain: Allen v. Globe, Globe, 1 Dec. 1881; Gardiner v. Harris, 8 L. R. Ir. 352; or if the plaintiff before suit comes to reside within the jurisdiction, even though it be only to avoid giving security, and intends to return after judgment: Wilder v. Hopkins, 4 P. R. 350; Redondo v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 453; Reynolds v. Barker, 21 C. L. J. 80; Ebrard v. Gassier, 28 Ch. D. 232, (where one of the plaintiffs came to reside within the jurisdiction, after dismissal of a motion for security, but before an appeal from that order, and the state of facts at the time of the appeal was looked at, though on other grounds the order for security would have been made). In England these cases are superseded by Rule 42 of R. S. C. 1885, changing the law: see Wilson, 7th ed., 481. Rule 1245.

A petitioner for winding up a company who had given an address at which he cannot be found and whose solicitor was unable to state his private address was ordered to give security: Re Sturgis Motor Power Syndicate (Ltd.), 53 L. T. N. S. 715; 34 W. R. 163.

If the plaintiff's permanent residence is foreign, the defendant is entitled to security if the plaintiff is out of the jurisdiction at the time of the motion: Robertson v. Cowan, 10 P. R. 568.

If a plaintiff goes out of the jurisdiction permanently pending action, he may be required to give security for both past and future costs: Massey v. Allen, 12 Ch. D. 807; Hateley v. Merchants Despatch Transportation Co., 10 P. R. 253.

In Martin v. Russell, 21 L. R. Ir., 196, security was ordered to be given by a sailor following his calling out of the jurisdiction though his family resided within it.

Defendants were held not entitled to security from plaintiffs who sued as executors, and who, under a power of attorney from English executors, took out probate in Ontario, of the will of a testator, who resided and died in England: Sykes v. Canada Pacific Ry., 3 C. L. T. 505.

Semble, that an affidavit of information and belief as to residence abroad is not sufficient ground for an order for security for costs: Hollingsworth v. Hollingsworth, 10 P. R. 5.

An infant out of the jurisdiction, petitioning the Court for relief, may be required to give security for costs: Stinson v. Martin, 2 Chy. Ch. 86.

A foreigner in prison within the jurisdiction was not ordered to give security: Dupont v. Crook, 80 L. T. Jour. 31.

As to what constitutes "residence" abroad see Re Trench, ex. p. Brandon, 25 Ch. D. 500.

If the plaintiff has substantial property within the jurisdiction, of the value of $400, available in execution, this may be shewn in answer to a motion for security, to displace the primâ facie case made by proof of residence out of the jurisdiction: Gault v. Spencer, 2 Chy. Ch. 92, or it may be made the ground for a special motion to discharge any order which has been made on præcipe for security: Ganson v. Finch, 3 Chy. Ch. 296. It would not seem, according to the latest cases, to make any difference whether the property be real or personal: Hamburger v. Poetting, 30 W. R. 769; 47 L. T. N. S. 249; Redondo v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 453; Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 62; but see Kilkenny Ry. Co. v. Fielden, L. R. 6 Ex. 81; Re Carrol, 2 Chy. Ch. 305; Higgins v. Manning, 6 P. R. 147; McKenzie v. Sinton, 6 P. R. 282; Wilson v. Wilson, 6 P. R. 152; Swinbourne v. Carter, 23 L. J. Q. B. 16: Re Howe S. M. Co., 61 L. T. N. S. 179. But the acquisition of property subsequently to an order for security is no reason for discharging it: Reaume v. Leavitt, 6 P. R. 70. If the possession of sufficient property at the time of applying for a præcipe order was known to the defendant's solicitor this may be a reason for discharging the order with costs: Ganson v. Finch, supra. But not if he has property within the jurisdiction.

If a plaintiff returns to reside permanently within the jurisdiction an order for security may be discharged: Harvey v. Smith, 1 Chy. Ch. 392; Sed quære: Order where discharged.

Rule 1245. see Badnall v. Hayley, 4 M. & W. 535; 7 Dowl. 19, referred to in Hateley v. Merchants Despatch Co., 12 Ont. App. 643, 646, unless obtained because the plaintiff had wilfully misstated his residence: see Waldron v. McWatter, 6 P. R. 145. But if the Court thinks the return is merely to get rid of the order, and the plaintiff has no ties, business or otherwise, to guarantee that he will remain within the jurisdiction, the order will not be rescinded: Marsh v. Bear', 1 Chy. Ch. 390.

Nominal plaintiff.

Nominal Plaintiff.—Security may also be ordered if the plaintiff is insolvent and the suit is in reality for the benefit of some other person: Mason v. Jeffrey, 2 Chy. Ch. 15; Little v. Wright, 16 Gr. 576; Pendry v. O'Neill, 7 P. R. 52; Boice v. O'Loane, 7 P. R. 359; Delaney v. MacLellan, 13 P. R. 63. Especially if such other person is out of the jurisdiction, though the plaintiff had a nominal interest: Re Rainy Lake Lumber Co., 11 P. R. 314; see also Swain v. Fellows, 18 Q. B. D. 585; and see Port Rowan & L. S. Ry. Co. v. South Norfolk Ry. Co., 13 P. R. 327, where an application for security for costs was made, on the ground that the plaintiff company was alleged to have no corporate existence, and was alleged to be suing on behalf of a third person who was insolvent. So where the plaintiff is only one of a large number interested and the Court is satisfied that he has been put forward by the others to institute the suit, and he is a man of no means: Hathway v. Doig, 9 P. R. 91; Clark v. St. Catharines, 10 P. R. 205; Re Seventh E. C. Bdg. Soc., 51 L. T. N. S. 109. But this principle does not apply where the plaintiff asserts a cause of action in which no one but himself is interested: Clarke v. Rama Timber Transport Co., 10 P. R. 384; nor where the plaintiff himself has an interest in the suit which is brought partly for the benefit of another: Wallbridge v. Trust & Loan Co., 13 P. R. 67; but the interest must be substantial and not merely nominal: Delaney v. MacLellan, supra. But an assignee in insolvency bonâ fide suing in the discharge of his duty will not be ordered to give security, though without means and not beneficially interested: Vars v. Gould, 8 P. R. 31; nor will a receiver of an insolvent company continuing, by order of the Court, an action brought by the company: Provincial Ins. Co. v. Gooderham, 7 P. R. 283; nor an official liquidator: Cowell v. Taylor, 31 Chy. D. 34. The doubts expressed as to such cases in Pooley's trustee v. Whetham, 28 Ch. D. 38, were dispelled in Cowell v. Taylor, supra 34.

Quære, whether the rule that security is not ordered against one only of several plaintiffs was ever applicable to the case of an insolvent plaintiff suing for the benefit of another: Irving v. Clark, 12 P. R. 29.

Where the plaintiff parts with his interest pendente lite, further proceedings may be stayed until security is given or the suit revived in the name of the assignee: Swan v. Adams, 7 P. R. 147; see also Seear v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121, and Goatley v. Emmott, 15 C. B. 291.

Poverty of the plaintiff is no ground alone for asking security: Ross v. Jacques, 8 M. & W. 135; Sweetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 446; Cowell v. Taylor, 31 Ch D. at p. 38; nor his insolvency where he is suing for his own benefit: Rhodes v. Dawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548; not even though the plaintiff be also a married woman: McKay v. Baker, 12 P. R. 341; but insolvency was under the Insolvent Act of 1875: see s. 39, and Brocklebank v. King's Lynn Steamship Co., 3 C. P. D. 365.

Where the Insolvent Act of 1875 applied, and an undischarged insolvent sues, sec. 39 of that Act was imperative and entitled the defendant to security as of right: Humphries v. Ramsay, 7 P. R. 189; and will be granted since the repeal of the Insolvent Act, in any case where the insolvent's estate had vested in the Assignee prior to the repeal: Cooper v. Kirkpatrick, 8 P. R. 248; and though the defendant had dealt with the plaintiff knowing him to be an insolvent: Carroll v. Williams, 2 C. L. T. 151. The right may, however, be waived by not applying at a proper stage of the cause: Robertson v. McMaster, 8 P. R. 14. The rule as to when it is too late to apply is not the same, however, as formerly: see note p. 942; see United Telephone Co. v. Bassano, 31 Ch. D. 630.

A motion for security was refused where the plaintiffs, resident out of the jurisdiction, had recovered judgment, and the defendant was appealing and alleged that since recovery of the judgment, the plaintiffs had removed their assets out of the Province: Exchange Bank v. Barnes, 11 P. R. 11. Rule 1245.

Where the plaintiff is a corporation the fact that it is insolvent and a receiver of profits appointed is no ground for security: Dartmouth Harbour Commission v. Mayor of Dartmouth, 34 W. R. 774; 55 L. J. Q. B. 483.

Other Grounds for Granting Security for Costs.—Security may also be applied for under some special provisions, e.g., (1) where another suit is pending in respect of the same matter within or without the Province: see Rule 1243; (2) where costs of a former suit in respect of the same matter are unpaid: Ib., not, however, where the costs of the former suit were not payable by the plaintiff but out of an estate: Curtis v. McNabb, 7 P. R. 246: Peters v. Tilly, 11 P. D. 145; (3) formerly where successive actions of ejectment were brought: R. S. O. c. 51, s. 73; see Armstrong v. Montgomery, 5 P. R. 461, and Chambers v. Unger, 6 P. R. 101; but this is not now provided for otherwise than under Rule 1243, as the rule is now that a judgment for the recovery of land is conclusive where it would be so in any other kind of action; (4) in actions for penalties, on an affidavit of merits and showing that the informer is not possessed of sufficient means to answer for costs: see Rule 1244, and Ker v. Williams, 79 L. T. Jour. 229; W. N. 1886, 16; and (5) in actions for libel under R. S. O. 1887, c. 57, s. 9. Another action pending abroad. Costs of former suit unpaid. Successive actions of ejectment. Suits for penalties. Libel.

Quære whether security will be ordered in a vexatious or frivolous action: Potter v. Cotton, W. N. 1879, 204.

It will not be ordered in an alimony suit: Bennett v. Bennett, 7 P. R. 54.

Security if applied for promptly, is generally for past as well as future costs: Brocklebank v. King's Lynn, etc., 3 C. P. D. 365; Massey v. Allen, 12 Ch. D. 807; Hateley v. Merchants Despatch, 10 P. R. 253.

Amount of Security.—See Rule 1250 and notes.

Master's Office.—Parties residing out of the jurisdiction, coming into the Master's office to prove claims as creditors or otherwise, may be required to give security for costs: Re Rees, Urquhart v. Toronto General Trusts Co., 10 P. R. 425.

Garnishee Proceedings.—Security has also been ordered to be given by one of the parties to an issue arising out of garnishee proceedings, where he was resident out of the jurisdiction: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121; Edwards v. Edwards, 12 P. R. 538.

Interpleader Proceedings.—In an interpleader matter either party: Swain v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490; Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 108; Deller v. Prickett, 20 L. J. Q. B. 151; Tomlinson v. Land & Finance Co., 14 Q. B. D. 539, may be ordered to give security under the same circumstances as a plaintiff in an ordinary action; and so formerly in replevin the defendant: Selby v. Crutchley, 2 B. & B. 505; 4 Moo. 280. The substantial and not the nominal interest of the parties must be looked at, and therefore where one of the defendants in an interpleader issue was really interested in the result thereof as a plaintiff, he was held not entitled to call upon the plaintiff in the issue to give security for costs upon the ground that the latter was a foreigner residing abroad: Belmonte v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 352. Interpleader and replevin.

A sheriff in interpleader proceedings is only entitled to security for costs under the same circumstances as would entitle an ordinary litigant thereto: Sweetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 446.

A defendant residing out of the jurisdiction has a right to take any proceeding to defend himself: Re Percy & Kelly Nickel, etc., Co., 2 Ch. D. 531; either against the plaintiff or by claiming relief against a co-defendant: Walmsley v. Griffith, 11 P. R. 139; or may present a petition: Cochrane v. Fearon, 18 Jur. 568, without being called on to give security for costs.

Defendant, where Ordered to Give Security for Costs.—In an action for breach of contract against defendant, a foreigner residing abroad, where the defendant denied the breaches and also made a counter-claim for breaches of the same contract by the plaintiff, claiming damages to an amount less Counter-claims.

than the plaintiff's claim, it was held that the defendant could not be ordered to give security for the plaintiff's costs occasioned by the counter-claim: Mapleson v. Masini, 5 Q. B. D. 144. So in prosecuting a claim to to land before the Referee of Titles, a contestant served with notice will not be prevented from asserting his rights until payment of costs of proceedings instituted by him against the claimant, in respect of the property in question, ordered to be paid by the contestant: Shepherd v. Hayball, 13 Gr. 681; see also Re Percy & Kelly Nickel, etc., Co., 2 Ch. D. 531. Where a defendant admitted the cause of action sued upon and set up a counter-claim founded upon a distinct transaction, he was held not entitled to security for costs from the plaintiff, a foreigner, residing without the jurisdiction: Winterfield v. Bradnum, 3 Q. B. D. 324. In the Admiralty Division, in an action of collision, a defendant claiming damages by counter-claim was ordered to give security for the plaintiff's costs of the action: The Julia Fisher, 2 P. D. 115.

Where a claim and counter-claim arise out of different matters, so that the counter-claim is really in the nature of an independent or cross-action, the defendant, if residing out of the jurisdiction, may be required to give security and should be so required, if the only dispute in the action is on his counter-claim: Sykes v. Sacerdoti, 15 Q. B. D. 423; Lake v. Haseltine, 55. L. J. Q. B. 205; see also The Newbattle, 54 L. J. (P. D. & Ad.) 16.

Security will be ordered to be given by a person out of the jurisdiction applying to be added as a party and for leave to apply for substantial relief, as he must be considered as in the position of a plaintiff: Apollinaris Co. v. Wilson, 31 Ch. D. 632.

Time for giving security for costs may be limited.

1246. Where a defendant in any action is entitled to obtain security for costs from a plaintiff, the Court or Judge may require the plaintiff to furnish the security within a time to be limited in any order for such security, or by any subsequent order.

(a) If the plaintiff fails without sufficient excuse to comply with such order, he shall be liable to have his action dismissed as for want of prosecution, with costs, and the Court or a Judge may make an order accordingly. 42 V. c. 15, s. 2.

See note to Rule 1242, p. 940.

Security for costs where given by bond.

1247. Where a bond is to be given as security for costs, it shall unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs, be given to the party or persons requiring the security, and not to an officer of the Court. J. A. Rule 430.

Identical with the Eng. R. April, 1880, R. 41, and in accordance with the practice at Common Law. The Chancery Rule required the bond to be given to the Registrar or Deputy Registrar. See Monro v. McLeod, 7 P. R. 53.

For form of bond see Chitty's Forms, 11th ed. 220; Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., Nos. 396, 397.

One surety only may be sufficient: Beaton v. Boomer, 1 C. L. J. 108; Fletcher v. Noble, 9 P. R. 534. The former Chy. Practice was that one was sufficient, unless the defendant before the bond is prepared, gives notice that he requires more: Donnelly v. Jones, 4 Chy. Ch. 48.

The sureties must be solvent: Cliffe v. Wilkinson, 4 Sim. 122; and if the security becomes altered by the death or insolvency of a surety, fresh security may be required: Lautour v. Holcombe, 1 Ph. 262; Veitch v. Irvine, 11 Sim. 122; Gage v. Canada Publishing Co., 10 P. R. 169; Morgan & Wurtzburg, p. 22.

The former Chancery practice was for the opposite party within two days after being served with notice of filing to give notice of motion to disallow the bond, otherwise it was considered sufficient. The Common Law practice was for the party filing the bond to take an appointment from the Clerk or Deputy Clerk of the Court for the allowance of the bond which was served with notice of filing; and the latter practice seems to be the one generally followed now.

The plaintiff's solicitor should not be a surety: Beckett v. Wragg, 1 Chy. Ch. 5; G. T. Ry. Co. v. O. & Q. Ry. Co., 3 C. L. T. 173.

The plaintiff, instead of giving a bond might formerly ex parte obtain an order giving leave to pay $400 into Court: Cliffe v. Wilkinson, 4 Sim. 123; Ganson v. Finch, 3 Chy. Ch. 296; see also Re Howland, 4 Chy. Ch. 6; Luther v. Ward, 2 Chy. Ch. 175; and may now under Rule 1240 pay in not less than $200 without an order. The Accountant is the proper person to receive the money. Payment to a Local Registrar is not regular or sufficient: Leroux v. Lauthier, 2 C. L. T. 48.

Money may be paid into Court.

1248. Whenever a party is under an obligation to give a bond as security for costs, he may, without special order, pay into Court a sum of money not less than half the penalty of the bond required, and the same when so paid in shall stand as security in lieu of the bond required. New.

See note to Rule 1247.

It is presumed that the ordinary præcipe order for security being sufficiently and in practice ordinarily complied with by the giving of a bond for $400, the party is "under an obligation" to give a bond within the meaning of this Rule though the præcipe order does not in terms direct a bond to be given.

If the money paid in is not sufficient the opposite party may apply under Rule 1250 to have "further" security given.

The money must be paid into Court to the credit of the cause, in the same way as other moneys are paid into Court: see Rules 163-171 p. 246, et seq. Deposit of the money with a Local Registrar is invalid: Leroux v. Lauthier, supra.

Notice to be served.

1249. The party so paying in money shall when paying the same in state the purpose for which it is so paid in, and shall forthwith serve a notice upon the opposite party specifying the fact and purpose of such payment. New.

To comply with this Rule the præcipe for the direction of the bank, necessary under Rules 166, 167, should contain a statement of the purpose for which the money is paid in.

Amount may be varied.

1250. The amount of security may be increased or diminished from time to time by the Court or a Judge. New.

The security given under a præcipe order under Rule 1242, could not formerly be reduced without reason being shewn, and it was held that such reduction was not authorized by Rule 1245: Riddell v. McKay, 11 P. R. 459. See now Rule 1248.

Security given under a præcipe or special order might even before this Rule have been in a proper case increased. This was refused where the usual amount, $400, was likely to be insufficient only by reason of an adjournment of the hearing, owing to the Judge having to close the Sittings to take another Circuit, and it was not shewn that defendant might not at the outset have applied for a larger sum than $400: Bell v. Landon, 9 P. R. 100. Also where the trial was postponed on terms, and the giving of security was not imposed as one of the terms: Simon v. La Banque Nationale, 7 P. R. 422.

In a suit by a foreign government £120 security for costs had been given before The Judicature Act came into operation. A large amount of costs would be incurred before the suit was heard, and further security to the amount of £500 to cover future costs was, under the Rule corresponding to Rule 1245, ordered to be given; further security, it was said, could not be given for past costs: Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 62. In Paxton v. Bell, W. N. 1876, pp. 221, 249, it was held that the old Chancery rule as to the amount of security for costs must prevail in the Chancery Division, unless some special reason could be shewn for increasing the amount.

In a matter in the Surrogate Court security was directed to be given to the amount of $200. Subsequently the matter was removed to the Chancery Division, nothing at the time being said as to further security. On motion further security was ordered: Johnston v. Wilson, 4 C. L. T. 291.

Security on motion for judgment.

1251. Where an action is brought by a foreign plaintiff liable to give security for costs, who indorses his writ of summons with particulars of his claim in such a manner that, upon motion under Rule 739, an order allowing him to sign judgment might be made, he may, on being served with an order for security for costs, pay into Court the sum of $50, as a partial compliance with such order, and thereupon he shall be at liberty to proceed with a motion for judgment under Rule 739, but the order for security shall, nevertheless, in all other respects, have its full operation and effect. New.

This Rule is intended apparently to remove the obstacle which formerly existed to the plaintiff taking any proceedings until he had complied with an order for security for costs or obtained its discharge: see Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165.

Judgment for part.

1252. If upon such a motion the plaintiff is allowed to sign judgment for any portion of his claim, he may sign judgment and issue execution therefor, but shall not take any other proceedings until the order for security shall have been fully complied with. New.

CHAPTER XIV.

COUNTY COURTS.

All writs to be under the seal of the Courts, and tested, etc.

1253. All writs issued in the County Courts shall be issued by the Clerk and shall be under the seal thereof, and shall be tested in the name of the Judge thereof; or in the case of the death of such Judge, then in the name of the Junior or acting Judge in the County Court for the time being. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 6, 8.

Subpœnas

1254. The several County Courts may issue writs of subpœna ad testificandum, to enforce the attendance of any witnesses resident within Ontario, and also writs of subpœna duces tecum, to enforce the attendance of and the production of deeds and papers by any such witnesses and may proceed against persons who, having been duly served with a subpœna, disregard or disobey the same, with the same powers, in like manner and by the same mode of proceeding as belongs to and is practised in the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 62, s. 16.

Judges may sit at any time.

1255. Subject to Rules of Court, the Judges of the County Court shall have power to sit and act at any time for the transaction of any part of the business of such Courts, or for the discharge of any duty which by any statute or otherwise was formerly required to be discharged out of or during Term. J. A. Rule 488.

This corresponds with the powers given to the Judges of the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal by sec. 19 of the J. A. Act, 1881, (see now sec. 57).

Costs where action fails for want of jurisdiction.

1256. In all actions or other proceedings brought in any County or Division Court in Ontario, in which the plaintiff fails to recover judgment by reason of such Court having no jurisdiction over the subject matter thereof, the said County Court, or the Judge presiding in the said

Rules 1257-1259.

Division Court, as the case may be, shall have jurisdiction over the costs of such action, suit or other proceeding, and may order by and to whom the same shall be paid, and the recovery of the costs so ordered to be paid may be enforced by the same remedies as the costs in actions, suits or proceedings within the proper competence of the said Courts respectively are recoverable. J. A. Rule 489.

Not in the English Rules.

Where an appeal from a County Court was struck out on the ground that the order giving leave to appeal had been granted by a Judge at Chambers without jurisdiction, and there was, therefore, no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal, the Court of Appeal from Inferior Courts held that they had no power to grant costs to the party who appeared to shew cause against it. Brown v. Shaw, 1 Ex. D. 425; see also Abbott v. Feary, 29 L. J. Ex. 476; and Peacock v. Reg., 4 C. B. N. S. 268.

Where a case was stated by Justices under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43, but in consequence of the appellant not having complied with the conditions required by that Act, there was no jurisdiction to hear the case, and the respondent moved to strike the case out of the paper, the application was granted with costs: Great Northern, etc., Committee v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Crowther v. Boult, 33 W. R. 150; not following Peacock v. Reg., supra; see also Royal Canadian Bank v. Stevenson, 22 U. C. C. P. 562.

But for this Rule the Court would have no power to make any order for costs in a case in which it had no jurisdiction: Powley v. Whitehead, 16 U. C. Q. B. 589; Dempster v. Purnell, 3 M. & Gr. 375; but see Re Isaacs, 4 My. & Cr.

Procedure in County Courts.

1257. The pleadings, practice and procedure in actions in the High Court of Justice shall apply and extend to actions in the County Courts. J. A. Rule 490. Altered.

No corresponding English Rule. The original Rule 490 limited the application of the procedure of the High Court to cases where "the present pleadings, practice and procedure of the County Courts correspond with those of the Superior Courts of Law." The present Rule makes the procedure the same in all cases within the limits of the jurisdiction of the County Courts, and subject to any special Rules, such as Rules 1259-1264. Doubts were formerly entertained as to the application of many of the Rules, e.g., Rule 755: see McConnell v. Williams, 13 Ont. App. 438; Rule 526: see Williams v. Crow, 10 Ont. App. 301; and Rule 510: see Ferguson v. McMartin, 11 Ont. App. 731, and now R. S. O. c. 47, s. 41. See also notes to sec. 158 of the Act, p. 126.

Motions against judgments.

1258. In actions in the County Courts motions against judgments and for new trials shall be disposed of upon the like grounds and principles as in the High Court. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 292.

Notice of motion.

1259. Every motion against a judgment or for a new trial shall be a two clear days' notice, and the motion shall be set down at least one clear day before the first day of the sittings for which the notice is given unless otherwise ordered. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 293.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

1260. In all actions brought in a County Court the Judge of the County Court where the proceedings are commenced, [or the Master in Chambers,] or one of the Judges of the High Court sitting at Chambers may change the place of trial according to the practice now in force in the High Court; and in the event of an order being obtained for that purpose, the Clerk of the County Court where the action was commenced shall forthwith transmit all papers in the action to the Clerk of the County Court to which the place of trial is changed, and all subsequent proceedings shall be entitled in such last mentioned Court, and carried on in such last mentioned County as if the proceedings had originally been commenced in such last mentioned Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 155. Rules 1260-1262. Change of place of trial in County Court.

The jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers doubted in Brigham v. McKenzie, 10 P. R. 406, has been made clear in the consolidation of the Rules by the insertion in this Rule of the words in brackets.

1261. Every County Court Clerk shall keep his office open for the transaction of business on every day except on holidays, and except as hereinafter provided from the hour of 10 in the forenoon, to the hour of 3 in the afternoon. On and between the 1st day of July and the 31st day of August, and on and between the 24th day of December and the 6th day of January, every such Clerk shall keep his office open for the transaction of business, from 10 in the forenoon until noon; and during the Statutory Sittings of the Court, such Clerk shall keep his office open as aforesaid, on and between the said dates until 4 in the afternoon. J. A. Rule 534. Office hours of Clerks of County Courts.

1262. Money to be paid into the County Court, or Surrogate Court of ~~the~~ County ~~of York~~ by any person, shall be paid into some incorporated bank designated for this purpose, from time to time, by order of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council; or where there is no such bank, then into some incorporated bank in which public money of the Province is then being deposited, and which has been appointed for this purpose by any General Rule or Order made in the same manner as other General Rules or Orders of the said Courts respectively are by law directed to be made; or if no bank has been so appointed, then into any bank in which public money of the Province is then being deposited. Payment of money into Court.

Rules 1263, 1264. Procedure.

(2) The money shall be so paid in to the credit of the cause or matter in which the payment is made, with the privity of the Clerk or Registrar (as the case may be) of the Court, and in no other manner; and such money shall only be withdrawn on the order of the Court or a Judge thereof, with the privity of the Clerk or Registrar of the Court.

Withdrawal.

Plea of payment into Court.

(3) Where money is so paid in under a plea of payment into Court, the Clerk, on the production of the receipt of the bank for the money or other satisfactory proof of such payment, shall sign a receipt for the amount in the margin of the pleading.

Clerk or Registrar to keep books and render statements.

1263. The Clerk and Registrar of said Courts shall each keep a book or books containing an account of all moneys so paid into their respective Courts, and of the withdrawal thereof; and shall prepare in the month of January in every year a statement of all moneys so paid in and withdrawn respectively, and a statement of the condition of the various accounts upon the thirty-first day of the preceding December, and shall transmit to the Provincial Secretary and to the Judge or each of the Judges of such Courts, a copy of such statement, with a declaration thereto annexed made before a Justice of the Peace or Commissioner for taking affidavits, in the Form No. 217 in the Appendix.

Books to be open for inspection.

1264. The book or books so to be kept shall be open for inspection within office hours; and the Clerk or Registrar shall give a certificate of the state of any account or an extract therefrom at the desire of any party interested, or his attorney or solicitor on payment to the Clerk or Registrar of the sum of twenty cents for such inspection or certificate and the sum of ten cents per folio for such extract. R. S. O. 1877, c. 42, s. 25.

Fees for extracts, etc.

1265 Orders in chambers may be signed

The following Rule passed on Nov. 17, 1886, under the authority of 49 V. c. 49, s. 6 (D.), now R. S. C. c. 178, s. 90, is not mentioned in the above schedule, but, as it does not relate to civil matters, it is probably unaffected by the general repeal of the former Rules by Rule 3.

"No motion shall be entertained by this Court, or by any Division of the same, or by any Judge of a Division sitting for the Court, or in Chambers, to quash a conviction, order, or other proceeding which has been made by or before a Justice of the Peace (as defined by the said Act) and brought before the Court by certiorari, unless the defendant is shown to have entered into a recognizance, with one or more sufficient sureties, in the sum of $100, before a Justice or Justices of the county or place within which such conviction or order has been made, or before a Judge of the County Court of the said county, or before a Judge of the Superior Court, and which recognizance, with an affidavit of the due execution thereof, shall be filed with the Registrar of the Court in which such motion is made or is pending, or unless the defendant is shown to have made a deposit of the like sum of $100 with the Registrar of the Court in which such motion is made, with or upon the condition that he will prosecute such certiorari at his own costs and charges, and without any wilful or affected delay, and that he will pay the person in whose favour the conviction, order, or other proceeding is affirmed his full costs and charges, to be taxed according to the course of the Court, in case conviction, order, or proceeding is affirmed."

In the matter of the estate of A. B., deceased.

Between E. F., Plaintiff, and
G. H., Defendant.

Statement of Claim.

Claim. 1. A. B., of K., in the County of L., died on the 1st July, 1880, intestate. The defendant, G. H., is the administrator of A. B.

2. A. B. died entitled to lands in the said county for an estate in fee simple, and also to some other real estate and to personal estate. The defendant has entered into possession of the real estate of A. B., and received the rents thereof.

3. A. B. was never married; he had one brother only, who pre-deceased him without having been married, and two sisters only, both of whom also pre-deceased him, namely M. N. and P. Q. The plaintiff is the only child of M. N., and the defendant is the only child of P. Q.

The plaintiff claims—

1. To have the real and personal estate of A. B., administered in this Court, and for that purpose to have all proper directions given and accounts taken.

2. To have a receiver appointed of the rents of his real estate.

3. Such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require.

G. H., Defendant.

Statement of Claim.

1. A. B., of K., in the county of L., duly made his last will, dated the 1st day of March, 1873, whereby he appointed the defendant and M. N.

(who died in the testator's lifetime), executors thereof, and devised and bequeathed his real and personal estate to and to the use of his executors in trust, to pay the rents and income thereof to the plaintiff for his life; and after his decease, and in default of his having a son who should attain 21, or a daughter who should attain that age, or marry, upon trust as to his real estate for the person who would be the testator's heir-at-law, and as to his personal estate for the person, who would be the testator's next of kin, if he had died intestate at the time of the death of the plaintiff, and such failure of his issue as aforesaid.

2. The testator died on the 1st day of July, 1880, and his will was proved by the defendant on the 4th of October, 1880. The plaintiff has not been married.

3. The testator was at his death entitled to real and personal estate; the defendant entered into the receipt of the rents of the real estate and got in the personal estate; he has sold some part of the estate.

The plaintiff claims:—

1. To have the real and personal estate of A. B., administered in this Court, and for that purpose to have all proper directions given and accounts taken.

Writ issued 23rd August, 18 .

Between A. B. and Company, Plaintiffs,
and
E. F. and Company, Defendants.

Statement of Claim.

1. The plaintiffs are manufacturers of artificial manures, carrying on business at , in the county of

2. The defendants are commission agents, carrying on business in Toronto.

3. In the early part of the year , the plaintiffs commenced, and down to the 18 , continued to consign to the defendants, as their agents, large quantities of their manures for sale, and the defendants sold the same and received the price thereof and accounted to the plaintiffs therefor.

4. No express agreement has ever been entered into between the plaintiffs and the defendants with respect to the terms of the defendant's employment as agents. The defendants have always charged the plaintiffs a commission at per cent. on all sales effected by them, which is the rate of commission ordinarily charged by all del credere agents in the said trade. And the defendants, in fact, always accounted to the plaintiffs for the price, whether they received the same from the purchaser or not.

5. The plaintiffs contend that the defendants are liable to them as del credere agents, but if not so liable are, under the circumstances hereinafter mentioned, liable as ordinary agents.

6. On the , the plaintiffs consigned to the defendants for sale a large quantity of goods, including tons of

7. On or about the , the defendants sold tons of part of such goods to one G. H., for $, at three months' credit, and delivered the same to him.

8. G. H. was not, at that time, in good credit and was in insolvent circumstances, and the defendants might, by ordinary care and diligence, have ascertained the fact.

9. G. H. did not pay for the said goods, but before the expiration of the said three months for which credit had been given, the estate of the said G. H. was placed in liquidation under the Insolvency Acts then in force; and the plaintiffs have never received the said sum of $ or any part thereof.

Statement of Defence.

Defence.

1. The defendants deny that the said commission of per cent. mentioned in paragraph 4 of the claim is the rate of commission ordinarily charged by del credere agents in the said trade, and say that the same is the ordinary commission for agents other than del credere agents, and they deny that they ever accounted to the plaintiffs for the price of any goods, except after they had received the same from the purchasers.

2. The defendants deny that they were ever liable to the plaintiffs as del credere agents.

3. With respect to the 8th paragraph of the plaintiff's statement of claim, the defendants say that at the time of the said sale to the said G. H., the said G. H., was a person in good credit. If the truth is that the said G. H. was then in insolvent circumstances, the defendants did not suspect and had not reason to suspect the same, and could not by ordinary care or diligence have ascertained the fact.

Statement of Defence.

Defence.

1. The bill of exchange mentioned in the statement of claim was drawn and accepted under the circumstances hereinafter stated, and except as hereinafter mentioned there never was any consideration for the acceptance or payment thereof by the defendants.

3. Shortly before the acceptance of the said bill it was agreed between the said Messrs. M. N. & Co., the drawers thereof, and the defendants, that the said Messrs. M. N. & Co. should sell and deliver to the defendants free on board ship at the port of 1,200 tons of coal during the month of , and that the defendants should pay for the same by accepting the said Messrs. M. N. & Co.'s draft for $ at 6 months.

3. The said Messrs. M. N. & Co. accordingly drew upon the defendants, and the defendants accepted the bill of exchange now sued upon.

4. The defendants did all things which were necessary to entitle them to delivery by the said Messrs. M. N. & Co. of the said 1,200 tons of coals under their said contract, and the time for delivery has long since elapsed; but the said Messrs. M. N. & Co. never delivered the same, or any part thereof, but have always refused to do so, whereby the consideration for the defendants' acceptance has wholly failed.

5. The plaintiffs first received the said bill, and it was first indorsed to them after it was overdue.

6. The plaintiffs never gave any value or consideration for the said bill.

Statement of Defence.

Defence.

1. The defendant made the note sued upon under the following circumstances :—The plaintiff and defendant had for some years been in partnership as coal merchants, and it had been agreed between them that they should dissolve partnership, that the plaintiff should retire from the business, that the defendant should take over the whole of the partnership assets and liabilities, and should pay the plaintiff the value of his share in the assets after deducting the liabilities.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

2. The plaintiff thereupon undertook to examine the partnership books, and inquire into the state of the partnership assets and liabilities; and he did accordingly examine the books, and make the said inquiries, and he thereupon represented to the defendant that the assets of the firm exceeded $10,000, and that the liabilities of the firm were under $3,000, whereas the fact was that the assets of the firm were less than $5,000, and the liabilities of the firm largely exceeded the assets.

The misrepresentations mentioned in the last paragraph induced the defendant to make the note now sued on, and there never was any other consideration for the making of the note.

Statement of Claim.

Claim.

1. The plaintiffs are merchants, factors, and commission agents, carrying on business in Toronto.

2. The defendants are merchants and commission agents, carrying on business in Montreal.

3. For several years prior to the 18 , the plaintiffs had been in the habit of consigning goods to the defendants for sale, as their agents, and the defendants had been in the habit of consigning goods to the plaintiffs for sale, as their agents; and each party always received the price of the goods sold by him for the other; and a balance was from time to time struck between the parties, and paid.

On the of , the moneys so received by the defendants for the plaintiffs, and remaining in their names, largely exceeded the moneys received by the plaintiffs for the defendants, and a balance of $ was accordingly due to the plaintiffs from the defendants.

4. On or about the , 18 , the plaintiffs sent to the defendants a statement of the accounts between them, shewing the said sum as the balance due to the plaintiffs from the defendants; and the defendants agreed to the said statement of accounts as correct, and to the said sum of $ as the balance due by them to the plaintiffs, and agreed to pay interest on such balance if time were given to them.

5. The defendants requested the plaintiffs to give them three months' time for payment of the said sum of $, and the plaintiffs agreed to do so upon the defendants accepting the bills of exchange hereinafter mentioned.

False imprisonment.

Writ issued 3rd September, 18 .

Between A. B., Plaintiff,
and
E. F., Defendant.

Statement of Claim.

Claim.

1. The plaintiff is a journeyman painter. The defendant is a builder having his building yard, and carrying on business at Ottawa, and for six months before and up to the 22nd August, 18 , the plaintiff was in the defendant's employment as a journeyman painter.

2. On the said 22nd August, 18 , the plaintiff came to work as usual in the defendant's yard, at about six o'clock in the morning.

3. A few minutes after the plaintiff had so come to work the defendant's foreman, X. Y., who was then in the yard, called the plaintiff to him, and accused the plaintiff of having on the previous day stolen a quantity of paint, the property of the defendant, from the yard. The plaintiff denied the charge, but X. Y. gave the plaintiff into the custody of a constable, whom he had previously sent for, upon a charge of stealing paint.

4. The defendant was present at the time when the plaintiff was given into custody, and authorized and assented to his being given into custody; and in any case X. Y., in giving him into custody, was acting within the scope and in the course of his employment as the defendant's foreman, and for the purposes of the defendant's business.

5. The plaintiff upon being given into custody, was taken by the said constable a considerable distance through various streets, on foot, to the police station and he was there detained in a cell till late in the same afternoon, when he was taken to the police court, and the charge against him was heard before the magistrate then sitting there, and was dismissed.

6. In consequence of being so given into custody, the plaintiff suffered annoyance and disgrace, and loss of time and wages, and loss of credit and reputation, and was thereby unable to obtain any employment or earn any wages for three months.

Statement of Defence.

Defence. 1. The defendant denies that he was present at the time when the plaintiff was given into custody, or that he in any way authorized or assented to his being given into custody. And the said X. Y., in giving the plaintiff into custody, did not act within the scope or in the course of his employment as the defendant's foreman, or for the purposes of the defendant's business.

2. At some time about five or six o'clock on the , being the evening before the plaintiff was given into custody, a large quantity of paint had been feloniously stolen by some person or persons from a shed upon the defendant's yard and premises.

3. At about 5.30 o'clock on the evening of the the plaintiff, who had left off work about half an hour previously, was seen coming out of the shed when no one else was in it, although his work lay in a distant part of the yard from, and he had no business in or near the shed. He was then seen to go to the back of a stack of timber in another part of the yard. Shortly afterwards the paint was found to have been stolen, and it was found concealed at the back of the stack of timber behind which the plaintiff had been seen to go.

4. On the following morning, before the plaintiff was given into custody, he was asked by X. Y. what he had been in the shed and behind the stack of timber for, and he denied having been in either place. X. Y. had reasonable and probable cause for suspecting, and did suspect that the plaintiff was the person who had stolen the paint, and thereupon gave him into custody.

lease, fixtures, fittings, goodwill, and stock-in-trade of a baker's shop and business, and described the same as an increasing business, and doing twelve barrels a week. The advertisement directed application for particulars to be made to X. Y.

2. The plaintiff having seen the advertisement applied to X. Y., who placed him in communication with the defendant, and negotiations ensued between the plaintiff and the defendant for the sale to the plaintiff of the defendant's bakery at with the lease, fixtures, fittings, stock-in-trade, and good-will.

3. In the course of these negotiations the defendant repeatedly stated to the plaintiff that the business was a steadily increasing business, and that it was a business of more than twelve barrels a week.

4. On the 5th of April, 1880, the plaintiff, believing the said statement of the defendant to be true, agreed to purchase the said premises from the defendant, for $2,000, and paid to him a deposit of $300 in respect of the purchase.

5. On the 15th of April the purchase was completed, an assignment of the lease executed, and the balance of the purchase money paid. On the same day the plaintiff entered into possession.

6. The plaintiff soon afterwards discovered that at the time of the negotiations of the said purchase by him and of the said agreement, and of the completion thereof, the said business was and had long been a declining business; and at each of these times, and for a long time before, it had never been a business of more than four barrels a week. And the said premises were not of the value of $2,000, or any saleable value whatever.

Claim. 1. The plaintiffs are brewers, carrying on their business at Guelph, under the firm of X. Y. & Co.

2. In the month of March, 1879, M. N. was desirous of entering into the employment of the plaintiffs as a traveller and collector, and it was agreed between the plaintiffs and the defendants and M. N., that the plaintiffs should employ M. N. upon the defendants entering into the guarantee hereinafter mentioned.

3. An engagement in writing was accordingly made and entered into, on or about the 30th March, 1879, between the plaintiffs and the defendant, whereby, in consideration that the plaintiffs would employ M. N. as their collector, the defendants agreed that they would be answerable for the due accounting by M. N. to the plaintiffs for, and the due payment over by him to the plaintiffs of all moneys which he should receive on their behalf as their collector.

4. The plaintiffs employed M. N. as their collector accordingly, and he entered upon the duties of such employment, and continued therein down to the 31st September, 1880.

5. At various times between the 29th of September, and the 25th of December, 1880, M. Reply.

The defendant E. F., pretends that he committed the assault complained of in his own defence; but the facts are that the defendant was trespassing on the plaintiff's land and refused to leave though requested to do so, whereupon the plaintiff laid his hands on the defendant in order to remove him, using so much force and no more than was necessary for that purpose.

Statement of Claim.

Action against Railway Company for injuries by collision caused through negligence.

In the High Court of Justice.
———Division.

Writ issued 18 .

Between A. B., Plaintiff,
and ———Defendants.

1. The defendants are carriers of passengers upon a railway from Toronto to

2. In January, 1881, the plaintiff took a ticket from Toronto to and was received by the defendants as a passenger to be by them safely carried in a train which started from Toronto for

3. Owing to the negligence of the defendants in the management of their railway, the train in which the plaintiff was travelling came into collision with an engine, at a short distance from Toronto.

4. The plaintiff was thrown from his seat by the said collision, and much injured about the head, and had his right arm broken.

5. [The following paragraphs may be introduced by amendment to meet Defence infra. The defendants allege that the plaintiff accepted the sum of $300 in full satisfaction of all cause of action which he might have on account of the said collision, but the facts are as follows:

6. A short time after the collision an officer of the defendants procured the plaintiff to accept the said accord and satisfaction by fraudulently representing that his injuries were of a temporary nature, and that if they should afterwards turn out to be more serious than he anticipated, he would still be able to obtain further compensation from the defendants.

7. The plaintiff, fully believing the said representations, and acting upon the faith thereof, was induced thereby to accept the said accord and satisfaction, and then accepted the same, subject to the express condition that he should not thereby exclude himself from further compensation from the defendants if his injuries should prove more serious than he then anticipated.

8. After the acceptance of the said accord and satisfaction, the injuries suffered by the plaintiff in the collision did turn out to be more serious than was anticipated at the time aforesaid, and thereupon the plaintiff commenced the present action.]

The plaintiff claims $ damages.

The plaintiff proposes that this action should be tried at Toronto.

[Title.]

Statement of Defence.

1. Shortly after the collision referred to in the statement of claim, one of the officers of the defendants called upon the plaintiff for the purpose of ascertaining from him whether he intended to make any claim against the defendants arising out of the said collision.

2. At such interview the plaintiff informed the said officer that he did intend to make a claim against the defendants arising out of the said collision; and it was there and then agreed between the plaintiff and the said officer acting on behalf and by the authority of the defendants, that in consideration that the defendants would pay to the plaintiff a sum of $300, he, the plaintiff, would accept such sum from the defendants in full satisfaction and discharge of all cause of action which he had or might have against the said defendants on account of the said collision.

3. Thereupon the said officer, acting on behalf of the defendants, paid to the plaintiff the sum of $300, and the plaintiff received the same in full discharge of the aforesaid cause of action.

C. D., Defendant.

Statement of Claim.

1. On the day of the plaintiff, by deed, let to the defendant a house and premises, No. 52 Street, in the City of Belleville, for a term of 21 years from the day of , at the yearly rent of $400 payable quarterly. Claim.

2. By the said deed, the defendant covenanted to keep the said house and premises in good and tenantable repair.

3. The said deed also contained a clause of re-entry, entitling the plaintiff to re-enter upon the said house and premises, in case the rent thereby reserved, whether demanded or not, should be in arrear for twenty-one days, or in case the defendant should make default in the performance of any covenant upon his part to be performed.

4. On the , a quarter's rent became due; and on the , another quarter's rent became due. On the , both had been in arrear for twenty-one days, and both are still due.

5. On the same , the house and premises were not, and are not now, in good or tenantable repair, and it would require the expenditure of a large sum of money to reinstate the same in good and tenantable repair, and the plaintiff's reversion is much depreciated in value.

The plaintiff claims:—

1. Possession of the said house and premises.

2. $ for arrears of rent.

3. $ damages for the defendant's breach of his covenant to repair.

4. $ for occupation of the house and premises from the , to the day of recovering possession.

E. L., Defendant.

Statement of Claim.

Claim. 1. K. L., late of Barrie in the County of Simcoe duly executed his last will, dated the 4th day of April, 18 , and thereby devised his lands in the County of Simcoe unto and to the use of the plaintiffs and their heirs, upon the trusts therein mentioned for the benefit of his daughters Margaret and Martha, and appointed the plaintiffs executors thereof.

2. K. L. died on the 3rd day of January, 18 , and his said will was proved by the plaintiffs in the proper Surrogate Court on or about the 4th day of February, 18 .

3. K. L., was at the time of his death seised in fee of lot No. 1 in the 3rd concession of the township of , and lot No. 5 in the 4th concession of the township of , both in the County of Simcoe.

4. The defendant, soon after the death of K. L., entered into possession of the said lots, and has refused to give them up to the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs claim:—

1. Possession of the said 2 lots.

2. $ for mesne profits of the premises from the death of K. L. till such possession shall be given.

E. F., Defendant.

Statement of Claim.

Claim.

1. The plaintiff was on the 5th March, 18 , and still is the owner and occupier of a farm in the Township of in the County of , being lot No. 4 in the 7th concession of the said Township.

2. A private road, known as Highfield Lane, runs through a portion of the plaintiff's farm. It is bounded upon both sides by fields of the plaintiff's and is separated therefrom by a fence and ditch.

3. For a long time prior to the 5th March, 18 , the defendant had wrongfully claimed to use the said road for his horses, carts and waggons on the alleged ground that the same was a public highway, and the plaintiff had frequently warned him that the same was not a public highway, but the plaintiff's private road, and that the defendant must not so use it.

4. On the 5th March, 18 , the defendant came with a cart and horse, and a large number of servants and workmen, and forcibly used the road, and broke down and removed a gate which the plaintiff had caused to be placed across the same.

5. The defendant and his servants and workmen on the same occasion pulled down and damaged the plaintiff's fence and ditch upon each side of the road, and went upon the plaintiff's field beyond the fence and ditch, and injured the crops there growing, and dug up and injured the soil of the road; and in any case the acts mentioned in this paragraph were wholly unnecessary for the assertion of the defendant's alleged right to use, or the user of the said road as a highway.

The plaintiff claims:—

1. Damages for the wrongs complained of.

2. An order restraining the defendant from any repetition of any of the acts complained of.

3. Such other relief as the nature of the case may require.

Writ of Sequestration.

[Title, etc.]

Victoria, etc., to the sheriff of , greeting:

Whereas lately in the Division of our High Court of Justice in a certain action there depending, wherein A. B. is plaintiff and C. D. and others are defendants [or, in a certain matter there depending intituled "In the matter of E. F., as the case may be] by a judgment [or order, as the case may be] of our said Court made in the said action [or matter], and bearing date the day of 18 , it was ordered that the said C. D. should [pay into Court to the credit of the said action the sum of $; or as the case may be]. Know ye, therefore, that we have given, and by these presents do give to you full power and authority to enter upon all the lands, tenements and real estate whatsoever of the said C. D., and to collect, receive and sequester in your hands, not only all the rents and profits of his said lands, tenements and real estate, but also all his goods, chattels and personal estates whatsoever; and therefore we command you, that you do at certain proper and convenient days and hours, go to and enter upon all the lands, tenements and real estates of the said C. D., and that you collect, take and get into your hands not only the rents and profits of his said real estate, but also all his goods, chattels, and personal estate, and detain and keep the same under sequestration in your hands until the said C. D. shall [pay into Court, to the credit of the said action, the sum of $ or, as the case may be,] clear his contempt, and our said Court make other order to the contrary. Witness, etc.

No. 200.

Delivery or Assessed Value of Chattels.

[Title, etc.]

Victoria, etc., to the sheriff of greeting:

We command you that without delay you cause to be returned to the following chattels, namely (enumerate chattels recovered by judgment for the return of which execution has been ordered to issue,) which the said lately (recovered against or was ordered to deliver to the said,) in an action of our High Court of Justice Division.

And we further command you that if the said chattels cannot be found in your bailiwick then of the said goods and chattels of the said in your bailiwick you cause to be made (the assessed value of the chattels). And in what manner you shall have executed this our writ make appear to us in our said Court immediately after the execution hereof. And have there then this writ.

Witness, etc.

Writ of Assignment of Dower (under R. S. O. 1887, c. 56, s. 3, where the right of Dower is acquiesced in by the owner of the estate).

ONTARIO,

County of Victoria by the grace of God, etc.

To the Sheriff of the County of Greeting:

Whereas, A. D., widow, who was the wife of C. D., deceased, demands against E. F. the third part of (here describe the Estate in which dower is claimed as in other writs of assignment of dower) as the dower of the said A. D. of the endowment of the said C. D., heretofore her husband. And whereas it has been made to appear to us in our High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division (or Common Pleas Division or as the case may be) in Ontario, that the said E. F. is the owner of the said real estate out of which said dower is claimed, and that he acquiesces in the said claim and is willing to assign to the said A. B. her proper dower, but that the said A. B. and E. F., are not agreed as to the admeasurement thereof. We therefore command you that, without delay, you do deliver the said A. B. seisin of her third part of the said with the appurtenances. To hold to her in severalty by metes and bounds; And that you do proceed in the execution of this our writ, according to the provisions of Chapter 56 of Revised Statutes of Ontario.

TARIFF A.

TABLE OF COSTS

—IN THE—

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE AND COUNTY COURTS.

General allowance for Plaintiffs and Defendants, as well between Solicitor and Client as between Party and Party :—

Neither the Taxing Officer nor a single Judge has any discretion to exceed the amount specified by the tariff where no power to increase is thereby given : Re Totten, 8 P. R. 386.

Where an action is brought against a solicitor who defends it in person and obtains judgment, he is entitled upon taxation to the same costs as if he had employed a solicitor except in respect of items which the fact of his acting directly renders unnecessary : London Scottish Benefit Society v. Chorley, 12 Q. B. D. 452. Where he nominally appeared by a solicitor but did the work himself, the same costs were held to be taxable : King v. Moyer, 9 P. R. 514.

As to when defendants should appear by the same solicitor, or may appear by separate solicitors : see Morgan & Wurtzburg, on Costs, p. 124 ; Barrett v. Campbell, 7 P. R. 150 ; Conolly v. Hill, Ib., 441 ; and notes to Rule 1202.

In Re Lyall, 29 Sol. Jour. 290, trustees, viz : the widow of the testator, who was also tenant for life, and three others, were allowed two sets of costs, they having severed on the ground that the Rule was that a trustee, also a tenant for life, might appear separately from his co-trustees.

Defendants joining in a statement of defence may sometimes properly separate at the trial, and be represented by different counsel, where their cases are distinct : see Ager v. Blacklock, 56 L. T. N. S. 890 ; see also Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 600. Where one of a body of mortgagees is a solicitor, he may have profit costs of enforcing the mortgage security, whether the mortgagees are trustees or not : Re Donaldson, 27 Ch. D. 544. A solicitor executor was held entitled to profit costs of an action in which his firm acted for himself and co-executors, but was not entitled to profit costs for business not done in the action : Re Barber, Burgess v. Vinicome, 35 W. R. 326 ; Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 34 Ch. D. 675 ; see also Re Roberts, 43 Ch. D. 52, and a collection of cases and discussion, 20 C. L. J. 218.

Where an action is dismissed with costs it means the costs of all defendants, and in all capacities in which they are defendants : Woolley v. Coleman, W. N. 1886, 6, 36 ; 80 L. T. Jour. 320.

In an action on a covenant for indemnity against a mortgage, the plaintiff is not entitled to solicitor and client costs, but only to party and party costs of the action upon the covenant: Hutton v. Wanzer, 11 P. R. 302.

This tariff seems only to contemplate costs of the kind described as "between solicitor and client" and "between party and party." In Cousineau v. City of London, 12 P. R. 512, it was said that the costs in an action between solicitor and client include such costs as a solicitor can tax against a resisting client under a general retainer to prosecute or defend the action.

The existence of an intermediate class of costs "as between solicitor and client" was formerly recognized in the Chancery Taxing Office, and is referred to in Rule 1187; see also item 94, infra.

As to "moderation" of costs, see Beatty v. Haldane, 4 C. L. T. 541.

The tariff applies in solicitor and client taxations, and under Rule 1217 no other fees are are to be allowed in respect of the matters provided for by the tariff. See also Re Harrison, 80 L. T. Jour. 432.

162. The Taxing Officer in Toronto may apply to a Judge, or the Courts, on the taxation of any item which is in his discretion, or is referred to him.

163. No application shall be allowed by either solicitor, or counsel, to a Judge, or the Court, in reference to any item which is in the discretion of the Taxing Officers in Toronto, but this is not to prevent an appeal from a Taxing Officer.

See item 153.

164. On arbitrations, counsel fees may be allowed and taxed on the same scale and conditions, so far as possible, as those hereinbefore prescribed for counsel fees at trials.

Item 153 is to be read as part of this item, and the Taxing Officers at Toronto have authority to consider the question of increased counsel fees in the case of an arbitration where there is no cause in Court, and a reference to a local officer to tax costs has been made under R. S. O. 1887, c. 53, s. 24: Re McKeen & South Gower, 12 P. R. 553.

As to the discretion of the Taxing Officer in regard to fees and expenses of arbitrators, and in regard to the fees of counsel on arbitrations; see Re Hillyard & Royal Ins. Co., 12 P. R. 255.

As to whether more than one counsel fee can be taxed under this item and item 154 Quære; R. S. O. 1887, c. 53, s. 25, provided that no more than one counsel fee should be taxed to either party for any meeting of arbitrators. Possibly that section is now superseded by the provisions of item 153. In arbitrations in England there is no general rule that only one counsel fee should be charged: Orient Steam Nav. Co. v. Ocean Marine Ins. Co., 35 W. R. 771.

In taxing the costs of an arbitration upon the County Court scale, no larger fee for attendance of counsel before the arbitrators than $25 can be allowed, even though the attendance is for several days: see item 153.

this tariff, a reasonable compensation as far as practicable analogous to its provisions.
NOTE. 2.—On appeals to the Court of Appeal where the fees are not above provided for the same fees and allowances shall be taxed as are allowed for similar services in the High Court or County Court, as the case may be. App. O. 28-51.

Though a Taxing Officer has a discretion in the taxation of costs as between party and party and the same discretion as between solicitor and client, still it by no means follows that what is reasonable in the former case is also reasonable in the latter: Re Blyth & Fanshawe, 52 L. J. Chy. 186.

A fee of $20 a day was allowed to a solicitor attending upon the execution of a commission: Greey v. Smith, 7 C. L. T. 168.

Before incurring any unusual expense, the solicitor should inform his client that it was unusual, and obtain his sanction, letting him know that the expense may not be allowed between party and party: Re Broad v. Broad, 15 Q. B. D. 252, 420. See also Rule 1215. A trustee was allowed costs out of the estate of a petition to correct slips in a former petition: In re Hopper's Trusts, 34 W. R. 392. A solicitor was disallowed between solicitor and client costs occasioned by an inaccurate statement in particulars of sale, by reason of which the Court of Appeal held a purchaser not bound to complete his purchase: Re X., 81 L. T. Jour. 6. The costs of journeys to London by a country solicitor were, under special circumstances, allowed: In re Storer, 32 W. R. 767.

Allowance to Witnesses.

A plaintiff is not bound to rely on the admissions of the defendants in the examination for discovery and the costs of witnesses called to prove facts thus admitted are taxable: Alexander v. School Trustees, 11 P. R. 157. The costs of witnesses called to prove irrelevant matters should not be allowed: Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149. When the witness is subpœnaed and not called the Taxing officer may inquire into the practicability and necessity of subpœnaing them: McLean v. Evans, 3 P. R. 154; and see Re Prescott Election, 32 U. C. Q. B. 303. The extra costs of witnesses occasioned by trying the action out of the county where the witnesses reside may be disallowed by a Judge to a successful party: see Ledyard v. McLean, 18 Gr. 139, where such costs were disallowed to a successful defendant.

The Master may examine into the truth of an affidavit of disbursements for witness fees, or counsel's receipt for fees: Doe dem. Boulton v. Switzer, 1 C. L. Ch. 83; Horn v. Lasher, 24 U. C. Q. B. 359.

To witnesses residing over three miles from the court house..	1 25	1 25
Barristers and solicitors, physicians and surgeons, other than parties to the cause, when called upon to give evidence, in consequence of any professional service rendered by them, or to give professional opinions, per diem	4 00	4 00
Engineers, surveyors and architects, other than parties to the cause, when called upon to give evidence of any professional service rendered by them, or to give evidence depending upon their skill or judgment, per diem	4 00	4 00
An auctioneer was held entitled to fees as a professional witness in Re Workingmen's Mutual Soc., 31 Ch. D. 831, and it was there held also that the witness though sworn might refuse to answer until paid the fee to which he was entitled. An officer of the Court subpœnaed to produce public documents in his custody was held to be entitled to professional witness fees of $4 a day: Re Nelson, 2 Chy. Ch. 252; but this would not seem to be proper under the present tariff.
If witnesses attend in one case only, they will be entitled to the full allowance. If they attend in more than one case, they will be entitled to a proportionate part in each cause only.
The travelling expenses of witnesses, over three miles, shall be allowed, according to the sums reasonably and actually paid, but in no case shall exceed twenty cents per mile, one way.
See Picasso v. Trustees of Maryport Harbour, W. N. 1884, 85; 28 Sol. Jour. 391, where costs of keeping a witness until the trial were allowed under special circumstances. The Ontario Rules and Tariff do expressly authorize such an allowance. See also The City of Lucknow, 51 L. T. N. S. 907.

The expense of witnesses subpœnaed but not called may be allowed in the discretion of the Taxing Officer, but were disallowed where the evidence expected from the witnesses was apparently of no value, and they were subpœnaed from abundance of caution: Beddington v. Deichmann, 80 L. T. Jour. 226.
Amongst the costs of the day given to a defendant on an adjournment of the trial, his expenses were allowed where his counsel certified that he could not have proceeded without him; and it was held that it was premature to say at that stage of the cause that no material evidence could be given by defendant: Goodfellow v. Shuttleworth, 3 C. L. T. 105.
The travelling expenses of a plaintiff who was a necessary and material witness in his own behalf, and came from England to give evidence at the trial, were allowed: Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., 7 P. R. 157.
The costs of executing a commission are entirely in the discretion of the Taxing Officer: Ib. See also Colborne v. Thomas,, 4 Gr. 169.
The amount to be allowed for procuring the attendance of witnesses who live out of the jurisdiction is in the discretion of the Taxing Officer, and is not limited to the amount here specified: Ball v. Crompton Corset Co., 11 P. R. 256; see also note to Rule 1220.
N.B.—In all applications and proceedings before the County Court Judges not relating to suits instituted in any Court of Civil Jurisdiction there shall be payable to the Clerks of the County Courts the same fees as in this Table as far as the same are applicable.	1 00	1 00
